Home Again.

Home again, home again,
From a foreign shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more.
Here I dropped the parting tear
To cross the ocean's foam,
But now I'm once again with those Who kindly greet me home.

Home again, home again,
From a foreign shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more.
Happy hearts, happy hearts,
With mine have laughed in glee,
But, oh, the friends I loved in youth
Seem happier to me!

And if my guide should be the fate
Which bids me longer roam,
But death alone can break the tie
That binds my heart to home.
Home again, home again,
From a foreign shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more.

Music sweet, music soft,
Lingers round the place,
And, oh, I feel the childhood charm
That time cannot efface.
Then give me but my homestead roof,
I'll ask no palace dome,
For I can live a happy life
With those I love at home.

Home again, home again,
From a foreign shore,
And, oh, it fills my soul with joy
To meet my friends once more.
—Marshall S. Pike.

Anatole L. Beaulieu.

A Meed of Appreciation.

M. Anatole Leroy Beaulieu, the famous French lecturer and author of "Israel Among the Nations," has reached Paris after a remarkably successful tour in this country, during which he delivered lectures of a most learned and interesting character, in the larger cities and in the principal universities.

His various writings upon topics touching the Jewish people and his eminent fairness in the treatment of the Anti-Semitic questions, has brought his name prominently before the Jewish people in all parts of the world. His efforts to dispel the idea of Anti-Semitism have been fully appreciated by the Jewish race.

While here the Jewish citizens everywhere came forward to do him honor, and he was welcomed most fervently, the Jewish press of the country united in sounding his praises and in leading editorials referred to his writings upon the Jewish Question.

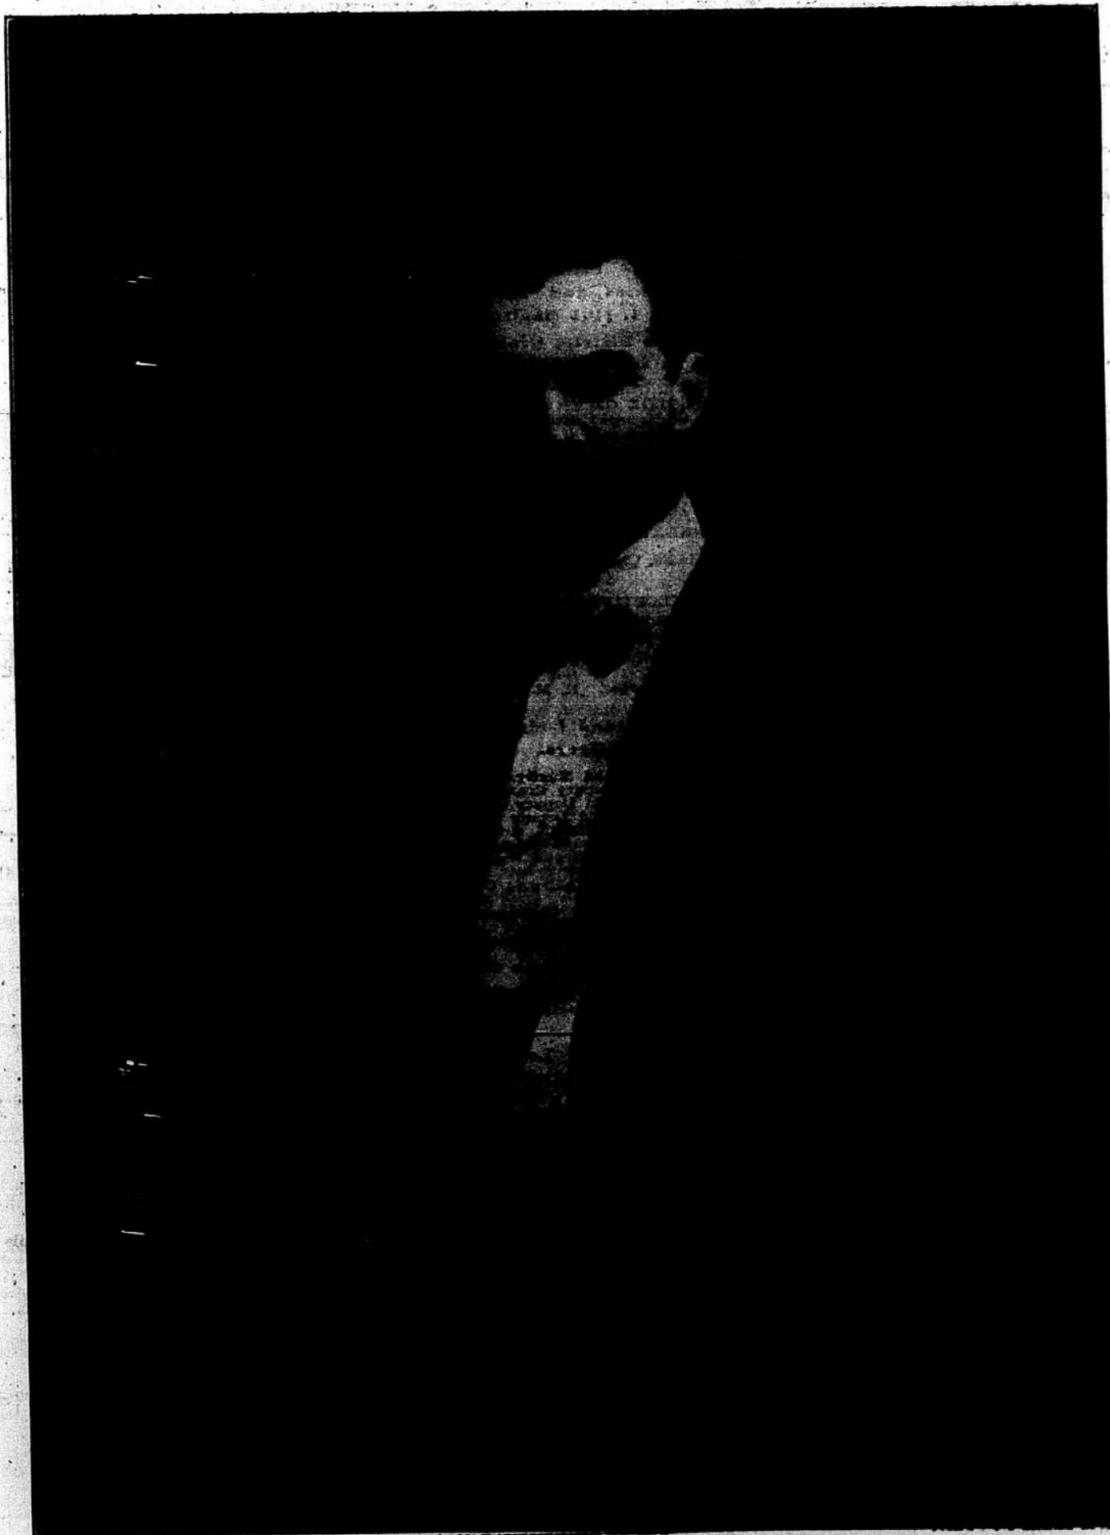

In the city of New York a great reception and banquet was tendered him on May 15th at Delmonico's, which was attended by the representative Israelites of New York. The distinguished guest was received with great enthusiasm, and words most eloquent in appreciation of his services were spoken by the late Judge Isaacs, Judges Leventritt and Greenbaum of the Supreme Court, Hon. Oscar Straus, ex United States Minister to Turkey, Louis Ehrich, Esq., and Rabbis Harris and Schulman and a number of other prominent citizens. During the banquet a tangible token of the esteem in which M. Anatole Beaulieu is held by the Jewish residents here was presented to him in the shape of a handsome loving cup.

It may well be added, that it was mainly due to the efforts of Mr. James H. Hyde, of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, that the American people were given the opportunity to hear this distinguished lecturer, who has become famous as a staunch defender of personal liberty, as M. Beaulieu came to this country primarily to deliver the "Hyde" lectures at Harvard, a fund for which was provided by Mr. Hyde about five years ago. Altogether, M. Beaulieu's visit here was an eminently successful one.

The Jewish public highly appreciates the fact, that primarily to the munificent efforts of Mr. Hyde in establishing the Harvard "Hyde" Lectures, are they indebted for the opportunity afforded them of expressing their admiration of M. Anatole Beaulieu's labors in placing the Jewish people in a proper light before the world.

The Seventh Sabbath Light.

After the Yiddish of J. S. Perez.

BY JACQUES L. MAYER.

The smooth brow of the thirteen-year old child is wrinkled, the young face is pale as death, and from the big innocent eyes tears pour in streams. Only Friday a week ago, and she had been so happy, so full of fun. It was "short Friday," and Grandmama had awoken her rather earlier than usual. She had been busily preparing all day long for the holy Sabbath; towards evening, singing and hopping about, she braided her long hair, put on her best "Shabbas clothes" and went to synagogue with Grandmama. Grandmama lighted her candles, and she lighted her own.

The first light was a blessing for Papa.—that his health should be good, that he should have many clients, win all the suits and make money, so that he should no longer complain of the hard times—the second light—mama should be well and happy—the third, grandmama should be well, then for the sisters and brothers, for each one a light—until it was time to go to the synagogue and pray.

How she loved the synagogue, and the blessing of the lights!

It is two years since she came to live with grandmama, and still she had no great longing to go back home. There they know nothing about the blessing of the lights. She does not even care to see mama or to sit on papa's lap and play with his thick, black beard, or to romp in the garden with her younger sisters. Grandmama must not be left alone. Grandmama is so kind—she taught her how to bless the lights. Oh, how she loves grandmama and—blessing the lights. The whole week she thinks of nothing else—she counts the days—but to day seems to be an unlucky Friday.

The morning passed as usual—she prepared for the Sabbath, and grandmama beamed upon her as usual. They were both dressed for synagogue. Grandmama had already taken her cane when, as luck would have it, the letter-carrier came into the room. Grandmama opened the letter, and when she had read it, threw herself upon the bed—and there she has been lying for two hours with her face turned to the wall.

Her face is almost black, her eyes are closed, she is foaming at the mouth, and in one hand she clutches the letter.

No one may come to her—any one approaching the bed is pushed back—if an attempt is made to open the door she cries out: "No! I won't see anyone!"

God knows what news the letter from home contains. Perhaps—per-

In the Jewish World.
 A Union of Jewish Women in Germany is to be formed, and a preliminary meeting for this object has been convened for next Monday in Berlin.
 M. Masse has been appointed Judge at the Civil Tribunal of the Seine. He is son of M. David Masse, vice-president of the Central Consistory of Jews in France.
 The jury of the National Fine Arts Society has elected as Societaire (the highest-honor it can bestow) the painter, M. Caro-Delvaile, whose canvas, exhibited at its Salon, has been purchased by the State.
 The Independent Southern Congregation Talmud Torah of Philadelphia, a free school for Jewish children, has taken title to the dwellings at 625 and 627 Dickinson street. The first mentioned property was purchased from Max Bredt, for a nominal consideration, and a mortgage of $2,800.
 Sunday has recently been made a compulsory day of rest for Odessa tradespeople, and no shops are allowed to be open on that day. There are over 30,000 Jewish clerks and shop assistants in Odessa, and the rabbis petitioned the municipality to allow Jewish tradespeople who close on Saturdays to open their shops on Sundays. This request was refused by 34 to 7 votes.
 E. C. Hamburger, who died suddenly of heart disease last week, for twenty years had been a Justice of the Peace in Chicago. His office was on Clark street, just north of the river, and he lived at 223 La Salle avenue. Mr. Hamburger was born in Germany sixty-three years ago. He was a lieutenant on the United States ship Constellation during the civil war and was a member of Thomas Post, G. A. R., Farragut Naval Association, the Free Sons of Israel and the Marquette Club. He also was a Mason. Justice Hamburger is survived by three children and a widow. The funeral took place from the North Chicago Hebrew Synagogue and the interment was at Waldheim.

 The Academie Francaise has awarded from the Monthyon Foundation 10,000 francs to M. Ferdinand Dreyfus, ex-deputy, for his work, "La Rochefoucauld-Liancourt," from the Fabian Foundation, 1,000 francs to M. Charles Mannheim, for his work, "La Condition des Ouvriers dans les manufactures de l'Etat," and from the Charles Blanc Foundation, 500 francs to M. Gustave Cahen, a Paris lawyer, for his work, "Eugene Boudin."
 A movement is on foot to transfer the active management of the Mt. Sinai Hospital of Cleveland, O., to a new corporation or society about to be formed for that purpose. At the present time the hospital, which is one of the newer Jewish institutions of the city, is under the auspices of the Young Woman's Hospital Society, and according to plans now on foot the management may be transferred to a new corporation. A meeting of those interested was held recently, and the movement is well under way. The institution is located at No. 173 Forest street.
 On the 26th ult., Heer A. Duparc completed forty years' membership of the Town Council of Leeuwarden. At a meeting of the Council held last week the Burgomaster, after addressing Heer Duparc in cordial terms, handed him, on behalf of his colleagues, in recognition of his exceptional services, a large silver medal. On one side is an engraving of the Town Hall, and on the other the following inscription: "The Council of the town of Leeuwarden, as a token of gratitude to Arie Duparc, Member of the Town Council, 1864-26th May-1904." Heer Duparc has been connected with the principal daily newspaper, the Leeuwarder Courant, for fifty-three years, during the greater part of which he has been its editor.

 Officers of the Hebrew Educational Society, of Trenton, N. J., to serve for the ensuing six months were elected Sunday as follows: President, Paul Vikan; vice-president, Frank Miller; financial secretary, David Cohen; treasurer, Robert Prussac; chairman of lectures, Joseph Spector; trustees, A. Zerman and Victor Weeks.
 During the past week the directors of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Boston, Mass., gave a farewell dinner to Rabbi Samuel Hirshberg. During the past year Rabbi Hirshberg was a member of the board. The Temple Advancement Society, an auxiliary of the Temple Oshel Shalom, gave a surprise to its organizer and first president, Mrs. S. Hirshberg. Mrs. Hirshberg received a handsome diamond brooch. Rabbi Hirshberg and family leave the city, June 30.
 At a meeting of the Zionist Council of Pittsburg at headquarters, No. 1851 Centre avenue, Miss Libbie Schulman, a member of the Daughters of Zion, read a letter from Mitchel Steiffelman, who is chairman of the press and publicity committee of the St. Louis Exposition, notifying them that their offer of a Jewish flag to float from the "All Nations" Building had been accepted. Some of the Daughters of Zion were appointed as a committee to make a flag six by nine feet, and it will be forwarded in a few days. The Jewish flag is of five stripes, alternate white and blue, with a six-pointed blue star in the centre.

 Helping Hand Temporary Home for Destitute Jewish Children in Roxbury, Mass., calls upon its friends to rally to the seventh annual picnic, entertainment and dance at Oak Island Grove, Revere, on Tuesday of next week, from 10.30 in the morning until 10.30 at night.
 In the home on Fort avenue 67 children are being cared for. Applications are coming in continually, but there is no more room, and an enlargement is being seriously considered. The institution is doing a noble work, and its friends hope to make next Tuesday's outing at Oak Island a great financial and social success.
 The benefit arranged by Mme. Lobel, who has been away on a theatrical tour in the West, for the sufferers of the Slocum tragedy was given before 1,500 spectators, and realized $500. The management, J. Edelstene and M. Thomashlosky, gave the house for this occasion, while the orchestra furnished the music free. The funds are to be sent to Jacob H. Schiff for distribution. "The Lost Paradise," by Leon Kobrin, was the play. It has been given by this company before, and is a tragic drama of the present day; the scene is laid on the east side.
 PARIS, Monday.—Baron Alphonse de Rothschild, Baron Edmond de Rothschild and Baron Gustave de Rothschild, the three chief members of the de Rothschild family, called upon M. Trouillot, the Minister of Commerce, to inform him of their intention to give $2,000,000 for the purpose of providing cheap and healthy dwellings for the Parisian working classes.

 The details of the scheme have not yet been given out, but it is announced that the profits arising from the rents of the proposed dwellings will be devoted to amelioration of the condition of workmen.
 Affiliated in a great degree with the Council of Jewish Women is the Industrial Home for Girls at Sixtieth and Lombard streets, Philadelphia, Pa., opened about three weeks ago. The home has made provision for the instruction and housing of twenty-five young girls, and on last Thursday the first beneficiaries were admitted. Great care is taken before a girl is made a member of the household, as the object of the home is to provide for a class of girls who by reason of their environment are most in need of preventive influence. All those who have applied so far have been girls who live in the districts commonly known as "slums." Mrs. J. Lorenz, the matron in charge, will instruct the girls in cooking, laundry work and sewing, while Miss Miriam Chesney, a graduate of Bryn Mawr College, will have charge of the school room, where the rudimentary English branches are to be taught.

BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN.

Congregation Ateris Zwi.
347-349 East 121st street.

The exercises of the religious school were held on Sunday, June 26. An elaborate programme brought a large audience and the children acquitted themselves creditably. Prizes were awarded to the children.

Great credit is due Mrs. J. D. Polok for her untiring work in the religious school during the past year.

The congregation presented her with a handsome umbrella.

At the close of the exercises the children enjoyed ice cream, candy and cake, which were furnished by the wife of our president, Mrs. Gottlich.

Congregation Beth Miriam,
of Long Branch, N. J.

The congregation announces that during July the pulpit will be occupied by Dr. Silverman, of New York, Rev. Isidor Rosenthal, of Lancaster, Rabbi Alexander Lyon, of Brooklyn, and Rev. Dr. E. N. Callisch, of Richmond, Va. The sale of seats is progressing very rapidly, and it is feared that the little Temple will be unable to accommodate all who may seek to worship there during the season.

New Down Town Synagogue.

The Rodeph Chayim Congregation has purchased the properties at 1711 and 1713 South Fifth street, for synagogue purposes. The lots have a combined frontage of 36 feet, and a depth of 65 feet. It is the intention of the congregation to remodel the buildings on the site, and transform them into a synagogue.

Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy L. Howard and little son are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Goodheart, of Bay 11th street. Mr. Howard is the worthy patron of Adelpi Chapter No. 79, O. E. S., and is the author of the play to be produced at Ulmer Park, Aug. 17, in aid of the Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary.

All those desiring of advertising in the souvenir journal on the named occasion will kindly send their ads. to Mrs. S. Lyons, 32 Bay 20th, and Mrs. D. Weigel, of Bay 16th street, Bath Beach.

The Slocum Disaster.

The Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of the United States and Canada contributed $25 to the relief fund. The president, Rev. H. Pereira Mendes, D. D., directed this contribution to be forwarded, although the Union is not organized for the purpose of relief. Mr. Albert Lucas, the secretary of the Union, in forwarding the amount said: "We cannot allow this almost national disaster to pass without expressing our intense sympathy with the sufferers through this calamity."

Public School No. 10.

117th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. The graduation exercises of the boys' department took place on Tuesday, June 28. Rev. S. Greenfield delivered an address on "Modern Education."

Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary Planning Entertainment.

The Executive Board meeting of the Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary of Bath Beach took place at Supper's June 20. The ladies are busy collecting ads for their souvenir journal for the musical farce and dance at Ulmer Park, August 17, which promises to be a grand success. Eugene Salza's well-known orchestra has been engaged for the occasion.

The second rehearsal will be held at the house of one of the members of the cast in New York city.

It was decided by a unanimous vote to send a donation of $25 to the sufferers of the recent Slocum disaster.

The society has also entered its name as one of the subscribers to the new wing of the Brooklyn Jewish Hospital.

New Era Club.

In addition to the regular Friday Evening Talk by Mr. Michaelson, the following programme has been arranged in honor of Independence Day: 1. "Star-Spangled Banner." 2. Opening Remarks. L. B. Michaelson 3. Reading of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Louis Miller 4. Address, "How We Can Benefit Our Country." Rev. W. T. Elsing 5. "Yigdal." Rev. H. Mayer and Choir 6. "America."

STERN-VOGEL.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vogel, 205 East 115th street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances, to Mr. Herman Stern, of Mount Vernon. Reception notice later.

WEIN-ROSENTHAL.—Mrs. M. C. Wein, 314 East 86th street, begs to announce the engagement of her sister, Rebecca Rosenthal, to Mr. Adolph Wein.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Goodman, of 138 East 94th street, are at the Hotel Shanley, Arverne, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Prager and son left last Thursday on the steamer Bluecher, to spend their Summer vacation in Europe.

The best wishes of their many friends, in which the Hebrew Standard joins, accompany them on their voyage.

Mr. Prager is one of the leading real estate operators in this city, an active member of the Congregation Zichron Ephraim and a gentleman whose genial qualities attract a host of friends.

A Silent Pilot.

Nothing helps so much in the enjoyment of your vacation than a good map. It shows you the streams and lakes you can fish, the mountains you can climb, the places of interest you can visit and the roads you can wheel or tramp. The Lackawanna Railroad has just issued a set of colored maps on a large scale, showing the territory reached by its lines in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. These maps give every highway, postoffice, trolley line and railroad and are so bound that they can be conveniently carried in the pocket. They are invaluable to automobile tourists and travelers and should be owned by every one who wishes to be informed on the geography of these three States. The entire set in a neat cover may be had by sending 10 cents in stamps to T. W. Lee, General Passenger Agent Lackawanna Railroad, New York city. The edition is limited. Write to-day.

There is a good deal of truth in what Prof. Isadore Singer says: "That Jewish synagogues all over the world have ceased to be houses of prayer, but have been transformed into sacred lecture halls where the old prayer-book and its fervent recital by the pious worshiper has been discarded as an offense against decorum. In its stead anthems are sung manufactured by German agnostics, rabbis with a thin layer of Emersonian culture, that are hisped in the silence of a graveyard."

Golden Wedding of the Vice-President of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue.

The Congregation Shaarith Israel worshipping at the corner of Seventieth street and Central Park West, presented Mr. David de Meza with a magnificent solid silver vase on Monday evening. The vase bore the following inscription:

1854-1904.
A Token of Esteem to David de Meza
from the Congregation Shearith Israel, in the City of New York upon Retiring as Vice-President and Trustee, Wherein He Served with Zeal for Near a Quarter of a Century. Presented on His Golden Wedding Day, June 27, 1904.

The esteem in which this modest communal worker and his wife are held by all who enjoy the pleasure of their acquaintance, was amply in evidence on Monday evening upon the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding, when their home was filled by their numerous family and friends.

The marriage of David de Meza and Leah Gardero was solemnized in Boston by Rev. M. Wolf, on June 27, 1854, and although no children have ever blessed their own union, the family of their brother, Moses de Meza, has surrounded this dearly loved old couple with a large number of nieces and nephews even unto the third and fourth generation.

A year ago the Hebra Chessed Ye Emith celebrated its two hundredth anniversary and at the same time presented Mr. de Meza with a splendid testimonial in recognition of his services to the society during the twenty-five years of his presidency. He still retains this office, but advancing years caused him to decline re-election to the vice-presidency of the synagogue.

The words of Rev. H. Pereira Mendes, D. D., the minister of the synagogue, echo the prayers of the whole congregation and of all who know these venerable old lovers—for they are lovers yet. He said to them, "May the evening of your life be all sunshine and peace," and we cordially join in the prayer. A. L.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Moses and family are at their country home at Elberon, N. J., for the Summer.

Vander Beugle-Fox.

Miss Helen Fox, daughter of Mr. S. Girard Fox, was married on Wednesday, June 29, to Mr. Jacob J. Vander Beugle, youngest son of the late Mr. Emanuel H. Vander Beugle. The ceremony took place at Tuxedo Hall, Fifty-ninth street and Madison avenue, and was performed by the Rev. Dr. I. C. Noot. The hall was well filled with a fashionable gathering, including many guests who came to New York from all parts of the United States.

The bride was given away by her father. She was gowned in a rich costume of white chiffon and old lace, made with a court train of white satin. Her veil of point lace was held in place with natural orange blossoms and a diamond wishbone pin, the gift of the groom.

Miss Viola H. Pike, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor. Her gown was of white net over brocade trimmed with lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Vander Beugle's best man was Mr. Harry E. Vander Beugle, his elder brother.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests sat down to a very sumptuous meal, and several very able toasts were made quite complimentary to the bride and groom.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. S. Proops and family, Mr. and Mrs. I. Myer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bandler, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuffler, Mr. and Mrs. William Bandler, Mr. and Mrs. E. Selonick, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Marks, Mr. and Mrs. John Vander Beugle, Mrs. Z. Pike, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Grey, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. William Dreyfus, Mr. and Mrs. M. Dannenburg and Mr. and Mrs. T. Goldberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob J. Vander Beugle will spend their honeymoon at Atlantic City.

OBITUARY.

Henrietta Doctor.

Mrs. Harry Doctor, of 233 St. Ann's avenue, Bronx, died after a protracted illness at the tender age of 20. Funeral services were held at the house and Machpelat Cemetery, Thursday, June 23, Rabbi Samuel Greenfield conducting the services.

Rose Weberman, a pupil of the Columbia Street Religious School, died Wednesday morning at the Beth Israel Hospital, after a very short illness. Her bier was followed by 500 of her girl classmates. Mr. L. B. Michaelson, superintendent of the school, impressed by her piety, sweetness and tenderness instituted a Hebrew prize bearing her name.

Funeral.

Amalia, wife of Barrett Cohen, of No. 149 Lenox avenue and 117th street, city, died, after a lingering illness, at the age of 56 years, survived by a husband and six children, two grandchildren, an aged mother, five brothers and five sisters, who deeply mourn her loss. The funeral, which was very largely attended, took place on Sunday morning, June 26, from her late residence. The interment took place in Washington Cemetery. The ceremonies at home and at the grave were very effectively conducted by the Rev. Bernhard Hast.

EVERYWHERE.

If a deal which is now on is consummated, the Hebrews of Lynn, Mass., will have a cemetery almost in the heart of Pine Grove Cemetery in that city.

Mr. Henry Lasker, of Springfield, Mass., who has just finished his law course at the New York University Law School, will be the first Hebrew to practice law in Springfield, Mass.

The local Jewish Society of Albany, N. Y., have assumed the care of the four young children of Mrs. Galloupe, whose mother is blind and whose husband is dying with consumption.

The Congregation Beth Israel of Meridian, Lauderdale county, La., has been incorporated for the purpose of "the teaching of the doctrine of Judaism and the public worship of God."

Diplomas were awarded to twenty-nine boys and girls who were graduated from the Jewish Training School of Chicago, last week. It was the fourteenth annual graduation exercises of this institution.

Fire broke out at 11 o'clock last week in the Jewish synagogue on River, near Liberty streets, Troy, and considerable damage was done before the fire was extinguished. The principle damage, however, was caused by water, many valuable volumes being destroyed.

A memorial meeting in honor of the late W. Wisotzky, of Moscow, the Russian Jewish philanthropist, who bequeathed 1,000,000 rubles for Jewish charities, was held last night at the Auditorium of the Educational Alliance, East Broadway and Jefferson street.

The dedication of the Jewish Seaside Home for Invalids at Atlantic City, which is an adjunct of the Jewish Maternity Hospital of Philadelphia, although operated by a separate board of directors, will take place on Sunday morning, July 10. Arrangements are being made to give a charity ball on Saturday evening, July 23, for the benefit of the home.

Correspondence.

A Suggestion.

To the Hebrew Standard:

Much interest has been aroused of late concerning Jewish statistics. Here is a suggestion relative to same.

Having participated at a "B'rith Milah," in Brooklyn, where Dr. Pulvermacher officiated as "Mohel," I inquired of the doctor to give me an estimate as to the number of the children he had operated during his long, almost 30 years, "Mohel" practice.

Over 17,000, was his reply. Though this figure may seem fantastic, the fact is nevertheless proven by a perfectly kept register, where every circumcised child is recorded as follows: Number, date, name, residence, city, hour, remarks.

Through such a register Dr. Pulvermacher has been enabled to help hundreds of children by furnishing them when in search of work with age certificates, required by the Board of Health.

If all practitioners of the Abrahamic covenant were to keep a similar record of each operation performed, such registers could become a mine of information to our Jewish statisticians. "Sapientiat."

NISSIM BEHAR.

Catholic Israel vs. Protestant Israel.

Editor Hebrew Standard:

Some of your correspondents appear to be perplexed at the course adopted by the New York Theological Seminary in conferring the D. D. title upon Dr. Schulman, who is a Reform Rabbi. I think it is about time that their eyes were opened to see that the seminary is anything but orthodox. Dr. Schulman's Reform doctrines are certainly less dangerous to Judaism than the high criticism surrounded by the leading teachers of the seminary.

We need hardly search for their views far back. In the Jewish Encyclopaedia, vol. VII., just issued, an article entitled Law, Codification of, signed by Prof. Ginzberg, and approved by Prof. Schechter, says, in substance, that the Torah was written a long time after the Jews have settled in Palestine and become a nation; that Deuteronomy was written after the reign of King Manasseh; that part of Leviticus originated in the period of Ezekiel. In short, that the compilation of the Torah was not finished before the end of the Babylonian exile, or 400 B. C. Furthermore that the books of the Torah contradict each other.

Now, Mr. Editor, you have done meritorious work in condemning Reform in general, but permit me to say that the belief in High Criticism is a thousand times worse than any Reform. It is an undation of Judaism. If this be "Catholic Israel," advocated by Prof. Schechter, then let us organize a "Protestant Israel," to protest and fight it with all our might and power.

The organized orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada have justly condemned the seminary and branded it as a danger to true Judaism. They will have more to say about it at their third annual convention, which will take place in New York next week, July 3 to 8.

Respectfully,

J. D. EISENSTEIN,

New York, June 26, 1904.

That D. D. Diploma.

Editor Hebrew Standard:

The mystery surrounding the conferring of the degree of Doctor of Divinity by the Jewish Theological Seminary upon Rabbi S. Shulman of Temple Beth-El, entirely disappears by examining the various links in the chain.

1. The Rabbi of Temple Beth-El, although posing as Doctor Shulman, was not entitled to that distinction as he was never in possession of a diploma nor ever obtained a degree.

2. This condition of affairs was a source of irritation and annoyance to the prominent members of the congregation who were cognizant of the fact because it placed their Rabbi in an anomalous position.

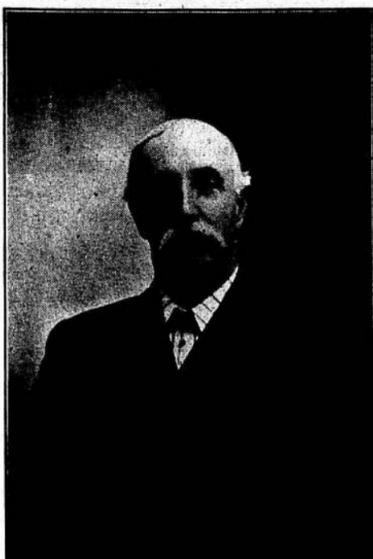

3. Dr. Kohler was urged (so I am credibly informed) as president of the Hebrew Union College to take steps to remedy this defect. He declined to do so, not because he did not consider Rabbi Shulman well versed in Hebrew, but he did not possess the other necessary educational requirements demanded by the Hebrew Union College.

4. Through the munificence of Jacob H. Schiff the Jewish Theological Seminary was rescued from a moribund existence, and by being placed upon a sound financial basis was made into a living entity.

In the Catskills.

The Story of a Successful Mountaineer—Rise of Edward Adams to Prominence.

It is seldom, indeed, that a city paper is called upon to pay tribute to a man living and doing business in the "backwoods," as it were, but in recognizing the sterling qualities of the subject of this sketch, Mr. Edward Adams, of Haines' Falls, N. Y., the Hebrew Standard fulfills a mission at once pleasant and justifiable. Mr. Adams is the pioneer butcher and meat dealer of the Catskill Mountains, and is in control of the meat business in the territory covered by him, from the very summit of one of the highest peaks of the Catskill Mountains, overlooking the Hudson Valley for thousands of miles, and where the Catskill Mountain House and the Kaaterskill Hotel are located, through the valleys, glens and dales of this romantic region, from Haines' Falls, Sunset and Twilight Parks, and through the village of Tannersville, extending on all sides to Hunter, and then in another direction as far as Onteoro Park. In this vast, weird region Mr. Adams is the virtual monarch of all he credit for these noteworthy facts, and although actuated by commercial, and not philanthropic motives, his business delivery wagons, working day and night during the summer season. For many years he slaughtered all beef, lamb, mutton and veal on the premises, but in recent years he has supplied city dressed beef to his customers, but continues to slaughter native small stock at home for good and sufficient reasons, chief among which is to supply these in their purity and healthfulness, which he could not obtain in small live stock that suffered from transportation, and could not be preserved after dressed. These conditions do not apply to beef.

But in the selection of his beef supply he has been extremely cautious, and after due consideration and tests, extending over a period of years, Mr. Adams secures his beef supply and adheres to the quality furnished from the New York abattoirs of Schwartzschild & Sulzberger, whose city dressed beef is superior to all others, the cut and trim being worth more than the extra price charged him, which he does not add to his customers' bills. But the superiority of this beef is generally recognized, and through it Mr. Adams retains his large patronage, who get the benefit of its advantages, and this applies particularly to the Kosher meat department, estabtaining to his business, Mr. Adams discharges his obligations to his patrons with a consideration rarely equaled by business men, the cardinal trait of his character being honesty of purpose, backed by commendable enterprise, which he shows by his obliging, accommodating spirit.

For the convenience of his patrons in and about Tannersville, Mr. Adams has this year opened a branch in the centre of the village, opposite the postoffice, convenient to his customers requiring Kosher meats.

We present in this edition of the Hebrew Standard a portrait of Mr. Adams, and also a photographic reproduction of his large estate, with a view of his delivery wagons, etc. On the site stands one of the first buildings erected in the Catskill mountains. It was built in 1787, and was occupied for a number of years as Mr. Adams' homestead. It is one of the historical sights of this region, and is so indicated by a sign fronting the highway.

Mr. Adams is an indefatigable worker. He supervises his great business personally, and is affable in his manner. He is highly esteemed as a citizen, and would be a credit, if not an ornament, surveys, so far as supplying the inhabitants thereof with meats is concerned, and there is good reason for his supremacy. In the many years of his business experience he has withstood the competition of interlopers and would-be competitors, but his honorable methods, his obliging manner, his prompt delivery service, and, above all, his determination to serve his customers with only the best meats obtainable, have made for him an enviable reputation, which not only redounds to his own credit as a business man, but has done much to create the popularity of the Catskill Mountains as a home for summer visitors, and its continuous increasing prestige is largely attributed to his conscientious endeavors, to make summer boarders, served through his customers, feel that they can obtain good animal food even far away from home.

Mr. Adams personally disclaims any methods savor of the unusual, and he is deserving the faint recognition of unstinted praise due him and his methods of honorable business.

Edward Adams was born in Durham, Greene County, N. Y., February 1, 1838, and as soon as able went to work on a farm as a farm hand, and with only $15 in his possession, of which he gave $10 to the minister who performed the wedding ceremony, he was married to Miss Delia A. Creary, May 26, 1859. He continued his occupation of farming until 1871, when he started his meat business, with only one customer, the Catskill Mountain House, which he has continuously served ever since. Gradually other customers were obtained, and from year to year his business grew and increased, until now, when he supplies uncontested the immense territory mentioned above, which requires a large force of employees and fourteen lished in 1899, which he conducts with strict, conscientious fidelity and faithfulness. Mr. Adams takes great pride in the Kosher meat business, and although he is not of the Jewish faith himself, he nevertheless conforms to every requirement of the Mosaic laws in reference to the slaughtering of animals and serving the meats. Even the knives and tools used in the Kosher department are never permitted to be used upon any other than Kosher meats at any season of the year. His Jewish customers appreciate his unswerving fidelity, and have unbounded confidence in Mr. Adams, which he fully deserves.

In the killing of lambs, sheep and calves, he employs a recognized shoehert, so that everything served as Kosher is strictly and absolutely Kosher.

The Kosher beef supply is likewise vouchsafed by the properly accredited authorities. Thus in everything per-to any community. He is a charter member of Kadimah Lodge, F. & A. M., of Cairo, N. Y. Mr. Adams has three married daughters, namely, Mrs. Ida May Hand, Mrs. Jessie Camp and Mrs. Jennie White. He has five grandchildren, and in his domestic relations is happy and contented.

Why Don't He Shoot?

Editor Hebrew Standard:

My attention has been directed to the Sentinel performing his weekly rounds in your columns. I have seen him "On Guard," "Halting the Enemy," "On the Lookout," "Lost in the Skirmish," "Scouting," while performing his regular military routine duties. It appears to me, however, that his ammunition simply consists of blank cartridges, which, whether they reach the enemy or not, will not prove very effective. Why does he not sometimes go off duty and consult with his commanding officer and draw up a campaign for the battle in which he prides himself upon being such a valorous soldier? What measures does he suggest to cope with the opposing forces? Mere editorial fusillades, however widely read and widely spread among his friends, will have no effect whatever upon the enemy. Where is the hot shot?

The efforts of the Jewish Endeavor Society, the school founded by the late Adolph Benjamin, the various sisterhood schools of which I do not know the details, and especially the success that has attended the labors of Mr. Albert Lucas in his schools in three down town synagogues testify to the gratifying results that might be obtained by combined action. But it appears to me that what we badly need is a well concerted plan of action that will accomplish something. Why should these volunteer laborers in the vineyard of the Lord be left along to bear the heat and burden of the day? Fine writing will never accomplish anything. One man can do but little. It needs an army with ammunition. Who will supply the latter? I suggest that you instruct your Sentinel to marshal his forces and direct a campaign that will bring victory to his banners. The task which they have undertaken is certainly as important as that of any other communal work.

Pine Hill, N. Y.

The Wellington Hotel, Pine Hill, Ulster County, N. Y., is now open for the season, the second year under the management of A. Strauss, proprietor.

The Wellington has accommodations for 150 guests and is lighted by gas. It is situated near the railway depot, stores and post office. The rooms are large, cool and comfortable. The general surroundings are unsurpassed. The sanitary conveniences are new and modern in design, and baths add to the many comforts the house affords. Extensive improvements have been made within the hotel, which has been newly furnished. German cooking of food of the best quality and in variety is a feature of this hotel.

Spokane, Wash.

Rabbi David Levine, formerly of Syracuse, N. Y., and late acting rabbi to Beth Israel, of Portland, Ore., in the absence of Dr. S. S. Wise, was elected rabbi of Temple Emanu-El, of this city. Dr. Levine is a graduate of the Jewish Theological Seminary of New York, and has been in Portland nearly a year, where he made many friends.

Temple Emanu-El is radical reform, and has about seventy members, with a nice wooden structure, which has been fully paid off. It is hoped that Dr. Levine will arouse the Jews from their dormant condition, as heretofore they were so indifferent that the Temple had to be rented to the Christian Scientists in order to defray the running expenses.

Fancy Fruit at West End, N. J.

Of considerable importance to the residents of West End and Elberon, N. J., is the opening of a fruit store on Brighton avenue, West End, by Wm. Thatcher, the well known fruiterer, of 620 Madison avenue, New York, who has been established eight years, and is the successor of L. H. Goldsmith, who founded the business thirty years ago.

Mr. Thatcher has at all times the rarest, as well as the seasonable, fruits. He makes a specialty of supplying his patrons with mushrooms and artichokes and steamer baskets.

The West End branch is in charge of Wm. H. Lorenz, who is well acquainted with the trade.

The conveniences of the main store will be extended at West End.

The Jewish Hospital Association of Milwaukee, Wis., is planning to buy a building of its own, A. Slimmer, of Waverly, Ia., having offered to give $5,000 for the purpose and J. H. Rosenberg $200. A free dispensary will probably be established. During the year the receipts were $11,516.44, and the expenses $7,975.35. Of the 159 patients cared for only 37 were Jews. Officers were elected as follows: President, Max Landauer; first vice-president, Rabbi Victor Caro; second vice-president, William B. Rubin; treasurer, B. Brachman; secretary, Leopold Hammel; trustees, Herman Kaufer, Julius Steindler and J. H. Rosenberg.

The Jewish residents of South Framingham, Mass., have united to erect a synagogue on Waverly street.

We present above the portrait of Edward Rosenstein, member of the Assembly from the Twelfth Assembly District of New York. Mr. Rosenstein is the author of the bill compelling owners of factory buildings or their tenants, to provide a light or lights in hallways and wherever necessary, at all hours. This bill became a law April 14, 1904, and is recognized as beneficent labor legislation. Mr. Rosenstein has served two terms as a member of the Assembly. He is a Democrat and was for twelve years captain of his election district. Mr. Rosenstein has been engaged in commercial pursuits. He is a native of New York, where he was born Aug. 5, 1854. He was educated in the public schools. He is a member of several societies and clubs and is popular with all who know him.

New Cigar Store.

Harry Bloom, the well known cigar manufacturer, of 296 Grand street, will open a cigar emporium at 209 East Broadway, Saturday, July 2. "Natural Bloom," clear Havana cigars, are his creation, and are unsurpassed.

About Toilet Powders.

With a toilet powder, as with almost everything else, it is essential to be sure that you get an article of real merit.

Highly scented powders are dangerous, and often do permanent injury to a delicate skin.

Mennen's Toilet Powder is a trademarked article, which has for years been recognized by physicians as the best preparation made. The absolute purity of its ingredients and the exercise of the greatest care and skill in its manufacture have given the product of the Mennen Co. a quality of uniform excellence. That is why your physician recommends it.

Inferior goods often cost you the same money, while they yield a larger profit to the dealer. For this reason dealers will often attempt to force other goods upon you.

For your protection, Mennen's face, the trade-mark of the Mennen Co., is on the cover of every box of the genuine. It will be worth your while to look for this trade-mark.

All first-class dealers carry Mennen's Toilet Powder, and will supply it if you insist.

It is used by the United States Army and Navy.

The fact that eleven million boxes were sold in 1903 is proof of the universal popularity of Mennen's.

Washington, D. C., June 24, 1904.

Editor HEBREW STANDARD.

Dear Sir!

The present condition of Jewish immigration to the United States, reminds me very much of that which existed in 1901, when as Chairman of Board of Delegates, I addressed a letter to the then Secretary of the Treasury, the Honorable Charles Foster of Ohio, in which the deplorable conditions of the Jewish immigrants coming as refugees were depicted and wherein was asked that the law of the United States be construed humanely and not arbitrarily. And although some of the immigrants might be assisted, nevertheless it was not for the purpose of flooding this country with objectionable aliens, but on the contrary to bring a sturdy law abiding industrious class of men and women, and who like their predecessors under similar conditions, have enriched their country by their brawn and brain, and therefore the officials of the Government should be as lenient as their predecessors in office had been, to which Secretary Foster replied as follows:

Treasury Department, Office of the Secretary,

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8, 1891.

Simon Wolf, Chairman Board of Delegates of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 27th ultimo with its enclosures as stated.

You call my attention to the bitter hardships suffered by many thousands of Hebrews by reason of their forcible expulsion from their homes in the Russian Empire, and your state, among other things, that there is no organization in the United States which assists or encourages destitute Hebrew refugees to come to this country; that you deplore this form of immigration; that the efforts of the several Hebrew societies represented by you are confined to ameliorating the condition of these unhappy people after their arrival at American ports by relieving those in distress and aiding all to avoid massing in the seaboard cities and to distribute themselves to widely separated localities, where they may as soon as possible become self-sustaining. You state that you have no complaint to make in connection with the official treatment of refugees who have already arrived, and that you do not apprehend any future cause for complaint in this regard; but you urge the consideration that practically enforced immigration of this nature cannot properly be classed as "assisted" immigration within the meaning of our laws, and, finally, you declare the readiness of the people and association, for whom you speak, to give to the Government in all cases a satisfactory bond, guaranteeing that none of these refugee immigrants shall become a public charge.

Be assured, gentlemen, that I fully concur in your estimate of the magnitude of the present calamity, which has befallen so many of your race, as well as in your hope that an early mitigation or cessation of the current measures of expulsion may render unnecessary any general migration of Russian Hebrews to America or elsewhere. Unquestionably a great and sudden influx of expatriated and destitute aliens of any race would be a grave misfortune to any country, and American Hebrews act both patriotically and humanely when they advise Jewish refugees against coming hither, but at the same time endeavor to render self-supporting those who finally come. Obviously the support of great numbers of dependent persons is a tax upon the resources of the country, even though paid from private funds, and quite as plainly, industrial conditions here might be seriously disturbed by the sudden arrival and the enforced competition of a multitude of needy people.

Hence it is important to the last degree that the volume of this expected refugee immigration be not excessive or threatening, and that with entire certainty it be promptly and widely distributed, so as to supply a real want in scattered communities, and interfere as little as possible with existing and normal industrial conditions. The apparent scope and thoroughness of your plans for securing this immediate and wide distribution of the expected refugees are most gratifying, and upon the success of your associations in carrying out these plans will largely depend the possibility of the Government meeting your views in other respects.

While the immigration laws of the United States must and will be enforced, I agree with you that those laws were never enacted in derogation of the plainest requirements of humanity, and no worthy immigrant, who in all other respects meets the demands of our statutes should be excluded from the country, because, through the action of others, he is for the time being homeless and without property.

I shall rely upon your voluntary assurance that you will actively urge upon your brethren in Europe the attitude of our laws toward assisted immigration. I also beg to remind you that any tendency abroad to deflect toward this country the movement of destitute refugees, or to stimulate their migration hither, would be distinctly hostile to the spirit manifested in your letter, and to the spirit in which the Government of the United States desires to treat this difficult and delicate problem.

Thanking you for your expressions of confidence that this department, while executing the immigration laws efficiently, will also execute them humanely, I am, Respectfully yours, (Signed.) CHARLES FOSTER, Secretary.

This answer was worthy of the Government and of the man who wrote it and the context and construction given at that time, should be maintained at this present juncture by the officials of our Government, and I am glad to say in every instance that has come under my notice or where I have been requested to intercede, where the immigrant was an Russian or Roumanian refugee, the law has been liberally and humanely construed, and only recently has this been departed from, when assisted immigrants coming from England, the Government claiming that in that country the Jews are treated on a plan of equality, that in coming here they are no refugees and that where, as has been proven, the Board of Guardians in London assist the families of persons who are already residents of the United States, that their assistance is contrary to the spirit and the letter of the immigration laws, and therefore unfortunately a large number of such families has been deported. First, to put a stop to assisted immigration. Second, to teach our English friends a lesson that they will not be permitted to take advantage of cheap transportation and unload indigent Jews upon our shores, and third, to teach the Steamship Companies, that they must not violate the law when they have repeated warning that their cheap rate would bring undesirable and illegal aliens, and that in doing so they run their own risk. The Government officials admit that it is a great hardship, and their sympathies are a great deal aroused, when wives and children, who expect to meet their husbands are deported, and many of these husbands are all to blame, notwithstanding that they act as many under similar circumstances would, that sustain them, but as the Board of Guardian furnished assistance, they did not see why they should not take advantage and save their money. No doubt these deported people will return, having been made wiser by experience and will then make such statement as will prove no obstruction to their landing.

I hope that the general Jewish communities will read this letter carefully and act accordingly.

Very sincerely,
SIMON WOLF.

One of the closing acts of District Grand Lodge No. 2, I. O. B. B., in its convention at Des Moines, was the expression of a determination to urge Jewish immigrants to enter agricultural pursuits. In order to accomplish the end, the association will provide backing for the Jews who desire to become farmers, but have not the funds to purchase lands. The experiment has been made already and found highly successful, and it is the determination to increase farming in the Sixth district of the society's jurisdiction.

President Joseph Beitman, of District No. 7, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, which includes several Southern States, announces the organization of a new lodge of the Order at Corinth, Miss. The district organization has added 200 members already since the Grand Lodge meeting in San Antonio in May. Almost every State in the district has been active in the work. The work so far done in the way of securing new members was done by Mr. Henry Gernsbacher, who obtained twenty-five new members for his Lodge at Fort Worth. President Beitman is attending to a large amount of correspondence in his office, and expects to show more gains during his term than ever before. The Grand Lodge meeting next year will be held in Birmingham.

At the recent meeting of District No. 2, I. O. B. B., in Indianapolis, three of the delegates of Denver Lodge were selected for responsible positions. Alfred Muller and Meyer Friedman were chosen members of the Constitution Grand Lodge, and Milton L. Anfenger, second vice-president of this district. The appointments were, no doubt, conferred not only because of the valuable services rendered by these gentlemen, but also in recognition of the activity of Denver Lodge in B'nai B'rith's work. Denver Lodge, I. O. B. B., counts more than 400 members, and is steadily growing in numbers and in enthusiasm. The meetings of the Lodge are largely attended, subjects of main concern to Jews and Judaism are under discussion and so the interest of the members is kept on the alert. In few cities is the B'nai B'rith more helpful to the community.

The B'nai B'rith Lodges of Allegheny County, Pa., gave an outing last Sunday, arranged by Ibn. Gabriel Lodge No. 114.

The Local Order takes this means of promoting the ties of good fellowship and acquaintanceship.

The dedication of the granite arch erected on the burial ground of Zion Lodge, No. 38, I. O. F. S. of I., will take place in the Baron Hirsch Cemetery, Port Richmond, S. I., on Sunday next at 3 p. m. Rev. Dr. S. Greenfield will deliver the oration.

PIECE

Had to the General Fourth

Fourth and the 4th of July will never be taken out from the memory of man.

The most difficult thing to remember—the year.

"The sanitation for Hebrew poor children" deserves your liberal support now.

Many of the members who in the past have not been able to attend the July 4th work, they get up like a stick and come down like a stick.

Like Elijah, we ask: "How long halt ye between two opinions?" If you are a Jew serve your God, if the Lord of Abraham is your God serve him; but don't disgrace your Judaism by flagrantly violating His precepts.

Although political patriots are grown too stupid to be sincere and we too wise to trust them, yet on the celebration of the birth day of our nation our feelings should swell with emotions of patriotic pride. Every American on the 4th of July should be stirred up with high hopes of living, to be brave men, and worthy patriots, true to God and famous to all ages.

A celebrated orator remarked: "The religion of some people is constrained, like the cold bath when used, not for pleasure, but from necessity for health, into which one goes with reluctance, and is glad when able to get out. But religion to the true believer is like water to a fish; it is his element; he lives in it, and could not live out of it."

Looking forward to the celebration of the fourth of July, on Monday next, nothing can be more pertinent than the words of Daniel Webster: "Let our object be our country. And, by the blessing of God, may that country itself become a vast and splendid monument, not of oppression and terror, but of wisdom, of peace, and of liberty upon which the world may gaze with admiration forever."

True Zeal—False Zeal.

And there shall be none like him and his seat a monument of perpetual procession, because he had been zealous for his God and he brought salvation for the children of Israel. Numbers xxxi, 24.

Well nigh everything that is great and admirable has been wrought by men and women who were moved by a single purpose, animated by strong impulses and dominated by inflexible resolve. The history of mankind shows in every century that there were always some strong characters who rose from the ranks of their brethren and by virtue of their courage and pertinacity achieved that which has brought eternal glory to their name.

In this particular instance it was the grandson of Aaron who demonstrated his strong attachment to God and morality by striking as an evil that fairly threatened the existence of the Israelites as a nation. Demoralization was setting in and disintegration was sure to follow. Pinchas, the priest, struck the blow that was calculated to awaken the yielding multitude to a sense of their guilt. As a result of this decisive action the evil was checked, and the promise was made that the priesthood would continue in the family, that the tribe would always be consecrated to the service of God, because Pinchas was so zealous on this occasion in the service of his Master.

Zeal is an admirable quality. It strengthens the weak and fortifies the helpless. By it men are converted into heroes. The most insignificant body may become a strong fortress, resisting persecution as well as temptation. It is not accident, but the will, that shapes everything for the execution of the purposes of a man of zeal. He rises above petty annoyance and is nothing daunted in the presence of peril. God's cause has been well and often served by zealots among men.

Yet is nothing more lamentable than the sight of one who is led to exercise all his God-given powers in an unrighteous cause, who thinks he is serving and contributing to the accomplishment of beneficent ends by being zealous in what he has undertaken to perform. Torquemada was such a man, and the history of religion contains in its pages no more bitter an agency in the prosecution of evil and wicked methods than this chief of the Spanish Inquisition. The old zealots of Palestine, however honorable their motives, were greatly responsible for the downfall of Jerusalem and its attendant horrors.

It might therefore be said that zeal has been productive of both good and evil, it has wrought mischief and it has promoted the welfare of mankind. We should be zealous indeed, but always in the interests of peace and faith, and not by means other than fair. The zealot who involves the destruction of cities, the annihilation of a people, the murder of innocent persons is not righteous. But he who with one stroke and ever guards the purity of the home; the integrity of the nation, who achieves honor for a host and at the proper time conquers adverse conditions, is worthy of being emulated.

Let us find our sphere of action in being zealous everywhere for the good, noble and true, for the cause of Judaism and the brotherhood of Adam will be our brotherhood and its ideal our heritage.

Death of an Eminent Rabbi.

News has just reached here of the death on the 29th May last after a brief illness of Dr. S. L. Waeldeker, rabbi of Schenkelange, Prussia, in the 74th year of his age.

Rabbi Waeldeker was a scholar of immense Jewish erudition. He was the last of an illustrious generation of rabbis. His grandfather Rabbi Mordecai was the first President of the Rabbinical Seminary in Amsterdam. An uncle married the daughter of Solomon Hershele, the British Chief Rabbi of the first half of the nineteenth century. The deceased scholar had a family of five daughters, all of whom survived him and all of whom are happily married to rabbis. One of his daughters, Esther, the wife of Rev. Dr. Joseph Waeldeker of the Hebrew Educational Guardian Society, is a resident in this city.

Die Justische Presse Berlin of the 30th June has the following eulogy from its correspondent in Schenkelange:

On the eve of the Shabbath festival, which commemorates the shining forth of the light of the Torah on Sinai there was extinguished here a lamp of God's law. Herr Rabbiner Salomon L. Waeldeker, after forty years of successful and beneficent activities as religious guide and leader of our old and honorable congregation brought to its close his pious and God-fearing life. Descended from an old and learned family, who produced a whole series of famous Talmudists, he was early introduced into the halls of Jewish science. When scarcely more than a child, he was the favorite pupil of the great Rabbi (Kotah Sofer)—Samuel Benjamin Sofer of Pressburg—who in his letters, many of which are included in the Responsa Collection, often named him as his pupil, beloved as son. Heart-rooted, unbreakable bands of love and respect bound him to his great teacher. To select one of the many proofs of his pious fidelity and attachment, it may be mentioned that deceased never, to his latest hour, let a day pass in which he did not devote some time to the study of the Mishnayoth in honor of his teacher. Not alone did he study in his honor, but he lived and worked after the mind and soul of his teacher and model. His earthly career was devoted to the highest ideals of Judaism—Torah, Abodah and Gemilluth Chassadim. Day and night, unceasing and unwearied, he studied the teachings of God; all his acts, deeds and benevolences forming an unbroken service of God. With fullest self-devotion and self-sacrifice he gave himself up to philanthropy. The reward of these qualities and of his mild manners was that he also gained the love and respect of non-Jewish circles in a high degree. This showed itself in two spontaneous manifestations. On the day of his death all public games and music were prohibited in this city, and the projected Schuetzenfest, a public holiday, was postponed till after his funeral. This is another striking proof that a life and career spent in the old Jewish spirit are no hindrance to the winning of the love and respect of followers of other creeds. Many years ago, the departed began to publish his commentary on the Mishnah (the Six Tractates of the Mishnah, and the last part was finished shortly before his death. The first Tractate closed with the words: "Go forth in purity." The direction applied to the noble, pure soul of the deceased to whose memory will live, rich in blessing, with all who knew him.

Jonas Weil, big, portly and good-natured, has become a familiar figure in New York. In real estate circles he is well known, by reason of his activity in this sphere. The Register's record of the city of New York is replete with his transactions. He buys and sells landed property, as others would buy and sell a barrel of potatoes or apples. His holdings are not for a long period. He believes in quick turns. Sometimes he will sell a piece of property at cost price conditional that the purchaser upon disposing of it will divide the profits with some charitable institution. He has amassed a goodly fortune, which no one begrudges him and his happy disposition is doubtless the result of his large heart. From a true Jewish standpoint he might well be styled "The Grand Old Man."

He is a staunch Jew, an active exemplar of his religion, both as a strict observer of the dietary laws and his observance of the sacred character of the Sabbath, and to clinch his conservative notions of Judaism, he has impressed an orthodox Rabbi into his family circle and built a synagogue which would carry out his ideas of true Jewish worship.

Jonas Weil has a big heart, and is well known as a liberal donor to all worthy causes. He has been the founder and promoter and principal patron of the Lebanon Hospital, to which he has not only contributed largely from his own means, but to the progress and prosperity of which a large part of his time is also devoted. His subscription blanks for membership are constantly in evidence, and waiting with watchful eye he tackles every person whom he can induce to become a patron of his worthy institution. Jonas Weil and the Lebanon Hospital are practically synonymous. He has done most excellent work with the Lebanon Hospital, and the years of hard work and constant effort in its behalf, are bringing good results.

Mr. Weil as a side issue is an active and responsible mover in the Free School established in his synagogue building under his auspices. A few hundred children receive daily instructions in Hebrew and religion under the best of teachers and progress made by them in Hebrew and translations is something wonderful. Many of them have no knowledge of Hebrew whatever are enabled in a few months to read Hebrew fluently and acquire a good knowledge of the Jewish Religion and its customs.

Like Captain Wragg, Mr. Weil sometimes lapses into German poetry, and his effusions are very readable. He delivers occasional addresses in the synagogue and though he makes no pretensions whatever to be an orator his remarks are carefully listened to and carry weight with them. He thinks it mere pastime to take a run down to Ellis Island to assist some poor immigrants out of his difficulties and makes trips to Washing to intercede for them with the authorities. The poor, rightfully regard him as their friend and protector and, the suffering and needy find him in their distress a never failing source of relief.

Altogether, it may be said that Jonas Weil is a splendid type of the old East Side Jewish gentleman, as he existed in the 11th, 13th, and 15th Wards thirty-five to forty years ago, our friend having graduated from the precincts of Stanton Street in the vicinity of Attorney, in which quarter many of our wealthy Israelites of today in early years were Jonas Weil's neighbors.

If we had many more Orthodox Jewish gentlemen like him the community would be better off.

Some of Our Losses.

BY THE SENTINEL.

The methods by which the decisions of tribunals are "cast" have differed considerably in the succeeding ages of history. The modern phrase, "Casting a vote", is the hereditary successor of the ancient custom of "Casting a stone." The popular acceptance of Christ's intention in the matter of the fallen woman, is that her accusers should then and there proceed to stone her to death in pursuance of the law. This is not in accordance with the indisputable teachings of the history of Jewish jurisprudence. No one, not even, as in the instance referred to, one, to whose guilt eye witnesses could testify, could be punished until after a trial before a properly constituted tribunal. In the Jewish courts the vote was a viva voce one; the verdict being decided by a preponderance of votes announced by the President of the Beth Din. Among the Greeks the system was similar. But among the Romans the method was for the Judges to "cast a stone"—a white stone signifying acquittal, or innocent,—while a black stone cast into the urn was a vote of "guilty." The gospel story to which we have referred, is clearly an example of the dictum,—"Judge not, that ye be not judged."

We urge this correction of the popular error, upon our Christian friends and ask them to apply the lesson it teaches, in connection with their efforts to proselytize the Jewish children. "Judge not, that ye be not judged."

When it comes to a question of sitting in judgment upon a certain section of the community of this city, we feel that we are sure of the support of every right thinking man and woman. When we use the language which Christ used to those who brought the woman before him, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her." Let the Christian sect that has neglected no opportunity to set its own house in order, be the first to pronounce a verdict of "guilty" against the Jewish community of New York.

On the other hand, the evil effects of the unsettling of the minds of those whose religion has been undermined by the Settlements, are in evidence in many instances. We cite, as one example, the young men and women whose religious convictions are to-day so unsettled, that when it even comes to the crucial question of marriage, there arises the doubt of the necessity for any ceremony at all to mark that most important epoch in the history of a human being. We do not charge the Settlements with being responsible for all the cases of "free-love intercourse" that exist in our midst. But we do say that the number that is living in a condition repugnant to all law, is considerably increased by the doubts that a long acquaintance with the methods of some Settlements necessarily engender. How can it be otherwise? The children are weaned away from the Faith of their parents without being able to actually accept the Communion of the alien Church. Ideals of childhood and the confidence of unquestioning and (if you choose) sentimental obedience to the customs of Judaism are undermined, by contact with those, whose aim it is to show the errors of the old ways of life. Scientific criticisms of the details of Divine Revelation cannot be forced to adopt boundaries, over which minds thus encouraged to doubt, may not roam. Judaism is full of glaring errors, say the Missionaries,—while Christianity is the only true road to Salvation, say these illogical guides.

They point to the words of Christ, "I am the Resurrection and the life, whose believeth in me shall have everlasting life." All very well and right and proper teaching for children born and reared in a Christian atmosphere. But for children breathing a spirit of theology in which "Thou shalt have no other gods before me" is the very essence of faith, there can be no doubt but that the teaching, the example and the invitation to "Knock" at the door of inquiry, does not open to them the Gates of Heaven.

On the other hand, it does open to them a vista of unbelief, a sea of doubt, an ocean of restless faithlessness. These lives are wrecked in but a short while by a sad experience. The world is a hard teacher and the dream of Utopia is still nothing but a dream. We implore the truly Christian souls to reconsider the wisdom of their ways and to "cast no stones" into the urn that contains the fate of so many thousands of our young people. They themselves are not "free from sin" and dwellers in glass houses should not throw any stones.

It was said of a rabbi who prayed very well, and lived very ill, that when he was out of the pulpit, it was a pity he should ever go in; and when in the pulpit, it was a pity he should ever come out.

The Mirror.

I was polishing up my Mirror preparatory to my usual "Weekly Reflections" when the Chief called me into his sanctum, and after conversing upon the hard lot of editors who, Prometheus like, are chained to their desks, during the hot weather, remarked: "The consensus of opinion of the readers of the HEBREW STANDARD (and as for the others we don't care a continental) is "that there are no flies on the Mirror."

"I am afraid," he continued, "that the torrid heat may cause your quicksilver to become erratic, the humidity of the atmosphere may dampen your brightness and you do really require a summer's vacation to enable you to maintain your brilliant polish. Take a transatlantic trip or enjoy yourself at Cape May, or spend your summer with your aristocratic friends at Newport."

Now, if I were a bloated millionaire like my Chief, or even if I were a Reform Rabbi with five thousand perquisites, and could become a "free grafter" upon my Kehillah for my expenses to the annual picnic, his suggestions would be a wise one, but unfortunately my weekly receipts as a penny-a-liner only permit the choice between rusticating in Brownsville or summering at some Kosher Connecticut farm-house.

I should dearly have liked to be able to participate in the spiritual pleasures of the Louisville picnic.

How I would fairly have revelled in the delights of Reb Toby's Talmudical disquisitions! With what ecstatic pleasure would I have listened to the sonorous periods of Reb Charley's dissertations on "The ethical value of the fundamental principles of Judaism"! How my soul would have been lifted up by its bootstraps above the empyrean in following the pious utterances of Reb Gries, the Cleveland tsaddik; how—but as Yosef Possemacher pessimistically says, Es ist gar kei use das ma dawka dut.

I fully appreciate the fact that I have missed the chance of a life-time. That not to every one is given the happiness of associating with the veritable exponents of Jewish piety and Jewish learning, the pleasure of the companionship of the really great men in American Israel whose erudition fills the scholarly world with mingled feelings of wonderment and astonishment, whose religious example and guidance afford the surest path to spiritual happiness.

By the time this screed is read, the conference will have dissolved, and Rabbi Enelow of Louisville, who sits in his bailiwick now solitary and alone will feel, (with apologies to Tom Moore) "Like one who treads alone. Some beer saloon deserted, Whose lager's fled, whose Dutchman's dead And all but the smell departed."

I feel that the conference failed in its duty, in not placing Rabbi I. S. Moses of this city in cherem for his bold utterance, "We have rabbis to burn," as if these earnest servants of the Lord, aside from their burning eloquence, were as inflammable as they are impeccable. Nor were any protests entered against Rabbi Hirsch and the small Western fry for having violated the very fundamental principles of confirmation in administering that sacred rite prior to and sometime after the day hallowed by Reform for that important function.

Whether the Rabbi from New York, the only mendicant from the Metropolis, was singled out for extraordinary honors, I am unable to say. I await with anxiety the report of the proceedings as I feel sure that they will enable me to pass my Summer vacation with more than my accustomed pleasure.

The Central Conference of American Rabbis should immediately confer a degree upon Grand Duke Sergius. He has prohibited Russian Jewish soldiers from wearing tsitsis, and tries to accomplish in Russia what the Reformers are endeavoring to do here.

It is remarkable how apt our Russian brethren are to adopt all the mummeries of the American Reform imitators. In some of the synagogues of the up town Ghetto, you will find men whose appearance and conduct tell of citizen papers hung up in gilded frames in the front room, sitting together with women whose venerable heads are covered with youthful wigs, both listening to the vocal exertions of a maiden-choir and the overpowering whang-whang droning of the organ.

Last Shabbas I chanced to enter one of these amphibious places of worship. The public was singularly irreverent in spite of the holy spirit of Reform that pervaded the temple. When asked, how I liked the services, I answered candidly: "I rather like them. You people have hit the happy medium. While introducing all the innovations of modern Reform, you cling to the good old orthodox custom of talking during prayer."

In the same synagogue (fashionable now to call it Temple) I noticed a very nice, a very gallant custom, which I sincerely recommend to the imitators of thriving Reform. All the ladies that attended the services were presented with Japanese fans bearing the advertisement of "Dreamland." But what struck me most forcibly was, that on none of the male worshippers, except the Rabbi, had that breezy gift been bestowed. Was there to be any intimation in this act of the holy man's private pursuits on "little Coney Isle"? The question remains open to ingenious problem solvers.

My answer which, however, I do not mean to impose on anybody, is this: The thoughtful leaders of the congregation wished to provide their spiritual head with a convenient instrument to fan away the "hot air" around him. Another probable solution is, that they meant to give fit expression to the "Susie" effeminateness of the Rev. Dr.

The sympathy existing between the female set and the Reform Cicisbeo, is wittily illustrated by an old Jewish anecdote:

There lived in a small town a learned, old-fashioned Rabbi and a modern Reform Rabbi. In spite of the difference of opinion and of respective standing, they were on good terms with each other. One Saturday afternoon they chanced to meet in the street. The learned man's mind was just perplexed with the difficulties he had found in Rashi's commentary upon the week's portion, and in his naive good-nature, he communicated his doubts to his Reform friend. The latter listened silently, being unable to solve the grave problem, and broke the silence only when the ladies of his acquaintance passed by, whom he greeted most courteously. This provoked the learned man. "You seem to be acquainted with the ladies of the city," said he somewhat angrily. But talking in the German-Jewish dialect, the old Talmudist made the most ungrammatical blunder, saying, "der Weiber." The Reform Rabbi noticing the error, found himself in his element to display the superiority of Reform training. "But Rebbe," quoth he, "that's a mistake, you should say: die Weiber," and continuing, seized the opportunity to give the old Talmudist a lecture on "Der-die-das." "I understand," replied the Talmudist, "if you talk about a man, you say 'der'; if you talk about a woman, you have to use 'die.' But then, why do people say 'die' Rashi? Rashi can't be a woman, or else you would be acquainted with it, too?"

No sermon was delivered in the synagogue to which I am alluding. I inquired the reason, and was told "that the Rev. Rabbi's burning eloquence would not do in such hot weather." This suggests to me that it were highly commendable to offer a prize essay to the students of the Jewish Theological Seminary on the topic: "The thermodynamic effects of eloquent sermons in the dog days." Prize: Free admission to Dreamland.

I see that five boys and five girls were confirmed at the Chicago Home for Jewish Orphans last Sunday. Evidently my Reform friends believe that Shabuoth is the day consecrated for the confirmation of the rich only.

The conference has not decided whether eating chazzer and smoking on Shabbas, and an inability to read Hebrew, are prerequisites for Reform pulpit.

If the Kaddish were eliminated from the Reform service, or if it were recited in the vernacular, "Othello's occupation would be gone." The temples would be emptier than they are now, and the mysticism that surrounds this Chaldaic ejaculatory praise of God would lose its telling effect upon the minds of the Kaddish Jews.

What a sensational volume the next Year Book would be, if the objurgatory utterances of the rabbinical detractors, who now are busily engaged in placing a gilded halo around the brow of the sainted Dr. Wise, were published!

The size of hats vary with the changing fashions. What would Reform be if it had no hat at all to contend against? Which leads me to the inquiry, "Isn't Reform all hat and no head?" Auf wiedersehen!

SISTER: READ MY FREE OFFER

Wise Words to Sufferers
From a Woman of Notre Dame, Ind.

I will mail, free of any charge, this Home Treatment with full instructions and the history of my own case to any lady suffering from female trouble. You can cure yourself at home without the aid of any physician. It will cost you nothing to give the treatment a trial, and if you decide to continue it will only cost you about twelve cents a week. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. I have nothing to sell. Tell other sufferers of it—that is all I ask. It cures all, young or old.

Thousands besides myself have cured themselves with it. I send it in plain wrappers. TO MOTHERS OF DAUGHTERS I will explain a simple Home Treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Stickness and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in young ladies. It will save you anxiety and expense and save your daughter the humiliation of explaining her troubles to others. Plumpness and health always result from its use. Wherever you live I can refer you to well-known ladies of your own state or county who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all diseased conditions of our delicate female organism, thoroughly strengthens relaxed muscles and ligaments which cause displacement, and makes women well. Write today, as this offer will not be made again. Address MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box 248 Notre Dame, Ind., U. S. A.

A Seven Days' Feast.

Here is a description of the marriage entertainment of the eldest daughter of a knight of King Henry VIII.'s time: Seven days of feasting and revelry were indulged in, the following being among some of the numerous items provided: Beer and ale, $35; two hogsheds of wine, $20; one hogshedd of red wine, $10; nine cranes, twelve peacocks, three red deer, twelve fallow deer, seventy-two fat capons, thirty dozen of mallards and teal, two dozen of herons, two oxen, and among the fish turbot, pike, sturgeon, ling, salt and fresh salmon, eels, lampreys, oysters and porpoise figured. For the amusement of the guests there were "first a play and straight after the play a mask, and when the mask was done then the banquet, which was 110 dishes and all of meat, and then all the gentlemen and ladies did dance, and this continued from the Sunday to the Saturday afternoon." The wedding outfit, included in which was apparel for the bridegroom, cost $135.—Chicago News.

When Koi Floats In Japan.

When the koi floats from its bamboo pole it means trouble is brewing—in Japan. The koi is a paper fish brave in purple and gold, orange and black, so skillfully made that the wind, inflating it, sets it swirling and swerving as if alive with an energetic flapping of its fins. A fisherman will tell you that it represents the carp, that mighty swimmer which makes its way upstream against all obstacles. A poet will affirm that the koi typifies predominance. It is all one and the same. When the fish floats over a Japanese dwelling it announces the birth of a male child, but when war is imminent or in progress the streets of the cities are gay with the polychromatic emblem flaunting and flashing before the door of every loyal household. This is equivalent to the display of bunting in the occident when troops go forth to war.

Mongolian Sheep Killers.

A recent traveler in Mongolia writes: "On arrival in camp a sheep is killed for the stranger's benefit. It is worth going to Mongolia to eat mutton, which is unlike any other in my experience. No traveler who has written on the country fails to mention it. Missionaries, Protestant and Catholic alike, refer to its succulence. The method of killing sheep is curious and unpleasant. The animal is thrown on its back, when the butcher makes an incision in its belly, into which he thrusts his hand, where he presumably severs an artery, as death ensues and the carcass is suffused with blood. He then takes a ladle and transfers the blood to a receptacle at his side. No drop is spilled."

Memory.

The different kinds of memory are described in an extended article in Cosmos, Paris. It is noted that some children, when they learn a lesson, have only to read it over a few times; others will not remember it unless they have heard it recited; others must repeat it aloud to themselves. These are the three kinds of memory—visual, auditive and motor. Those who need to recite the lesson aloud to themselves are at once auditive and motor. Certain persons retain a passage well only after they have copied it out. These have a combination of motor and visual memory.

Alphonse Karr's Dagger.

On the wall in the study of Alphonse Karr's dwelling there used at one time to hang a dagger. Karr in one of his stories had poked a good deal of fun at a woman named Colet. Mme. Colet, enraged at being made a butt of, stabbed Karr. He on his recovery hung the dagger she had stabbed him with above his desk, with this inscription beneath it: "Presented to Alphonse Karr—by Mme. Colet—in the back."

A Deep Sea Vampire.

An exquisite sea flower, something like an aster, grows at great depths in the ocean. It looks innocent enough, but it is charged with such a deadly poison that a small fish touching one of the beautiful petals is instantly killed, and its body is then drawn down by the waving leaves to the plant's mouth and is literally eaten.

How to Prevent Crows' Feet.

The wrinkles called "crows' feet" may be prevented by daily stroking the folds or where they would come. Keeping the blood in free circulation under the skin is the sure wrinkle preventive.

Mutual Benefit and Burial Society.

This is one of the oldest Jewish Benevolent Societies in the City of New York, and for the annual dues of $7 its members receive a weekly sick benefit of $7. In case of distress additional relief to the amount of $200 furnishes burial and funeral expenses, and pays a death benefit to the family of the deceased of $250. It has $16,000 in invested funds and will receive members under thirty-five years of age without an initiation fee. For blank applications apply to any of the undersigned: Harris Solomon, president, No. 459 West Twenty-third street; I. S. Isaacs, treasurer, No. 52 William street; I. Schachne, secretary, No. 16 Walker street; J. Finkelstone, sexton, No. 414 East Fifty-seventh street.

Hints to the Housewife.

Be charitable, not only with your purse, but in your opinions.

Remember that flour thrown on burning kerosene or gasoline will extinguish the flame.

Oilcloth tacked across the bottom of a screen door will strengthen the netting and prevent rain beating in.

A candle protected by a glass chimney made for the purpose is much safer to carry about the house than a lighted lamp.

Keep a good-sized piece of charcoal in the refrigerator until frost comes, removing the charcoal every ten days or two weeks.

Have all plumbing painted well with white enamel, not only for sanitary reasons, but to lighten the work of the housekeeper.

Keep a lump of washing soda over the sink pipe, as it will neutralize the grease in the wash water and so prevent the pipe clogging.

Men are born with two eyes, but with one tongue, in order that they should see twice as much as they speak—Quaint Proverbs.

Unique match holders for the summer cottage are made by carefully sawing a coconut in half and screwing the dry shell to the wall.

A clever woman traveler mended a rent in her gown by using a hair from her head as thread for the needle she always carried in her purse.

If a paper bag is slipped over the hand before the cloth or brush is taken to clean the stove the finger tips and nails will be saved contact with the grime.

Pongee silk to be successfully laundered must be hung on the line without wringing the water out and allowed to thoroughly dry.

A poultice of finely scraped garden beets is well recommended for cuts with glass or wounds from rusty iron.

A correspondent suggests a use for old denim—either overalls or that which has seen service on the stairs—by braiding into rugs for use in the kitchen.

Once in ten days thoroughly wash the carpet broom in hot soap suds, shake till nearly dry and hang where the straw will dry quickly.

One ingenious woman launders her little turnover collars during the summer outing in the wash bowl and dries them by wrapping them around a glass fruit jar, pressing each little point out smoothly while wet.

"The Kaatsberg," Hunter, N. Y., Open to Hebrews.

The "Kaatsberg" Hotel, the pride of Hunter, Greene Co., N. Y., is now open for the season, and for the first time in its history, it is open for the reception of Jewish people.

It seemed strange, indeed, that in the village of Hunter there should have been left a hostelry where "Jews were not admitted," but such was the case, until the "Kaatsberg" was purchased by Mr. Henry Moser, the popular caterer of Avenue B, New York, who will conduct the "Kaatsberg" in a manner specially adapted for Jewish people. Everything that modern cooking and modern service can devise will be provided, and the brilliancy of the "Kaatsberg" will be undimmed though it be occupied by Hebrews.

Borough of Richmond

The annual closing exercises of the Hebrew school took place Sunday, June 26. The splendid feature of the occasion was the excellent violin solo by Master Kranzer, and the recitations by the Misses Stella Strauss, Josie Mendelsohn and Rosie Klaubers.

At the special meeting of the Congregation it was decided to raise money by means of raffle to make the necessary repairs and paying for the painting of the Synagogue. This is necessary, and we hope that the result will be satisfactory.

In honor of Miss Annie Sewell, who graduated from school with honors, the mother of that young lady, Mrs. Sewell, and her aunt, Miss Ray Glickstone, gave a reception at their beautiful residence, in Mariner's Harbor, last Sunday. The parlor and dining room were beautifully decorated with flowers, and the many guests from Staten Island and New York received that graceful and generous hospitality which distinguishes the hostesses. Among those present we noticed Mr. and Mrs. David P. Schwartz, and their son, Jesse, Capt. Phillip Schwartz, the Misses Bernstein and many others. Julius Schwartz, to his regret, was unavoidably detained, and could not partake of the many dainties which were offered at the banquet.

Jesse Schwartz, the highly gifted son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Schwartz, graduated with great honors from the College of the City of New York. We predict for the young man a most promising future, and congratulate him most heartily for the splendid success in his studies.

Dr. George Mord kindly donated a lot of lead paint towards the painting of the Synagogue.

Montreal.

Last Sabbath the Jewish members of the local militia and the Zion Cadet Corps attended service at the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue in uniform. The synagogue was crowded to the very doors, and the scene was a brilliant one. The seats of the President and Parnass were occupied by Lieutenant Colonel Gordon, the officer in command of the Montreal district, and by Major Lafferty and Major Stewart of the staff. The honors of the day were given to the military men. Lieutenant Youngheart opened the Ark, and stood in true military attitude on its steps as Dr. Lightstone, a veteran of the South African war, in khaki uniform, reverentially carried the Sepher Torah to the Almemar. Major Rosenthal, Captain Levinson and other officers were called up to the Torah. The Rev. Meldola De Soja delivered an eloquent address upon the duties of loyalty and patriotism.

The marriage of Mr. Vivian S. Hart and Miss Ida Schwartz was solemnized last Wednesday, the Rev. Meldola De Soja officiating.

A Montreal branch of the Jewish Theological Seminary Association was formed last week at the suggestion of Mr. Julius J. Dukas, of New York. Mr. Lazarus Cohen was appointed president.

Boys Will Visit the St. Louis Fair.

One of our prominent Jewish citizens has just sent Mr. Edgar S. Barney, the principal of the Hebrew Technical Institute, a check for twenty-five hundred dollars for the purpose of sending twenty-four pupils of the school on a two weeks' trip to St. Louis. With that broadness of philanthropy, which is becoming more and more a characteristic of our race this money is designed to give pleasure as well as instruction. Every year some fifty boys are graduated from the school to take their places in the mechanical trades. It was believed that a ten days' sojourn at the World's Fair, where the boys can observe and study the latest inventions in the electrical and machine shops, where they can study at first hand the mightiest achievements of the 20th century, will be of inestimable benefit to them.

Mr. F. B. Hibbard, General Passenger Agent of the Hudson River Day Line, was kind enough to arrange the details of the trip. They are to start Wednesday night over the Lehigh Valley road in a specially chartered car. One day is to be devoted to sight seeing at Niagara Falls, which will allow ten days at the Exposition.

During their stay at St. Louis, arrangements have been made for the party to board with a Jewish family only ten minutes distant from the Fair grounds.

The return trip will be made over the Baltimore & Ohio, also in a special car. One day will be allowed for a visit to the National Capital, where the party will be able to get a clearer idea of the institutions of our great Republic.

It is needless to say that the greatest excitement reigns among the lucky twenty-four. One boy, whose travels have never taken him farther than Paterson, remarked, on hearing the news, that it seemed too good to be true. The party is under the control of two of the older teachers in the school, one of whom is a Jew, and it is safe to say that they will be as carefully guarded as if they were at home.

The Rodeph Hayim Congregation of Philadelphia, Pa., has purchased the dwelling houses at 1711-13 South Fifth street, measuring about 36 by 65 feet, which will be altered into a synagogue.

Cats in a Bombardment.
A lady who was in Port Arthur during the bombardments by Admiral Togo's fleet thus describes the curious effect produced on cats by the cannonade: "I was at my window during each bombardment by the Japs, but only through the day, because at night I did not dare stir out of bed. In front of me there was a little roof on which five or six cats of the neighborhood collected. Each time there was a bombardment the cats duly arrived, and, having observed them, I on the second occasion proceeded to watch them. With my family we passed the hours looking at them. At each gunshot the cats arched their backs and stiffened their legs and seemed both terrified and furious. Then when a hissing shell arrived it gave the signal for a frightful battle. They jumped at each other, raging like tigers, and seemed to hold each other responsible for what was taking place. The effect was so comical that we could not help laughing, although the occasion did not inspire gaiety. After having fought, the cats retired for awhile, as though bewildered, but as soon as the bombardment began again they went through the same business. Each time it was always the same."

Pointing to a row of dusty shoes on a shelf, the customer asked the cobbler: "How in the world did you collect all those shoes? Do you mean to say that people leave their shoes for repairs and then never come after them?" "Just that," replied the cobbler. "Sometimes after they have left their shoes they come to the conclusion that they'd rather spend a little more money and get a new pair outright. Then again if they have a lot of shoes they don't miss the pair they've left in here, and they forget all about them. It's generally men who do that sort of thing, though. A woman seems to be more provident."

"No; the work on them is not a dead loss to me, for after keeping them a year I generally offer them for sale at a price in advance of the value of my work on them. Sometimes I reap quite a little money from my sale of deserted shoes, and many a poor person gets a slick shoe for about a third less than its worth."—New York Press.

Myrrh.
When the myrrh first exudes from the tree it is of a yellowish, whitish, buttery consistency that gradually hardens and assumes a reddish, semi-transparent color. It is used principally as one of the components of incense, and the best quality of it comes from the Somali country and lower Abyssinia, near Harrar.

A Great Temple.
The most magnificent work of architecture is the Taj Mahal in Agra, Hindustan. It was erected by Shah Jehan to the memory of his favorite queen. It is octagonal in form, of pure white marble, inlaid with jasper, carnelian, turquoise, agate, amethysts and sapphires. The work took 22,000 men twenty years to complete, and though there were free gifts and the labor was free the cost is estimated at $16,000,000.

No Interruptions Likely.
Tired Housekeeper—There! The house is as neat as a new pin at last. I am going to take a nap. Try not to disturb me with your play, my pets. Little Brother—What shall I do if any one calls? Little Sister—No need to bother about that. No one ever calls when things are clean.

The Only Thing He Lacks.
Almost every man honestly believes that if, in addition to his own ability, he could have the brass of his rival, no earthly position would be too high for him to reach.—Chicago Record-Herald.

She Knew Them All.
Agent—Madam, could I sell you this book of fairy tales? Mrs. Muchwed—No. I've been married four times, and fairy tales are a chestnut with me.—New Yorker.

Would Never Do.
Husband—If you are not going to use that gown, why don't you give it to the cook? Wife—Oh, no! It's out of style.—Brooklyn Life.

At the bottom of good manners there are always three things—self sacrifice, self control, self respect.

Uncle Has the Fad.
Of breakfast foods the list includes Varieties surprising; As friends in need to health they lead And with a speed surprising. The chopped hay deal, the raw oatmeal Prepared in Scottish highlands, Supplant fried ham, but Uncle Sam Makes his first meal on islands.

He scorns to eat digested wheat, Bran mash and combinations That others take rich blood to make, When they awake, for rations. In stronger stuff for Uncle bluff His money is invested, For islands are with him at par And easily digested.

Cut up as slaw or eaten raw, Or fried or boiled or baked, And piping hot, they reach the spot A morsel not untasted. Nor does he prate about his weight And boast to every caller, But he can pass before the glass. And watch himself grow taller.

He Needed the Money.
"Let me sell you a letter written by Abraham Lincoln to my father," said the seedy individual. "It is warranted to be genuine, and I only part with it because I need the money." "What do you want for it?" asked the prosperous looking citizen. "One hundred dollars; not a cent less, and if I were not hard up money would not buy it." "Give you fifteen cents," said the man carelessly. "It's yours," said the seedy individual.

The man took the letter and handed over the change, and the seedy individual remarked, as a parting shot, "The time I spent writing it was worth really more than that."

Wanted It Cinched.
"Tessie, I love you!" A warm cheek nestled down on the bosom of a new thirty-eight dollar suit of clothes, and soft eyes looked love to eyes that spake again.

The reader who has delved deeply into the pages of literature will see at a glance that this might have happened in a novel. It really happened in St. Joe.

Being a considerate young man, he did not want to hold her in suspense and in his arms at the same time, so he said it again:

"Tessie, I love you! Will you be my wife?"

For a moment the trembling girl could not speak, but after looking for her voice in all of her pockets and her reticule she found it where she should have looked for it in the first place had she not been so confused, clear down in her throat.

"L will, Charley, on one condition," she murmured.

"And the condition?" he said hotly. "Name it. Though it be to wade through fire and blood I shall esteem it as play to comply. What is it?"

"That you marry me," she replied firmly, for she had not been without experience.

Clearing Houses.
The messengers of the London banking houses used to meet at a certain alehouse, and there make exchanges of paper. Their employers observed this and held a meeting to discuss the matter. This meeting resulted in the founding of the London clearing house in 1775.

How to Blanch Walnuts.
Be careful when cracking the shells not to split the fruit. Pull off all the soft part of the shell and drop the walnuts into a basin. Pour boiling water over them and let soak for two minutes, then with a silver pocketknife or a "peeler" remove all the skins. Throw the walnuts into cold water as they are peeled, and wipe in a dry cloth. After this process you can use the walnuts for cakes, bonbons, creams, etc.

How to Make Nonstickable Starch.
When making boiled starch add to it a small quantity of gum arabic (previously dissolved) and salt. Clothes starched with this will not stick to the iron.
