JEWES AND THE NATIONS:

How They have Served the World and How the World has treated Them.

By I. L. BRIL

London, Oct. 25. The St. James' Gazette approves the action of President Roosevelt in inviting a Jew to be a member of his Cabinet.

"We have," it remarks, "had more than one Jew in English Cabinets and have not regretted their power. Jewry has, indeed, served us well."

THE St. James' Gazette never printed a truer word when making that statement, "Jewry has, indeed, served" every country well. How well, it is the purpose of the writer to show in these articles.

It is said of Bismarck that he considered Jews to possess those qualifications necessary to good statesmanship, and for the past four centuries members of the Jewish race have labored indefatigably for the welfare of the Christian nations.

Spain, Italy, Portugal, France, Germany, Holland, Denmark, Austria, England, Russia, and also this country, owes more to the mental genius of the Jew than they can ever possibly hope to repay.

JEWISH STATESMEN.

Glance over the list of the world's statesmen and the names of Jews stand out prominently.

Don Isaac Abarbanel, Minister of Finance, to Ferdinand and Isabella, and after the expulsion of the Jews from Spain, Minister to Alfonso V. and Ferdinand II. of Venice. Jacob Cansino and Julian Hassem, Spanish Ministers to Morocco; Emanuel Belmont, Spanish Agent to the United Provinces; F. Lopez Suaso, (Baron D'Aveine), Ambassador for Charles II. of Spain.

It is safe to say that no statesman perhaps did so much for his country as Abarbanel. Indeed, Spain always knew how to utilize Jewish brains and Jewish energy and, of course, Spain first tortured then expelled the Jews.

Portugal, too, owes a debt of gratitude to the Jews, and although in 1496 the edict of expulsion was promulgated, still, in 1647, John IV. was only too glad to avail himself of the distinguished services of Nunez da Costa, whom he appointed resident at Hague, subsequently creating him a noble.

Morocco, like Russia, is synonymous with persecution of the Jews, and yet it appears that the Sultans of Morocco had a special predilection for Jewish Ambassadors. In 1750 a Jew represented that country in Denmark, forty years later Elias Levy became a Minister, and in 1794, S. Sambol was sent to London on a special mission.

When the Sultan Muley Suliman needed an Ambassador at the Court of St. James, he appointed a Jew, Massahod C. Macknin, and as recently as 1827 Meir C. Macknin was made Consul at London.

Holland, happily so far free from Anti Semitism, has had a Minister of Justice under William III. in the per-justly proud of Isaac Adolphe Cremieux, the colleague of Gambetta and founder of the Alliance Israelite Universelle, who twice held the portfolio of Minister of Justice, and when his country was called upon to pay the war indemnity to Germany, contributed from his own pocket the sum of one hundred thousand francs.

Anti-Semitism, however, can lay claim to the greatest number of Jewish statesmen: Jacoby, Gabriel Rieser, Edward Lasker, Martin Edward von Simson, Ludwig Bamberger, Dr. Wilhelm Cahn, Dr. Rudolph Lindau, Dr. Kayser, are but few of the names which occur to me at the moment of writing.

an Empire mowes much of her power and glory.

In Austria a Jew, J. Mannheimer, served as President of the Austrian Diet.

Next to Germany, Italy has had the largest roll of Jews in the public service.

Just prior to the incorporation of Venice into the Italian Kingdom, Isaac Pesaro Maurogonato held the office of Postmaster General and Minister of Finance and Commerce.

Is there anyone who has not heard of the fame of Signor Luigi Luzzatti, four times Minister of Finance and the greatest financial authority in Italy. Signor Leon Wollenberg, Minister of Finance; Senator Artom, the great authority on Foreign Affairs; Signor Giacomo Malvano, Signor Cavaliere de Polacco, Signor Isaaco Artour, Signor Segre, Count Hirschel di Minerbi, General Ottolenghi, Baron Sidney Savino and Dr. Manin complete the list of Jews who have shed lustre upon modern Italy.

Since Jews have been placed on an equal political basis in the British Empire, they have taken a conspicuous part in the affairs of Britain.

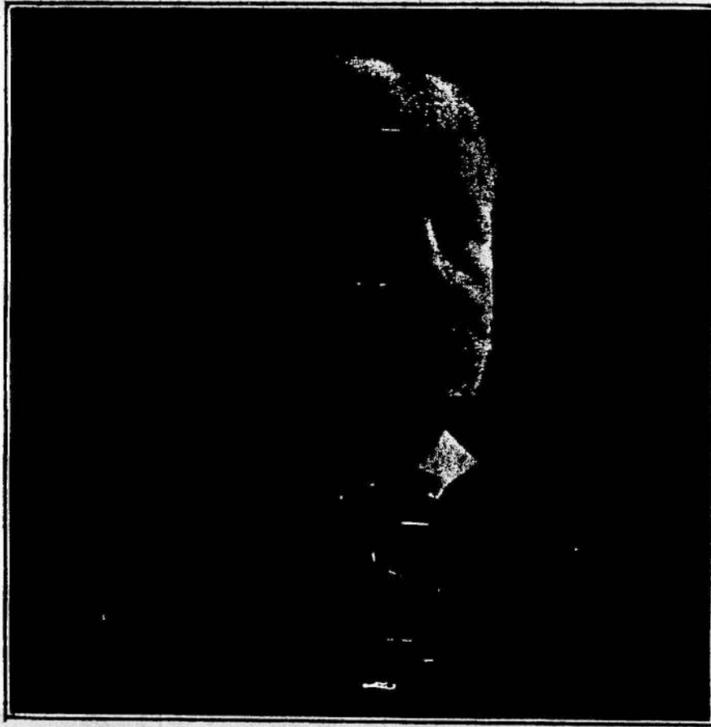

To Disraeli (Lord Beaconsfield) belongs the honor of having built up the British Empire, and the British Colonies, too, being striking testimony to the statesmanship of such men as Sir Julius Vogel, Sir Saul Samuel, Sir Julian Salomons, Major Sir Matthew Nathan and the Hon. Isaac A. Isaacs.

Lord Pirbright (Baron Henry de Worms) as Under Secretary for the Colonies, made a good reputation for himself, and Mr. Herbert Samuel, M. P., at present Under Secretary of the Home Office (Ministry of the Interior), bids fair to leave a fair impress upon the affairs of his country.

Sir George Jessel, one of the ablest Judges England ever had; he was Master of the Rolls, the third judicial position in the British Empire. He enjoyed the remarkable distinction of never had even one of his decisions reversed by the House of Lords, the only court competent to pass upon them. It being the court of last resort for the whole of Britain.

Amongst great parliamentarians were Lionel L. Cohen, Sir Julian Goldsmid, Sir John Simon, Arthur Cohen, the last mentioned is still in the living and has been created a member of the Privy Council, after refusing several judgeships. There are now sixteen Jewish members in the Imperial House of Parliament.

RUFUS B. COWING.

Rufus B. Cowing was born in Jamestown, N. Y., in 1840, and graduated from Harvard Law School in 1865.

Judge Cowing comes of a family of judicial officers, three of his nearest relatives having served in the high courts of other States.

In 1876 he was elected Alderman-at-large by a large majority. The next year Judge Cowing was elected to the bench, where he has served twenty-eight years. Between thirty-five and forty thousand prisoners have been arraigned before Judge Cowing, and he has presided in some of the most important criminal trials in the last quarter century. During all that time Judge Cowing has rarely been reversed by the Court of Appeals.

Judge Cowing's first nomination by the Republican party resulted in his election by a plurality of 22,000. In the next campaign Tammany nominated him two weeks before the Republican convention met. In national and State elections Judge Cowing has always voted the Republican ticket, but in local matters he has been an independent. He was the Republican member of the Aldermanic body appointed to investigate the Tweed Ring. His popularity with all parties, with the bar and the public, has been gained by an exceptional record upon the bench as an absolutely upright and impartial Judge. He is the typical Judge, dignified and courteous, but feared by the criminal classes.

His name appears upon the Judiciary Nominators and Republican tickets for re-election as City Judge of the Court of General Sessions, and it is expected that he will receive a large vote from that class of citizens who believe that his long experience and judicial fairness entitle him to their earnest consideration.

son of Moses Godefroi, perhaps the greatest Dutch lawyer in his day, and Herr M. T. A. Sir, who holds ministerial rank this day, is rightly regarded as the most eminent jurist of to-day in Holland. His services in connection with the Hague Peace Conference have gained for him a world wide reputation.

France, La Belle France, can be

Achille Fould was four times Minister of Finance; as Minister of Public Works and Minister of the Interior, David Raynal rendered conspicuous service to France. Senator E. B. Millaud and M. the work of the committee, and his share of its labors received generous commendation from his associates. In recognition of his interest in educational matters and of his practical knowledge of the subject, he was appointed a Trustee of the college of the City of New York. In the philanthropic and charitable affairs of New York, sectarian and non-sectarian alike, Mr. Platzek has shown by his activity and liberality an equally intelligent and sympathetic interest. He is associated with the leading organizations and societies founded and maintained by the Hebrews of this community. He is a director of and counsel for the Montefiore Home for Incurables and Consumptives, and President of the Supreme Lodge of the United States Order Keshet Shel Barzel.

Mr. Platzek has been President of the Young Men's Hebrew Association and of Union Lodge Order Keshet Shel Barzel, trustee of the Mount Sinai Training School for Nurses, and a director of the Educational Alliance and of the Hebrew Free School Association. He is a member of the Jewish Theological Seminary, and of some 30 other educational, fraternal and benevolent associations of this city and of Brooklyn, among them the following: United Hebrew Charities, Mt. Sinai Hospital, Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum Society, Lebanon Hospital, Beth Israel Hospital, Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews, Hebrew Technical Institute for Boys, Hebrew Technical School for Girls, Young Women's Hebrew Association, Hebrew Infant Asylum, Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, Society for Aid to Jewish Prisoners, Jewish Reformatory, Jewish Working Girls' Vacation Society, Hebrew Sanitarium for Children, Hebrew Free Loan Association, Ceres Sewing Circle, Temple Emanuel Sisterhood of Personal Service, Temple Israel Sisterhood of Personal Service, Rodeph Shalom Sisterhood of Personal Service, Temple Beth El Sisterhood of Personal Service, Daughters of Jacob, Seligman Solomon Society, East Side Day Nursery, Mt. Sinai Lodge, Order B'nai B'rith, Hebrew Orphan Asylum (Brooklyn), Jewish Hospital (Brooklyn), Hebrew Educational Alliance (Brooklyn), Jewish People's Institute (Brooklyn), Ladies' Fuel and Aid Society.

Of these national organizations Mr. Platzek is also a member:

The American Historical Society, the Board of Delegates of Civil and Religious Rights of the Jews of the United Hebrew Congregations of America, the Jewish Publication Society, the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives, of Denver, Colorado, and an honorary member of the Union Veteran Association. His name is also on the membership roll of the Harmonie Club, the Criterion Club and the Progress Club, of which last club he has been president.

Mr. Platzek is an incorporator of the New York Association to Prevent Corrupt Practices at Elections, and a member of its Executive Committee.

Mr. Platzek has been associated since 1882 with every movement to ameliorate the condition of Jewish-Russian refugees. When a national organization was formed in 1891 to receive, maintain and distribute these exiles in the various States of the Union, he was elected chairman of its Executive Committee, and was instrumental in organizing many branch societies in the United States. His efforts to relieve their condition and render them self-supporting have been unceasing.

In its article upon New York dealing with overcrowded conditions, the existence of vice and crime and the issue of Protection to the Home, which so aroused the down town East Side, in the Mayoralty campaign of 1901, the Jewish Encyclopaedia pays high tribute to Mr. Platzek, describing him as being "particularly prominent among the Jews who were working for reforms" in that section of the city.

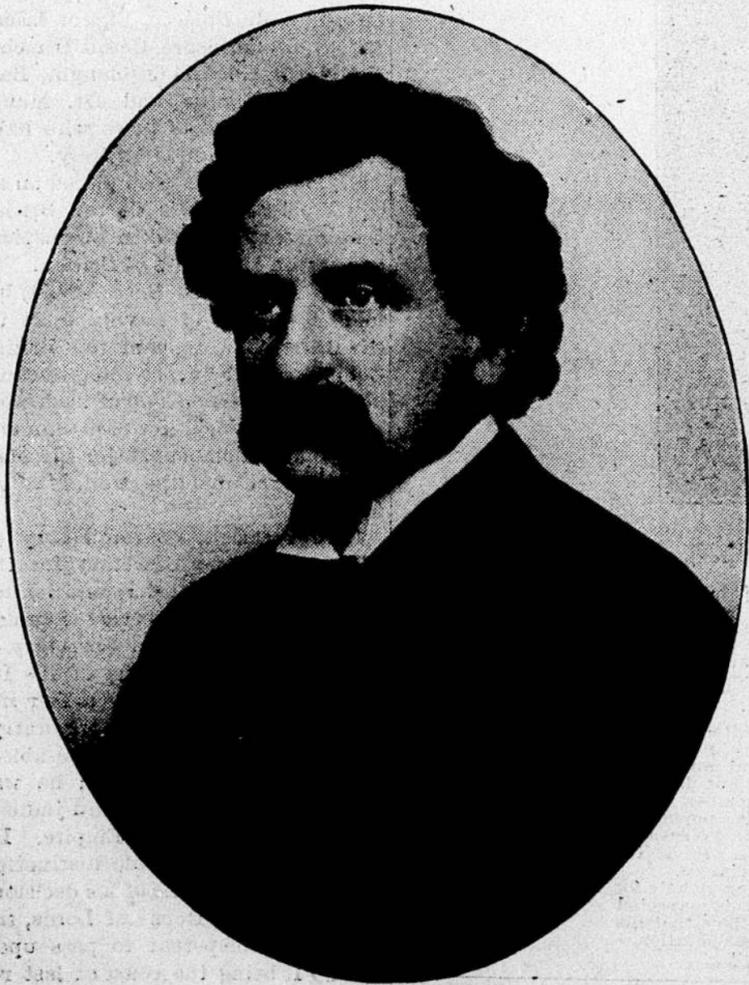

In this campaign, when the demand is universal for an able, upright and fearless Judiciary, independent of control by party or personal considerations, the high repute of Mr. Platzek as a member of the Bar, his independence of character and his personal integrity must appeal strongly to his fellow citizens. In brief, his qualifications for the important office of Justice of the Supreme Court are such as to warrant the assertion that he is entitled to your vote.

In Denmark, Herman Trier was for many years Speaker of the Danish Parliament.

The Sultan of Turkey has a number of Jewish officials, the best known being Robert Effendi Misrahi, Director of Political Affairs for the Vilayet and Department of Adrianople, and there are several Secretaries of the Turkish Embassies who are Jews.

The appointment of M. Gregory Wilenkin as Russia's Financial Agent in Tokio (Japan), brings home the fact that the Czars of Russia have never evinced any scruples in making use of clever Jewish brains. Jean Bloch, who really was the father of the Hague Peace Conference, M. Rothstein, the great financier, Baron de Gunzburg, the Poliakovs and the Brodskys have served the "Little Father" well and faithfully.

Coming to our own shores, the names of Judah P. Benjamin, Mordecai M. Noah, Solomon B. Nones, Col. Max Einstein, B. F. Peixotto, Marcus Otterburg, Solomon Hirsch, leader Rayner, and of course, Oscar S. Straus, have nobly furthered the interests of their country.

Naturally, this roll of Jewish statesmen must be somewhat incomplete, for in various countries men of Jewish descent, though no longer identified with our people, have occupied high positions among the statesmen and diplomats of the world.

Bismarck's shrewd opinion of the Jews has been strikingly borne out in all countries where they have had an opportunity to display the qualifications necessary to good statesmanship.

CHARLES W. DAYTON.

Charles W. Dayton was born in Brooklyn, October 3, 1846, and in early childhood came to the city of New York, now the Borough of Manhattan. He was educated in the public schools; entered the College of the City of New York, and graduated from Columbia College Law School in 1868, when he was admitted to the Bar and has ever since lived and practiced his profession in the city of New York.

He was Democratic Assemblyman in 1881, and served on the Judiciary Committee of that body; delegate to the Democratic State convention of 1881, 1882, 1883 and 1892; Presidential elector and secretary of the New York State Electoral College in 1884; postmaster at New York city 1893-97; Democratic delegate to New York Constitutional convention 1894; delegate to Democratic National convention 1904.

Mr. Dayton organized the Harlem Club, and is one of the Governors and chairman of the House Committee of the Manhattan Club; member National Democratic Club; Players Club; St. Andrew's Golf Club; New York Historical and New England Societies; State Bar Association, formerly one of its vice-presidents; Sons of the Revolution, and the Bar Association of the city of New York, formerly serving on some of its most important committees.

York, formerly serving on some of its most important committees.

When, in 1893, he was, without solicitation on his part, offered the postmastership at the city of New York, he consented to accept as a personal sacrifice, and at the request of President Cleveland. His administration of that office not only met public requirements and approval, but also secured to him the devotion and regard of all the postal employees.

Mr. Dayton's position at the bar is testified to by an extensive clientele and the records of the courts. He was a candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court in 1901, and the Bar Association of the city of New York at that time adopted the report of its Committee on Judicial Nominations, which stated as follows:

"The names of Charles W. Dayton, Samuel Greenbaum and Charles H. Knox meet the approval of your committee, and in its opinion, their legal attainments, reputation and long experience at the bar justify the endorsement of the association."

During his career, Mr. Dayton has always manifested an interest in the rights of organized labor; never as a demagogue, but as an advocate of equal rights and opportunities.

Herr H. Ricardo Rocamora, registrar of the Portuguese Jewish Community in Hamburg, Germany, celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday on the 1st inst. He is in the full possession of his mental faculties, and in robust health. He has held his position sixty-two years. One of his children is Mr. David Ricardo Rocamora, a highly esteemed member of the London Stock Exchange.

Herr Max Falk, who has just retired at the age of eighty-two from the editorship of the Pester Lloyd, Hungary, which he has held for forty years, was born a Jew. He taught Hungarian to the Empress Elizabeth, and was an active Hungarian patriotic politician. His successors in the editorship are Leo Veigelsberg, who was once a teacher in a Jewish school, and Sigmund Singer.

Anti-Jewish Riot in Tunis.

The Tunis (Algiers) correspondent of the "Jewish Chronicle" (London) reports an anti-Jewish riot which occurred in that city on September 4.

He writes:

The native Mohammedan soldiers, who are auxiliaries of the French army in Tunis, are known as "Les Tirailleurs." These soldiers have for many years had a deplorable reputation for barbarity and brutality towards the Jews. Wherever Tirailleurs are to be found, the Jews are ill-treated and persecuted in spite of the protection of the authorities. Quite recently, in consequence of a futile argument between an Arab soldier and a Jewish eating-house proprietor, a brawl broke out in the Jewish quarter, the Hara of Tunis, which lasted two days and in the course of which several Jews were seriously injured. The disorders were soon suppressed and tranquillity was restored. I should not have reported this affray had I not been obliged to refer to the subject at the present moment on account of the following facts: Last Tuesday the little town of Beja, which is 80 kilometres distant from Tunis, was the scene of disturbances of unparalleled audacity, which will not be forgotten for a very long time. On the day in question a column of Tirailleurs, consisting of 800 soldiers who were commanded by French officers, passed through Beja for the purpose of carrying on moral pacification in that region. As it happened to be market day, a large number of Jews and Mohammedans had arrived at Beja for business purposes. About 11 o'clock in the morning the Tirailleurs entered the market place and picked a quarrel with a Jewish dealer in grapes who was riding on a donkey. They quickly overturned his fruit, assaulted him, and robbed him of some francs which he had in his pocket. They then did the same to a dealer in lemonade. They next entered the cloth exchange where they altered their tactics. Instead of quarrelling with the tradespeople, they forced them to leave the exchange, at the gate of which they placed a guard, and then they quietly proceeded to pillage and destroy all the Jewish shops. Arab civilians who accompanied them pointed out the shops belonging to Jews. They said: "This is the shop of a dog of a Jew. Destroy it! Pillage it! It is permitted. But this shop belongs to an Arab, one of our brothers, respect it!" At the end of some hours, more than ten shops had been pillaged from top to bottom. After having terminated their exploits in the exchange, the Tirailleurs penetrated the Jewish quarter and molested and maltreated every Jew who crossed their path. They spared neither women, the aged nor children. They compelled them to pronounce the formula of the chehada which every Mohammedan has to say and which is as follows:—"There is no other God but God, and Mohammed is his prophet." Whoever refused to obey was beaten pitilessly. The Jews who were clothed in European attire suffered less because they were taken for Christians. On the other hand, some Christians were assaulted because they were taken for Jews. Some soldiers invaded the private houses of Jews and terrorized the occupants. They even went so far as to insult the females. The police on their arrival were powerless against an army of savages; several of them were in fact wounded. It was only towards evening that order was established by the military authorities. All the native soldiers found in the streets were arrested. The damage to property is very great; the figures total up to several hundred thousand francs. Several Jews have lost all their possessions and some have been seriously injured. These scenes of disorder, which remind us of the barbarities in Russia, are unprecedented in the history of the Jews of Tunis. It is to be hoped that exemplary punishment will be meted out to the Tirailleurs.

Jellinek (a son of the late chief rabbi, Dr. Jellinek), extraordinary professor of the history of German literature at the Vienna University, has been appointed ordinary professor, and Dr. Caesar Pomeranz, extraordinary professor of chemistry at the same university, has been appointed ordinary professor of the same subject at the University of Czernowitz.

RABBI ASHER RESIGNS.

TO LEAVE TEMPLE B'NAI JESHURUN ON ACCOUNT OF RELIGIOUS DIFFERENCES—CONGREGATION ORACH CHAIM EXTENDS CALL.

Rev. Prof. J. M. Asher, rabbi of Temple B'nai Jeshurun and professor of the Jewish Theological Seminary, will not seek re-election when his term on Dec. 31, 1906, expires.

Rabbi Asher, who has been with Congregation B'nai Jeshurun for six years, having come here from England, is very orthodox, and he resigns from his present position on account of religious principles.

At the meeting of Congregation Orach Chaim, which recently opened a new synagogue on Lexington avenue and Ninety-fifth street, it was unanimously decided to extend a call to Rabbi Asher, who is now having the matter under consideration. It is fully expected that he will accept the call, although the annual stipend is several thousand dollars less than the salary he at present receives. Congregation Orach Chaim, originally founded by German Jews, is rigidly orthodox.

Prof. Asher authorizes us to deny the statement made by the Baltimore correspondent of the London Jewish Chronicle "that Prof. Asher may abandon his chair by reason of poor health." The rumor that Prof. Asher is to receive an appointment at Columbia University is also unfounded.

Death of the Sadagora Rabbi.

The "Miracle-Working Rabbi" of Sadagora (Bukowina, Austria), Rabbi Israel Friedmann, died there on the 3d inst. He was representative of a family which gave to the Chassidim, from about the middle of the eighteenth century, a series of Rabbis, who have been regarded with extraordinary affection and respect. The family had its origin in Mezzybosch, a small town in Podolia (Russia). The ancestors of Rabbi Friedmann, after a conflict with the local congregation, fled to the Carpathians and resided in the district between Kutty and Koszow, where they gained their living as woodmen. Sadagora, Szortkowitz, Husiatyn, Bojan, Kopeczyncze, Mezzybosch, and Stefanesti are the seats of this family of "miracle-working Rabbis." But Sadagora, which is about half-an-hour distant from Czernowitz, is the Mecca of the Chassidim, who have traveled thither for the past century. Family rejoicings or mourning in the house of the Rabbi are also periods of joy or grief for all ultra-orthodox Jews in Eastern Europe. It is, therefore, not remarkable that the death of the Rabbi of Sadagora is an event of far-reaching significance for his adherents.

The Rabbi of Sadagora is the adviser of his followers in every event in their lives. His commands have the force of laws which must not be violated, and more than a thousand cases are known of rich Jews having given large sums of money for the benefit of widows and orphans who had solicited the Rabbi's good offices in their behalf. The most difficult disputes were brought to his notice and settled in accordance with his decisions without recourse being had to the Civil Courts; and the immense sums which he received were for the most part devoted to philanthropic objects, although the upkeep of his luxuriously appointed home entailed an enormous expenditure. Thousands of pilgrims who came to him for the high festivals were hospitably entertained by him. The castle in which the Rabbi resided is a noble mansion, the internal arrangements of which exceed in splendor those of many residences belonging to the aristocracy. The many female members of the household wear toilettes after the latest Paris and Vienna fashions. The late Rabbi Israel Friedmann, however, has not left much property, because on the one hand he suffered from the competition of neighboring communities, and secondly because he bestowed so large a portion of his means in dispensing charity.

The deceased became seriously ill nearly a month ago. The doctors were in attendance at his bedside day and night for over a week. During an interval of consciousness on the last day of his life, his family physician, Dr. Nunes, who is Burgomaster of the town, asked him if he had any wish. His reply was: "Nothing but recovery from my illness." This phrase he repeated three times and then lapsed into unconsciousness. He died at 10 o'clock in the evening, but already in the afternoon, when the news of his approaching end had become known, his castle was surrounded by many thousands of men and women who wrung their hands and uttered loud cries of grief. When his death was announced the crowd broke into still louder lamentations which could be heard at a considerable distance. These cries were renewed whenever a member of the family appeared at a window or when preparations were being made for the funeral, which was to take place almost immediately. All the Jews in Sadagora as well as many pilgrims from Russia, Roumania, Galicia and the Bukowina, may be said to have assembled at the castle to witness the removal of the body which took place as early as half-past two in the morning (First Day of Tabernacles). The female members of the family stood at the open window crying bitterly. Collectors for charities had a very busy time as everybody was anxious to make atonement for his sins by almsgiving. At the cemetery the expressions of grief from the many thousands present were overpowering. The six sons of the late Rabbi, the youngest of whom is only nine years old, themselves recited the prayers, and then followed the ceremony of rending the garments. More than 5,000 telegrams from all parts of the world reached the Rabbi's home during the last days of his illness. In addition to his sons Rabbi Friedmann leaves a widow and three daughters, the youngest of whom, a girl of eight, is betrothed to a member of the family at Szortkowitz. The boy of nine is also betrothed to a member of the same branch of the family.

To Take Care of Orphans.

The Actions Committee of the Zionist movement has decided to erect in Palestine a large orphan asylum for Russian Jewish children who lost their parents in the recent pogroms. The information which has been collected shows that there are still in Russia a considerable number of these orphans whose relatives are no longer able to undertake their education and maintenance. The Actions Committee has already commenced the preliminary arrangements for the execution of the scheme, and has invited other important Jewish organizations to participate in it.

Turkish and Greek Jews in New York.

There are some three hundred or more of these in our city. They came from Constantinople, Salonica, Janina and Corfu. Some of them speak three languages. The Jews from Janina speak modern Greek, and draw their inspiration from the daily "Atlantis." They are mostly all mechanics. Those from Turkey are small merchants and clerks in shipping houses, where their knowledge of foreign tongues makes them very useful. The Sephardic rite is followed by both Turks and Greeks, and they united last month in holding divine services during the last holy days. There is a downtown colony and one in Harlem.

Borough of Richmond.

Another important step has been taken by the new Congregation Emanu-El of Staten Island. At a large and enthusiastic meeting held last Sunday it was decided to organize at once a Talmud Torah and Sabbath school and engage a gentleman who is qualified to conduct the school and at the same time officiate at the Sabbath services. It is hoped that the right man will be found, and applicants are requested to communicate with Julius Schwartz, president of the congregation, 128 Broadway, New York. A board of education has been elected to supervise the school. They are Philip Schwartz, who will act as chairman; Jacob Bodine, Samuel Sewell, D. M. Hamburg and Wm. Konovitz. The congregation is to be congratulated on having secured the services of these splendid workers. The president and Acting Vice-President H. J. Weissburg and Secretary H. L. Bodine are, of course, members ex-officio of the board. The Sisterhood of the Temple are making preparations to have their first annual masquerade ball for the benefit of the building fund. Judging from the effective work of the good ladies the result will be highly satisfactory. The ball will be held on Tuesday, November 20, at the German Clubroom, Stapleton. Mrs. A. Mendelson as chairlady and the entire membership of the Sisterhood are

BREVITIES.

Among the visitors in town is the Rev. M. S. Levy, rabbi of Congregation Beth Israel, San Francisco, and editor of the Jewish Times and Observer. Dr. Levy expects to stay here for at least a month.

The opening afternoon reception of the Wyanoke Circle was held at the Plaza Assembly Room on Sunday, Oct. 28. The affair was a great success, fully four hundred people being present and voting the Plaza the most beautiful place in town.

Congregation Beth Israel Bikur Cholim.

The religious school of the congregation is now organized for the season with an attendance of two hundred children on Sunday and one hundred children on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons in the Hebrew classes.

The Beth Israel Sisterhood meets regularly every Wednesday afternoon for its charitable work.

The Sabbath afternoon children's services will begin in a few weeks with children's choir. The Young Folk's League will hold a meeting on the second Wednesday in November.

Society Ohol Shem.

A meeting of the above society was held on Monday, Oct. 22, at the Herrstadt, 27 West 115th street, for the purpose of organizing for the session of 1907.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Rev. Dr. B. Drachman; vice-president, Dr. Bernard Talman; treasurer, Dr. Edward Pisko; secretaries, Messrs. Herman Moeller and N. T. London.

The board plans a vigorous programme for the session so as to maintain the society upon its high plane as an organization. Among the lecturers will be some of the best known Hebrew scholars in this city.

Montefiore Home.

The annual meeting of the donors, patrons and members of the Montefiore Home, a hospital for chronic invalids and country sanitarium for consumptives, will be held at the home, corner of Broadway and 138th street, on Sunday morning, Nov. 4, 1906, at 11 o'clock, when the annual reports of the president and committees will be submitted, and such other business will be transacted as may lawfully be brought before the meeting.

Polls for the reception of ballots will be open for the election of thirteen directors in place of Mr. Eugene Arnstein, Mr. Julius Robertson, Mr. Geo. G. Benjamin, Mr. Samuel Sachs, Mr. Louis Clark, Jr., Mr. Henry Solomon, Mr. Martin Erdmann, Mr. Fred. M. Stein, Mr. Henry S. Herman, Mr. Leopold Stern, Mr. Kaufman Mandell, Mr. Israel Unterberg, Mr. Samuel Untermyer, to serve for three years.

Jewish Endeavor Society.

The first members' meeting this season of the Jewish Endeavor Society, was held last Saturday night in the Educational Alliance and was very largely attended. Announcement was made by President Joseph L. Schwartz of the work to be done during the ensuing year. The lecture course, as arranged, will consist of thirteen lectures, to be delivered on the first and third Sunday evenings of the month. Following the plan of last year, when a course of lectures was successfully given on "The Jews in Different Lands," a new series of seven lectures on the general theme, "Jewish Life in History," has been provided for this year. The first of these, introductory to the series, will be given next Sunday evening, November 4, when the Rev. Dr. H. P. Mendes will speak on "Guiding Principles in Jewish Life." The remaining six lectures besides the series will be on subjects of popular Jewish interest. The lectures of this year will be delivered in the Assembly Hall of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, East Broadway and Grand street.

The Bible and Hebrew classes of the society will soon begin their work, while the Sunday School, conducted by the society at 186-188 Chrystie street, has already been holding its sessions for the past few weeks. Arrangements were also made in connection with the annual entertainment and ball, to be held on Saturday evening, December 29, at the New Plaza assembly rooms, Fifty-ninth street, near Park avenue.

Members and friends as well as the general public are cordially invited to attend the first lecture of the season, to be held this Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock promptly.

IN THE THEATRES.

"Alice Sit by the Fire," next week's attraction at the New Montauk Theatre, is from the facile pen of J. M. Barrie, author of "Peter Pan" and "The Little Minister," and is described by the author as "A Page from a Daughter's Diary in Three Acts." The same adequate support Miss Barrymore had during the past season has been re-engaged, and her company, headed by Beatrice Agnew and Bruce McRae, is one of the best balanced assemblages supporting any star.

Manager Dixon will present at Dixon's Third Avenue next week for an engagement of one week Vance and Sullivan's production of Fred Summerfield's emotional melodrama, "Why Girls Leave Home." It is said the title does not indicate the full value of the play. It is a melodrama which does not depend upon red fire or burning powder to give it interest, and it does not resort to mechanical contrivances, although it is effectively mounted.

Managerial activity and capability is reflected in the programmes announced at the numerous Keith & Proctor playhouses next week. Tom Edwards, a ventriloquist with a tremendous vogue in the English music halls, heads the bill at the Twenty-third street house, and a "laughing show" headed by Dave Lewis is announced for the Fifty-eighth street house and the stock company at the 125th street house will be seen in "Francesca da Rimini."

At Hurtig & Seamon's Music Hall next week the famous Rentz Santley Co. will be the attraction. The offering this season is said to be entirely renewed with the most novel and interesting features. The usual Sunday afternoon and evening concerts offer a bill which deserves particular attention. John T. Kelly & Co. heads the long programme, which consists of Lew Hawkins, Five Black Americans, Bowery Newsboys' Quarter, Ramsey Sisters, Paul and Wells, Burt Wiggins and others.

Solomon and Betty Loeb Home.

On Saturday last the Solomon and Betty Loeb Memorial Home for Convalescents, at East View, Westchester County, was formally dedicated.

The Rev. Dr. J. Silverman, of Temple Emanu-El, delivered the opening prayer. Addresses were made by Prof. Morris Loeb, Dr. J. W. Brannan, Dr. B. Sachs and Mr. Robert de Forest.

The home consists of five cottages and can accommodate fifty adults and twenty-four children. The directors are: Prof. Morris Loeb, president; Robert W. de Forest and James Loeb, vice-presidents; Isaac N. Seligman, treasurer; Paul M. Warburg, secretary; Dr. Anna S. Rosenbluth is the superintendent.

The Court of Cassation at Cracow, Galicia, has quashed the sentence of death pronounced last April at Rzeszow on an innkeeper, Jacob Stern, of Bialobrzegi, for murder. At his trial Stern produced three witnesses to prove an alibi, but the crown prosecutor charged them with perjury. The jury, while acquitting the witnesses, found Stern guilty. The case has been remitted to the District Court at Rzeszow.

PETER A. HENDRICK.

We take pleasure in presenting the portrait of and recommending to the electorate Peter A. Hendrick, candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court on the Democratic and Independence League tickets. Mr. Hendrick was born in Penn Yan, N. Y., and received his early education in the public schools and academy of his native village. After a five years' course in the Fordham University he was graduated with a degree of A. B. and subsequently received the honorary degree of Master of Arts as a recognition of the proficiency which he had attained in his profession.

Mr. Hendrick has always been a Democrat. At the age of twenty-four he was elected Corporation Counsel of the city of Auburn, the first Democrat ever elected to that office. Twenty years ago he came to New York to engage in the practice of law with Morgan J. O'Brien, Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Eight years ago he retired from private practice and has since been actively and constantly engaged as counsel to other lawyers. As such, his knowledge of the law and the wide range of its intricacies and complications so impressed his political associates as to suggest, if not to dictate, his nomination for the high office to which he properly aspires. His individuality and personality qualifies him in a marked degree to wear the judicial robe and his elevation to the bench will be a deserving tribute to his talent and fitness.

Hon. Simon Wolf's Seventieth Birthday.

The Independent Order B'nai B'rith, of which Mr. Wolf has been a prominent figure for so many years, took a large part in the celebration of his seventieth birthday. Besides congratulatory letters and telegrams sent by the various lodges throughout the country, the Executive Committee presented him with a gold-headed cane. The first vice-president of the Executive Committee, Mr. Jacob B. Klein, of Bridgeport, Conn., made the presentation in person.

District No. 1 presented Mr. Wolf with a set of resolutions, in which was set forth its appreciation and esteem for him. These resolutions were presented by Mr. Charles Hartman, president of the district, and Mr. Solomon Sulzberger, treasurer of district No. 1. Mr. Hartman was accompanied by Mrs. Hartman on his trip to Washington.

District No. 7, with headquarters at New Orleans, presented Mr. Wolf with a silver berry set.

Another very handsome testimonial was presented by District No. 6, within whose boundaries Mr. Wolf resides.

Mr. Simon Guggenheim's Gift.

The new administration building of the Colorado School of Mines at Denver, which is to be known as Simon Guggenheim Hall in honor of the donor, was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies on October 17. The dedicatory address was delivered by Rev. Dr. F. W. Gunsaulus, president of Armour Institute. Short addresses were also made by Rabbi W. S. Friedman, of Denver, and by Mr. George M. Post, in presenting to the school portraits of the donor and of the former president of the school, Dr. Regis Chauvenet, these portraits being the gift of the alumni. A large audience was present, including a delegation from the American Mining Congress, and representatives from the other educational institutions of the State.

Mr. Charles Phineas Robinson, president of the Durban Hebrew Congregation, has been elected to the Natal Legislative Assembly. He was returned at the top of the poll with 999 votes out of 1,300. Mr. Robinson is one of the leading lawyers of Durban. His father, Ralph Robinson, was for many years president of the Liverpool Hebrew Congregation, and he is a cousin of Rabbi Benjamin, of Brooklyn. Mr. Robinson is the first Israelite elected to the Natal Legislative Assembly.

JUDGES WITHOUT BOSSES.

JOHN FRANKENHEIMER.

The last Legislature increased the number of Supreme Court judges in New York County by eight. In view of the importance of securing men best qualified to fill these high offices, the leading lawyers of this city organized a large committee during the early part of this year to take this matter into careful consideration. Of this committee Hon. Joseph H. Choate, the acknowledged leader of the American bar and ex-United States Minister to England, was chairman, and Hon. Alton B. Parker, formerly Chief Justice of the New York Court of Appeals, was vice-chairman. The committee appealed through the press to the members of the legal profession and to the public at large for the suggestion to them of the names of proper candidates. Over three hundred names were submitted. The committee met frequently and considered carefully the qualifications of all of the candidates suggested and finally selected the eight men best qualified in their opinion for these important offices in ability, character and temperament. The selection thus made was one made by experts in this line, and it is to the credit of our race that of the eight so chosen, two were Jews—Michael H. Cardozo and John Frankenhimer. Mr. Cardozo died shortly after his nomination, and Mr. Sexton was named in his place. The names so selected were indorsed by over 2,500 of the most reputable lawyers of this city, who, by formal petition, put this ticket in nomination. The ticket so nominated has been indorsed by most of the newspapers of this city. The Republican party has indorsed this ticket, with the exception of one name.

This ticket stands for the principle that the judicial bench should be taken out of politics. Judges made by bosses are apt to know more of politics than of law and may be induced to decide cases according to pull and not according to justice. Law according to pull means a decision in favor of the man with the strongest pull. Our judges should be known as lawyers and not as politicians, men selected for their ability and character and not because of their political activity. It was upon this principle that the names upon the lawyers' ticket were selected and the Jews of this city can be well satisfied with the selection of Mr. John Frankenhimer as the representative of their race on this ticket.

Mr. Frankenhimer is a New Yorker. He was born in Delancey street in 1853. He entered Cornell University in 1870 and managed to complete the four years' course in three years, graduating in 1873 with honors. While at college he was awarded the English literature prize and the Woodford prize for the best oration. In 1875 he graduated from Columbia Law School and thereafter was connected for several years with Judge Barrett's office. Since 1878 he has been practicing law in this city and for the last fifteen years he has been a member of the well-known firm of Kurzman & Frankenhimer. He has tried many important cases and has argued a large number of appeals in the highest courts. He was the counsel for the executors of the Well-Estate, of which the notorious David Rothschild was appointed temporary administrator. It was partly through the efforts of Mr. Frankenhimer that the men guilty of looting this estate were sent to jail. Mr. Frankenhimer is a member of the Bar Association and was a member of its Committee on Admissions and was also a member of the Bar Association Committee which opposed the election of Maynard. He was a member of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Union during the first Low campaign of 1897 and has been an active member of the Citizens' Union ever since.

Mr. Frankenhimer has for years been a member of the leading Hebrew charities in this city and has taken an active interest in their welfare. He has shown special interest in the charities on the lower East Side, and through his influence has induced those charitably inclined to give largely to such institutions as the Educational Alliance and the Beth Israel Hospital.

Mr. Frankenhimer was indorsed for the office for which he is now a candidate by the leading Hebrew citizens of this city, such as Jacob H. Schiff, the Jewish philanthropist; Isidor Straus, president of the Educational Alliance; Henry Rice, president of the United Hebrew charities; Adolph Lewisohn, president of the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society; Isaac Wallach, president of the Mount Sinai Hospital; Joseph H. Cohn, president of the Beth Israel Hospital; Joseph L. Buttenweiser, president of the Hebrew Technical Institute; Isaac N. Seligman, Morris Shidlovsky, S. Jarmulowsky and others. Most of these well-known Hebrews wrote letters strongly indorsing Mr. Frankenhimer.

Mr. Jacob H. Schiff wrote as follows: "I have known Mr. Frankenhimer for a great many years, and have always had a high regard for his fine character and, what I believe to be, his legal accomplishments. I am very certain that he would do honor to the position if he secures the same."

Mr. Isidor Straus wrote as follows: "I take pleasure in stating that I have known Mr. Frankenhimer for more than twenty years as high-minded, upright and greatly respected by all who know him. I have no hesitancy in saying that his reputation and character eminently make him fit to occupy any position of dignity and responsibility."

Mr. Adolph Lewisohn wrote as follows: "I have been acquainted with Mr. Frankenhimer a great many years and know him to be a lawyer of great ability and one who would be fitted in every way to fill so important a position as judge. Mr. Frankenhimer is a representative Hebrew of this city, and his character and standing in the community are too well known to require any commendation from me."

Mr. Isaac N. Seligman wrote as follows: "I have known Mr. Frankenhimer for the past twenty years and have the highest esteem for his integrity and for his legal and judicial ability. I know of but few, if any, lawyers of the Jewish race at the bar, who, in my opinion, are better qualified to serve as a judge than Mr. Frankenhimer."

Not only was Mr. Frankenhimer indorsed by leading Hebrews but he also received the indorsement of leading gentile citizens. Among other, Mr. William F. King, of the firm of Calhoun, Robbins & Co., and formerly president of the Merchants' Association, wrote as follows, in his behalf:

"It affords me great pleasure to place before your committee for nomination as judge of the Supreme Court the name of John Frankenhimer, Esq., and respectfully beg to state that he is a man of the highest standing in this community, and enjoys alike the confidence of both Jew and Gentile."

Few candidates for a judicial office have ever come before the public with such strong indorsements. Every Jew, in voting for Mr. Frankenhimer, can rest satisfied that he is voting for a man who will do honor to his race, one whose name and interests have been identified with the race, and one who will always represent what is best in our race.

The Life of Hillel.

The biography of Hillel will be concluded next week.

The Legend of Cheshvan.

WE are now in the month of Cheshvan, which should more properly be called Marcheshvan. The Biblical name of the month is Bul, but Marcheshvan is derived from the Assyrian Arahshamnu, the eighth month. There is a belief that it was in the month of Cheshvan that the great Deluge began, which destroyed all the people of the earth, except Noah and his family. Rabbi Eleazer said that the rain commenced on the seventeenth of the month, but Rabbi Joshua does not agree with this. He holds the opinion that the flood began in the second month, Iyar, which occurs shortly after the Passover festival.

This may be due to the same causes which give us our queer calendar, for although our New Year is in Tishri, that is the seventh month. The first month is Nisan, the month in which Passover comes. So you see that if we had to count from Tishri instead of Nisan, Iyar would be the eighth month.

These are also other anniversaries in Cheshvan. In this month the famous philanthropist, Sir Moses Montefiore, who lived more than one hundred years, was born. The English date was Oct. 24th, 1784. The Jewish historian, Graetz, was born on October 31st, 1817; Offenbach, a great composer, who was a Jew, died in October, 1880; and on the 20th of the same month, 1892, Emin Pasha, a noted explorer, who was a Jew, was killed.

Stanley, the famous explorer, made a special journey into the heart of Africa to find Emin Pasha, when he was lost there. Emin's real name was Dr. Schnitzler. It was in October, also, on the 17th, in the year, 1483, that the notorious Torquemada was made first Inquisitor General in Spain. He was a very cruel man, who condemned many Jews to torture and death solely because they were Jews.

A Story of Rabbi Akiba.

RABBI Akiba was once making a journey. He rode on an ass, and carried a lantern to light him on his way. He also had a rooster with him. He reached a village where he he hoped to obtain a lodging for the night, but he was unable to do so. So he resolved to pass the night in the forest.

When he entered the forest it was quite dark, and he lighted his lamp. But a great wind arose, and blew out the lamp, and prevented him from lighting it again. This would have made an ordinary man feel most despondent, but Rabbi Akiba said to himself: "All that God does is for the best," and he made himself as comfortable as he could manage in the dark.

Hardly had he done so, however, than he was set upon by a wild animal, which devoured the ass. Again, Rabbi Akiba said: "All that God does is for the best," and he moved through the dark forest to seek a place of safety. Once more he was attacked by a wild animal, which seized the rooster and made off with it. "All that God does is for the best," said the Rabbi again, and he lay down to sleep in a cave. Early in the morning he heard a noise, and, looking out cautiously from his hiding-place, he saw a band of robbers passing. He was in fear for some moments, but they did not see him, and he was soon quite safe.

"Truly, are all the works of God well done, and for the best," he said. "I have had a wonderful escape. Had my lamp not been blown out by the wind, these robbers would have seen it, and would have discovered me. Or if the ass and the rooster had not been devoured by the beasts of the forest, one would have brayed, or the other crowed, and thus would have attracted the attention of the thieves."

The Laugh of a Child.

I love it—I love it—the laugh of a child,
Now rippling and gentle, now merry and wild;
Ringing out on the air with its innocent gush,
Like the trill of a bird at the twilight's soft hush,
Floating on the breeze like the tone of a bell,
Or the music that dwells in the heart of a shell,
Oh, the laugh of a child so wild and so free,
Is the merriest in the world to me.

A Paternal Story.

"Sohn! mein Sohn," said a German father to his son, ten years old, whom he had overheard swearing, "come here, and I will tell you von leetel story. Now, mein Sohn, shall it be a drue tory, or a make believe?"

"Oh, a true story, of course," answered John.

"Ferry vell, den. Dere vas once a goot, nice oldt shentleman, shoost like me, and he had von dirty liddle poy, shoost like you. And von day he heard him schwearing like a young fillian as he was. So he vent to der winkle (corner) and took out a cow-bide, shoost as I am toing now, and he took der dirty liddle plackguard py de collar, dis way you see, and he velloped him shoost so! And den, my dear Sohn, he bull his ears dis way, and smack his face dat way, and tell him to go mitout his supper, shoost like you will do dis efening."

Follow the Leader.

In this game the leader having been chosen by "counting out," the rest must do whatever he does. It is usually played out of doors, and the children follow their "leader" in Indian file across roads, fences and ditches, jumping from heights and creeping under barriers.

We are told that the game is played in a peculiarly reckless fashion in the south, where a leader will sometimes go under a horse's legs or between the wheels of a wagon, whereupon the driver, knowing what to expect, will stop for the rest.

Musical and Dramatic Comment.

"DER Privatdozent," has already been shelved at the Irving Place. Although my distinguished colleagues of the German press gave it a ruthless roasting, it was not at all a bad play. Its story how a college lecturer after waiting ten years, failed to obtain a professorship owing to the intrigues of the wives of the professors may not apply to Berlin or Vienna or Heidelberg, but in smaller university towns, dass ewig weibliche exerts no little influence in such matters. Anyway, it was clear and wholesome, qualities standing out in vivid contrast to the malodorous "Helfer," as well as to a great many other dramas produced in Germany during the past decade. And it contained one original, well-drawn and racily humorous character—that of the warm-hearted, woman-hating Professor Prutz, played by Herr Haensler, with much zeal, but alas, little discretion. Why this capable and industrious comedian should so frequently find it necessary to shout his lines has always been a mystery to me.

Carl Machold imparted to the role of college lecturer, the requisite ruggedness, and never for a moment made one forget that he was a peasant's son, to whom evening clothes were a painful and uncomfortable necessity. The part differed in every way from the one successfully assumed by Herr Machold at his debut, and therefore I am inclined to think that in him Mr. Conried has at last succeeded in obtaining a satisfactory successor to Rottmann.

Three other good acquisitions appear to be Frl. Immich, who impersonated the "frau professor" intriguing the most, with distinction; Herr Treptow who walked and talked and acted with a naturalness that suggested the unforgettable Harry Walden and Frl. Voigt an ingenue of temperament and training.

In its entirety the performance possessed much merit, though one of the ensemble scenes was quite spoiled by an actress (!) who has some startling notions as to how a professor's wife should look and act. The name of this performer is Marie v. Wegern, and I advise the stage-director to keep a sharp eye on her.

POLITICAL.

POLITICAL.

OTTO A. ROSALSKY.

Judge Rosalsky is a candidate for Judge of the Court of General Sessions on both the Republican and Independence League tickets and is entitled to your vote.

Otto A. Rosalsky was born in the city of New York 33 years ago. Young Otto's boyhood was very much the same as any other boys in like circumstances. He attended public school; took private lessons in Hebrew, in the study of which he became quite proficient, and did much reading in the Bond Street Library and Cooper Institute, the only places then available to an East Side boy thirsting for knowledge. The year 1889 he began to interest himself in Republican politics, and was then made president of the Alexander Kalisher Association, which was a Republican club in the old Third Assembly District, now the Eighth Assembly District. His value as an organizer and hard worker was soon recognized and appreciated by Judge Murray, then Police Commissioner, and on his recommendation young Rosalsky was made clerk to Judge Sutherland, who at that time conducted the Lexow investigation. The work prepared by the young clerk materially aided in the examination of witnesses before the aforesaid committee.

In 1894 he graduated from the New York University Law School, and was the same year admitted to practice. From that time young Rosalsky met with great success in his profession. The people of the East Side knew him and trusted him. They knew also that he was in politics, but his politics were clean. He always sided with the better element, and whenever a wave of reform struck his beloved town, he was for reform.

In politics he was always an organization man, and yet acting independently. In 1894, he was elected committeeman to the Republican County Committee, and has served as leader of the Eighth Assembly District for two years. He was well liked among his fellow committeemen, and in the recent contest for supremacy in this county between Odell and Higgins, he sided with Governor Higgins. At the last meeting of the County committee he demonstrated his worth and capacity as a fighter and leader by making a speech to a hostile committee, and which speech caused many committeemen to desert Odell and to come over to the Parsons camp. It may be said, by the way, that it was never known in political history for a man to be twice appointed to the same office, but Governor Higgins, knowing his worth, and realizing that Judge Rosalsky had received over 20,000 votes more than any other Republican candidate on the ticket in the preceding year, decided that he was the right man for the place, and accordingly reappointed him.

During his brief career as a judge, he distinguished himself greatly and his charge to the jury in the famous case of George Dinser for the murder of Gertrude Hyland, which resulted in a verdict of murder in the second degree, was regarded as a masterpiece of judicial reasoning and correct interpretation of the law, and has been the subject of much favorable comment among the members of the Criminal Bar.

Judge Rosalsky, too, is identified with most of the Jewish charities, among which are the following: Beth Israel, Mount Sinai and St. Mark's Hospitals; the Montefiore Home, Hebrew Sheltering Home, Hebrew Orphan Asylums, Talmud Torah, Home for Consumptives, Educational Alliance, Young Men's Hebrew Association, Centennial Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, State Bar Association, Grillpartzer, Lodge of the Odd Fellows, B'nai B'rith, George Jessel Lodge Free Sons of Israel, the Republican Club and many others.

SABBATH desecration is avowed treason to Judaism.

THE Jewish home is the safest school for the study of Judaism.

THE large circulation of THE HEBREW STANDARD always makes it an important factor in political campaigns. Partisan bias generally overcomes calm political consideration, but we have never so succumbed to its influences, as to fail to present to our readers an honest opinion upon the merits and fitness of aspirants for official honors whose election would best redound to the public welfare.

IN a multitude of candidates for judicial position there must naturally be some who, by training, temperament and experience, are pre-eminently qualified to fill a seat upon the Bench. Among such, this year, may be mentioned M. Warley Platzek. A belief instinctive to every nation and people under the sun has well found expression in the thought that those who provide not for their own, and especially for their own house, have denied the faith and are worse than infidels.

WE again call the attention of the piratical Editor of the Jewish Ledger of New Orleans that the title of this paper is the HEBREW STANDARD, and not "Exchange," "Selected," or "Standard."

While we admire the excellent literary tastes of the erudite pirate in culling or shall we say "gannofing" good material from the columns of this and other papers, we simply state that, if his depredations do not cease, so far as we are concerned, he will have no "exchange" from which to publish his "selected" copy.

Absolutely Unrepresentative.

WE published last week the full list of the Committee of Fifty. Although we said that it is not a "bad" list, this criticism applies only to the personalities of the men.

We have gone very carefully through the published biographies of the men "selected" to represent the Districts outside of New York and it is easy to perceive that the coterie of "hoffjuden" would hardly fail to come across the names of those they have honored by their endorsement. They, of course, like ourselves, have only a limited knowledge of the hundreds of widely separated communities for some of whom they made it their business to choose representatives.

No matter how much they may attempt to defend their high-handed un-Jewish and un-American procedure, by a statement that "they obtained the best information they possibly could by corresponding with the different 'recognized' leaders they knew of in the different districts," the fact remains that this vicious "reasoning in a circle," is the very basis of objection to the whole scheme of a "selected" committee.

At the meeting held May 19th, the HEBREW STANDARD, reported the squabble among the "autocrats" as to the exclusion of the Pres. Prof. Morris Loeb made a motion to that effect, but Dr. Cyrus Adler and Hon. Oscar Straus spoke strongly against a secret session. Judge Sulzberger, the chairman, however, said:

"You may as well understand that the Jewish public at large of the United States for whom I speak without the slightest authority whatever, decline to acknowledge any sentiments of any individual on this floor. Whatever any man says, he says on his own responsibility. I am quite sure that we need not care much in what terms anybody might couch his remarks. Nobody is responsible for any one and can speak with entire freedom."

We do not see any reason for changing the views we expressed at that time, and which are again called to the attention of the learned Judge, in his own words, as quoted above. He admitted that he "spoke without the slightest authority." "Nobody is responsible to any one," he insisted then, what has occurred since to change his status in the community? or by what different right than self selection, and self-selection for certain definite, well-understood aims, is the "Committee of Fifty" foisted upon the community?

We are not suggesting favoritism, and yet there is an appointment within the gift of the committee, which will undoubtedly go to one whose active services to American Judaism and whose representative capacity is almost nil and which savors already of a put-up job.

Now, we can speak with a very complete knowledge of the conditions of and the men comprising New York Jewry. We say, unhesitatingly, that the general make up of the list of "representatives" selected to represent New York, does neither fairly nor fully represent this community. It is very evident that the men are "selected" only because they are satisfactory to the "hoffjuden," who mean at all hazards to be the chosen few who shall be recognized as entitled to speak "politically" for the Jews of America.

It is remarkable that the "representatives" are with perhaps a few exceptions, either the men who are personae grates to the political wire-pullers, or else men who have never been known to take a manly stand for any thing beneficial to the Jews of America, or the advancement of Judaism.

We do not propose to analyse the personalities of the New York contingent, but it is proper to ask, why the selection fell upon some of the chosen ones. Names that will occur to every one at all acquainted with this community are missed. Why? Because they have done something Jewish? Because they are not likely to be counted "aye" or "no," as may be most "politic" according to the judgement of the "powers that be."

New York is a cosmopolitan city, as well among our coreligionists as among every other class of citizens. We fail to see any of our really "representative" men. Where are the names of either of the following active men, whose standing in the community entitles all of them to be on any really "representative" committee? We mention as they occur to us, the names of Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle Judge Samuel Greenbaum, Prof. Richard Gottheil, Simeon M. Roeder, Daniel P. Hays, Julius J. Dukas, H. M. Toch, Percival S. Menken, Isaac S. Isaacs, Newman Cowan, Dr. H. P. Mendes, Leopold Stern, Harry Fischel, Albert Luos, Abraham Cahn, Joseph Barondess, Henry Solomon, Dr. Paul Kaplan, and Dr. A. A. "Himowich."

There are just a few names of men representing different phases of Jewish life in New York, that have been, it appears to us, carefully left off the committee of fifty simply because they could be depended upon to carry the things they stand for into the committee. They would not be likely to let any thing pass simply because of its "expediency" or because "word had been received from Washington" or any where else.

We claim that a "representative" organization is necessary. But it must be representative. The Committee of fifty is just as unrepresentative of American Jewry as the famous three tailors of Tooley Street were of England.

Let the 50 "notables" devote themselves to perfecting the machinery by which the 2,000,000 Jews in America can elect a "Congress of the Jews of America." That will be a sufficiently large undertaking to engage their attention for a very long time and will at least relieve them from the stigma which otherwise will always attach to the whole scheme.

Taxation without representation is repugnant to the fundamental principles of a republic. In a community as cosmopolitan and many sided as Jewry in America, "selection" of representatives is as obnoxious as the Czar's methods of purging the Duma of intractable members.

An Excellent Selection.

MR. CHARLES W. DAYTON, one of the nominees on the Democratic ticket for Supreme Court Justice, is a man of sterling character and well known to the electorate of the City of New York. He served as Post Master in this City under President Cleveland with great honor and credit to the administration and himself.

His Democratic spirit and active interest in the welfare of the postal employees has earned him their support, and by this characteristic that of the host of friends who have met him both professionally and socially. As a jurist, he is one of the leading members of the Bar, and we heartily endorse his candidacy and feel assured that the Bench will be honored by his elevation.

A Friend in Need.

THE Congressional District in which Wm. Sulzer is a candidate for election, runs over a larger and more diversified territory than any in the State. His eminent services to the country are so widely recognized that the statement, "that the larger the territory the greater Sulzer's majority," has become axiomatic.

His speeches in Congress carry with them the true ring of innate honesty, and every measure advocated by him has been stamped "for the good of the people."

His speech upon the "Russian Question" was a manly exposition of the cruelties inflicted upon an unoffending people and the fervent appeal for human justice uttered by a Christian, carried conviction to every heart pulsating for human liberty.

It should be the duty of every Jewish voter in his District, regardless of his political affiliations, to show his appreciation of the earnest outspoken efforts of Congressman Sulzer in behalf of the downtrodden Jews of Russia, to cast his ballot for him and secure for him the support of every voter who recognizes the truth of the adage, "A friend in need is a friend indeed."

A Time for Gratitude.

THERE are three Jewish candidates in the Ninth Congressional District: Henry M. Goldfogle, Charles S. Adler and Morris Hillquit.

As nine-tenths of the voters of the District are Jews, it appears to us that the eminent services rendered by Judge Goldfogle in Congress to his persecuted brethren in Russia, should not go unrecognized.

In an emergency like the present his defeat would be hailed with delight by the Russian government as an evidence not only that his own people are not in sympathy with him, but that base ingratitude is a striking characteristic of the Jew wherever he may be domiciled.

The voters of the Ninth Congressional, in view of the fact that no vital national issue is at stake, can well afford to rise superior to partisan bias, by voting for a candidate whose record is clean, whose ability as a legislator has been frequently tested, and whose devotion to principle is beyond question.

The re-election of Judge Goldfogle to Congress would not only be a just tribute paid to a deserving, honest, capable servant of the people, but a striking evidence of the intelligent appreciation of Jewish voters of the eminent services of one who, in season and out of season, has been loyal to their best interests.

Shall Faithful and Honest Service be Unrewarded?

EVERY citizen is interested in the faithful administration of the law. To deal justly with all classes of citizens under the law, requires a Judge whose integrity is unquestioned, whose fearlessness is recognized, who knows how to temper justice with mercy, whose experience enables him to distinguish between the necessity of protecting society from the vicious act of the evil-doer and the necessity of saving the unfortunate and perhaps repentant culprit from life long stigma of criminality.

All these qualifications Judge Rufus B. Cowing possesses to a remarkable degree, and it is therefore the paramount duty of every citizen who believes in securing the best and purest judges to administer the law, to rise superior to party affiliation and vote for the re-election of one, who in that capacity, has served the public so faithfully and so well for the past 25 years. Judge Cowing is a candidate for City Judge in the Court of General Sessions, on the Judiciary Nominators and Republican tickets. The editor of the HEBREW STANDARD has known Judge Cowing personally and professionally for over three decades and takes pride and pleasure in testifying in the strongest manner possible to his purity of character, his legal ability and his many estimable qualities as a man and a citizen.

The Mosaic Law is very emphatic, in its requirements for the incumbent of the Judicial office.

In Deut. xvi. 18, we find the following which specially commends itself to the earnest consideration of every reader of the HEBREW STANDARD.

"Judges and Officers shalt thou make thee in all thy gates, and they shall judge the people with just judgement; Thou shalt not rest judgement; Thou shalt not respect persons, neither take a gift, for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the words of the righteous."

Can any thing be plainer or more explicit? Judge Cowing unqualifiedly fills the scriptural requirements and it would be a sad reflection upon the good sense of the voters of New York, nay it would be a disgrace to their intelligence if after faithful service of 25 years, he should not be retained upon the bench to continue his services to the public by dispensing justice equitably and fairly.

Now, what a thing it is to be an ass.
—Titus Andronicus.

WHEN I see so many Chamorim of all shades and colors reflected upon my mirror, the conclusion is forced upon me, that while here and there we may find a Jewish ass in every strata of society, yet a veritable drove of congregational official Chamorim are browsing around in New Haven, Conn.

And the great trouble, however, lies in the fact, that notwithstanding their long ears are quite apparent to outsiders, they themselves, seem to be conscious, neither of their asinine actions, nor the ludicrous position in which they have placed themselves in the eyes of the community, nor the contempt heaped upon the innocent members of their congregation by self respecting Jews everywhere.

When a church edifice has been destroyed by fire, sympathy for our fellow citizens of a different faith makes it a pleasant duty to offer them the temporary use of the synagogue for their religious services. Such a graceful act tends to break down the barriers of prejudice and intolerance and places the Jewish character upon its proper elevation.

Every crazy religious movement no matter how apparent its underlying fake, or how injurious to society its practices may be—whether Mormon, Shaker, Spiritualist or Holy Ghost—finds rapid growth in this country and speedily enrolls under its banner, thousands of gullible votaries.

The Christian Science humbug is the latest and most successful impostor of the day and naturally is held in deep detestation by respectable respecting Christians.

The Jewish Community of New Haven, Conn., as well as a large number of its Christian citizens were recently disgusted when cards of invitation were distributed among them by the First Church of Christian Scientists, to attend a lecture on Christian Science by a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of the First Church of Christian Science of Boston, in the Mishkan Israel Temple of that city.

As a matter of justice I must say that I have ascertained from a reliable source that the matter of giving the Temple to the Christian Scientists was in opposition to the opinion of the Rabbi, Dr. David Levy. Personally the President of the Congregation is a very estimable and worthy gentleman, perhaps he may have committed an error of judgment, but that does not release him or the Board of Trustees from the just criticism of those who stand for a principle.

Liberality of thought is one thing, but when it steps beyond the boundaries of decency it becomes treason.

My Chief laid a card upon my desk the other day saying: "Aspaklarya, if you want an Oneg Shabbas (a delightful Sabbath), take this in."

It was an invitation to attend the consecration of the Solomon and Betty Loeb Memorial Home for Convalescents on Saturday, the 27th, with instructions how to take the trains and the best routes for automobiles.

My chauffeur is unfortunately one of those old-fashioned purists who declines to run his machine on Shabbas, and I declined the invitation of my Chief preferring to take my dolce or nois at home and at the same time observe the Fourth Commandment, as my fathers did before me.

There was one thing struck me as rather remarkable. The late Solomon and Betty Loeb were Jews. The Memorial Home was built with Jewish money. The officers of the Home—with a few minor exceptions, to give it the "faddy" twang of non-sectarianism—are Jews. And yet surprising as it may be to those who have been taught to venerate the ancient Sabbath, no other day in the week could be selected for the purposes of consecration (!) with religious services than the Jewish Sabbath.

Would self-respecting Christians have consecrated a non-sectarian Christian home on the Christian Sabbath? I think not. The Church of the Holy Convenience, however, closes its eyes to these slight derelictions of duty and its votaries delude themselves with the idea that the more they abandon and the further they get away from the teachings and customs of their fathers, the more they will be respected by their fellow-citizens.

As a matter of fact, the majority of educated Christians laugh in their sleeves and inwardly despise them.

As for the "non-sectarian" fad, I say with Shlomoh Hamelech, "this also is vanity."

Jewish charity has never been selfish or sectarian. The Talmud, which our Reform Rabbis abuse so much and of whose contents they know so little, expressly states that in the matter of charity all human beings have a claim upon our beneficence. I have yet to learn of a poor man being turned away from a Jewish dog or from any public charity endowed by Jews solely because he was of another faith.

While it may be more comfortable for a man to sit down to his dinner in his shirt sleeves, easier to eat peas with a knife, and very gemuetlich to smoke a pipe after dinner even if women are present, yet a respect for the amenities of civilization, life would not allow a violation of these well established social rules.

But our modern liberal Jews who, no doubt, would view with horror any violation of the amenities of social life, have no compunction when it comes to the violation of the amenities of Jewish religious life, but on the contrary, foolishly imagine that by so doing they place themselves upon a higher plane with their Christian neighbors. "And this is also vanity."

On Russia's Frontier.

FROM THE HEBREW OF EZEKIEL LEAVITT.

FOR the last time I lifted up mine eyes
To see the land wherein so many years
I suffered wrong, where buried lies my hope,
I would have wept, but frozen were my tears.

In vain I strove to sigh; my broken heart
Was changed to stone, alas! congealed its blood.
For the last time my native country's sky,
Spread o'er my head, like one fresh stunned I stood.

Upon my lips there hovered curses deep:
Cursed be Russia, bloodstained, without ruth,
That loves fools only, and detests the wise—
Those who aspire to freedom, justice, truth!

Brothers in exile lay in slumber there,
I Brothers my love for whom is warm and great;
And I have left them, and my sad soul sighs.
Their spirit has been broken by their fate.

I know; I suffered with them; oh, we all
Suffered together in the vale of tears!
Russia's frontier for the last time I see;
Oh, cursed be that land of pain and fears!

Cursed her populace, that kiss the rod!
Had the poor people not in sleep lain low,
Had they said, "Take away the smiting rod!"
Sceptre and Czar had vanished long ago.

Brothers in exile, given o'er to pain,
For whom the bright sun shines not on his rounds,
Who in their slavery persist, and live
The lives of dogs—oh, could I heal their wounds!

Oh, could I make their mournful faces glad,
Now wrinkled ere their time, with grief and wrong
All clouded o'er! Oh, could I let them hear
A song as fresh as springtime, new and strong,

That could console the mourners, the forlorn!
Oh, could I make them all forget their pain—
Sweeten their fate, their suffering sweep away,
Destroy the slavery and break the chain!

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Young Women's Hebrew Association.

Editor HEBREW STANDARD:

Have read the several letters on page 13 of your issue of Oct. 26, and must say that I am surprised that your correspondents are so little familiar with the immense amount of work being done right in the district where proselytizing seems to be so rampant. The Young Women's Hebrew Association conducts a children's Sunday school which registers over 400 children. These children do not come only on Sunday, but on Wednesdays after school, when they are taught Hebrew; on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays, when they receive instruction in music, basket weaving, drawing—in fact most things for which they show an inclination. I was present a few days ago when the superintendent had 30 applications in about as many minutes. The work done by this institution is enormous, and at the same time everything is conducted quietly and unostentatiously. Perhaps this is the reason your correspondents did not know of it. But like all institutions of this kind, they need funds to help carry on this excellent work. Much of the teaching has to be done by volunteer workers and the material, etc., etc., has to be paid for. This work should appeal particularly to the mothers of children who can be reared at home and in comfort. It would give them great pleasure could they see the result of the work on these children who are taught at the Young Women's Hebrew Association. The history of the Jewish race and reverence for the Jewish religion. All mothers should support this noble undertaking. OBSERVER.

AN opportunity—which does not come every day—is afforded the readers of the Hebrew Standard of making an investment of capital which will in the near future prove advantageous and remunerative.

The investment is not necessarily confined to capitalists, but appeals rather to the middle classes; to those whose savings have been merely hoarded and deposited in some institution for safety or to lodges and societies whose funds are placed in saving institutions yielding but a comparatively insignificant rate of interest. It is neither a wildcat speculation nor a bogus scheme to inveigle credulous investors to part with their money.

It is safeguarded by the local government, has been thoroughly examined and investigated in every detail, is backed by men of responsibility and standing, AND AN OPPORTUNITY OF PERSONAL INVESTIGATION WITHOUT EXPENSE is freely offered to those who wish to participate in the enterprise.

Messrs. Wills & Company, who are members of the Standard Stock Exchange, having their New York office at No. 43 Exchange Place, invite investors to consider the claims of "Cobalt," the new mining camp of Canada, as a wealth-producer and to measure these claims carefully and critically from every point of view.

What is Cobalt?
Cobalt is a metal belonging to the iron group and very much can be used for many purposes for which nickel is used. Its principal use is not in its metallic form, but as an oxide, in imparting a brilliant blue color to porcelain, glass, tiles and other things of like nature. It resembles nickel in its properties.

Cobalt occurs in the ores taken out in this district as an arsenic; that is, in chemical combination with arsenic, but in the form of the compound smaltite or chloanthite. It must be separated from the arsenic in the treatment of the ores.

The only other places in the world where cobalt has been found are New Caledonia, in Australia, and in Saxony, Germany, the latter mines having been worked for over 400 years.

Edison has discovered a new use for the cobalt ore in a battery, and has an agent at the cobalt mines buying all that is brought to him at 50c. per pound.
A limited amount of the stock of the Amalgamated Cobalt Mines, Ltd., capital $1,000,000—no personal liability to shareholders—par value of shares $1—IS OFFERED AT FIFTY CENTS PER SHARE. This company owns the property known as the Tretheway Extension, twenty-two acres immediately west of and adjoining the great Tretheway Mines, which have produced nearly a million dollars to date. Their veins run into this property, according to the opinion of no less an authority than Prof. Miller. The Amalgamated-Cobalt Mines, Ltd., have a Crown Patent, a copy of which they would be glad to forward to prospective investors.

Under the laws of Canada it is impossible to foist any fake scheme upon a gullible public. The mine on paper or a stock company formed upon no other basis than a mere hole in the ground is an impossibility in Ontario.

It takes a property of proven mineral worth to pass the rigid inspection of the Ontario Government, and no mining lease or patent is issued until the government inspection and assay show valuable mineral deposits on the land applied for. The stock is sure to rise in value and the financial soundness of the company can be inferred from the simple fact that the company has issued no bonds or preferred stock, having no indebtedness of any kind and ample money is forthcoming for the development of its properties.

Hebrew Poetry.
HEBREW poetry has power over our feelings, because it is always in dead earnest. There is no play-acting here. When one sees or reads Hamlet, or Macbeth, or King Lear, one is absorbed in the distress and suffering; but always behind the absorption is the sense of detachment from real affairs. Unconsciously we feel that we can afford to take part by imagination of the suffering, because, after all, it is not real. To understand and appreciate the poetry of the Old Testament one must remember that it is always real. The sufferings, or the joy, or the faith are the experience of real men uttering forth the depth of their soul. Their poetry had always the direct and practical purpose of unburdening real feeling; there is no make-believe here. Even in Job the apparent form of a drama is in the thinnest of masks for the deep and real feelings which lie underneath. The book is not an effort for the author to imagine how such a man as Job, suffering such trials, would have felt, but rather the expression of actual distress over the hopeless plight of his people. The mental tortures under which Job writhes are therefore those of real people in real and harrowing perplexity; and the overwhelming power of the answer of the Almighty, the direct witness of a faith which could not be daunted by the most grievous trials.—Atlantic Monthly.

Certainly Interesting.
THE new Criminal Courts Building which has just been completed in London contains a number of features of striking Jewish interest. In one of the side halls of the magnificent central hall on the first floor from which the dome springs is a series of three mosaic wall frescoes designed by Professor G. Moira. The centre picture contains a representation of Justice standing on the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral whilst around her are the figures of eminent men, including the figure of Chief Rabbi Adler representing religion. Dr. Adler is depicted seated on the steps dressed in his official robes, the face being an excellent likeness. On the right of this picture is a drawing of Moses seated at the foot of a mountain surrounded by a number of Israelites. Underneath are inscribed the words: "Moses gave unto the people the laws of God." Facing this interesting painting is a fresco of King David surrounded by a group of warriors and counsellors.

Jews In British Empire.
SOME interesting information concerning the Jewish world is contained in the "Jewish Year Book, 1907," published by Messrs. Greenberg & Co. There are, it is estimated, some 150,000 Jews resident in London, two-thirds of whom live in the East End. The total Jewish population of the United Kingdom is given at 228,707, being an increase of 1,511 during the last twelve months. The total Jewish population of the British Empire is approximated at 361,512, the Colony having the largest number being South Africa, with 48,820. There are three Jewish peers in England and eleven baronets, while sixteen Jews have seats in the House of Commons. In the English army there are 400 Jews serving in all ranks and 100 in the navy, the highest rank attained by any Jew being that of colonel.

THE JEWS IN MANCHURIA.
 INTERESTING INTERVIEW WITH RABBI LEVINE.
 If the tradition once current amongst our people that the Messiah will only come when the Jews shall have been scattered to all the four corners of the globe contains any truth, then it is surely time that this pious hope should be fulfilled. For even a remote, and until recently but little known and secluded spot such as Harbin, in far-away Manchuria, has its Jewish inhabitants, its sryagogues, its rabbi, its benevolent and other institutions that are usually found in every Jewish centre. But Harbin, though formerly an obscure frontier outpost of the vast Russian Empire, has of late loomed large in the world's eye; it is not long since the clash of arms, the roar of guns, the tramp of armies and the groans of the dying were heard in its vicinity. And in that bloody duel between the greedy, grasping, obstinate Slav and the new-born energies of the occidentalized Mongol, the Jew paid his full quota for the doubtful privilege of his domicile in Russia—the worst of stepmothers that have ever nursed the Children of Israel. Of the heroism and sufferings of the Jewish soldiers who went through the campaign in Manchuria something has already appeared in these columns, but the narrative of an eye-witness is naturally of greater interest, and, being precise, possesses a higher value for the future historian. Such an account, together with some remarks on the position of the Jews in Siberia generally, it was the writer's pleasure to hear from the lips of Rabbi Levine, the rabbi of Harbin, whom he met this summer at a well-known German watering place, says a correspondent of the Jewish Chronicle (London). Rabbi Levine, in addition to his ministrations at Harbin, supervises the Jewish ecclesiastical affairs of the whole of Siberia and fulfills the functions of a rav and a crown rabbi. Bright eyed, intellectually keen and alert, with a knowledge of Russian and a degree of secular culture quite unusual among his confreres, clad in the traditional garb of the scrupulously orthodox, the rabbi presented a picturesque appearance in the streets of the fashionable little town that afforded a welcome change from the conventional products of the Western sartorial art. Moreover, the rabbi has a knowledge of the affairs of the world and a firm grasp of the political and economic problems of the empire of the Czar not often met with among members of his class. Born and educated in Lithuania, Rabbi Levine was formerly stationed at Omsk, but on the appointment of a new Governor-General he, together with fifty other Jewish families, was expelled—an act that was undoubtedly commended in high official quarters as displaying praiseworthy zeal and devotion to duty. The rabbi thereupon migrated to Harbin, 4,500 miles eastward of his former station. Here he soon found work enough to satisfy his energies. The Russo-Japanese war broke out soon after his settlement in Manchuria and Jewish soldiers began to pour into the Far East. As is well known, hundreds fell on the stricken field or died of disease, and were buried in the common graves of their non-Jewish comrades. As soon as this became known to Rabbi Levine he sought and obtained the permission of the military authorities to give his co-religionists Jewish burial. He interceded with the soldiers themselves and requested them to perform the last rites for their comrades. Soon his supply of shrouds was exhausted, and he appealed through the medium of the Russian and Hebrew press to his brethren in St. Petersburg and elsewhere for these mournful garments and talismans. A ready response was accorded this appeal, and now more than 300 Jews who fell for the land that denies them the common rights of humanity lie buried in accordance with Jewish rites in the בית עולם of Harbin. But while caring for the dead and the dying, Rabbi Levine did not neglect the needs of the living. With the aid of their fellow-soldiers and the authorities, he authenticated the deaths of as large a number as it was possible to trace, and published lists of these victims of the war, thereby enabling their widows to remarry, a contingency which, under the Jewish law, would be otherwise impossible. Of the bravery, the loyalty and fidelity of the Jewish soldiers Rabbi Levine had much to say. Large numbers of them while undergoing treatment for their wounds in the military hospitals of Harbin frequently told the rabbi, on the occasion of his many visits, that they were anxious to be discharged from the care of the surgeons and the nurse in order that they might speedily return to the fighting line. Quite a large number obtained medals and other decorations for specific acts of bravery on the field of battle. Some even received money rewards and the public thanks of their commanders, though but very few were promoted from the ranks. Their religion effectually precluded them from this the highest form of a soldier's reward. One young hero, a namesake of the rabbi, refused to leave his post after the whole of his company had retreated; he paid with his life for this meritorious devotion to duty. Passover was a particularly trying time for Rabbi Levine and his congregants. Although a St. Petersburg Committee, presided over by Baron de Gunzburg, provided eight pounds of Motza per head for the 9,000 Jewish soldiers still under arms in Manchuria as late as the last Passover, the task of distributing the consignments, no easy one, fell upon the shoulders of the Rabbi of Harbin and his flock. They eagerly undertook this labor of love that perhaps buoyed up the spirits and raised hopes of a speedy redemption from his present captivity in the breast of many a forlorn warrior shivering in his "dug-out" on the frozen shores of the Sha-ho. In Harbin itself, the community catered for the wants of the Jewish soldiers. About 1,000 of them were stationed in the town at the time. By the permission of the commandant they were allowed to attend the Seder organized and conducted by Rabbi Levine. Services were also held in the mornings at which the Rabbi preached on the duties of the soldier; officers were invariably present at these religious functions. The soldiers who were returning from the theatre of war were cared for by the Jewish communities along the Trans-Siberian railway. The Rabbi estimated the Jewish population of Siberia at 40,000. Most of them are exiles living under police supervision, or ex-prisoners, who, having terminated their period of incarceration, have been permitted to remain in the land and settle in the towns, and the children of both these classes. A considerable proportion of this population naturally consists of political offenders, i. e., persons who dared to imply their dissatisfaction with the divine system of the autocracy. The most populous communities are in Chita, Omsk with about 200 families, Harbin with about 4,000 souls, Kalyensk, Yakutsk and Irkutsk with 1,500 families. The majority of those who are "free" are materially prosperous. They engage in all manner of business, acting as government contractors, exporters of butter, fur, etc. They easily earn a good livelihood in this rich land whenever the authorities do not hinder the free play of the commercial instincts of its Jewish inhabitants. Efforts are being made by a number of wealthy and enterprising Siberian Jews to develop the trade in butter. Under the influence of their energetic Rabbi they are striving to promote the exportation of Kosher butter produced under his supervision and his ecclesiastical sanction. As is well known, large quantities of this commodity are already annually exported, and a considerable and steadily-increasing amount reaches England. The Siberians allege that they are in a position to supply Kosher butter only slightly above the cost of their salt product and at a much lower rate than the Dutch butter which forms the chief source of supply of the strictly orthodox Jews of this country. Carriage to Libau, the port of shipment, is very cheap, and delivery can be effected from the interior of Siberia to London in about eighteen days. Intellectually, however, the Siberian

Jews are somewhat backward. The children are of course the chief sufferers of the government policy that is responsible for this. The Jews are not allowed to appoint teachers, and the younger generation consequently grows up ill-acquainted with their religion and its teachings.

Mixed Marriages in Germany.

THE extent to which mixed marriages have grown in Germany is seen from the particulars given recently in an official German publication. It appears that in 1904 the number of persons married, returned officially as Jews, was 8,750. Of these, 4,001 Jewish men took Jewish wives.

In the following table are given the numbers of pure Jewish and mixed marriages in all Germany in the last four years:

Table with 4 columns: Year, Mixed Marriages (Both Jewish), Jewish Husband, Jewish Wife. Rows for 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904.

It should be noted that these figures point to a marriage-rate for 1904 of 8.49 per 1,000 among non-Jews and 7.46 among Jews. This conclusion, i. e., an appreciably lower marriage-rate for Jews, is the more remarkable in that, on account of the fact that the Jewish community in Germany contains relatively more adults at marriageable ages than the general population, it might have been expected that the Jewish marriage-rate would have been higher.

The explanation suggested by the Zeitschrift fur Demographie und Statistik der Juden, is that in many cases where mixed marriages are being celebrated the marriages are not officially returned as Jewish—a fact which we ourselves have had reason to suspect—and also that re-marriages are less frequent among Jews. If the first of these explanations has any foundation in fact, the number of mixed marriages must be considerably larger than is officially returned.

The League Condemned.

THE League of the Russian People has issued what Americans would call a platform for the elections of the next Duma. It enjoins candidates to favor continued oppression of the Jews by depriving them of the franchise, by excluding them from the army and navy, from the schools and universities, by preventing them from receiving government concessions, and denying them employment as ship captains, druggists, or journalists.

If this League is running in the interest of the brutal bureaucracy, its platform of persecution of the Jews is as appropriate as it is infamous. It breathes the hellish spirit which characterizes Czarism. But if the League is opposed to the government, it is condemned already by its cruelty. Only besotted bigotry and ignorance, or disgusting depravity, can stand for a platform favoring the persecution of any people on account of their race or religion.

POLITICAL.

JOHN P. COHALAN.

The Democratic nominee for the newly created Senatorial district in the Bronx is John P. Cohalan, a young lawyer, who this year represented practically the same district in the Assembly.

Mr. Cohalan won encomiums by his independence in the Assembly, where he supported many important measures against the orders of his political sponsors. He supported the Hearst recount bill in the Assembly against the wishes of Tammany.

Mr. Cohalan enjoys the respect and friendship of our numerous co-religionists in the Bronx, has always been ready to espouse their cause, and we earnestly commend him as an ideal candidate worthy of their support.

FOR SENATOR
12th Senate Dist.

Wm. SOHMER.

The clean record of William Sohmer specially commends itself to the voters of the Twelfth Senatorial District as a true and tried servant of the public and as one whose name is a symbol of honesty, integrity and steadfastness in behalf of the fireside of every workingman in the city and State. When in the Assembly he made an admirable record, and is one of the champions of ballot reform. Personally he is genial and affable and knows his constituents "after election" as well as before. He was faithful as County Clerk and Register of New York County, and he can do right as Senator. While occupying those important offices, whose onerous duties he discharged to the satisfaction of the public, he was the recipient of well-deserved encomiums of the press of all political parties. Vote for William Sohmer for Senator.

The One Medicine Old People Need

MR. JOSIAH ZEITLIN.

Mr. Josiah Zeitlin, 101 years old July, 1906, lives with his daughter, Mrs. Isaac Krinsky, Brooklyn.

Mr. Zeitlin was a prominent business man in his native land, Poland, many years. In 1882 he retired and came to this country.

He says that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has prolonged his life, and is the medicine to restore health and vigor in old people.

He writes:

"Although I was 101 years old on July 3d last, I still feel that I am good for several years. I was born at Lodz, in Poland, and after a lengthy business life in the old land came to this country in 1882 to reside with my daughter. I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for many years and find it very beneficial. It invigorates and gives me strength. I feel that it has helped me to live the 101 years. It seems to be the very medicine old people need to restore their failing health and strength."—Josiah Zeitlin, 136 Lexington Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. August 10, 1906.

Mr. Zeitlin is one of the many thousands of men and women throughout the United States who owe their vigor, strength and long life to the great Tonic Stimulant and Renewer of Youth, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and join in extolling its merits.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure, gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces. It makes digestion perfect and enables you to get from the food you eat the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, as it is a food already digested. It strengthens the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey contains no fusel oil and is the only whiskey that is recognized as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, in sealed bottles only; never in bulk. Price $1. Insist on the genuine and see that the "Old Chemist" trade-mark is on the label. Beware of refilled bottles and spurious malt whiskey substitutes offered for sale by unreliable dealers. They are positively harmful and will not cure. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

BROOKLYN.

Florence Bindley will appear at the Grand Opera House next week as Geraldine Lawrence in a new musical drama, "The Girl and the Gambler." The play has been elaborately staged, and is presented with excellent support. Love is the dominating note of the story. It is told in four acts, the time being the present. The play is alive with big situations, and a commingling of pathos and comedy.

MITCHELL L. ERLANGER.

Mitchell L. Erlanger was born in Buffalo forty-six years ago, and came to this city when a boy. He was graduated from the public schools and on arrival in this city worked as a clerk in the day time and studied at night. Through private instruction and hard work, he soon fitted himself for entrance to the Columbia College Law School. He was a protegee of Prof. Dwight, the dean of the law school, and he became one of the librarians. He was a tutor during the last two years of the course, and continued tutoring for three years after he was graduated in the year 1882.

Mr. Erlanger was on the committee of the Dewey Celebration. He is a member of Pacific Lodge, F. & A. M., and of Mecca Temple. He is a member of the Law Institute, the Democratic Club, Washington Irving Union Club, and the Dwight Alumni Association.

He is prominent in Jewish social circles, and was one of the organizers of the Young Ladies' and Gentlemen's League of Montifore Home, a member of the United Hebrew Charities, the Young Men's Hebrew Association, Hebrew Orphan Asylum, Mount Sinai Hospital, Gemelath Chasodim Association, and of the Free Sons of Israel.

The Mystic Revelation.

BY HERMAN BERYL TANNER.

NO, they were not boy and girl, but rather young man and young woman, to be absolutely correct. But in private conversation each had often affirmed that it was best to feel like a young boy or girl when out for a little recreation. Today it seemed as if they were carrying this idea of theirs into practice.

Standing on the nearby shore, you could see that the oars were lying idly about while the row-boat itself was gliding of its own accord in a sort of lazy, listless way, quite in contrast to the vivacious and animated conversation of its occupants.

That afternoon, the lake was unusually clear of the pleasure craft with which it was generally crowded. It seemed, indeed, that chance had been favorable that day, leaving them to the seclusion and security which two young people who possess a deep feeling for each other (especially when it happens to be a boy and a girl) so naturally crave.

When the time comes for one heart to beat in responsive unison to the other, when soul is about to answer unto soul and spirit unto spirit, then does nature subdue its habitual harshness, and its rapidity of motion—everything seems to hasten to attune itself to the tender chord which is about to be struck.

And the hour—oh, how fortunate! As I peered through the cluster of trees that bordered the opposite shore of the lake, the sky was all aglow with the radiant hues of the sunset. It was a rare feast for the eye, this wonderful agglomeration of millions of variegated tints. I peered, and peered and peered—but whither! If only my eye could pierce this gorgeous mantle of the twilight! Perhaps, perhaps. But who dares to gaze with naked eye at the eternal mystery of things!

I was rudely awakened from my reverie by the slight splashing of the oars of the boat, whose occupants I had noticed before. As they drew nearer I could discern their features more clearly. It seemed as if my suspicions of the previous moment were only too true—in the faces of these two young people I was able to read the fact that both were, first of all, Jewish. And then it was not very difficult to discover also the fact that both were probably very intelligent.

For are not the ardent gleaming of the fire in a young man's beaming eyes, and the eager, sympathetic response of a young woman, signs of the divine light that animates both? Shall we not give heed to these clear manifestations of the spirit, these open secrets of the soul.

Splash—splash—splash! The soft and tender breeze was awakening to the lateness of the hour. It gathered itself together, in its might it was just strong enough to bring a slight but welcome relief to the poor denizens of the earth, who had suffered so much that day from the pitiless onsets of the sun, now sinking in all his glory in the Golden West.

The little wind, glad that he was free at last to bring comfort to the mortals below, swept down in anxious haste. With compassionate embraces he loved the feverish foreheads of the suffering men—it was always his great delight to be of some service to humanity.

Then a star arises, and the night is holy.

"Look, look! A star has appeared in the heavens!"

"Where, where!"
"There in the East! And oh, how brilliant, how celestial! Look, look; let your eyes behold this jewel of the firmament!"

"Yes, yes, but it seems that these drifting clouds will soon cover it completely."

The gloomy surface of the lake reflected the faint lustre of the hidden moon, now sunk behind heavy clouds. The clustered trees in the distance only helped to intensify that feeling of august majesty with which one is oppressed when in the presence of one of nature's miracles.

The lone star that had just made its appearance grew fainter, fainter, fainter, until it became overshadowed by a stray cloudlet that seemed to wander that way for the sole purpose of being the doom of the glistening denizens of the heavens.

"Come, let us row to the boat-house—it is so late and—quite dark," said the girl, moving closer to him, as if she feared the black shadows of the night which were about to descend.

"No; look toward the East again! Look, yonder star has risen again! How brilliant its lustre! And now no threatening clouds shall blast it! It shall shine in all its radiant glory, which no enemy will dare to withstand! See, see, whilst the other stars are struggling with the elements of darkness, this one shines by the light of its own celestial fire!"

The girl looked up into his eyes, a sort of angelic smile playing about her lips. He continued:

"Listen, dearest. Often, in the dark of night, when my feverish brow would tell of the efforts I have always made in behalf of our people, when, sometimes, I would come home to rest, after having made a passionate appeal to thousands to rally around the standard of Zion, I often felt discouraged; nay even dismayed. It seemed, indeed, as if that divine flame which coursed through the veins of every son and daughter of Judah in ancient days had almost ceased to flicker. A new light, a new radiance, however, fell upon my spirit on that pleasant evening when we first met—at a fitting place, too. I remembered distinctly how I saw a quick response in your fiery eyes as I pictured the future glory of Israel by the waters of the Jordan. I recognized a kindred spirit, and such you have been since then. And tonight—but let us look again at that single star in its awe-inspiring glory! Here is a mystic revelation! Amidst the gloom and the darkness of the rest of the world, Israel shall shed his brilliant, luminous rays, a living testimony to the eternal justice of things! Inspired and ennobled by the enduring glow of our nation's star, our children shall learn the glory of their people; yes, they will flock from the four corners of the earth to march to the hallowed soil of our Father's!"

Then the stars arose, and the night was holy. The Maccabean.

The harvest and vintage come not every day, therefore be provident.
