Queen Sabbath.

Prologue.

O blessed queen! O gift divine!
To thee I consecrate
The dearest feelings of my heart,
To thee I dedicate!

And if the music of my soul
Can touch my brother's heart,
Then let its melody resound
And thrill his every part.

Let all the sacred chords vibrate,
Harmonize in motion,
Reverberate from shore to shore,
From ocean unto ocean.

O queen of days, O queen of rest,
Thy origin I'll tell;
Thy courtship and thy marriage
To noble Israel.

Thy coronation's pageant
I'll essay to describe;
The brilliant halo thou hast cast
Upon thy sacred tribe.

The emblem of the peaceful life,
Of our future state,
The token of a providence
That watches o'er man's fate.

O gracious queen whom all should love,
From whom all blessings flow
To every mortal's working day,
As all that lives doth know.

How comes it, then, that man perverse,
Allegiance declines,
When tempted by his avarice
To gain the dross that shines

O traitors to the sacred cause,
Ingrates, as serpent's tooth,
Attempting to dethrone the queen
Who symbolizes truth!

They're blinded by the glare of gold,
The idol of the times,
O help me, God, to touch their hearts
With these few humble rhymes.

VIVIAN.

Work To Do.

BY J. IRVING CHARAPH.

It was with a sigh of relief that Louis Smalley closed the book on trigonometry, which had engrossed his attention for nearly two hours. "A tough proposition; that last one," he muttered to himself. Moving his chair close to the window, and resting his head on his hand, he gave himself up to the admiration of the beauty of the evening.

It was, indeed, a beautiful evening, early in June. The sky was dotted with myriads of twinkling stars. Swayed by a gentle breeze, the branches of the tree opposite his window rustled gently, as if whispering among themselves. Below him, on stoops and the sidewalks, men and women sat about enjoying a rest after a hard day's toil. The street, recently asphalted, swarmed with the children of the tenements, playing all sorts of games and sending up glad shouts. Up and down the street walked young men and young girls talking and laughing loudly. For a few minutes Louis sat listlessly, drinking in the beauty of the evening.

"I am glad that my work is over, or virtually so," he mused mentally. A look of contentment spread over his face. He seemed to derive a great deal of relief in the above reflection, and well he might.

If there was one student of the entire number of the class '98, C. C. N. Y., who worked hard, Louis was that one.

"Three years." Sitting there by the window, the period seemed to pass in his memory. It was shortly after his entrance to the City College that he lost his father, who died after a painful and protracted illness, which exhausted the little fortune saved by hard toil and denial of many of the pleasures of life. Excepting a few hundred dollars—insurance of a lodge in which his father had been a member,—Louis and his aged mother were left virtually penniless. The burden of providing for both fell upon his youthful shoulders. (The money that was left over, his mother insisted stoutly must be used to pay the tuition of Louis's study of law.)

Louis valiantly assumed the burden, and bravely did he carry out his trust. Instinctively he turned to teaching privately, and such was his success, that not only did he manage to support his mother and himself, he even added to the few hundred in the bank, and what gratified him most, was a little library, which he had managed to accumulate. They were paper covered editions, of the classics mainly, but there were thirty or more cloth-bound books, and the top shelves of his modest little book-case displayed a history of the Jews by Graetz, several volumes by Spencer, and the works of Buckle. Small wonder, then, that Louis felt contented on this beautiful evening.

Nor was this contentment due to the fact that his work was about over. It was rather the success—which is the reward of diligent application—that attended his work.

To assure success, means to continue exerting oneself in the proper direction. He that rests on his oars, to drift with the tide, loses headway. Louis knew this well.

There was still a great deal of work to do. There was much to accomplish before he could enjoy the fruit of his labor.

His graduation from the City College was simply an episode in his struggle. A little platform in the rungs of his ladder upon which he could pause to view his past work.

His success at the end of three years, he continued musing mentally, was undeniably gratifying. His excellent record in the classes, during the three years, culminated in his being chosen to the honorable and much-coveted post of valedictorian at the next commencement.

So pre-occupied was he in his thoughts that he failed to hear the knock at his door, which was repeated several times by a young man failing to receive any reply, the latter unceremoniously walked into the room.

"Hello, Louis!" he exclaimed, joyfully slapping him on the shoulders.

Louis started, and hastily drew his head in. "Oh, Mose, is that you? I'm glad you came," he said, welcoming the other with a smile on his face.

"What have you been up to this ideal evening?" Mose inquired, noticing a book on the table.

"I was merely," he commenced slowly; Louis always spoke slowly, and in measured tone.

"Merely what?" the other interrupted.

"Merely reviewing a little, you know," Louis added, in an apologetic tone.

"Reviewing, eh?" Mose burst out laughing; "trigonometry, too!" he continued with mock graveness, "tracing diagrams in the sky, with the stars as given points."

A feeble smile played on Louis face. "This is downright cramming."

Mose asserted gravely after a pause. "There is always something one can do, particularly on the eve of one's examination." Louis replied, as he bent under the table and drew forth a chess-board.

"None of that; not to night," Mose exclaimed, waving his hands, as if to emphasize his objection. Louis looked up surprised. Chess was a favorite diversion to these young men. Excellent players, they both spent some very pleasant hours solving puzzles together.

"I do not care to play to-night," Mose explained, noting the look of surprise on his friend's face.

"And why not?" Louis inquired.

"Because it is Wednesday night," Mose replied.

A puzzled look settled over Louis's face; with a shrug of his shoulders, he was about to inquire what Wednesday had to do with their playing chess.

But the other anticipated him. "You are positively exasperating," he began; "for three years you do nothing but work and work; one should take a rest. All work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy, you know."

"To-night," he continued, "there is music in the park. The 69th Regiment Band will hold forth; a fine band that. I have seen the program in to-night's Post; there will be a few classic selections, and you must positively come out from your den to-night. You will come! Will you not?" he added, noting the hesitancy of the other.

This appeal touched a weak spot in Louis; he loved music, though he had heard but little good music. He could not afford to attend the recitals, and could but ill spare the time for free concerts, and to-night he felt greatly tempted to accompany his friend to the park.

"There is a puzzle in last week's Literary Digest," he urged, making a last stand.

"Hang the puzzle!" the other exclaimed, almost indignant. "Why, say, can you conceive anything more incongruous. Band composed of Teutons; regiment composed wholly of Gaels, the aforesaid band rendering music composed by an Italian, eh?"

Both laughed. Louis still hesitated, but finally allowed himself to be persuaded. A few minutes later they were on their way to the park, which was a short distance from Louis's home.

"Tompkins Square," or "Seventh Street Park," as it is more commonly called, is to the residents of the East Side what Saratoga and Newport are to the rich.

During the day the benches are occupied by women and children out for an airing; the women gossip among themselves, while the children run everywhere, making the park resound with their jovial shouting. Facing the fountain, one can always see seated a row of venerable looking old men, of middle class respectability, with their long pipes, discussing the topics of the day.

In the evening the park becomes a veritable Mecca for loving couples, who generally seek out the most shaded and secluded spots, where they sit, whispering words of love to each other.

The benches generally are occupied by men and women of the working class mainly; the former coatless and hatless, the latter attired in light calico with huge flowery hats, while along lanes, women wheeling baby carriages form an endless procession.

On any other evening the pedestrian may, with a little difficulty, make his way across the park, but on Wednesday night, it is well nigh impassable. The park, the lanes and streets facing the park, are all thronged with men, women and children.

Midway between Avenues A and B, facing Tenth Street, is a lane leading directly to the band stand. "Student's Lane," it is called, and it is here that the intelligent youth of the East Side are wont to gather on Wednesday nights, to pass judgment upon the music. Here one may see the sub-freshman,—some still in knickerbockers—casting wistful eyes at the freshmen and juniors, who fraternize freely among themselves. Seniors, grave young men, with hair parted strictly in the centre of their heads, discussing the latest changes in the faculties of the university, Columbia or Bellevue, expressing their opinions after the manner of connoisseurs. There are also the professional students, holding themselves aloof from the lower orders, still deigning, now and then, to enlighten the benighted seniors with information concerning professors this and that, and so and so.

Ever an inexhaustible discussion to them.

You meet several students in animated discussion; they are sure to be talking about the fitness of Professor Sawbones for the dissecting room, or Professor Ikey Russel for medical jurisprudence. Then there are the Normal School girls, talking in loud and ostentatious tones, and the glances of everyone in the lane are all directed towards those laughing groups.

The band was playing the closing strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" when Louis and his guide reached the lane. Louis's appearance occasioned no little comment and surprise. He was known as a stay-at-home-boy; some of the sweet graduates tittered and set to whispering among themselves.

Louis, however, felt ill at ease, there was still some doubt in his mind as to his right to go out to the park. It was no novelty to him, he passed several times a day, but he had never visited the place in the evening, particularly on Wednesday evening.

Somehow the place seemed to impress him rather unfavorably. Everyone seemed to be talking at once, some louder than others. One youth, a senior, with his hair pressed close to his temples and a vague suspicion of a mustache on his upper lip, was delivering himself of his opinion upon the subject of cramming and cribbing, injecting some personal reminiscences at C. C. N. Y., which were greeted with laughter.

One of the young ladies was exerting herself to impress some of her schoolmates with her superior knowledge of the French language, but seemed to lack words. She would commence a sentence, and pause, unable to go on.

(To be concluded.)

In the Jewish World.

Chevre Bikur Cholim of Duluth has filed incorporation papers with the Secretary of State.

Messrs. N. M. Rothschild & Sons have contributed £1,000 towards the £100,000 required for cancer research.

Rev. M. J. Friedman, who for the past eight years has been connected with the Talmud Torah Chevre Kadusha, sailed on the 21st inst. for Jerusalem, where he intends to end his days.

At the last meeting of the Academy of Inscriptions of Paris, M. Salomon Reinach sought to prove that the death of Orpheus had all the characteristics of a legend founded on a ritual sacrifice.

On Tuesday evening last a lecture was given at the synagogue, Eleventh and Oak streets, Kansas City, Mo., by Leon Zolotkoff, on the subject of "Jewish Colonization." The lecturer was aided by stereopticon views.

The Hebrew Ladies' Helping Hand Association and the board of managers of the Helping Hand Temporary Home for Destitute Jewish Children of Roxbury, Mass., held their fifth annual picnic at Oak Island grove, Revere, last Tuesday.

The Committee of the Institution for the Relief of the Indigent Blind of the Jewish Persuasion having resolved that in honor of the coronation of the King and Queen, the pensioners receive double pay for the week in which it takes place, the distribution of the additional sum of 10s. was made at the society's office on August 7th. The sums were forwarded by post to pensioners residing out of London and to those who by reason of age or other infirmity were unable to attend.

Eighty thousand Jews emigrated from Roumania last year from the town of Jassy alone, 6,000 going principally to America and Canada. During the present year some 5,000 have left the various towns. Most of these do not go as paupers emigrants, for they are assisted by subscriptions among the richer brethren both here and abroad. The Roumanian authorities are now becoming alarmed at the wholesale exodus, and in the town of Jassy, for instance, large public works are to be started in order to give the now nearly starving Jews employment and a livelihood.

Prominent Hebrew merchants living on Jersey City Heights have retained a lawyer to draw up the incorporation papers of an association which they propose to organize in a few days for the purpose of protecting themselves against several gangs of disorderly youths who have been making a practice of insulting and assaulting the Hebrews on the streets for several months despite the efforts of the police to make them behave themselves. After establishing a central organization, branch associations will be formed in different sections of the city.

Abraham Kirschberg, who died in Montreal August 2d, was for twenty years the assistant minister of the Spanish and Portuguese congregation of that place. He was also chief Gabbai for the collection of funds for Palestine and was a member of the Chevra Shass. He was also a prominent worker for the Talmud Torah, and Honorary Hohel, of the Baron de Hirsch Institute.

Rabbi Isidore Myers of San Francisco, in addressing a meeting of the Federation of Zionists in this city recently, gave a new interpretation of the design of the American flag. His utterance on the subject was of added interest from the fact that most of his hearers were Jewish immigrants, largely Russians. He said:

"Do you know why the Stars and Stripes are in the flag? I will tell you why. They show that America has stars for those who believe themselves and stripes for those who do not."

On the 3d inst. the cornerstone of the new synagogue of the Chevra Kadisha was laid at Montreal in the presence of the Mayor of the city and an assemblage of Jewish citizens that filled the entire platform and space set aside for the ceremony. Addresses were made by Mayor Cochrane, Mr. Roman Joseph, Mr. Harris Vineburg, Capt. Carroll Ryan and others. The edifice when completed will have cost over $60,000.

The cornerstone of the first synagogue in Ottawa was laid last week with proper ceremony by Alderman Rosenthal. The building, which is located at the corner of Rideau and Friel streets, is a substantial brick building and will be repaired to replace the adjoining building, which is at present occupied by the members of the congregation.

On Sunday, Aug. 17, the Montreal Zionist Society held an excursion to Otterburn Park, the object being to raise sufficient funds to enable the society to found a Jewish library and reading room in Montreal. An excellent program of games and dances was prepared and the outing was a pleasant one.

Rabbi William H. Greenburg of Dallas, Tex., while touring Canada for rest and recreation, was stricken down with typhoid fever in Montreal. Dr. Greenburg is in a private ward of the Montreal General Hospital and is being carefully attended to by private physicians and members of the Jewish community.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., there was a split in the Congregation Shearaal Zedek, a reform and orthodox faction forming, and each side electing officers. The matter was carried into the courts, and Judge J. B. Wale rendered a decision in favor of the reform faction.

Word has been received by the War Department that Lieut. Jossman of the Twenty-seventh Infantry died in the military hospital at Manila July 28, as a result of a gunshot wound. Lieut. Jossman was 25 years old and had always lived at Clarkston, Mich. He was the son of Isidor Jossman, the president of the Exchange Bank of that place. He was a well-educated young man and won his commission in a competitive examination. For six months he has been in the Philippines.

Reconsider.

(By Eva Goldberg, Danville, Ill.)

Why should we throw into the air
A curse, for who can tell just where
The tears may land or sorrow fall.
So pray study deep, avoid, recall
The hurrying of so wrong a cure.
'Tis better far, one must endure
The grief of life you daily find
Makes the happiness of life combine.
It is the uncertain journeys here
That invites our thoughts, instills a fear.
Trouble, you know, so oft suggests
To prepare ourselves for life's serious test.

So do not fume and curse your brother,
Spread your mantle divine over charity's cover.

East Side Soda Water.

More glasses of soda water are sold on the lower east side of New York than in any other part of the town. Though the big drug stores along Broadway all have their soda water fountains and charge from five to fifteen cents a glass, there are more soda water fountains in Essex street, between Hester and Grand, than on Broadway, below the City Hall. The populous neighborhood between Canal and Houston streets, from the Bowery to Columbia street, is studded with soda water fountains as a short-cut with strawberries, and in the Hebrew district there is a fountain to every three tenement houses. On the block above Hester street there are a dozen soda water fountains on Essex street.

The competition has cut rates, and it would seem as if the froth alone was worth the money. Along the Bowery and on Grand and Canal streets the five-cent rate is steady, but a few doors from these main streets the price drops to three cents, with cream two cents extra, and in the heart of the Polish quarter a "schooner" of soda water, colored pink, blue or white, sells for two cents—cream a cent more.

This influx of cheap soda water has affected the trade of the saloons. No man sells beer or whisky on the sidewalk, while these soda water stands are in front of tenement houses and as close to the stoop line as a free construction of the city ordinances permits. A counter runs around them, on which babies perch and sip pink soda water until they have had enough, when those in charge of them finish the glass.

The workmen of the quarter come to the soda water fountain, lay their pipes on the counter, and argue, as the workmen of other nationalities do in a saloon. Instead of the usual list of syrups that is attached to the drug store fountain, many of these sidewalk fountains are inscribed in Hebrew characters in huge signs. The most intelligible thing about the sign is that the price is two cents a "schooner," and extra quality, accompanied with cream, costs three cents.—New York Herald.

The Meaning of Jew and of Hebrew.

The question, What is Judaism? has been asked and answered a number of times. We raise a new question. We ask, Who is a Jew? A person is not born a Jew. He is a Jew by education. One may be born a Hebrew, just the same as one may be born a Hindoo. But by education a Hindoo could be a Jew, and a Hindoo could be a Mohammedan, or a Mormon, or anything else. People often say, I can tell a Jew as quick as I see him. Nothing is more false. They can tell the Hebrew, but they can never tell the Jew. One is not a Jew because born of Jewish parents. One may be a Hebrew by birth, and the parents may be good Jews; yet the child may preach atheism, and, of course, is no Jew. It's the same with Christians. Good Christian parents might bring up a child who would turn atheist, and as a matter per se an atheist is no Christian. The belief in God as the Supreme Being and the Creator of all, and the reverence of that God, and a broad charity toward all His creatures makes a man a Jew, a good Christian or a good Mohammedan. This much each faith has in common with the others. In their peculiarities, which is signified by their several names, they are sovereign and independent. He is a Jew who holds God's word in hand and heart, who sacredly obeys the laws proclaimed from Mt. Sinai, and who reveres the people who marched with these laws through fire and water and all sorts of persecution around the earth, proclaiming on the way Jehovah or God into the hearts of the civilized nations. He is a Jew, his faith we call Judaism.—The Jewish Spectator.

Pike Street Religious Classes.

Favored with lovely weather the children of these classes, under the direction of Mr. Albert Lucas, had a most enjoyable outing to Bronx Park on Sunday last. The children met in the synagogue in the morning and after the recitation of "Shema Yisroel" (as is their usual custom whenever they are assembled), took the "L" for the Bronx. During the day the children were slowly marched through the zoological gardens. The effect of the thorough discipline of the school was very manifest during the long and exciting march, for not a single child broke from the ranks. The attendants of the zoo were very kind in assisting the teachers to enable the little ones to get a good view of the animals. The Misses Mary Marcus, Annie Siegel, Roslyn Jacobson, Mabel Davys and Miriam Nieto, Mr. S. P. Frank and Mr. Conrad Saphier have charge of the various classes, which will reassemble on September 14.

Young Folk's League Temple Anshe Chesed.

The initial outing of the Young Folk's League of Temple Anshe Chesed, given on Sunday last in Grant City Park, Staten Island, could not have been better, as all the arrangements, even to the minutest details, were properly attended to. Although dancing was a feature there were other amusements, including games for valuable and handsome prizes. The ladies and gentlemen who were fortunate in winning the various contests were: Potato race, Miss G. Lawrence, a silver-mounted atomizer; 100-yard race, Mr. Lou Katzenberg, a silver-mounted shaving set; Miss Fanny Haas, a gold medal for the 50-yard race; Mr. Moe Rothschild, the one-half mile race; Mr. Felix Laugbeire, six beautiful ties, the fat man's race; Mr. Lon Katzenberg, a silk umbrella, the 250-yard race; Mr. Al Becker, a ten-dollar gold piece, the first prize at bowling, his score being 60 out of a possible 60; the second prize, Mr. Lou Katzenberg, and third prize, Mr. Jac. Bach. Miss F. Haas and Miss Goodman received the first and second prize, respectively, for ladies' bowling. The committee having the affair in hand consisted of Messrs. Felix Langbein, Moe Rothschild, David Katzenberg, Maurice Manheimer, Herman Hess, H. Manasse, Jacob Gerson and Jacob Kroll.

Riot Indictments Found.

The Grand Jury filed three indictments last Tuesday against two policemen of the Delancey street station, charging them with assault in the second degree in the riots about the Hoe factory at the funeral of Rabbi Joseph. One of the accused policemen is Roundman James A. Jackson. The name of the other is withheld. He is said to be on his vacation. There are two indictments against Jackson. One is based upon the complaint of Harris Rosenblum, of 20 Broome street, who was arrested in front of the Hoe factory, with Samuel Ellenstein, of 178 Clinton street. Ellenstein corroborated Rosenblum's statement that Jackson had come to the patrol wagon, in which both men had been placed, and had hit Rosenblum on the head.

Israel A. Schaeffer, of 42 Gouverneur street, is the other complainant against Jackson, who clubbed him also, Schaeffer said.

Assistant District Attorney Isidore Krecel, after hearing testimony, presented the facts to the Grand Jury and secured the indictments.

United Hebrew Charities.

The work of the United Hebrew Charities for the last month, July, is thus summarized; these statistics being taken from the reports of the various committees and from the books of the society.

The total number of applications received and dealt with during the month reached 3,734, representing about 12,447 individuals. Of these 3,102 applied in the Bureau of Relief and 632 in the Employment Bureau, of whom 327 were given employment. Of those who applied in the Bureau of Relief, 588 were here for the first time.

After careful examination relief was refused to 163 cases. 61 persons were granted transportation to different parts of this country and Europe.

2,503 garments, 289 pairs of shoes and 168 articles of furniture and bedding were distributed; 497 garments were made in the work room and 863 garments were repaired.

17 nights' lodging and 3 meals were furnished to homeless men and women. 10 bottles of wine and liquor, 6 bottles of maltine, 5 orders for groceries and 6 orders for surgical appliances were distributed.

The disbursements in the various departments for relief were $12,137.78.

Jews as American Citizens.

The Koniner Young Men's Benevolent Association had a banquet Sunday afternoon in Murray Hill Lyceum. Five hundred members and their wives were seated at the tables. Among the speakers was Julius Harburger, who took as his subject the riot at the funeral of Rabbi Joseph. He said:

"Anti-Semitism can never gain a foothold on American soil. Our American coreligionists have ever been ready to rescue the victims of persecution and to use their best endeavors to destroy the spirit of anti-Semitism wherever it may prevail. While we are foremost in our loyalty, patriotism, love of country, and desire to be known first of all as American citizens, yet through all the trials, tribulations, and troubles which have attended our people the spirit of Judaism has survived and has maintained its pristine glory. Nations which have cruelly persecuted the Jew have disappeared from the map of the world and the Jew still lives and worships the Deity as his conscience dictates. Whether it be that the Jew is of what is called by many the chosen people or not, the chronicles of history have made record of the fact that, whether it be a nation or an individual, there seems to be a Nemesis which metes out sure vengeance upon his persecutors.

"I should estimate a population of the Jews in the eastern section of our city of several hundred thousand, and in Greater New York of one-half million, and a voting strength of ninety thousand. Nowhere in the world are congregated so many of our coreligionists as in our great city. The blood of the Maccabean surges in their veins when indignity is heaped upon them and the soldier spirit is aroused.

"We demand a full, thorough, honest investigation. I cannot believe that any sect of other denominations can harbor feelings of resentment toward a race that has been driven from other lands to seek an asylum and a harbor of refuge in the greatest liberty-loving country on earth."

A Novel Appeal from a Christian to Jews.

The Rev. Dr. Babbitt, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany in Brooklyn last Tuesday reported, that $588.50 was still lacking to make up the $1,019 required by next Monday to meet the interest on the mortgage and pay the insurance. So far $49,000 has been subscribed conditional on the payment of the $32,000 mortgage on January 1, 1903. Among the subscribers are George Foster Peabody and William H. Male, the banker, for $5,000 and $2,500 respectively. Yesterday Dr. Babbitt issued this earnest appeal:

"We have lost our battle unless we can get aid from outside. I cannot think the people of Brooklyn will allow this Christian Church to go down. The church has stood for fairness to the Hebrews, and condemned the lawless assaults on offending descendants of that Abraham who is the ecclesiastical father of both Hebrew and Christian. Will the rich Hebrew merchants and bankers see sold a church that has defended their civic and racial rights? I appeal to all on civil, charitable, municipal and religious grounds to help us at once on this $1,019 interest and insurance, which must be paid next Monday, and on our mortgage, which must be paid by January 1, 1903. We are in the greatest danger."

Golden Wedding.

The B'nai B'rith Home at Yonkers was the scene last Sunday of a celebration of the golden anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Smoller, inmates of the Home. Mr. and Mrs. Smoller were married in Tuelch, Germany. Their family consisted of seven children, of whom six are now living. Forty-five years ago they came to America and settled in New York City, where they lived until three years ago, when they took up their abode at the Home.

Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Leszynsky celebrated their golden wedding on Sunday last at their residence, No. 2 West 129th street. Only the immediate members of the family participated in the joyful event and partook of the sumptuous repast prepared by the host and hostess. The happy pair were toasted and bumpers of wine were quaffed to the absent relatives of San Francisco, Berlin and Thorn. The evening was spent in an enjoyable manner and a merry time was had by the parties present.

The Hebrew Standard joins with their innumerable friends in extending heartiest congratulations to the celebrants, and trusts that their golden wedding may turn to diamond coronating with domestic felicity and happiness.

Bar Mitzvah.

The Bar Mitzvah of Philip, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Harris, took place on Saturday, Aug. 16, 9 a. m., at the Synagogue Nachlass Zwei, 170 East 114th street. A reception was held Sunday evening at the Harlem Arcade, at which there were about 200 guests present. A banquet followed. Mr. Leon B. Ginsberg, the confirmitant's godfather, officiated as toastmaster, and the following responded: Rev. Dr. Victor Dembo, Master Philip M. Harris, Dr. I. Hirsch, Dr. J. Polak, Marcus Rosenthal, Sam. Cohen, Max Greenberg and Bernhard Ginsberg.

OBITUARY.

Isaac Blumenthal.

Isaac Blumenthal, a retired importer of 24 West Forty-seventh street, died at his country home at Long Branch on Monday night. He was born in Germany in 1830. He came to this country at the age of 18 years, and was at the head of the importing house of L. & A. Blumenthal for thirty years. He retired in 1879, and since then had devoted his time to charity. He was a director of the Mount Sinai Hospital for twenty-five years. When he was 70 years old he resigned and was appointed an honorary director. A widow and three children survive him.

Rabbi E. K. Fisher died at Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2, at the age of 71. Rabbi Fisher at one time occupied the pulpit at Montgomery, Ala.

Proctor's 58th Street Theatre.

The Fifty-eighth Street Theatre will open for the season with the matinee performance of "The Arabian Nights," on Monday, August 25, thoroughly refitted and refurbished throughout. The Permanent Stock Co., which has been selected for the winter will include Fred-eric Bond, who is general stage director of all of the Proctor Stock Co.'s, who will enact the leading roll in the opening comedy. Others will be George Pierce, William Cullington, Walter Willis, Dorothy Lewis, Leslie Lyman, Cessylye Mayer, Lillian Goldsmith and Florence Gerald. The opening curtain raiser will be "Smoke," enacted by Louis Brassen, Harry Stanley, Wm. Cullington, Helen Dunlap and Florida Kingsley. Vaudeville of excellent class will be interspersed between acts.

Proctor's 125th Street Theatre.

Theodore Hamilton will lead the Proctor Stock Co. in the Fifth Avenue's production of Tennyson's pastoral play, "Dora," at the 125th Street. Harlemites are assured of a fine play, as the success of the piece at the Fifth Avenue last week plainly testified.

Hebrew Orphan Asylum Literary Society.

The semi-annual general meeting and election of officers of the Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum Literary Society was held in one of their large assembly rooms last Sunday afternoon, the 17th inst. Among the visitors present were former members Miss Irma Asch, Miss Alvina Asch, Miss Beckie Neichin, Miss Rose Martin, Miss Lily Martin and Adolphe Cohen; Messrs. Joseph Steiner, Harry Appelbaum, Jacob Jacobson, Wolfe Goldman and Victor Goldenberg. Among the invited guests who addressed the members were Miss Helen Birkenenthal, instructress at the asylum, and Mr. Leopold Minster, ex-president of the Baar Literary Circle of the Seligman Solomon Society.

The words of both Miss Birkenenthal and Mr. Minster evoked loud and prolonged applause. The society is composed of the older boys and girls and has been in existence about eighteen months. The report of the officers and also the report of the Executive Committee of which Paul N. Lazarus is chairman, were very interesting, and showed the society to be a very earnest one and deserving of the encouragement that Supt. Lazarus and his good wife, Matron Lazarus, gives it. Any one who has any books or magazines containing good juvenile literature which he desires to donate for a good purpose will find the society an excellent medium to dispose of them to good advantage. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Both president and vice-president were re-elected, viz.: David Farber and Paul N. Lazarus. The other officers elected were: Lena Margulis, treasurer; Louis Sinsheimer, secretary. Executive committee, Paul Lazarus, Louis Sinsheimer, Lena Margulis, Annie Hummel, Nathan Steiner.

Among the new feature soon to be introduced is a "Journal" to be made up of original contributions by the members. The example of the society has been followed by others among the orphans. There is a junior literary society for the boys and also a junior literary society for the girls, making three societies in all. Among the weekly papers read regularly by the members is the Hebrew Standard. In his annual report President Farber thanked the Standard on behalf of the society for the encouragement it has given the members and for the interest it has shown in their welfare. The Standard begs to tender its acknowledgments and trusts the society will be very prosperous and useful during the coming year.

Hunter, N. Y.

An entertainment and package party of the Daughters of Jacob, for the benefit of their Home for Aged and Infirm, 40 Gouverneur street, N. Y., which took place at the Stony View Hotel, Hunter, Saturday evening, August 16, proved a financial and social success. The entertainment was given under the supervision of Miss Miriam Dworsky, and the programme consisting of a fairy tale in six acts, entitled "Snowdrop." The package party followed the play and yielded the substantial sum of $300 for the benefit of the Home, from the sale of packages, voluntarily donated by the audience who filled the hotel to its utmost capacity, coming from all neighboring hotels. The promoters of the affair, were Mrs. Dworsky, Mrs. H. Fishel, Mrs. Rosenthal and I. Tarshis. Some of the characters on the programme were: Snowdrop, Stella Dworsky; queen, Rae Polstein; hunter, Henry Baker; dwarfs, Saul Sobel, Moses Dworsky, Isaac Feinberg, Isidore Volk, Abe Weinberg, Alfred Aaronson, Sam Goodman and Dave Levison. Violin solos by Mr. Schumofsky and Max Jacobs; polish dance, Miss Bella Levy; recitation, Jack Sheldon; tamborine dance, Sadie and Rebecca Fishel.

There was a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Congregation last Sunday. After the president briefly but succinctly explained that progress and the realization of an ideal orthodox divine service cannot be accomplished without money, the congregation unanimously resolved to assume an increase of 30 per cent over the last year's prices of seats. It was also decided that non-members desiring seats will have to pay C. O. D. for tickets. The utmost brotherly feeling prevailed.

Services on Sabbath Nachama were beautiful and impressive. There was a large attendance. The music was fine. Cantor I. Goldfarb delivered a sermon which was very well received. The young gentleman deserves warmest commendation for his really able effort.

Brother Marcus Klauber has been enjoying a well-earned vacation, and now, on his return, his better half, Mrs. Klauber, has gone to rustication amid sylvan glades. The Misses Lillie and Lena Isaacs, also Simon Isaacs, are at the Catskills. The hospitable home of Mrs. Sewell and Miss Glickstone, in Manassah Harbor, entertained a host of friends from the South, who enjoyed their stay very much.

Brother Michael Phillips received the visit of the Stork last week. The result was a fine boy. Berith Melah and fine dinner was last Friday.

Mrs. Dr. Ludwig Weiss and Miss Beatrice Weiss, of New York, are staying at the home of Julius Schwartz as his dear guests. They are delighted with the beauties of our island.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mord celebrated their wedding anniversary last Sunday. In the evening the couple left on a second honeymoon trip to Saratoga. Keep away from the races, Morris. You might lose your job as financial secretary of the congregation.

Jacob Hains was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the president's idea to still further beautify the divine service. We wish Brother Hains could come to the Temple often. Gabriel Goldstone, always alert and wide awake, made the motion to increase the price of seats. We missed Brother G. Goldstone from the Synagogue lately. What's the trouble, Gabe?

Mrs. I. Kutscher is away in the country to take a much-needed rest. We trust the good lady will be benefited by her stay and will return strengthened in health.

Albany, N. Y.

Sacandaga Park is a favorite resort with Albanians. Some have their own cottages, others make themselves at home in the various hotels. Among the Albanians there for various lengths of time are the Misses Henrietta and Amy Lewis, Miss M. and Master A. Singer, Mrs. Ike Swarts and son, Lewis.

Miss Hilda Morris, Mrs. Mandelbaum, Mr. and Mrs. Lesser are also at Sacandaga Park.

Miss Blanche Goldsmith, of New York, is visiting her grandparents on S. Pearl street.

Miss Ruth Stall has just returned from a two weeks' stay in Saratoga.

Miss H. Prager is spending her vacation at the Helderberg Mountains.

Cohoes, N. Y.

Miss Rose Goldstone has left for a two weeks' stay in New York City.

Miss Harry Pepper, who has been the guest of Mrs. Joseph Pepper on the hill, has returned to New York.

Miss Gussie Hirsch, of Willow street, has gone to New York, where she will stop with some friends. C. I. J.

Troy, N. Y.

Now that the Talmud Torah is successfully progressing there is a movement on foot to organize classes solely for the girls. At present the school is divided into three classes, with a total attendance of nearly 125.

Philip Ellenbogen and Abraham Rosen acted as best men. The bride was given away by Mr. and Mrs. Epstein. After the ceremony a dinner was served at Germania Hall. There were a number of people from out of town, among them being Miss Tillie Rosenblum, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; J. Bernstein and J. Goldberg, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Bernstein and daughter, of Rochester, and Mr. Barber, of Boston. Among the Trogans present were the W. Rosens, and J. Rosens, the Goldsmiths, Friedmanians and others.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernstein departed for a month's stay in New York and Philadelphia.

perfect mine of German literature with a striking similarity in the headings: "Gebot fuer Shabbas", "Gebot fuer Pesach" and "Gebot" for every holy-day in turn. By putting the accent on the first syllable the good woman understood the captions to mean "Give for the Sabbath", "Give for Pesach", etc., until she exclaimed in sheer surprise at the frequency of the command to give, "Why, one has nothing to do but to give all the time and for every day."

We have it on good authority that a celebrated minister of the Law is preparing a series of social discourses with the following titles:

- "At the tennis court."
- "On the golf links."
- "Long Branch, Saratoga and Sheep-head Bay."
- "In the surf and on the board walk."
- "Home—Railway depot—Resort."
- "Summer flirtation and courtship."
- "Eunui and Gayety."
- "Country Romances."

I predict a successful "run" for the above lectures—crowded houses and interested crowds of young people, personal reminiscences and pen paintings, beautiful oratory and prospective marriage functions galore for the enterprising pulpit-artist.

In a prominent synagogues downtown it is customary when the Rabbi is in attendance at the service, that the congregation and cantor wait till the Rabbi is through with the Shema before the assemblage continues with its devotions. It was jocularly remarked by one witty person: "Die Gemeinde kann nicht weiter gehen bis der Rabbiner Shema sagt."

From Montreal to Sacramento! Rabbi Bernard M. Kaplan who made that phenomenal leap from orthodoxy to reform recently entered the literary field with an article in the Open Court, on Elisha ben Abuyah, or, as he is usually styled in the Talmud, Acher. Did Kaplan's interest in the exciting career of the pervert date from his own apparent conversion to the ranks of the radicals?

Boston maintains its prestige as the Hub of the literary world by a noble contribution to Jewish contemporary Jewish literature, in the shape of the Mt. Sinai Monthly. I look askance at this undertaking, because it is my opinion, perhaps unwarranted, that the name chosen is used for securing advertisements more easily by appealing to the charitable instincts of the community which connects very naturally the hospital of that name with the paper, which does not at all make the institution its beneficiary.

Trading on and in charity is a lucrative employment in these days when the purses are more open than they ever were before in the history of our country to the calls and demands for alms, and even the publishers of a Jewish monthly may not be above such misrepresentations, implied or expressed.

While thinking of this subject I am also moved to comment on the business-like system which prevails in the conduct and management of affairs for reputable institutions. I noticed that the Brooklyn Orphan Asylum is advertising for canvassers for its annual journal and offers 30 per cent.

commission on all "ads" received by authorized agents.

Hitherto it had been the custom of the good ladies to solicit the advertisements themselves and, of course, the whole sum except perhaps a trifling premium was turned in to the general fund. This was highly commendable and showed the disinterestedness of the local organization of men and women in a matter of charity.

But now that solicitors on liberal commissions are engaged, I think it looks as if the Jewish community of Brooklyn is shirking its duty and responsibility. The money should be devoted wholly for the object for which the "ad" or contribution is given. Unnecessary expense should be avoided, or no journal scheme undertaken. It is an imposition on the generous public to divert almost one-third of the receipts to paid hirelings.

To sum it all up it means that when some liberal Christian business man gives his advertisement and pays one hundred dollars for it, on the representation that it is for charity and goes to the orphan asylum fund, more than thirty-five dollars are immediately diverted into another channel as belonging to the expense account. That is very costly charity, indeed!

In another column of this paper there has appeared for some time a "want ad" which is rather unusual. A cantor advertises for an intelligent alto voice. What this may mean it is very difficult to decide, unless it refers to the fact that many singers should or do have all their intelligence in their voices.

The Sabbath question is by no means at rest yet. Why should the day supposed to bring ease and repose to the wearied bodies and souls, be the occasion for so much unrest and disturbance of spirit?

The Sabbath Question.

Maimonides Free Library.

An Appreciation.

There are libraries and libraries in our city, but the one most attractive to book lovers is the Maimonides, in the Benai Berith Building, Lexington avenue and 58th street. It has an atmosphere peculiarly its own and the directors have carried out the name and purpose of Maimonides, our great teacher, by placing at the head of this library a young cultivated woman of charming personality, who is in every way "A Guide to the Perplexed." Miss Sara Schottenfels has the true literary sense and can always suggest the best books on all subjects. Not only has she perused them, but she reads the readers of her library, taking note of their mental status, so as to discern the books they can best understand on the subjects in which they are interested. It is an open question whether the successful library is the one in which the book you want is always in or always out. The latter may indicate extended circulation, but it is disappointing to the applicant. Even in this particular the method of this library is unique. Numerous copies of worthy books are supplied and any book ordered personally or by mail will be reserved and notification sent when ready for circulation. You generally find the classes of readers of a library as varied as its catalogue. This being most diverse, makes the frequenters of the Maimonides Library, a motley crowd. The young woman who wants the latest thing in fiction can always have "something new." Those in pursuit of old and rare books on Jewish subjects can find them. Indeed, it numbers among its readers many of our rabbis, members of the press, and students of all theological seminaries. It is per se a Jewish library and a credit to our people, for it is unsectarian regarding its usefulness and work, but zealous in its respect and observance of the commandment of rest, closing its doors on the Jewish Sabbath and holy days. The Catholics have a library of their own, and if we only had among us a man like Carnegie, a Jew who understands that "not by bread alone doth man live," the Maimonides Library would be liberally endowed to enable it to extend its work, and making it a greater monument to the Order of the Benai Berith. Even though we have given to the world the greatest book, we still have to confute the accusation "that the Jews are only a commercial people."

The Great Future.

The sweetest song has not been sung.
Nor has the loudest bell been rung.
The brightest jewel still lies deep.
The fairest rose is yet asleep.
The greatest ship has never sailed.
The highest mountains are unscathed.
The largest house of brick and beam
Is but the vision of a dream.
The swiftest locomotive, too,
Has yet to show what it can do.
The richest mine is still unknown;
The airship's but a monstrous drone.
The telegraph is still afraid
To span the wide world without aid.
Point out the man who'll say to you
All the electric mind will do.
The greatest city still shall rise;
Ah, who will solve the mystic skies?
Niagara's falls remain unchained;
The arctic's spheres have not been gained.
The steamer, submergibly plied,
Is anchored fast in fancy's tide.
The world's great plans have not been heard.
And peace today is but a word.
Think, then, ye men of little worth
Who say there's naught to do on earth.

The Du Ponts of Powder Fame.

The Du Ponts own powder mills in all parts of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Among the Du Ponts themselves there is a process of selection for those who are to have to do with the powder works. The youngsters are watched, and when one shows nervousness in the face of danger he is placed somewhere else than in the powder mills. The rule is that a Du Pont in person shall always lead wherever there is imminent danger. A number of Du Ponts first and last—and some of them important ones—have been killed under this rule, and there repeatedly have been heroic escapes from death through this disregard of the fear of it.
The family rule is a despotism, and a very strict one. The family always has a head, and what this head or chief says the other members of the family do. This headship does not necessarily descend from father to son even when there are sons. Sometimes it goes from uncle to nephew, the main point being to secure a Du Pont thoroughly competent to manage the business affairs of the family.—New York Tribune.

Americans Abroad.

The mere fact of an American citizen taking a trip abroad or residing there for a short period does not deprive a native born citizen of this country of his citizenship, nor does he lose the right to the protection of this government by so doing. If he abandons his residence here, he loses his right to vote just as if he moved to another state, but acquires it again by returning to this country. Nearly all the nations on the globe claim the right of authority over native born citizens of their own countries even after these citizens have acquired citizenship elsewhere—that is, if a native Russian comes here and is naturalized, then returns to Russia for a visit, the Russian government might compel him to do army service despite his American citizenship. This principle was embodied in the famous expression "once an Englishman, always an Englishman," so much quoted during the war of 1912.—Detroit Free Press.

The Coroner and the Bottle.

The following little scene at an inquest upon the body of a murdered man is reported by a correspondent of the Anglo-Russian from Asarkhan. The coroner dictating to his clerk: "On the table was found a bottle—No stop for a moment. We must ascertain its contents." The coroner, tasting the liquid, dictates: "The bottle contained English gin. Perhaps not, I am not sure; taste it yourself." The clerk having done so, replies: "I think it is simply strong vodka." The coroner, tossing off another glass: "No, really it tastes like gin." The clerk, tasting the liquor again, "I still think it is only vodka."

The bottle having gradually become empty, the coroner proceeded to dictate in a decisive tone: "Write: An empty bottle was found on the table, and measures taken to ascertain what it contained were of no use."

A Ruskin Thought.

To be content in utter darkness and ignorance is indeed unmanly, and therefore we think that to love and in knowledge must be always right. Yet wherever pride has any share in the work even knowledge and light may be ill pursued. Knowledge is good, but light is good, yet man, perished in seeking knowledge, and the motto perils seeking light, and if we who are crushed before the mo'ah will not accept such mystery as is needful to us.

shall perish in like manner. None but the proud will mourn over this, for we may always know more if we choose by working on, but the pleasure is, I think, to humble people, in knowing that the journey is endless, the treasure inexhaustible.—Ruskin.

How the President is Paid.

In the apportionment of the salaries of all United States government employees the year is divided into quarters and each quarter subdivided according to the number of days in each month, but the president receives practically the same amount every month. Thus, if a president should die at the end of February, after receiving his salary for that month, his successor would in reality receive less than the full amount due him in March because his predecessor had, in effect, been overpaid the prior month. Inasmuch as the president's salary may not be divided into exactly equal parts, it is necessary to pay the chief magistrate $4,166.66 on some months and $4,166.67 on others. On one occasion during the Cleveland administration a mistake was made, and there were sent to the chief executive three successive warrants for $4,166.66. When the error was discovered, the treasury department hastened to dispatch to the White House a warrant on the United States government for a cent, made out in Mr. Cleveland's favor, though the president never cashed this check.—Argonaut.

The Professor, the Lady and the Cow.

It is told of a certain professor whose absentmindedness about equaled his learning that he was one day, crossing the college campus, absorbed to such a degree in a book of his that had just been published that he was lost to everything else. Suddenly he bumped up against an object, and looking up he saw that he had collided with a cow that had rudely strayed in his way. "Get out of the way, you cow!" he exclaimed irritably, prefixing an impolite adjective to "cow."

The next day as the professor was again crossing the campus, immersed in his reading, he again ran into an object. "Oh, that confounded cow!" he exclaimed. Then, hearing an indignant "Sir!" he looked up hastily to discover that this time he had come up against the wife of a fellow professor. It hardly made matters better to assure her that he had taken her for a cow, and it required the good offices of the entire faculty to restore an era of good feeling.

A Ludicrous Word Twister.

Professor William Archibald Spooner of Oxford university has become famous as a ludicrous word twister. Once at a special service, seeing some women standing at the back of the church waiting to be seated, he rushed down the aisle and addressed the ushers as follows: "Gentlemen, gentlemen, sew these ladies into their sheets." Being asked at dinner what fruit he would have, he promptly replied, "Pigs; fleas." This is the way in which Dr. Spooner proposed to his wife: Being one afternoon at the home of her father, Bishop Harvey Goodwin of Carlisle, Mrs. Goodwin said, "Mr. Spooner, will you please go out into the garden and ask Miss Goodwin if she will come in and make tea?" The professor, on finding the young lady, said, "Miss Goodwin, your mother told me to ask you if you would come in and take me."

A Soft Answer.

Dibbs (rather short sighted, overtaking total stranger and slipping him on back from behind)—Hello, old fellow! How are you? So glad to see you again. Who'd have thought of meeting—Stranger—Confound you, sir! How dare you strike me in that blackguardly manner? You ought to be more careful that you've got the right person.

Dibbs—Really, sir, I must apologize but I took you for the last of —. The likeness is really very —.

Stranger (greatly mollified)—Say no more, sir, I entreat. I quite see how the mistake occurred. Magnificent weather, isn't it? Good morning to you; good morning.—London Answers.

Took It Calmly.

A Baltimore physician was once called hurriedly to see the sick child of colored parents in the vicinity and perceived at the first glance that the infant had but a few hours to live. Expecting an outburst of anguish, he broke the truth as gently as possible to the child's mother and was met with the sterling rejoinder, "That's all right, doctor; there's plenty of room for him up yonder, but we're dreadful scrouged down here."

She Was Master.

Father (left in charge)—No, you cannot have any more cake. (Very seriously) Do you know what I shall have to do if you go on making that dreadful noise?

Little Girl (sobbing)—Yes.
Father—Well, what is that?
Little Girl—Give me some more cake!
And she was quite right.

Hurrah.

"Hurrah!" It used to be "Hurray!" and the cry is as old as England. It is the battlecry of the old Norse vikings as they swept down to burn and murder among the peaceful British. "Tur, aie!" was their warcry, which means, "Thor, aid!" an appeal for help to Thor, the god of battles.

Left Helpless.

Mrs. Brown—So your girl has left you? What for, for mercy's sake?
Mrs. Black—Absolutely for nothing.
Mrs. Brown—Oh, that's it. I remember you told me she wouldn't leave you for anything.—Boston Transcript.

Often the Method of Treatment.

An old negro preacher divided his sermon into two parts—first, all de things in de text, and second, all de things not in de text, and, bredren, we'll wrastle wid de second part fust."

Rice is the emblem of fertility, and the custom of throwing it after a bridal couple arose from a wish that they might be blessed with a large family.

The English Crown Ruby.

The ruby of the English crown is famous in popular estimation, but—history apart—what does the connoisseur say as to its value? asks the London Chronicle. Is it a ruby or is it only a fine and large spinel? Some people call a spinel a spinel ruby, but a spinel is not a ruby. The stone last named, when it is of more than three and a half carats in weight and flawless all through, is more precious than a perfect diamond of the same size. When it is considerably larger, its value is not to be estimated and may be anything, according to the passion of the collector. But the spinel, a much less hard crystal, even when it reaches the weight of four carats, is valued at half the worth of a four carat diamond. There are famous royal rubies, but that which flames in the royal crown is, according to a common rumor among experts, the lowlier spinel.

Checks For the Communion Table.

The author of "The Sabbath in Puritan New England" mentions a custom which prevailed in several New England churches that made it the duty of the deacons to walk up and down the aisles of the church at the close of each service and deliver to every person who in their judgment was fitted to commune a metal check, which entitled him at the next celebration of the Lord's Supper to join in the sacred ordinance.

On the communion Sabbath it was the deacons' duty to see that every one who presented himself at the Lord's table had this check and to collect it from the communicant before passing to him the bread and wine.

Usual Result.

Mrs. Gabb—Dear me! There comes my husband. There won't be a whole piece of furniture left in the house by midnight.

Mrs. Gadd—Horrors! Does he drink, and is that a case of whisky he is carrying?

Mrs. Gabb—No, he doesn't drink. That's a new box of tools.

Meant the Same.

Doctor—I found the patient to be suffering from abrasion of the cuticle, tumefaction, ecchymosis and extravasation in the integument and cellular tissue about the left orbit.

Judge—You mean he had a black eye?

Doctor—Yes.—Judge.

Its Value.

"What was the matter with Mrs. Scadds?" inquired the doctor's wife.
"Oh, a cold," he replied.
"Very bad?"
"Yes; disgustingly so—just one of those simple little things that you can't possibly get more than two visits out of."

Tannersville, N. Y.

The lawn party held at the Woodward House on Wednesday evening, August 13, for the benefit of the Madison Street Branch of the Hospital for Ruptured and Crippled, was both a financial and social success. The decorations were much admired.

At the Woodward the marriage ceremony of Miss Sara Trankel, of New York, and Mr. Louis R. Lassa, of Philadelphia, was performed by the Rev. Dr. Kamenitsky on Sunday, Aug. 17, at noon.

On Saturday night, August 16, an entertainment and ball was held at the Fairmount Hotel, in aid of both Israel and Lebanon Hospitals, and also the Crippled Children's Guild of the East Side, and the magnificent sum of $481.20 was realized. The entertainment was given by amateurs, supervised by the chairman of the movement, Mrs. Schechter, wife of Prof. Schechter, and her able lieutenants, Miss Sadie Samuelson, Sarah Jacobson, Mrs. S. Rosenthal, Miss M. Baum, Miss R. Hertz, Miss Bachrach, Mrs. Samuelson, Miss Esther Krohn and Miss Nettie Cohen.

1. Prologue "Scatter the Flowers"
2. Song "Miss Florence Adler"
3. Song and Dance "Miss G. Golden"
4. "Come Under My Umbrella" Solo and Chorus
5. Violin Solo "Prof. Elias K. Davis"
6. Old English Ballad "Miss S. Silberstein"
7. A Little Tall and a Little Musky "W. L. Levy"
8. Tableaux "From Jewish Family Life"

The tableaux from Jewish Family Life represented the Friday night and the Seder night at the good old Jewish home with all their beautiful ceremonies; with their sweet reverence for the old folks and the true hospitality which includes the weary "Schmorrer" who is the special pride of the household and who is treated as an honored guest.

During the Friday night tableaux "Yigdal" was sung by a choir behind the scenes; during the Seder night "Birkat Hamotz" (in Hebrew) was sung cheerfully and enthusiastically.

After the entertainment, a party for a beautiful kimona, presented by Mrs. Daniel P. Hayes was held, and realized about $50. Dancing followed. Among the well known people present were Mr. Newman Cowen, Drahmin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Lyons, Prof. S. Schechter and family, Dr. Guizburg, Mrs. Bacharach and Miss Fanny Bacharach, Mrs. Rinaldi, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hollinger, Miss Hollinger, Mr. and Mrs. Hoch, Mr. and Mrs. Prager, Mrs. S. Arnstein, Mr. and Mrs. B. Selz, Mrs. N. Roggen, Mrs. Emanuel Rambelm, Mrs. Isaac Levy, Dr. Friedenthal, Mrs. Adolph Cohen and daughters and many others. The Reception Committee was in charge of Mr. Emanuel Rambelm, who was ably seconded by Messrs. Larnya, I. Levy, Goldberg, Mr. Ehrmann, Mr. B. Davis, H. Solomon, Mr. Lyons, Mr. I. Rogger and Mr. Jacques Levy.

Henry E. Wieber.

Henry E. Wieber, plumber, steam and gas fitter, Kingston and Tannersville, N. Y., has been established twenty-four years, and is the leading business man in his line in both places. The headquarters are at Kingston, where he has a large establishment and where he keeps in stock stoves, ranges, cooking utensils, etc. His specialty is plumbing and steamfitting, for which he is a large contractor, besides giving jobbing prompt attention. Mr. Wieber is also a cooper, tin and sheet iron worker; everything in his varied line being done in a first-class manner.

The Blythewood Hotel at Tannersville, Catskill Mountains, has had an excellent season. Special rates for September will be made. September is one of the finest months in the mountains. See advertisement in another column.

The Hotel Antlers Open Until October 1, 1902.

One of the finest hotels in the Catskill Mountains is "The Antlers," Haines Falls, N. Y. Elegance characterizes every department of this hotel, which is modern in all its appointments, and is located in the most picturesque section of the Catskills. The hotel has one of the nicest verandas, large handsome parlor and the cuisine is first class. Cleanliness pervades every nook and corner of the hotel. In fact, it is a metropolitan hotel located in the mountains, and under the efficient management of Mr. L. P. Schutt it has grown in popular favor, the guests of the house proclaiming in the highest terms the hospitality, comforts and beauty of the "Antlers." For the convenience of those who visit the Catskills later in the season, or for those intending to remain there until the close of the season, the Hotel Antlers will be open until October 1, 1902.

Parties desiring to prolong their stay, who may be at other hotels which close earlier, will do well to visit the Antlers and secure accommodations there; while those who contemplate a trip to the mountains in September will find it advantageous to write for terms, which, for such a fine hotel, are extremely moderate in price. A booklet descriptive of the hotel will be mailed on application. Mr. Schutt, the proprietor, is a gentleman having had many years' experience as host in the summer hotel business, and was for a long time manager of the Hotel Kaaterskill. He understands the needs of his patrons and purveys to them in a creditable manner.

The Vicious Latin Quarter.

"After two years of life in the Quarter Latin," says Charles Theodore Murray, "where I got my studies of French character for 'Mlle. Fouchette,' I may freely say that it is the worst place in the world to send a young man or woman if you entertain any hope of meeting him or her in heaven.

"I have had much experience in the role of journalist and have investigated the slums of London and Liverpool, know the 'Tenderloin' of New York and the attractions at Berlin and Vienna, but for downright Satanic ingenuity of viciousness and gilded debauchery you must go to the Quartier Latin, for it is here that immorality is accepted as a virtue, and real virtue has no line of demarcation to distinguish it from immorality.

"No young man or young woman can survive such environment unimpaired, and many are ruined for life. That which, like London slums, is repulsive is not dangerous. It is attractive vice, sugar coated immorality, which is dangerous, and that is what young men and women find in the Quartier Latin."

How Coal Was First Named.

Curiously, the word coal was in use long before as well as long after the commencement of the coal trade, with a meaning quite different from that which it now has. The term originally belonged to wood fuel and was applied in particular to wood which had been charred, or what is now called charcoal.

When the trade in mineral coal began, this was usually distinguished by the singular name of sea coal. It would seem that from having been gathered in early times on the seashore, more especially of Northumberland, along with seaweed and other wreckage cast up by the waves, this peculiar substance was supposed to be of marine origin. From this circumstance and its resemblance to wood coal in color and burning properties it obtained the name of sea coal, by which it was so long and so widely known. Then in the course of time, as the new fuel gained upon and superseded the old, the simple name of coal became universally transferred to it.

Making It Plain.

A writer in the Lancet, says the Chicago Record-Herald, generously sets himself the task of giving out valuable information as to the amount of food one should eat. He proceeds to make the matter plain to the masses by saying:

"If you desire to know how much you ought to eat per diem, you must first determine whether you are temperamentally anabolic or katobolic. Then, taking into account your age, sex, size, the amount of exercise you get and the temperature of the atmosphere, you should calculate the amount of food necessary to maintain the minimum weight of the body consistent with the best health, of which you are capable."

Hereafter there should be no excuse whatever for overeating or undereating.

The Discovery of Florida.

Juan Ponce de Leon, sailing from Porto Rico in search of new land, discovered Florida on March 27, 1512. He landed near St. Augustine, planted the cross and took possession in the name of the Spanish monarch. In 1563, a treaty ceding east and west Florida to Great Britain, in exchange for Havana and the western part of Cuba, was ratified. In 1781 part of Florida was ceded to Spain, and in 1783 Great Britain ceded east and west Florida to Spain. On Feb. 22, 1819, east and west Florida were ceded to the United States by treaty and purchase, Spain receiving $5,000,000.

The Way He Gloried.

Two buses were traveling down Regent street in close proximity when the conductor of the foremost one took off his badge and dangled it in the air, to the obvious annoyance of the rival driver.

"What did you do that for?" asked a passenger.

"Why," said the conductor, pointing a derisive thumb at the infuriated driver, "his father was 'ung.'"—London Tit-Bits.

Origin of Spoons.

Two natural objects seem to have furnished the model for the spoon to primitive man—the river or sea shell and the leaf of plants. In southern China shell spoons are still used that are closely reproduced in the familiar porcelain spoon of that country, while metal spoons are found in India on which are reproduced even the veins of the leaves from which they were copied.

Helping the Heathen.

Aunt (severely)—How dare you take the money from your missionary box?

Willie—Didn't you say I was a regular little heathen?

"You are far worse."

"Well, I was saving the money for the heathen, and first come first served."

A Terrible Threat.

Customer—That tea service costs 50 marks. That is more than I can pay.

His Wife (whispering)—If I should have a fainting spell among all this china, it would cost you far more.—Fillegende Blatter.

Wisdom.

Wisdom consisteth not in knowing many things nor even in knowing them thoroughly, but in choosing and in following what conduces the most certainly to our lasting happiness and true glory.

Somehow, people never act as you think they should.—Atchison Globe.

Well Placed Generosity.

In 1835 Liszt went on a tour in the French provinces. He arrived at the little town of L— to give a concert, as announced. But the inhabitants appeared to take but little interest in musical matters, for when the musician appeared on the platform he found himself face to face with an audience numbering exactly seven persons. Liszt stepped very calmly to the front and, bowing respectfully to the array of empty benches, he delivered himself as follows:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I feel extremely flattered by your presence here this evening, but this room is not at all suitable; the air is literally stifling. Will you be good enough to accompany me to my hotel, where I will have the piano conveyed? We shall be quite comfortable there, and I will go through the whole of my programme."

The offer was unanimously accepted, and Liszt treated his guests not only to a splendid concert, but an excellent supper into the bargain. Next day, when the illustrious virtuoso appeared to give his second concert, the hall was not large enough to contain the crowd which claimed admittance.

At Both Ends.

"In a little town in Nova Scotia are two churches situated in the two divisions of the village locally designated as the 'North End' and 'South End.' At a Sunday morning service the officiating clergyman read the following notice:

"There will be preaching at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning in the church at the North End and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the church at the South End. Infants will be baptized at both ends."

A Model.

"Oh, no," declared the younger one, "my husband never goes to clubs or any other places of amusement unless he can take me with him."

"Dear me! What a splendid man! How long have you been married?"

"It'll be seven weeks next Tuesday."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Absentminded.

A professor of one of the universities is famous for his absentmindedness. He recently went into a barber's shop to get his hair cut. Taking a seat in the chair, he remarked:

"As it is quite cool in this room perhaps I had better keep my hat on while you cut my hair."

They Ought to Be.

"A couple were married in St. Louis the other day who couldn't understand each other's language," said Mrs. Gilley.

"And I suppose that they are unspeakably happy," commented Mr. Gilley.—Detroit Free Press.

True Love.

Appetite and Hunger.

"Most persons do not discriminate between hunger and appetite," said a doctor of long experience. "Appetite is what makes a man drink or smoke and what makes most men and women eat. Many go through life never knowing what hunger really is. I often fast sixty hours and never feel the worse for it. A friend of mine, a physician in Brooklyn, goes without food sixteen days at a stretch and keeps up his work meanwhile. There isn't an organ that can contract any disease from lack of food. Most of them do become diseased through the effort to take care of too much food. They are all in better tone after a fast. Another thing, hunger is felt only in the mouth and throat. That gone feeling that many complain of is not hunger; that is a form of disease. If persons would eat only when they were hungry and only as much as hunger, not appetite, called for—well, we doctors would have to fast."—New York Press.

The Greatest Men.

It would be a difficult task, if not an impossible one, to persuade any half dozen men casually brought together into unanimity of opinion concerning the greatest man who ever lived. Most of them would agree no doubt with Lord Brougham that Julius Caesar was "the greatest man of ancient times," but how many of the six would accept Professor Gardiner's estimate of Cromwell as "the greatest Englishman of all times?" Each of them, we may be reasonably sure, would accept Shakespeare as the greatest poet, yet Lord Lytton once spoke of Milton as "the greatest poet of our country." And where will be found two men out of Scotland to agree with Charles Mackay when he says of Burns that he was "the greatest poet—next perhaps to King David of the Jews—whom any age has produced?"—Leslie's Weekly.

Portsmouth Harbor.

There has existed a harbor at Portsmouth, England, resorted to by fighting ships from the most ancient times in our history. The Romans undoubtedly used it when they had their stronghold at Portchester, and they appear to have named it Portus Magnus, or the Great Port. The footsteps of the Roman provincials and of the Saxons and Normans may be traced, and from these times onward the name of Portsmouth occurs frequently in our history. The place had attained some measure of importance in the reign of Henry I. Richard Cœur de Lion set sail thence when last he left the shores of his kingdom, and in the time of his successor a naval establishment existed at the port.—London Globe.

Practical Inquiry.

The town council of a thriving burg in the west of Scotland recently acquired a piano for their town hall and appointed three of their number to inspect and report on the purchase. The councilors were not musical experts, but one—a joiner—bending down and applying his eye to the several corners of the instrument, remarked, "I'm nae judge of music, but I'll warrant ye a' the boards are plumb."

No Satisfying Her.

"Women are hard to understand." "Think so?" "Yes; I told her she carried her age well and she was offended." "You don't say?" "Yes; and then I told her she didn't carry it well, and she wouldn't speak."—Philadelphia Record.

Profanity of His Profession.

"Who is that scientific gent in room 15?" asked the scrub lady. "I dunno," answered the broom gentleman; "but he's a funny one to swear. You ought to hear him. When he saw a lot of mold on top of his ink, he said, 'B'cellus' just that way."—Chicago Tribune.

His Nickname.

"I hope they don't give my little boy any naughty nicknames in school." "Yes, ma, they call me 'Cornis.'" "How dreadful! And why do they call you that?" "Cause I'm always at the foot of the class."

Thought It Likely.

Concurrent Resolutions.

STATE OF NEW YORK, OFFICE OF THE Secretary of State, Albany, July 25, 1902.—Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of Chapter nine hundred and nine of the Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section ten of article eight of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next General Election of Senators in this State to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred and two.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE.

Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly, Proposing an amendment to section ten of article eight of the Constitution, relating to the limitation of indebtedness of counties, cities, towns and villages, by excepting the city of New York from the provisions of said section after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and four.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur) that section ten of article eight of the Constitution be amended to read as follows: Article VIII. § 10. No county, city, town or village shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money or credit to or in aid of any individual, association or corporation, or become directly or indirectly the owner of stock in, or bonds of, any association or corporation; nor shall any such county, city, town or village be allowed to incur any indebtedness except for county, city, town or village purposes. This section shall not prevent such county, city, town or village from making such provision for the aid or support of its poor as may be authorized by law. No county or city shall be allowed to become indebted for any purpose or in any manner to an amount which including existing indebtedness, shall exceed ten per centum of the assessed valuation of the real estate of such county or city subject to taxation, as it appeared by the assessment-rolls of said county or city on the last assessment for state or county taxes prior to the incurring of such indebtedness; and all indebtedness in excess of such limitation, except such as now may exist, shall be absolutely void, except as herein otherwise provided. No county or city whose present indebtedness exceeds ten per centum of the assessed valuation of its real estate subject to taxation, shall be allowed to become indebted in any further amount until such indebtedness shall be reduced within such limit. This section shall not be construed to prevent the issuing of certificates of indebtedness or revenue bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes for amounts actually contained, or to be contained, in the taxes for the year when such certificates or revenue bonds are issued and payable out of such taxes. Nor shall this section be construed to prevent the issue of bonds to provide for the supply of water; but the term of the bonds issued to provide the supply of water shall not exceed twenty years, and a sinking fund shall be created on the issuing of the said bonds for their redemption, by raising annually a sum which will produce an amount equal to the sum of the principal and interest of said bonds at their maturity. All certificates of indebtedness or revenue bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of taxes, which are not retired within five years after their date of issue, and bonds issued to provide for the supply of water, and any debt hereafter incurred by any portion or part of a city, if there shall be any such debt, shall be included in ascertaining the power of the city to become otherwise indebted; except that debts incurred by the city of New York after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and four, to provide for the supply of water shall not be so included. Whenever the boundaries of any city are the same as those of a county, or when any city shall include within its boundaries more than one county, the power of any county wholly included within such city to become indebted shall cease, but the debt of the county, heretofore existing, shall not, for the purposes of this section, be reckoned as a part of the city debt. The amount hereafter to be raised by tax for county or city purposes, in any county containing a city of over one hundred thousand inhabitants, or any such city of this state, in addition to providing for the principal and interest of existing debt, shall not in the aggregate exceed in any one year two per centum of the assessed valuation of the real and personal estate of such county or city, to be ascertained as prescribed in this section in respect to county or city debt. § 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur) that the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and in conformity with section one, article fourteen of the Constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

State of New York: In Senate, February 23, 1902.—The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the senate, T. E. ELLSWORTH, Temporary President.

State of New York: In Assembly, March 14, 1902.—The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the assembly voting in favor thereof. By order of the assembly, S. F. NIXON, Speaker.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, July 25, 1902.—Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of Chapter nine hundred and nine of the Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section ten of article eight of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next General Election of Senators in this State to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred and two.

The foregoing Concurrent Resolution is published once a week for three months next preceding the next general election in conformity to the aforesaid provisions, in two public newspapers in each county in this State representing respectively the two political parties polling the highest number of votes at the last general election, and in one additional newspaper in each county for every one hundred thousand people in such county as shown by the last preceding State Enumeration. JOHN T. McDONOUGH, Secretary of State.

STATE OF NEW YORK, OFFICE OF THE Secretary of State, Albany, July 25, 1902.—Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of Chapter nine hundred and nine of the Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next General Election of Senators in this State to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred and two.

AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO.

Concurrent Resolution proposing amendment to article six of the constitution, relating to the election of additional justices of the supreme court, in the words following: Resolved (if the assembly concur), that the sixth article of the constitution be amended by adding thereto the following section: Section 24. At the general election next after the adoption of this amendment, there shall be elected, and thereafter as the offices become vacant through expiration of term or otherwise, by the electors of the second judicial district two justices of the supreme court in addition to the justices of that court now in office in said judicial district. The justices so elected shall be invested with their offices on the first day of January next after their election. State of New York: In Senate, April 15, 1901.—The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the senate, TIMOTHY L. WOODRUFF, President.

State of New York: In Assembly, April 22, 1901.—The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the assembly voting in favor thereof. By order of the assembly, S. F. NIXON, Speaker.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, July 25, 1902.—Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of Chapter nine hundred and nine of the Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next General Election of Senators in this State to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred and two.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE. Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly, Proposing an amendment to article seven of the constitution in relation to the payment of debts of the State.

Section 1. Resolved (if the assembly concur) that article seven of the constitution be amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as section eleven, to read as follows: Article VII. § 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and in no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be insufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof, § 2. Resolved (if the assembly concur) that the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and in conformity with section one, of article fourteen of the constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

State of New York: In Senate, February 18, 1902.—The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the senate, T. E. ELLSWORTH, Temporary President.

State of New York: In Assembly, March 12, 1902.—The foregoing resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the assembly voting in favor thereof. By order of the assembly, S. F. NIXON, Speaker.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, July 25, 1902.—Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of Chapter nine hundred and nine of the Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article twelve, section one of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next General Election of Senators in this State to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred and two.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIVE.

Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly, Proposing amendment to article twelve, section one of the constitution, relating to organization of cities. Resolved (if the assembly concur). That the following amendment to the constitution be agreed to and referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators: Section one, article twelve of the constitution is hereby amended to read as follows: It shall be the duty of the legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses, in assessments and in contracting debt by such municipal corporations; and the legislature may regulate and fix the wages or salaries, the hours of work or labor, and make provision for the protection, welfare and safety of persons employed by the state or by any county, city, town, village or other civil division of the state, or by any contractor or sub-contractor performing work, labor or services for the state, or for any county, city, town, village or other civil division thereof.

State of New York: In Senate, March 25, 1902.—This bill was duly passed, a majority of all the senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the senate, T. E. ELLSWORTH, Temporary President.

State of New York: In Assembly, March 27, 1902.—This bill was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the assembly voting in favor thereof. By order of the assembly, S. F. NIXON, Speaker.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, Albany, July 25, 1902.—Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section seven of Chapter nine hundred and nine of the Laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to article six of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the Legislature to be chosen at the next General Election of Senators in this State to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred and two.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR. Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly, Proposing amendment to article six of the constitution relating to supreme court judicial districts. Section 1. Resolved (if the assembly concur) that section one of article six of the constitution be amended by adding thereto the following provision: The legislature may from time to time increase the number of justices in any judicial district, except that the number of justices in the first or second district or in any of the districts into which the second district may be divided, shall not be increased to exceed one justice for each eighty thousand, or fraction over forty thousand of the population thereof, as shown by the last state, or federal census or enumeration, and except that the number of justices in any other district shall not be increased to exceed one justice for each sixty thousand or fraction over thirty-five thousand of the population thereof as shown by the last state or federal census or enumeration. The legislature may erect out of the second judicial district as now constituted, another judicial district and apportion the justices in office between the districts, and provide for the election of additional justices in the new district not exceeding the limit herein provided. § 2. Resolved (if the assembly concur), that the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and in conformity with section one, of article fourteen of the constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

State of New York: In Senate, March 6, 1902.—This bill was duly passed, a majority of all the senators elected voting in favor thereof. By order of the senate, T. E. ELLSWORTH, Temporary President.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS. Mrs. Winslow's Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.
