The Tear.

"Tears, idle tears, I know not why they flow," Tennyson.

How sad is a parting from those whom we love,
With a handclasp we bid them good cheer,
It may be for years ere we greet them
again,
And our eye is suffused with a tear.

A mother o'er bending the bed of her babe,
With a look so unutterably dear,
And what fond emotions there surges through her,
In her joy she lets drop forth a tear.

A maiden who blushing hears the word love,
For the first time poured into her ear,
How her heart pulsates with tremblings
so strange,
And her eye is bedewed with a tear.

And when at the altar this maid is a bride,
Plights her troth in words soft and so clear,
And those who watched o'er her from babyhood up,
There does tremblingly linger a tear.

So on through our life, with its storms and its stress;
Till we are brought to rest on the bier,
The heart that is hardened by grief and of toll
Is made soft by the Heaven sent tear.

JANIE JACOBSON.

JOSEPH S. MARCUS.

A Story of Energy and Progress.

Here and there in this wonderful age of enlightenment, advancement and rapid strides of progress, we read of men-made famous either by politics, literature, statesmanship, philanthropy, army or navy, exploits or theological pursuits.

We desire to call the attention of our readers to the above-named gentleman, who, in the course of a few years, has made such remarkable strides of progress in business and in social and charitable circles in Greater New York, that his name has become a household word to the Jewish inhabitants of this great city, especially among the East Side population, who honor, love and adore him for his good and noble qualities, honest and fair business dealing methods, and his genial and pleasant disposition in receiving and conversing with either man, woman or child on any subject, listening attentively to their troubles, and supplying them with immediate relief.

Mr. Marcus was born in 1862. His parents gave him a fair education, and brought him up in strict accordance with the rites of Judaism. At the age of fifteen, having learned the art of clothing cutting, Mr. Marcus entered the employ of the firm of Mr. Oppenheimer, at Aulson, Hanover, Germany. He made such rapid advancement in his profession, that Mr.

S. Nassau, of Essen a. d. Ruhr, Germany, secured his services in 1876, as manager of his gigantic clothing and outfitting establishment.

Although holding a first-class position, he was not contented with his lot. His ambition was to become an independent merchant, always feeling confident of his ability to make a success in the commercial world. This feeling prompted him to come to America, the land which holds an outstretched hand of rich promise to all men of energy and ability. At first, however, fortune failed to smile upon him. Still, this did not dampen the ardor of his courage.

Twice he returned to his native land, and after embarking to this country a third time, he finally started business on a small scale by opening a store at 136 1/2 Division St. under the firm name of Marcus Brothers, and, at the expiration of six months, the firm moved to larger quarters at 74 Canal St. Business continued to increase to such an extent that, at the end of one year, another move was made to No. 97 Canal St., using the store and basement only, and in the course of a short space of time the business developed so rapidly that the firm was compelled to occupy the entire building at No. 97 Canal Street, in order to meet with the demands of their patrons and the public.

Many obstacles confronted Mr. Marcus, but by sheer grit, indefatigable labor and shrewd management, he finally overcame them all. His ceaseless work, his iron will and wonderful patience, brought him more and more to the front day by day, and now he is universally recognized as one of the leading clothing merchants of this city.

In 1887 he married Miss Rachel Cohen, daughter of Mr. H. N. Cohen, one of the most devout and prominent Jews of the City of New York.

1897 Mr. Marcus, as the senior member of the firm of Marcus Brothers, dissolved partnership, with the intention of retiring from business, but upon the advice of friends, who knew his energetic nature, he once more stepped into active life by founding and establishing his present place of business at 102 Canal Street. In the course of four years he had achieved such remarkable success that he had to take an adjoining building, in order to give proper attention and convenience to his customers.

Mr. Marcus is one of the organizers and directors of the new Monroe Bank, which will open shortly at 97 Canal Street, whose President will be his most intimate friend, Major Kaufman Mandell. He is also connected with the following charitable institutions: being a patron of the Mount Sinai Hospital, patron of the Beth Israel Hospital, patron of the Lebanon Hospital, patron of the Montefiore Home, patron of the Educational Alliance and patron of the University Settlement, a member of the United Hebrew Charities, Hebrew Sheltering and Guardian

Joseph S. Marcus.

Home, Hebrew Orphan Asylum, a life member and honorable director of the Gemilath Chasadim Association, a Trustee of the Congregation Beth Israel Bikur Cholim, and connected with various other charitable institutions too numerous to mention.

Mr. Joseph S. Marcus is to-day regarded as one of the best known Jews in New York City. His rapid strides of fame and renown, have neither made him unkind nor conceited (traits that are common to many wealthy persons sprung from the ranks), on the contrary, Mr. Marcus is always ready to assist those who are in need, and to extend a helping hand to every movement that tends to alleviate the sufferings and misfortunes of his fellow-men.

In the Jewish World.

The fifth annual memorial day of the National Farm School was held last Friday at Doyleston, Pa. Trees were planted in memory of Prof. Moritz Lazarus and Dr. Mielzener, and addresses were delivered by prominent speakers.

The latest scholastic statistics reveal to a painful degree the anti-Semitic spirit in which the German educational authorities are imbued. In 1901 there were 338 Jews and 56 Jewesses as teachers at the Prussian elementary schools. Ten years previously there were 336 Jews and 58 Jewesses teaching at these institutions. The general number of teachers in Prussia, during that decade, increased to 24,413, 40 per cent. In this growth the Jews have not been allowed to participate to the extent of even one appointment.

The plans of the new orthodox Jewish Synagogue at Grand Rapids, Mich., which were accepted by the building committee at the last meeting, provide for a handsome brick and stone structure that will occupy the entire lot, and in addition to the main auditorium will have a deep basement, which will be equipped for school purposes. The auditorium will accommodate 200, and there will be a choir gallery above the entrance and a pipe organ will be at the other end of the temple. The new building will have a slate roof and the heating will be by steam and the temple will be lighted by gas and electricity. The cost will be about $6,000, and it is hoped to have the structure completed and ready for occupancy by September.

A great deal of commotion has been occasioned in anti-Semitic circles by the award of the Bournfeld prize of 2,000 gulden to Herr Arthur Schnitzler, a Jew, for a drama, "Living Hours." Even the minister of education, Herr Ertel, has been interpellated in the Reichsrath on the matter, although the trust is not under the supervision of the State, and the minister is only a member of the committee privately.

A Western branch of the Jewish Chautauqua Society, organized by the circles in West Virginia, will inaugurate a Summer assembly this year. The same will be held at Huntington, West Virginia, July 7 to 10, under the direction of Rabbi Harry Levi. The Tri-State General Chautauqua Assembly also meets then and the Jewish Assembly will be its guest for one day of the session:

At the meeting of the Building Committee of the First Perth Amboy Hebrew Mutual Aid Society, held last week, bids for the new synagogue, which is shortly to be erected on Madison avenue, were received, and the contract was awarded to Ira R. Crouse, whose figures were $23,847.

A branch of the Jewish Chautauqua Society, organized by the Circles in West Virginia, will inaugurate a Summer assembly this year. The same will be held at Huntington, W. Va., July 7-10, under the direction of Rabbi Harry Levi. The Tri-State General Chautauqua Assembly meets then and the Jewish Assembly will be its guest for one day of the session.

At the thirty-first annual meeting of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum of Baltimore City last Sunday in Benevolent Society Hall, 711 West Fayette street, the following officers were elected: President, Mr. M. J. Oppenheimer; vice-president, Mr. Leopold Strouse; treasurer, Mr. Ferdinand Berner; secretary, Mr. William Schloss; directors, Messrs. David Ambach, David Hutzler, L. K. Gutman, Eli Oppenheim, Dr. Abraham Cohen, Mr. Leon Lauer (in place of Mr. F. B. Cahn, moved to New York), and Mr. C. Erlanger (in place of Dr. Aaron Friedenwald, deceased).

Through the filing Friday of the complete appraisal of the estate left by Henry Hart, for forty years president of the Third Avenue Railway Company, it was learned that the net personal property amounted to less than $100,000, and no real estate was mentioned. This reveals the immense shrinkage in the property of the man who in 1897, at the height of his prosperity, was reputed to be worth between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000. The collapse of the old man's fortune and of the Third Avenue Company as well occurred during the last two years of his life, and largely was responsible for the physical breakdown that resulted in his death on November 7, 1901.

Most curious is the controversy between English Hebrews and their Continental brethren raging just now over the bill which the House of Lords has under consideration. The bill is known by the name of the Hebrew Colonization Association bill.

The association has the administration of $9,000,000 ($45,000,000) bequeathed by the late Baron Hirsch for the purpose of founding colonies of Hebrews in America, North and South. The object of the bill is to legalize certain acts of the association which are acknowledged to be contrary to the terms of Baron Hirsch's will.

In order to do this the association asks the power to establish and maintain model farms, loan banks, industries, factories and any other institutions which may be calculated to fit Hebrews for emigration "and assist their settlement in various parts of the world."

The phrase quoted is the one which caused so much trouble. It is held by English Hebrews that it is against the wishes of Baron Hirsch, and would place it in the power of the association to use its immense funds for the purpose of assisting aliens to settle in England. On April 9 the Anglo-Jewish Association held a special meeting to consider the bill, and decided to approve it if the words "except in Europe" were added.

Talks With My Children.

Solomon; or, the Wise Choice.

(II. Chron. 1: 1-6; I. Kings 3: 3 to the end.)

Almost the first thing that Solomon did when he was made king was to offer sacrifices to God.

Was not that right?

He did not offer these sacrifices on Mount Zion; but where the ark was, in which was contained the tables of stone, the pot of manna and Aaron's rod, which was placed there by command, and there he offered a great many sacrifices to show that he loved God and wished to serve Him.

The night after Solomon had offered the sacrifices, God spoke to Solomon while he was asleep, and said, "Ask what I shall give thee." You see, God allowed Solomon to choose what he would like to have God give him.

Do you wish to know what Solomon chose to have? What would you have asked for?

Now Solomon had just been made king, and he saw what a hard thing it was to be a good king; for Solomon would judge the people. People who quarreled with each other would come to Solomon, and it is very hard, when people quarrel, to find out who is in fault, and who ought to be punished.

Solomon wished very much to judge the people well, and so he asked God to make him very wise.

Solomon said to God that night: "Thou hast made me king over a great many people, and I am very young, and I do not know what I ought to do. Oh, make me very wise, that I may judge the people well."

Did Solomon make a wise choice? Oh, yes. It was right in Solomon to wish to judge the people well.

God was very much pleased with Solomon, and said: "You did not ask me to make you very rich, or make you live a long while, or make you conquer your enemies; but you asked for wisdom, therefore I will make you wiser than any man that ever lived. And I will make you very rich, too, so that no other king shall be as rich or as great as you; and if you love me and serve me as David did, I will make you live a long while."

Then Solomon woke. How pleased he must have been to think of the promise that God had made him. He went back to Jerusalem, and offered up more sacrifices, near the ark on Mount Zion.

Now I will tell you of something that happened, which showed that God had made Solomon as wise as he said he would.

One day there came two women to Solomon. They had quarreled with each other. Solomon was the judge, and the women stood before him.

One of these women held a dead babe in her arms, and the other held a living babe in her arms. Both the babes were very little creatures, only a few days old, so that the living babe was not old enough to sit up, or to look about it, or to smile.

The woman who held the dead babe seemed very unhappy, and she said to the King: "This dead babe is not my own child. The other babe is mine. I lived in the same house with that woman, and no one lived in the house besides us two, and one night that woman lay upon her child in bed, and killed it; and so she got up, and put her dead babe into my bed while I was asleep, and took my living babe into hers. When I woke in the morning I was going to feed my child, but I found only this dead child; but when I had looked at it, I saw it was not my own child."

Then the other woman said: "You do not speak truth; the living child is mine and the dead one is yours." Then the other woman said again: "No, the living child is mine, and the dead is yours." Which of these women spoke the truth? And which of them told lies? How could Solomon find out? How could he tell which ought to have the living babe?

But God had made Solomon very wise, and he thought of a way to find out who spoke the truth.

Solomon called out: "Bring me a sword." And the servants brought a sword to the King. Then Solomon said: "Cut the living child in two and give half to one woman and half to the other, because both the women say the child is theirs; so let them each have half."

Then one of the women cried out: "Oh, do not cut the child in two, but let that woman have it; only do not kill it."

But the other woman said: "Let the child be cut in two, and let us each have half."

Now which do you think was the mother of the living child? Oh, I see that you know. Was it not the one who said: "Do not let it be killed?" How do you know that she was the mother? Because she loved the babe so much. Mothers do love their babes very much; they would rather that any one should have their babes than that the babes should be killed.

Solomon knew which was the mother, and he said to his servant: "Give her the living child, and do not kill it; she is the mother of it."

Why had Solomon ordered the man at first to cut the babe in two? Had he intended to have it killed? Oh, no. He only wanted to see what the women would say, that he might find out which was the mother. Was not that a wise plan of Solomon's? God had really made him wise as he had promised he would.

All the Israelites heard of what the King had said to the women, and they were surprised at his wisdom, and they were afraid of him, for they saw that God had put wisdom into his heart.

Should you like to be wise, my dear children? You go to school to learn to be wise, that you may know what is right and what is wrong; but you will never be as wise as Solomon, for God has said that no one shall be as wise as he was. But there is one thing still better than Solomon's kind of wisdom; and you may have it if you ask God for it. Do you ask, "What is that?" It is the Spirit of God. If the Spirit is in your heart, you will know God, and you will love Him. God has promised to give His Spirit, and that is the spirit of wisdom and strength, the spirit of counsel and fear of the Lord. I am glad when you are wise enough to answer questions right, or to behave well; but I wish most that you should love God with all your heart, and try to please Him. That is a better kind of wisdom than Solomon's.

Now, if the Lord should say to me, "What gifts shall I bestow on thee?"

Should I, like Solomon, reply, "Oh, give me wisdom from on high?"

Yet wisdom is the only thing That real happiness can bring; And restless must my heart remain Until this wisdom I obtain.

It would not make me truly wise To know the stars that fill the skies, Or all the fishes in the seas, Or beasts and birds, or flowers and trees.

Wisdom to love the thing that's right, Oh, this would give my heart delight; This wisdom, then, oh, grant to me, That I may ever live with Thee.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Society of Roumania Lodge are giving a series of entertainments.

The two daughters of President Leo N. Levi have joined the Isalah Ladies' Auxiliary Society.

The members of the general committee of District Grand Lodge No. 1 personally tendered a theatre party and a dinner to Brother Jacob B. Klein, president of the Grand Lodge on Saturday evening last. The members of the general committee were accompanied by their ladies, and President Klein and Mrs. Klein were the guests of the committee. The party attended the Empire Theatre, at which was played "The Mummy and the Humming Bird," with John Drew in the leading part. After the theatre the party repaired to the Arena, at which a room was reserved and a banquet prepared. First Vice-President Charles Hartman acted as toastmaster, and each of the members responded briefly to the toasts assigned. The festivity was arranged by a committee consisting of Brothers William A. Gans, Saul Bernstein and Charles Hartman.

The general committee of District No. 1 held its final meeting prior to the session of the Grand Lodge—which takes place on May 17 at New Haven—on Monday evening last, President J. B. Klein presiding.

The Board of Governors held its session to hear the report of President Ignatius Rice on Sunday last at the Home, at Yonkers.

On Monday evening last a lecture was delivered at the B'nai B'rith Building, 106 Forsyth street, by Dr. David Blaustein, of the Educational Alliance. The subject was "The Bible and Babel," as considered from a Jewish standpoint. After the lecture the audience was invited to discuss the subject. An excellent musical programme was provided.

Among others there was Miss Sara Gurwich, Madam Amy Ray, contralto; Mr. Nathan Ulanov, violinist, and Mr. Sidney Jespe, pianist. This lecture is the initial one of a course to be given at the B'nai B'rith Hall, and the services of a number of prominent lecturers have been secured to this end.

Manhattan Lodge, No. 156, has had four propositions for membership.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Maimonides Free Library was held on Thursday evening.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Society of the Home at Yonkers will take place on Sunday, May 10, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the B'nai B'rith rooms, 723 Lexington avenue. The business will be the reading of the annual reports, election of officers: President for one year, in place of Mrs. Hugo Josephy; vice-president for one year, in place of Mrs. Marcus Helm; treasurer for one year in place of Mrs. Myer Hellman; directresses for three years in place of Mrs. Henry S. Herrman, Mrs. Louis Duschnes, Mrs. Moses Heyman, Mrs. Henry W. Cane, Mrs. Edward Loeb, Mrs. Leopold Mainster; and the consideration of matters that may be introduced for discussion.

The thirtieth annual session of District Grand Lodge No. 7 was held at Pensacola, Fla. The session was held in the rooms of the Progress Club, in the Opera House Building. Hon. S. C. Eldridge, of San Antonio, Texas, the president, called the session to order. Rabbi S. Koch delivered the opening prayer. Mayor C. M. Jones, of Pensacola, welcomed the delegates to the city in an eloquent address. Hon. Joseph Hirsch responded to the Mayor's address. Among the telegrams of greeting received was one from Leo N. Levi, president of the Order.

The president's report was read, in which he referred to the fact that the Order was rapidly becoming a great international Jewish organization for the protection, the well being and the progress of the Jews. He also referred to the work done by the Order in behalf of the Jewish immigrants and the Roumanian refugees. In relation to propaganda, he refers to the establishment of eight new lodges, as follows:
Max Stein Lodge, Greenwood, Miss.;

Solomon Lodge, Starkville, Miss.; Philip Sanger Lodge, Calvert, Tex.; Ben Falk Lodge, Lafayette, La.; Ascension Lodge, Donaldsonville, La.; Oklahoma Lodge, Oklahoma City, O. T.; Abraham Levi Lodge, Jacksonville, Tenn.; Knoxville Lodge, Knoxville, Tenn. Reorganized: Elias Sander Lodge, Fort Worth, Tex.; Corsicana Lodge, Corsicana, Tex.

President Eldridge also recommends that the age for admission to membership of non-participating members be changed to eighteen years. He also reports that the removal office has succeeded in placing about five hundred Roumanians for the year. Reference is made to the charitable institutions to which the members contributed, being the Home at New Orleans, the Cleveland Orphan Asylum, the Tourd Infirmary and the Hospital for Consumptives at Denver, Col.

The secretary reports the endowment membership, as 1,276, non-endowment membership 2,009; total, 3,285. There are 77 lodges in the district. The amount in the reserve fund is $301,932.73. The officers elected for the next year are: President, Rabbi George Solomon, of Vicksburg; First Vice-President, Joseph Beitman, of Birmingham; Second Vice-President, C. H. Moritz, of Montgomery, Ala.; Treasurer, Samuel Ullman, of Birmingham; Sergeant-at-Arms, J. M. Oppenheim, of San Antonio; Secretary, Nat. Strauss.

The next session will take place at San Antonio, Texas. Three hundred dollars was collected on the floor of the convention, contributed by the delegates to aid the Jews in Kiskineff, Bessarabia, Russia, the scene of the late massacre; the fund was transmitted to President Leo N. Levi, of the Executive Committee. The sum of $100 per annum was voted to the Wise Memorial Fund.

A motion to close the endowment feature was postponed.

The B'nai B'rith Mirror, the organ of the district, was voted $500. The delegates were lavishly entertained with concerts, theatrical entertainments, outings and banquets.

The following-named rabbis who were delegates to the convention, gave a dinner to Rabbi George Samuels, the president-elect of the district, who, it is said, is the first rabbi to hold the office of president of any district. Rabbi Burnstein, of Houston, Texas; A. Brill, Greenville, Miss.; J. Friedlander, Beaumont, Tex.; I. Heineberg, Monroe, La.; S. Koch, Pensacola, Fla.; Joseph S. Kornfield, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Isidor Lewinthal, Nashville, Tenn.; Julius M. Magill, Corsicana, Tex.; F. L. Rosenthal, Baton Rouge, La.; M. Samfield, Memphis, Tenn.; David H. Wittenberg, Jacksonville, Fla.; Louis Wolsey, Little Rock, Ark.

Tenth Anniversary of the Young Ladies' Charitable Society.

For an organization composed of young folks, whose object is mainly the dispensing of charity, to be in existence ten years, is a fact worth recording. This is what the Young Ladies' Charitable Society has accomplished, and it was fittingly celebrated last Saturday evening, when seventy-five ladies and gentlemen attended the Majestic Theatre to see "The Wizard of Oz," at the conclusion of which the entire party rode to Terrace Garden, where an elaborate collation was served. While at the tables speeches were made by the officers and directors. Beautifully engraved hat brushes were presented to the ladies as souvenirs. Davis' orchestra was in attendance. Some of the many present included: Misses Gertrude Schiff, Eva Abrahams, Annie Strelitz, Carrye Cony, Isabelle Hertzman, Lillian Ambrose, Hattie Cohn, Hattie Simon, Miriam Stamper, Regina Cohn and Cella Krisky.

Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hebrew Educational Society of Harlem.

Thursday, April 30, 1903, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hebrew Educational Society of Harlem, gave a Coffee Kraenzchen, which was enjoyed by all present. After having participated of coffee and cake, given by a few members, a beautiful lady's satchel, the gift of Mrs. Dinah Kohn, was raffled off, the receipts of which went to the treasury of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Mrs. Emma Kohn was the lucky winner. The Ladies' Auxiliary, whose membership is constantly increasing, is a valuable branch of the Hebrew Educational Society of Harlem. The Ladies' Auxiliary is, besides, attending to the beautifying of the synagogue connected with the society, now establishing a sewing circle for girls.

Ladies' Auxiliary Society of the I. O. B. B. Home for Aged and Infirm.

The annual meeting will take place on Sunday, May 10, 1903, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the Benai Berith rooms, 723 Lexington avenue, to which all are cordially invited. The business will include the reading of the annual reports, an election of officers, and the consideration of matters that may be introduced for discussion.

Young Women's Hebrew Association.

Last Friday evening at the religious exercises Dr. Levine spoke. Dr. Levine will also be the speaker this week. He has taken up the teaching of Hebrew, and the class is progressing very favorably.

Arrangements are being perfected for a lecture of travel across the American continent, which is to be accompanied by stereopticon views. This lecture will be open to the public, and it is expected to prove very interesting.

On Thursday, May 14, the strawberry festival will take place at the Tuxedo. Many interesting features are being arranged, among which will be a Rebecca at the well, a fortune telling booth, flower booth and a candy booth. All these booths will be presided over by the various ladies of the institution, and it will certainly make an interesting spectacle to witness. There will be promenade music during the evening, and later there will be a dance. Tickets are on sale at the institution, or can be had on the evening of the festival at the door.

Next Sunday evening Mr. Albert Von Tilser will again entertain the audience, assisted by special talent. As the space is limited those desiring to attend are requested to get there at an early hour. Mrs. Mendez spoke of the religious class on Sunday morning.

Young Folks' Charity League.

The monthly sociable of the Young Folks' Charity League, which is an auxiliary society of the Daughters of Jacob, was held on Sunday evening, May 3, at the rooms of the home, 40 Gouverneur street. The rooms were overcrowded, and about 150 members and friends enjoyed the splendid entertainment that had been furnished. Among the entertainers were the Misses Epstein, violin duet; song and piano solo, by Miss Barnet, piano solo by Miss Furman, and rag-time melodies, sung inimitable style by Mr. E. Douglas Levy. Remarks were also made by Mr. Mandel Levy, the president of the league; Mr. Barney Greenberg, the chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and Mr. Jacob C. Brand. After the exercises were over refreshments were served, and everybody voted the affair a great success.

At the meeting of the league held last Tuesday evening the sum of $600 was donated to the building fund of the Daughters of Jacob toward the erection of their new building at 302-303 East Broadway.

The Work of the Hebrew Gemiloth Chassodim Association.

The aim of this institution is to help such classes of people, regardless of nationality and creed, who become temporarily embarrassed yet possess that enterprising and courageous element of keeping themselves away from degradation and beggary. To this class this institution grants loans, without any recompense, from $5 to $200 upon qualified indorsement.

In the last three months, namely, January, February and March, the Hebrew Free Loan Association has loaned $77,915 to 3,238 such borrowers, and collected returns from its named creditors amounting to $74,758. The expenses of this institution for these three months amounted to $1,639.25, and received from membership dues, which is credited against the expenses, $2,201. Donations in the said period accumulated to $4,199.03, which are applied to the funds.

Entertainment and Ball.

An entertainment and ball was given at Terrace on Sunday evening, May 3, by the Stryer Congregation in aid of their charity fund. The entertainment was arranged and produced by Mr. J. L. Baraban and its successful culmination and the handsome addition to the treasury (the hall was crowded) was mainly due to his efforts. The programme consisted of a musicale satire in three acts, interspersed with songs of the day, and the children performed excellently, the most liked being Master I. Swernosky, Miss Hortense Abrahams, Miss Sarah Abromovitz, Miss Rose Baraban and Miss Ethel Silverman.

Among those who witnessed the entertainment were: Mr. and Mrs. O. Abrams, H. Salzman, Miss I. Kommers, M. Gritz, Miss F. Gritz, H. Horowitz, Miss E. Friedman, A. Marcus, Miss H. Friedman, T. Monday, M. Monday, Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Berkowitz, M. S. L. Milner, Mr. and Mrs. I. Abramowitz, Miss B. Gutter, Mr. and Mrs. H. Monday, Mr. J. Wallner, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lovinger, Miss K. Schagur and others.

Young Folks' Literary Circle of the Hebrew Educational Society of Harlem.

On Monday, May 4, the Young Folks' Literary Circle of the Hebrew Educational Society of Harlem held its first literary evening. It was a "German Social." Miss Estelle Cohen, the chairman of the Library Committee, welcomed the guests in a few appropriate words. She then introduced the lecturer of the evening, Mr. Louis A. Alexander, the superintendent of the Hebrew Educational Society of Harlem, who delivered his first of a series of lectures, entitled: "The History of the Foundation of Libraries." The lecturer was listened to with great attention.

The humorous part of the evening was represented by Mr. Alexander Harris, who recited the "Memoirs of the Youth" and the "Sturm und Strang" period, of the famous Peter Schlemiel, which was enjoyed by all present and caused much laughter.

Engagement Reception.

A reception in honor of the engagement of Miss Gertrude Levy to Mr. Joseph Lefkowitz took place Sunday last at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Levy, 245 East Sixty-eighth street. The entire residence was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. The guests, who numbered several hundred, made merry till late at night. Several of those present arranged an entertainment, and it being impromptu, was all the more enjoyable. The room-to-be, who is an expert violinist, rendered some beautiful solos. His playing of several Hungarian dances was excellent, and gave him good opportunities to display his abilities. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lyon. Piano selections by Mr. David Stamper, who also played for the dances, were much appreciated. A treat of the evening was the vocal numbers by Miss Tillie Lefkowitz, and her clear soprano voice was heard to good advantage.

A dinner was much enjoyed by the relatives and intimate friends and during its progress speeches were made by Rev. Dr. Lyon and Mr. Levy.

A few of those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. Lefkowitz, Mr. Weis, Mr. and Mrs. Brody, Mr. and Mrs. Lippman, Mr. and Mrs. Schlesinger, Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz, Mr. and Mrs. Loewenberg.

Under the management of F. L. Morhard, the Albany Dental Association has rapidly advanced to the fore, and today is recognized as one of the leading dental establishments of the Metropolis. New and up-to-date methods are in vogue here, and all work is absolutely painless, and the many years that they have been established in the one locality is a sufficient guarantee as to their reliability. The location, No. 291 Third avenue, near Twenty-third street, is central, and easy of access by all lines. Their prices are very reasonable, as the following will show:

Extraction, 25 cents, and with painless method (no gas), 50 cents. Sets of gum teeth, $6.50. Full upper and lower sets, $12. Partial plates, from $1.50 to $6.50. Crown and bridge work a specialty. Gold crowns, $6.50. Porcelain crown on pivot teeth, $4. Open evenings until 9; Sundays, from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Coming Events.

The United Charity Aid Society, a branch of the Young Men's Krakamer Benevolent Society, will hold a Summer night's festival on Tuesday, June 30, 1903, at Sulzer's, Harlem River Park.

The famous Letter Carriers' Band will be present, and will no doubt aid in producing the usual large addition to the society's treasury.

The Ladies' Benevolent Society will give an entertainment and ball on Sunday, May 10, at McKinley Hall, East 4th street. Nothing has been left undone to make this affair a grand success.

Personal.

Mrs. Sadie Heller, nee Kaufman, accompanied by her son, Master Karl Heller, will sail on the 28th inst. on the Barbarossa, on a visit to her birthplace, Suetzelsachsen, Baden. The Mutual Reserve in Nebraska.

The Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company has been licensed as an old line life insurance company in the State of Nebraska.

New York Bonds.

Comptroller Edward M. Grout, of the City of New York, is advertising a sale of $3,000,000 three and one-half per cent. gold bonds, to take place on Tuesday, May 12. These bonds are tax exempt except for State purposes, and are a legal investment for trust funds. Mr. Grout calls attention to the fact that under the new Greater New York Charter no "all or none" bids can be received by him, thus opening the field for purchase to investors instead of practically restricting bond sales, as was the rule before the new provision was inserted in the Charter, to dealers in bonds. Bonds are awarded to bidders offering the highest premium and for the term for which they run.

A bid of $108.78 yields 3.15 per cent. income.
A bid of $107.46 yields 3.20 per cent. income.
A bid of $106.16 yields 3.25 per cent. income.

New York City bonds have always been considered by investors as second only in security to United States bonds, which are now selling on about a 2 per cent. basis.

The law requires that bids be sent to the Comptroller in a sealed envelope, inclosed in the addressed envelope. Each bid must be accompanied by 2 per cent. of the par value bid for, either in cash or a certified check on a State or national bank of New York City. Bids are received up to 2 o'clock on Tuesday, May 12.

Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

It is proposed to organize a New York branch of the "Jewish Theological Seminary of America," and a meeting has been called for that purpose, to which the Jewish public are earnestly invited, on Wednesday evening next, the 13th instant, at 8:30 o'clock, in the new Seminary Building, 123d street, near Amsterdam avenue. Eminent speakers will address the meeting.

In Memoriam.

COHEN.—The unveiling of the monument to the memory of Sarah Cohen, beloved wife of Harry Cohen, will take place on Sunday, May 10, two p. m., at Bayside Cemetery. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend. Take Brooklyn Elevated Railroad to city line.

SOLOMON.—The unveiling of the stone of Hyman Solomon will take place at Bayside Cemetery, May 10, 1903, at one o'clock. Friends and relatives respectfully invited. In case of rain, postponed until following Sunday.

Last Sunday at Washington Cemetery there was dedicated a monument to the memory of Edgar David Moss, formerly of 328 South Second street, Brooklyn. Rabbi Samuel Greenfield officiated in the presence of a host of friends and relatives of the deceased.

Persecution of Jews.

Although several speakers disappointed the large audience that assembled in Cooper Union last Monday evening to express indignation for the massacre of the Jews in Kishineff on the Russian Easter, speakers enough were there who denounced the Czar and the Russian Government for permitting the outrage. The cruelties perpetrated during the three days, it is said, resulting in the death of 100 Jews, the wounding of 600 women, children and old men, and the destruction of the homes of all Jews in the place, said to number about 25,000, were spoken of as resembling the St. Bartholomew riots in Paris in the sixteenth century, differing only in this, as one speaker put it, "that the victims at that time were merely killed, not tortured."

Efforts to raise a fund for the homeless Jews in Kishineff were made at the meeting, $200 being subscribed. Louis Miller, Joseph Barondess, Herbert Casson, Edward King and Abraham Cahn delivered addresses.

The New Witmark Building.

Contractors and builders, bad weather and striking workmen are a few of the little things which have made it impossible for the Witmarks to get into their handsome new building as soon as they expected. Nevertheless, on the day originally set for the moving, the house received a number of congratulatory telegrams. Charles Noel Douglas, the clever lyricist, dropped into rhyme in honor of the occasion:

"Success, prosperity to all who're 'neath the Beehive Tower;
May Providence its blessings on the house of Witmark shower—
May melody and harmony and poesy combined
Here 'neath the Beehive Tower e'er a princely shelter find.
Musicians, singers, hasten here and to these portals throng
Here you will find a fitting shrine, a very home of song.
Built up by honest effort, for in whatever they embark
The Witmarks show their wit and grit, and thus have made their mark,
So golden fortune lavish here your richest, princeliest dower,
And may the song world's Mecca be, here 'neath the Beehive Tower.
Charles Noel Douglas.
With all good wishes for success and prosperity."

B'nai Scholom Synagogue.

By request of Rabbi Alter Abelson, a meeting of the Alliance Israelite of America will be held in B'nai Scholom Synagogue, Brooklyn, on Sunday, May 10, at 8 p. m., for the purpose of protesting against the discrimination made by Russia against Jewish American citizens and of denouncing the late riots of Kiskinev. Mr. Nissin Behar, Mr. Michaelson and Rabbi Alter Abelson will address the audience. The people are especially requested to attend.

Israelite Alliance of America.

The officers of the B'nai Scholom Congregation of Brooklyn, N. Y., have become interested in the aims and objects of the Israelite Alliance, and have called for a public meeting to take place in their synagogue at 327 Ninth street, Brooklyn, on Sunday, the 10th inst., 8 p. m. The purpose of the meeting will be to interest Brooklyn Jews in the work of the Alliance.

The following speakers will address the meeting: M. Nissim Behar, Lewis B. Michaelson, and A. H. Simon, hon. secretary of the Alliance, and Rev. Alter Abelson, minister of the congregation.

Hebrew Orphan Asylum.

On Sunday, May 3, the children of this home were treated to a Punch and Judy show, by Prof. Lawrence Corbett. The entertainment was arranged by Mrs. Edward C. Blum, a member of the Ladies Auxiliary Society, connected with the institution. The children enjoyed the show immensely.

The second of the series of talks given by Mr. Samuel Friedman before the Literary Society, took place on Monday evening, May 4. The life and works of Wordsworth were discussed and some of Shakespeare's sonnets were read and discussed by the children. Mr. Friedman expressed great satisfaction with the way in which the boys and girls took hold of the work. A sonnet written by Mary Boretz, a member of the Literary Society, was read. Mr. Friedman complimented her for her poem, which is appended.

God's Nearness.

(A Sonnet.)

Written by Mary Boretz.

While dwelling in this grand and lovely home,
I ponder oftentimes when I am gay,
How people feel when left along to roam,
Without a friend to help them on their way.
How they must struggle on through life alone,
Wandering on helpless throughout the land,
They journey on, life's burden o'er them thrown,
And meet few who will lend a helping hand.
But they who trust in God need never fear.
In their sad hearts, He always will be dear;
Who always look on the bright side of life
And have a high ideal through the strife,
Will be quite sure to conquer in the end,
And then to God loud praises they will send.
Through the kindness of Commissioner Otto Kempner, 150 of the children were invited to Barnum & Bailey's circus. It proved a most enjoyable affair and will not be forgotten by the children for some time to come.

Park for E. D. Ghetto.

A petition is being prepared for presentation to the local Board of Improvements of the Williamsburg District at an early date for the laying out of a public park and playground in the Sixteenth Ward. The matter has been under consideration for some time, and at a recent conference between Public Works Commissioner Redfield, Park Commissioner Young and former Park Commissioner George V. Brower, it was decided that no part of the borough stood so much in need of a breathing spot as does the thickly populated portion of the Sixteenth Ward. The nearest place of the kind is the proposed McCarran Park, more than a mile away.

It is proposed by the borough authorities to acquire title to three blocks in the Sixteenth Ward, located somewhere within the territory bounded by Broadway, Flushing avenue, Morgan avenue and Montrose avenue. The exact location of the proposed park will not be made public until the matter has been formally presented to the local board. It is estimated that the land can be acquired at a cost not to exceed $200,000, and that the park will be accessible to a congested population of close on to 250,000. The great majority of the residents of the section are Jews.

IN THE THEATRES.

Victoria Theatre.

At the Victoria Theatre on Monday evening Mr. David Belasco returned his masculine star, David Warfield, back to New York for a limited engagement in "The Auctioneer." When the piece was originally produced at the Bijou Theatre, where it ran for four months, it was voted one of the most distinct successes of that season, and the public observed that Mr. Belasco had duplicated, in the case of Warfield, his strikingly successful achievements in elevating Mrs. Leslie Carter and Miss Blanche Bates to the regions of stardom. Warfield's success since his manager, David Belasco, introduced him to New York audiences scarcely two years ago has been really of a phenomenal order, and few players of to-day on the American stage are more widely or favorably known. Practically all of the principals who contributed so much to the enjoyment of Mr. Warfield's performances when they were here last year remain with him, including Marie Bates, Maria Davis, Helene Phillips, Dorothy West, Rachel McCausland, Eugene Canfield, William Boag, Harry Rogers, Stokes, Sullivan and others. Mr. Belasco's constant concern that his productions shall be kept up to a high standard will be manifested in the scenery, costumes and accessories attendant in the Victoria engagement, they having been specially renewed for this run.

Bijou Theatre.

Monday night will usher in the final week of Marie Cahill's successful engagement at the Bijou in "Daniel V. Arthur's presentation of "Nancy Brown." The drawing powers of Miss Cahill are still unexhausted, but plans formulated months ago will necessitate the ending of Nancy Brown's run while still in the height of her popularity.

Proctor's 23d Street Theatre.

Variety will be out in force next week at Proctor's Twenty-third Street house, for another one of those "generously good" shows has been scheduled and has been so arranged as to avoid all waits and dull moments. The "top-notchers" will be the return of those prime favorites, the Ellmore Sisters, whose comic Irish sketches have won fame for them all over America. Others enumerated are: Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, Talbot and Rogers, George H. Timmons, McCune and Grant, Randall and Perry, Lillian Le Roy Murtha and twenty other novel variety "turns."

Proctor's 125th Street Theatre.

A special production will be made next week at Proctor's 125th Street Theatre of Robert B. Mantell's greatest success, "The Face in the Moonlight." This splendid melodrama received its first production at Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre some years ago, under the management of F. F. Proctor and Augustus Pitou, and with Mr. Mantell in the dual roles. The production next week will be complete in detail, the same scenery being used that was built for the recent Fifth Avenue production.

Garrick Theatre.

"Skipper & Co., Wall Street," an original comedy of New York life, by H. J. W. Dam, was presented for the first time on any stage at the Garrick Theatre Monday night. The play is in no sense a farcical comedy, but is a serious attempt to portray life on Wall Street and the possibilities of speculation in an interesting manner. Maclyn Arbuckle, an actor who has appeared to advantage in everything from farce to Shakespeare, in the course of the past dozen years, is seen in the principal role of Skipper, and is assisted by a company which includes 31 players, among them being Irma La Pierre, Lotta Linthicum, Beverly Sitgreaves, Madeleine Dallas, Emma Brennan Ince, Nellie Lingard and Katherine Keyes.

Third Avenue Theatre.

One of the greatest dramatic sensations on the road is the melodrama "Marked for Life" which will be given at the Third Avenue Theatre next week.

התורה מן קדושים

Work Hand in Hand.

Behold, days are coming, saith the Lord, when the ploughman shall meet the harvester, and the treader of the grapes the sower of the seed, and the mountains shall drop with new sweet wine.—Amos ix, 13.

Oh, what a glorious, blessed time there is predicted here! When men of the different industries shall meet, the producers and the harvesters, or the consumers, shall stand in harmony, conscious of the sublime fact that each has his sphere of usefulness, each has to carry out his mission to make the whole productive of good. This is said of the field and vineyard literally. But figuratively, it means the field of higher significance, the field of spiritual labor, the vineyard of God, where the wine, the strengthening liquid of religious life must needs be fostered and cultivated, and on that field, in that vineyard the most prolific harvest is produced, the sweetest fruit is yielded when that harmony, that concord is manifest that is so beautifully spoken of by the ancient bard, "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." This applies to all stations and conditions in life, calling for the united harmony of all men as brethren.

But we are engaged in the consideration of our Haphtorah lesson more with religious instruction than with secular monition, and we will occupy the time with the Word of God, with that higher teaching that the prophet of Israel intended to impart to his people. Accordingly the question occurs here: How does it stand on the field of religious labor? How is the concord and harmony in the vineyard of God? Does the ploughman meet the harvester? Does the treader of grapes come near to the sower of seed?—that is, come near for the purpose of the best promotion, for the most successful promoting of our holy religion? It is unfortunately true that they do not meet, do not come together, but each pulls his own way, and the results are discord and a misconceived sense of religion.

That the ploughman—as we would call a rabbi—is richly fed and well compensated, does by no means yet imply that religion is well served. The harvester, the constituent, does not meet him any more than to come occasionally to hear him, then go away not heeding the lesson imparted; or very often the ploughman—the rabbi—consults the vain, irreligious sentiments of his constituents, and speaks on anything but the word of God and religion.

The treader of grapes, the functionary, has nothing in common with the sower of seed—with the parents, with father and mother, who ought to sow the seed so carefully that their children be imbued with the sanctity of religion, that they conceive a reverence for the sublime faith of Israel. Then could the functionary, then could the ploughman, proclaim with sacred delight בשרתי צדק בקהל רב. "I am promoting righteousness in numerous assembly."

All would meet, all would come together, one helping the other, one doing what he could to strengthen the position of the other. The rabbi would see that his flock received the best religious information; the congregation would see that the rabbi be enabled to go on duly and truly with his work; the parents would see that their children grow up Jews, not in name only, but in reality.

Not like Isaiah laments that יקני לעשות ענבים יקני יקני it was hoped to produce grapes but only four grapes have grown, but like our Haphtorah lesson so beautifully defines our situation והררים הררים הררים הררים the mountains shall drop with sweet new wine; and such must be, such is the result of the labors in the field, in the vineyard of God, where all go hand in hand.

The rabbi can do no good where the congregation comes once in a while to hear him; the congregation is deceived when the rabbi gives them sermons on subjects other than on religion and Judaism. The ploughman must meet the harvester, the treader of grapes, the sower of seed, and the mountains shall drop with new sweet wine.

Revival of the Synagogue.

In the report of the President of District Grand Lodge No. 7, I. O. B. B., occurs the very excellent thought that in these places where a congregation exists, the lodge of the Order is correspondingly strong. If this and other statements to the same effect are to be considered at all, they must be regarded as the natural reaction against indifference to the synagogue, a feeling that has been sadly prevailing in certain quarters. By reverting to the old order of things and placing the congregation there where it once was in the esteem and opinion of the Jews, the common follower of Judaism will be in the position to right the wrongs which, owing to a mistake committed by narrow-minded liberals, have been perpetrated against the Jewish parent organization. It might be hard to believe, but even to day a violent antagonism is entertained against the synagogue by those who unconsciously carry on the warfare conducted hitherto by rebels against Jewish bonds forged by history, and by malcontents who would have sold their birthright. This hostility must, sooner or later, give way to the more rational struggle to make the Jew of the synagogue more respected and admired by the non Jew. This can only be done when, as before, all possible forces for the regeneration of the Jew and mankind will be born and fostered in that cradle of many stirring virtues—the synagogue.

Just one week more and many happy couples will date their wedding-day from Lag b'Omer.

A Jewish Protectorsy.

We are very glad to see enthusiasm being created over the new communal undertaking of providing a denominational home for such children as have an acquired or inherited tendency, of the curable kind, to criminal conduct. The need of an institution which would supplement the orphan asylums, which are almost unable to cope with the problem of the numbers of applicants much less with the additional personal supervision over the individual inmates, is being daily felt and communal leaders are now bending themselves energetically to the task of solving this question by the creation of a special home for unruly and wayward children, the number of whom is growing even out of all proportion to the increase of population. Hitherto such cases were made city charges or referred to the care of Christian societies. The same feeling of pride and the same loyalty to our own which first prompted the founders of all our benevolent institutions should be operative in the erection of a suitable home for the criminally inclined Jewish children.

It may once have been our boast that within the ranks of Judaism but very little, if any, criminality existed, and that it was never strong enough to constitute a class of law-breaking individuals, young or old. Even if we have to modify our conceit and look forward to the prospect of having a segregated body of Jewish children confront us with the fact of our degeneration, it is our solemn duty to take the matter in hand and with all expediency root out the evil by the best-known pedagogic and disciplinary methods.

Our leaders will be wise in putting their heads together for serious counsel and their shoulders together, in order to compass the end now advocated by not a few of the most earnest of them. Our hope is that by proper methods we may be enabled to minimize the evil and save the man by taking care of the child. The cause is more worthy than the usual one of charity which is brought forward in order to enlist public co-operation.

Evictions and Increased Rentals.

The Evening World a few days ago commented upon the statement made by Commissioner Julius Harburger, that there were more evictions or dispossesses, as we call them, in the Fourth (Municipal) Judicial District in this city last year than there were in all Ireland during the same period. This may be a startling statement, but its truth can be readily confirmed by figures. The number of dispossesses during the last few months has, as Commissioner Harburger says, been inordinate.

The increase of rentals on the downtown East Side, have been predicated upon the expected increase of taxes by reason of the full valuation of real estate recently adopted. It may be safely asserted that there will be no increase of taxes save in a very small proportion of property this year. In many instances probably, in seventy-five per cent. of the tenement property, the taxes will be less during the coming year than they were during the past. The application of about eight million dollars taken from the sinking fund has gone far to bring about this result.

Charity by Proxy.

Repeatedly was it told to me by the wisest heads in my new congregation that in taking an assistant to the old rabbi, it was not intended consciously to harm him, even to the extent of hurting one hair on his head, already at that time quite innocent of hirsutal covering. The man who as Jewish pastor of the city was widely known for his goodness and charity, who was famed for his learning and scholarship had the misfortune of not being quite up to date in his lectures and of not having such control of the English language as would satisfy the younger generation which clamored for the vernacular.

For a long time I joined in the chorus which proclaimed my senior a kind-hearted, innocent and charitable man, one who would be willing to go far out of his way in order to assist a poor man or his family. This estimate was based largely upon the numerous assertions made by the gentleman concerned of his unceasing activity in the cause of the poor. He readily encouraged the belief that when he slept he dreamed of the poor, and when he was awake he was always thinking of them. He related at every interview his thoughtfulness in providing for the needy in the least humiliating manner. He illustrated by instances how very wisely he dispensed charity, giving what was needed without shaming the recipient. It was not to be wondered at then that in the natural course of events he grew in the esteem of the people as the years rolled on, until his ungainly form came to be mistaken for that of an angel in disguise and his stout figure for the graceful one of an emissary of divine peace and benevolence.

Upon closer investigation, I discovered that his charity was all done with him as proxy, that never a cent came out of his own pocket, even by mistake, that he was not so humble and saint-like when he made his gifts as he pretended, that he was sometimes very rude and rough, that he had at his disposal several funds, of which he had to give no accounting whatever, that he made a specialty of that which enters, as part of the necessary activity of the rabbi, into the life of every minister. He did this probably because he was faulty and not up to the standard in other requisites looked for in the rabbi. But he certainly was the perfection of goodness in the eyes of the community.

So integral a part of the whole life of his congregation did my associate become that still another remarkable form did his activity take. And wonderful was his adaptability! great beyond question his faculty of fitting parts together in the community which was favored by his blessed work!

Did the rabbi in the course of his pastoral wanderings which were daily, discover a sick man or woman belonging to his flock, forthwith he would urge the patient and the family to send for a certain physician other than the one who had charge of the case.

Did he discover that the lady of the house was troubled and sorely put out by the lack of domestic help, our good doctor was prepared to recommend a servant who had been tried and not found wanting in other situations.

Did he see that one family needed a nurse for an invalid child to tend to and care for the latter through the day and night, this benign representative of the Torah supplied one who, to his knowledge, possessed just the qualifications demanded in this particular case.

If the daughter of a wealthy man was too shy and bashful to encourage a suitor, and therefore could get no one to woo her, he very obligingly took the required steps by picking out a very deserving young man and introducing him to the family with a view to finally establishing relations of close intimacy between them.

If it came to the knowledge of the beloved rabbi that a business man was in need of the services of an errand boy, within a short time the desired assistance was presenting itself in the shape of a boy at the counting house, offering his services for the accommodation of the merchant at the instigation of the rabbi.

He could be counted on to carry tales reflecting against a man who was opposed to him as well as try to patch up family quarrels by a meddling sort of mending of the breach.

He could and would advise hometreatment for common ailments, recommend the proper resort for recreation and refreshment, assist in the drafting of wills by suggesting the institutions to which to leave money, in short, he was a handy man to have around on all occasions, as he knew every man and woman and child in the community, and therefore constituted himself the intelligence, the general factotum of the Jewish community, the major domo, the master of ceremonies and introductions for everybody at every function and at every crisis.

Because he knew too much of everybody's affairs, some people feared him. For he held the whip-hand over them in a masterly manner. Because he managed to render services to many, he was respected and found numerous adherents on that score alone. Because he had brought timely assistance to some, he was supported strongly by those whom he had thus favored. In this wise with the years that passed he became closely identified with the welfare of the individuals of his community, so that in his reminiscent mood he was regarded as the authority on all matters pertaining to the past history of every constituent portion of his flock. So strongly did he feel himself entrenched in the good graces of his people, that he oft-times neglected the poor in favor of the rich, and showed his partiality in discriminating against his less favored members. Such persons as were slighted, however, were not so numerous as to cause comment. On the whole, my senior was a power and boasted of his political finesse, his Bismarckian shrewdness in holding the fort against all comers, even against me after I was duly installed.

As for other ministerial labors, such as befits a rabbi to perform, I saw but little evidence of any material progress. The Sabbath School was in a most disorganized condition, for there was neither system nor discipline exercised in the management thereof. The weekly services were sparsely attended, and then only by the few elect. The young people were wholly without religious guidance. The sermons delivered lacked warmth and substance, except when sonorous and touching references were made to the sainted dead on holy-days.

This was the man with whom I was now associated and these the resulting conditions with which I was confronted.

REB PELONI.

The Mirror.

For fulsome panegyric combined with extravagant grotesqueness, commend us to the following utterance of Mons. le Directeur Generale et Grand Rabbin Krauskopf:

"Had Rabbi Wise lived in the days of the Prophets, he would shine forth to-day as the greatest of them all."

Sunday services in Temples Emanuel and Beth-El have been discontinued until Autumn. What will become of the unfortunate individuals who are thus deprived of their regular Sunday religious meal during the summer I cannot say.

The raison d'être of the Hebrew Union College, according to the fiery mouthings of the "half-baked," is not so much the maintenance of a Jewish seat of learning (of which every Israelite is in favor), as it is of the spreading of Reform (with a capital R of course), to which, in view of its destructive, disintegrating elements, no consistent Israelite can subscribe.

If they were Chachamim, it would be well to say to Mons. le Directeur Generale et Grand Rabbin Krauskopf and his co-adjutors "hezaharu b'divraychem," "be careful of your words," but they are neither wise as serpents, nor harmless as doves. Their boastful, intemperate, untruthful adulatory, eulogistic allusions to the late founder of the Hebrew Union College, only serve to excite ridicule and really injures their cause.

The true good wishers of the H. U. C. are muttering in undertones "Save us from our friends," and I am sure that a plain, unvarnished statement of the needs of the College and the necessity of its existence for the perpetuation of Judaism, as they understand it, would act better as a "shekel producer" than all their useless foolish effervescent oratory.

Their thoughtlessness is only injuring the cause, for they force the issue "That the Hebrew Union College exists for the sole purpose of pushing Reform even to Radicalism," while, according to the speech of Mr. Jacob H. Schiff, the Jewish Theological Seminary has only one purpose in view, "to establish an institution which should appeal to all desiring to prepare for the Jewish ministry, irrespective of tendencies to which they might be leaning, or in other words, a Rabbi whether Orthodox or Reform, should be a Jewish scholar, which, leader, the "half-baked" are not.

If Jewish scholarship were the test all over America, many of the present pulpit incumbents would be minus a sinecure.

I know of many graduates of the H. U. C. to-day, who appreciating the criticisms of the HEBREW STANDARD are studying Hebrew and Talmud like good fellows and are sensibly doing all they can "to remove this reproach from Israel."

I take off my hat to them!

Some of the Orthodox Rabbis are swearing (metaphorically, of course,) at their Reform colleagues who perform marriage ceremonies during the Sefirah, and denounce it as "a low, mean, dirty Irish trick."

I see that the 55th Street Congregation has adopted the Union Prayer Book. It is bad enough to have con signed the Huebsch Ritual to congregational oblivion, for at least it had his torical liturgical principles at its foundation, but to substitute that bastard, miscegenating nondescript in its place, is adding insult to the memory of one of the most zealous Rabbis the congregation ever had, and who, in fact, built the Temple which is now being desecrated by this hemaphrodite miszgeburr.

Some one advertises in last Sunday's Herald for an "Experienced Christian Chattel mortgage man." Does he want an "experienced Christian," or is his business confined to "Christian chattel mortgages," and, if the latter, what is the difference between Christian chattel mortgages or those of any other denomination?

The constant dropping of printer's ink has a tendency to bring people to their senses.

My Chief has for years been hammering at the injustice of foisting upon credulous congregations "half-baked" beardless boys as Rabbis.

What annoyed him the most was the cowards dice of those quality Rabbis who were afraid to protest against this wholesale manufacture of ignorant pretenders in the pulpit.

As I said, printer's ink with a little vitriol mixed with it, sometimes has the desired effect of opening the eyes of some men and I note at the eleventh hour, Dr. E. Schreiber, a learned scholar, and an old time Rabbi and a Radical Reformer withal, writes the following to the Reform Advocate:

We have become convinced more and more that Fourth of July spreadeagle oratory, and essays on some sensational novels or political questions do not constitute a rabbi. We still believe—and dare say to have by our writings contributed a little to the spread of this conviction—that "Rabbi" means a "scholar, versed in Jewish lore." Neither have we changed in our view that the introduction of effeminate emotionalism and unctuous cant, into our sermons and prayers, is not only a result of the utter ignorance of Judaism but is equivalent with the treachery, apostasy and Christianization of our strong, virile religion; a return to the Egyptian "cult of the dead."

Why was Rabbi Schreiber silent for the past twenty years? Why didn't he "lift up his voice and howl" before? Was he afraid of the old-time slush-bucket of the American Israelite, or was he apprehensive lest he might wound the sensibilities of his talented young colleagues?

By the grace of Hirsch's reasoning, the synagogue is opened to Jesus, and the church doors by the same token are closed to him. The Western Apostle allows the wires of the associated press to slumber but a day or two without being stirred by some wonderful and fearful announcement from him.

Evidently Hirsch has so few troubles with his own people that he must needs reach out to solve the riddles of Christianity. His biting sarcasm and bitter denunciation of his flock may have begun to pall even on him, the violent and enraged weekly critic of his gregation's faults and follies; so that now he is extending his sway of the punitive rod of eloquence by menacing even his neighbors.

אי לרשע, אי לשונן

"Woe unto the wicked, and woe unto his neighbor!"

The Western Apostle has, indeed, had things come his way recently. His annual trips to the East, West and South have been an unbroken series of triumphs and ovations. His brother-in-law has become the principal elect of that Seminary which has always been a bugbear in the spread of Hirsch's fantastic theology and of the Sunday Sabbath. The prospects of Hirsch becoming at some time in the near future the president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis are excellent indeed, now that the main seat of American Reform is virtually to be dominated by the family.

Herr Direktor General Krauskopf! Please to issue in your weekly accounts of the progress making towards the completion of the I. M. Wise half million dollar fund (in which you have our best wishes); the statement of the financial standing of the best paid members of the alumni, and show what sacrifices they are making for their Alma Mater, besides traveling around at the expense of the Fund and lecturing to others to do what they themselves are not doing, contributing their big mite to swelling the fund.

Reb Yusef Loeb Levy of Pittsburg, is still wondering whether he received that call from Temple Emanuel. He has begun to believe it, since his own congregation raised his salary. If nothing else concerned him, the fifteen hundred dollar "raise" certainly did, and now he knows that many people were bluffed by the glowing newspaper reports to which there was no foundation and which were officially denied.

ASPAKARYA.

Some more fearful outrages committed near Kiev! Does the Jew of this country think to escape the results of such brutality? The encouragement he lends to such acts by his silence is enough to make a repetition seem less dastardly. He must stand by his fellows who reside in more barbarous and less civilized countries, even at the risk of seeming too sensitive.

If American grain is welcomed in Russia in times of famine, why should an American protest against Russian cruelty and semi-official violence not be heard and heeded by the people and the autocrat of that notorious land?

ROTH AND BERKOWITZ.

The Reliable East Side Furniture, Carpet and Upholstery House.
The old reliable furniture house of Roth & Berkowitz, 409 Grand street, and 164 to 168 Clinton street, was founded in 1874 by Henry Roth, senior member of the firm. In 1886 Mr. Joseph Berkowitz was admitted to partnership and since that time the firm of Roth & Berkowitz has made steady inroads in the furniture trade of New York and has become one of the most important houses on the east side of the city. They began business on a small scale at Delancey street, corner of Ridge street, where they remained fifteen years, after which they moved to their present location, in response to the growing demands made upon them by their constantly increasing business, which warranted their entrance into the shopping district.

Roth & Berkowitz occupy a four-story building, a portrait of which is here presented. It is filled with the most desirable furniture, carpets and upholstery in the market. Everything for the complete furnishing of a home can be found here, made of the best materials and sold at reasonable prices, the cardinal principle of their business.

In fact, their specialty is supplying high-grade furniture, etc., and their success has been achieved largely by adhering to the policy of selling furniture of good quality, elegantly finished and of the latest and most durable designs. Their carpet and upholstery departments have been and are still conducted on the same basis, all of which has resulted in the deserving popularity of the firm and its reliability is recognized and is a source of pride to Messrs. Roth and Berkowitz, as well as to their numerous patrons.

To those who seek furniture, carpets or upholstery of a meritorious character at the most reasonable prices obtainable, will profit materially by placing their orders with this firm. An inspection of their stock is always solicited and the most courteous treatment is accorded intending customers and patrons of the house.

Vienna Hall Changes Proprietors.

To many of his friends and the public generally, it is a pleasure to announce that Mr. B. Turkel, for many years proprietor of a first-class restaurant in Prince street, near Broadway, has become the proprietor of Vienna Hall, 131 to 133 East Fifty-eighth street, one of the most famous wedding and banquet halls in this city and which has been the scene of many of the notable gatherings that have made Yorkville prominent as a social centre.

On May 1 Mr. Turkel assumed the management of Vienna Hall and will conduct it in first-class style in every particular, the cuisine to be on a strictly Kosher basis, under the personal direction of Rev. Dr. Drucker.

Vienna Hall is unexcelled as a place for weddings, receptions, banquets, etc., and has accommodations for a large concourse of people in its ball rooms, dining rooms and accessories. Mr. Turkel will restore it to its former glories, triumphs and popularity, by affording the best service at moderate prices. Everything will be first-class in every particular, a special feature being the catering in which Mr. Turkel is an adept, having been engaged in that line fifteen years. Estimates for private and public catering will be cheerfully furnished at any time for affairs at Vienna Hall or at the homes of people contemplating festivities requiring Kosher service.

Mr. Turkel also conducts his restaurant at 113 Mercer street, where he recently removed from Prince street.

Borough of Richmond

The event of the week was the second social of the Jewish Endeavor Society. It was held at Felton's Hall, Stapleton, S. L., last Sunday, and it was a decided success in every way. The programme was far above the average. Mrs. Goldman and Mr. Brochaska gave a musicale on the cello, and Miss Block rendered a humorous recitation. Miss Sophie Bondy, of Manhattan, gave a violin solo, which fully deserved the storm of applause which it elicited. Miss Bondy certainly deserves the thanks of the society and the large audience for the delightful rendition of the soulful music. Mr. Polack (flute) and Mr. Emil Poges (piano), favored the audience with classical music of high order. A dance followed the entertainment and refreshments were served by a committee of five young ladies, under the direction of Miss Gertrude Mord and Mr. Jacob Mord. The programme was arranged and the volunteer talent obtained, by the efforts of Messrs. D. P. Schwartz and Mr. J. Mord. Many guests from Manhattan were present, and all enjoyed the occasion.

Correspondence.

The Jewish Theological Seminary.

To the Editor of the Hebrew Standard: Sir—It appears that the gist of Mr. Schiff's address at the dedication of the seminary was intended to be contained in the following paragraph:

"Entirely different are we situated. The organizers of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America have had only the one single purpose in view—to establish an institution which should appeal to all desiring to prepare for the Jewish ministry, irrespective of the tendencies toward which they might be leaning."

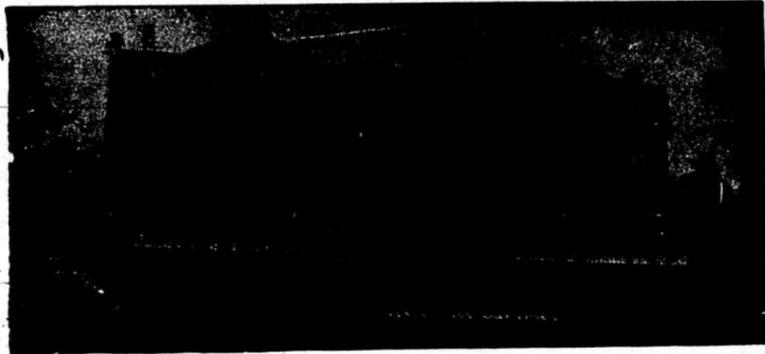

As if in anticipation of those remarks there has lately appeared in a London contemporary a letter from Mr. Henry Ilowizl, former minister of a Philadelphia congregation, in which the following sentences occur: "It is a little too late in the day to resort to the policy of the ostrich, while the honest, open eye stares with consternation at the grotesque shapes and forms the purest and simplest religious profession on earth has assumed in these latter days of ours. They are endowing theological schools in the United States, and within a short decade a variegated flock of rabbis will be turned loose; but where are the congregations to be enlightened, and inspired? The grand temple and the eloquent rabbi have been there during the last forty years and more, but the audience somehow failed to turn up." In vindication of the purpose of the old seminary it must be said that when Dr. Morais proposed its establishment under the auspices of one congregation he was immediately advised that the subject matter required agitation, and that it was only by the faithful coming boldly before the public in defense of all that should be sacred to them that any good could be attained. Arrangements were therefore made to enable him to place himself at the head of a movement to attempt the regeneration of Judaism in America for which the shock of the Pittsburg convention had paved the way. Only such "conservative" ministers were invited to join as were known to be fighting reform in their own congregations (Mr. Ilowizl was one of them), and their co-operation was considered an acquisition of strength to the cause. Dr. Kohut, for example, while enlisting the support of his congregation for the seminary, preached that it was not to be built of the hewn stone of reform. They (the "conservative" ministers) were therefore prepared to accept the preamble to the constitution, of which these were the opening words: "The necessity having been made manifest for associated and organized effort on the part of the Jews of America faithful to Mosaic law and ancestral traditions for the purpose of keeping alive the true Judaic spirit," etc. But after the seminary was established it was found easier to beg money from a few rich men than to make propaganda for Judaism, and long before the institution was sold room was made for a teacher of the rationalistic school, who is still holding the position under the new organization. To the present case are adaptable the words of Herbert Spencer: "A government agency originally formed to discharge a function is apt to reach a stage at which its self-sustentation becomes the primary thing, and the function to be performed by it the secondary thing."

Mr. Ilowizl wrote further: "It is really gratuitous talk, that of orthodoxy, conservatism, reform, and radicalism, with their variety of shows, sideshows and mutual admiration and redemption institutes, brilliant though they look 3,000 miles away from these islands. The 'American Judaism,' which the late I. M. Wise (a blessing on his memory) has bequeathed to his theological progeny, is just a trifle too worldly to hold out the promise of a return to the proper use of the Shophar, now utilized as an advertising trumpet for purposes of conquest and self-aggrandizement. . . . Utilitarian materialism is the vulture which eats deep into the liver of the Hebrew Prometheus, who does not care to remember that it was he who had illuminated the earth by fire drawn from heaven." In justification of those assertions it is only necessary to point to the extravagant panegyric by Dr. Krauskopf for the benefit of the Wise memorial fund of the college. And as it was published by the secular press, abounding in palpable untruths, it must have nauseated many readers. Then, with hardly sufficient time to enable us to recover our equanimity, the wires flashed the startling news that Dr. Hirsch had said, as the climax of a lecture, that "If Jesus Christ should return to the earth to-morrow he would be welcomed in every Jewish synagogue in the land, and every Jew would say, 'Lift up your heads, O ye gates, and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors, and the King of Glory shall come in.'" If any tyro in Jewish learning cannot off hand answer this latter declaration with a flat contradiction, then indeed must Judaism be in a deplorable state. Nevertheless, Dr. Schechter is reported to have said to an interviewer: "I do not care to be drawn into a controversy. Besides, this is too vital a subject to give an interview upon off hand. It is a fit subject for a book. I might say, though; that I do not know exactly what the views are in Chicago. As far as is known to me, the King of Glory is applied by the Jews to God, and, accordingly, no Jew would hail Jesus as the King of Glory."

Correspondence.

If the graduates of the New York Seminary will have to go into competition with those of the Cincinnati College for conspicuousness, not only will it make us a byword among the nations, but it will alienate from Judaism myriads, born in the faith, who will be unable to see anything in it to attach them to it. To remedy such evils, Mr. Hlowizl, whose letter was headed, "Is Zionism Misunderstood, Misapplied or Misinterpreted?" turns to Zionism, which he says is the lofty ideal to vitalize and unify the scattered race. "It is a trumpet call from Isaiah's grave that Israel rise and once more assert his noble manhood and his great mission to an age in moral and spiritual decadence." Then let us hope that Zionism will be true to its mission, and that it will not catch only at material means in its effort to secure a legal home, free from oppression, remembering that if it even succeed thereby, such success would be short lived, since Jews cannot exist without Judaism, and no religion is Judaism that is not subject to the Mosaic code.

Anticipating my thanks for your impartiality in finding place for this, I am Respectfully yours,

A FOUNDER OF THE OLD SEMINARY.

New York, May 3, 1903.

The Other Side.

Editor Hebrew Standard: Dear Sir—I am a member of the Seventy-second Street Congregation and naturally am interested in the welfare of our synagogue. I cannot understand why we who were in favor of retaining the old Board of Trustees should have received at your hands what appears to me such an unmerited "roasting!" Everything depends upon the point of view a matter is regarded, and it may be that my conscience is blunted and I am unable to view the affair of April 26 from a moral standpoint, but from a business standpoint I contend our actions were not only justifiable but clever in the extreme. I contend that "self-preservation is the first law of nature," and when we saw our existence as a Board of Trustees threatened and the interests of the congregation at stake by the election of an inexperienced Board, we had a right to resort to any and all means to save ourselves and the "shoot" from destruction. We did, take in a lot of new members eight or ten days before the election, members proposed by our Board. What exception can be taken to that? The opposition are a lot of soreheads who are angry simply because we have over-reached them. What we did was done strictly in accordance with the constitution of our congregation and we stand on our legal rights. Your correspondent in last week's issue mentioned the fact that Mr. Louis Sachs resigned from the Board of Trustees, characterizing their action as unmanly and un Jewish. That is true. But your correspondent, who would have the public think that the Sachs are the "whole shooting match," forgot to state that the Board very promptly accepted his resignation, nor was any committee appointed to wait on him to ask him to reconsider his determination. The malcontents may remain away. No one has asked them to return; nor does any one particularly care whether they return or not. I can positively vouch for the truth of this statement and I will recite a little incident that occurred during the meeting which proves it. When the exodus of the fossils commenced a Mr. Abraham Kalms approached Jake Simon, one of our trustees, and begged him to use his influence with the Board to stop the "colonizers," or "ringers," as you call them, from voting and Mr. Simon told the old gentleman that the proper thing for him to do was to depart with his friends, which the old gentleman did. Is not this proof positive that our Board knows its business? I am a friend of the present board, and so long as they remain within the law I am with them. Instead of condemnation they are entitled to commendation for their smartness.

Few outside the Board of Trustees are aware of the terrible condition of our finances. We have nothing against any of our officials, but retrenchment is the watchword, and to show our earnestness we have appointed the Chazan for two months only, simply to tide us over Shevonas, after which the Summer months will be on and we will have no occasion for Rabbi or Chazan.

Orthodox and Reform Judaism.

To the Editor of the Hebrew Standard: Sir—Considering the efforts that are being made to break down the barriers between orthodox and reform Judaism, or, as denominated by Dr. Kohler, "Oriental and Occidental Judaism," it must be gratifying to the orthodox to read anything that supports the character of their institutions, while they must esteem it a duty to warn others of the danger of departing from them. In fulfillment of this duty I send you the following item, from the New York Times:

BISHOP PRAISES JEWS.

The Rev. Dr. Satterlee Says They Are Preserving Home and Family Better Than Christians.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—"The Jews are preserving the home and family better than we Christians are doing. I do not know how to account for this, but I do know it to be a fact." Bishop Satterlee of the Episcopal Church made this declaration in a sermon here to-night, in which the main subject of his discourse was divorce. "Men," said Dr. Satterlee, "are losing respect for the home and caring less for the family—the unit of our civilization. On the shoulders of the husbands and fathers of the land rests the responsibility for the low estate to which the family has fallen in this country. This fosters and encourages the greatest curse of the age—divorce, and the loose manner in which the sacred marriage vows are being kept. "The great evil, the most frightful danger, of our age is divorce and the breaking down of the family institution. If it is not stopped, the women of this country will be degraded within fifty years."

It must not be lost sight of that Dr. Kohler, president-elect of the Cincinnati College, has declared "Occidental Judaism" to be a blend of "Hellenic and Hebrew, Aryan and Semitic culture." Nor must it be forgotten that these "Occidental" Jews are joining our enemies in denouncing orthodox Judaism as degrading woman by the separation of the sexes in public worship. A favorite plea, as lately enunciated by a gentleman of whom more fairness was expected, is that they are happy and elevated when they have the joy of having a mother and sisters to worship with them. As if the house of God is not expected to be open to all comers, in the hope of attracting them to His service. The following lines, clipped from a magazine, will illustrate the propriety of the orthodox form of worship in the old-fashioned seating arrangements, which were never meant to stigmatize women as the unequal of men:

"After the service The opening hymn? It quite forsook

My memory; you see, Our hands touched as we held the book, And that quite fuddled me.

"The text? Why, Dolly, I confess I really failed to hear;

'Twas then I watched that curl, I guess, That strayed about your ear.

"Scored dancing, did he? Ah, I know (knew)

He called us sinful, weak; You smiled, 'twas just bewitching, too, That dimple in your cheek.

"At prayers I failed to bow, you say? At benediction, too?

But, Dolly, say, how could I pray And also look at you?

"You think church does me little good? It does me much, although

I really do not think it would. If YOU should cease to go."

Respectfully yours, CONSISTENCY.

The Coming of the Messiah.

New York, April 28, 1903. Editor Hebrew Standard:

Before me lay upon my writing desk several Jewish prayer books, viz.: An English, a German, a French and a Russian. I want to see the proper translation of

ישלח לך ימין משיחתי

Now Dr. W. Schlesinger, singer and the Chief Rabbi of the Sephardim Jews of London, the Rev. Dr. Artom and Cunow and Friedlaender (Rabbis of Germany), translated these words: "He will send our Messiah at the end of days."

Heidenheim renders the above Jewish words thus: "Zur rechten Zeit," which means at the proper time. The French translator says: "Au terme fixe'll enverra le Messie pour delivrer ceux qui esperent en son secours."

A Wilna explainer has it as follows:

על ע"ש הספיק שאמר יתעמוד לנורח לקן הימין ר ל משווי ימין ועניו קן המיומן קן שהוא ישר ונכון

This is satisfactory to me. I must not forget that master mind, Rev. Rabbi Dr. Sachs, of Berlin, whose rendition of the words, referred to is of the same meaning as the Heidenheim and Wilna rabbis.

All these translators are or were stars of the first magnitude in Jewish learning, and how is it that the translation of the above Hebrew words is with some so nonsensical? "At the end of our days," which is at the end of all men, that ever will live, a Messiah is out of place. Even the civilized nations of our time need a Washington to teach them matters of humanity, much more so we Jews, whose people are kept down by godless men and butchered by beasts, as has just happened in Catholic Russia. Pardon if I intrude upon your valuable time. I like to read in the Hebrew Standard what our learned men, who are all readers of your weekly, have to say on the subject referred to.

Curtiss's American Standard Book-Keeping.
High School Edition. By C. C. Curtiss, A. M.—American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.
Forty years' experience as a teacher of bookkeeping and accounting is embodied in this thoroughly practical volume. It not only gives a broad and sound knowledge of the theory and art of bookkeeping, but will also encourage the formation of correct business habits. The different kinds of accounts are fully explained and exemplified, and actual specimens of records are supplied for study. The book is carefully graded and the sets afford ample material for practice. Six price lists are furnished throughout, to facilitate independent individual work. The numerous script specimens are models of accuracy and neatness in every particular.

Bevier's Brief Greek Syntax.
By Louis Bevier, Jr., Ph. D.—Price, 90 Cents.—American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.
This little book contains the essentials of Greek syntax formulated as simply and clearly as possible, and will give students a clear and precise grasp of the fundamental principles. All statements of principles are illustrated by quotations from Xenophon, from Homer and from prose writers in general. The book is intended mainly for use in preparatory schools, but can well be used for review in the freshman class in college. It will be welcomed by teachers of Greek who aim to economize the time of the student by directing his attention to essentials, leaving minute details for later and more advanced work.

Irving Place Theatre.
"The Geisha" has been on the boards here since Monday. Nothing wears out so quickly as the tunes composed for the average musical comedy, but Owen Jones' melodies, while lacking in originality, are nevertheless so cleverly "nach empfunden" that a little more life may still be predicted for them. The performance by the Ferency troupe is chiefly worth while for Fr. Mia Werber's "O Mimosa San," which is quite as piquant, as droll and as distinctly individual as her other efforts. In spite of frequent lapses from the pitch hers is quite "the smallest and most tuneful Geisha" ever heard here. As the proprietor of the tea house, Herr Sondermann is very funny, and Herr Ander's Japanese Marquis is amusing in an appropriately grandiloquent manner. The rest of the cast hardly strenghtens the ensemble. "The Geisha" may be enjoyed this and to-morrow evening. With three performances of "Dass Suesse Maedel" next week the season at the Irving place comes to a close.

Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre.
Owing to the success of his first venture in the production of new plays by a stock company, Mr. F. F. Proctor, whose seven theatres cut quite a swath in the theatrical world, will next week make a complete production of Frank Wyatt's roaring English farcical comedy, "Who Is Brown?" The play has been tried out at Albany by a specially selected cast from Mr. Proctor's Fifth Avenue Stock, and proved to be a wonderful "laugh getter." It has been kept for two years past in the provinces of England, and is counted as one of the high-class comedies of the old country. Its first New York City production will occur at Proctor's Fifth Avenue next week, where everything will be done in the way of scenic embellishments and effects to make it a success.

An Electric Theatre at the Eden Musee.
After many months of examination of the various amusement novelties, the management of the Eden Musee has finally secured Powell's Electric Theatre for an extended run at the Musee. The Electric Theatre is exhibited at three in the afternoon and nine in the evening of each day. The performance lasts only for a short time, but from the beginning to end it is of an interesting and startling character. The stage is elaborately decorated with concealed electric lights and electric screens. The first part of the performance consists of a number of marionettes or wooden dolls, who do a lot of interesting things. Then one doll does an elaborate series of dances, ending up with the famous Fire Dance. The colored lights used during these dances are very effective. The second part of the performance consists of a series of electric fountains, in which water is used with electrical effect. After the various effects have been produced the production ends in a tableaux in which scores of dolls appear. Apparently no one except the wooden dolls take any part in the exhibition, and it is as dainty as it is effective.

Jews Flee From Kiev.
KIEFF, May 4.—Thousands of poor Jews have fled from this city, in consequence of reports that an anti-Semitic crusade is imminent. The richer Jews have left their homes and have sought refuge in the hotels.
In order to allay the excitement, troops are patrolling the streets and the walls are placarded with notifications that assemblages are prohibited and that the military will use their weapons unparingly in case of necessity.

The annual meeting of the Israelite Alliance of America will be held on Sunday, May 17, at which officers for the ensuing year will be chosen. The various committees show considerable activity, particularly the Committee on Non-Persecuted Races, which has for some time been occupied with the Finnish persecutions and the Czar's recent edict. This committee will meet on Monday, April 27, at the Educational Alliance, at which meeting several communications received from abroad will be discussed and acted upon. It is announced that Dr. Henry M. Leipsiger and Dr. David Blaustein have been invited to address the annual meeting in May.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.
