REST.

My feet are wearied, and my hands are tired,
My soul oppressed,
And with desire have I long desired
Rest—only rest.

'Tis hard to toil when toil is almost vain
In barren ways;
'Tis hard to sow and never garner grain
In harvest days.

The burden of my days is hard to bear,
But God knows best;
And I have prayed, but vain has been my prayer,
For rest—sweet rest.

'Tis hard to plant in spring and never reap
The autumn yield;
'Tis hard to till, and when 'tis tilled to weep
O'er fruitless field.

And so I cry, a weak and human cry,
So heart oppressed;
And so I sigh, a weak and human sigh,
For rest—for rest.

My way has wound across the desert years,
And cares infest
My path, and through the flowing of hot tears
I pine for rest.

'Twas always so. When still a child I laid
On mother's breast
My wearied little head. E'en then I prayed,
As now, for rest.

And I am restless still. 'Twill soon be over,
For down the west
Life's sun is setting, and I see the shore
Where I shall rest.

—FATHER RYAN.

IN THE JEWISH WORLD

The ascent of the Prince of Wales to the throne of England recalls to mind that twenty years ago, on January 19th, 1881, he attended the wedding of Mr. Leopold de Rothschild to Mdlle. Marie Perigne, which took place in the Central Synagogue. It was remarked at the time that that was the first occasion a member of the Royal Family had figured at the Jewish religious service. The Prince of Wales was also present at the marriage of Baron Alphonse de Rothschild.

In the recent elections held in Austria, Lueger and his fellow anti-Semites received a memorable check.

M. Maurice Block, a notable figure in French government circles, passed away at the age of 84 in Paris. His wonderful talent for figures and statistics made him a valuable authority on questions of political economy.

The University of Brussels is to have a Jewish Rector for the present year in the person of Professor Adolphe Prins, who has been designated as such by his colleagues.

A sister of Samuel Gordon, the English novelist, is also engaged in writing a story.

In consequence of the restrictions which Jews are subjected to in educating their children in government schools and universities, Jewish merchants in large towns, such as Wilna, Minsk, Dwinsk, in Russia, are now occupied with the idea of establishing commercial schools at their own expense wherein to educate their children. Unfortunately, even in this respect every difficulty is being put in their way.

Herr Pius Warburg, who died recently at Altona-Hamburg, has left nearly 400,000 marks to various institutions Jewish and general, in that town. Of this amount 270,000 are deposited for the foundation of a home for educated women, especially pensioned teachers and widows of teachers. To the town museum he bequeathed his paintings and other works of art.

Chief Rabbi Adler of London writes: "I grieve to say that the outlook for my co-religionists on the Continent of Europe at the close of the nineteenth century is somewhat gloomy. Countries which boast of their civilization and enlightenment have witnessed a deplorable recrudescence of medieval prejudices and racial animosities. But we have faith in God, and, therefore, in humanity, that the time cannot be distant when the nations will see and acknowledge the error of their ways."

The society for providing a Home for the Aged and Infirm in Albany, held its twenty-fifth anniversary session. The report read by the president showed it to be in a very flourishing condition, with a balance of $43,000 in its treasury. The society has a membership of 462.

Samuel Lewis, the famous English money-lender, left a request in his will that his wife give in her own name $2,000,000 to provide dwellings for the poor of all creeds, $1,250,000 to the Prince of Wales's Hospital Fund, $500,000 to the Jewish Board of Guardians of London, and $1,000,000 to various hospitals.

The directors of the Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum are anxious to provide accommodation for twice as many wards as they have now room for. They contemplate raising $200,000 for the purpose. The ball held last week, the proceeds of which will go the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, netted over $6,000.

Mark Twain addressed a meeting of the friends of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls held in Temple Emanu El, New York.

Henri de Blowitz, the Paris correspondent of the London Times, although of Jewish stock, is a devout Roman Catholic, and strenuously denies the recent rumors of his recanting. His connection with the Times dates from 1871.

Rev. James A. Duncan delivered a sermon from the pulpit of Mizpah Congregation at Chattanooga, Tenn. He said in part: "Each nation has its message for the world. The message of Greece was refinement and culture; the message of Rome, law, order and the art of colonization and organization. The message of Israel," he said, "was the greatest of all; that of the existence of the one living God, the truth that holds and will hold through all eternity."

Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Historical Society, suggested that donations and bequests should make it possible to enable competent persons to devote their time to particular phases of research along the lines mapped out by the society so as to build up a museum of Jewish antiquities, which should be placed in the care of the oldest existing congregation in America, the Shearith Israel of New York.

The ninth annual meeting of the Hebrew Free Loan Association of New York was held last week. The society gained five hundred new members and thirteen patrons and life members, including Oscar Straus, in the last year. Among the larger gifts received in the course of the year were $3,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, $2,000 from Leonard Lewisohn, $2,000 from the Baroness Hirsch Fund, $1,000 from Marcus Goldman and $500 from William Solomon. The gifts have been considerably augmented since the meeting. Loans are made in small amounts to the deserving poor, without interest, so that they are able to get a "start" in life, by helping themselves through individual efforts.

The forty-sixth anniversary of the Jewish Home in New Orleans was celebrated with great éclat. Many visiting Rabbis attended.

I. Zangwill has an interesting thought anent Zionism and Judaism.

"Apart from its political working, Zionism forces upon the Jew a question the Jew hates to face.

"Without a rallying center, geographical or spiritual; without Synhedrion; without any principle of unity or of political action; without any common standpoint about the Old Book; without even ghetto walls built by his friend, the enemy—it is impossible for Israel to persist further, except by a miracle—of stupidity.

"It is a wretched thing for a people to be saved only by its persecutors or its fools. As a religion, Judaism has still magnificent possibilities, but the time has come when it must be de-nationalized or re-nationalized."

Dr. Lowber, speaking at the Central Christian Church in Austin, Texas, on "The Hebrew Ideal Marriage," said: "It is a great mistake to suppose that the Old Testament teaches polygamy, for the first two chapters of Genesis teach God's primal law of marriage—one man for one woman."

Among the bills introduced by the New York State Legislature was one by Senator Ahearn, providing that all advertisements required to be printed under Greater New York charter act shall be inserted in a daily Jewish newspaper published in New York.

In most of the temples and synagogues of the land, the Rabbis at the weekly services mentioned Queen's Victoria's death, and spoke of her as being a tolerant queen and a good woman.

One thousand dollars was the highest price paid for a box at the sale for the annual bill of the Purim Association for the benefit of the United Hebrew Charities to be held at the Metropolitan Opera House on February 14th. The sale netted $7,500, only the lower tier being sold.

Baron William C. Rothschild, the virtual head of the great banking firm, established at Frankfort, a. M., Germany, died at the advanced age of 73. He was noted for his piety and magnanimity, and was universally esteemed and respected.

The oldest Jewish religious organization in Boston is the present Temple Ohave Sholom.

Jew baiters at Schoenau, Bohemia, recently burned the synagogue and three textile factories belonging to Jews. The outrage caused the death of ten persons. Five thousand persons were thrown out of work and the property loss will amount to half a million kronen.

Most recent investigations have demonstrated the fact that the Queen of Spain did not sell her jewels to fit out the expedition which, under Columbus, discovered for Europe a new world. A converted Jew, Santangel, furnished the needed money, and also convinced the queen that she ought to encourage the undertaking.

There is a tradition current among the members of the royal family of England that it is a branch of the ancient house of David.

Mr. Jacob Fishel has been elected mayor of Ocala, Fla.

A new reform congregation has been organized at Harrisburg, Pa.

A number of clergymen of this city, including Bishops Potter, Farley and McDonnell and Rabbi Silverman, have forwarded a protest to Gov. Odell against abolishing the State Board of Charities as unconstitutional. They say that such a course would be "unwise, uncalled for, and, in the true sense of the word, impolitic."

The Hebrew benevolent societies of Baltimore, have appointed a committee to secure a building for offices of the several charitable organizations. It is thought a great deal of time and trouble can be saved by concentrating the offices in one building.

At the last meeting of Mt. Sinai Hospital Corporation of New York, the president's report proved interesting. It showed that 3,352 patients were admitted, 2,584 of them being free patients. In the dispensary 8,648 patients were treated. The expenses of the hospital and dispensary were $135,272.31 and the receipts were $136,538.69. It was announced that the new hospital would probably be finished in a year. It will cost $1,800,000, and President Wallach announced that $1,190,831.76 had already been subscribed to pay for it. Among the gifts to the hospital during the year were $75,000 from Meyer Lehman for a new dispensary building, $125,000 from Henry L. Einstein for a children's pavilion $200,000 from Barbara Guggenheim for a private hospital building, $20,000 from Benjamin Stern for an operating room and $50,000 from Adolph Lewisohn for a pathological department.

Gov. Hunn, of Delaware, is considering the appointment of Moses Weil, of Wilton, to be one of the magistrates of that city.

The Y. M. H. A. of St. Louis, is negotiating for a new site for its building. The association is in a flourishing condition having nearly 500 members, an increase of 69 the past year.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale was the principal speaker at the opening of the charity fair in Boston in aid of the Jewish Hospital.

The design for the monument to Baron de Hirsch has already been accepted. The sculptor's conception is highly artistic and effective. A female figure in bronze, heroic size, typifying Philanthropy, is represented holding in her left arm a tablet on which are engraved the features of the Baron and Baroness. Before this figure is a smaller one, that of a child, representing posterity, placing on the tablet a bunch of palms. Bissell, the sculptor of several New York statues, is the artist.

The Council of Jewish Women which will meet in executive session in New Orleans from February 17th to 21st inclusive has sent out its official programme, subject however to some minor changes and modifications. The Crescent City and all the southern sections of the Council of Jewish Women are deeply interested in the arrangements for the reception of the hundreds of guests.

An expedition will be fitted out to excavate and explore the ancient "Ur of the Chaldees," Abraham's early home. Modern methods of excavation, with the use of wire cables for the removal of the dirt, will be employed and it is expected that the entire temple of the Moon God will soon be laid bare. A map of Southern Babylonia and a collection of the fauna and flora will be attempted, and it is hoped that valuable literary treasures of the time of "the Father of the Faithful" and earlier will be discovered. Abraham, in fact, in the light of data obtained in recent excavations near Babylon, is almost a modern character. His period is a comparatively late one in the history of the cradle of our civilization. Nevertheless our knowledge of it is too scanty and excavations at Ur are likely to give useful data.

RABBINICAL SCHOLARSHIP

Written advertisements for Rabbis as they appear in our journals speak not only for themselves but for the unwritten ones also, to some extent.

Has it, or does it, ever occur to a congregation in search of an incumbent in its pulpit, when it publishes, unabashed, the qualifications it looks for as to age, married condition, and previous record, to ask that none but a real, earnest spiritual leader need apply? It will unhesitatingly state every monetary condition involved, the amount of salary, almost the cost of prayer-books used, and that traveling expenses will be paid to successful candidates only. But never a hint or suggestion as to the soul requirements or the spiritual condition of the congregation.

The very atmosphere is tainted with the microbes of commercialism. The acts of the congregations as recorded in the minute-books are reeking with the suggestion of dollar-bills. If, unhappily, the temple is weighed down by a mortgage, the spirit of the store, shop and bank is present at every meeting of trustees, committees and the general body. Hermes has then his greatest triumphs. The penalties are carefully weighed in the imagination of every son of Jacob, they are balanced in the minds of those present, and it is thought God's greatest and noblest task set to man, to make the income meet expenses. The combined efforts of the tradesmen of the town, the business instincts of the leading commercial firms of the city are brought into requisition to suggest ways and means of retrenching and coming clear of debts. Then Glory, Hallelujah!

The very absentees at a service, for many make it a habit to stay away, perhaps in order to show both their liberality, inasmuch as for seats which they occupy but a few times a year they pay their full annual dues, and their liberalism, inasmuch as they are above being bound to a synagogue all the year round, these stay-aways are pleased to be present at the consideration of problems which are so interesting and important as the finances of the congregation.

But when it is asked at meetings and deliberations, at caucuses and conclaves, "are we controlling our baser selves and striving to form our better selves, by soul-culture and spiritual development?" Far from that. With admirable complacency each tells himself that he is perfectly "good," that personally he needs neither synagogue nor temple, but that for the sake of appearances and in order to make a showing of a respectable kind to the Christians of his city, he does his duty like a true Israelite and worthy Hebrew by helping to support the congregation.

When is it asked at councils and gatherings, "what have we done to-day as good Jews to merit the rewards of our conscience?" Again one is met by a self-satisfied smile and possibly a reference to the sewing societies which fashionable ladies organize for the poor, to the contributions to the coal fund, to the grocery fund, to a charity society or two, to the orphan asylum or hospital, to a burying society, to a chevra or something with which each is in some way connected or which each helps to maintain. But never a word about self-advancement and cultivation of the spirit.

With the greatest sang froid a member of the congregation will offer advice to the minister. He as a business man knows what is wanted of a Rabbi. The latter must, even if it is only for the sake of appearances, assume a religious air in order to seem to be what people expect him to be. He should try to win over everybody to his side. By hook or by crook he must make friends, because then he will be liked, and people will give him their patronage and their votes, a most desirable thing for a man who makes his profession his sole business in life.

Never is the advice given to study, by even the best of friends. "Try to please," not "try to instruct." "Attempt to satisfy your audience with giving them what they crave for," not "make them more spiritually minded, or soulfully devout."

When such counsel is everywhere and on all sides imparted, what will the young Rabbi naturally do? He cannot but be led away from the pursuit of deeper knowledge and more thorough scholarship by the demands thus constantly made of him. The ideal, if ever cherished, is crushed out of all semblance. Hopes of the highest kind are supplanted by the more material ambition to achieve success, to be crowned with laurel wreaths by popular acclaim, to enjoy unbounded praise and be hailed as the man who by virtue of his merited applause from the world in general, may command a large salary.

The judgment of which money was the index, the advice, the object of which was the getting of money, the applause which eventually took the shape of money—all are of a kind to throttle every spiritual element in the man, to stifle the voice which calls loudly to the Rabbi to attain to scholarship.

Sentiment and feeling are reduced to charity. The last is even made to stand for all religion. The Rabbis of old have well said that the rich man is indebted to the poor one even more than the latter is to the former, because the rich man by alms-giving has the opportunity of buying a Mitsvah. And truly in our present condition the obligation is very great. The proverbial cloak of charity covers many a sin. Everything gives way, everything may be done, where charity is involved. That is the sum and substance of most people's religion. Their spirituality knows no higher law of abnegation and temperance than the gift of a pittance, or perhaps a large sum, to the poor.

Where is your wealth, you doves? Not in spiritual treasures, surely; not in the accumulation of the rich gifts of God and nature which the possession of a soul can confer upon you. Often you do not even ask yourself "how came I by the fortune, a tithe of which I spend so lavishly on men and institutions?"

If, then, that is the material of which congregations are made, if these great financiers are, by virtue of their simply being such, the leaders of the masses, how do you expect Rabbis to be more than they actually are, falling short of the ideal

RABBI JACOB JOSEPH.

הכהן הגדול מאחיו—גדולתו משל אהיו

"The priest that is greater than his brethren—His brethren must make him great."

It is with mingled feelings of astonishment and indignation, that we hear of the lamentable state in which Rabbi Jacob Joseph, recently Chief Rabbi of the United Orthodox Congregations of this city, is at present. He has been ill several years and unable to leave his room, but recently it has been reported that the congregation which elected him with so much pomp and gratuitous self-advertisement, a few years ago, have now entirely forsaken him, so that he and his family are actually in need of means to defray their living expenses and those of the necessary medical treatment.

If this is true, this is Orthodoxy with a vengeance. It certainly looks very peculiar for gentlemen who claim that they have such high respect for Talmudic learning and Jewish piety, and who themselves are so extremely zealous in attending the synagogue and worshipping and so extremely particular about the kosher character of their food, to be utterly callous and indifferent to the material and financial needs of him whom they chose in order to be their guide in their religion and the faith of their ancestors. If these reports are true, the facts are a disgrace of the blackest kind to alleged Russian Polish Orthodoxy. It may, however, be that they are exaggerated. We sincerely trust that such is the case, or, if true, they may be more owing to carelessness or lack of organization, than to actual indifference or heartlessness. Whichever be the cause of this evil state of affairs, it should certainly be remedied. The adherents and followers of Rabbi Joseph have the imperative duty of seeing that he is properly maintained and cared for and that he suffer not for any of the necessities of life. Under present circumstances it does not appear to be exactly "a soft snap" to be an orthodox Rabbi. We may make here an inverted kalvechomer, that is to say, a conclusion from the major to the minor. If the Orthodox Chief Rabbi has nothing to eat, what must be the case with Orthodox Rabbis who haven't got the epithet "Chief" tacked to their title. But, in all seriousness, this is an abuse which calls for a radical and speedy remedy.

Orthodoxy needs Rabbis. However little its adherents may come up to its true teachings, Orthodox Judaism is the true faith of Israel. It inculcates the noblest principles of conduct and action and it teaches the highest respect and reverence for its spiritual guides who serve their Heavenly Master so arduously and uncomplainingly, and it desires that they be maintained in a state of comfort and dignity befitting the high nature of their office.

As the quotation from the Talmud at the head of this column puts it, "If the priest is to be great, his brethren must make him great."

We hope that steps will immediately be taken to make the position of Rabbi Jacob Joseph more tolerable, and, altogether, we trust that the entire question of the Orthodox Rabbinate will speedily find an adequate and proper solution.

If the Union of Orthodox Hebrew Congregations, which recently held its convention in this city, is looking for some work to perform, here is something which we would recommend it at once to take up.

OJALA'S NEW MAYOR.

Looking backward from the dawn of the twentieth century, there is not a race of human beings extant who have as much to be proud of as the Jews. For over seventeen centuries more warlike and powerful people have driven them broadcast over the earth, and even before that time the grasping power of Rome had deprived them, even in their own land, of all the best of the Mosaic laws

Driven by bigotry and intolerance to the uttermost ends of the earth, and to the islands of the sea, a sojourner in every country and in every clime, they stand to-day the one solitary instance in human history of a race thus scattered, and still a race. The Jew in any country, under any government, good or bad, makes the ideal citizen. He adapts himself readily to his surroundings, closes many of the habits peculiar to his race, but he never forgets the covenant between God and Abraham. Bold is he who would deny the truth of the promise, "I will make thy seed as the stars of heaven and as the sands of the seashore."

Not only has the race produced Solomon, David and Saul, but it has given to the world the founder of the greatest and best religion mankind has ever known. It has given to the world its greatest kings of finance, and is the greatest creditor, of those governments who oppress them most.

From the destruction of Jerusalem and its temple by Titus to the election of Mr. Fishel as Mayor of Ocala, the Jewish women have been models of virtue and chastity, and it is due to them that the blood of the race to-day is as pure and undefiled as on that morning when the Chaldean shepherd said to his companions, "Let us go even unto Bethlehem and see these things which the Lord hath made known to us." Every step in the advancement of Ocala has been marked by the footprints of the Hebrew, and it is difficult to say what it might have been had they not aided in every movement for the city's good.

Then, I say, it is only just and fair that we have honored one of them with the highest office in the gift of our city. So let us at this, the beginning of the twentieth century, take off our hats to Israel (not Jake) and invoke the blessings of Heaven on our new mayor.—ALLAN RODGERS in the Ocala Times, Florida.

George W. Ochs, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was decorated by the French government with the Legion of Honor. The decoration was conferred on account of the notable success achieved by Mr. Ochs in publishing the exposition edition of the New York Times. This is the first time such an honor has been conferred on an American journalist.

Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society.

The opening of 136th street, west of Amsterdam avenue, has necessitated the demolition of the old hospital, and the demand for the erection of a new hospital for the use of the wards of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society is most urgent.

In order to accomplish this object it is essential that a fund of $100,000 be raised.

It is many years since this institution has appealed to the public for aid, notwithstanding the fact that since the original building was erected it built out of its own funds a new extension, at a cost of nearly $250,000, and has made many improvements in the property. The funds it has at present are needed for the general purposes of the institution, and could not be made available for the construction of the new hospital without a great sacrifice.

The urgent need for an isolated hospital, as required by law, is one that strongly appeals to the liberality of the Israelites of this metropolis, and we have no doubt that their prompt response to the appeal will enable the directors of the Orphan Asylum to provide a suitable hospital for their wards.

Contributions may be sent to Mr. Louis Stern, Chairman of the Subscription Committee, 36 W. 23d street.

The Sabbath Observance Association.

A very interesting and successful public meeting of this Society was held on last Tuesday evening at the Seventy-second street synagogue. Interesting because of the large attendance and by reason of an incident which characterizes its work and platform. There was an unusual array of true, earnest representatives of our pulpit supporters, such as Reverends Dr. Ascher, Mendes, Morals, and the minister of the synagogue, Dr. Vidaver. Dr. Blumenthal also spoke and presided as chairman. One of the speakers in carefully chosen words suggested concession and compromise on the question of the desecration of the Seventh day Sabbath! but he was promptly and very positively shown to be wrong—absolutely illogical from the basis of Judaism—and false to the command of the Torah. There is but one position on this question possible for the Israelite who believes in God and in the truth of our Law and that is: obedience to His behests! and, neither bargaining for more or less portion of the day—nor surrender to the materialistic and commercial—so-called —demands of the times, can or should stand as against our first duty: obedience to God and His Laws; a duty Israel owes to himself, his ancestry, his history and to posterity.

Deep interest was shown in the society's efforts and a number of applications for membership were handed in.

Another important feature of the meeting was the presence of many ladies who are now also eligible to membership, and whose example and influence as mothers, wives and daughters in Israel, is of paramount importance.

The work must go bravely on, until such a phalanx of self respecting Sons and Daughters of Israel shall be formed as will stand not alone against further disintegration, but as a focus and centre to the rehabilitation of our sacred Sabbath, and the elevation of the faithful in the eyes of God and man. Public School Graduation Exercises.

The graduating class of the girls' department of Public School No. 2, in Henry street, held its closing exercises last Friday afternoon, the 25th ult. The class consists of thirty-three girls, all but one of whom are Jewesses, and who will now enter the High School. In consideration of the religious affiliations of the majority of the scholars, Miss O'Brien, the principal, had thought it proper to select a Jewish minister to deliver the address to the graduates, and had conferred that honor upon the Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman of Congregation Zichron Ephraim. Dr. Drachman spoke most impressively and urged the graduates to be worthy of the traditions of their Hebrew ancestors, and also of their high privilege as Americans. Addresses were also made by Dr. S. Schaffner, of the Board of Superintendents; Mr. S. Homan and Dr. L. Gordon and Mrs. S. Leveridge. The exercises were highly interesting. Miss Cyrilla Pearlman had the highest standing in the class, and delivered the valedictory.

The Death of Mrs. Sulzberger.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Sulzberger, wife of our well-known co-religionist, Solomon Sulzberger, brought together one of the largest body of mourners that has attended a similar service in many years. Temple Beth-El was filled with men and women representing the great Hebrew charitable institutions of this city, while the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith was represented by the president of the order, Leo N. Levi, the president of the Grand Lodge of District No. 1, Dr. S. B. Wolfe, and the officers and members of the general committee, the Society of Past Presidents of District No. 1, many members of the Grand Lodge and of Zion Lodge as well as a large number of members of the fraternity. The services were of a character commensurate with the occasion, Rev. Drs. Kohler and Shulman conducting the ceremonies. At the services at the house of mourning during the week throngs of friends of the family by their presence paid a tribute to the memory of the deceased.

Attention is called to the fifty-sixth annual statement of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., which is published in another column of this paper. A comparison of this statement with that of Jan. 1, 1900, reveals a healthy and satisfactory growth of the company's transactions during the year 1900. Its premium receipts were $10,411,362.11, an increase of $454,554.62 over those of 1899; its payment to policyholders for policy claims and dividends amounted to $8,011,241.80; its assets on a par value basis increased from $69,419,717.78 to $72,958,022.21; and its surplus on a par value basis from $4,579,010.54 to $4,771,918.87. Valuing the company's assets at their market value, its surplus is $6,125,364.91, an increase of $499,671.69. The number of policies in force increased by 6,391, and the amount of insurance outstanding by $12,905,167.

Union Lodge, No. 73, K. S. B.

Quite an enjoyable affair was the reunion and banquet of this Lodge on Sunday Evening last at Majestic Hall. At an early hour the Grand Lodge officers and those of Union Lodge assembled together with invited guests of other Lodges and repaired to the banquet. After partaking of an excellent menu Mr. Louis K. Davidson introduced Grand President Joseph Adler as the toastmaster of the occasion, who briefly stated the main feature of the congregating had for its object the amalgamation of those lodges numerically weak, into one lodge, and called on M. W. Platzek, the Past Grand President, to address the assemblage on that subject, and to which he responded, setting forth in forcible language the great necessity for the immediate action in that particular. He was followed by William Bernard and J. Joel of the Executive Committee, Charles Monks, Grand Treasurer, M. Greenbaum Grand Secretary, and A. M. Rotholz. The most interesting feature of the evening was the sensible remarks set forth by the ex-President of Zebulon Lodge, Bro. Jackson, one of the oldest veterans of the order (which lodge, by the way, has lately amalgamated with Union Lodge). His remarks, which were in German, were listened to with marked attention, interpolated by an anecdote on that true Jewish principle "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," and at its conclusion received with great applause. Other visiting brethren also responded on the subject of the evening and stated they would use their endeavors to acquire the desired results. It was truly an enjoyable and pleasant occasion; there was naught lacking, even the sweet strains of harmonious melody furnished by a portion of Seidl's orchestra, and all this was properly arranged by the chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, Mr. Louis K. Davidson, whose ability has on all occasions called for more than passing praise. The gentleman referred to has been treasurer of the lodge for over twenty years, and to him is due the credit of placing the lodge before the order with a fund of over twelve thousand dollars at interest besides a large fund at its ready command. He was ably assisted by Past President Julius Lachman, who is another indefatigable worker, and yet these could not get along without the wisdom and sound judgment of Past President and member of the executive, Mr. Alexander Goldberg. The worthy President, Mr. Isaac Golland, wields the gavel with a gentle hand, and while he does not give much expression to views, his eyes speak volumes. Union Lodge has been fortunate in having as Past President one whom everybody knows, Mr. Adolphus Karelsen, also well known in and about Mt. Vernon Lodge, F. S. of I., familiarly called "Dolly." In years past he was dubbed the "Historian of Union Lodge, No. 73," and he justly deserves the title, for he brought the Book of Chronicles with him for this occasion. Yet above all in this prominent event must be mentioned that Prince of Secretaries whose abilities for over twenty-five years past have placed him in the foremost ranks, and without Past President Harry Newman there would be no Union Lodge. In fact, the lodges have such confidence in him (and justly too), that they all want him to accept a life position. The lodge may be proud of its officers, for such peace, harmony and unanimity is seldom found in any organization. Invoking a blessing, that the consummation of their wishes may be fulfilled, the band struck up "Auld Lang Syne" and the reunion closed with pleasant recollections of January 27, 1901.

Annual Meeting of the Mt. Sinai Hospital Association.

The annual meeting of the Mt. Sinai Hospital Association was held on Sunday morning in the dispensary building, 149 East Sixty-seventh street, and was largely attended.

The following officers and directors were re-elected: President, Isaac Wallach; vice-president, Isaac Stern; treasurer, E. Ashel; secretary, Louis M. Josephthal; directors, for the term of four years, Isaac Blumenthal, Louis Stix, Isaac N. Heidelberg, Adolph Herrmann and David Wile.

A supplementary report presented by the Building Committee announced that the awards for the new buildings at One Hundred and First street and Madison avenue had been made, and that the work would go on speedily. It was learned that of the $1,650,000 required all but $300,000 had been secured up to two weeks ago. Since that time the Board of Directors has subscribed $75,000 leaving only $225,000 lacking, which, it is thought, will be readily secured.

Isaac Wallach, the president, presented the annual report.

The statistics of the hospital showed that the total number of patients treated during the year was 3,352. Of that number 1,963 were discharged cured. Accident cases treated, not included in the above, were 592. The percentage of patients treated gratuitously was 80.60. In the dispensary there were 86,431 consultations, and 77,663 prescriptions were filled. Two hundred and fifty-three patients were treated in the outdoor department.

The total expenses of the hospital and dispensary were $136,271.31. The assets include the plot of ground on One Hundred and One Hundred and First streets, Fifth and Madison avenues, for the new buildings, $637,637.57, less mortgage of $80,000, $457,637.57; invested in bond and mortgage on property in City of New York, $142,000; cash in hands of treasurer $10,238.09; total, $609,925.66. Also $5,000 in bonds of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society, $600 in bonds of the Freundschaft Club, and the hospital and dispensary buildings in use, free from incumbrances; $693,914.31 is held in trust for the building fund. The total receipts for the fiscal year were $136,536.64, and the disbursements were $135,272.31, leaving an excess for the support account of $1,264.33.

With regard to the new hospital buildings Mr. Wallach said:

"It has been and is our aim to push this great work with all possible vigor to an early conclusion. The buildings will be begun immediately after the estimates upon the new specifications are accepted. The modifications of our plans and the lower cost of materials at the present time will enable us with some additional aid from our friends to complete a work the fruition of which will be a pride to our city and a glory to our people."

The entire subscriptions to the building fund aggregate the sum of $1,190,931.76. The family of the late Meyer Lehman gave $75,000 and will add as much more as may be required for the dispensary building. Henry L. Einstein has dedicated the children's pavilion, giving $125,000 for its erection. The private hospital will be dedicated in perpetuity to the memory of Barbara Guggenheim, for which purpose $200,000 was subscribed by Meyer Guggenheim and his sons. Benjamin Stern has subscribed $20,000 for the equipment of the main operating room, in memory of the late Bernard Stern, and Adolph Lewishohn gives $50,000 and as much more as is necessary for the pathological building. In addition, he has of-

THE HEBREW STANDARD.

As we go to press Wednesday evening, local notices, to secure insertion, must reach us before seven that day.

Habits are more easily contracted than subtracted.

A Jewish journal is the index of communal thought as well as institutions.

Orthodoxy is orthodoxy and nothing else. It is no compromise, no makeshift and no temporizing matter.

Join a congregation and do your best to cultivate the feeling of loyalty for your faith and of unity with your co-religionists.

Shape your lives in accordance with the best standards of conduct, not in accordance with a desire how most conscientiously to play the hypocrite.

קשה מיותרו של אדם מקרי עת' א' סוף Is the saying of the Talmud. Truly many a man realizes that his struggle for support is as difficult as the dividing of the Red Sea.

When the "Jewish Jest Book" is published the author will kindly note the fact, that the appointment of Rabbi Friedman, of Denver, as Professor of Semitics, is the latest joke of the season.

"In days of old when knights were bold" the dear wives and daughters were relegated to the galleries. In these modern days of trembling fathers and husbands, ladies are even counted in forming a minyan.

Is it any wonder that Rabbi Charley proved a failure in Boston? He preached upon Anti-Imperialism, Society, Political Economy, Civic Government, etc., anything but Judaism. Will the "half baked" glean the moral from Charley's sad fate?

At a conference in Manchester, England, having in view the building of a hospital, a layman speaking of ministers said that "though they were very religious, they were not good business men."

There are some men here who think that that description does not fit the American rabbinate. They are either not religious and not business men, or they are simply good business men.

CONSTANCY.

"And Moses said unto the people: Fear ye not! Stand firm, and see the salvation of the Lord!"—Exodus, xiv., 13.

One of the happiest traits in man is constancy, just as fickleness is one of the most reprehensible. With the constant man we know where we are when he has given his word or made known his standpoint; but the fickle-minded will disappoint us when we most trust him. This was a lesson that Israel had to learn as they departed from Egypt. After they had seen all that was done in Egypt in their behalf by Moses and Aaron, and they were being led out from slavery to liberty, they still were afraid when they saw themselves pursued by the Egyptians and cried out in anguish before Moses: "Why hast thou brought us out to die in the wilderness—would we were in Egypt as slaves! It were far better than to die in the wilderness!" (or words to that effect)

Moses must have felt the stinging blow thus dealt him! He had sacrificed comfort and ease for them and worked hard to liberate them, and now this people had not yet learned to trust in God and rely on his leadership, and he gently but constantly called to them: "Fear not! Stand ye firm! and see the salvation of the Lord!"

The first thing was, not to fear; next, to stand firm; then, to see the help of God. There are people today, who when their fear is overcome can calmly resume an undertaken task. Then again there are some who fear not—they are bold enough to go ahead, but their inconsistency leads them astray. Thus it is obviously necessary to note the monition of Moses: Fear not, as you are now to go onward; nothing will befall you; but you must stand firm, not be wavering and doubting.

If your mind is made up that you are on the right track, that you pursue the right course, then stand firm and turn neither to the right nor to the left. If on the other hand, you are still not clear in your mind, then see what he had done for you hitherto, and if not for you, for others; eventually you too will see his salvation.

This is as applicable to-day as it ever was. Religion leads us out to freedom; but very often we find ourselves as if pursued by the foe, bent upon depressing our spirits—we feel as if we were losing ground on account of our religious persuasion and we are tempted to cry to our teacher whose precepts we follow, "You have taught us to be religious, now see where we are? We miss numerous advantages and lose countless opportunities!" But the same trustful declaration occurs to us: "Fear not! Be firm! and See the salvation of God!"

First you must discard that sordid dread that you will fare worse than your competitor if you will not desecrate your Sabbath. You are a Jew and you must stand firm! Have you not seen, even if you have not experienced it yourself, how you father, or some one else, clung tenaciously to his religion and yet prospered. Why not you? Even to-day, look around you and see how many honest and true people are constant in their faith as Jews, observe scrupulously their religion and it seems that God helps them. Why don't you try it? "Fear not!" and if you have no fear anyway then "Be firm!" Stand for your religion and God! And "See!" apply experience and reason to your duty, and God will help you. To-day, if you trust in him! The Lord forsakes not his faithful servants!

WHAT NEXT?

In the mad rush to adopt reform innovations, congregations, led by over-zealous and infatuated Rabbis, go to any length however absurd.

In the course of time by force of circumstances the deluded community feels that it has come to the end of the reform tether.

The Sunday Services, which were instituted with so much glamour and show, to which young ladies flocked because young men went there, and vice versa, where the non-believing Christian and the sceptical Jew equally found themselves at home, because "destruction" was the motto, the Bible was ridiculed, faith was called superstition and science exalted to the skies, in a short time began to lose their popularity, the preacher's stock-in-trade was exhausted and a general diminution of interest followed.

At a special meeting of the leading radical-congregation in Boston, it was decided to do away with the Sunday night lectures, probably because of the lack of interest shown by the public at large.

The congregation had made every effort at conducting its experiments successfully. The former Rabbi, Dr. Schindler, was a radical of radicals, consorted with the liberals and flirted with unitarian Christianity. The Jews themselves soon tired of him and the reverend gentleman had to ask for his walking-papers. He got them and the congregation got Fleischer. In the beginning all was rosy and bright. Throngs flocked to hear the young and socially popular graduate of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati. Now, after six and a half years of descent, dismal failure is admitted by all concerned.

What next? You have destroyed. Can you build up, as well?

ON ANOTHER'S DOMAIN.

If the Rev. Madison C. Peters does not take good care of himself, a number of progressive Rabbis are liable to boycott him or cause him no end of trouble. What will Levy of Philadelphia, Krauskopf of the same city, Grossman of New York, and a host of others do, now that the Christian gentleman is out with a lecture on "What the Jew has done for the World?" He is evidently stealing their thunder, for there is nothing that a general Jewish audience like better to hear. This may, however, be a quid pro quo. For have not Jewish clergymen begun to speak of "Jesus," of "the Master," of the "Great Rabbi," the "Gentle Nazarene," the "Crucifixion" and of Christianity?

THE NATIONAL HOSPITAL FOR CONSUMPTIVES IN DENVER.

Dr. Lee K. Frankel's report of a year ago showing the extent of the prevalence of that dread disease, consumption, among the poor of our people was most significant.

The charities are often compelled to send their applicants to the Denver hospital for treatment and care. By such dismissal the duty of the community towards the afflicted ones seems to end.

Our western co-religionists by patience and perseverance, by much canvassing and pleading, have been enabled to provide for the needs of those directly affected. After considerable travail the National Jewish Hospital was founded and, to a certain extent, established.

But the funds for its maintenance are not sufficient for its needs. The hospital is not a local affair. It is a national project, appealing to all communities for support.

New York City and Brooklyn together furnish about 32 per cent. of the patients. But Greater New York so fairly represented on the sick list is not so conspicuously noted on the subscription list.

Of 148, the whole number of patients admitted to the Hospital in Denver, Col., 48 have come from Brooklyn and New York. The figures show something most conclusively, that the proportion must be equalized by greater assistance rendered by New York and its charities.

If we undertake the full care of our poor, and no city is, or ought to be, as proud as New York is on that score, their sickness, and their necessitated removal to a more salubrious climate, should not mean the suspension of all efforts to aid them.

Either privately or publicly New York Jews should feel called upon to assist more extensively in the support of the national Jewish Hospital located in Denver, Col. It is called national because its inmates may come from anywhere or everywhere in the Union. And everybody is called upon to help a national institution.

STRENUOUS!

The American business man who takes neither time nor trouble to indulge himself in the real comforts of life and leisure.

The paterfamilias for whom no effort is too great to accumulate a fortune on the plea that he must take care of his family.

The rich man's son who loses no time, but dissipates every moment of his career in having "a good time" and sowing his wild oats.

The matron who, in order to discharge her social duties and to return attentions shown her, neglects the religion of her children and the household.

The young society miss who rolls, skips and hops from one function to another, from one social assemblage to another, without taking time for a single serious thought.

The minister who attends Bar Mitzvahs, engagement parties, weddings, funerals, makes his social calls, teaches classes by the score and keeps track of everybody and everything.

The politician whose nights are spent away from home in the company of other "good fellows," who are also strangers to their children, or are confirmed stayers-out-at-night.

The active member of a woman's club who must rack her brain how to bring out on her person the latest novelties in dress and headgear and yet appear solemnly intellectual in converse and in written essays.

The woman euche or poker player, who loses all feminine charms in the exercise of her gambling passion, who every day is apprehensive lest the afternoon will pass away without her playing.

A UNIQUE INSTITUTION.

We print elsewhere a report of the annual meeting of the Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association, and desire here to give a few reflections upon this unique work, which seems to gain increased public sympathy with each succeeding year.

Mr. Leonard Lewisohn after the annual meeting found that his first check of $2,000 sent last as if to try the society, was so well employed and so adequately secured that he has forwarded an additional contribution of $5,000; his brother, Mr. Adolph Lewisohn, has followed his example with a modest "starter" of $1,000. Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, who has up to this time contributed about $12,000, came out with a new proposition in offering the Society $5,000 to be used as a fund from which loans could be made to persons who are unable to procure endorsement of a note as security.

The Society is, however, now meditating upon the acceptance of this new proposition, as it seems to be in conflict with the objects of the Society and its constitutional provisions.

The cardinal principle of the Society is to administer a charitable work on a new and scientific basis, the main object being not to humiliate the applicant in the least possible manner. The plan of Mr. Schiff, while emanating from a noble motive, would however necessitate an inquiry into the character of the applicant, investigation into and passing judgment upon his needs, his merits, etc.; that would naturally be a deviation from the chosen path; and a thoughtful deliberation upon the subject is certainly most advisable.

We would welcome suggestions in our columns upon this topic.

To the Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association and its efficient and zealous Board, we say "Bravo! God's speed to you!"

Our Russian brethren have shown that they deserve public notice and appreciation by their many noble deeds in our metropolis, and the Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association stands as the grandest illustration of their idealistic tendencies.

The interests of the community are best served when you display your public spirit. One's own interests are best served by the tacit support the community accords the individual.

THE ALLIANCE ISRAELITE
UNIVERSELLE.

The primary object of the "Alliance" is to defend the honor of the Jewish name whenever and wherever attacked, while it has no religious propaganda to disseminate. Domestic or municipal regulations of foreign countries are not meddled with in any manner, still there is a moral power in the interest of liberty and civilization which applied whenever there is occasion for its exercise, the effects of which, in many instances, have been both marked and decisive.

The "Alliance" encourages all forms of honorable labor as a means of livelihood, and discourages ignorance and accompanying vice by the establishment of schools, and thereby creates a moral atmosphere which permeates the deepest recesses of diseased and ignoble surroundings. It endeavors to emancipate our brethren who are under the yoke of special enactments, merely because they happen to be Jews in faith, while their patriotism goes unchallenged, and to this end gives encouragement to all proper modes calculated to throw light into that almost impenetrable darkness which breeds a fungus growth of illiberality and cruelty, with results broadening out into expatriation or the alternative of starvation and death of the victims under the unprotecting flag of the countries wherein they are born, which is manifested to-day in benighted and cruel Roumania and Russia.

The "Alliance" is made the vehicle for the interchange of information relating to Israelites everywhere, the central office and its branches being always willing to answer all proper questions, whether of a public or private nature.

It is the only International organization of its kind in existence, and, emphasizing the trite axiom that all Jews are responsible for each other, encouragement should be generously accorded, even when unsought, to the "Alliance," by a largely increased membership of sympathetic co-workers in the broad and productive field of helping the oppressed, righting wrongs, and demanding justice—simple, God-given justice, for all mankind alike.

Embraced in its work are the establishment and maintenance of Primary and Normal Schools for males and females; Industrial Schools, where suitable trades are taught, and are supplemented by agricultural training, based as far as possible upon modern methods; apprenticing its graduates; the establishment and maintenance of professional schools, dispensaries and hospitals in Jerusalem and wherever else most needed, and colonization, based upon well regulated systems in accord with the wishes of the residents of the countries in which emigrants are advised to locate.

A meeting will be held on Wednesday next, the 6th inst, at the Baron de Hirsch Trade School building, 222 East 64th Street, at eight o'clock, to give consideration to the important work done by the "Alliance," when prominent speakers, among them Mr.

Nisson Behar, of Paris, will address the assemblage, which is expected to be a very large one.

THE SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST.

No insurance company has been more persistently abused, villified, condemned, assailed, denounced and maligned and been subjected to more vituperation from the mouths and pens of the insurance fraternity, than the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association. Any other similar organization under the same circumstances, would ere this have been wiped from the face of the earth.

With the royal Psalmist they can well exclaim: "All nations compassed me about, but in the name of the Lord will I destroy them. They compassed me about like bees, they are quenched as the fire of thorns, etc."

After a stormy existence of two decades now under the skillful, economic and able management of its present president, Mr. Frederick A. Burnham, the Mutual Reserve illustrates the maxim of the "Survival of the Fittest," and proudly takes its stand among the foremost companies of the land.

Experience has taught them to avoid the rocks and shoals upon which other companies, established upon this principle have been wrecked and gone to inevitable destruction, and their present financial standing is so unassailable that they can defy the shafts of their enemies, and the malice of their opponents.

From a small beginning with an uncertain tenure of existence, they have in the past twenty years paid between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of death claims, have $1,000,000 policy holders and a capital of over $12,000,000, and notwithstanding the repeated examinations made by the various insurance departments from nearly every State of the Union at the instigation of their opponents, like Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, they have always come out from the fiery furnace strengthened, if anything, by the ordeal. Their report, which we publish in another column of this issue, is a gratifying statement and will tend to renew the confidence which their policy-holders have in them.

UP OR DOWN.

"After all, from Pulpit to Parnassus betoken an ascent, even as from Pulpit to Parnassus sometimes involves a humiliating descent."—London Jewish World.

We should rather say that the last transition ought to be spoken of as being a proud ascent, for here in this country there are but few ministers who would not prefer to occupy the seat of the Parnass. But if we would insist on the retention of the word "humiliating," and make it read humiliating ascent, the application could easily be made to the many Parnassim who like at every opportunity to humiliate the Rabbi.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Weak-Kneed Orthodoxy.

Editor Hebrew Standard:
I have followed the controversy in your columns upon "Weak-Kneed Orthodoxy" with deep interest. Your vigorous editorial of January 18th excited my admiration, for it is indeed refreshing, even as it is rare, in these days of flabby compromise, to see a manly championship of traditional Judaism.

In your kindness of heart I fear that you have been too ready to accept the explanation given to you of the position of the orthodox members of the Board of Ministers as regards Dr. Kohler's installation of Dr. Moses. You say: "We now learn from a reliable source that no action was taken by the Board, and it is therefore not responsible for Dr. Kohler representing it."

Granted that Dr. Kohler was not authorized to speak for the Board, the manifest duty of the orthodox members of the Board is to protest against his unauthorized action. If they really have the courage of their convictions, if they are truly jealous for the fair name of Orthodoxy, they will insist that, in future, their position on the Board shall not be rendered censurable through the indorsement of reform by any one acting in the name of the Board of Ministers.

I await, this protest. If it is entered, I shall cheerfully and gladly admit that the orthodox members of the Board have done all that loyalty to Orthodoxy requires. If there is no protest, I shall, with your permission, add a contribution to the literature on "Weak-Kneed Orthodoxy." OLD TIMER.

Editor of Hebrew Standard:

Your humble servant has a grievance, and, Am Haarety fashion, he rushes into print; mine, however, is "genuine." Your "typo" makes me say "Lamidim" in place of "Lamdoulm." I should have let it pass, but I see my learned friend Mr. "Gr." repeats it, and as a matter of course I don't quite relish it. Now, my dear Mr. "Gr.," to every word you write I most humbly say "Amen" but that, and all of that does not excuse one who is paid, whose first duty it is to set a good example, one who should be the pattern of the community, to do things, and act in public especially, as though he had no obligation whatever, and that it was something to be proud of, to violate every one of the הריני Mitzwoth, and on the slightest pretext even go so far as to explain why it was uncalled for (in this enlightened age, by the way) to fulfill any or all of those Mitzwoth you allude to. You, my dear Mr. "Gr.," I am quite sure, know some of those Rabbis as well as I do. Do you think such men can command respect? Do they deserve it? Respectfully, K.

OBITUARY.

Baron Wilhelm von Rothschild.

FRANKFORT, Jan. 25.—Baron Wilhelm von Rothschild, head of the German branch of the famous firm of that name, died here to-day at the age of seventy-three.

He was an uncle of three members of the London house of the Rothschilds and handled many of the largest German Government loans.

Baron Wilhelm von Rothschild was the grandson of Meyer Anselm Rothschild, who founded the great Rothschild banking house. His father, Karl, was one of the five sons of the founder, and established a branch of the business in Naples.

Wilhelm was the oldest son and was taken into the business by his uncle, Anselm, who had no son.

It is estimated that the Rothschild banking system represents about a billion dollars.

The Paris branch has a nominal capitalization of $10,000,000, but its resources can be surmised when it is said that, in 1841, it lost $60,000,000, but not for a moment was the house checked in its business.

The twenty Rothschild families in Europe, in spite of their numerous charities, cannot spend half their income. They have been ennobled in every European country but Russia.

The niece of the late Baron Wilhelm von Rothschild is the Princess of Wagram. Her husband is the grandson of Napoleon's famous Marshal, Berthier, whom he created Prince of Wagram, but bestowed upon him the sovereignty of the Principality of Neuchatel in order to enable him to contract a marriage with Marie, daughter of the King of Bavaria.

Bar Sinai's Jubilee.

An event looked forward to by the members of Har Sinai Lodge, No. 8, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, was the society's jubilee, which was recently celebrated with a public installation of officers, followed by an elaborate banquet and dance.

The first item of business was the installation of officers, which was presided over with befitting dignity and courtesy by District Grand President, Frederick L. Wormser, of Scranton, who invested the following brethren as officers for the ensuing year in the presence of a gathering of over two hundred members, their wives and lady friends. An original poem, written for the lodge for the occasion by Rev. Dr. S. M. Fleishman, who was absent, owing to illness, was read intelligently by Mrs. S. W. Salus.

Har Sinai Lodge was founded in 1850, with eight charter members and forty candidates for admission. The membership has steadily grown and shows great vigor. The contributions of the organization to Jewish charities, here and elsewhere, have been many and generous. To its initiative, the establishment of the Jewish Hospital of Philadelphia, in 1864, was largely due.

Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association.

The ninth annual meeting of this association took place at the auditorium of the Educational Alliance on Wednesday evening, the 23d of January.

It was a great event indeed; no one who is accustomed to visit annual meetings of charitable organizations has ever witnessed such a representation of membership and such enthusiastic participation in the affairs of society; every seat in the large auditorium was filled, and the Arrangement Committee, with Counsellor N. Alelnikoff as its chairman, had their hands full in keeping out the hundreds of people anxious to gain admission when all the standing room had been filled. A thousand attentive listeners heartily and enthusiastically applauded the report of the president of the association, Rev. Dr. Zinsler, who, in well-couched English, presented the results of the society's activity during the year 1900.

One hundred and fifty-three thousand four hundred and fifty dollars had been loaned and distributed among 7,785 applicants within the year, showing the capital of the society, $32,957.75 to have been circulated about five times; of the above loans made, $145,016 were repaid during the year.

And that tremendous work was accomplished at an expense of a total of $3,725.04 for the year. And the losses do not exceed 3/4 per cent.

From the detailed classification of the borrowers who have availed themselves of the "brotherly hand," it appears that hardly any vocation was missing; from push-cart dealers to students and dentists—all were duly represented.

The beneficent and liberal contributors to the funds of the society, Mr. Jacob H. Schiff and Leonard Lewisohn, Dr. Julius Goldman and Mr. Arthur Reichow representing the fund of the Baroness De Hirsch, occupying the front seats in the hall, were well pleased to hear the results of the year's work and activity (the substantial proof of Mr. Lewisohn's pleasure has come in the shape of a new contribution of a check of $5,000, which he sent in to the association on Thursday last, which was followed by a check of his brother, Mr. Adolph Lewisohn for $1,000).

After an eloquent plea of Dr. Schulman and his praise of the idealism of the Russian Hebrews, as illustrated by the Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association, the chairman of the Executive Committee, Mr. Joseph Spector, read the report of the committee, and the figures carefully gone over in the report appealed so "eloquently" to the audience that Prof. Felix Adler took up that "eloquence" as introductory to his remarks.

Prof. Adler, in his short but sincere address, referring to the Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association, said: "At this time of the general talk and investigation of 'vice' on the East Side, it may be opportune to state that 'here is the nursery of that spirit, which in the end is bound to conquer and overcome the evil; the Hebrew Free Loan Association as well as the Educational Alliance is evidence of this."

"There is something more precious and more important than human love; this is respect for men, which is so admirably illustrated by this association and in its effort and manner to raise their fellow-men. In extending its brotherly hand, this association says to its applicants: We have respect for you, and you shall respect yourself."

In closing his remarks, Prof. Adler paid his high tribute to the association for the non-sectarianism exhibited by its constitution, and said that he came to the meeting to express "his heartiest testimony of sympathy for the work of the Hebrew Free Loan Association and his hope that it will be strengthened and further encouraged by the public." Rev. Mr. Masliansky followed in a most eloquent and fiery address in the "jargon." "The Hebrew Free Loan Association," he said, "is a dispensary among the needy and is a preventive against the terrors of amputation that stares the poor who are thrown into the hospital—the United Hebrew Charities." He dilated at length on this subject, to the great delight of the audience.

Mr. Isidore Straus, occupying a seat on the platform, at the close of the meeting delivered a short address, full of sympathy with and appreciation of the good and exceptional work of the Hebrew Gemilath Chassodim Association.

A MAGNIFICENT OFFER.

ROSA BONHEUR'S "The Horse Fair" requires no description, for it is known to every child by means of photographic reproductions and engravings. It was brought to this country in 1857 and sold to the late A. T. Stewart for $40,000.00. At the Stewart sale in March 1887, it was the chief center of interest, and was bought for $55,500.00 on March 25th by Cornelius Vanderbilt, who the next day presented it to the Metropolitan Museum of Art. "The Horse Fair" consists of a group of strong Percheron horses, white, dappled, black, and brown, being exercised by their lusty grooms in the fresh morning light before a numerous crowd of onlookers and buyers. It is broad and masterly in composition, as well as in construction and the free handling of its lights and shadows; yet the detail is worked out in perfection, and the effect produced by the group of sleek stallions chafing at their bits, is one which lingers in the memory of every man who looks upon it, be he an admirer of art or only a lover of horses.

THE HORSE FAIR.

WE have secured a limited number of copies of Rosa Bonheur's masterpiece, each 22x30, reproduced by the celebrated "Autogravure Process", which for detail and reproduction of colorings have absolutely no superior. When framed the picture is the nearest approach to a genuine oil painting that can be made.

You can obtain a copy of "The Horse Fair" absolutely free of charge by sending us the name of a new subscriber to The Hebrew Standard and $2.00 to pay for cost of same for one year, or else, if you are already a subscriber to The Hebrew Standard, send us $2.00 and we will send you a copy of "The Horse Fair" free of charge and advance your subscription for one year.

Charity Ball.

On Wednesday, Jan. 23, the great annual Charity Ball of the Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum was given at the Academy of Music. Ever since 1882, when the first ball was given, Brooklyn Hebrews look upon that annual affair as the social event of the year in Hebrew circles.

Moreover, thousands of dollars have been added by this means to the treasury of the asylum, of which the Brooklyn Hebrews are very proud.

At the head of the committee in charge of the arrangements, was Maj. B. Croner, assisted by A. I. Namm, E. C. Blum, Michael Furst, Aaron Levy, H. Lichtenstein, and A. M. Stein. The large Academy was tastefully and fantastically decorated with flowers of all kinds. The stage represented a summer garden in midst of which, completely hidden, was the orchestra. In that artificial summer garden were seen whole rows of rare plants and flowers, tropical trees, three summer houses, etc., which made a good effect.

Before the opening of the ball a fine concert, lasting one hour, was given by the Brooklyn Hebrew Asylum Military Band, comprising seventy-five little musical wonders, under the direction of George Wiegand, conductor. They executed six numbers to the great delight of all who were present.

After this concert the ball proper was opened by a grand march, in which over two hundred persons participated. The music was furnished by the orchestra of Benjamin Wechsler, and was under the latter's direction. The floor was under the management of a committee composing about thirty-five members, with Hon. Mitchell May, chairman; Saul S. Myers, vice-chairman, and Louis Wechsler, assistant chairman. The Entertainment Committee comprised A. Abraham, chairman; Ira Leo Bamberger, S. Goodstein, Joseph Liebman, Moses May, and Henry Roth. F. Pantlorge was chairman of the Reception Committee, assisted by Max Weber and about forty other prominent members. L. Fernski, assisted by S. Phillips and five other members, formed the Press Committee. The programme for the ball contained twenty-four numbers of dances and as many promenades, in which more than seven thousand people took part. The dances as well as the supper were well enjoyed. The affair was socially and financially a great success. The Orphan Asylum, for whose benefit the ball was given, started as a society in 1878, and a small frame building in McDonough street was leased and used as an asylum. But as the membership increased, money flowed in, and the number of inmates grew larger, the old frame house was inadequate and a large immense building was erected on Ralph avenue. The corner stone was laid on May 3, 1892, by Ira Leo Bamberger, at that time president of the organization.

From twenty-six charter members to start with the membership at present has reached the number of 870, viz: Patrons, 117; members, 750. The inmates number 310, viz: Girls, 144; boys, 166. The officers of the asylum are: Moses May, president; Abraham Abraham, vice-president; Herman Newman, treasurer; A. J. Piddian, secretary, and twenty-four trustees.

The superintendent, Mr. Paul Lazarus, and his wife, the matron, are very competent and efficient in the line of their duties; also the teachers, Mr. Wolf and the Misses Cohn and Berkenhal. The institution is in a flourishing condition. The building, dormitories, gymnasium, dining-room, sewing school, school-room, bath-room, etc., etc., are well worthy of frequent visits by members, friends and Hebrew Benevolent Society.

On Tuesday night, Feb. 12, the Hebrew Benevolent Society of Brooklyn will give a grand ball at Pouch Mansion. The demand upon that society grows day by day. Among the 60,000 Hebrews living in Brooklyn, there is a large percentage of poor people whose wants in sickness and distress must be provided for. This requires a good deal of money. The ball is given to add to the fund of the society. We therefore hope and trust that the affair will be a grand success.

The third dramatic reading of the series will be given next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening in Association Hall by Mr. George Riddle, who will read "A Midsummer Night's Dream," with orchestral and choral accompaniment, conducted by Mr. Arthur Classen; Mrs. Minnie Fish Griffin, soprano; Miss Annie Windser Robinson, incidental solos.

The second of the series of Saturday Symphony Concerts will be given by an orchestra of sixty musicians, Mr. Frank Damrosch, conductor, assisted by Miss Katharine Heyman, piano, in the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Feb. 2.

Six lectures on "Picturesque Lands and Famous Scenes of the World" will be given by Mr. Garrett P. Servis, on Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons in Association Hall. The first one will be on Feb. 14, and 16th "The Blue Danube" will be seen from the black forest to the black sea, its castles, battlefields, legends and romance. Amphion Theatre.

By a peculiar coincidence, patrons of the Amphion who last week had the pleasure of witnessing Joseph Arthur's first play, "The Still Alarm," will be afforded an opportunity of viewing his latest effort, "Lost River," which will appear at this house commencing Monday night.

The company is headed by William Courtleigh, late of the Lyceum Co., New York, and some of his associates are Mary Saunders, I. Aug. Anderson, Hans Roberts, Mabel Talifero and Ada Dwyer, which assures a capable performance. The complete production, including all the sensational scenes, mechanical effects, horses, sheep, etc., will be given as at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, where "Lost River" recently concluded a successful engagement, lasting over three months.

Grand Opera House.

The offering at the Grand next week will be David Higgins' beautiful Southern play, "At Piney Ridge," with the author and Georgia Waldron in the leading roles. The locale of the play is amid the rugged mountains of Tennessee, and the atmospheric possibilities of this out-of-the-way section are said to be taken full advantage of by Mr. Higgins in the action of his drama. The characters are said to be like the scenes—simple, honest, truth-loving and rugged. The producing company is said to be a powerful one, and the scenery and electrical effects novel and beautiful.

Bijou Theatre.

The series of melodramatic productions, inaugurated by Manager Parker, have proved so successful that he has decided to continue that policy for the coming week and offers the clientele of the Bijou Chas. E. Blaney's great scenic production, "Across the Pacific."

The regular monthly meeting of the congregation will take place on Sunday, Feb. 3, at 7.30 P. M. sharp. Members are requested to come on time in order that there may be no delay in transacting business. Owing to an indisposition Rev. Erwin Wolkovics did not officiate last Sabbath. He is now well again and will be at his post as usual.

Great preparations are making for the entertainment of the Hebrew Benevolent Society, to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 26, at the German Club Rooms. Tickets are being rapidly sold, which is not to be wondered at considering the splendid reputation of the entertainments offered to the public. The Criterion Company, of Brooklyn, will perform "Incog," and those who saw the play or heard of it are unanimous in its praises as the greatest "laugh raisers" in the market. Members and friends who were kind enough to undertake selling of tickets are requested to make their settlements, as far as they are able, at a special meeting to be held Sunday, Feb. 24, at 3 P. M., at the synagogue.

The Sabbath-school, we are glad to learn, is doing very well. The volunteers of the Young Men's Hebrew Association have the noble work in hand, and they may be depended upon to carry it to a successful issue.

We sincerely condole with Mr. Joseph Frank, member of the congregation, and his wife upon the death of their baby.

Many of our brethren and their families suffered from the grip. All are well now and may it ever be so.

New York Theatre.

"Standing room only" is a nightly occurrence at the New York since the Messrs. Sire Bros. made 50c. the standard price for any seat in the beautiful theatre, where "The Giddy Throng," Rosenfeld's & Sloane's successful burlesque review with Lady Hope and her dazzling collection of gems, and the new ballet, "The Devil's Dance," are the leading attractions.

Germania Theatre.

Mr. Adolph Philipp long ago proved himself a versatile comedian, and in his new local play "Der Millionenschwab," his personation of a distinctly South German type is as happily conceived and as consistently carried out as anything he has ever done here.

Proctor's 23d Street Theatre.

Week of Feb. 4 the bill contains Edward Favor and Edith Sinclair in their newest farce, "The McGuires," Hall and Staley, Carroll Johnson, Dillon Bros., C. W. Littlefield, Doherty's educated poodles, Vera King, Howard Bros. and a dozen more.

Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre.

The newcomers at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre for the week of Feb. 4 include: Lillian Burkhart and Co., Melville and Stetson, Three Vilona Sisters, Mlle. Delbosq, Johnnie Carroll, Yamamoto Bros., Sisters Laurence, and the Jean Marcel living staturary and bas-reliefs.

Harlem Opera House.

Next week's attraction will be Maude Adams in "L'Aiglon." The wonderful triumph which Miss Adams has made in Edmond Rostand's poetical drama is not a matter of managerial announcement, it is a matter of history, and it fills one of the most brilliant chapters in the annals of the American stage.

Proctor's Palace.

The big auditorium of the Proctor's East 58th Street Palace should be crowded at every performance the coming week when a programme of feature acts will hold forth, including Clayton White and Marie Stuart, Hill and Hull, Frank Cushman, Williams and Adams, Mlle. Christina, Naomi Ethardo, Spenser Kelly, and twelve more pleasing acts.

Proctor's 125th Street Theatre.

For the week of Feb. 4 these are the artists who will entertain: Tom Nawn, the Irish comedian; Max Waldon, Cushman, Holcombe and Curtis, Genaro and Bailey, Alf Grant, Arthur Barry and others.

MUSIC.

If you are a composer and have an orchestra at your disposal, the temptation to produce your own works is naturally irresistible. Mr. Walter Damrosch, who can turn out clever capelmeister-music as well as the next one, pursued that course for some time, and Mr. Victor Herbert is now doing the same thing. Let us be grateful that neither Thomas Gerlicke or Paur have any ambition in that direction.

At the Metropolitan on the nights when Jean de Reszke displays his beautiful voice and his glorious art, the audiences test the capacity of the vast auditorium. When the great tenor is not in the cast the galleries, particularly, are not more than half filled. It is a curious public, and I envy not the impresario who tries to cater to its whims and fancies.

In spite of his titles, his decorations and his press agent, the Marquis de Souza is entitled to more respectful consideration than he received at the hands of some of the critics. His voice is certainly phenomenal in range and in quality, for a baritone who can produce beautiful tones from E below to A above the staff is not heard every day or every year.

Miss Rose Olitzka's concert at Mendelssohn Hall on Thursday afternoon was well attended. Although the gifted contralto was not in the best of form, her singing conferred much pleasure. While the lyric stage offers the best field for her art, she was quite effective in some lieder, notably the "Stars," by Fannie Bloomfield-Zeisler, America's foremost pianist, is to give a recital in Mendelssohn Hall on the afternoon of Feb. 14. This will be Mrs. Zeisler's first appearance here in some years, and also her first piano recital. "Aida" will be sung at the opera to-night, while "Tristan" and "Don Giovanni" are announced for Saturday afternoon and evening respectively.

FURNISHING DESULTORIA.
Dainty Bits for Autumn Brides.

A high Chippendale writing desk, while ingeniously subservient to the needs of correspondence, gives safe and cleanly refuge to the finer volume in hand-tooled covers, with shelves above protected by traceried glass doors.
A white mahogany French toilet table, with carved frame mirror, a delicate touch of inset work, is the requisition of boudoir refinement.
Of crotch mahogany, matchless in grain and imagery—a pri-dieu straight of line; a corner cabinet; a piano bench with Dutch marquetry inlay.
Of silky textiles—rarely woven Cashmere rugs and soft drapery stuffs and marvelous tapestries, reproducing in text stitch the paintings of Laurer and Woverman.
