Jewish Activities in Palestine During 1910

By E. W. LEWIN-EPSTEIN.

The condition of the colonies depending entirely or partially on the raising of grain has improved considerably during this year. This is due, first, to the continuous improvements in the methods of the work, the colonists adopting more and more the latest and most rational methods of farming, thereby considerably increasing the yield of their soil; second, to new acquisitions of land in almost every colony; third, and chiefly, to the advance in price of grain, which was almost doubled because of the general advance in prices in other countries. Should the Turkish government reform the collection of taxes, as it is hoped for, these colonies would become exceedingly prosperous. Such colonies are: Ekron, Gadran, Kastinia, Petach Tikwah, Chedarah, Zichron, Jacok, Sedjera, Rosch Pinah, Yessod Hamaslah, Metulah, Mascha, Yema, Melchamiah and Beth Djea.

The colonies depending entirely or partly on plantations have also advanced materially very much. The advance is due primarily to the improvement in the condition of the wine industry during the past year. This year the colonists will get 25 francs for the same quantity of grapes for which they received only 15 francs a year ago. This advance in the price of grapes enables the vine growers to fertilize their vineyards and cultivate them more extensively, which will increase the yield of their vines. Aside from this, large numbers of almond and olive trees were planted in these colonies, partly in place of the destroyed vines and partly on newly-acquired soil. Many of these trees have already yielded fruit during the past year. Such colonies are: Rishon-le-Zion, Vadi Chanin, Rehoboth, Gadrah, Petach Tikwah, Chedarah, Kefer-Saba and Zichron-Jacob. The development of technical work in Palestine has introduced orange plantations, which require artificial irrigation, into several colonies (Rishon-le-Zion, Vadi Chanin and Rehoboth), where this was impossible before. The planting of oranges is very profitable in Palestine. The remarkably rapid development of Petach Tikwah, whose wealth is now estimated into many system. During my visit to Palestine last winter it was projected to provide Rishon-le-Zion also with water pipes and electricity in every house. This has made life in Palestine more pleasant and comfortable.

is especially the case in Rehoboth; where the air is very good indeed. During the past year a new element was added to our colonies, the Yemenite Jews. There are now forty families of them in Rehoboth, their own money. The Yemenite Jews come from Arabia. They speak Hebrew and Arabic and are diligent workers. Ere long they will send their children to our schools, where they will receive the same training as the children of the colonists, so that they will all form one community. The Yemenites are very devout Jews.

No new colonies were founded this year with the exception of Kinereth, a large farm founded by the Palestine Land Development Company, with the assistance of the National Fund, which employs many Jewish laborers. It is hoped that these laborers will become independent Zionists by and by. Work has also begun preparing the land for the co-operative colony of Dr. Oppenheimer, which was named "Merhabiah." A large number of new olive trees were planted this year in the Herzl forest. The Agudath Netaim obtained its charter from the Turkish government, and is continuing to cover new land with all kinds of plants. Thus more and more of the arid Palestinian soil is being reclaimed to new life. An organization of Moscow Jews began to cultivate a tract of land purchased by them and named "Afula." This company, however, has met with some difficulties. I hope that the difficulties will soon be removed and a new Jewish colony will arise on its land. Should we consider "Rafia" as part of Eretz Israel, then our possessions there have increased with about twenty thousand dunams of land, which is under the protection of Egypt. Mr. Aronson has already opened his agricultural experiment station and is at the same time lecturing on agriculture in the various colonies.

Jewish immigration into the cities of Palestine is much more evident. Wealthy Jews from Russia are visiting Palestine in large numbers. It is true that not all of them find the possibilities in Palestine which they anticipated, but many of them who are more enthusiastic and whose de-millions, is due to its adaptation for orange plantation. The technical development of the country has also made it possible to provide the colonies of Rehoboth, Gadrah and Ekron with a modern water supply

Each colony was also enriched by many more stone buildings during the year, and many wealthy Jews are building mansions in one colony or another, which they choose as a resort for some part of the year. This ten of which were presented with dwellings through the efforts of a special committee of the colonists. The remaining families have already saved enough from their earnings to build houses for themselves with sire to settle there is strong succeed in finding various activities and they settle there. These Jews who have been used to a life of comfort in Europe, have joined some of the old settlers and have founded a new suburb—a new town really—near Jaffa, which they named Tel-Abib. This town, built on the American style, inasmuch as it sprang out as if by magic one year of the sand of the seashore, is very beautiful. It is well planned, has wide paved streets lined with trees; every house is fitted up with water pipes and bath rooms, and they are built in a specific Oriental style, surrounded by a garden. It is in all something of which the Jews in Palestine are justly proud of. The Arabs and the European Christians were astonished at the remarkable achievement of the Jews, and their envy is real. All the residents of Jaffa, Christians as well as Mohammedans, take their holiday walks in Tel-Abib. The gates of this suburb are closed on Saturdays to prevent the entrance of vehicles, although the majority of its inhabitants are not religious, but the Jewish Sabbath is accepted by all as a holy day of rest. The atmosphere in Tel-Abib is naturally entirely Jewish, and the Hebrew language, in its beautiful Oriental accent, is heard on every side. On the main street, the Herzl street, that leads to the sea, was built the Gymnasia Ibrith (the Hebrew High School) of Jaffa, a fine building in Oriental style. A corner stone was recently laid in the same suburb for a large synagogue, which will be owned by the Jewish community of Jaffa. Tel-Abib was built through the assistance of our National Fund, which granted a loan for this purpose of about a quarter of a million of francs, to be repaid with interest in installments. A similar suburb is now being built, with the help of the National Fund, in close proximity to Tel-Abib. Jerusalem, too, got a few new Jewish suburbs around the old town, built mainly by newcomers. Of this I mention the Teachers' street, which was built by Jewish teachers for their personal use with the help of "Hilfsverein" of Germany. In Haifa, also, lots are being acquired by Jews for building purposes around the site of the Jewish Technical Institute and a suburb on the plan of Tel-Abib is projected there.

The industry in Jewish hands is developing slowly. The laws of Turkey and the poverty of the native Arabs are not at all favorable for a rapid industrial growth of the country. The tariff on imported goods is very low, there are no well-developed manufacturing establishments, and therefore the local industry cannot successfully compete with the imported goods. Nevertheless, the industries are developing in proportion to the increase of the Jewish population. In and near Jaffa there were lately established several factories for the production of olive oil, soap and for the repairing of agricultural and mechanical implements. The same industries are also springing up in Haifa, where the Jewish population is yet very small. In Jerusalem, the Bezalel Trade and Art School has developed very satisfactorily. Its rug department was enlarged for the manufacture of very large rugs. The silver and filigree work, as well as brass work, advanced considerably, and this branch is now employing more than triple the number of workingmen than in the preceding year. This year the Bezalel established, near Lud, on the land and with the help of the National Fund, a small colony of Yemen Jews engaged in the work of silver and brass articles for Bezalel. This colony is a little garden city, half city and half village. Each workingman gets a tract of land on which he raises vegetables and flowers, thereby enabling his wife and daughters to assist him in earning a livelihood. The husband also helps in the field work, which reacts very favorably upon his physical development. Aside from this the Bezalel—which cannot accommodate as large a number of workingmen as it could employ in its various branches—is now giving out raw material to its graduates to work out at home and they are paid for by Bazelel. Thus, there are now many families in Jerusalem who live on what they earn from working at home for Bezalel.

Commerce is developing among the Jews in Palestine very nicely. Many of the new-comers are placing themselves in business relations with their native countries in Europe and America and establishing entirely new lines of business. There has increased especially the number of Jewish drug stores, book stores, modern printing plants, stores of ready-made clothing and barber shops on the European style. All these were naturally established for the needs of the Europeans and are patronized almost entirely by them. The Anglo-Palestine Company is of vital importance to all these new undertakings, as well as to many of the old ones. The business of our bank is constantly increasing, and with it increases its activity for the development of commerce in Palestine. This year the bank opened a new branch in Safed. According to latest information, this branch is doing very well and will probably cover its expenses during its first year. It may, therefore, be hoped that this branch will help to improve the material condition of the Jews in this ancient city. During the last year the Anglo-Palestine Company did very well, and is about to declare a dividend of over 4 per cent., aside from reserve funds.

During the last year a number of new schools and kindergartens were opened. Many of the old style schools and Talmud Torahs that have previously objected to the Ibrith B'Ibrith method have now begun to introduce this natural and modern method of teaching, and the sound of Hebrew in the Sephardic accent in the mouths of the children is full of life. The children induce their parents to talk to them in Hebrew, the language which they understand best. The kindergartens have really made Hebrew a living language in Palestine. This is also much evident in the business world. The German bank in Palestine deemed it necessary to print its annual report and balance sheet in Hebrew, and its bank is pure German, established not by lovers of Israel.

The last year is also the first year for the entrance of Jewish young men in the Turkish army. It is to be regretted that not many were ready to do their duty to their country and government, but one who knows even but few of the causes that prevent them from doing it, as, for instance, the poor physical conditions in which the Turkish soldier is placed in the barracks, and the ignorance of the Jewish young man of the Turkish language, which is used in the army (our young men understand Arabic, which is the language of Palestine) he will not wonder that not more than forty answered the call for military service. But they who came did so gladly and readily, and they are good soldiers. One of them was promoted within a very short time to the rank of sergeant, and the officers are very much pleased with them. This is then the first time, after two thousand years, that Jewish soldiers in Palestine stand ready to give their lives for the protection of that country.

The Result of My Patriotic Poem.

By JACOB BOSNICK.

It was in the winter of 19—, on one of the short and dreary days of March. We—that is, I and a few friends of mine—were sitting in the house of one of us; and, as usual, were chatting, or reading some book or newspaper.

That winter marks the beginning of two historical events in Russia; that is, the Russian-Japanese War and the revolution. The war, taking place in the Far East, in Manchuria, affected us, the inhabitants of the western provinces of the Russian Empire, directly but very little. Indirectly, however, the effect was very great. For manufacture and commerce, on which the existence of a great many people depends, were entirely paralyzed with the first shot on the battlefield. The revolution, on the other hand, affected us directly. For with its beginning the towns and cities were filled with spies; and no one, especially a young man who had some reputation of intelligence, was safe from being accused, one day or another, as a revolutionist, and cast into prison.

Such were the conditions of the land at that time. We boys of sixteen or seventeen naturally liked very much to talk about the revolutionists, their courageous deeds, secret societies, illegal literature and, what was most fascinating, their purpose. We had some vague idea that there is "freedom" in America; and it was said that the purpose of the revolutionists is "to bring freedom" also in this country.

Our source for news of the revolution and the war was the daily newspaper which reached us regularly every afternoon and which we read very diligently, not omitting a single line. But, unfortunately, we found in our newspaper very little of the kind of news we liked best. For we perfectly understood—the government would not allow people to know all about the war and the revolution. The paper was filled up instead with reports and descriptions of misery and disaster, which were explained as the result of the war.

It was on one of those afternoons, after having read through the entire newspaper, and being deeply moved by the descriptions of misery and disaster, that I was struck with the idea to write a poem for the "mere" purpose of stirring up the Russian people in order to crush the Japanese and make an end to the war as soon as possible.* I sat down immediately to write the poem, and asked my friends not to disturb me. "For," I said to them, "I am going to write something of great importance."

After a few hours of intense work I completed my poem of five stanzas of four lines each. The first stanza ran as follows:

"Awake, ye sons of Russia!

*Here I must remark that at the beginning of the war the question of victory for Russia was simply a question of time. For nobody ever dreamed that "Russia the lion would be defeated by Japan the lamb."

Awake from your deep sleep.

Take arms in hand

To defend your land."

To describe my feelings after having my poem completed is impossible for me. I read it again and again, while my head was busy imagining my great success. I fancied the poem printed in one of the great magazines and then reprinted in all the newspapers of the land. I fancied crowds of people on the market-places reciting my poem and showering praises on its author. From the battlefields of Manchuria I could almost hear the voices of the generals reciting my poem before groups of soldiers; and the latter becoming brave, courageous, animated, enthusiastic; and—and—

As I was thus reveling in my sweet fancies the door opened, and a tall, stout peasant, of about the age of forty, Nicholas by name, entered the room. After a hasty glance at the company around the table, he greeted us in a rough voice, "Good evening, Japanese!"

This greeting of his shocked me. I, the author of this great patriotic poem, to be called Japanese—meaning enemy, stranger—by this ignorant peasant. I determined at once, foolishly enough, to convince him that I was more of a Russian than he.

"Listen to me," I said to him. "You say that I am a stranger and you are a Russian. Just tell me, what do you know about Russia? I know its language, literature, history and geography. Here is a great poem," I added with pride, "which I myself have just written. But you know nothing of these things. I dare say that you do not know the name of the Tsar."

This argument had some effect on him. He remained silent and thoughtful. But after a few minutes he boldly stepped forward, and said:

"Now, listen to me. I will ask you a few questions. What is the reason that the Tsar does not allow you to possess 'fields' or to live in a village? What is the reason that the Tsar does not allow you to come to St. Petersburg and many other cities? This is because the Tsar knows that you are a Japanese, a stranger, an enemy. But I—"

I could not hear the rest of his argument. His true words pierced through my heart, and I grew so excited that I lost myself entirely. I jumped to my feet, seized the poem and tore it in pieces, while saying distinctly: "Cursed be the Tsar for such laws."

The peasant did not answer any more. He stooped and picked up from the floor a few pieces of my torn poem; and, with a fiendish smile

Weight Increased, Indigestion Cured; 68 Years Old.

Mr. Jacob Raab, Civil war veteran heartily recommends this wonderful tonic stimulant and medicine.

"Will say that for the past five years I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for indigestion and other stomach troubles, and have had great relief from its use, and can highly recommend it to any one suffering from the above ailments. I am a 'civil war veteran,' aged 68 years. Since using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey have gained in flesh and weight, and my doctor says that I am good for many years yet." Jacob Raab, 22 Perrine ave., Jersey City, N. J.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

the world's greatest tonic and stimulant when taken just before a meal stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, causing a sufficient flow of the gastric juice to digest the food. If continued it will cure the diseased or weakened function by its tonic and stimulating effect. It also excites the flow of saliva for the digestion of starchy food, preventing fermentation in the stomach and bowels.

It is a most wonderful remedy in the prevention and cure of dysentery, cramps, cholera, congestion, diarrhoea, chills, fevers, heat prostrations and all other summer complaints.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American War.

Sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct. $1.00 a large bottle. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free.

on his lips, he left the room.

By this time my excitement was a little over. I noticed my friends looking very troubled. I began to realize the situation; and, without saying a word to my friends, I left the house, tired, dejected and broken in spirit.

On that same evening, about 10 o'clock, a messenger brought the following note:

"Dear Sir—We are informed by Nicholas the peasant that you are a revolutionist. Half an hour later the police will surprise your house to arrest you and confiscate all your books and written papers they may find. Please destroy by fire all kinds of illegal literature you have; and save yourself by hiding in one of the houses of the town. Do not venture to go out in the street till further notice. In case you are found, we must do our duty and arrest you."

"A. BREGOFF,
Chief of Police in G.

P. S.—I am glad that I can now be of some service to you, in recompense for all the favors I received from your family."

Now everything was clear to me. I began to feel the result of my patriotic poem. I went over to a neighbor, explained to him the matter, and he kindly permitted me to make his barn my hiding place. After a few weeks of living in the barn, which closely resembled the Russian prison, I received the second and final note from the chief of police:

"Dear Sir—I received to-day strict orders from the government to do all in my power in order to have you arrested. I have already dispatched orders to the neighboring towns to look for you there. To-night I will surprise your house again.

"As to your future, I do not see any means of saving you from prison or cold Siberia. You are regarded as a very important revolutionist. For, besides the sworn affidavit by Nicholas the peasant that you cursed the Tsar, he submitted to the police a scrap of paper with the following lines:

Admiral Togo said that he would convey the Mayor's thanks personally to His Imperial Majesty.

Berlin merchants sent a petition to the Imperial Chancellor, asking him, in the interest of German trade, to approach the other Powers with the view of presenting a common memorandum to the Russian Government, requesting the removal of the prohibition order against foreign Jews desirous to come to Russia. It is pointed out in the petition that while the efforts of individual powers would possibly be unavailing, the united efforts of the Powers might be effectual.

Great excitement has been aroused in St. Petersburg by an intimation, believed to have emanated from authoritative circles, to the effect that the anti-Semitic resolution approved by the Tsar will shortly make itself strongly felt. In addition to strengthening the anti-Semitic laws of domicile, Jews will be restricted in commerce, the chief occupation of our Russian co-religionists. According to some reports, banking houses alone will be included in the new law. It is also reported that grave differences have arisen between the Premier and the Minister of Commerce in connection with the resolution.

The Russian Liberal organs give wide publicity to an appeal of M. V. Medes, a labor leader, to the working classes. He appears to have recognized the intentions of the government to carry the elections by means of an anti-Semitic agitation, and he, therefore, calls upon all workmen to shake off their anti-Semitic prejudices artificially planted in them by means of worthless, libelous statements and accusations against the Jews, and to prevent another reactionary triumph such as that witnessed in 1905, when the revolution was crushed by means of pogroms. He invites the laborers to enter on an active campaign against the anti-Semites.

The prizes went to Tessie Maler and John Fuchs.

Chief Rabbi Adler Dead.

LONDON, July 18.—Chief Rabbi Hermann Adler died early this morning.

Hermann Adler, who was chief rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregations of the British Empire, was born in the city of Hanover on May 30, 1839, and was the second son of Nathan Marcus Adler.

Hermann Adler studied in Prague and Leipzig between 1860 and 1862, devoting especial attention to theology and the Talmud. In 1862 he received the degree of Ph. D. at Leipzig and next year Chief Rabbi Rapoport, of Prague, conferred upon him the Hattarat Horaah.

In 1863 Dr. Adler became principal of the Jews' College, an institution for which, like his father, he always entertained a special regard. Though he was appointed minister of the Bayswater Synagogue in 1864, he remained the tutor of theology in Jews' College until 1879, when he relinquished his active duties there. However, he did not entirely sever his connection with the college, for when Sir Barrow Ellis died, in 1887, he was unanimously elected chairman of the council, and at his election as chief rabbi in 1891 he became president of the institution.

When in 1879 advancing age compelled his father, the chief rabbi, to delegate to another some of his most onerous duties, Dr. Adler became his deputy, and when his father died in 1890 he was unanimously elected to succeed him in June, 1891.

Dr. Adler held many honorary offices in the community and in addition to being president of Jews' College has been president of Aria College, president of the Jewish Historical Society, president of the Jewish Religious Educational Board and of the Anglo-Jewish Association.

Among his literary efforts were "Sermons on the Biblical Passages Adduced by Christian Theologians in Support of the Dogmas of Their Faith," "Ibn Gabriol and His Relation to Scholastic Philosophy," "Jewish Reply to Bishop Colenso" and various Sabbath readings published by the Jewish Association for the Promotion of Religious Knowledge.

Dr. Adler's seventieth birthday celebration in May, 1909, was a great event in English Jewish circles and he was the recipient of many tokens and testimonials, one being from English Jews resident in America.

Of late Dr. Adler has been in several controversies, and these, coupled with the untimely death of his only son last year, filled his heart with grief and undoubtedly hastened the end.

Solomon Neumann Camp Observers Herzl's Yahrzeit.

A large audience attended the Dr. Herzl memorial meeting, held Sunday, July 16, at Clinton Hall, under the auspices of the Dr. Solomon Neumann Camp of the Order Sons of Zion. Mr. S. Chait presided. Most of the speakers had met Dr. Herzl personally and paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the great Zionist leader. Leon Zolotkoff pointed to the beautiful fragrance Dr. Herzl's mind has left behind, Reuben Brainin portrayed in vivid colors the psychological development of Herzl from assimilation to Zionism, while Dr. Joseph Zeff illustrated his tact and wisdom in dealing with men. Other speakers were: Dr. Jacob Tarlau, Dr. Solomon Neumann and Dr. I. Bluestone.

Cantor I. Schramek made the "Haskoroh" in the most impressive way, and the Hauben children played the Hatikvah.

Selections from Dr. Herzl's writings were read by Dr. Tarlau and Dr. William Neumann. A collection was taken for the National Fund.

Chaplain Blum's Visitation.

Visiting Chaplain A. Blum will visit the New York City Sanatorium for Tuberculous patients at Otisville, Orange County, on the 25th inst. This will be the first time that a Jewish minister has visited this institution to hold services and the 120 Jewish patients are making preparations for the event.

Chaplain Blum has just returned from visits to the New York State Sanatorium for Consumptives at Ray Brook, the Utica State Hospital, the Rome State Hospital and the Craig Colony for Epileptics at Sonyea.

Plans were filed in the Building Department last week for the construction of an addition to the hospital of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum. It is to be of brick, two stories high, 41x50 in size, and to cost $10,000.

In the village of Ellenville, in the Shawangunk Range of the Catskill Mountains, is located a spring, described by the owners as containing "The purest water in the world." The water of this famous spring is offered to the public under the name of "Sun Ray," a title selected because of the inimitable brilliancy and sparkle which the water shows, flashing back the rays of the sun as though it were itself of kindred nature with them.

Sun Ray is sold as a pure water—pre-eminently pure. It makes no claims to medicinal qualities, but justly lays claim to all the hygienic virtues belonging to pure water, a beverage generally unknown to the average city dweller.

Sun Ray water is bottled at the spring only, in the most complete bottling establishment in the world. The building is equipped with the most improved bottling machinery and the methods have been passed upon by the most competent sanitary experts. It is put up in various sizes, both still and sparkling, and is sold in all the principal hotels, restaurants, cafes and generally by dealers. Full information may be obtained at the New York office, corner of Thirty-fourth street and Broadway.

Sun Ray ginger ale, which is made from Sun Ray water, has been pronounced by connoisseurs superior to any other, imported or domestic.

PERFECTION ATTAINED.

For many years of experimenting the expenditure of great sums of money it has been proven that a perfectly pure, perfectly pasteurized bottled beer is possible, and the first brewery to demonstrate it to the satisfaction of the public is the Peter Doelger "First Prize" Brewery. Rather a coincidence; the first prize brewer of good beer should be the first to place a perfectly pasteurized bottle beer on the market. It should be remembered that in the past Peter Doelger, whose great brewery occupies the entire block from Fifty-fifth street to Fifty-sixth street, between First Avenue and Avenue A, confined his business to brewing beer for sale in bulk only; that is, in kegs and barrels. It was known as the first prize beer because the brewery was awarded the medal of distinction in competition with other brewers, and at the time showed the most advanced methods of brewing that won for Peter Doelger everlasting fame, and he was content to rest on his laurels and his reputation for producing a good lager beer, which he has done ever since.

During recent years brewers have sought to introduce into the homes of the people their own beers of known quality, and in order to be able to guarantee their genuineness were obliged to install and maintain a bottling plant of their own at the brewery, and the watchwords, or battle cry, "Bottled at the brewery" was their magnetic way of attracting customers and retaining them because the brewery must stand by its products and to do so must use the best methods of bottling; but in the past the best methods were not the perfect methods and it was not until perfection of sterilization and pasteurization was possible that Peter Doelger could be induced to enter the field of competition in bottled beers. Just as some years ago he took the prize for brewing good beer he has, after only two months' actual business with "first prize" bottled beer, gone to the head of the procession by being able to offer the first scientifically bottled beer that is hygienically pure and positively free from any deleterious substances or odors that formerly made the drinking of bottled beer a disagreeable task.

Mr. Doelger has erected a most perfect sanitary beer bottling plant, not one single point known to modern science in sanitary construction or appliances having been overlooked in order to produce an absolutely pure, clean, mild beer. He has built what is undoubtedly one of the finest, most extensive and best equipped beer bottling establishments in the United States, if not in the whole world.

The machinery used in the Peter Doelger establishment is of the very latest design—the culmination, in fact, of human ingenuity in this line of constructive endeavor. To watch it in operation is an inspiration as well as a revelation of the wonderful inventive powers of man.

Strange as it may seem, from its very first stage of bottling to the last the use of the very latest sterile mechanical devices makes human contact impossible; not a hand touches the contents at any time.

It is certainly a wonderful education to witness this marvelous machinery in operation—to see the employes in their pure white suits and caps—to see the beautiful white tiling and the scrupulously clean floors—of this great brewery. Every one should inspect it—they will receive a most courteous welcome from the management, a welcome that will long be remembered; and, having seen the perfect hygienic method employed, it will help visitors to enjoy a bottle of Peter Doelger's inimitable beer all the more.

That the Peter Doelger First Prize Bottled Beer should have met with such a hearty reception by the public and endeared itself to the trade supplying this beer in the homes of the people is largely due to the initiative, perseverance, pluck and ability of Mr. Edward Schott, who is in direct charge of the management and selling end of the bottling department of the Peter Doelger brewery. Mr. Schott is one of our coreligionists, the only one we know of occupying such a position in this city.

Edward Schott, whose photograph is here reproduced, was born in New York

January 12, 1874, on the east side of this city. He was graduated from Public School No. 183. His occupation was that of a salesman until 1906, when he became manager of the malt extract department of the Ebling Brewing Company, where he was associated with Dr. Jean A. Blaise, of the Pasteur Institute, one of the best known authorities on pasteurization in America, and with whom he studied the science of bottling. Dr. Blaise is now the brewmaster of the Peter Doelger brewery, and in connection with Mr. Schott is responsible for the purest brew of beer in the purest bottles that ever entered the homes of the people.

Mr. Schott's peculiar fitness for the position was amply demonstrated at a banquet given at the brewery last Thursday afternoon for the Family Wine and Liquor Dealers and representatives of the press, which really proved an ovation for Mr. Schott, whose popularity was attested by rounds of applause from the 800 guests assembled. Mr. Schott believes in aggressively but truthfully advertising the merits of Peter Doelger's beer so that it may be consumed in the home, and his talent has met with the prompt recognition of the public for this perfect beverage—a success unparalleled in a two months' campaign that has already taxed the capacity of the brewery and made it necessary to add a number of modern electric trucks for the delivery of the bottled beer to the trade and also necessitates the increase of machinery.

Withal Mr. Schott is a modest man, but proud of his Judaism and the esteem in which he is held by his employers. He is a general favorite in semi-commercial clubs. He was president of the Commercial Travelers' Auxillary of the National Pharmaceutical Society and is a "life" member, and as such was prominently identified with legislative action for the betterment of conditions in the trade and the relations of pharmacists and their employes. He is one of the vice-presidents of the Long Island Drug Club, a member of the Friars' Club and Templar Lodge, No. 203, F. and A. M.***

Jewish Topics at the Universal Races Congress—Amended Shops' Bill to Settle Jewish Troubles—Aftermath of Ministers' Conference—Ica Annual Meeting—Jewish Actress in London Interviewed—A Conversationist Story—Jews in Morocco.

London, July 7, 1911.

One of the most remarkable of the many conferences of this year will be that of the Universal Races Congress, the object of which is "to discuss, in the light of science and the modern conscience, the general relations existing between the peoples of the West and those of the East, between so-called white and so-called colored peoples, with a view to encouraging between them a fuller understanding, more friendly feelings and a heartier co-operation."

Whatever the immediate apparent result the promoters are full of hope that the congress will be of extraordinary interest and value. The list of the writers of papers includes eminent representatives of over twenty civilizations, and every paper referring to a peculiar people is prepared by some one of high standing belonging to that people. Anthropology, sociology, economics, geographic conditions, miscegenation, language and religion as consolidating and separating influences, ethics, government, law, agriculture, science and art all enter into the programme, and the volume of papers which will be published should prove a valuable encyclopaedia on race questions. Mr. Zangwill will speak on Jewish racial questions.

The British Home Secretary, Winston Churchill, has drafted a number of new clauses to the shops' bill in order to meet weighty objections which have been advanced. Jewish shopkeepers will find much to gratify them in these new provisions. It will be remembered that the Sunday closing clauses of the bill before these alterations permitted Jewish shopkeepers to open till 2 p. m. on Sunday provided they served only Jewish customers and employed only Jewish assistance in addition. The local authorities were given the right of allowing non-Jewish shopkeepers to trade on Sunday if their trade was prejudiced by the Jewish concession, and in that case the special conditions attached to Jewish shops which kept open were wiped away. Winston Churchill's new proposals outlined definite areas in London where trading on Sunday by Jews and others will be permitted up till 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and fresh districts can be added at any time by the home secretary. This has therefore substituted geographical for racial division. Practically the areas are very largely those particularly working class districts where a Sunday morning market has become a feature.

Jewish and non-Jewish trade rivalry is very properly destroyed by these new provisions, and the only trouble now is as to whether small outlying colonies of Jewish traders will be able to get also their local small district proclaimed an exempted area. Kilburn, for example, is a strong Jewish quarter in London, and no provision is made for the exemption of any part of that borough as yet.

The recent Ministers' Conference has resulted in the formation of a standing committee, but that the feeling within the committee is not on the whole harmonious may be gathered from the fact that already there has been a batch of important resignations.

Interesting reports are furnished of the annual meeting of the Jewish Colonization Association in Paris on July 2. Vice-President Philippson took the chair, owing to the illness of President Leven, and gave a very interesting story of the origin and work of the Ica. He pointed out that colonies already existing in the Argentine situate in the three provinces of Buenos Ayres, Entre Rios and Santa Fe, and comprising an area of more than half a million hectares, were inhabited on September 30, 1910, by 3,777 families, or a total population of 21,115 souls. The increase has been gradual. At the end of 1897 the population of the colonies was 7,015, in 1901 still only 7,551 and 7,711 in 1903. Then the population rose to 11,974 in 1906, 15,771 in 1908 and 19,361 at December 31, 1909. Particularly at first there were numerous fluctuations, owing to the colonists often leaving their plots of land. Of the 1,333 colonists installed in 1891 there were only left 1,023 at the end of the first year; 81 new installations in 1892, 191 in 1893 and 496 in 1894, nevertheless only left 1,021 colonists at the beginning of 1895. There were only 833 of them in 1898. Then their numbers begin to rise—1,082 in 1901, 1,130 in 1903, 1,448 in 1907, 1,975 in 1909 and 2,103 last year. These figures do not merely show the constant progress of colonies during the last six years, but they also conclusively prove that the increase has not been a fictitious one by the replacing of new for old colonists. The 2,103 colonists form, with their families, a population of 14,289 souls, but together with them there live 1,205 other families, comprising 6,826 souls, who came at their own cost, without any assistance, and now earn their living by the cultivation of the soil on the colonies. These agricultural laborers become more numerous every year. There were in 1904 only 836 of them all told. A year later there were 2,195, at the end of 1907 3,065; in 1909, 5,954.

Earlier troubles have been avoided very largely by now recruiting those families in Russia with some knowledge of agriculture, and therefore considerable improvement has been recorded. All sorts of speculators came down and induced the colonists to claim their title deeds by offering to advance the necessary money for the anticipated repayment of the annuities still due to the association. We do not know the conditions which they offered to the colonists, but it may be permitted to presume that they were not particularly advantageous to the latter. Once their land is sold we should have seen the Jewish colonists turning toward the towns and entering into commerce, so that efforts for the last twenty years would have been lost. In order to protect the colonists against the speculators who intended to exploit them the council has made to them large advances when they were short of money for the purchase of cattle.

Mme. Malvina Lobel, the great Yiddish actress who is now playing across here, when asked to explain the curious fact that while in New York there are half a dozen theatres and twice as many music halls which flourish exceedingly on the production of Yiddish programmes all the year round, London has so far failed to show its ability to sustain one theatre devoted entirely to the Yiddish stage, said: "Circumstances are not the same. In New York I think the Jews take the study of Yiddish rather more seriously. In the States there are many very successful Yiddish theatres, some of the concerns as large as the biggest American theatres. We seem to attract all classes of Jews, for they come from the other districts as well as from the more particularly Jewish quarter, in which the theatre is situated. If we drew our audiences entirely from the East Side district, what might be likened to your East End quarter over here, I fancy we should have as great a difficulty in making both ends meet as any venture of Yiddish drama seems to have in London."

Questioned as to what difference she saw between English and American audiences in the Yiddish theatres, Mme. Lobel replied that she thought in the States the audiences had been educated up to a higher standard.

"They have learned to distinguish between good and bad drama, and they are just as keen to notice artistic and other defects in new Yiddish plays as is the ordinary American house. It will not do for a producer to put on anything, and they expect not only the best plays, but the best artists also. It is undeniable that New York possesses the pick of the Yiddish stage, and although many of the 'stars' tour, not only in other parts of America, but in Russia, Austria and other continental countries, they make their home in New York.

TO YOU—MY SISTER Free to You and Every Sister Suffering from Woman's Ailments.

I am a woman. I know woman's sufferings. I have found the cure. I will mail free of any charge, my best-kept secret with full instructions to any sufferer from woman's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—yes, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is safe and sure cure for Leucorrhoea or Whitish discharges, Uterine Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors, or Growths; also pains in head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, cramping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney, and bladder troubles where caused by weaknesses peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete ten day's treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that, if it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you do not feel better in ten days, you may return the book to me. I will send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Stickness and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in young Ladies, Plumptions and health always results from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this home treatment really cures all women's diseases, and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten day's treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address: MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box 248, South Bend, Ind., U. S. which sees the production of all their new plays."

Another sidelight on conversionism was given in an assault case in a London police court last week. Harry Weinberg, a Dutch Jew, was charged with assaulting Hyman Coren, assistant missionary attached to the Presbyterian Hebrew Christian Association. Weinberg had embraced Christianity and had sent out circulars to Christian ladies in which he offered Scriptural texts printed in Germany for 2 shillings (50 cents) each. He laid stress on the fact that he was a converted Jew and in consequence unable to earn a living because Orthodox Jews were "dead against him." Some one had referred to the association, which had replied that the defendant had no right to use its name. On June 25 defendant called at Georgeyard, where the mission had a hall, and after some words with Coren struck him on the mouth. Defendant in answer to the charge said the Hebrew Christian missions were all against him because he had published an article showing that it cost more to convert a Jew to Christianity than to convert a heathen. He was fined $5.

On the occasion of King Alfonso's journey to Melilla, in much-discussed Morocco, in January, the Jews residing in Melilla presented a petition to Senor Canalejas, the premier, protesting against being excluded from participation in the municipal administration of Melilla on account of their race and creed. The Premier promised to remedy this and he has kept his word. A royal order has just been issued proclaiming the emancipation of the Jews in Melilla who, in addition to becoming naturalized Moors, may in future form part of the corporation of the town. The Spanish Liberal press hails this decree as putting an end to an historical anachronism unworthy of our times.

The Jewish physicians in Palestine are being urged to unite for their mutual advantage. Why not?

Soon Tisha b'Ab will be here. And right after the fast winter will blow the first blast on his horn. So Tisha b'Ab marks the end of the heated term.

New York is indeed the greatest Jewish community in the world to-day. There is even a Spaniolli (Spanish-Yiddish) newspaper published in this city. And we must not forget that this journal has but a limited circle of readers to appeal to.

It is a strange commentary on the life and labors of Leopold Loew, the scholarly rabbi and Hugarian patriot, that, in these days of the centennial celebration of his birth, anti-Semitism has become recrudescant in the country in which he labored with such success.

Our Yiddish stage, having succeeded in securing permanent foothold here, is looking for other worlds to conquer. Jacob Adler was recently in London, where he was greeted as the Jewish Sir Henry Irving. And Mme. Malvina Lobel, also historically active in the English metropolis in these days, is dubbed the Yiddish Sarah Bernhardt. Truly, the Yiddish stage has an abundant supply of great actors and actresses.

The net results of the recent elections in Galicia are distinctly disappointing. With only two, or a possible three, deputies of avowed Jewish principles chosen for the Reichsrat, the riots cost the lives of twenty-four persons in Drohobycz alone. Without favoring a "non possumus" policy, for Galicia at all events, we strongly incline to the belief that the political game in question was not worth the candle.

Anglo-Jewry observed George V's coronation with the usual loyalty which has always distinguished British Jews. Nearly every synagogue had a special service on Coronation Day. And yet we read that the congregants did not crowd the edifices to hear the traditional prayer and chant of praise for the earthly monarch. They were probably too busily occupied with the Horse Guards, the "Beef Eaters" and the "mixed pickles" from the colonies overseas, who formed an extremely interesting part in the gay procession.

Our friend, the Rev. Meldola de Sola, of Montreal, who is still residing temporarily in London, said in the course of a recently published letter:

"In an Orthodox service the prayers and the reading of the Torah are the essentials, the sermon simply an accessory; and if we are to base our opinion on some of the sermons inflicted upon long-suffering congregations it is an accessory that might well be dispensed with in certain instances. * * * To address the Deity in supplication or in praise on behalf of a congregation is an infinitely more sacred duty than to preach a sermon or read an essay."

Mr. de Sola puts the matter with his usual incisiveness. His opinion has long been ours.

We are glad to adopt the opinion of The Jewish Exponent to the effect that "the learned professions (in this country), except the ministry, are all overcrowded, and the congestion is increasing with each graduation period." This is undoubtedly true, and we are surprised to find that Jews, appreciating the condition of existing affairs, do not provide a larger number of recruits for the rabbinate than they do. There is this much to be said, however. While there are, undoubtedly, more rabbinical positions than rabbis, the pulpits of prominence, of importance, are all filled and in a manner that suggests a long lapse of time before vacancies will occur. If our young men entered the ministry because of a sincere call to engage in it as a life work, this condition would not operate as a deterring force. Unfortunately, at times we see evidences that the Jewish ministry is not above commercialization, that the Torah is used as a spade to dig with. Whether the Orthodox or the Reformed ministers are offenders in this particular we naturally forbear to say. We believe, however, that little or no fault can be found with Orthodox ministers, if simply because their work brings less material reward. What Judaism in America needs is a large contingent of young, purposeful men, imbued with a sincere love of our faith and its traditions, and determined to preach it and act it at every season.

WE MOURN HIS LOSS.

THE death, last Tuesday morning in London, of the Very Rev. Hermann Adler, Ph.D., LL.D., D.C.L., C.V.O., chief rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregations of the British Empire, was not altogether unexpected. Dr. Adler was in the seventy-third year of his age, and latterly he had suffered cruelly from Schicksalsschlage. He has gone to his eternal reward, leaving behind him the memory of a career of vast usefulness and dignity, a life well spent in the service of the God of Israel. Peace to his memory!

Dr. Adler was uncompromisingly faithful to the every requirement or traditional Judaism. His scholarship was ripe and broad and his religious leadership of his community all that could be desired. A preacher of marked brilliancy, he took an active and sincere interest in all that affected the Jews of England, and even permitted himself to be absorbed by the consideration of matters of public moment of interest to every Englishman.

We have said he worthily represented the Jewish community of England. This he did for upward of forty years, first as delegate chief rabbi, and, for the last twenty years, as the responsible occupant of that exalted office. He sought so to guide his people as to make them at once thorough and sincere Jews and thorough and sincere Englishmen. He had the whole-souled admiration and respect of all with whom he came into contact.

The last year of Dr. Adler's life was clouded with grief and disappointment. Besides losing his only son through death he was the storm-centre of the controversy which raged about his evidence before the English divorce commission. There, as in all his public acts and work, he endeavored to square what his conscience as a Jew demanded with what his duty as a loyal subject of the king required. In this he succeeded, not without, however, evoking much criticism for his attitude.

Whether he will have a successor, and who this successor will be, are questions which cannot be answered in this hour. The future holds the solution in its lap, and the future may be trusted to solve this problem.

We mourn sincerely the loss of this loyal Jew, this faithful servant of his Maker!

WE HOPE NOT!

IN one of our contemporaries we read that at the annual convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, at St. Paul, this year

"An amendment was offered which must lie over for a year, providing that the annual meetings be held one week after Passover. The constitution now provides that the annual meetings shall be held in July, and it is believed that April weather would be more comfortable."

Of course, we sympathize with our friends, the Reformed rabbis, in their desire to escape, after next summer at all events, the rigors of our climate during July and August. At St. Paul, as indeed all over the country, the first week of July produced a sample of what American summer weather can be if it chooses to display its prowess.

But, in connection with the proposed amendment, we hold a brief for the lay multitudes of our community, and for the thousands of readers whom we and the other Jewish weeklies of this country serve. We seriously object to any change in our summer enjoyments. From year to year we have looked forward to the "annual picnic" of the Reformed rabbis as affording us abundant opportunity to regale our constituency with variegated examples of rabbinical learning, humor and eloquence. Passover finds us otherwise busily occupied. Midsummer is the ideal season of the year for the "annual picnic."

Why do the Reformed rabbis seek to alter the time for their annual meetings? We fancy we detect in this attempt the expression of a spirit of trade-unionism. At Passover the rabbis in attendance upon a conference would deprive their congregations of the weekly sermons to which they rightly look forward with so much pleasure and to hear which they literally crowd Reformed synagogues on the Sabbaths to the doors. At midsummer the Reformed "temples" lie fallow; the religion dispensed in them is of the winter, wintery. We sincerely trust, in the name of the gaiety of nations, that no movement of the sort outlined will prevail: we need the rabbis at Charlevoix, at Frankfort, at St. Paul, at any place they select, in the "good old summer time."

So let not our friends, the Reformed rabbis, act in any such spirit as will enable them to produce one sermon a year less for their congregations. Their eloquence, their ambition to be hailed as modern representatives of the Hebrew prophets, would irretrievably suffer thereby!

The Supreme Court of Bavaria, which decided that parents who act and pose as Jews before the world, must give their children the benefit of instruction in the Jewish religion, was well advised. If we in this country could have the means of giving compulsory training in Judaism to our children the rising generation would indubitably benefit therefrom. Here parents regard themselves and their children as Jews; they do not, however, provide the latter with a Jewish education of the right sort. When the children arrive at maturity they are completely ignorant of their faith, its ideals and its traditions, and they are hence the legitimate prey of the religious faddist of the moment in Judaism. To correct such an evil we sigh for the means to do here what the Supreme Court is able to do, in Bavaria. Of course, the compulsory religious training would in the case of our country have nothing in common with our public school instruction.

THE SOIL AND THE SOUL.

ביתאם באים אל-הארץ כנען:

"When ye come into the land of Canaan * * *." (Num. 34, 2.)

THE two Sidrahs read this week breathe a spirit of joyous expectation. The trials and tribulations of the past are gone and almost forgotten. After the weary wanderings through the desert, Israel is nearing the coveted goal. They stand at the very border of the promised land. Soon the blessed promise of old will become a reality: the landless nation will have a land, the homeless people a home! Even Moses, though barred from the Holy Land, seems to forget the sadness of his own fate, and is engrossed with the destiny of his beloved flock. There are so many things to think of, so many final arrangements to be made! What matters it that he himself cannot enter Canaan, so long as Israel is permitted to inhabit it? What matters that Moses has to look forward to a grave, so long as Israel is looking forward to a land—to a home?

I fancy that the cry, "Land! land!" must have rung jubilantly through the camp in these last days of feverish expectation, much in the same manner as it did in the day when a small band of hardy sailors were nearing the shores of that other promised land: America! And let us be reminded, too, that this jubilant cry is sadly set off in these days of national mourning, between the seventeenth day of Tammuz and the tenth day of Ab, when faithful Jews bewail the loss of their fatherland.

I stress the word "faithful," because the faithless make it their boast to ignore this period of mourning altogether; nay, to declare that, far from being a curse, the loss of Palestine was a blessing to the Jews. Sincere students of the Bible who are free from ulterior motives know this teaching goes not only against every letter of the Scriptures, but also against their very spirit. But the faithless, disloyal Jews, by the aid of their ignorant preachers, contrive to so pervert the plain meaning of the Word of God as to bring it into accord with their preconceived notions. They do this, not from a desire to establish the truth, but from altogether worldly motives. They strive frantically to prove (who questions this?) that the Jew is patriotic; and—quoting them—how can the Jew be patriotic if he is still devoted to the "narrow" love of Zion? In other words, this perversion of one of the fundamentals of our faith—namely, that the Jewish nation will yet return to the land of the fathers—is nothing but a base play to the galleries. But what an illogical, self-contradictory position! In order to prove that the Jew is patriotic they disclaim the love of Zion and declare it the fruit of narrow tribalism, but in so doing they merely substitute one narrow local-patriotism for another. My dear brethren of the glib tongue, come now, do you believe that the love of Zion is narrow? If so, then all love of country—all patriotism, that is—is equally narrow. Do you not see that in declaiming against Zionism on the ground of its being narrow, you put a ban on all manner of patriotism—that, therefore, in the effort of proving yourself to be patriotic you prove yourself to be most unpatriotic?

The alleged "narrowness" and "unspirituality" of the Jewish love of Zion has oft been expressed in the pun which serves as the heading of this article. For the devil not only delights in quoting the Bibl for his purposes—he is also an expert punster. And so they say that Judaism cares only for the soul and not for the soil; that the soul is independent of the soil; that in the measure as one cherishes the soil of our native land one is apt to lose sight of the soul of our religion—and similar balderdash. Is it necessary to point to the pages of general history which teach us that no nation was entirely independent in its higher development of the soil it lived on?

Interesting, and even conclusive, in this connection is a midrashic comment on our text:

עד שלא נכנסו ישראל לארץ לא היו מברכים אלא ברכה אחת הזו את הכל כשנכנסו לארץ התקינו שיהיו מברכים על הארץ ועל המזון:

"Before Israel entered the land they said but one: benediction, namely, "over the food"; but, after entering, it was ordained that they say: "For the land and for the food." The meaning is that with the land another source of thanksgiving was added to the spiritual life of Israel, or, better still, another link was formed between Israel and God. The possession of the soil, far from narrowing it, expanded their soul, enlarging its capacity for the realization of God's goodness to man. And in fact does it not seem proper that man should feel himself brought nearer to God in and through the knowledge that some one portion of this grand world, this cherished creation of the Heavenly Father, has been reserved by His beneficence to him, that he may live on it and grow in it in accordance with God's will? Thus regarded, may not the soil become a help to the soul in her ascent Godward—another link between the human and the divine?

Distinguished Testimony.

The public conscience of this country has been successfully aroused over Russia's infamous action in refusing to recognize our passports at their face value in the hands of American Jews. Our State legislatures—and Massachusetts and New York may be cited as the most recent examples of those which have acted or are about to act in the premises—are memorializing their representatives in Congress to favor the abrogation of the existing treaty between this country and the empire of the Czar.

What is even more encouraging than the above is the very emphatic language made use of by men prominently in the public eye in considering this American question. One has but to recall the distinctly unequivocal utterance of the able Governor of New Jersey, Dr. Woodrow Wilson, on this subject. The words of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, an office making its occupant second in power and influence to the President of the United States, deserve to be given in this connection.

Speaker Champ Clark, of Missouri, wrote as follows, in the columns of our neighbor The Evening Mail, of this city, on the subject:

We are under just as much obligation to protect the American Jew abroad as we are to protect the American Gentile. Nationality or race or religion have nothing on earth to do with it.

I said right here in Washington some years ago that I consider the Jew the marvel of the human race. Before the ancestors of present ruling sovereigns could read or write, the Jews had a magnificent literature, great poets, immortal philosophers and broad-minded, far-seeing statesmen.

In whatever land the Jew pitches his tent he is a good son, husband, father, neighbor, citizen. If all others were as lawabiding as the Jews we would have precious little use for sheriffs, juries and criminal courts.

Notwithstanding these virtues there is in nearly every country but Great Britain and America more or less race prejudice against him and more or less persecution, open or covert. This prejudice and persecution have been so intense and cruel in Russia as to attract the attention of the world.

The conduct of the Russians in their own country some years ago with respect to the Jews was utterly unaccountable on any grounds of reason. It created universal horror and elicited universal protest.

I said at that time the wave of the appeal to moral sentiment will rise higher and stronger until it beats down the thick walls of the palaces of the czar.

I stand by all I have said in behalf of proper treatment of the Jews under all circumstances, and of assuring them the same treatment which is insisted upon for all other American citizens.

The Chazanim of Anglo-Jewry, by their good sense and evincing a spirit of self-abnegation which is well worth imitating everywhere, have averted a conflict which threatened to engulf all sections of that community. The net result of the recent ministerial convention is that the preachers have emerged from this with dignity and title of respect considerably impaired.

The Y. M. H. A. of this city has, as everyone rejoices to know, a large and useful summer camp for youths at Cold-Spring-on-the-Hudson. The rumor has reached us that those in charge of the conduct of this branch of the work of the association permit their campers "to run about wild" on the holy Sabbath day. We sincerely trust there is no foundation of fact to this rumor. Obviously for a summer camp for Jewish boys, maintained and conducted by a Jewish institution, to permit desecration of the Sabbath is improper.

HANDSOME GIRLS.

It may be safely asserted that the wealthy class have not a monopoly of handsome women.

There are no doubt many beautiful women who belong to wealthy families, but by far the greater number of handsome girls will be found among the middle and so-called poorer classes.

A stroll through some of the larger department stores will reveal a larger proportion of handsome girls behind the counters than will be found at the gala nights of an opera, or at any of the fashionable functions of the winter season.

If one who is observant will take note as he goes through Fifty-ninth street across to Fifth and Sixth avenues, and sees the riding academies, he must be struck with the great array of ugly-looking women who are in riding robes and are going for their equestrian lessons. It is rarely that one meets a handsome woman among the girls who are dressed in the riding habit. It is remarkable to see so many homely women who ride.

Most of these equestriennes are not homely, but positively ugly. It is a rare event to meet a pretty woman on horse back. It is a condition hard to account for. That it exists any observer will verify.

Man is like the vegetation that sprouts from the earth; as a tender plant it grows gradually, till at last it withers and perishes. This, O man, should teach thee how to live—live pleasantly, enjoy the abundance thou art blest with; but ever remember that the end must come some time, as death is sure to come, and perhaps sooner than expected. What matters it, then, if the heirs will inherit or will wrangle over a little more or a little less of earthly possessions? Thou knowest not even how they will take care of it, whether they will employ it for good deeds or waste it in foolish pursuits.—Eurbin 54a.

Were the doctrine of non-resistance to evil carried out to the letter, civilization would stagnate. We know that progress has only been possible as men have resisted evil. America would still be in the coils of England had it not resisted evil. America would still be a house divided against a house, brutal slavery would still mar the fair escutcheon of our country had we not resisted evil.—Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber, Chicago.

One valuable way of practicing self-control is in checking grumbling, and an unnecessary display of vexation at petty inconveniences. A workman has fulfilled his task imperfectly, some order is wrongly executed, someone keeps you waiting unreasonably, people are careless or forgetful, or do what they have in hand badly. Try not to be disturbed. Be just, and show the persons to blame where they are wrong, even (if it be needful) make them do the thing over again properly; but refrain from diffuse or vehement expressions of displeasure. A naturally quick, impetuous person will find that to cultivate a calm external habit is a great help towards gaining the inward even spirit he needs.—H. L. Sidney Lear.

Life is a garden in which our actions are the flowers we plant therein. Every unkindness we do becomes a noxious weed, spoiling the beauty of the garden.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Are These Our Rabbis?

Editor Hebrew Standard:
An acquaintance of mine, a candidate for the degree of Ph. D. at Columbia, handed me the following little article, for which I ask space in your valuable paper. It is worth while, indeed, printing it, for it shows the great Hebrew knowledge of many of our future spiritual leaders.

"At an examination in the Jewish Theological Seminary, conducted by Prof. Friedlaender this past term, on the book of Isaiah, one of the future lights of Israel rendered verse 6, chapter viii., as follows:

"יען כי מאם העם הזה את מי השלח ההלכים לאם"

Because this people has despised the waters of Siloah that penetrate to "At," etc. Upon being asked the locality of "At," he surmised that it might be the capital of the Hittites!

On another occasion one of the graduates of the seminary who was attending lectures at Columbia University on the book of Jeremiah, conducted by a certain Dr. Vanderberg, an assistant of Prof. Gotthell, made the following brilliant rendering of Jeremiah viii., 7:

"גם חסירה בשמים ידעה מועיה"

Even the lady-saint in heaven (he mistook חסירה, a stork, for a feminine חסיר) knoweth her festivals, i. e., when to make Shabbes, etc. Very truly yours,
EZEKIEL LEAVITT.

Editor HEBREW STANDARD:
Permit me to express my full admiration to the gentleman who in your last issue of the HEBREW STANDARD published a translation of Bialik's שלום רב שובך צפורה נחמרת

I confess that sometime ago I had tried to translate the same from the Hebrew into English and that I gave up the task, believing that neither I nor any one else could convey in a translation its full poetic beauty.

All throughout the poem the translator follows the letter and spirit of the poem as in the original Hebrew. However, I suggest that the translator change the last line:

O, do sing, in full-throatedness, sing. Cut out the "full-throatedness." Any change will do.

With best wishes to the talented translator, who evidently is master of both Hebrew and English, I remain
JOHN D. NUSSBAUM.

BROOKLYN NOTES.

Plans Filed for New Synagogue.

Plans have been filed with the Building Department by the First Congregation of Kensington for the erection of a one-story brick synagogue which is to be erected in West street, near Fortieth street. The building will cost $16,000.

Temple Beth Shalom.

Though Beth Shalom House, as the new branch of Temple Beth Shalom is to be officially known, has not yet been formally opened, numerous and important gatherings, representing diversified phases of activity have been held there.

The adjourned quarterly meeting of the congregation was well attended in spite of the exceedingly hot weather and disposed of a long calendar of important routine matters, including several amendments to the by-laws to meet the unexpected development in the scope and magnitude of the congregation activities.

A conference between the Cemetery Committee and members of the congregation resulted in the disposal of a considerable number of plots. This committee is giving assiduous study to the necessary regulation for the proper management and government of the cemetery.

A joint committee of the congregation, the Sisterhood and the league has held several meetings in arranging an informal reception or house-warming, to take place on Saturday evening, 29th inst.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week, the house and the grounds were given over to the children of the school, who were being entertained by the Sisterhood and the league, jointly. After games and races for all ages and both sexes, the children formed in lines to grab trophies from bags. Attached to each prize was a ticket for ice cream cakes. After partaking of these, the children were assembled in the auditorium of the house, to listen to a short address by Rabbi Jacob Goldstein. He announced that Miss Julia Assenheilm and Miss Helen Well had volunteered to instruct the children in the art of swimming and would be in attendance at the Bensonhurst baths for that purpose every afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. At 5 o'clock the children were dismissed, unanimously declaring that they had enjoyed "the time of their lives."

The committee in charge consisted of Mmes. Tuchler, Max T. Aaron, A. Assenheilm and Levine, representing the Sisterhood, and the Misses Anna J. Greenhoot, Julia Assenheilm and Rosalie Zemanns, representing the league.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Sisterhood held its first meeting in the house. Highly gratifying reports of the sale of tickets for the theatre party being received. The entire lower portion of the New Brighton Theatre has been secured for Tuesday, August 8, for this purpose. Arrangements have been made for the Sisterhood and its friends to gather at Reisenweber's after the performance.

The league held a very important and largely attended meeting on Tuesday evening.

In his address on Friday evening, Rabbi Goldstein contrasted the pseudo-piety which seeks rehabilitation in public esteem and to make reparation for the wrong, by building hospitals and libraries, and other ostentatious contributions to organized charities, with that true piety indicated by the prophet Micah, in his quotation from an older writer: "He has told thee, O man, what is good and what the Eternal doth require of thee, but to do justice and to love kindness and to walk humbly with God." The justice which is meant is not merely that prescribed by law, nor even that demanded by public opinion, but that which conforms truly to ones highest ideals; to love kindness consists not merely in doing acts of benevolence and speaking words of comfort, but in cultivating that gracious spirit of love for all God's creatures that find tolerance for everything. But even such justice and such loving kindness are not enough if coupled with conceit and pride of virtue. Be thou truly just, truly seek loving kindness, be thou truly humble in thy virtue, and let others write their checks for charity. Before the address Cantor Weiner sang, "Seek ye the Lord." The title for the address for Friday evening is, "Well Doing and Well-to-Do." That for Saturday morning, "Remembered Grace."

Another of those long bills of stellar features which are contributing so much to the ever increasing popularity of Dick, the only handwriting dog; Sue Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Emmett, Hildebrand and De Long, and the latest photoplays are among the other numbers comprising this entertainment. The usual Sunday concerts in the afternoon and evening.

Consular Report on the Trade of Jerusalem.

The annual report on the Trade of the Consular District of Jerusalem for last year—which has just been issued by the British Consul, shows that the population of the City of Jerusalem is about 30,000, of which number it is estimated that between 50,000 and 60,000 are Jews, mostly of the poorer class. The only industry worthy of the name is the manufacture of soap. This made satisfactory progress during 1910, the increase in the value of the soap exported being £12,000. There was also an increase in the value of the so-called "religious articles" exported. These are made in Jerusalem and at Bethlehem. There were no epidemics last year, says the Consul, although at one time an outbreak of smallpox seemed likely. The population suffered greatly from malaria, which assumes its severest form in the autumn, when the water in the cisterns is getting low. The harvest of 1910 was again a bad one, the crops in the Gaza district being a complete failure. The orange crop was, however, a good one, and there was a large increase in the amount of wine exported, so that there was an increase of £75,000 in exports, while imports show an increase of £30,000. This increase is not, however, a true one, as owing to the failure of the harvest, flour to the value of £53,000 had to be imported, chiefly from France, for the use of the population.

The shipping returns at Jaffa show a decrease on the figures for 1909. The number of steamers was 37 less, with a decreased tonnage of 40,000 tons. The Consul states that although nothing has, as yet, actually been done, the project for a water supply, to which reference has several times been made in these reports, seems at last a little nearer realization. Coupled with this scheme are others for the installation of electric tramways and electric lighting, the establishment of telephones and the drainage of the city. Tenders for the water supply have been asked for locally. The tenders for the tramways and electric lighting will be invited by the Ministry of Public Works at Constantinople.

Nothing definite has been decided as to the building of a port at Jaffa. The tourist and pilgrim traffic, says the Consul, is of vital importance to Jerusalem, and the tourist and pilgrims of a better class who have visited the district during the last three seasons have numbered respectively 5,521, 5,595 and 7,196. Dealing with the harvest prospect for 1911 the Consul remarks that the outlook at the end of 1910 was bad, as the former rains were but scanty and there was a dry spell of six weeks or so which lasted until the middle of January and greatly limited the autumn sowings. Since then there have been exceptionally heavy falls of rain and snow, and the average annual rainfall has been succeeded by the middle of March, so that the prospects are at present favorable, provided always that the necessary rains fall later. The trade of Jaffa, adds the Consul, continues to increase.

THOUGHTS ON A SUMMER MORNING.

By EZEKIEL LEAVITT.

(Translated from the Yiddish by Alice Stone Blackwell.)

The eastern sky is covered with bars of fiery glow,
The sun's first rays are covering with gold the streets below,
And casting down from heaven bright sheaves of glittering beams

On the awakened world beneath, which gay and lively seems.
With pearly dewdrops moistened, grass and flowers upon the mead

Sway proudly in the zephyrs of the dawn, and make with speed
Their toilet for the morning, and solemnly they greet

The sun, that pours upon their heads a stream of light and heat,
And with his rays all glorious, as bright the morning breaks,
The friendliest of signals to the dreaming earth he makes.

I, sitting near the window, can observe the people well.
They to their place of struggle haste, their freedom there to sell,

And in the shop a whole hard day to labor and to strive
To win a miserable wage, that keeps them scarce alive.

For them there is no shining sun, no morning bright and gay;
The stern world multiplies their cares and sorrows every day.

Not songs of consolation, but laments, it makes them hear,
Although they give it all their strength, and sacrifice their cheer.

The sun smiles only on the rich, well fed, with lightsome hearts;
The world is all divided into two unequal parts;

Some for themselves have taken all, their brethren are bereft,

IN MEMORIAM—ESTHER HERMANN.

By JACK NADEL, Y. M. H. A.

Farewell, thou Goddess of the Earth,
To which all humans are but loaned by God
To do, each one, his little share, from birth
Till when his aged lids begin to nod.

Thou, too, hast nobly done thy part,
A greater part than was required to show
The goodness lurking in this heart,
The goodness which we all have lived to know.

Again farewell, and may thy stay above
Be marked by thoughts that those thou'st left behind
Will learn and profit by the teachings we so love,
And long remember thee, so good and kind.

Twenty Years' Work in the Argentine.

At the annual meeting of the Jewish Colonization Association recently held in Paris the chairman, speaking of the association's work, said:

Exactly twenty years ago the first groups of colonists left Europe for the Argentine. Our association did not yet exist, but Baron Hirsch had already conceived the scheme of its establishment. He had sent to the Argentine a commission to study the conditions of the country and to acquire there the necessary land. It was expected that there would be left a year for the necessary preparations, but in the summer of 1891 the expulsions from Russia brought large numbers of Jews to the German and Austrian frontiers, and in order to move them away the German frontier committees addressed themselves to Baron Hirsch asking him to send these emigrants to the Argentine. Nothing had yet been done to receive them. Nevertheless Baron Hirsch saw himself obliged to accede to these requests, and on July 5, 1891, several hundred of emigrants were sent to the Argentine through Hamburg. Other groups followed them, particularly one of 800 persons selected from 34,000 refugees in Constantinople, so that at the end of 1891 about 2,200 emigrants had been dispatched to the Argentine. Careful instructions had been given to the committees for the selection of the emigrants, and they were to have only chosen persons with a knowledge of agriculture. Nevertheless only few of them had any idea of their future occupation. It is in this ignorance that we must seek the chief causes of the difficulties by which the work was met. A large number of the first settlers, frightened by the difficulties of their new life, left their lands on their arrival. In September, 1891, Baron Hirsch consolidated his work by the establishment of the Jewish Colonization Association, but it was only after his death (April, 1896) that the council was actually constituted.

The very small results obtained in the course of the first period of the work discouraged its founder very much. The colonists, as well as those who were to serve them as guides, seemed to want the necessary qualities for success. The recruiting of the emigrants was thereupon changed by the selection, in Russia itself, of families with some knowledge of agriculture. It would be premature to say that all the hopes have already been realized. But a very considerable progress can be recorded. We are approaching the solution of that great problem by which a town population is brought on to the land. Our colonies in the Argentine, situate in the three provinces of Buenos Ayres, Entre Rios and Santa Fe, and comprising an area of more than a half million hectares, were inhabited on September 30, 1910, by 3,777 families, or a total population of 21,115 souls. The increase has been gradual. At the end of 1897 the population of the colonies was 7,015; in 1901 still only 7,551 and 7,771 in 1903. Then the population rose to 11,974 in 1906, 15,771 in 1908 and 19,361 at December 31, 1909. Particularly at first there were numerous fluctuations owing to the colonists often leaving their plots of land. Of the 1,333 colonists installed in 1891 there were only left 1,023 at the end of the first year, 81 new installations in 1892, 191 in 1893 and 496 in 1894, nevertheless only left 1,021 colonists at the beginning of 1895. There were only 833 of them in 1898. Then their numbers begin to rise—1,082 in 1901, 1,130 in 1903, 1,448 in 1907, 1,975 in 1909 and 2,103 last year. These figures do not merely show the constant progress of our colonies during the last six years, but they also conclusively prove that the increase has not been a fictitious one by the replacing of new for old colonists. The 2,103 colonists form, with their families, a population of 14,239 souls, but together with them there live 1,205 other families, comprising 6,826 souls, who came at their own cost, without any assistance whatever on our part, and now earn their living by the cultivation of the soil on our colonies. These agricultural laborers become more numerous every year. There were in 1904 only 836 of them all told. A year later there were 2,195; at the end of 1907, 3,065; in 1909, 5,954.

This increase of the population also explains the considerable and very regular growth of the value of the colonies. In 1897 the colonists of Moisesville, Mauricio and Clara had 40,854 hectares under cultivation. This figure has grown to 103,060 in 1909 and 144,320 hectares in 1910. In the same manner the number of cattle in the colonies has increased. In 1901 the colonists possessed 44,192 animals, but in 1909 173,567 and in 1910 over 180,000. The total value of the crops in our colonies in 1909 was $3,686,046 (about £225,000), but other figures give us a still better indication to appreciate the degree of prosperity at which our colonists have arrived. The repayments to the association by the colonists were only $1,724 in 1896 and $21,625 in 1899, and in 1901 $113,858. The amounts then decreased, but the increase was again resumed in 1905, when the sum received was $211,261, and last year $538,429. People accustomed for a long time to receive regular subventions and who troubled little to repay their debts have now become willing payers, and are anxious to settle every time when the result of their harvest permits it. They have become imbued with a new dignity and are conscious of their rights as of their duties. In all our colonies the number of schools is growing apace. In 1897 there were four schools, with four teachers; in 1901 there were 20 schools, with 45 teachers; in 1903, 22 schools and 60 teachers; in 1906, 28 schools, with 71 teachers; in 1908, 37 schools, with 109 teachers; in 1909, 44 schools, with 130 teachers; in 1910, 50 schools, with 155 teachers. The number of pupils has increased at a still greater rate. There were 350 in 1897, 1,400 in 1902, 1,779 in 1906, 2,529 in 1908, 3,083 in 1909 and 3,538 in 1910. In spite of these advantages, of the unceasing development of co-operative societies and of social organizations of all kinds; in spite of the prosperity of numerous colonists there are people who are dissatisfied. Some of them have endeavored to create a certain agitation with different centres. It would perhaps be interesting to deal with one of the causes of these troubles. Several colonists of Mauricio asked our association some time ago to hand them over the title deeds of their plots by the anticipated payment of the annuities which are not yet due. By our contracts with the colonists they have twenty years in which to settle their indebtedness to the association, and any anticipated repayment can only take place with our consent. This clause was inserted in order to prevent the colonists turning their lands into objects of speculation. We feel that we have done our duty by thus assuring to the children of the colonists the benefits of an agricultural life on the property which their parents have acquired from our association at a very moderate price. That we did not err in our foresight is proved by the fact that the increase in the value of the land has been the principal cause in the agitation referred to. At Mauricio, for example, the price of the land has increased tenfold. All sorts of speculators came down and induced the colonists to claim their title deeds by offering to advance the necessary money for the anticipated repayment of the annuities still due to the association. We do not know the conditions which they offered to the colonists, but it may be permitted to presume that they were not particularly advantageous to the latter. Once their land is sold, we should have seen the Jewish colonists turning toward the towns and entering into commerce, so that their and our efforts for the last twenty years would have been lost. In order to protect the colonists at Mauricio against the speculators who intended to exploit them the council has made to them large advances when they were short of money for the purchase of cattle. The general situation appears favorable. This does not say that everything is perfect. Constant improvements are being introduced, but this will depend above all on the colonists themselves who, by the experience which they are acquiring and by the regime of self-government which we are anxious to implant among them, will, we feel sure, LEVY, JACOB.—The People of the State of New York, by the Grace of God Free and Independent, to Rachel Frank, Frume (Fannie) Gutmann, William Goldberg and Solomon Frank as Executors and Trustees under the last Will and Testament of Emma Rockmaker, deceased, Simon Sostakovsky, Barnett Jarue as Administrator of the estate of Rebecca Jarue, deceased, Illinois Surety Company, 11 Pine Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, and to all persons interested in the estate of Jacob Levy, late of the County of New York, deceased, as creditors, next of kin or otherwise, send Greeting: You and each of you are hereby cited and required personally to be and appear before our Surrogate of the County of New York, at the Surrogates' Court of said county, held at the Hall of Records, in the County of New York, on the 19th day of September, 1911, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend a judicial settlement of the account of proceedings of Bertha Okun, as Administratrix of the goods, chattels and credits of said deceased; and such of you as are hereby cited as are under the age of twenty-one years are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding. In Testimony Whereof, We have caused the Seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. [L. S.] Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said county, at the County of New York, the fourteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eleven. DANIEL J. DOWDNEY, Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

Avoid Sunstroke

Keep healthy and strong. It is the weakened, overworked constitution only that gives way to Heat Prostration. You cannot control the summer heat, but you can control your own physical state.

Eat less—do not eat heavy, clogging food—do not drink ice water.

Drink beer—good, pure, clean beer—drink lots of it.

PETER DOELGER
FIRST PRIZE BOTTLED BEER
EXPRESSLY FOR THE HOME

is both food and drink. It is a mild nutritious beverage. It contains the very best Barley Malt (a predigested food) Saazer Hops and pure distilled water.

It is guaranteed the purest, cleanest and best beer brewed.

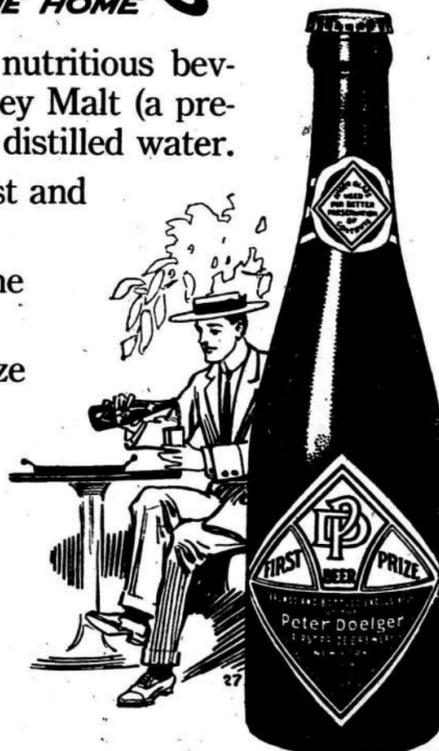

It is a beer every member of the family may drink with impunity.

Ask for Peter Doelger First Prize Beer—be sure you get it.

$1.25 the case of 24 bottles—one cent a bottle more than the ordinary beer. A little higher in price—a great deal higher in quality.

Order a trial case from your regular dealer. If he does not carry it, kindly let us know, we will see that you are promptly supplied.

VACATION, MIGRATION OR EXILE.

During the summer season it is but appropriate and timely to move about, so as to delude authorities and nature. People of means take self and wife, children and servants, lures and penates, bag and baggage and go to country places and summer resorts for rest and recuperation.

Hundreds and thousands of vacationists, as a matter of record, fail to see the benefits of their migratory changes and exceedingly regret their frivolous aping of the ways of the rich; sacrifices to modern Moloehs turn in many cases from bad to worse, from migration into exile, the hotels and hostleries forcing the removal of Jewish vacationists time and again. These disappointed summer boarders, however, like all the rest of Israel, forget and forgive, repeating the accepted habits and assumed customs continually every year, and becoming, indeed, the laughing stock of neighbors and fellow men of all nations and denominations.

Vacation, then, seems to comprehend a quadruple of the Pentateuch, having absorbed Genesis, Exodus, Numbers and Deuteronomy, excluding Leviticus, the heroes of which, the Cohens and the Levys, by dint of nomenclature, become exonerated.

After all is said and done, these vacations, migrations and exiles are neither modern nor novel. They are Scriptural institutions, as a matter of fact, and prophetic prognostications, to be sure. Joseph removed the people of Egypt from one end of the boundary line to the other (Genesis xlviii: 21); Shalmanesser, the king of Assyria, led Israel away from Samaria and the neighboring cities, re-peopleing them by men from Babylon, Cuthah and Avva (II Kings xviii: 3, 6 and 24), and Nebusaradan, the captain of the guard, led away into exile the rest of the people and the remnant of the multitude (Ibid. xxv: 11). Well, there is nothing new under the sun.

NACHMAN HELLER.

THE PAST.

It is never wise to live in the past. There are, indeed, some uses of our past which are helpful, and which bring blessing. We should remember our past lost condition to keep us humble and faithful. We should remember past mercies, that we may have confidence in new needs or trials in the future. We should remember past comforts, that there may be stars in our sky when night comes again. But while there are these true uses of memory, we should guard against living in the past. We should draw our life inspirations not from memory, but from hope; not from what is gone, but from what is yet to come. Forgetting the things which are behind, we should reach forward unto those things which are before.

THE QUIET YEARS.
We complain of the slow, dull life we are forced to lead, of our humble sphere of action, of our low position in the scale of society, of our having no room to make ourselves known, of our wasted energies, of our years of patience. So do we say that we have no Father who is directing our life; so do we say that God has forgotten us; so do we boldly judge what life is best for us; and so by our complaining do we lose the use and profit of the quiet years. O men of little faith! Because you are not sent out yet into your labor, do you think God has ceased to remember you? Because you are forced to be outwardly inactive, do you think you, also, may not be, in your years of quiet, "about your Father's business"? * * * It is a period given to us in which to mature ourselves for the work which God will give us to do.—Stopford A. Brooke.

PASS IT ON.
How many favors we receive from one and another through the day's long hours, and how many opportunities we have of passing them on. If in a responsive mood, looking for chances to do someone a good turn, we shall find many a time when a deed may be done, or a word said, that will help someone else just as we ourselves have been helped, perhaps not half an hour before.

While a man is stringing a harp, he tries the strings, not for music, but for construction. When it is finished it shall be played for melodies. God is fashioning the human heart for future joy. He only sounds a string here and there, to see how far this work has progressed.—Beecher.

The God of yesterday who took care of you then will be also the God of to-morrow. Therefore be not anxious about to-morrow; face your future with courage; be joyous in the thought that God will be with you, and go forward without anxiety.

REJECTED BLESSINGS.

No wonder so many of us are so poor in spiritual things. To our doors evermore come the heavenly messengers, their hands laden with rich blessings, which they wish to give to us. But we are so intent on our earthly ambitions that we do not see them nor open our doors to them, and, waiting long in vain, they at last turn sadly away, leaving us unblest in our poverty. If we would but train ourselves to take whatever gift God sends to us, we should soon become rich. God's blessings are ever at our doors. He is the giving God. The trouble with us is that we do not always recognize the blessings when they are offered us. Some of the richest of them come in forms of pain, struggle and sorrow. Let us learn to accept God's gifts, whether they shine in joy or are veiled in shadows.—J. R. Miller, D. D.

Grand Master Sanders is at the office of the order daily, and cannot take a vacation because the business of the order requires his constant attendance and attention.

The past thirty days show an increase of 2,000 members, and it is anticipated a similar increase will be made during the month of July.

The order has paid out, since the convention, nearly $9,000 for donations made by the convention to needy and distressed members.

The order, by the holding of its annual picnic on July 2, has enriched its charity fund $14,000.

Fifteen new lodges have been instituted in various parts of the country since the last convention.

Grand Master Sanders visited well attended meetings of the lodges in Brownsville, N. Y., last week, when he addressed the assembled members.

Nathan, and assisted by Ex-Grand Master G. L. Lowenthal, installed the newly elected officers. One candidate was initiated, and several others proposed. Executive officer M. J. Schiff is the newly elected president; Jacob Stern the vice-president, Charles Stein the financial secretary, J. Berger, recording secretary, and Max Lang, treasurer. The members presented the outgoing officers with a token of recognition for services rendered. Ex-President Wachsman received a gold fob, the ex-vice-president, a diamond ring, and Secretary Stein an umbrella. The lodge numbers 172 male members and 165 female members, and fully 75 visitors were present at the convocation. After close of meeting all adjourned to the festive board.

Grand Master Goldstein and staff appeared on Monday, the 17th, in Westchester Lodge, Yonkers, N. Y., when the newly elected officers were inducted in their stations for the ensuing term. Several candidates were added to the roll of the members and others were proposed. The Grand Master and his colleagues were the guests at a collation following lodge exercises.

During the past week a new lodge, named Abraham Lincoln, and numbered 57, was instituted in this city with 52 members. Grand Master Goldstein, assisted by a number of his executive staff, officiated. The name adopted and the number given revived the name and number of an extinct lodge which several years ago was suspended when the order ceased doing business in the State of Ohio.

CROSSING THE FERRY.

I loves ter cross der ferry
 In th' great big ferry boat;
 An' stan' out front with father,
 An' watch der ships 'at float
 So pretty up an' down th' tide,
 With sails all snowy spread,
 Like wings of some long-legged bird
 'Bout which I've often read.

I likes ter see th' little tugs,
 (They never seem to tire),
 Especially those "extry" tugs
 They sends when there's a fire.
 I look up at th' captain
 In his pilot-house so high
 An' wonder if he's very old
 An' if he'll ever die.

'Cose every time I'm on that boat,
 Th' same old captain's there;
 My father says he's awful brave,
 Most anything he'd dare.
 On rainy-days I allus play
 'At I'm a captain, too.
 Wif mother for a passenger
 'N father for my crew.

I make b'lieve I have a beard
 'At comes most to the floor;
 I wear dad's coat and yachting cap,
 Dad says that I'm a "bore."
 I rings two bells ter back her up,

LOVE WORK.

Dear Children:

Shemaiah and Abtalyen received the oral law from Judah ben Tabai and Simon ben Shetach.

Shemaiah said: "Love work and hate dominion and thus make thyself not known to poverty."

This is a pretty little story which is told in the Medrash Rabba of Megillath-Esther, which illustrates in a striking manner the dignity and benefit of labor:

A certain man possessed a little mule, a big mule and a swine.

The swine received from its owner an unlimited amount of food, but the little mule and big mule were fed by their owner with a measure. Said the little mule to the mother mule, "What is this idiot doing? Us, who do the master's work, he feeds with a measure; that hog there, who wallows in idleness, he feeds without a measure!"

Said the mother mule to the little mule, "The time will come when you will see its downfall; you will find that the swine is not being fed for its glory, but for its destruction."

As soon as the Greek holidays came around the Grecian master of the swine seized it and stuck it through.

After that they brought oats to the little mule, it sniffed at it and refused to eat it. Said the mother mule to the little mule, "My daughter, it was not the food that the swine ate that caused its destruction, but its idleness!"

Dear children, when Adam sinned in eating the forbidden fruit and God told him, "Thou shalt eat the herbs of the field," Adam wept and said, "Will I have to eat out of the same crib with my beast?" Great was his joy when God told him, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread."

He was willing to perspire with the greatest exertions of labor in order to be superior to his beast, and eat the bread of man—and he certainly did have to work before he ate bread. He himself had to plow the field, plant the corn, reap it, grind it, knead the dough, make the fire and bake the bread, and when at length he took the bread out of the stove he certainly did perspire. But there was no happier man than Adam in all the wide world, and this happiness is inherited by all his descendants.

There are certain circumstances in life, however, that cause certain men not to labor themselves, but to command the labor of others, to these people Shemaiah said, "Hate dominion." Treat your employees kindly, do not domineer over them—and then will you be deserving to continue the enjoyment of the prosperity with which God has blessed you and thus thou wilt not make thyself known to poverty, for, as the Talmud says, "Seven years Gaunt Hunger stalked through the land and did not enter the door of the mechanic."

Whilst the working man is not likely to become rich, he is also not in danger of dying of starvation, while the wheel of fortune is continually turning around, making one business man poor, the other rich.

Therefore, dear children, let this lesson be forever impressed upon your minds.

Learn a trade, and love the work, or if you will command the labor of others, hate dominion, and God will bless you that you will never know poverty.

Teacher—What do you know about the blarney stone?

Son of the Isle—It's kissed so much that it can't gather any moss.

"I'd hate to be a purist these days."
 "Why?"

"Why, they don't know whether to call an aviator a man bird or a bird man."

Wife: Be sure to advertise for Fido in the morning papers.

Next day the wife read as follows in the newspapers:

"Lost a mangy lap dog, with one eye and no tail. Too fat to walk. Answers to the name of Fido. If returned stuffed $15 reward."

"Have a cigarette?"
 "That's illegal in this State."

"Suppose we start a game of cribbage?"

"Hardly worth while. That's illegal in the next State."—Washing.

Jewish Folk Songs.

Fifty songs for voice and piano accompaniment, collected, harmonized and arranged by Platon Brounoff, New York. Charles K. Harris, publisher.

Platon Brounoff, the very gifted composer, who for many years dreamt cosmopolitan dreams and sang "Songs of Freedom" for the sake of humanity, has awakened from his dream, and for the last year has been in very close touch with his brethren, devoting the best of his talents to them. His last composition, "Jewish Folk Songs," is the best proof of my assertion. It is a most desirable and very valuable book and the first attempt of its kind. This volume shows what a tender soul, deep longing for knowledge and keen sarcasm, though sometimes mixed with naive elements, our nation possesses. Most of the songs are lullabies, but there are many on different subjects also. The music to them all is sweet, simple and appeals to every Jewish soul. Such music ought to be heard in every Jewish home and should drive away the so-called popular songs and ragtime compositions which very often contain nothing but nonsense. It is very regrettable, however, that the songs are full of funny misprints and of faulty spelling and that the English renderings very often do not correspond to the originals (Yiddish) at all, and look like selections for themselves. I fully hope that our Jews will highly appreciate the zeal and good work of Platon Brounoff, thus giving him a chance to have in the near future a second enlarged and improved and correctly revised edition of his "Jewish Folk Songs." EZEKIEL LEAVITT.

A great disaster befell the Jewish population of Salonica when, on June 23, a fire broke out which destroyed some sixty dwelling houses and thirty shops, all of them occupied by Jews. More than 250 Jewish families, many of whom were not insured, have been plunged into misery. The damage is estimated at $600,000.
