TO PROSELYTE JEWS.

(From The Journal, Chicago.)

Russian intolerance is about to drive 60,000 Jews from their homes in Poland. New York Presbyterians, at the last session of their Presbytery, passed a resolution favoring an organized effort to proselyte the Jews in this country to Presbyterianism.

Is not the difference between these two acts merely one of degree?

The primary cause of the persecution of the Jews in Russia is difference of religious belief. The devotees of the Russo-Greek Church believe, that their religion is right and that that of the Jews is wrong, and in their semi-barbarous way they show their belief in persecution. The New York Presbyterians believe the same thing from their standpoint, and set about to show it in their more liberal and enlightened way, by establishing denominational missions for the conversion of the Jews from the ancient faith to the newer doctrines of Christianity.

Both actions have their source in a certain intolerant imperiousness of creed, which, boldly stated, asserts: "We are right and everybody else is wrong." In the United States this spirit shows itself in sporadic attempts to proselyte one denomination to another; in Russia it takes the form of Jewish persecution.

JUSTICE RYAN.

(Cleveland Hebrew Observer.)

A New York police justice has made public announcement of the fact, that hereafter Jews will receive nothing but justice at his hands, and that "he intends to show the Hebrews, that Christians have some rights that they are bound to respect." This is the first intimation that we have of the dreadful persecutions of the Christians by the Jews in this country. We appear as pleaders for the rights and liberties of the poor Christian sufferers. In this enlightened country, where the Jews are numerically so superior to the Christians, it would indeed be a dastardly proceeding for the Jews to take away their rights. In Russia and Germany and various other Oriental countries, where the Christians outnumber the Jews, it is a well known and conceded fact, that the Christians never violate the rights of Jews. It remains, therefore, for free America to be the first place for persecuted Christians to cry aloud and proclaim, that the Jews are persecuting them. But a much worse state of affairs is revealed by the statement, that hereafter the Jews will receive nothing but justice at the hands of the aforesaid justice. This is indeed dreadful. The Jews have all along had more than justice done them, and hereafter shall have only justice. A sad confession of said justice, not only of corruptness, but of incompetency. Any man, who occupies official position and deals out more or less than justice to another, is corrupt. In truth, the remark attributed to this police justice writes him down an ass.

GOOD ADVICE.

(From the N. Y. Sun.)

Those Jews of this place who complain that they are persecuted by their enemies do well in seeking redress from the courts. They are advised by a man who must be a fool to take personal revenge upon their persecutors; but we do not believe they will follow this bad advice, for they must know that, if they do, they will be liable to punishment as

JEWISH CENTENNIAL.

THE RAILROAD BETWEEN JERUSALEM AND JAFFA.

In the year 1900 it is proposed to gather together the remnants of the tribes of Judah—about 7,000,000 scattered souls—and with the representatives of their Mohammedan and Christian neighbors on two continents hold an international centennial jubilee on the ancient ruins of the once queen of the ancient world.

During the past few months the Jaffa-Jerusalem railroad has been constructed, bringing merchandise and visitors from the ends of Christendom. Three other Palestine railroads are being projected for the development of the land which once

These are not in one section or locality, but in different directions about the city, varying from one-fourth of a mile to one mile distant from the town."

LOVERS' KNOTS TIED.

Written for the Hebrew Standard.

BY RAY LEONIE DANN.

"Why, Mildred, this is our outing-day, aren't you coming? You promised you would. All the boys and girls are at the gate anxiously waiting for you, and here you are sitting as unconcerned as possible, not making the least attempt to get ready. You little goose," she continues, drawing closer to where Mildred is still seated and putting her arms caressingly around her neck, "what is it? Dear girl, can't you speak? One would think you were petrified by that strong look on your face."

At the same time, glancing into Mildred's lap, she sees scraps of paper and an envelope addressed: "Miss Mildred Clayton, Wellesley, Mass." in a well-known hand writing. A pallor overspreads the speaker's face, and in a husky whisper she says: "For God's sake, speak Mildred; you have heard from him this morning. I cannot bear your silence. Speak, I implore you."

As Mildred's lips move and are about to speak, a knock is suddenly heard, the portieres are drawn aside, and a young man enters unannounced to the surprise and consternation of the two young ladies. With abated breath they look at one another unable to utter a single word. The intruder, seeing the state of affairs, breaks the silence with: "Good morning, Miss Clayton; our patience has almost become exhausted waiting for you to join us in our outing, and you, my fair cousin," addressing Helena, "it seems you had forgotten your mission, or the existence of our party down on the lawn. I hope you and Miss Clayton will accompany me."

At this Mildred stammers: "I—am sorry—that I cannot be one of your party to-day, as I expect a caller and must be at home. Please express my regrets to the rest, and my apology for not being able to fulfill my promise." Here she walks over to Helena with a meaning look in her eyes, she says: "You will go, dear, won't you?" and almost under her breath, "you believe him innocent."

"Yes," was the immediate reply, "I do."

"Then God bless you, dear Helena, for that assurance."

The young man was at this time standing at the further window, gazing intently upon the pleasure seekers below, when suddenly he is aroused by the little time-piece, which is striking the hour of ten. He walks over to where the young ladies are standing, bids Miss Clayton good morning and leads his cousin down the broad staircase out on the lawn, where they are met by the happy excursionists, who regret very much, that Mildred will not join in their pleasure that day.

The merry crowd had scarcely dispersed lawbreakers. There is but one proper course for any man, who suffers wrong at the hands of an adversary, and that is to procure the arrest of the wrongdoer as soon as possible, enter complaint against him, produce witnesses ready to give evidence in the case, and keep cool until the culprit is punished, as well as after the law has been vindicated at his cost. There shall be no persecution of Jews, or of any other race of people, in New York; and any Jew who complains that he is persecuted can very easily and speedily secure redress, while at the same time he gives a costly and memorable lesson to his persecutor.

Actions, looks, words, steps, form the alphabet by which you spell character. —Lavater.

"flowed with milk and honey" for the chosen children. At Jaffa, Jerusalem's seaport, stands a custom-house through which passes en route for Jerusalem a million dollars' worth of foreign merchandise annually. The tonnage of European and American vessels which now clears at Jaffa is 640,000,000 annually. The Holy City now has a population of 413 Yankees, 370 of whom are naturalized residents.

One of the new features which Western civilization has introduced, and of which Paul and Peter knew not, is the real estate boom. The new railroad paid for 8 1/2 acres of terminal facilities one mile out from the city the sum of $25,000, land which thirty years ago was worth $1 per acre. Consul Selah Merrill, in the March consular report, speaks of the rise in the its 7,000,000 Hebrew children, and the latter—financial rulers of Wall Street and Lombard Street, of Germany and Austria—have the wealth to go in and possess the land. What a sight it would be for the millionaires of the Jewish race to advance to the gates of the Turkish Ottoman and purchase back the land of their forefathers, the land dedicated in prophecy and song.—The Minneapolis Tribune.

The poet Charles Morice of Lyons, a Catholic and son of the chief of the Catholic party of that city, gave an address in Paris on June 27 in which he refuted the attacks of anti-Semites and vindicated the Jew's character for patriotism, and claimed that both the Jew and Judaism were necessary to preserve the ideal in humanity.]

—their merry laughter could still be heard, as they wended their way through the thick Clayton woods—when Mildred bethought herself that a ramble through the woods this glorious morning would more than drive away this melancholy feeling. "Oh, how wretched I feel," she exclaims, "will this mystery never be cleared up," at the same time donning her hat and, in an instant, walking leisurely along the shaded path to the summer house, never heeding a form that is crouching between a group of thickly stunted trees till she is nearly to the spot, when suddenly a man emerges with a bent form, long iron-gray hair and beard, blue glasses, white trousers, a long linen coat and slouch hat completed this odd person's attire. In his hand he carried a bag of the Quaker style, the attire and the bag making the man look more like an old Quaker doctor than anything else. Mildred starts and is about to shriek, when he lays his hand upon her shoulder, and in a low whisper he says: "Stop, for God's sake, you will betray me."

"Oh, is it you, Ronald," she says, "I am so glad to see you. Is it safe for you to venture here in broad day-light, almost face to face with your enemy, Charles Lamonte, who has only just left with Helena and a gay crowd of excursionists."

"With Helena," he repeats after her, "and she," in a trembling voice, "does she believe me guilty?"

"No, Ronald, she believes in your innocence."

"Thank God for that," he murmurs, "now I shall have courage to want to live and prove my innocence. Mildred, kind sister mine, you will never have to hang your head in shame through me. It will only be a matter of time, and your brother's innocence will be proven, and the guilty party brought to justice. It is now six weeks that I am being hunted down like a wild deer, fleeing from place to place, sleeping in barns or under sheds, and scarcely a morsel of food touching my lips for days at a time. No, Mildred, I cannot stand this much longer, I will deliver myself into the hands of the law, let them do what they will with me, anything is better than leading such a life of persecution."

"No, no, Ronald, you must not, you shall not do that; too many men have been convicted on circumstantial evidence, and their innocence have never been proven, and the circumstances directed to yours—the sudden disappearance of Aunt Priscilla—your handkerchief saturated with blood, with your initial embroidered, and above all the pistol, with the matted hair twined around the barrel, was identified as yours. When circumstances point so directly to your guilt. No, Ronald, be advised by me, have courage, patience, and all will come out right. Your disguise is very good, I will try to secrete you in the house, and should you accidentally come across any one wanting to know the whys, the whos and the wherefores, you shall be known as an old Quaker doctor with little or nothing to say. In the meantime I feel that Aunt Priscilla will turn up, as you know she is very eccentric, and has time and again gone off for a couple of weeks at a time without letting us know her whereabouts. What puzzles me more than anything is the hair that was found tangled and twisted around the pistol. The police declare a struggle must have ensued, and she was struck senseless before being shot, after which the assassin made away with the body. Plunder was not the cause, for nothing was missed, not even the diamond brooch that lay exposed on the dress, unless, as the police assert, the murderer was frightened away and the brooch overlooked. At any rate, whatever comes of it, I know you are innocent, and it would verily break my heart, if you were to give yourself up. Oh, Ronald, to think that something so dreadful should happen to us." Burying her face on her brother's shoulders she sobbed bitterly.

Stingy Husbands.

"I see a good deal of the mean side of human nature in my business," said a woman hairdresser the other day to a reporter, "but the worst of it is shown by husbands. There isn't anything meaner in all this world than a mean husband. For instance, one customer of mine has a husband who is a vegetable crank. He never eats any meat himself, and so he will not have any bought for the household. His wife used to get pretty nearly starved. For awhile she had an arrangement with the green grocer by which he procured for and sent home beefsteaks. The steaks figured in the family bills as so many pecks of potatoes or so many quarts of beans."

"She used to have beefsteak at lunch when her husband was downtown. But one day he came home unexpectedly in the middle of the day, and then there was a row. He said she was a deceitful creature, and she replied that it wasn't possible for a person to be sincere and truthful on a diet of bread and butter and greens. However, he used to watch her more closely after that, keeping an eye on the refrigerator, even insisting upon doing the marketing himself. I believe his theory was that the eating of flesh rendered people more fleshy. He thought that the consumption of cabbage and green peas reduced the element of animalism in human beings, and was calculated to render them more soulful."

"So his wife, not being able to obtain any substantial food, began to grow alarmingly thinner. Finally she decided on a new plan. It was suggested by an accident. A dealer in second-hand clothing called at the house and offered the highest cash price for any garments that might be discarded. The lady bethought herself of an old coat of her husband's. With the price of it in her pocket—she always had to account strictly for every penny that she got—she went down the street and indulged in a luxurious meal at a restaurant. She confined herself to meat; there wasn't a vegetable on her bill of fare."

"By and by the old clothes man became a regular visitor. On each occasion he carried away a pair of trousers, a waistcoat or a coat. With fair but not extreme economy the price of one article would frequently pay for two or three meals. That this sort of thing could not go on forever was quite evident. One day the husband discovered that the greater part of his wardrobe had disappeared. His wife attempted no concealment. She said frankly that being driven by hunger she had sold the things to buy food. Furthermore, she was determined to persist in that course until a proper allowance of money was given to her to buy meat or anything else she liked. She expected that the furniture would go next. In short, she openly defied him."

"Now, what do you suppose that man did? He gave in helplessly, and there has not been any trouble since, I believe. That case affords a first-class illustration of a theory of mine, which is that the only way to manage a man is by firmness. The average husband if he can bully his wife will do so, and that is the reason why most women are bullied more or less."—Christian at Work.

Care of Table Linen.

In buying tableclothes and napkins it is always best to get good quality. Not only will it wear much longer, but it gives the table a richer appearance than inferior quality of linen. Have plenty of change, and never use a tablecloth or napkin until badly soiled, thereby necessitating more rubbing to get it clean and consequently more wear on the material. Never put table linen into soapsuds until it has all stains removed by pouring boiling water through them. This will remove all stains but iron rust; for that sprinkle on oxalic acid, wetting the spot with cold water. Rub gently between the hands and it will gradually disappear. If obstinate, repeat the process. A stain is very unsightly, and upon an otherwise nice cloth detracts greatly from its appearance. The scalding should not be neglected if a spotless expanse of white is desired.

Table linen should be rubbed lightly and always wrung by hand; a wringer makes creases which are hard to iron out. Blue lightly, but do not starch. Stiffened linen is an abomination.

Never allow tablecloths to hang on the line in a strong wind. The hems will become frayed at the corners, and a general limpness be the result. Nothing is so wearing to all linen and cotton cloth as "switching" in the wind from a clothesline.

When signs of wear appear, it is much better to darn back and forth with threads of the linen from the trappings, which should have been saved when the cloth was made up, than to put on a patch. A darn can be so skillfully managed that scarcely a trace of its presence can be detected, at the same time strengthening the worn place until it is as strong as the rest; while a patch, be it ever so skillfully applied, is a patch still, and easily detected.

Carving and tea cloths save much of the wear at the edges of the table, and where there are small children cloths are made of butcher's linen, stamped and etched with floss, either white or colored, as one may fancy, to be placed under the plate as a protection to the tablecloth. Very young children, if allowed at table, should be provided with oil-cloth or rubber bibs of sufficient size to allow of being placed underneath the plate. The most reckless little one cannot smear the tablecloth if protected in this manner.—Housewife.

The Convenience of Tiles.

The housekeeper who has a proper regard for her kitchen furnishing will have numerous tiles. Hot dishes placed on wooden tables invariably scorch the wood and generally leave a line of soot or grease that it requires a good deal of scrubbing to remove. The tiles will save this unnecessary labor, for they can be easily washed and they will not burn. They can be bought for five cents apiece and will wear forever. A few of them on the back of the kitchen table will be found a great convenience.

When mending a worn place in the tablecloth or napkin, if a stout piece of paper is placed beneath it will make the darning much easier to accomplish.

It is said that oleomargarine can be detected by boiling a tablespoonful of it. Boiling butter will foam without much noise, while the sham butter sputters and hisses like lard, but does not foam as decidedly as genuine butter.

Blackberry Pudding.

One quart of berries, one pint of flour (more if necessary). Wash the berries, sift flour over them till no more will adhere to the berries without breaking them. Put in a bag and steam one and a half hours. Sauce.—One cup of pulverized sugar, one half cup of butter, one half cup of milk, one teaspoonful vanilla, or one wine-glassful of wine. Cream the butter and sugar, add milk or wine gradually. Set on back of stove in a pan of hot water, stir occasionally till creamy. Serve immediately.

The Hebrew Standard is among the only Jewish papers in New York city to which the American Newspaper Directory accords a circulation of more than 20,000 copies each issue.

Grape Catsup.

Five pounds of grapes, boiled to a pulp and put through a sieve. Add two pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, one tablespoonful each of cinnamon, cloves, allspice, and one teaspoonful of black pepper. Boil two hours. Put up in jars.

Plum Catsup.

Put in a preserving kettle six pounds of plums, three and a half pounds of sugar, one quart of good vinegar, boil until the plums are reduced to a pulp, cool, and press through a sieve. Then add cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg and allspice to taste. Seal in glasses.

Do not clean your marble ornaments with soap and water, but if much discolored or stained use a paste compounded of two parts of washing soda, one of powdered pumice stone, and one of powdered chalk. Sometimes discoloration may be removed by brushing the ornaments with water in which a tablespoonful of powdered borax has been dissolved. Benzole is more powerful, and may be used for the same purpose, rubbed on and in a little while off with a clean cloth.

NEWS FROM OTHER CITIES.

OAKLAND, Cal.—The Young Helpers' Society gave an excellent entertainment Tuesday evening, July 18, at Covenant Hall. The Upper Ten of Oakland Hebrewdom and their satellites were there in full fashionable attire, embellishing the pretty scene with their beautiful costumes. Rev. M. Friedlander delivered a short address eulogistic of the merits of the Young Helpers' Society. The "Pastime Club" rendered some beautiful instrumental selections. Miss Ella Rosenberg, the secretary of the society, read an essay on "The Club's History" (Young Helpers), composed by herself. It was a literary gem, and received well-deserved applause. Song, "Peter the Shipwright," by Mr. Philip N. Schlessinger, was given in that gentleman's usual grand style. In response to an encore, he sang "Yes, Let Me Like a Soldier Fall" (Maritana). The president, Miss Mae Cohn, read a satire upon the different members of the society, written by some one styling himself Bill Spoonendyke. The funny witticisms convulsed the audience with laughter. The farce, "The Two Puddyfoots," in which the following young ladies and gentlemen participated, then concluded the most enjoyable social success of the season: Puddyfoot, Sr., by Bert Lissner, was excellently acted; Puddyfoot, Jr., Henry Lissner, was far above the average amateur performance; Caroline, Miss Mae Cohn, was portrayed in that young lady's usual artistic manner; Buffles, Leon Magnes, was acted with realistic effect, and sustained throughout without a fault. Mrs. Fixby (a widow), Miss Bernice Strauss, was acted to perfection. Angelina (a servant), by Miss Rose Scheeline, whose acting was a histrionic surprise to many friends, was undoubtedly the best sustained character in the play. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kahn left here last week on a tour of the Eastern States. Col. W. W. Jacobs has returned from the Springs only slightly relieved of his ailment.

Julius Abrahamson, of Abrahamson Bros., returned from the Springs this week seriously sick.

Mrs. Rebecca Hirshberg, mother of Mr. D. Hirshberg, is slightly improved; but the physicians attending her give but slight hope of her ultimate recovery.

Rev. Dr. Moses of Louisville, Ky., has been sojourning here a few days, the guest of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ida Tobriner, of Jefferson street. The reverend gentleman preaches to-morrow in the synagogue of the First Hebrew Congregation. His subject is entitled "Filial Piety."

Many of our Jewish citizens here are taking a great interest in the "Midwinter Fair" to be held in San Francisco about the beginning of next year. A grand location has been selected for the exposition in Golden Gate Park. I suppose many of you Easterners will come and get a whiff of our pure ozone. More anon.

Meyer Lissner, the genial manager of the M. Cohn Jewelry Co., departed for the East last Tuesday. The Oakland belles are anxiously awaiting the return of this good-looking young bachelor.

Mrs. Rosenber (nee Clothilde Cerf) of Ukiah is here on a visit, the guest of Miss Estelle Kahn.

Miss Flora Green of San Francisco is stopping with her friend, Miss Frances Baach.

Ernest Samuels, a prominent merchant of Cayucas, San Luis, Obispo County, is here on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Samuels.

The Clerks' Retail Union of Oakland, at their semi-annual election, elected four of our co-religionists to prominent offices. E. Bernstein, president; E. Berovich, treasurer; R. Rosenberg, secretary and M. Snider, guardian. This union is one of the strongest organizations in the State, affiliating with the Federated Trades Union, which is somewhat of a factor in the politics of the land.

Mr. Louis Blumberg, the wholesale liquor merchant, was thrown out of his buggy last week by a runaway steed. A doctor is attending his severe injuries.

Mr. M. H. Coffee, who returned from Honolulu last week, is confined to his bed with an attack of pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Sachs returned to Honolulu last week. They were here on a visit to Mrs. Rachel Hirshberg, Mrs. Sachs' mother.

Miss Sadie Mossbacher has fully recovered the use of her broken arm.

Alex. Hirshberg and sister, Miss Dilly Hirshberg, are at Harbor Springs, spending their Summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rosenberg are at Harbor Springs, recuperating preparatory to their tour East.

Sam Levin, the young barber who was stricken blind by paralysis of the optic nerve, has nearly regained his sight.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The trustees of the association of the Daughters of Israel have applied to the Superior Court for an order dissolving the corporation. A balance of $720.11 in the hands of the treasurer of the corporation is to be placed in the hands of P. K. Furth and disbursed for charitable objects.

The Congregation Beth Israel, Geary street Temple, recently held a special meeting for the sale of seats to its members. The sale proved satisfactory, $3,000 being realized in premiums and sales.

MONTREAL.—The service in the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue last Saturday was rendered more than usually interesting by the Bar Mitzvah celebration of the second son of Mr. Michael Lightstone. The young gentleman read a parasha and the Haftarah most creditably, and it is to be hoped that he will always act in life in accordance with the excellent advice which the Rev. Meldola de Sola addressed to him from the pulpit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lightstone held a reception at their residence on Saturday and Sunday, and received the congratulations of a large circle of friends. Turning from the bright to the mournful, we have to record the death of Mr. P. Blumenthal. The deceased was forced into the Russian army when quite a lad, and it is quite probable that the hardships he suffered in the army sowed the seeds of the disease which caused his death. He leaves a wife and several children. The Rev. Meldola de Sola officiated at the funeral, which was conducted by the Sons of Benjamin. . . . Mr. L. Lewis, a well-known member of the community, is down with typhoid fever. His many friends hope that he may be granted a speedy recovery. . . . Miss Rebecca Samuel of Cornwall and two New York friends are the guests of Mr. M. Lesser.

Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. Philipp Goldschmidt and Mrs. Herman Rosenberg left for the Atlantic Highlands on Monday last, to be absent several weeks. They will stay at Nineg Cottage.

A committee, consisting of A. L. Schwarz and Nathan Fleischer, waited last Sunday on ex-Mayor Nathan Barnert at his Long Branch cottage and presented to him the silver trowel with which he laid the corner stone of the new temple for the Congregation B'nai Jeshurun on the 12th inst. The implement had been suitably engraved. The committee was handsomely entertained. It is the intention of the Building Committee to pay a visit to the ex-Mayor in the near future.

The choir are working hard night and day to be perfect as near as possible. They are under the leadership of Prof. Gustav Weisse.

Mrs. Samuel Nathan and daughter, Lillie, are enjoying the season at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage last Sunday evening at their home, 124 Van Houten street. Only those related to the family were present. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Scheeline of San Francisco have just arrived. Mrs. Scheeline is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Heydecker, at 230 East 30th street. Mrs. Fannie Cohen of Oakland, Cal., is also visiting her parents.

Rockaway Beach.

The Children's Grand Carnival and Ball arranged by Mr. Ad. Newberger at Lenz's Ocean Pavilion, Oceanus, L. I., will take place on Saturday evening, Aug. 5, 1892, commencing at 8.30, precisely. The performance will consist of ballets, tableaux, solos, pantomimes, etc., in gorgeous fancy costumes, and will be performed with a grand display of calcium lights.

At invitation of the President of the Long Branch Synagogue, the Rev. B. Hast will conduct services to-night and to-morrow morning.

IN THE CITY.

Charity at the Seashore.

On Saturday evening, July 29, a grand entertainment and ball was given by the guests of Lenz's Ocean Hotel at Rockaway Beach, L. I., for the benefit of the Hebrew Sheltering and Guardian Society. The committees deserve great credit for the pains they took to make the affair a success, both financially and socially, and which proved so far beyond their expectations. The pavilion was profusely decorated with bunting, flags, lanterns and natural plants. The programme consisted as follows: Address of welcome, by Hon. Joseph C. Wolff; variations on the cane flute, and "Carnival of Venice," violin solo, Mr. Ludwig Lendry; recitation, Mr. J. Klein; skirt dance, Miss Helen Kleinert; song, Miss C. F. Pinner; recitation, Miss Selma Hellenberg; song, Miss F. Gebhardt; comic recitation, Miss E. Carrington; miquet de la cour, arranged by Prof. Newburger. After the entertainment dancing began, and when one glanced over the vast assembly recollections of the Purim Ball came back in all its glory, caused by the many handsome couples and the costumes of the ladies present. Some of those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kaufmann, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kaufmann, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fass, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fleishauer, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fleishauer, Misses Rose and Selma Hellenberg, Miss R. Strauss, Miss P. Sachs, Miss E. Levy, Miss E. Klauber, Miss Nora Fleishauer, Miss Flora Levy, Miss Fanny Levy, Miss Lillie Levy, Miss Julia Kahn, Miss Nettie Dreyfus, Mr. and Mrs. D. Auerback, Mr. and Mrs. L. Gronau, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sachs, Miss Lillie Michels, in a handsome gown of moire satin, point lace; Mr. and Mrs. A. Abrahams, white China silk, duchesse lace; Miss Annie Siskind, in white China silk, green bengaline trimming; Miss G. Michels, cream India silk, with point d'esprit lace; Miss Anna Harris, pale blue China silk, silk chiffon covering; Mr. and Mrs. L. Lendry, Misses A. and H. Lendry, Mr. A. Etinger, Mr. L. M. Ruben, Mr. H. L. Geenwold, Mr. A. Kohns, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Levinson, Mr. M. W. Steinberg, Mr. H. King, Mr. J. Friedman, Mr. C. Hartmann and many others.

Unity Musical Quartet.

The Unity Musical Quartet held their last public rehearsal at 208 East 116th street, last Friday evening. The quartet intend taking a month's vacation at the World's Fair. The four young men comprising the quartet have strived very hard to please the public and have met with great success, and no doubt need rest. After they return they intend perfecting themselves for their entertainment, which will take place on Nov. 4, when they intend to surprise the public with novel instruments, thereby surpassing any of their previous efforts. We wish them a pleasant time while absent from the city.

Centennial Lodge Excursion.

Last Sunday was a day as beautiful as one could wish for, and for this reason so many friends of Centennial Lodge, No. 100, I. O. S. B., attended their second annual excursion. The barge Susquehanna conveyed the whole party to River View Grove on the Hudson.

It was a jolly crowd on board; all seemed happy and at home. The old folks enjoyed the beautiful scenery, the children played about, while the young folks did full justice to Lemlein's orchestra, who played every dance imaginable. When the grounds were reached, some of the folks took to the dense woods; the young men played ball. The fruit trees were quickly bared. The whistle of the little tug made many a person feel sorry they had to return. But still it was just as pleasant on board; the air was delightful, and time passed only too soon.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Eckstein, Jacob Waterman and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hirsch, Louis Gabriel and wife, who also received a handsome souvenir for disposing of the most tickets; Mr. and Mrs. M. Brock, Lew Flanders, Miss Ray Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Max Adler, Simon Miller, Miss Annie Fischlowitz, Max Schnitzer, Miss Fannie Miller, Mr. Abrahams, Misses Mollie and Rose Wertheimer, Mr. Hirsch, Misses Hattie and Carrie Lesser, Louis H. Prager and lady, Louis Recht, Miss Bertha Levy, N. Wittenstein, Miss Rose Friedman, Miss L. Steinhart, Mr. and Mrs. Levy, Morris Levy and sister and Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Gabriel.

Marriages.

A very pleasant wedding took place on Sunday evening, July 30, at Appollo Hall. The contracting parties were Mr. Julius J. Coleman, formerly of New Haven; and Miss Esther Sadicker. After the ceremony about two hundred and fifty couples, marched to partake of the wedding supper, during the course of which remarks were made by Mr. J. W. Levy, the toastmaster, Rev. Mr. Noot and others. After supper dancing was indulged in. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Michel Sadicker, Mr. L. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Sadicker, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Berger, Miss Berger, Miss H. and Mr. Alexander, Joseph Miss Irene Halm, Miss Lizzie Werner, Miss Rose Lipman, Misses Freda and Ella Loewenthal of New York.

Out of town guests were J. W. Levy of Yale L. S.; Moses Isaac, of D. V. S.; Miss Hilda Jacobs, Miss Sarah Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Michelson, Mr. J. and S. W. Bush of New Haven, Ct.

On Sunday last, at the residence of the bride's uncle, 337 East 62d street, city, Mr. Sigmund Opociuski was married to Miss Esther Epstein by the Rev. B. Haast.

BAER-POLLAK.

The marriage of Miss Theresa D. Baer to Mr. Lincoln J. Pollak took place at the residence of the bride's mother, 118 East 116th street, last Wednesday, Rev. D. Loewenthal officiating.

Engagement.

The engagement of Miss Rose Deutsch to Mr. Nathan Buchler took place Sunday evening, July 30, at the residence of the young ladies' parents, No. 309 East 74th street. The event was fittingly celebrated by the numerous relatives and friends, amid speeches, singing and dancing. The young couple will be home this Sunday.

The Albany Dental Association, under the management of F. L. Morhard, D.D.S., has become one of the largest establishments in the city; through its genuine good work it is doing all along. Our new method of extracting teeth and inserting new ones the same day is a feature of the establishment, as well as the manufacture of sets at a lower rate than anywhere else in the city. By looking at our prices the reader, in case of an emergency, will call at our place to have it out with us.

Extracting one tooth, 25 cents; with gas, 50 cents. Sets of gum teeth, $6.50. Full upper and lower sets, $12. Partial plates from $1.50 to $6.50. Crown and bridge work a specialty. Gold crowns, $6.50. Porcelain crown or pivot teeth, $4. Open evenings until 9 p. m. Sundays, from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Obituary.

The funeral of Mr. Joseph Siegel took place last Wednesday from his late residence, 519 East 82d street. Rev. D. Loewenthal conducted the ceremonies. The deceased was 72 years old at his demise. Three daughters mourn his loss. The interment was at Cypress Hill's Cemetery.

LINDEN HILL CEMETERY.

On our first page we present our readers with a fine illustration of the new entrance to Linden Hill Cemetery, the property of the Congregation Ahawath Chesed of this city.

Every affectionate father, every head of a family will provide to the best of his ability for the comfort of those who are under his charge as long as they live.

But the more careful man goes a step beyond and will provide for an event which sooner or later is sure to come; he will know that all born must die, and as at the time when a family is afflicted with a bereavement the mind is full of grief and sorrow, he provides for a last resting place for those dear to him when in good health and good spirits, as a prudent general will, in time of peace, prepare for war.

Congregation Ahawath Chesed owns one of the finest cemeteries in the country. Its location—only twenty minutes from the other side of the river—is superb, and the cemetery itself is beautifully laid out and embellished with all improvements.

Societies can buy a tract of land at very low prices, and those desiring family plots can purchase them at very reasonable figures.

Those wishing to purchase some excellently selected lots will please communicate with Solomon Simm, 1068 Second avenue, New York city, and prompt attention will be paid to their wishes.

Schoen & Loewenthal's Institute.

The 25th anniversary of Schoen & Loewenthal's German American Institute and Kindergarten was held at Empire City Colosseum on Wednesday, Aug. 2.

A thousand citizens, preceded by Lemlein's Band, accompanied the scholars to the foot of East Fifth street, where they embarked upon the commodious steamboat Chancellor, which conveyed them to the Empire City Colosseum, at East 69th street. Here the numerous friends, guests and the pupils of the institute were served with an exceedingly enjoyable collation.

The exercises in the vast hall were opened by Julius Harburger, Grand Master of the Free Sons of Israel, who vividly sketched the rise and development of the Institute.

Ex-Coroner M. Ellinger delivered a masterly address, and was followed by Rev. Dr. D. Loewenthal, the surviving partner of the organizers of this school. (Mr. Schoen having departed this life four years ago), who expressed his gratification at the marvelous success achieved.

Other speakers followed, among them Counselor Eli S. Shreier, Dr. Albert Kohn, Bernard Hahn.

The Kindergarten exhibition then took place, which was a notable feature of the exercises. It consisted chiefly of acting and recitations, which elicited most liberal applause and created unbounded enthusiasm.

At 8 o'clock p. m. the grand march inaugurated the programme of dances. The dancing was under the able management and supervision of Mr. Abe Schnitzler, harmoniously assisted by Messrs. Abe Wolff, William Pick, Adolph Heiner, Morris and William Haas.

Among the prominent visitors were noticed Ex-County Clerk Patrick Keenan, Judges Leonard A. Giegerich and Joseph E. Newburger, Civil Justice Alfred Steckler, Henry M. Goldfogel, Samson Lachman, Police Justice Joseph Koch, Register Ferdinand Levy, Sol D. Rosenthal and Isaiah Kaufman.

The Portuguese Israelites of Harlem do not mean to allow a temporary discouragement and defeat to stay their efforts to propagate the orthodox ritual of the Sephardim in the upper portion of New York city.

Services will be held every Friday evening and Saturday until after the Holy Days at No. 112 East 110th street.

This hall has many advantages and conveniences, there being no drinking saloon in the building or any other offensive surroundings. Those who attended the services at the Montefiore Synagogue are invited to worship with the Chebra. Announcement for the Holy Days services will be made later.

Mrs. Morris Black and daughters, Miss Millie and Sadie, of Allegheny City, Pa., are visiting at the residence of the Misses Jacobs of 113 East 88th street, New York city.

To Aid Jewish Prisoners.

Judge O'Brien, in Supreme Court Chambers, approved of the certificate of incorporation of the Society for the Aid of Jewish Prisoners, which has for its object providing spiritual care and instruction to prisoners of the Jewish faith confined anywhere within this State, and to aid them upon their release to make them better and self-supporting persons. The trustees are Jacob H. Schiff, Henry Budge, Gustave Gotheil, Jacob A. Cantor, F. De Sola Mendes, Lewis May, A. S. Solomon, M. H. Harris, Morris Jacoby, Henry S. Allen, Max W. Mendel, Leo Kohn, Henry Meinhard and Leon Tannenbaum.

A Fair.

A fair given July 26th and 27th at 120 East 93d street for the benefit of the World's "Sick Babies" Fund, and also for the Hebrew Infant Asylum of the city of New York, netted $14 for each of the above-named societies. The fair closed with an elaborate entertainment by Messrs. Einstein and Barlow which was very well attended. Those managing were Hattie Einstein, assisted by Stella Einstein, Martha and Flora Weil, Lillie Turk, Richard and Margaret Katz and Rudolf Schlesinger.

Picturesque Route to the Fair.

No other line offers the variety of scenic interest between New York and Chicago that is enjoyed by World's Fair tourists via the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Passing through Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, the capital of the nation, and by way of Harper's Ferry and the historic Potomac Valley to the Allegheny Mountains, which are crossed at an elevation of 3,000 feet above the sea, the traveler sees the arena of the activity of the nation, as well as the principal historical features and scenic wonders of the East. Low rates.

Bar Mitzvah.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibian tendered a reception to their son, Samuel, at their home, 339 East 79th street, on Sunday, July 30, 1893, the confirmation exercises having taken place the day previous at the Atereth Israel Synagogue, 323 East 82d street, when a speech was delivered in honor of the occasion by Master Samuel Gibian, taught him by his teacher, Dr. Calman.

The rooms were elaborately decorated and a great many friends were present, who partook of an elegant supper, at which Mr. Paul Loewith acted as toastmaster, and a speech was delivered in a very eloquent manner by Samuel to his parents during the supper in addition to the many others. A large number of elegant and costly presents were received, and in the evening the young people started in dancing and indulged in all sorts of games and had a very good time. Among some of the numerous friends present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beck of South Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gibian of Newark, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Gibian of Newark, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gibian of Newark, N. J.; Mr. P. Loewith and family, Mr. P. Strassman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Feist, Mrs. Dellevie and family, Miss Minnie Gibian of Newark and Mr. S. Meyer of New York, Miss Rosie Gibian of Newark and Mr. B. Mayer of New York, Miss Julia Feist and Mr. Van Blerkum, Miss Ettie Cahn and Mr. Nochsatz, Misses Kaliska of New York and Messrs. Gans of Newark, Miss Klein and Mr. Rosenstein, Miss Lillie Gibian of Newark and Mr. H. Stone, etc., etc.

On Sabbath last, at the Seventy-second Street Synagogue, Master Samuel, son of David Sandman of Riverhead, L. I., celebrated his Bar Mitzvah, reading his parashah and Haftorah in a clear and distinct manner.

As up to within five months ago the boy had not been taught a Hebrew letter, and now reads fluently and distinctly, it certainly reflects credit upon the ability of Prof. S. H. Kleinfeld in his special branch of training scholars for their Barmitzvah, as well as the remarkable aptitude displayed by his pupil. Upon the occasion he delivered the following short address with distinct enunciation and proper emphasis:

My worthy hearers:—The position I occupy to-day is one which fills me with mingled feelings of awe and pleasure. For a boy to stand before an audience like this, and for the first time in his life to make a speech in public naturally makes him feel timid, but I am filled with courage when I think that the opportunity is afforded me, of asking the blessing of God upon the new life which is about to be opened out to me, and of showing my gratitude to my parents for their loving care during my childhood. This is indeed a memorable day to me. It is a milestone on life's journey marked with golden letters. The journey of life is before me, and I have been taught, that if I but walk in the straight path, that my way will be pleasant and full of happiness. One password has been given me, and if I can but live up to its precepts, I feel that my future is an assured one.

"Thou shalt keep the precepts and the statutes and the judgment." With this impressed upon my heart at all times, I shall endeavor to be a good and an honest man, and at all times defend the sacred religion of which this day I have been admitted a member. And now, my dear parents, if, as our sages say "Words which come from the heart appeal to the heart," let me thank you for all you have done for me, and assure you that upon my heart, the words, "Father and Mother" are so deeply engraven, that nothing in the world can remove them. Now that I leave behind me the years of childhood, I will endeavor to obey Thy commandments that are written in the Law which Thou hast delivered to Moses. Lord God, be with me in this hour! Strengthen and inspire me, that I may feel and appreciate the importance of this act? O Father, let me enjoy Thy love and kindness.—Amen!

Heavenly Father! I thank Thee for Thy tender mercy shown to me from my infancy. Grant me Thy continued help. Give me the impulse to serve Thee faithfully. Bless my beloved parents and preserve them to me in health and contentment for many years. Bless my grandparents and comfort their declining years with Thy heavenly grace. Bless my relations and friends. Extend Thy mercies over all Israel and all mankind. Bless this congregation and who call upon Thy holy name with reverence and love. Amen!

FOURTEEN FAMILIES BURNED OUT.

The Fire Started by an Oil Stove in a Big Clinton Street Tenement.

Mrs. Meyer Leventhal was ironing last Thursday afternoon in the rear of her husband's delicatessen store at 183 Clinton street, when her oil stove exploded. Her face and arms were badly burned, and she ran screaming to the street. Some neighbors who were in the store grabbed her two small children and followed her.

The rear room caught fire immediately, and the flames soon spread through an open door in the hallway and the stairs. John Riordan, a fireman in Fuel Depot No. 4 of the Fire Department across the way, turned in an alarm, and by the time the firemen arrived the tenants of the burning building were swarming down the fire-escapes to the street. The tenement is a double-decker and contained fourteen families, four on a floor. People living in a rear building were also driven out by the smoke, and gained the street through an alley. Many of the tenants, bent on saving some of their things, rushed back into the building, and had to be driven out by the firemen and police. All escaped without injury except Joseph Phillips, whose ears were singed.

The tenants all left their doors open and the fire, creeping up the stairway, spread into every room. A second alarm was turned in and shortly afterward the fire was under control.

The building, which is owned by Moses Galantlick, a tailor of 415 Grand street, was damaged $5,000. Most of the tenants lost all their effects. They were all very poor, and their losses, it is thought, will not aggregate $2,500.

A Prominent Visitor.

Among the recent notable arrivals we chronicle that of Mr. Benjamin Hirsch, who is staying here for a short time prior to his visit to the Exposition. Mr. Hirsch is one of the most prominent Jewish leaders in Germany, and at the head of every movement for the welfare of his coreligionists. He is one of the active workers in B'nai B'rith circles, and identified with all the Jewish organizations of the country. He is a fluent speaker and thoroughly abreast with the times. He is prominently identified with the old orthodox school, though liberal in his ideas, an excellent conversationalist and possesses a peculiar magnetic charm of manner. We extend him a hearty welcome, and believe that when he returns to his native home that he will bear with him a favorable impression of the workings of our commercial institution, although we cannot anticipate an exalted idea of the piety and sincerity of our American rabbis.

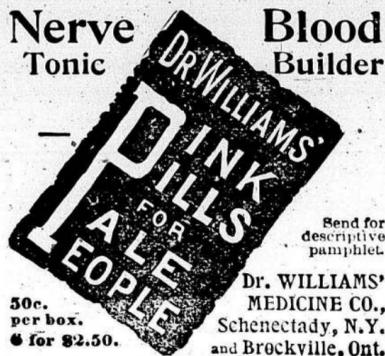

Masonic Banquet.

A birthday banquet was tendered on the 24th ult., at Terrace Garden, to Brother Philip Michaelson by King Solomon's Lodge, F. and A. M., he being the only living charter member of the lodge. Some fifty guests sat down to the banquet table, and an enjoyable evening was spent in accordance with the ancient usages of the craft.

W. Brother Herman Cantor was the presiding genius, and shone resplendently at the head of the table. The health of the distinguished brother was quaffed in appropriate bumpers, and speeches were made by the venerable W. Brother Henry Wasserman, W. Brothers Joseph L. Sherer, Joseph Kaufman, Joseph Kahn, B. Hertz, J. Blyer, Emil Frankel and others. W. Brother Berliner and other absent members sent telegrams. Brother Michaelson was the recipient of a number of substantial souvenirs.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

King Solomon Lodge, 28, and Jordan Lodge 32, both of the Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, gave an afternoon and evening seaside festival on Thursday, July 27, at Feltman's Pavilion, Coney Island. Early in the afternoon people arrived from all directions in very large numbers. Every train brought so many more. The contents of the evening trains again swelled that number to larger proportions. The Committee of Arrangements, of which Mr. Frank Morris was chairman, had engaged the Central Pavilion for the occasion. But it was soon noticed that this spacious hall could not contain the number of the guests. There was hardly any standing room for those present. Mr. Feltman's kindness, however, came to the rescue, and the party was given the use of the ocean pavilion instead of the central, the former being a great deal larger and better ventilated. Here they had a chance to amuse themselves. Strengthened by the invigorating sea breeze which they inhaled, they could dance to their heart's content. Thirty dances were on the programme, and they were all executed. Needless to say that the festival was well enjoyed and in every respect a grand success. Mr. M. Hirsh was chairman and Mr. A. Isaacs vice chairman of the Reception Committee, while the floor was managed by a committee of which L. Goldsmith was chairman and M. Celler vice-chairman. The present officers of the respective lodges are: King Solomon Lodge: L. Goldsmith, president; J. Hellhauser, vice-president; S. Calmson, recording secretary; L. Blumenau, treasurer, and F. Morris, financial secretary. Officers of Jordan Lodge: Rev. G. Taubenhau, president; W. Israel, vice-president; L. Rothenberg, financial secretary; S. Krone, recording secretary, and M. Hirsh, treasurer.

On Wednesday, the 26th ult., Mr. Abraham Hirsh of 110 Ewen street was called to his heavenly abode and was buried in the Salem Fields Cemetery, on Cypress Hills. Mr. Hirsh was well known in the community and several societies. He was a member of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, of Dan Lodge, No. 9, of the American Legion of Honor, and others. He was also one of the organizers of the Congregation Ahavath Achim, whose synagogue is situated at Johnson street. The funeral was attended by a large number of friends, the services being concluded by Rev. Luebbe and Rev. Newmark.

On Sunday, July 30, the Young Men's Hebrew Social gave their first annual excursion to Rockside Park. About 1,500 was the number of those that went along, and they filled two barges and a steamboat. The original plan was to make a landing at Rockside Park, but owing to the postponement of the excursion the committee in charge did not succeed in making other arrangements for landing. To several this was a great disappointment. Under the circumstances, however, they contented themselves with a fine sail on the Hudson, which, after all, was well enjoyed. Two bands furnished the music, one under the lead of the well-known Prof. Jake Franklin, the other under the lead of Prof. Jacobs. No less than thirty-two dances were gone through and every one was merry. At an early hour the return trip was made.

The officers of the day included the following: Floor manager, I. Osterman; assistants, J. Barnett and William Jacoby; Floor Committee, William Peiser, M. Apt, D. Symons, S. Getz, R. Jacobs, Joseph Wright, I. Salomon, S. Simons, Benjamin Bach, I. H. Cohen, I. Davis, A. Hoffman, E. Heyman, B. Pincus, F. Stern, I. Treuhold, M. Rosenstein, A. Davisburg, J. Franklin, L. Hertzog, M. Cohen, Mrs. Cantor of New York, David Simons, Miss M. Ascher, A. Ascher, Miss Lesser, M. Hart, Miss Julia Hart, R. Gross, Miss Isaacs, B. Kaiser, Miss A. Simons, Charles Levy, Miss R. Ephraim, M. Levy, L. Bennett, Dr. and Mrs. Rindell, Joseph Levy, Miss Dora Newman, Miss Bertha Newman, S. Lehmann, Miss Leppmann, H. Bloch, Miss E. Kahn, A. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. I. Ephraim, Miss Annie Levy of Georgetown, J. Barnett, Miss S. Phillips, Miss M. Simons and Miss Sallie Schuster.

Following are the officers of the organization: Albert Schwab, president; E. C. Wolff, vice-president; Alexander Levy, treasurer; R. S. Gross, financial secretary; S. E. Jacobs, recording secretary; I. Osterman, warden; trustees, J. Kling, Samuel Kalisch, S. Getz.

On July 23 the engagement was publicly announced of Mr. Joe Levy of 139 Bergen street to Miss Frank of St. Joseph, Mo.

Herman Kaufman of Elizabeth, N. J., and Miss Ada Katzky of Brooklyn were united in the bond of matrimony on July 30 at the Masonic Temple, Grand and Havemeyer streets, Brooklyn. One hundred and six persons partook of the banquet furnished by the well-known caterer Morris Cohn, 199 Stockton street. The tables were finely decorated, and everything was of the best.

RABBINICAL ETHICS.

אלו דברים שאדם איננו פחותיהם בעולם הזה והקרן קימת לעולם הבא: ואלו הן כבוד אב ואם ושמירת התורה והשכמת בית המדרש שהרבה יערבות והנכנסת ארציהם וביקר הילום והנכנסת בלה והלית הפת ועיון תפלה והבאת שלום בין אדם לחברו ותלמוד תורה כנגד כלם:

These are the things the interest of which man enjoys in this world, and the principal is standing over for the world to come, viz.: The honor of father and mother, kindly deeds, timely attendance at the house of learning, mornings and evenings, receiving wayfarers, visiting the sick, bestowing dowries on poor brides, paying respect to the dead, meditating prayer, promoting peace between man and man, and above all studying the Law. (Peah 1; 1. Sab. f. 127 a, Aboth de R. Nathan. 40.)

HOSPITALITY.—הכנסת אורחים.

Hospitality is counted among the principal virtues to be practiced by the Jew in every-day life. It is indeed a prime virtue, which mankind recognized as such in the earliest days of history. We find the virtue of hospitality practiced among savages in the remotest parts of the world, where modern civilization is hardly known. If, as our modern thinkers opine, the development of family relations, the love of parents to their children, and the respect and gratitude of the latter for their parents, were at the basis of all our social civilization, hospitality to strangers was surely the next ground-stone to the edifice of which we are so proud. The stranger befriended in the house, which receives him on his journey, is not merely a recipient of favors; he repays his host, for all the favors he receives, if not in a direct manner, if not in the equivalent of dollars and cents, so to speak, he brings a moral influence, which can hardly be estimated in its full bearing. The hospitable host learns from the wayfarer the manner and usages of people to whom he is a stranger. If the wayfarer possesses any intelligence, and travelers generally are intelligent, he will impart to his host information about the important movements of the time in other places. Thus, hospitality is always repaid by an advancement in culture and a broadening of views and knowledge.

Hospitality was always considered as one of the first virtues of Israel. Abraham, the first Hebrew, built a hostelry with doors opening to all sides of the compass, as our Rabbis say (Medrash to Gen. xxii, 33), in order to receive strangers coming from any side of the world, and with great sagacity the Rabbis add, that by means of his hospitality he spread knowledge of God among strangers.

"When the strangers had rested and refreshed themselves in his house, they wanted to thank Abraham for his hospitality, but he pointed toward heaven and said: 'Not to me your gratitude is due, but to Him who provides for all mankind, for me and for you alike.' Thus, the wayfarers leaving his house knew that there was a father in heaven, who sustains all His children, and that all men alike are under His care and protection."

We cannot in our time and under our circumstances be hospitable in the patriarchal manner of our ancestors. Life runs faster, so to speak, in our time, and the tastes differ widely between the people of one country and those of another. At the same time the intercourse between the remotest peoples on earth has become so frequent, that it is almost impossible for a wayfarer to change his tastes and his habits before he arrives in another land among people of various tastes and habits. The Mongolian, leaving his home, arrives in America within a few weeks, and has not the time or opportunity to accommodate himself to American manners on his journey. Still he is our fellow-man, and we must be hospitable to him; but it would hardly be an act of charity if we exercised our hospitality toward him in the patriarchal manner. If we took him into our house, and invited him to eat with us and to take his comfort as we do, he would hardly enjoy it, while we would be seriously inaccommodated by his strange manners. The same is the case with any fellow man of a remote country. The Arab, the Finn, the Russian would not have cause to thank us for our hospitality, if we made them live as we do the very day they arrive in our midst. How then can we practice the virtue of hospitality toward such strangers? There is but one way of doing it, and this is to avoid making them uncomfortable. If we cannot give them the means to live upon as they like, we must at least avoid forcing upon them our own manners and tastes. Let them live as they like, and not intrude upon them our conceptions of living; as long as they do not sin against our social laws, we must be broadly tolerant to their notions and habits of life. This is the hospitality we can and ought to practice, and this is a lesson which our Reform brethren have to learn, when they desire to practice hospitality toward our immigrant brethren. They should not force their reformed notions upon the new-comers; give them a lifting hand, give them a chance to earn a living and time to accommodate themselves to our "culture" in the manner that may suit them best.

STANDARD SCINTILLATIONS.

The multiplicity of religious edifices—with mortgages upon them—is not a sign of religious prosperity.

The Sons of Benjamin are sowing dragons teeth—twenty millions of insurance and thirty thousand reserve capital is a sorry financial showing; and yet the poor suckers will bite!

The crowds of unsere leute in the country, can be probably accounted for from the fact, that in some of our Reform Temples, they are yet reading weekly portions from the book of Ecodus.

The Hebrew Technical Institute and the Baron de Hirsch Trade School are the pillars of fire and cloud, which will lead our young Russian co-religionists through the desert of ignorance to the promised land of useful American citizenship.

In the present excitement upon the silver question, we would suggest to our silver-tongued Rabbis of the far West to console their flock by preaching upon the following text: "Yea, the Almighty shall be thy defense, and thou shalt have plenty of silver."—Job xxii, 25.

The Jews of New York look with pardonable pride upon their splendid communal charities. It would be an honest pride, were it not for the fact that they are supported by about five thousand out of the entire Jewish population. When the pride of the thousands of non-contributors assumes a practical shape, we will be pleased to note it.

THE RISING HOPE.

Say what you may about the "dead past," for Israel the past is not dead; it is a living and abiding index and guide toward a spiritual and material prosperity of the great future. For the last two thousand years Israel was the martyr of all the peoples on earth. The semi-savages of the African coasts and of the wilds of Central Asia, the descendants of the brutal Huns and Tartars and Goths and Finns and Celts in a measure as they became acquainted with the religions, which had their origin in Judaism (Christianity and the Islam), turned their savage instincts against the race of Israel. Not a crime in the code of human justice and morality, not an outrage upon the sentiments of man, but it was practiced upon the Jew in the name of "Christian love" or "Mohammedan conciliation."

For all that "the light of Israel was not quenched." The national calamity of the destruction of our temple and commonwealth proved to be a blessing in disguise. "A mercy God has done unto his people, that he has scattered them among the nations," say our Rabbis. (Pessa'him, f. 86.) If the virulent wrath of our religious enemies had found us concentrated in one spot, bound together as a nation whose living and being are tied together with the fate of the country they inhabit, they could easily wipe us out of existence. But they have found us as a people without a land. Our patriotism had been crystalized into a sense of solidarity, which made the Jew regard his brother Israelite as a real brother. Our national reason for existence had been transformed in a devotion to one common cause, the cause of religion pure and true, which we represented in every part of the world alike. The Jew of Persia, Babylonia and Central Asia, hunted by the enemies of his native land, found a new home among the Huns, the Finns, Tartars and Slavs of Eastern Europe and remained a Jew. Persecuted by the Romish Church in Western Europe, the Jew went to the coasts of Africa and into the lands of the wild Teutons in Central Europe, and carried his sanctuary and the seed of his civilization with him. Thus he wandered and planted his flag in every land of the world, the flag which appeared to his persecutors as black as "the tents of Kedar," and which was actually as "comely as the curtains of Solomon." The spiritual beauty of the temple of Jerusalem and its moral blessings were in Judaism, no matter how it was, it was blackened from the outside.

This experience of the past shows what the future has in store for us. The present troubles of our race are surely as laden with blessings in disguise as the troubles of the past were. Happy the Jew who abides in his faith, for his is the great and happy future, which God has decreed for the human race and for Israel, the people of His own choice!

The "feast of trumpets" would be an appropriate title for the Jewish branch of the religious congress at Chicago. All the modest Rabbis will be on exhibition at the windy city at that time.

Those who launch their invectives against the East Side Russians, for their herding so crowdedly together, should remember the Talmudic adage: "Judge not thy associate until thou standest in his place."

A LITERARY CURIOSITY.

This poem was contributed to the San Francisco Times, by Mrs. H. A. Deming. Its peculiarity consists in the fact that each line is a quotation from a standard English or American author:

- LIFE.
1. Why all this toil for triumphs of an hour?
2. Life's a short summer, man a flower.
3. By turns we catch the vital breath and die.
4. The cradle and the tomb, alas! so nigh.
5. To be is better far than not to be.
6. Though all men's life may seem a tragedy;
7. But light cares speak when mighty griefs are dumb.
8. The bottom is but shallow whence they come.
9. Your fate is but the common fate of all;
10. Unmingled joys here no man can befall;
11. Nature to each allots its proper sphere;
12. Fortune makes folly her peculiar care.
13. Custom does often reason overleu.
14. And throw a cruel sunshine on a fool.
15. Live well; how long or short, permit to heaven.
16. They who forgive most shall be most forgiven.
17. Sin may be classed so close we can not see its face—
18. Vile intercourse where virtue has no place.
19. Then keep each passion down however dear.
20. Thou pendulum betwixt a smile and tear.
21. Her sensual snares let faithless pleasure lay.
22. With craft and skill to ruin and betray.
23. Soar not too high to fall, but stoop to rise.
24. We masters grow of all that we despise.
25. Oh! then renounce that impious self-esteem!
26. Riches have wings, and grandeur is a dream.
27. Think not ambition wise because 'tis brave.
28. The paths of glory lead but to the grave.
29. What is ambition? 'Tis a glorious cheat—
30. Only destructive to the brave and great.
31. What's all the gaudy glitter of a crown?
32. The way of bliss lies not on beds of down.
33. How long we live, not years, but actions tell—
34. That man lives twice who lives the first life well.
35. Make, then, while yet we may, your God your friend.
36. The trust that's given guard, and to yourself be just.
37. For live we how we can, but die we must.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Germany.

The Agitationsverband of the anti-Semitic party met July 3 in Berlin, Ahlwardt taking a leading part in the discussion. In answer to the accusation that he had betrayed his former friends, he wrote to his constituents: "My Conservative opponent charges me with having caused the success of the Social Democrats. That is untrue. It is the Junkers and Jews who are to be blamed for this." This accusation of a coalition between the Jews and Junkers owes its origin to the fact that in Arnswalde-Frideberg the Jews supported the Conservative candidate who opposed Ahlwardt.

As a protest to the opening of a new synagogue in Luxheim, near Duren, several anti-Semites desecrated the Jewish cemetery, destroying several tombstones.

Holland.

The editor of the anti-Semitic journal, Waerheid en Recht, has been imprisoned for slandering Herr A. C. Wertheimer. A Jewish firm of booksellers have also taken action against that journal for libel. In passing sentence on the editor, the sitting magistrate observed that the fullest penalties would be imposed upon those who spread sectarian hatred.

Switzerland.

A meeting of the Berne Jewish community was held recently at which it was resolved to appoint a Central Committee to watch and guard against the further movements of those who raised the Schechita question in Switzerland and also in Saxony. Prof. Hilty, who so ably defended the Jews when the Schechita question was raised before the Convention, has been appointed president.

Russia.

A list of 111 Jewish families, says the Odessa correspondent of the Daily Chronicle, living in Tiflis, has just been sent to the Governor of that province, with the request that he is to take steps to have them removed from his government before November 1.

Statistics from Odessa show that no less than 175,000 Jews left Russia in 1892-93 to seek homes in other lands. In the first quarter of the present year no less than 44,000 emigrated from that country, and nearly four times that number will have left within the next few months.

France.

The Academie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres has awarded to M. James Darmesteter, Professor at the College of France, the prize of 20,000 francs destined for the author of any work or invention calculated to do credit or to be useful to the country within the past ten years. M. Darmesteter has gained the votes of the Academy by his translation of the Avesta. There was one other competitor for the prize, M. de Sarzec, formerly French Consul in Bagdad.

Constantinople.

The Sultan Abdul-Hamid is one of the few reigning monarchs, who publicly testify their esteem for the Jews in general and for those who live under their protection in particular. I have often had occasion to give your readers proofs of the affection which our august Sovereign bestows on his Jewish subjects and the occurrence I am now about to relate is fresh evidence of this paternal affection.

Last week M. Moise Levy, the Caimacam (locum tenens) of the Chief Rabbinate of Turkey—we have been without a Chief Rabbi for a large number of years—proceeded to the Yildiz Palace in order to lay on the steps of the throne an address of fidelity and devotion on the occasion of the completion of twenty-one years' service as Caimacam. A reply to this address was immediately drafted by direction of the Sultan, and, signed by the First Secretary of his Imperial Majesty, was handed the same day to M. Moise Levy. The Imperial letter stated that the Sultan fully appreciated the services rendered by our Acting Chief Rabbi and that His Majesty was touched by his fidelity and attachment to the Sovereign. At the same time the Chancellor of the Palace remitted to the Caimacam the insignia, in gold and silver, of the Imtiaz Order which had been conferred upon him by the Sultan.

This rare honor, which is usually reserved for the most eminent personages, has filled with joy the hearts of all the Jews in the Turkish Empire.—Correspondent of the London Jewish Chronicle.

E. Benjamin Andrews, President of Browne University and a delegate to the international convention held in Paris, in the leading article in the Political Science Quarterly, entitled "The Monetary Conference," pays the following eloquent tribute to the Chairman of the Conference, M. Montefiore Levy:

A Hebrew in race and religion, he is so well educated, through study, reading and travel, that in sympathy he is perfectly cosmopolitan. A manufacturer and banker on an extensive scale, he understands the theory and practice of trade as few men in any nation do. He is a politician withal, a senator of the kingdom, a conservative liberal of great zeal and influence, yet highly respected by his political opponents. It was a signal piece of good fortune that a man of his character was induced to accept the arduous duty of guiding the conference in its deliberations.

A Jewish national literary society with the main intention to translate Hebrew and Rabbinical books into the Magyar language, is to be established in the capital of Hungary.

The Prussian Ministry of the Interior has instructed provincial officials to expel forthwith from the districts under their administration all Russian emigrants who have crossed the border in violation of the special laws now in force against their admission. If the emigrants have sufficient money, they are to be sent at once to Bremen that they may be transported on the North German steamships to America. Cases of impoverished emigrants are to be referred to the Central Aid Committee in Berlin. This committee will see to it that the paupers are taken out of the country.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

The editor begs to be distinctly understood that he cannot under any circumstances undertake to answer questions through the post. Questions requiring answers for the same week should reach him not later than Tuesday morning. Inquiries about Hebrew dates, the Hebrew month and year should be written plainly.

Questions in this department should be signed by the initials of the writer, but the proper name and address must accompany the communication. Those which are trivial and have no general interest are not published. There will be some delay in answering many, as considerable time and research are often necessary to obtain information.

Jahrzeit.

We are in receipt of numerous communications under the above name, asking for English dates corresponding with Hebrew months or vice versa. We ask for a little indulgence, Messieurs, and all will be answered in due time; the editor is not a walking almanac, and these things take time.

Bar Mitzvah.—Sabbath Nachamoo, 1895, falls on August 3.

J. Baer.—The Jewish date, 5657, corresponds with the year 1741.

Boston.—The first day of Ellul, 1856, fell on Monday, September 1.

W. Eppstein.—The first day of Succoth, 1808, fell on Saturday-October 17.

L. Weiler.—Three days after Purim, 1856, corresponds with Monday, March 24.

Medicus.—The only mention in the Bible of an apothecary or rather "the son of one of the apothecaries" is in Nehemiah, iii., 8.

Fair Play.—The Seventy-second Street Congregation charges $15, we believe, for marriage fees. Your complaint should be addressed to the President.

Ab.—There is a German translation of the Kinnoth. We do not know of any in the English language, except a few fugitive pieces.

L. W. S.—All Jewish festivals are based upon Pesach, and if 163 days are added to the first day of Pesach, it will give you the Jewish New Year.

JEW AS FINANCIERS.

From the N. Y. Sun.

"Within gunshot of Trinity steeple, and under the roofs of various business exchanges, there has been talk about an item printed last Monday in the Sun's 'Notes of the Jews.' A good many people who had not until then known or thought of the facts there given saw at once that they did not agree with opinions that are widely current. Here is the item as it was originally printed in the American Israelite, under the revision of Dr. I. M. Wise:

"The Jews of the United States are a very insignificant factor in large financial operations. In the control of the national banks they are unknown; they have no voice in the management of railway and steamship lines; they do not own the mines of coal or iron, or regulate their output; of all the trusts whose oppressions are complained of, they were conspicuous in but one, the Whisky Trust, the one which concerned the general public least, and was about the first to get into financial straits. As money lenders they play a small part in the United States. Their operations are largely confined to brokerage and petty lending on collaterals. A considerable portion of them are well to do, a few are rich, scarcely any very rich, and among the plutocrats there is not one.

"We suppose that this item raised surprise here, for the reason that there has for years been so much talk about the financial power of the Jews in this country, and the enormous wealth acquired by many of them. We guess that the statements made in the paragraph are not far from correct, and we are prepared to believe that nearly all the knowing Jews and Gentiles in the city have perceived the truth of them, after thinking for a while and calling up a lot of names. We must suppose that some of the people who have often ignorantly repeated the saying that 'New York is owned by Jews' will admit that there are also other owners of it.

"It will be noticed that Dr. Wise does not say anything about the large investments in real estate by Jews, or about their predominance in certain branches of business, or about their speculative operations in the money and other markets. There is not a plutocrat among them," he says, "but certainly there are a good number of very rich men among them; even in New York."

UNCLE MICHAEL'S BOX OF MONEY.

Rolls of $500, $100 and Smaller Bills Found by His Astonished Son.

For many years "Uncle Michael" was one of the most interesting characters to be found on the east side. He was a very good-natured and straightforward economizer, rather than miser. Tall of stature, with shoulders and neck like an ox, he was a man of very distinguished appearance. Strangers who saw him followed his sturdy gait with considerable interest, and when they saw any person who nodded to him, stopped at once to ask who he might be.

"Oh, that's old Uncle Michael," the answer would be. "He's the stingiest man in the world."

Yet there is but very little to tell of him now save that he is dead. His name was Michael Reiner, and he came here from Russia some twenty-five years ago. His history in the old country he was never reticent about.

He never wrote a letter to his wife or heard from her, excepting once, about eleven years ago, when his son Moses came across the ocean. Moses brought the latest news about his mother and all their friends, and then waited for his father to speak.

"Now, my son," the old man said, kindly, "here is some money for you. Learn the furrier's trade. It is a good business, and you will be able to support yourself. Whatever you do, though, never come to me for money, for you won't get any more."

Uncle Michael bought jewelry and sold it at great profit. He ran errands and kept accounts for storekeepers. He lent money on good security at Shylockian interest, and speculated in buying and selling small stores on the east side. He was never hard with a debtor, and always lent a listening ear to tales of hardship. As he accepted only excellent security he was rarely averse to extending a loan. As for giving—he never gave.

He lived in a bare room, sometimes in one place, sometimes in another, changing his residence as soon as he found a cheaper place. His last room was on the third floor of a dingy tenement house at 12 Bayard street. Every morning he ate one chop and one cup of coffee for breakfast. These cost him fifteen cents. He was fond of saying:

"Naffer in mine life I pay more as toity-five cent for to eat. Dot's a very great pile of money, but a man got to live."

He never paid more than $15 for a suit of clothes; and the occasion for paying even this much happened very rarely. When not at work he would walk up and down Division street holding in his hand an $8 cane which was tied to his wrist by a leather thong, and smiling at the girls who stood in front of the milliners' shops. A few days past his 67th birthday, he died of apoplexy, and his son, who had been pursuing his trade of furrier for eleven years, came over from his home in Bayonne to bury him. The son had never received a penny from his father since the day he first saw him here.

After the funeral he went to his father's room. There he found three trunks, a bed, and a table; no chair or picture. In one of the trunks, he found, to his great amazement, a heap of bank notes and jewelry. There were twelve $500 bills and several rolls of $100, $50, $10, $5 and $1 bills, all bundled separately. Besides these were eight loose diamonds, fifteen pieces of jewelry, such as earrings, rings and studs, each set with diamonds, ten gold watches, three silver watches and a heap of gold and silver coin.

The young man consulted a rabbi who had known his father, and upon his advice applied to the Surrogate's Court for the appointment of an administrator. In the affidavit which he had to make he said that this property was worth over $10,000. He also said that his father had a safe-deposit box in which he kept a bank book, but that the name of the company is not known. Administration Clerk O'Brien on Friday last appointed this Public Administrator to look after this estate. Young Reiner believes that his father has at least $10,000 deposited in one of the banks in this city. He and his mother are the only heirs.

LEGAL NOTICES.

Amendment Number One. State of New York. Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, August 1, 1893. Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article thirteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of chapter six hundred and eighty-two of the Laws of 1892, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators in this State, to be held on the seventh day of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-three. CONCURRENT RESOLUTION. Proposing an amendment to section twelve of article six of the Constitution, providing for the election of Circuit Judges in the First Judicial District. Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur). That section twelve of article six of the Constitution be amended so as to read as follows: Sec. 12. There shall be in the first judicial district twelve circuit judges, who shall be the six judges of the superior court in the city of New York and the six judges of the court of common pleas for the city and county of New York, in office at the adoption of this amendment to the Constitution, who shall hold office for the period for which they were respectively elected, and their successors who shall be elected as such circuit judges by the electors of the city and county of New York, and who shall receive the same salary now paid to said judges of the superior court and the court of common pleas. The said circuit judges may hold circuit courts in the city and county of New York. The general term of the first judicial department shall have power by an order entered on its minutes to designate from time to time one or more of the said circuit judges to hold special terms of the supreme court and courts of oyer and terminer in the first judicial district, for such terms of the said courts as the public interest may require. During the continuance of a term for which any circuit judge is so designated, he shall have all the power, authority and jurisdiction of a justice of the supreme court in the first judicial district in or out of court. All actions or special proceedings pending in the said superior court and court of common pleas shall be transferred to the supreme court, and all powers and jurisdiction now vested in the said superior court and court of common pleas shall be vested in the supreme court. The superior court of Buffalo and the city court of Brooklyn are continued, with the powers and jurisdiction they now severally have and such further civil and criminal jurisdiction as may be conferred by law. The city court of Buffalo shall be composed of the judges now in office and their successors; and the city court of Brooklyn of such number of judges, not exceeding three, as may be provided by law. The judges of said courts in office at the adoption of this article are continued until the expiration of their terms. A chief judge shall be appointed by the judges of each of said courts, from their own number, who shall act as such during his official term. Vacancies in the office of the judges named in this section, occurring otherwise than by expiration of term, shall be filled in the same manner as vacancies in the supreme court. The chief judge shall be appointed by the judges of the city court of Brooklyn to hold circuits and special terms of the supreme court in Kings county as the public interest may require. This amendment shall go into effect on the first day of October next succeeding its adoption by the people.

State of New York. In Senate, April 14, 1893. The foregoing resolution was concurred in, a majority of all the Senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the Senate, CHARLES T. DUNNING, Clerk.

that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators in this State, to be held on the seventh day of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-three. CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Proposing an amendment to article six of the Constitution of this State in relation to county judges and court of sessions in the county of Kings.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur). That article six of the Constitution of this State be amended by adding thereto the following section: Sec. 6. There shall be in the county of Kings two county judges, each of whose term of office shall be six years. The county judge in office at the adoption of this amendment shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which he was elected. The additional county judge shall be elected at the general election held next after the adoption of this amendment, and his term of office shall begin on the first day of January thereafter. When the official term of any county judge of said county will expire by the expiration of time or the disability of any county judge, the county judge shall be chosen at the preceding general election. Vacancies otherwise occurring in said offices shall be filled in the same manner as vacancies in the supreme court. The salary of said county judge shall be as now established by law for county judges in said county. Their powers and jurisdiction shall be complete, and equal to one or more parts of the county court may be held in said county. The court of sessions in the county of Kings is continued with the powers and jurisdiction it now possesses, and with such additional powers and jurisdiction as may be conferred by the Legislature; it must be held by a county judge of the county and may hold one or more parts.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur). That the foregoing amendment be referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators, and that in conformity to section one of article thirteen of the Constitution it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

Amendment Number Four. State of New York. Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, August 1, 1893.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article thirteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of chapter six hundred and eighty-two of the Laws of 1892, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators in this State, to be held on the seventh day of November, eighteen hundred and ninety-three. CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Proposing an amendment to article six of the Constitution. That the sixth article of the Constitution be amended by adding thereto the following section: Sec. 6. On the thirty-first day of December succeeding the adoption of this amendment, the city court of Brooklyn shall cease to exist, and the judges thereof, then in office, for the unexpired portions of their terms, for which they were respectively elected, and their successors shall be justices of the supreme court. Their successors shall be chosen by the electors of the second judicial district as provided in section thirteen of this article, and if a vacancy shall occur otherwise than by expiration of term, the same shall be filled in the manner provided by section nine of this article. The compensation of said justices and their successors shall be fixed by the board of supervisors of Kings county and shall be paid by said county. Upon the extinction of said court, the seal, records, papers and documents of or belonging to the clerk of Kings county, and all actions and proceedings then pending in the same shall be transferred to the supreme court.

Resolved (if the Senate concur). That the foregoing amendment be referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next general election of Senators, and that, in conformity with section one of article thirteen of the Constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

State of New York. In Senate, March 23, 1893. The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the Senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the Senate, CHARLES T. DUNNING, Clerk.

State of New York. In Assembly, March 24, 1893. The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the Assembly voting in favor thereof. By order of the Assembly, CHARLES R. DE FREEST, Clerk.

State of New York. Office of the Secretary of State, ss.: I have compared the preceding copy of concurrent resolution, proposing an amendment to article six of the Constitution with the original concurrent resolution on file in this office, and I do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom, and of the whole thereof.

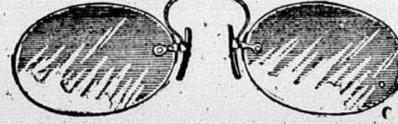

Given under my hand and the seal of office of the Secretary of State, at the city of Albany, this first day of August, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three. FRANK RICE, Secretary of State.

The foregoing concurrent resolution is published once a week for three months next preceding the next general election in conformity to the aforesaid provisions, in two public newspapers in each county in this State, representing respectively the two political parties polling the highest number of votes at the last general election, and in one additional newspaper in each county for every one hundred thousand people in such county as shown by the last preceding State enumeration.

FRANK RICE, Secretary of State.

The very best way to know whether Dobbins' Electric Soap is as good as it is said to be, is to try it yourself. It can't deceive you. Only be careful not to get an imitation. There a great many Electrics and Magnetics, all intended to deceive the public into supposing that they are Dobbins' Electric, or just as good. We have made this since 1869. It is the original Electric and is guaranteed to be worth four times as much as any other soap ever made. For washing anything, from the finest lace to the heaviest blanket, it is without a peer. Only follow directions.

READ CAREFULLY

all that we say on the two wrappers around the soap, and then see for yourself, whether or not you can afford to ever use any other soap than this, after having heard its own story, told you by your own test of it.

NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER OF JURORS IN REGARD TO CLAIMS FOR EXEMPTION FROM JURY DUTY.

Room 127, Stewart Building,
No. 280 Broadway, Third Floor,
New York, June 1, 1893.

CLAIMS FOR EXEMPTION FROM JURY duty will be heard by me daily at my office, from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.
Those entitled to exemption are: Clergymen, lawyers, physicians, surgeons, surgeon-dentists, professors or teachers in a college, academy, public school, editors, editorial writers or reporters of daily newspapers; licensed pharmacists, or pharmacists, actually engaged in their respective professions and not following any other calling; militiamen; policemen and firemen; election officers, jury non-residents, and city employees and United States employees; officers of vessels making regular trips; licensed pilots actually plying that calling; superintendents, conductors, and engineers of a railroad company other than a street-railroad company; telegraph operators actually doing duty as such; Grand Sheriff and Civil Court Jurors; stationary engineers and persons physically incapable of performing jury duty by reason of severe sickness, deafness, or other physical disorder.
Those who have not answered as to their liability, or proved permanent exemption, will receive a "jury enrollment notice," requiring them to appear before me this year. Whether liable or not, such notices must be answered (in person if possible), and at this office only, under severe penalties. If exempt, the party must bring proof of exemption; if liable, he must also answer in person, giving full and correct name, residence, etc., etc. No attention paid to letters.
All good citizens will aid the course of justice and secure reliable and respectable jurors, and qualify their duty by serving promptly when summoned, and their clerks orordinates promptly reporting to me any attempt at bribery or evasion, and suggesting names for enrollment. Persons between sixty and seventy years of age, Summer absentees, persons temporarily ill, and United States jurors, are not exempt.
Every man must attend to his own notice. It is a misdemeanor to give any jury paper to another to answer. It is also punishable by fine or imprisonment to give or receive any present or bribe, directly or indirectly, in relation to a jury service, or to withhold any paper or make any false statement, and every case will be fully prosecuted.
ROBERT B. NOONEY,
Commissioner of Jurors.

SUPERIOR COURT OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK.—Ralph R. Raymond against Augustin Touron—summons. To the above named defendant: You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the Plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear, or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint Dated New York, May 25, 1893.

DAVID LEVENTRITT, Plaintiff's Att'y. Office and Postoffice address, No. 280 Broadway, New York City.
To Augustin Touron, defendant, the foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. David McAdam, Judge of the Superior Court of the City of New York, dated the 14th day of June, 1893, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the said court at the county court house, New York City.
DAVID LEVENTRITT, Plaintiff's Att'y. Dated New York, June 14, 1893.

Jews on Horseback.

A very noticeable feature at the large Summer resorts and the most frequented of our seaside places is the presence of great numbers of Jews. They seem to be fond of crowds and to have adopted the custom of leaving town for the Summer more generally than the people of other races. When they can afford the change, they generally indulge in it; and hence, proportionately to their number in the population, there are more of them at these places than of Gentiles. The Jews seem to be determined to get all the enjoyment out of life which it is possible for them to secure; and as most of those who are now rich or well-to-do were once poor and closely economical, the pleasure that money can buy is peculiarly prized by them. They are a great multitude, chiefly of the German or Polish type, and frequently they give evidence of wealth. Their equipages are fine, the drivers being usually liveried Irishmen or Englishmen, but the Jews do not seem to be distinguished as judges of horseflesh. Oftentimes the carriage is elegant and the horses rather poor. Neither do they seem to be good whips, and a Hebrew horseman is rarely encountered. The women are arrayed expensively, but occasionally there is something in the disposition of the costumes which destroys the nice finish of their toilets.

Horseback riding is much more frequent among both men and women at these country places than it used to be. Horsemanship is an accomplishment which has been stimulated by the bridle paths in Central Park and by the pink-coated cross-country riders who provoked so much ridicule when they began to hunt the anise-seed bag. Now very good riders are numerous on the country roads, and the number of fine saddle horses is large. The indoor amusement of dancing, which furnished the only amusement for women at Summer hotels a generation ago, is now secondary to outdoor exercises.

The physical improvement in both the young men and the young women of this generation is very remarkable, but it is more noticeable among the other elements of the population than among the Jewish. The Jews do not seem to take naturally to outdoor exercises, and they are so conspicuous a part of the visitors to the summing places that this point forces itself on the attention of the observer. Apparently they prefer indolence after the strain of activity in the pursuit of the means of getting enjoyment; and the disposition betrays itself in a tendency to gain adipose rather than muscle.—New York Sun.

Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society.

At a meeting of the managers of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society (Orphan Asylum) held at the institution on Tuesday, July 25, the following resolutions were duly adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty God to remove from our midst our much respected and dearly beloved friend, Mrs. Priscilla J. Joachimsen, one of the founders of the above-named institution and the president since its organization,

BE IT RESOLVED, That we hereby extend to her relatives and friends, as well as to the community at large, our most sincere and heartfelt condolence;

That by her demise we have lost a most kind and affectionate president, as well as a most faithful and disinterested co-worker in the benevolent and charitable work in which we are engaged;

THAT we shall always miss her energetic efforts to alleviate the condition of the poor and needy, as well as her wise counsel, which she so freely gave, to further the interests of our institution—making her administration of the affairs of the society, since its organization, the greatest success, and by her always devoted labors improved the condition of and gave protection to the orphaned and needy children entrusted to the society's care.

RESOLVED, That the community at large has likewise lost a pure and pious co-laborer in all that pertains to the cause of charity and benevolence, and that her whole life was one continued and uninterrupted period of kindness and generous impulses;

THAT to her departure we bow, with humble submission to the will of an All-wise Creator, and mourn our loss with a deep sense of grief, and with the consolation that her pure and charitable life and her many goodly acts have secured for her a seat at the Throne of Mercy.

RESOLVED, That the building of the society be suitably draped, in mourning, and the flag placed at half mast for a period of thirty days.

AND THAT the managers and one hundred of the orphaned inmates of the institution attend the funeral;

AND that these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes.

Attest, W. MYER, Secretary.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one catarrh cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address, F. J. Diamonds on Shoes.

"Do you know that when your shoes glisten with a polish they are really covered with diamonds?" asked a shoemaker the other day of one of his patrons. "This is true," he continued, "and I will show you why. Bone dust, which is the principal ingredient in shoe blacking, is almost pure carbon. The diamond, you know, is the
