At Night.

(From the German of Koerner.)

I rest near thee and but a thin partition
Parts me from thee.
O, art thou lying, drap'd in slumber-vision,
Dreaming of me?

This pillow, where oft (a fullest consecration)
Thy head hath lain,
Bears now my heart that, full of adoration,
For thee is fain.

Meseems that now unfold the buds of longing,
Melodiously,
As though, in whispers, souls of dreams
Come thronging
From thee to me.

With soft and solemn breath of mystic luring
The air is fill'd;
Foreboding stays my circling blood's enduring—
My pulse is still'd!

It was thy soul—all holy was the meeting
Of lip with lip,
I feel the savor of thy kisses' greeting—
Their sweets I sip.

It was thy soul—the spirit of love out-breathing—
To mine found way,
Oh, that this hour of soul with soul en-wreathing
Might last for aye!

JACOB GOLDSTEIN.

Why Is the Jew Hated?

In the course of an address with the above title, recently delivered by Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters, of Brooklyn, he said: "In America the Jew has a double claim to recognition—the claim of the man under the wide tolerance of the Twentieth Century, and the claim of the American citizen under the broad spirit of the American Constitution. Has he received the treatment he merits as a man, and the rights he deserves as a citizen? He is caricatured in the comic papers; in our social, professional, and even political clubs the Jew is blackballed. The wealthy Jewish merchant looking for a summer resort will be handed a circular bearing the footnote, 'No Jews taken,' and I have seen many circulars which added, 'Dogs not allowed.' The Jew is excluded from society. Hosts apologize for the stranger by assuring you that he is a good fellow, if he is a Jew. Mass-meetings have recently been held in several cities for the purpose of protesting against the continual ill-treatment and persecution to which the poor Jews in general and Jewish peddlers in particular are subjected, not only by the hoodlums, but by the school children.

"Recently in Detroit, the Mayor had to make a special appeal to the police to prevent violence and injustice. In Chicago, Mayor Harrison sent a request to the president of the Board of Education, the result of which was that the superintendents of schools issued instructions to the principals of all the schools to warn their pupils against calling offensive names, throwing stones, or otherwise injuring poor Jews. These instructions were carried out by means of the principals. Archbishop Feehan was also approached on the subject.

"I have seen Jewish children go home from public schools in tears because of the offensive names with which they were taunted. Outrages are frequently perpetrated upon the Jews upon the East Side of New York under the very noses of the police—outrages which are a disgrace to the metropolis of the Republic. Russian and Roumanian immigrants who are striving with might and main to earn a livelihood in New York meet with a reception from the denizens of the streets not at all creditable to the citizens.

"In their dealings Jews are as honorable as other men. At a meeting in New York of the Association of Credit Men, at which but a few Jews were present, the late Hon. William L. Strong, former Mayor of the city, said: 'I have lost less money selling goods to men who were not worth anything than in selling goods to wealthy concerns. I have a case in mind of one who began buying on credit of me one case of goods. In two years his credit with us amounted to $30,000. He was a Jew. In sixteen years he divided $250,000 with his partner. I am, about one-fourth Jew myself. That is, I have more faith in Jews paying than I have in Gentiles doing so. We have lost four times with the latter to one with the former, and of Jews who failed ten have paid 100 cents on the dollar to one of the Gentiles.'

"This was not said at a gathering of Jews, but given as a fact of value to be borne in mind by credit men in arriving at decisions. The social standards of the Jews are just as low and just as fine as other people's in corresponding position. Money of ten gets ahead of the manners of Jew and Gentile alike. Where do you not find the parvenu in American society? How many people do you know who have had two generations of continuous wealth and the conditions of refined society?

"The anti-Semite is a coward. The cry of the Jew-hater is the cry of the beaten man. The best man, as a rule, wins. If you want to know why the Jews win, read the names published annually of public school children who have passed the examination for entrance to the sub-freshman class of the College of the City of New York.

"Everywhere the Jew is disciplining his reasoning powers and learning how to do better work, which insures that success which clamor and complaining never win. It is not strange that the Jew is winning; it were strange if he did not win. If the Jew continues as he has begun he will hold the future.

"The inordinate love of gold is the sin of our day and one of the grave perils of civilization. The jingle of coin is the snare of all religious creeds and races alike. If we loved God as we love gold we should soon be lifted into angelhood. The almost frenzied strife to get money is never-ceasing, and to obtain it many a Christian imperils alike his body and his soul, and no matter how despicable the man

Howard S. Gans.

This week's portrait is an excellent likeness of Mr. Howard S. Gans, Assistant District Attorney of New York County.

When Mr. Philbin was appointed District Attorney in place of Asa Bird Gardiner, one of his first announcements was that of Mr. Gans to be a Deputy Assistant. Mr. Gans immediately displayed fitness and aptitude for the work of the office, and in the numerous sensational raids engineered by Justice Jerome, he participated as the representative of the District Attorney's office.

Upon being elected District Attorney, Mr. Jerome not only announced the retention of Mr. Gans, but promoted him to the post of Assistant, at an annual salary of $7,500. Mr. Gans is a capable lawyer and those who have had dealings with him in his official capacity are unanimous in their praises of his courteous demeanor.

may be if he gets money, by hook or crook—and either of them is far from being straight—he will be idolized, though mentally deficient, vulgar in person, ugly in features and coarse in language. Let us remember this truth when we sit in judgment upon the Jewish people."

What we are in heart, in spirit, in the inner life we are really before God; and that, too, we shall ultimately become in actual character, in outward feature.—J. R. Miller.

In the Jewish World.

A Young Men's Hebrew Educational Association has been organized at Chelsea, Mass.

Orthodox Hebrew residents of Dover, N. J., have organized the Congregation B'nai Zion. This new congregation is formed from the remnants of the Anshe Shalom Congregation, which was allowed to die out some time ago.

When the old Lord & Taylor building at the corner of Grand and Chrystie streets is torn down next May, there will probably be erected on the site a theatre and roof-garden at which performances in Yiddish only will be given.

The Jewish communities of Swenigorodki, Kowal and Lusk appealed to the Senate against the Minister of Public Instruction, who had refused to defend the Jewish pupils of the gymnasia there from writing on the Sabbath. The Senate did not entertain the complaint, declaring that the pupils frequenting the gymnasia must submit to regulations of these institutions, and that, besides, it was open to the Jews to establish Jewish gymnasia.

The most important Jewish communities are those in New York, which contains nearly 400,000 souls; Warsaw with 250,000; Budapest, 170,000; Vienna, 150,000; Odessa, 150,000; London, 120,000; Berlin, 106,000; Philadelphia, 100,000; Paris, Amsterdam, Vilna, Lodz, Lemberg, Minsk, Berditchev, Iitomir, Vitebsk, Kovno, Salonica and Jerusalem with about 50,000 each.

The children of Adela Cohen have invoked the aid of the Courts to remove her body from the Shearith Israel Cemetery where it is now interred, but the motion is being violently opposed by the congregational authorities. Among other things, they claim besides being a matter of deep religious sentiment, the congregation began a burial-place on the Bowery two centuries ago and that place is most zealously maintained in its undisturbed integrity, though the land is worth to-day nearly one million dollars.

Governor Franklin Murphy was present at the Hebrew Charity Ball held at Trenton, N. J., on the 4th inst.

A fair in aid of the Hebrew Ladies' Aid Society of Minneapolis, Minn., added nearly $2,000 to the society's funds, which are to go towards building a new synagogue.

The proceeds of the annual ball of the Purim Association (which usually amount to over $15,000) will this year be given to the United Hebrew Charities.

Rev. Julius Silberfeld has been elected Rabbi of Temple B'nai Abraham, Newark, N. J. Dr. Silberfeld will enter upon his new duties on February 28th.

Hon. Montague Lessler, recently elected Member of Congress from the lower New York District, will address the members of the Young Ladies' Charitable Society this Sunday afternoon.

Hon. Ferdinand Levy lectured last Wednesday evening before the members of the Beth Israel Literary League of Brooklyn, on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln."

Rev. B. M. Kaplan, for some years Rabbi of the McGill College Avenue Synagogue, Montreal, Canada, has tendered his resignation to take effect immediately. Rabbi Kaplan will probably be elected Rabbi of the Sacramento California Congregation.

At Grozys Topolzad a riot took place at which two Jews, Samuel Loewbeer and Hirsch Felsenburg, were killed, and the synagogue demolished.

In the year 1899 there were in Vienna, among a Jewish population of 120,000, 453 baptisms. This is double the number that has taken place in Berlin, where there is a much smaller Jewish community.

The following have been appointed members of the Commission to consider the question of depopulation of France, and the means of combatting it: M. Paul Straus, Senator; M. Lyon-Caen, Professor at the Faculty of Law in Paris; M. A. Ney-Marek, member of the Superior Council of Statistics and of the Jewish Consistory of Paris; M. Ferdinand Dreyfus, member of the Superior Council of the Public Assistance.

The following have been appointed Professors at the Berlin University. Dr. Theodor Sommerfeld, for his work on questions of Hygiene; Dr. George Mayer, a surgical specialist; Dr. K. Hirschberg, for his work in the statistical field; and Dr. Schwalbe, a well-known physician, one of the editors of the Deutsche Medicinische Wochenschrift. The sculptor, Max Klein, also received the title of Professor.

The Emperor of Austria has conferred the rank of Court Councillor on Dr. Adam Politzer and Dr. David Heinrich Muller, Professor at the Vienna University. Dr. Muller is also a Professor at the Vienna Rabbinical Seminary, and one of the most distinguished Jewish Orientalists.

Children's Column.

"Who Made the World?"

(From the German of Koerner.)

Young Gottlieb, the scamp, was a perfect young devil; For tricks and for rogy a bad name he'd earned.

When'er in the village occurred any evil, Young Gottlieb, be sure, was always concerned.

When'er aught happened or mischief was brewing, Young Gottlieb the culprit at once was declared.

And to make him confess on the spot his misdoing, The stick to his shoulders was never once spared.

It followed, therefrom that he always was eager To make his confession before he was whacked.

The Parson once tested his book-learning meagre— Poor Gottlieb's dull brains by sorrow were racked.

"Come, tell me by Whom all the world was created?" The Parson asked Gottlieb, whose heart sank with woe.

He stammer'd out feebly, his conscience o'erweighted: "Oh, please, Mister Parson, oh, please, I don't know!"

The Parson grew angry, "You wicked young rascal! Speak out, Who created the world? You must tell.

Come instantly prove you've master'd your task all, Or I'll cudgel your rear till I cause you to yell!"

Poor Gottlieb! He saw that a birching impended, He burst into tears, as he shrank from the cane.

He hoped, by confession, his fault might be mended— "If was me, sir," he sobbed, "but I won't do it again!"

JACOB GOLDSTEIN.

Beauty and the Beast.

"My Dears: I am afraid I have been forgetting the very little ones lately, and it won't do to forget them. Do you think the gardener who neglects the very small sprouting plants and only tends the larger growths is a good gardener. Of course he isn't. So I'm going to speak to the younger among you this morning and I'm going to tell them a fairy tale.

There was once a merchant who had three daughters. He loved them all, but I think that the tenderest feeling in his heart was for the youngest of the three. She was more beautiful than the others, but I don't think that it was because of her loveliness that he secretly loved her more than her two sisters. I think it was because she was more modest and self-sacrificing and because she really loved him more than the others did that he loved her best in his heart of hearts.

One time he, being a merchant, had to go away from home on a long business journey. So he said to his daughters: "My dears, I must leave you for some weeks. But don't mind that too much. I shall return, please God, all right. Now tell me what you'd like best for me to bring you as a present." Then the eldest one said she'd like her father to bring her a robe of cloth-of-gold. And the second one said she'd like some diamond jewels. But the youngest said nothing.

So the merchant said that if his business prospered he would bring his eldest daughter the finest cloth-of-gold robe with a long train that he could find, and that his second might count, at least, on a diamond sun-burst if he were successful. Then he turned to his youngest daughter to whom he had given the pet name of "Beauty" and said: "And you, my dear? Don't you want me to bring you home some present or other?" But she answered: "No, papa. I want to see you back again safe and sound and happy. That's the best present you can bring me!" But he urged her to name some gift. So at last she said: "Well, papa dear, you may bring me home a red rose."

Then the merchant promised to remember them all and kissed them and so rode away on horseback on his journey and remained away for several weeks. His business prospered, and when he was on the point of journeying homewards he bought a very handsome cloth-of-gold robe with a train at least five yards long, and a magnificent sun-burst for his two elder daughters. He also bought a handsome present for Beauty. He did not forget about the rose, but it wasn't much use buying a rose and carrying it a fortnight's journey on horseback, was it? He meant to wait till he got very near home and then he would buy the finest red rose to be had and give it to his pet while it was fresh and sweet-scented.

Day after day he got nearer and nearer home and at length began to look about for a rose. But he could not see any in all the gardens or stores that pleased him. At length when not far from home, he passed a garden in which there bloomed the finest red roses he had ever seen or heard of. He got down from his horse and found the gate unlocked. He went in and, selecting the finest of the red roses, he plucked it. Just as he did so a terrific roar sounded close to his ear and a heavy paw armed with terrible sharp bear-like claws, fell on his shoulder. The poor merchant turned pale as ashes, and looked round. An Awful Beast stood beside him! "How dare you steal my roses?" roared the Beast while his eye glared angrily. "I have made a vow to kill anybody who steals from my garden; so make up your mind to die at once! Say your prayers and prepare to perish!"

Then the poor merchant went down on his knees and begged and pleaded for his life. But the Beast was inexorable. At last the poor merchant pleaded for his poor motherless daughters, and begged permission to go and say "good-bye" to them. The Beast's eyes softened. "Tell me about your daughters," he said. So the merchant told him about the three of them and the presents they had asked for. Then the Beast said: "And so it was for your youngest daughter, Beauty, that you stole my rose?" And the Merchant answered: "Yes, O thou Great and Awful Beast, I am not a thief and will gladly pay anything you wish for your rose."

Then the Beast began to rage again. At length he said: "Go to your daughters and say farewell to them and then come back to be killed. But there is one chance for your life. If your youngest daughter, Beauty, will come and be my wife I'll let you off." So the poor merchant rode sadly home. His daughters came out to greet him gladly. He gave them their presents—not forgetting Beauty's rose, with a sorrowful air, that surprised and chilled them. When they wanted him to go into the dining-room and eat the nice dinner they had prepared for him he burst into tears and kissed them all fondly, and said: "I have no heart to eat. I must say good-bye to you now and go away to die."

Imagine the outcry and tears. They pressed him to tell them what it all meant. At first he would not, but they pleaded and clung to him so that at length he told them all. Then a beautiful look came into Beauty's eyes as she said: "Your life is safe, papa. I consent to be the Beast's wife!" But he wouldn't hear of that and said sternly that he would not ruin his daughter's happiness even to save his own life. He must have been a very noble-minded papa. But when she said that if he lost his life for her sake she would certainly kill herself in Remorse for her wickedness in asking for the rose, of course he had to give way.

So the two rode away together and soon reached the Beast's garden. There a servant stopped the merchant and told him that he must go away at once and leave his daughter. With tears and sighs they parted. Then a troop of finely dressed servants led Beauty through the most beautiful garden into the finest palace ever seen and there, in a handsome room, left her, telling her that My Lord Beast would presently wait upon her. Oh, how her heart beat as she stood waiting. When at length the door opened and Beast stood before her she nearly fainted away with loathing and terror. But she began to pluck up a little courage as she saw how humbly and sadly he stood before her. Then he began to speak, not in a roar, but in a low, sad growl, and said: "Lovely Lady Beauty, don't be afraid! Everybody here is your slave. All belongs to you. You are to be my wife only when you wish. Can you love me?" But she shuddered and covered her eyes as she cried: "No, no, never! You are too hideous! I have said I would be your wife to save my father's life. But don't ask me to love you, for I can't."

Then he bent his head and said in a still sadder growl: "I must wait. You shall have everything that your heart can desire, but you must remain here. I shall leave you now and you shall see me no more until the day when you come to me of your own accord and kiss me of your own free will." And he went away.

At first she could scarcely believe in her good fortune, but as day after day passed and she was not only unmolested but every wish she uttered was gratified she began to breathe freely. Even when she asked for her father and sisters they were sent for and allowed to pass some hours with her. When they left her they were loaded with the richest presents.

Weeks passed into months and at length one day she asked her servants: "What has become of your Lord Beast?" Then they answered sorrowfully: "He is ill!" She asked again: "What is the matter with him?" They answered: "He is sick with love of my Lady Beauty!" Then she tossed her head proudly and said: "Pooh!"

Well, more weeks passed and once again she asked after Beast. She was told gravely: "Our Lord Beast is dying." That startled her and she said: "Oh, take me to him!" Instantly she was led to the garden where, under the very rose bush from which her father had plucked the rose, lay poor Beast, weak and dying. Her heart smote her as she thought of all his delicacy and generosity and self-denial and throwing herself on her knees, she took his ugly head in her arms tenderly and cried: "Oh, don't die for love of one so heedless as I. See I come to kiss you of my own free will!" And she pressed her pretty rosy lips on his ugly muzzle. There came a crash of thunder, lightning flashed, the ground shook and she nearly fainted with fear, but a strong arm supported her. When she began to come to she heard the sweetest voice saying: "Look up, darling! Don't fear! You are perfectly safe. Look up, sweet-heart!" And she opened her eyes to see the handsomest and most gallant prince in all the world standing by her supporting her and smiling at her.

"What had become of the Beast? Well, he was the prince, changed by witchcraft and doomed to remain in the likeness of a beast till a virtuous and modest girl should kiss him of her own free will. This is what Beauty had done. Need I tell you that they lived happy ever after? More than that the red rose through which all this happened became famous and was named after the merchant's beautiful daughter. When they began to grow them in this country they altered the name slightly and called them "American Beauty Roses."

And now, my dears, to the elder ones among you I need not say that I had a purpose other than merely repeating a well-known fairy tale in telling you this story.

There is, in this world, more than one very beautiful and noble garden, filled with the choicest and rarest plants but occupied and owned by Beasts at sight of whom everybody shudders. But let a certain ever-young and innocent Beauty go to them and implant on their lips a life-giving kiss and the Beast departs and leaves the handsome, free, young noble in his place. The name of that virtuous young Beauty is Liberty; and there are many nations still waiting for her transforming caress. Each nation has its garden and each grows its rare roses which can only bloom in that garden. Those beautiful flowers are what we call the result of the nation's special genius. Such nation, until it has received the kiss of Liberty, threatens death and violence to any one who may pluck the rose of its best products. It forgets that with fuller liberty each may gain by free exchange of their best productions.

There is one people, my dears, whose garden is full of the rarest roses the world ever saw: That is our own nation, the Jews. The wicked witch of Intolerance, with her sister-hags, Oppression, Injustice and Violence, has often thrown the beautiful Prince, whom the Father has declared. He loves best, into an ugly outer covering which many people hated to see and so hated the beautiful thing within that outward ugliness because of the monstrous shape with which they themselves had agreed to envelope it. But the Jew offers no violence. His love for Freedom is too pure and unselfish for that. He waits, like the ill-used Beast in the story, for the willful and wayward beauty Liberty to recognize his worth and to come to him of her own free will. When that day comes the words of the Prophet Isaiah will be fulfilled:

"Thou shalt no more be termed, 'Forsaken'; neither shall thy land any more be termed 'Desolate'; but thou shalt be called 'My-delight-in-it,' and thy land 'Wedded'; for the Eternal delighteth in thee and thy land shall be married."

Order B'nai B'rith.

Office, B'nai B'rith Building, 723 Lexington Avenue.

OFFICERS DISTRICT GRAND LODGE NO. 1. President, Dr. S. B. Wolfe. First Vice-President, Jacob B. Klein. Second Vice-President, Charles Hartman. Treasurer, Solomon Sulzberger. Secretary, Sigmund Hamburger. General Secretary, Max Studinski. General Committee, S. M. Roeder, Joshua Kantrowitz, L. Wallstein, Myer Hellman, Joseph Koch; chairman on Finance, S. W. Goodman; chairman Committee on Laws, J. S. Lambert; chairman Committee on Endowment, Louis Wallstein; chairman General Fund and Charitable Objects, Moritz Leipziger; president Maimonides Free Library, William A. Gans; president Board of Governors Home, I. O. B. E. Ignatius Rice; chairman Committee on Intellectual Advancement, Adam Wiener; president District Court, Isaac Wolfe.

The Order.

There is a good deal of work being done in the Order. The president of the Executive Committee, Leo N. Levi, is constantly at work with the various affairs which demand his attention. District No. 2 is surprisingly active. President Alfred Muller, of Denver, is making remarkable progress. The results attending his efforts throughout his jurisdiction are most satisfactory. Already four new lodges have been instituted, and the lodges in Cincinnati, Louisville, and elsewhere, have added largely to their membership roll. The district, it is positively announced, will add five hundred members to its numbers during the first year of the new administration.

District No. 6 expects to add a number of new lodges to its roster. President Sig. Livingston is making official visits.

District No. 3 has excellent hopes of making a fine showing during the coming year.

Altogether, it has been shown that, where energy and activity reign, in that locality success attends these efforts.

District No. 2.

Plans for an I. O. B. B. Building.

At a meeting held at the Cincinnati Club, at Cincinnati, O., Sunday, Jan. 26, 1902, for the purpose of considering the necessity of erecting a B'nai B'rith building on the hill, the following were present: Brothers Victor Abraham, David S. Victor, J. D. Samuelson, Chas. Wachtel, Jacob Trost, William Ornstein, Bernard Frelberg, Solomon Fox, Jacob Schottenfels, Louis Krohn, J. M. Ray and Louis H. Rosenthal. Brother Victor Abraham was appointed chairman, and Bro. D. S. Victor secretary.

The following motions were made, seconded and unanimously carried: The sense of this meeting is that a B'nai B'rith hall is needed on the hill; the lot should not be less than 100 foot front, lot and building to cost approximately $25,000; $10,000 stock to be taken by local lodges, practically in proportion to present funds, and the balance, $15,000, by subscription, lodges to receive a satisfactory rate of interest.

The chairman was instructed to appoint a committee of seven, one from each lodge, of which he should be chairman, to submit plans to the different lodges of the city, and to request the appointment by each lodge of a committee of three authorized to effectuate the purposes indicated. The following Brothers were then named: Brothers Victor Abraham (chairman), of Oysterman Lodge; Hon. Nathan Druckler, Mt. Carmel; Solomon Fox, Bethel; Joseph May; Standard; Charles Wachtel, Cincinnati; Jacob Trost, Jerusalem; Judge Fred. S. Spiegel, Spinoza; Brother D. S. Victor was instructed to act as secretary.

A joint meeting of the Mendelssohn and Harmoniah Lodges of Louisville, Ky., was held at Liederkranz Hall, in that city, for the purpose of meeting Mr. Alfred Muller, of Denver, president of District No. 2. Mr. Henry Streng presided. The meeting was purely social. A number of addresses on the progress of the order and particularly on the success of the Jewish Hospital for Consumptives at Denver, which was established by the order, were made. The principal address was made by Mr. Muller, who spoke of the growth of the order. He said the hospital at Denver had 200 inmates. Although founded and supported by Jews, it is non-sectarian. He said that the first patient was a Catholic. Another address was made by Mr. Milton Anfenger of Denver, a prominent member of the district and a leading supporter of the hospital. Mr. Joseph May of Cincinnati also spoke. Speeches were made by the following: Mr. Samuel Grabfelder, who is president of the Denver Hospital; N. M. Uri; Joseph Seligman, D. N. Dembits and Ben Washer. Lunch was served after the meeting.

The Kansas City Lodge, 185, of Kansas City, Mo., gave an affair at the Progress Club. Mr. Alfred Mueller, of Denver, president of District No. 2, and Mr. Levy, president of the Denver Lodge, made eloquent addresses. Mr. Leon Block made an eloquent appeal in behalf of the order. Rabbi Mayer spoke enthusiastically of the good the order had accomplished and what was hoped from it. Lunch was served and a most enjoyable evening spent.

District No. 3.

There was a tone of seriousness and earnestness about the convention of District Grand Lodge No. 3 of the Order B'nai B'rith which bodes well for the future of the organization, and the proceedings were, moreover, characterized by a spirit of hopefulness which was decidedly more marked than that which has pervaded past gatherings. The spread of the order in foreign countries, on which emphasis was laid by the Grand President and other orators of the occasion, is in itself an incentive to the members of the Third District to bestir themselves in the enrollment of new members. The newly elected president of the district, Oscar H. Rosenbaum, Esq., of Pittsburg, is to be congratulated on the prospects which usher in his administration. He has every reason to feel encouraged by the re-awakened zeal of the members of the order in this district, and he will undoubtedly succeed in the endeavor to keep that zeal at the proper pitch. The Jewish Exponent wishes him and his fraternity the fullest measure of success in the beneficent work they are doing.—The Jewish Exponent (Philadelphia).

District No. 6.

There has been quite a revival in B'nai B'rith circles in Detroit, Mich. The local press has given much attention to the affairs of the order recently. There has also been an official visit made by Brother Sigmund Livingston, of Bloomington, Ill., the president of District Grand Lodge No. 6, and Brother M. M. Houseman, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a member of the General Committee. Pisgah Lodge entertained the brethren during their stay. It is the purpose of the president to institute a new lodge of young men in Detroit. The work of the order was the subject of the address of the visitors to Pisgah Lodge.

District Grand Lodge No. 6 will have its annual session on May 18.

At the seventeenth biennial session of District Grand Lodge No. 2, Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, which convened in Chicago Jan. 24, the following officers were elected: Grand Master, H. M. Eshpad, Chicago; First Deputy Grand Master, I. A. Loeb, Chicago; Second Deputy Grand Master, M. Michaels, St. Louis; Third Deputy Grand Master, H. Kohn, Chicago; Grand Secretary, Alfred H. Woolf, Chicago; Grand Treasurer, Louis Levin, Chicago; Grand Warden, Eli Brandt, Chicago; Grand Tyler, J. Buxbaum, Chicago; Executive Committee—M. Pfau, S. Moses, Dr. H. J. Messing, St. Louis; A. Diamond and L. Witowsky.

Aside from routine business, nothing of special importance was done. The delegates were hospitably entertained at a banquet and other entertainments, and the meeting was harmonious in all respects.

Annual Session District Grand Lodge, No. 1.

The annual session of District Grand Lodge No. 1 of the Independent Order of Free Sons of Israel was held on Sunday morning last at the Tuxedo, at Fifty-ninth street and Madison avenue. Two hundred delegates were present, and a large number of ex-presidents and visiting brethren. The session was opened promptly by Grand Master M. S. Stern, who, after the organization of the Grand Lodge by the admission of past presidents and qualification of the representatives, read his annual message. Grand Master Stern referred in this message to the affairs of the district over which he has presided for four years. He spoke with pride of the donation of $5,000 to Mt. Sinai Hospital, and the promise of an additional sum of the same figure, of the benefits bestowed by the District Charity Fund, of the many official visits made to the lodges, of the various festivals held throughout the district, and after reviewing in detail the work of the district he admonished the Grand Lodge to select only such men to fill the offices of the district as possess the necessary qualifications, to fill the same. He further recommended that the lodges should be communicated with as to support in a financial direction in the building of a hall for the district. The report was received with enthusiasm and referred to the usual committee for action.

Pending the interval before the election of officers, Grand Master Stern announced his intention that he would not accept a re-election, and the following officers were chosen: Grand Master, Isaac Engel, of Brooklyn; First Deputy Grand Master, William Bookheim, of Albany; Second Deputy Grand Master, Emil Tausig, of New York; Third Deputy Grand Master, Louis M. King of Senectady; Grand Treasurer, A. E. Karelson; Grand Secretary, I. H. Goldsmith; Grand Warden, M. Goldberg; Grand Tyler, Carson Mintz; representative to Executive Committee, B. Blumenthal; General Committee—I. Baer, on Appeals; S. Ornstein, on Laws; J. A. Levinson, on Finance; E. D. Klein, on State of the District; M. J. Lichtenberg, chairman District Deputies.

Immediately before the installation of officers Grand Master Julius Harburger made an address to the Grand Lodge. Brother William A. Gans, assisted by Brother Benjamin Blumenthal, installed the newly elected officers. Before proceeding with the same Brother Gans paid an eloquent tribute to the worth and services of Grand Master M. S. Stern, of whom he said that he "enjoyed the unique distinction of having served the Grand Lodge as Grand Master for four terms." Brother Blumenthal also addressed the officers. At the conclusion of the installation Brother William A. Gans, on behalf of the firm of Kerbs, Wertheim & Schiffer, and George L. Storm, with whom Grand Master M. S. Stern has been connected in business for more than a quarter of a century, presented to Brother Stern a handsome gold chain studded with diamonds, it being the desire of the donors to mark the retirement of Brother Stern from the office of Grand Master with this token of their approval of his work. This incident created unbounded enthusiasm, and the names of the donors and their kindly act were greeted with unstinted applause. Upon assuming his station Grand Master Engel made a short address and proceeded with the business of the Grand Lodge, which may be summarized as follows: The presentation of a set of resolutions to Brother Isaac Simon, for services rendered as chairman of committee on State of the District; the rejection of an amendment to the laws to have biennial sessions of the Grand Lodge. The adoption of the recommendation of Grand Master Stern to ask the lodges to assist in the building of a hall for the district; a recommendation of the lodges to observe Memorial Day, May 30, as a memorial day for the district. Quite a large amount of routine business was passed

The Albany Dental Association, under the management of F. L. Morhard, D. D., has become one of the largest establishments in this city, through the genuine good work it is doing all along. Their new method of extracting teeth and inserting new ones the same day is a feature of the establishment, as well as the manufacture of sets at a lower rate than anywhere else in the city. Their prices are very reasonable, as the following will show:

Extraction, 25 cents, and with painless method (no gas), 50 cents. Sets of gum teeth, $6.50. Full upper and lower sets, $12. Partial plates, from $1.50 to $6.50. Crown and bridge work a specialty. Gold crowns, $6.50. Porcelain crown on pivot teeth, $4. Open evenings until 9. Sundays from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. 291 Third Avenue, between 22d and 23d streets.

Young Ladies' and Gentlemen's League, Montefiore Home.

The Young Ladies' and Gentlemen's League of the Montefiore Home for Chronic Invalids has arranged for the following affairs to be held for the benefit of the inmates of the home as well as for members of the League. On next Saturday evening they will hold one of their regular dances at the Astor Gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria. On Sunday morning, March 2, they have chartered the St. Nicholas Ice Skating Rink, and will hold a musical skating party for the members of the League and their friends exclusively from 9.30 to 12.30.

For Sunday afternoon, March 9, they have arranged for a professional concert at the home for the inmates' benefit. These concerts are given periodically, and friends of the League are always welcome; due announcement of the names of those who will appear will be given in due time.

Zion League.

The joint meeting of the Zion League and the Benet Zion Hadassa Circle held on Sunday night, Feb. 9, 1902, in the vestry rooms of the Shearith Congregation was extremely successful. In brief but earnest speech of welcome, Rev. Dr. Mendes outlined the object of Zionism. Prof. Richard Gottheil then discussed the question from a practical standpoint, pointing out clearly the fallacies in the contentions of the opponents of Zionism. M. Taylor Phillips, Esq., then made a stirring appeal in behalf of the cause. A piano solo, a violin solo and a vocal solo added greatly to the pleasures of the evening.

Jewish Endeavor Society.

The large gathering at the services of the society, held in the Synagogue Shaar Zedek on Saturday, Feb. 9, 1902, were disappointed as Rev. Dr. Ascher was unable to speak owing to illness. He will do so in the near future.

Next Sabbath, Feb. 15, Mr. B. L. Solomon of the Jewish Theological Seminary will deliver the sermon.

On Sunday night, Feb. 16, Dr. Birnenfeld will address the society in its rooms in the Educational Alliance on "Jewish Traditions." All are welcome.

Young Ladies' Charitable Society.

Hon. Montague Lessler, who was recently elected to Congress to represent the Seventh District, will deliver an address next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Terrace Garden before the members of the Young Ladies' Charitable Society. The discourse will be preceded and followed by an entertainment, to which these artists will lend their assistance: Mr. Ad. Wiltmark, Mr. David Bimberg, Miss Carrie Nathan and Miss Jeannette Goodman.

Moe Levy Association.

The entertainment and reception given by the Moe Levy Association at Lexington Opera House last Sunday night demonstrated that with each affair the society gains in popularity, and that those who attend realize that no effort is spared to secure their comfort and pleasure. The hall was magnificently decorated, the colors being in perfect harmony, with the national emblem predominating.

The entertainment, which preceded the dance, included Sadie Furman, Rice and Hall, Tiddlewinks and Johnny Dugan, Lawrence and Harrington, Maud Huth, Canfield and Carlton, Raymond and Caverly, Tim Cronin, O'Brien and Havel, Two Little Pucks, and Joe Maxwell & Co.

A pleasing diversion interrupted the performance. The members of the association were marched to the stage, and after a graceful speech by Counsellor Abraham Levy, a large silver loving cup, suitably inscribed, was presented to Mr. Moe Levy, who acknowledged his thanks.

Mr. Lewis Nixon, the leader of Tammany, with a large delegation of men in official and political life, attended.

Young Folks' League, Hebrew Infant Asylum.

The Hebrew Infant Asylum, one of the worthiest charities of the day, is fortunate in having for an auxiliary the Young Folks' League, and many are the dollars which find their way annually into the coffers of this institution through the efforts of the 500 young ladies and gentlemen, whose names appear on the roster of the younger society.

The organization has attained a great popularity, and owes its great success to the monthly dances and reunions given by them, the proceeds of which are eventually turned in to the parent organization, to assist in its great charity. The next affair of this league will be a costume cotillion, to be held at the Harlem Casino, on March 1, and Harlem society is anticipating an enjoyable evening. Unique invitations have been extended to prominent personages, and there is promise of many surprises in store for those who attend.

The annual entertainment and ball of this organization will take place on April 12 at Lexington Avenue Opera House and will consist of the presentation of an original review, especially written for them by Messrs. Samuel Speck and Robert Kaiser, entitled "The Deputante," and far ahead as the present is, over half the boxes and nearly all the reserved orchestra seats have been bespoken.

Seligman Solomon Society.

Memorial services in commemoration of Seligman Solomon will be held by the alumni of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum at their rooms, 237 E. 57th street, Monday evening, the 17th inst. The venerable Dr. Herman Baar, ex-President Leopold Minster and others have been invited to speak. All friends are welcome. The society was recently favored with a communication from Hon. Director Emanuel Lehman, enclosing a check for a substantial amount. This acknowledgment of their work proved very encouraging.

Purim Association Ball.

The forty-second annual affair of the Purim Association will this year be in the nature of a ball to be given on Thursday, March 20, at the Metropolitan Opera House. The proceeds will be devoted to the United Hebrew Charities.

Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society.

After next Saturday morning's service, the following prizes will be awarded to boy and girl pupils of this institution.

Two prizes, known as Alice and Blanche Lehman prizes, $10 each, donated by Mrs. A. Lehman.

A gold and silver medal known as Posner prize, presented by Mr. Louis S. Posner.

Two prizes of books, a donation of the chaplain of this institution.

The Educational Alliance.

Lincoln's Birthday was fittingly celebrated in the auditorium on Wednesday evening, with a series of patriotic exercises, Hon. A. S. Solomons, presiding.

Hon. Louis Marshall delivered an address touching upon the life and characteristics of Abraham Lincoln, and Rev. H. Maslansky spoke in Yiddish.

Young Folks' League, Temple Anshe Chesed.

By special invitation, the Hebrew Standard's representative was privileged to witness a dress rehearsal of the minstrel performance to be given next Sunday night in Lenox Lyceum by the Young Folks League connected with the Temple Anshe Chesed, located at 160 East 112th street. If the coming performance is but half as good as the rehearsal, the large audience expected will have nothing to complain of. Those who will play the bones are Charley Walker, Monroe Washer and Isaac Kroil, while the tambos will be manipulated by Moe Rothschild, Morris Monheimer and David Rosenfeld. Of the 150 members in the club, only fifty have been selected to take part, and they were taken for their excellent voices. Mr. Murray Schiff will be the interlocutor. The committee has promised some wonderful novelties for the occasion.

The society itself should receive much consideration from the public. It is but one year in existence and is perhaps a more important factor than the congregation itself from which it has originated. The main object, or rather objects, are sociability, advancement of Judaism and literary advancement. In all three they have made wonderful progress. The newly elected officers are: President, Moe Rothschild; vice-president, Miss Mary Klein; recording secretary, Miss Gertie Herzberg; financial secretary, Miss Julia Monheimer; treasurer, Mr. Meyer Monheimer; auditor, Mr. Herman Hess; and guard, Mr. Jacob Kroil. Also this executive board: Mr. Murray Schiff, Miss Fannie Haas and Mr. Jacob Gerson.

A Great Statement.

The casual observer will see in the particulars of the Equitable Life Assurance Society's statement, published to-day, only the figures of a large business corporation. To those, however, who are familiar with insurance matters they convey an entirely different impression. The Equitable is the youngest of the so-called "Giants," and the commanding position which it occupies among assurance companies is the fruit of earnest endeavor wisely directed along proper lines and pushed with the energy which is always a sure guarantee of success. The forty-two years of the society's history have been replete with surprises in the shape of reforms which have been instrumental in placing the business on such a well-founded basis. The society now holds a much stronger and more satisfactory position than it has occupied at any previous time in its history. Assets now amount to $331,039,720, surplus to $71,129,042, and during the last year the income amounted to $84,374,606, with payments to policy holders of $27,714,621. The dividends paid to policy holders, $3,742,520, are greater than those of any other company. All items show large increases over those of the previous year and are cause for congratulations to both officers and assured. The society is the "strongest in the world," and in business "not for a day, but for all time."

Dinner to Hon. Randolph Guggenheimer.

Hon. Randolph Guggenheimer, until lately President of the Council of the City of New York, was tendered a dinner on Monday evening, the 10th inst., at the Hotel Savoy, 59th street and Fifth avenue. The dinner was attended by a large number of Mr. Guggenheimer's personal friends, who desired to show their recognition of his distinguished services to the public as president of the council. Mr. Guggenheimer was the recipient of a handsome loving cup.

A number of eloquent tributes were paid to the distinguished guest. Mr. Guggenheimer feelingly replied, and among other things said:

"It is very difficult to find words which will be adequate to express the sentiment with which my heart is filled to-night. In this instance the difficulty is intensified by the fact that I am constrained by your kindness to speak of myself and my public career. That is always a hazardous theme and demands for its proper treatment a gift of oratory higher than that which nature has conferred upon me. I wish to say to you in a few plain, but absolutely sincere words, that I appreciate the beautiful gift which you have presented to me not because of its intrinsic value—although even that is very great—but because it is a token of your friendship and approval. I can assure you that I regard this outward mark of your esteem as one of the most conspicuous honors which has ever been conferred upon me, either in my private or official life. I thank you from the very bottom of my heart. I shall always regard this gift, because of its significance, as one of the most cherished of my possessions.

"I am aware of the fact that men are generally blind to the faults of their friends, and exaggerate their virtues. I feel that in my case you have to a large extent revealed this dual character. We have been associated in business and social life, and have learned both in the shadow and the sunshine that friendship is the world's crowning glory. That alone remains strong and immutable when all other passions have dimmed their fires. I am grateful to fortune that I possess the esteem and affection of so many friends from whose hands and hearts I have never failed to find a warm grasp and greeting.

"But, while I know the true value of such friendship as yours and realize that it was the inspiration which prompted you to make this presentation to me, I should be sorry if it were not in some degree an expression of public opinion also. In spite of the happiness which you have conferred upon me by this evening's celebration, I am constrained to say that in my opinion a premium should not be set upon honesty in public office. That you should have done so in my case is an arraignment of present political conditions. I do not think that an official should be thanked because he has discharged his public duties with fidelity. In my official career, I have neither sought nor asked for any reward except the approbation of my fellow-citizens. That is the only honor to which a public officer should aspire. It has been my one ambition that I may hand down to posterity the memory of a life that has been marked by usefulness not merely to myself and my family but also to the public. I rejoice to believe that the people of this city have, without any political discrimination, set the seal of their approval upon my official career. If that is true, and I feel and thankfully believe that it is true, I shall be glad to transmit to my children a more significant heritage than could be represented by all earth's accumulated wealth.

"I have just completed a term of four years as the first and probably the last president of the council. I was elected to fill that important office by the votes of my fellow-citizens. It gives me infinite pleasure to know, from the lips of your eloquent chairman, from your presence here to-night and from the press of this city that I have faithfully discharged the duties of that office. During that time I acted as the representative, not of one political party only, but of all the people. I made it my object, and you have persuaded me that I have succeeded in doing so, to make my official life harmonize with the principle which is so magnificently and tersely expressed in the phrase, 'public office is a public trust.' As a Commissioner of Education and as President of the Council, I never attempted to win the favor of any man or of any political party. I devoted my time and energies to the cause of education and the protection of this city's interests. That was the only ideal of public duty which I set before me; and I ask for no other reward except the proud assurance that, in your estimation, and that of the people, I have achieved it."

For Jewish Law Students.

New York, Feb. 7, 1902.

To the Editor of the Hebrew Standard:
Dear Sir—The following from Mr. Danaher, secretary of the State Board of Law Examiners, Albany, N. Y., will doubtless interest Jewish law students:

"Albany, N. Y., Jan. 15, 1902.
"Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, 99 Central Park West, New York City:

"My Dear Sir—I have your esteemed favor of Jan. 14, 1902. The State Board of Law Examiners will certainly make every endeavor possible within the conditions surrounding its public work to meet the suggestions contained in your letter. I will say your communication before the board at its next meeting, and will write to you in relation thereto.

"We have always gladly consented that the young men who do not wish to write on Saturday because of their religious convictions could attend the examination held in Albany on Thursday, or in Rochester on the same day, and quite a few who live in New York and Brooklyn take advantage of the permission this week. Yours very truly,

Dear Sir—I have your favor of Jan. 20, in which you call the attention of the State Board of Law Examiners to the dates of the Jewish holy days during the present year. A communication from the Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, of New York City, was received in relation to the same matter, and was considered by the State Board of Examiners.

"We regret very much that conditions are such as we have heretofore explained, that examinations for admission to the bar must be held in New York City on Saturdays. We have made every endeavor to change conditions, but thus far have been unsuccessful, but we will not desist in our efforts until we are able to do so. It was by more accident that our examinations in April were fixed for the 22d, and in ignorance of the fact that it was a Jewish holy day. We have announced, according to law, our schedule for 1902 and cannot change the same, but if you would send me the holy days for 1903, we will see that the examinations are held on no days that you object to, except in New York City on Saturdays, and as to those we will give all applicants who so desire permission to apply in Albany on some other day. Yours very truly,

"F. M. DANAHER,

"Secretary."

The Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum

It is an old adage that in some places "when it rains it pours." This is the case with the orphan children in Brooklyn during recent days. Jan. 27 is annually celebrated by them. It is the natal day of their beloved matron, "Mama Lazarus." This time the Literary Society of the Asylum, in conjunction with other kind friends, provided an entertainment that was very enjoyable. Other kind friends also recently provided an entertainment at which the wonderful cinematograph pictures were displayed, to the great delight of the little ones. Last but not least on Sunday, the 9th inst., the Ladies' Benevolent Society of Greenpoint provided the children with a luncheon, including ice cream and cake. Each child received a huge portion of both, which, after saying grace, he and she disposed of in short order. As was well said by their vice-president, Mrs. Julia Schwartz, who spoke a few words of welcome to the children, it gave the visitors present almost as much pleasure as it did the children, whose delight was apparent in their chubby, cheerful faces. Mrs. Schwartz spoke very highly of Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus, referred to their goodness to their young charges, and thanked them warmly for the courtesies extended to her society, which she in the absence of its esteemed president, Mrs. Rachel May, ably represented.

The other officers of the Ladies' Benevolent Society of Greenpoint, which is attached to Temple Beth El, there are: Mrs. Clara Mannheim, treasurer; Rev. I. Reichert, secretary, and Mrs. L. Hyman, conductress. Past Vice-President Mrs. P. Hanser, only Past President Mrs. A. Hammerschlag, Mrs. Rachel Stern, Mrs. N. Nathan, Mrs. S. Brush, Mrs. Storger, Miss Storger, Mrs. Klein, Mrs. Goodman and Mrs. Dangler and others were among the many who were present and inspected the excellent appointments of this model institution.

While the above referred to treat was being given to the little ones the alumni of the Asylum was holding its first regular meeting in the chapel of the institution. The attendance was large and the proceedings were interesting. Gregory Levin, a graduate of one of the Brooklyn high schools, presided, and in a businesslike manner read the constitution, which had been written by the Executive Committee. It proved to be a document worthy of praise, not only for its contents, but also for its brevity. The treasurer's report, read by Miss Sadie Shepard, opened with a contribution from Supt. Lazarus, which was received with applause. The meeting was also addressed by Mr. Leopold Minster, ex-president of the alumni of the H. O. A. of New York. He congratulated them on their creditable beginning and gave them a few suggestions as to how they might multiply and prosper. He pointed out how the New York Alumni had earned the approval of the friends and directors of their alma mater, and assured them that in Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus they would find staunch friends who would aid them whenever they could. After Mr. Minster's remarks, which were attentively followed, he was thanked by the society, which thereupon adjourned to meet again monthly. For the present the chapel of the Asylum has been offered to them as a meeting place. The members presented a fine appearance and we wish them much success.

On Tuesday, Feb. 18, Supt. Paul Lazarus and his son, Paul N. Lazarus, aged 14, will sail for Europe on a vacation to last two months. Mr. Lazarus leaves to visit his venerable mother, whom he has not seen in many years. She is a much respected resident of the town of Wittenberg, in Mecklenburg, Germany, and on March 17 (D. V.) she will celebrate her 93d birthday, at which her beloved son and grandson will be present. The orphan children are deeply attached to Mr. Lazarus, and he enjoys the good wishes of every one of them, from the smallest tot to the eldest. He and his worthy wife reciprocate this affection, and to this largely is the present fine condition of the Asylum due.

P. S.—Since the above was written a cablegram was received, announcing the demise of the mother of Mrs. Lazarus. Our sincere condolences are extended to the bereaved family. May her soul rest in peace.—(Ed.)

ested in communal work to attend a public meeting to be held at Temple B Elohim, Keap street, Brooklyn (through the courtesy of the trustees), on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 16, 1902, at 3 o'clock for the purpose of bringing the movement for the building of a hospital which has already made great progress more prominently before the public. This work should appeal to all, and what has already been accomplished since the incorporation in November 1901, will be told at this meeting. Following gentlemen have accepted invitations to address the meeting: H. Edward Lauterbach, Jacob Fuhs, M. Joseph L. Buttenwieser, Hugo Wintner.

Rev. Raphael Benjamin, M. A., taken charge of the Keap Street Temple during the absence of the Rev. Leopold Wintner, who has gone to Orient. Rabbi Benjamin will preach every Friday evening at 8 and every Saturday morning at 10 until further notice.

A "study meeting" of the Council Jewish Women, Brooklyn section, will be held next Monday at 2:30 p. m. in State Street Synagogue. Rev. Raphael Benjamin, M. A., will deliver a Jewish historical lecture.

generous, hearty and unstinted Republican hospitality which the people of New York extend to his Imperial Highness of Prussia is organized in due proportion by the Jews of America—not because a German Royalty deserves it of American Judaism, but because, being Americans and free, we Jews of New York owe it to ourselves that we should greet the national guest warmly and treat him well.

A Jew Whom Shakespeare Knew.

"An especially weighty argument lies in the fact that the study of the Jewish nature, to which his Shylock bears witness, would have been impossible in England, where no Jews were permitted by law to reside since their expulsion, began in the time of Richard Coeur de Lion and completed in 1290. Not until Cromwell's time was the embargo removed, in a few cases."

Peccavimus. We have sinned. Led by the expression of certain wrong views which Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of Portland, Ore., expounded a month or so ago, in a lecture on Shylock we gave some much-needed information, about the sources from which Shakespeare drew his plot, in these columns. Followed attempts by ill-informed quid-nuncs to tell all they did not know about the matter. Came, thereafter, Rabbi E. G. Hirsch to New York and lectured, en route, in New Jersey on the same topic—lectured brilliantly, making many a slip and sudden sally in his foaming career. Followed a deluge of letters giving ample misinformation about Shakespeare and the Shylock play in the columns of the N. Y. Herald.

We knew it was bound to come and awaited it in breathless terror—the statement that the Bard of Avon could not have known any Jews in England. Last Sunday week 'as ever was' the extract from George Brandes' William Shakespeare which reads this article, was quoted with approval by a correspondent of the before-mentioned journal.

George Brandes, Jew as he is, is wrong, in every statement in the brief extract quoted. Jews were not expelled from England in the days of Richard Coeur de Lion. Jews were not re-admitted in the days of Cromwell. Brandes' statement reminds us of the French Academy's alleged first definition of a crab: "A crab is a little red fish that walks backwards." Cuvier thus criticized the definition: "Your definition, gentlemen, is excellent. Only, the crab does not walk backwards; it is not a fish; it is not red. With those slight exceptions your statement is admirable." Something similar may be, as politely, applied to Brandes' statement.

Not only were there Jews in England—though, of course, in scanty numbers—long before the days of Cromwell or rather of Charles the Second (in whose reign they began to return, in numbers, from Holland), but Shakespeare knew and was probably intimate with a very remarkable and prominent Jew whose Jewish children were English-born and had for playmates and friends other Jews, English-born, also.

Thus the living Jewish personages from whom Shakespeare drew his portraiture of Shylock, Tubal and Jessica were all resident in England. Not only did they give Shakespeare the models for his Jewish characters, but their prominence and renown helped to make The Merchant of Venice popular from the first. Moreover, the presence and history led to the production of English plays with Jewish characters years before Shakespeare's play was written. One of these plays has survived. It is Christopher Marlowe's famous "Jew of Malta." How and why all this happened is too long a story for these columns just now. Perhaps we shall tell the story later on.

The Problem of the Ghetto.

I.
There has never been, in the history of the world, so large an aggregation of Jews in one city as there is now in New York—that is, with the one possible exception of Alexandria in the first century of the Christian Era. From countries far and wide our unhappy brethren come thronging hitherward seeking, like Noah's dove, a resting place for the soles of their feet—seeking asylum and the right to live their lives in peace and with a hope, no matter how distant, of eventual prosperity.

The great heart of America opens wide the door for the longed-for asylum to them, and so long as they obey the laws of the land and are not antagonistic to the spirit of Liberty which forms the American atmosphere, they are welcome. But their hardships are inevitably many and their resources inevitably limited. It has often been pointed out that the worst enemy and oppressor that in many instances they find here, is their own brother-Jew. The sweatshop saps their vitality, dulls their intelligence, and blunts their hopes. They find no pure air nor home-comfort and home-life in that greatest crime of our day called "New York."

Small wonder that flying from inhuman and merciless tyranny and oppression over hostile lands and stormy seas—despised, maltreated and underfed on the way—many of them reach these shores but to fall fainting, ill, dying, from the further hardships they have to encounter here. Many of them thus, naturally, become objects of charity, and no one will deny that the more happily-circumstanced Jews of this city show a generous readiness to aid them.

But this desire to aid is in many cases baffled through two opposing forces. The Yiddish-speaking Jew who has prospered and is still a resident of the Ghetto helps, it is claimed, freely by purse and personal effort. But he is suspicious of modern theories and refuses to seek the aid of the experienced almoner. He thus pauperizes the objects of his sympathy. The bold-faced schmorretz and the impudent imposter flourishes, while the really necessitous and deserving are overlooked.

John Ruskin long ago remarked: "You know that to give alms is nothing unless you give thought also, and therefore it is written—not blessed is he that feedeth the poor but—blessed is he that considereth the poor" (Psalms xli, 1.). Ruskin's observation was anticipated nineteen hundred years ago. In the Talmud we find:

"אשרי נתון לרל" אין כתיב כאן אלא "אשרי משכיל אל רל" זה שררה מסתכל במציה וראך לעשותה
"Is it not written thus: "Happy he who giveth to the weak," but "happy he who is wise for the weak." He is the one who is able to recognize how truly to fulfil the commandment." We offer our apologies to those modernized Jews who object so strongly to Hebrew, for this quotation.)
The Jew has thus no objection to wise organized charity. The modern Jew is mainly a charity organizer—but unhappily he is so, almost always, by deputy. Let it be said, at once, that if modern charity-organization fails, or neglects, to stimulate the sense of personal responsibility while protecting it against imposture it becomes a great evil. The mere official soon learns that he is not expected to be "wise for the weak and poor." All his wisdom is to be reserved in the interests of his patrons. He has to learn cleverly how to be "wise for the strong and rich," or, like Othello, his occupation's gone. Your paid charity organizer, therefore, is always, more or less, under the temptation to minimize the claims on his patrons, to check the appeals of the wretched, to drive the latter back to their miserable lairs and to afford the well-to-do excuses for buttoning their pockets, hardening their hearts, and setting faces like flint. This, also, is a great evil under the sun.

It is by no means inevitable, that it should be so. It is by no means inherent in the principle of charity organization that these results should follow. There are many noble instances which sufficiently prove the contrary. But, frankly, we have failed to observe these instances of late among our great central organized Jewish charities. No doubt we shall be bitterly and venomously assailed for these remarks and those we shall feel it our duty to make in subsequent articles. But the problem of our Ghetto poor is too onerous for such considerations to deter us.

An Extraordinary Affair.

In the Boston Morning Journal of the 20th of January last, Dr. Lee K. Frankel, Manager of the United Hebrew Charities of New York, is reported to have said, in the course of a lecture, delivered in Boston the evening before:

"For the first time in the history of Judea the name of the Jewish woman in New York is almost a synonym for vice and immorality."

The HEBREW STANDARD took up the matter. Dr. Frankel denies the alleged statement. The Journal affirms the substantial accuracy of its report.

What Dr. Frankel has failed to do, is to state what he really did say and to explain why he did not at once deny the atrocious libel.

How long is Frankel to be allowed to treat this grave matter with contemptuous silence?

The Staats-Zeitung will give Prince Henry a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, on Wednesday, Feb. 26th. Wednesdays in Lent being fast days, Roman Catholics are forbidden to eat meat, but Archbishop Corrigan has granted a special dispensation to Catholics attending the dinner, which will allow the eating of meat or fish, but not of both. It is up to some eminent Reform Rabbi now, to give a dispensation to our Jewish brethren allowing them to partake of tréfa food in honor of Prince Henry.

Those who enjoy the warmth and comfort of their well-furnished homes should think of the sufferings of the poor during this inclement weather. If you have no time for personal service, send your donations to any of the Sisterhoods, who will cheerfully be the almoner of your bounties.

The Mirror.

Sombody is going about supplying Jewish news to the provincial Christian journals. This news is often of fearful and wonderful nature. The Nashville (Tenn.) Banner of the 28th ult., informs its readers that, "On January 12th at the Isaac M. Wise Hospital, Omaha, Neb., was had the christening of the first Jewish child born in the institution." Note first of all the extraordinarily wooden diction! Then that touch about "Christening" the first Jewish boy born in an "Isaac M. Wise" institution is delicious in its combination of false delicacy and unconscious satire.

D'you notice it? America is the Belle of the International Ball. Here's Germany asking the favor of the first quadrille with her. France has long ago secured a waltz. England is to sit out a 'schottische' and a 'Lancers' with her. Russia is holding-out a newly-washed and perfumed hand for her program-card in search of a dance not appropriated. Well done, Miss Columbia; you're making the wall-flowers mad with envy. But don't get flirting with these young men. They're all 'detrimentals' more or less and are not after you for your own sweet self, but are after your money.

The Russian Jew in America is often a most remarkably clever fellow. His linguistic attainments are at times marvellous. Here is Wiernik—whom I have hitherto known as a writer of especially good and fluent Yiddish, a good Hebraist, and an acknowledged authority on Russian literature—writing an article in the Jewish Comment in excellent English. His subject is the Schnorrers of the N. Y. Ghetto, and it is an extremely amusing and well-written article.

Mind you, it is nothing exceptional to have an acquaintance with three other languages than your mother-tongue. A great many fellows can claim that merit. Then, again, there are a number of foreign-born Americans who can write acceptably in two languages. But to have the pen mastery of four languages, like Wiernik, is a rare accomplishment and argues great intellectuality in its possessor. The future of American Judaism lies with the descendants of the Russian Jew. I wonder what they will evolve!

I recommend my readers to keep an attentive eye on the future doings of Rabbi Harry Weiss of Pueblo, Col. This young Cincinnati graduate writes admirable English verse. Here are a couple of stanzas from an Ode in memory of the late Rabbi Adolph Moses which he published in last week's American Israelite:

"His rugged gentleness,
Like a chiseled stone,
Of the Moses you may know,
Carved by Michael Angelo,
Splendid, lone.

One may take a flower away,
Chalice, stem and all,
Yet its plot is redolent
With the sweetness which it spent,
So I know his goodness lives perpetual."

The second stanza is really exquisite—and deserves to be remembered and quoted. It is so rare to find an American Rabbi with some knowledge of prosody and some smack of literary taste that young Rabbi Weiss is all the more remarkable.

I notice that the Jewish press is pretty unanimous in condemnation of President Nathaniel Myers' proposal to excise the word "Hebrew" from the name of the N. Y. Hebrew Technical School for Girls. I hope sincerely that the lesson will have borne fruit before this item is published. This pseudo-liberalism in such matters is really insufferable and argues a bigotry equal to that of the most fanatical chossid.

Our brothers in Canada are taking vigorous action against the local traducers of our people. A certain Robillard, editor, or proprietor, of a Montreal Sunday paper intitled Le Pionnier, has been publishing articles violently abusing the Jews. Young Mr. A. H. Vineberg, a graduate and law-student of McGill College, has had him arrested on the charge of criminal libel. Mr. S. W. Jacobs, the well-known barrister and part-owner of the local Jewish Times, is to act as counsel for the plaintiff.

These two young men have earned the plaudits of all Jews for their unselfish and public-spirited action. There are many who argue that it is best to take no notice. But I hold that it is far better to nip such scandalous mischief-making in the bud. Let irresponsible traducers of a whole people be taught that in America the fair fame of a race is as inviolable, under the egis of the law, as is their property, and a wholesome check will be administered to the venomous propensities of cowardly libellers.

The American Israelite has a very judicious and pertinent word to say about the bad break attributed to Lee K. Frankel, of our U. H. C. at Boston recently. Frankel haughtily denies that he said what is attributed to him. The Boston reporter stoutly maintains the substantial veracity of his report. We are all willing to believe Dr. Frankel. We are, however, unable to believe that the Boston reporter fabricated his report out of whole cloth. Why, indeed, should he?

Now hauteur and contemptuous disregard of misrepresentation may be all very well in the private citizen. But a man, who, leider gesagt, may pose as a representative Jew has to be very careful not only about what he omits to say, but that what he does say should not be susceptible of misrepresentation. The columns of the Boston Journal were indubitably open to Dr. Frankel for a peremptory, explicit and prompt denial of his alleged atrocious sentiment.

Give a lie a day's start and you cannot overtake it in a century. Frankel is reported in a reputable daily paper to have made a statement about Jewish women which even the blackguardly scribblers of the Libre Parole in Paris would have feared to father. It is inconceivable that he was not aware of the shocking libel attributed to him! Why did he not take immediate and practical steps to stop the spreading of the venomous and ghastly lie?

In place of such action he makes no move whatever. When the HEBREW STANDARD went out of its way to aid him in counteracting the deplorable evil that would certainly follow the publication of the report, false or true, he treats its courteous editor, de haut en bas, and takes no such action; even then, as every right minded sensible man would feel to be his bounden duty. Frankel is a peach, a luscious over-ripe article—but I feel certain he is hanging on the wrong bough.

I thought so. Rabbi E. G. Hirsch denies, in last Saturday's N. Y. Herald that he stated in his lecture at Montclair that Pius VI. supplied Shakespeare with his material for the Merchant of Venice. The reference was to a biography of Pope Sixtus V. He also admits that the story is not historical. Hirsch is on solid ground for the simple reason that the HEBREW STANDARD of 10th January last gave him his daat. Which reminds us to remark that if all Reform Rabbis and others will but take their opinions from us they will avoid many a blunder and bad break.

The typographical blunders in a daily newspaper are bad enough. They are worse in a weekly journal. Still worse are they in a periodical magazine. Worst of all in a book which has been read and re-read till it would seem impossible that any error could escape the vigilant eye of the proof-reader. Yet bibliophiles cheerfully give thousands for a copy of the Vinegar Bible containing Isaiah's parable of the vineyard set up as the "parable of the vinegar."

The Bible which stated that "Asher continued on the sea-shore and abode in his breeches" (Judges v, 17) is a great curiosity. But there a certain feeling of security results from the statement that Asher respected the public sense of decency. I am not sure however whether the "Breeches Bible" is not so called because of an emendation in I. Kings xi, 37, where the Holy Book is made to state that "Solomon repaired the breeches of the city of David, his father." In that case Solomon's renown for wisdom would pale before his fame for industry and humility.

I am led to these rambling remarks by observing a curious blunder in Zangwill's The Mantle of Elijah (New York, Harper & Bros., 1904), which I have been reading lately. On page 361 it states Raphael's "heart warmed to the rogue who had mixed ontological speculation with the picking of opium." The substitution of the last word for oakum was a happy blunder. No doubt Prof. Pont's metaphysic demanded a supply of the somniferous and pain-alleviating drug for his readers whose sufferings in trying to follow the old scamp's reasoning must have been dreadful.

A poor, struggling Rabbi was bewailing, to a sympathetic colleague, his narrow circumstances and hard struggles. "My income is small," said he, "yet I have to maintain appearances. I get deeper and deeper into debt as my creditors grow more and more exacting. Now they are threatening to make a public scandal about it. And some of them are members of my own congregation and know how straitened are my circumstances! What am I to do?" "I don't know, really," replied the other, "unless you are able to take the Psalmist's advice and stop their clamor." "What advice do you mean?" asked the embarrassed one. The reply was: "מה לרם ולא ידבר." ASPAKLARYA.

IN THE THEATRES.

Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre.
Clay M. Greene has written another travesty, and it is said to be the wittiest which has come from his pen. This time he lampoons "A Gentleman of France," and the Proctor Stock Co. will present it at the Fifth Avenue under the title of "The Gentle Mr. Bellew of France." "A Midnight Bell," one of Charles H. Hoyt's most popular plays, will be presented, and the following vaudeville numbers: The Ten-Ich! Troupe, Willis P. Sweatnam, Bartlett and May, Lillian Tyce, Sabine and Mullaney, the Petching Brothers, and Tom Brown.

Bijou Theatre.
Miss Amelia Bingham in "Lady Margaret" continues to make the Bijou the society headquarters it was last season during her production of "The Climbers." She has greatly increased her reputation as an actress in Mr. Rose's charming play, and the manner of its presentation stamps her as second to none as a manager, even though she be a woman. Assisting Miss Bingham are Annie Irish, Cora Tanner, Madge Carr Cook, Minnie Dupree, Mrs. Charles Walcott, Bijou Fernandes, Frank Worthing, Charles Walcott, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Edward Abeles, Arnold Daly, Verner Clarges and others, and such a company has rarely been brought together. Miss Bingham will revive "The Climbers" Feb. 24.

Proctor's 125th Street Theatre.
Another Hoyt play, "A Trip to Chinatown," will be presented by the Proctor Stock Co. at the 125th Street. "Locked Out," a novel little sketch, will serve as the curtain raiser, and Peter F. Dalley will head the delegation of vaudeville entertainers, followed by Falk and Semon, Gus Williams and the kalatechnoscope.

Theatre Republic.
In pursuance with the plan originally laid out for the New York season, Maurice Campbell, Henrietta Crossman's manager, has made a revival of her great success, "Mistress Nell," which opened Monday night at the Theatre Republic, for the second week of her engagement. Mr. Campbell has in contemplation a number of other plays to follow "Mistress Nell." The first will be an elaborate revival of "As You Like It," in which Miss Crossman made a positive sensation when she first essayed the role in Boston a few weeks ago.

Proctor's 58th Street Theatre.
The 58th Street will return to straight vaudeville for one week only, and Manager Proctor will make it an event of the season for East Siders. The bill will be one of the most expensive he has ever presented at that house, and will include Caron and Herbert, Tommy O'Brien and Clara Havel, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Nobles, Mlle. Chester's trained dogs, Barr and Evans, Loney Haskell, Monroe and Sinclair, and the kalatechnoscope.

Harlem Opera House.
William A. Brady's production of "Way Down East," which is scheduled to return to the Harlem Opera House on Monday next, has played some remarkable engagements since last it was in this city. It opened the season at McVicker's Theatre, Chicago, where it already had had nearly 150 performances, and remained there seven weeks, during which the receipts were $77,000. Altogether, "Way Down East" is a wonderful play. It is enacted by a cast which includes Phoebe Davies, Robert Fischer, Urie B. Collins, Will T. Ellwanger, Frank Bell, Felix Haney, Frank Currier, J. H. Bunny, Sara Stevens, Ella Hugh Wood, Marion Louise Shirley and a double quartet.

Proctor's 23d Street Theatre.
Helene Mora, the famous lady baritone, heads Manager Proctor's continuous vaudeville programme at the 23d Street. The Smedley Sketch Club will offer a pathetic little play as a second feature, and George Evans, the "Honey Boy," will be another leading number. The Proctor Stock Co. will present one of Clay M. Greene's travesties as an extra feature. John Keffell, Harry La Rose and Bonnie Thornton will be star factors in a bill which will also include White and Simmons, Barrows and Travis, Belmont and O'Brien, Short and Edwards, and Eddie Mack.

New York Theatre.
"The Hall of Fame," which after three months of preparation and many postponements, was shown to the public last Wednesday night for the first time. It is a comic pictorial review in three acts and ten scenes by Sydney Rosenfeld. Lyrics by Geo. V. Hobart and music by A. Baldwin Sloane, and provides ample opportunities for the clever abilities of such burlesque comedians as Marie Dressler, Mabelle Gilman, Dan McAvoy, Louis Harrison, Frank Doane, Junie McCree, Amelia Sumerville, Ada Lewis and all the others who distinguished themselves in "The King's Carnival." "The Hall of Fame" is the most stupendous production yet attempted by the Messrs. Sire. Every one of its ten scenes is a masterpiece of scene painting and mechanical effect, and nothing has hitherto been done at the New York Theatre that can compare with it in magnificence of costuming and general stage equipment.

Brooklyn Theatres.
Grand Opera House.
An old but extremely popular attraction announced for next week is Jacob Litt's production of "In Old Kentucky." The ravages of time do not seem to have left any perceptible marks on this particular product of American dramatic genius, and it is one of the very few plays of this century that bids fair to go on forever. The public, season after season, look forward to the coming of "In Old Kentucky" in the natural course of theatrical events, and it seems to become a sort of habit to "see it once more."

Bijou Theatre.
Mr. J. K. (Fritz) Emmet, after having spent several months at the home-stead of the Boers, is now appearing in scene and action, reproducing the life of one of these warriors. He is supported by Miss Lottie Gilson, "The Little Magnet." The other parts of the play, "The Outpost," and which will be seen at the Bijou Theatre, Monday, Feb. 17, are filled by Metropolitan favorites. The tour is under the direction of Messrs. Hürtig & Seamon.

Amphion Theatre.
Klaw & Erlanger will bring their production, "The Liberty Belles," to the Amphion on Monday night. "The Liberty Belles," which is by Harry B. Smith, recently closed a three months' engagement at the Madison Square Theatre, Manhattan, and the production will be brought over intact. Harry Davenport, Harry Gilfoil, Btta Butler and, Sapdol Milliken head the cast, and the "Pink Pajama Girl" is as bewitching as ever.

Why he can't jump. Here is one that a young man who knows a good story when he hears it heard one railroad man tell another in a depot up the line the other day: "We picked up a new Irishman somewhere up country an' set him to work brakin' on a construction train at 3 cents a mile for wages. One day when him an' me was on the train she got away on one of them mountain grades, an' the first thing we knowed she was flyin' down the track at about ninety miles an hour, with nothin' in sight but the ditch an' the happy huntin' grounds, when we come to the end. I twisted 'em down as hard as I could all along the tops, an' then of a sudden I see Mike crawlin' along toward the end of one of the cars on all fours, with his face the color of milk. I thought he was gettin' ready to jump, an' I see his finish if he did. "Mike, I says, 'for heaven's sake don't jump!"

A Boston Translation. Little Emerson—Mamma, I find no marginal note in elucidation of this expression, which I observe frequently to occur in my volume of "Fairy Tale Classics," "With bated breath." What is the proper interpretation of the phrase? "Mamma—"With bated breath," my son, commonly occurs in fairy tales. Your father often returns from piscatorial excursions with bated breath. The phrase in such instances, however, has no significance as applying to the bait employed to allure the fish; but is merely an elastic term of dubious meaning and suspicious origin, utilized, as I have already intimated, simply because of the sanction which it has gained by customary usage in fairy tales generally. Do you comprehend, Emerson? Little Emerson—Perfectly, mamma.—Judge.

Coincidences of Dates. Attention has often been called to the curious fact of the date Sept. 3 figuring so largely in the history of Oliver Cromwell. That very dominating man was born on Sept. 3, 1599; he won the battle of Dunbar, Sept. 3, 1650; that of Worcester, Sept. 3, 1651, and he died Sept. 3, 1658. But we have lately come across some coincidences of dates which, so far as we know, have not been noticed before. The number 88 seems to have had fatal influence on the Stuarts. Robert II., the first Stuart King, died in 1388; James II. was killed at the siege of Roxburgh Castle, 1488; Mary, queen of Scots, was beheaded in Fotheringhay, 1588 (new style); James VII. (II. of England) was dethroned in 1688; Bonny Prince Charlie died in Rome, 1788, and with him died the last hopes of the Jacobites.

Feline Depravity. "Oh, Horace," wailed his young wife, "I have just found out that Ajax, our beautiful Angora cat, has been leading a double life!" "That makes eighteen, I suppose," said Horace. "What has he been doing?" "You know I let him out every morning, because he seems to want to go and play out of doors. Well, I have discovered that he goes over to the Robinsons and lets them feed him and pet him."—Chicago Tribune.

The Betel Nut. Betel nuts, the produce of the areca palm, are chiefly used as a masticatory by the natives of the east. They are too small to be applied to many ornamental uses, but are occasionally employed by the turner and wrought into beads for bracelets, small rosary cases and other little fancy articles. In the Museum of Economic Botany at Kew there is a walking stick made of these nuts, sliced, mounted or supported on an iron center.

A Zoo Discussion. "You know," said the orang outang, "that man is descended from a monkey." "Yes," answered the chimpanzee, "and his descent has been very great. But let us set it down to his credit that he tries to rise again. Every now and then you hear of some man who is using his best to make a monkey of himself."—Washington Star.

JUDGES COURT OF APPEALS. Herman Isaacs, president, of Baltimore. ASSOCIATE JUDGES. Samuel Einstein of Washington, D. C.

Pincus Levy, in or about the year 1892, was a member of Philadelphia Lodge No. 56, one of the lodges of the Independent Order Sons of Benjamin.

In 1893 he lost his wife, and there was paid to him by the Independent Order Sons of Benjamin by reason thereof the sum of $500, such Order paying a double insurance or death benefit of $1,000 on the death of a member and $500 on the death of a member's wife.

The Order permits a member to make disposition of the amount of the death benefit payable upon his death by a last will and testament or by a declaration in the will book of the lodge to which he belongs, but provides that in the event of a widow surviving one-half of such amount must be paid to such widow.

Shortly after the death of his wife Mr. Levy made a declaration in the will book of the lodge by which he directed that the $1,000 on his death should be paid by the Independent Order Sons of Benjamin to his two children, Samuel Levy, and Sarah Levy Frank, both of whom were then and still are residents of Philadelphia.

About 1894 Mr. Levy remarried, and under the constitution of the Order such marriage by itself nullified the previous declaration or provision made by him for the benefit of his children.

The widow claims payment to her from this Order of $1,000, the amount of such death benefit, and the children by the first wife likewise claim the same amount of money from the Order under the declaration which their father had made in their favor in 1893; and also denying the validity of the remarriage of their father with the alleged widow, claiming that at the time of such marriage such second wife was already married, that her husband was then and is still living, and that no divorce had ever been obtained by her from such former husband.

If these facts be true, the children would then be the proper beneficiaries and entitled to the money, otherwise the payment must be made to the widow. To enforce her rights in the matter the widow in November last brought suit against the Independent Order Sons of Benjamin to recover the $1,000 involved.

At first it was thought possible on behalf of the Order to remove this action to the United States Circuit Court, so as to obtain jurisdiction over the Philadelphia children, but inasmuch as such court only acquires jurisdiction in actions where the amount involved is $2,000 or more no such proceedings were instituted.

The children, who are residents of Philadelphia, refused to appear in such suit or to accept service of any papers with a view of enabling the Order to interplead and pay the amount involved into court, and eventually to have the children and the alleged widow litigate the matter among themselves.

In January the children likewise brought suit against the Independent Order Sons of Benjamin in the courts of Philadelphia, making the service of the papers on the Commissioner of Insurance of Pennsylvania. The Order was confronted with two suits pending, arising out of the same death benefit in different States, in which the children refused to recognize the New York suit brought by the widow and the widow refused to recognize the Philadelphia suit brought by the children.

A novel action has now been instituted by Dr. Mitchell Levy, the general counsel for the Independent Order Sons of Benjamin, in which he has made as defendants both the widow and the children, the relief sought being to restrain and enjoin both claimants from the further prosecution of their respective actions against the Order and to require them in this third action to interplead between themselves.

Service on the children in Philadelphia will probably be made this week by publication under the order of the Supreme Court.

An application is now pending in Philadelphia for an injunction to prevent the further prosecution of the Philadelphia suit upon the principle of comity, existing between States, and that the courts of Philadelphia should recognize and uphold the rights of the courts of New York State to have the actions litigated and brought to issue within the courts of the State of New York, such action having been first commenced and pending prior to the commencement of the second suit against the Order in Philadelphia.

This, we believe, is the first instance where the equity power of the courts has been involved or brought into question by an order in an independent suit to prevent multiplicity of actions and compelling interpleader, and there is considerable speculation as to the outcome of the action involved.

The Order in all of the three suits is represented by its general counsel, Mr. Mitchell Levy; the interests of the widow are in charge of Mr. Charles Kallsch, an attorney in this city, and Mr. Morris Yeakle of Philadelphia represents the children by the first wife. Mr. Isaac Hassler of Philadelphia has been engaged as consulting attorney in behalf of the Order to protect its interests in these suits in the State of Pennsylvania.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE

MOORISH DECORATION is admirably adapted for library or den. One of our decorative schemes, entirely Eastern in its bold use of pure color, has as a foundation Turkish red arabesqued in rich blue and gold. Walls are hung with old armor and draped with superb Oriental stuffs. Turkish reeds of the same rich tones add to the beauty. A large draped window gives added effect to a luxuriant divan, strewn with exquisite rugs and soft, reposeful pillows.
