The Establishment of Bote Dinim

By Rev. Dr. Moses Hyamson

The subject on which I am to speak to you is "The Establishment of Bote Dinim." I had been under the impression that the topic assigned to me was to be "Organization in Orthodox Communities."

The topics, if not absolutely identical, are closely related. The existence of a Beth Din is the sure mark and evidence of the existence of an organized community. The lack of a Beth Din in an orthodox Jewish community clearly shows that it is, at best, but in an inchoate condition.

Before undertaking with great diffidence and reluctance the unwelcome but necessary role of critic, before pointing out defects that need to be supplied and shortcomings that require to be made good, I desire to pay a whole-hearted and unstinted tribute to American Jewry for its numerous and magnificently equipped philanthropic institutions. Planned on a great scale, supported generously and munificently, and managed with a combination of rare tact, tender sympathy and consideration, and practical good sense and wisdom, these institutions are monuments of true Jewish charity and bear testimony to the big brains and large hearts of their founders and administrators. It would be invidious to single out particular institutions for special eulogy. I will content myself with saying that they all exhibit abundant evidence of palpitating vitality and robust energy and which have achieved great things are destined to still greater achievements.

So far so good. Now for the other side of the shield. I trust you will not deem it presumptuous on my part if I touch, as gently and delicately as I can on the weak spots of Jewry in this great country, from the point of view of Orthodoxy. I naturally have particularly in mind conditions as they present themselves in New York with its million and a quarter Jews. And I take conditions here as fairly typical of those prevailing in the rest of the United States.

Orthodox Jewry in this big city is to all practical intents and purposes unorganized, and, as a consequence, orthodox Judaism suffers. To take tary Laws, yet there is no communal body which charges itself with the supervision of Kashruth. I will gladly admit—I have no reason to rabbis of acknowledged learning and piety. But Kashruth does not begin and end with operations in the Abattoirs. Even in the case of that profess to sell kosher meat? What of the poultry stores? Are all these properly supervised? I was shocked last October, between New Year and the Day of Atonement, to receive a handbill issued to the Jewish public and signed by Rabbi Margolis of the Eighty-fifth Street Synagogue, Dr. Klein of the One Hundred and Sixteenth Street Synagogue and other notable rabbis, which stated in explicit terms that large numbers of chickens are sold in Harlem, Yorkville and the Bronx as kosher, which had not been properly killed.

Again it is notorious that a number of butcher shops which profess to sell kosher meat are without any supervision whatsoever. Any butcher can put up in his window the sign kosher, and none dare say him "nay." There is practically no guidance as to which shops are really kosher, and Jewish housewives have the responsibility thrust upon them of deciding for themselves as to which butchers are trustworthy.

These defects are due to one cause, and one cause only—want of organization. There are many rabbis but no universally recognized rabbinical authority. Many of them are competent, but they work independently of each other, and the result of this lack of unity is pitiful weakness.

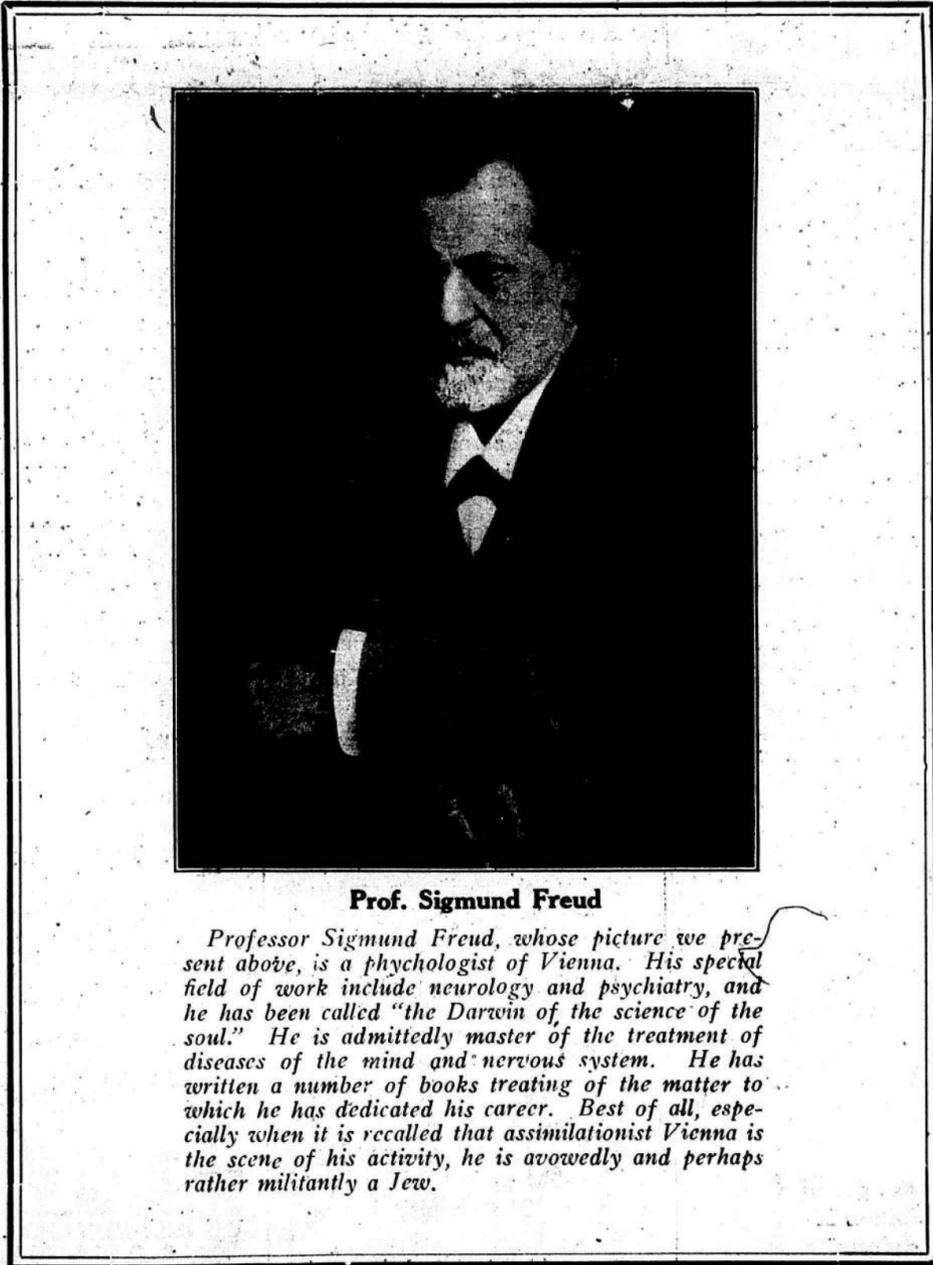

Take another illustration. I am told on reliable authority that Gittin are frequently given to parties who, according to the law of the land, are not free to remarry. The results are the commission of the offense of bigamy, heartless desertions without redress, and similar scandals.

Again, owing to the absence of organization, the time-honored and valuable principle of יש דין ביהושע is to a large extent suspended. Differences between Jews in their private relations, and complaints by individuals against synagogues, chevras, lodges, associations and vice versa, instead of being settled in camera, as they should be, are dragged into the public law courts, for want of Jew-one or two examples. In this great city with its vast Jewish population, a large number presumably care for the observance of the Die-think otherwise—that the Shochetim and Bodekim are competent and conscientious. These officials are certified by, and under the control of, meat, the provision of expert Shochetim and Bodekim does not constitute the whole of the requisite supervision. What of the butcher shops

Prof. Sigmund Freud

Professor Sigmund Freud, whose picture we present above, is a psychologist of Vienna. His special field of work include neurology and psychiatry, and he has been called "the Darwin of the science of the soul." He is admittedly master of the treatment of diseases of the mind and nervous system. He has written a number of books treating of the matter to which he has dedicated his career. Best of all, especially when it is recalled that assimilationist Vienna is the scene of his activity, he is avowedly and perhaps rather militantly a Jew.

ish arbitration courts, in which such cases could and should be dealt with.

In all parts of the world, new and difficult problems of Jewish law are referred for solution to eminent rabbinical authorities, heads of ecclesiastical courts, principals of yeshiyoth. America, with its population of three million Jews, must undoubtedly have great scholars well versed in rabbinics. Where are the outstanding authorities for Sha'aloth Teshuboth?

In the big cities there are orthodox synagogues and Talmud Torahs. What steps have orthodox Jews here taken to provide small and scattered communities with these religious requirements?

In all these respects Europe is better off. The communities in the older world enjoy the advantage of organization which orthodox Jewry in America lacks. And the chief mark of such organization is, as I have already pointed out, the existence of Boté Dinim.

Permit me to speak of the country with which I am best acquainted, where I have spent the whole of my life, and which lies nearest to America, and where the same language is spoken. The big towns of England, such as Manchester, Leeds, Liverpool, Birmingham, have their ecclesiastical boards for the supervision of Kashruth. In London, there is what we may style the supreme ecclesiastical court, which exercises jurisdiction over the congregations of Great Britain. As I was a member of that body for over a decade, I take leave to tell you how it works.

With regard to Shechita and the supervision of Kashruth.

In London, as in the provincial towns I have mentioned, the Beth Din is appointed by the community. It performs its duties in co-operation with a Board of Shechita. This consists of laymen who represent all the orthodox synagogal organizations of the Metropolis—the United Synagogue, with its eighteen constituents, "the Federation of Minor Synagogues," comprising about fifty small places of worship; the Spanish and Portuguese congregation, with its two synagogues, and one or two independent synagogues that do not belong to larger organizations. The Shechita Board administers the purely business side of Kashruth. It makes contracts with wholesale butchers, and fixes the scale of charges for the slaughtering of cattle. It engages and pays Shochetim and Shomerim. The salaries are adequate and increase with length of service. It has a superintendent who assigns daily to each Shochet and Shomer the particular abattoir in which he is to work for the day. The purpose of shifting the officials is to save them from the possible charge that they are under the influence of any particular wholesale butcher. The bulk of the officials of the Shechita Board hold life appointments, so that they can discharge their duties without fear or favor.

On the ecclesiastical side, Shechita and Kashruth are under the absolute and unquestioned authority and control of the Beth Din, which consists of the Chief Rabbi and the Dayanim. In my time there were three Dayanim—two beside myself. Since I left I see that three Dayanim have been appointed to replace me, so that there are now five. In addition, the Rosh Hashochetim also has a seat at the Beth Din and a voice in all matters appertaining to Shechita. The standing of the Rosh Hashochetim may be gathered from the fact that when I was a child the official was Rabbi Abraham Zusman, the author of the Beth Abraham on the Joreh Deah. The Rev. N. Lipman, the present Rosh Hashochetim, is also a great scholar and authority on Shechita, and has been a practical Shochet for over forty years. The Beth Din meets every day. On Mondays and Thursdays the session begins at noon, and all matters affecting Shechita and Kashruth in the metropolis, in the provinces, and in the colonies are then deliberated. The Beth Din examines the diplomas of Shochetim who come from abroad, and if satisfied of the genuineness of the documents and worthiness of the applicants, gives permission for their theoretical and practical examination by the head Shochet. The theoretical examination is sometimes conducted by one or other of the Dayanim. For no one can act in Great Britain as Shochet without the consent of the Beth Din, nor can anyone be taught Shechita in the United Kingdom without such consent.

The Beth Din also inquires into the religious and moral character of those who seek licenses to open retail butcher shops for the sale of Kosher meat. Only after the Beth Din is satisfied are the applicants sent to the Licensing Committee of the Shechita Board for indorsement.

Complaints by or against Shochetim, Shomerim, wholesale or retail butchers, are heard and adjudicated by the Beth Din. If anyone opens a shop without the sanction of the Beth Din, a notice is issued through the medium of the press, warning the Jewish public against buying meat in that shop. The warning is usually effective.

The poultry is killed in poultry yards, rented by the Shechita Board. The poultry Shochetim are engaged by the Shechita Board, after having been duly examined and passed by the Beth Din. Poultry dealers, like the butchers, must be approved by the Beth Din and hold the license of the Shechita Board. Inspectors are appointed whose duty it is to visit the abattoirs in the early morning, and the various butcher shops and retail poultry stores in the course of the day, to see that the requirements of the Beth Din in regard to Kashruth are fully carried out. If they find anything amiss they report to the Beth Din at the next Monday or Thursday session, or earlier if the matter is urgent, and the parties at fault are summoned to appear and answer to the complaints.

To show you how the Kashruth of meat was in my time effectively supervised, let me give you two illustrations from my own experience. One Friday morning, at 7 o'clock, a complaint was brought to me in synagogue, that a certain butcher in a suburb was buying Terefa meat. I ordered a special sitting of the Beth Din at 9 the same day. The butcher was summoned and attended. The case was clearly proved. The license was at once revoked. Pickets were stationed about his shop to inform would-be customers not to buy meat there. Hand bills were printed and distributed to the Jewish residents in the neighborhood, informing them that the license had been revoked.

Another case that comes to my mind is that of a butcher who had sold meat on a Friday evening, on the 25th of December—a short day—soon after night fall. The complaint was proved. His license was not revoked. It was, however, suspended for three months, during the whole of which period his shop was closed.

The reason why the Beth Din in London has such power is because its authority is recognized and upheld by the Jewish community as a whole. There are some malcontents, but they are few—practically a negligible quantity. The Issurim, issued by the London Beth Din, have on three or four occasions been challenged in the law courts as libels, but they have been held to be justified.

The secret of the authority wielded by the Beth Din is that it is a public institution, not a private venture. Its members are appointed by the community and are officials paid by the United Synagogue. The Haham—the religious head of the Portuguese congregation—has a seat on the Beth Din in all questions of Shechita and Kashruth. The Shechita Board, which works in co-operation with the Beth Din, is also not a self-constituted body. It consists of representatives of all the orthodox synagogues in London.

The London Beth Din, of course, performs in addition, the other usual work of an ordinary Beth Din. It answers Sha'aloth asked by individuals, as well as those sent by congregations in the metropolis, the provinces and the colonies. Problems of Jewish law and practice have come for solution all the way from Africa, Australia, and even America. It arranges Chalitzoth and Gittin, but the latter, however, only in cases where the law of the country would recognize the parties as divorced. It licenses Mikvaoth and mills for grinding flour for Passover. It certifies Mohelim after an examination by medical men of the Bris Milah Society.

There is one important branch of its activities, to the great value of which tribute has frequently been paid. It acts as a court of arbitration. Its labors in this direction have been of incalculable benefit to litigants and frequently saved the community from Chillul Ha-Shem. This work became increasingly urgent in the last thirty years. The persecutions and restrictive legislation in the empire of the Czar brought large numbers of immigrants to London. The county courts and police courts became congested with Jewish cases. The magistrates and judges found their time unduly occupied and their patience taxed by foreigners whose language they could not understand, and who needed the service of interpreters. There is an Italian proverb, Traduttore Traditore, "translators are traitors." The interpreters understood the parties and their witnesses imperfectly, and translated imperfectly. Confusion became worse confounded. Judges and magistrates who are, after all, but human, grew suspicious of the honesty of this class of litigants and sometimes made the sweeping accusation that foreign Jews could not speak the truth, and did not realize the gravity of evidence given under an oath.

The arbitration work of the Beth Din did much during my tenure of office. I may claim to diminish this scandal. The courts were relieved to the extent of 800 cases a year, equal to 8,000 in New York, taking into account the difference in Jewish population. The Beth Din held three special evening sessions every week, Sundays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and sat sometimes till midnight, till all business had been cleared and every applicant had been heard. Disputes were settled privately, expeditiously, without cost to the parties, and without irritation, on principles of fairness and justice. In 95 per cent. of the cases, and more, litigants left the court satisfied with the decisions. Where the award was not carried out by either of the parties, the law courts upheld the decision of the Beth Din. The cases covered almost every branch of civil jurisprudence — partnership, vendor and purchaser, ordinary contracts, breach of promise, landlord and tenant, slander and libel, damages to property, marriage settlements, deceased's estates. The courts so val-

I have given you this sketch of the status and functions of the London Beth Din—not as a matter of historical interest, but with a practical purpose. Can we not take a leaf out of the book of an older organized and sister community and establish Boté Dinim in this great country on the model of those that exist in the old world?

I quite realize that the conditions here are different to what they are in Europe. The Volkspsychologie is different. The people of the United States have their special temperament. The spirit of the Declaration of Independence has entered into the very marrow of every American citizen. Democracy rules supreme. Still, I venture to suggest that Kashruth in New York and many other

Seventeenth Annual Zionist Convention

The seventeenth annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists was held in Rochester, beginning last Sunday. The conference was informally opened on Sabbath morning with the preaching of Zionist sermons at Temple Berith Kodesh, by Rabbi Max Raisin, of Brooklyn, and at the Beth Israel Synagogue, by Rabbi M. M. Kaplan, of New York. In the evening a reception was tendered to the delegates at the Jewish Young Men's Association in Franklin square.

The formal opening of the convention took place on Sunday, Mr. Louis Lipsky in the chair and a welcome being extended by Mr. Max Lowenthal on behalf of the Jews of Rochester.

The morning session began with the reading by Dr. Schmarya Levin of the message of the committee of leaders of the movement to the American Federation. The committee informed the American Zionists that it was not altogether satisfied with the work that had been accomplished in this country.

The leaders think the Zionist societies should at least have 30,000 members and should contribute $30,000 to the central fund. The message closed with an appeal to the delegates to elect a member to sit in the session of the committee to be held in Berlin.

Letters of greetings from Prof. Richard Gottheil, of Columbia University, and David Wolffsohn, of Hamburg, were read.

Recommendations providing for the establishment of a Yiddish daily newspaper to be published in the interest of the Zionist movement, and to make the Maccabean into a weekly magazine, the organization of new societies, a propaganda for funds to carry on the federation work, and the recognition of the Young Judea movement were adopted by the convention.

On Monday a letter from Dr. J. Ruppin, of Jaffa, Palestine, a leader in the international Zionist movement, was read. It contained the suggestion that the convention consider the advisability of establishing an American society with a fund of about $1,000,000 to further the Zionist movement. The suggestion was met with cheers, and it is likely that some action will be taken.

The letter spoke of the wealth of mineral deposits on the land that the Zionists have purchased from Turkey, and suggested that the exploitation of the resources might do much to aid in the support of the colonies. It also advocated the building of health resorts at the springs of Tiberias, where 2,000 years ago, according to history, the ancient kings bathed.

To care for increasing immigration, Dr. Ruppin recommended that further townships be established in Haifa, Jerusalem and Tiberias, and that quarters be established there similar to those in Telaviv, the centre of the Hebrew colonies in Palestine.

In the evening a dinner was tendered the delegates, at which the speakers were Dr. J. L. Magnes, Miss Henrietta Szold, A. Rosenblatt and Abram Goldberg, of New York; M. L. Aynor, Pittsburgh; J. de Haas, Boston, and A. L. Fromenson, Philadelphia.

The convention closed on Wednesday with the election of the following officers: Honorary president, Harry Friedenwald, of Baltimore; secretary, Bernard Rosenblatt, of New York; treasurer, Louis Robison, of New York. Administrative Committee—S. Abel, Charles Cowen and A. Goldberg, of New York. Executive Committee—Louis Lipsky, chairman; Dr. D. De Sola Pool, Jacob Fishman, L. Robison, E. M. Albert Lucas Association

On Saturday evening the newly elected officers of this association were installed. There was a very large attendance. Mr. Conrad J. Saphier reported upon the religious classes in the Pike street and Rivington street synagogues. These were in a very satisfactory condition. He paid a high tribute to Miss Augusta Wolf, principal of the Rivington street classes, and to all of the volunteer teaching staff. There were forty-one classes, all taught by former pupils of the classes, with the exception of only eight teachers, who came into the work from outside their own ranks. He hoped that the association would be able to increase its sphere of usefulness among the children this year by again conducting a "Jewish Center" as advocated by Mr. Lucas.

The election resulted as follows:—for president, Mr. Conrad J. Saphier (re-elected); first vice-president, Miss Augusta Wolf (re-elected); second vice-president, Mrs. Nathan Behr, treasurer, Mr. Abraham Krumbeln (re-elected); financial secretary, Miss Martha Wolf; recording secretary, Miss Jennie Dienstag. The Establishment of Boté Dinim big centers, at present in an admittedly unsatisfactory condition, would be improved if Boté Dinim were established, consisting of qualified rabbis and backed up by strong lay bodies—call them Kashruth boards or boards of Shechita—the name is unimportant. The lay body would consist of representatives of various orthodox congregations and would take charge of the business end—the administrative portion of the work. The Beth Din (the members of which would be rabbis, enjoying the confidence of orthodox Jews), would control the religious side of the organization. They would not only examine Shochetim and Bodekim, and satisfy themselves as to their religious and moral fitness, theoretical knowledge and practical skill. They would also investigate the trustworthiness of retail butchers, who profess to sell kosher meat, and they would supervise their shops as well as those of poultry dealers.

For the formation of such Boté Dinim and boards of Kashruth, goodwill, desire for co-operation, and a spirit of loyalty between the various orthodox congregations in a city, are absolutely indispensable. With such a spirit, Kashruth could be put on a proper basis, and with no prejudice to vested interests. Without it we will continue to drift.

My remarks have special reference to New York. I leave it to you, gentlemen, to say, whether in other large centres conditions are better and whether the time has not come for the union of orthodox congregations and the formation of Boté Dinim for safeguarding the interests of Kashruth.

I have referred to another most useful function of the London Beth Din—its work as a court of arbitration. The Beth Din in Leeds, also, regularly exercises similar functions. This feature might be adopted with advantage, on this side of the Atlantic. In New York, with its vast Jewish population, and its Jewish judges, there is little danger that there will be outbursts of impatience on the part of the occupants of the bench at the congestion of the courts by Jewish litigants. Still the interests of our people would be furthered, and the good name of our faith and race would be enhanced, if there were Boté Dinim which held regular sessions as courts of arbitration. Their authority would be purely moral. There would be no legal compulsion on litigants to avail themselves of their services. But, if the right men were appointed and if cases were only taken after a proper submission to arbitration had been signed by the parties, so that awards would be enforced, the value of such courts would be recognized by the people, and in course of time even by the judicial authorities, as is the case in England.

But, here again, if these courts are to enjoy authority with the people they must derive their authority from the people. Isolated, individual, sporadic efforts are useless. They will perish untimely, or, like Jonah's gourd, will spring up in a night and wither in a night. They may even drag out a weak and sickly existence. If these courts are to become flourishing and permanent institutions, they must have the support of laymen. They must be established by the synagogues and supported by them.

Traditional orthodox Judaism, as a consistent and inspiring system of faith and conduct, is dear to us. It has preserved the Jewish people for thousands of years because the Jewish people have clung to it and preserved it with whole-hearted loyalty and devotion. If we value our religion and its institutions we will make the necessary sacrifices of time, thought, means and energy to preserve the heritage that has come down from the past for us and for our children after us forever.

Hebrew Charity.

There is one distinct quality that marks the charitable efforts of the Jews in caring for the unfortunates of their own race, and that is the infrequency with which any general appeal outside of the race is made. Broadly speaking, it may be said that the Jews take care of their own and yet find time and money to devote also to Gentile charities. In this matter they display a racial efficiency that is altogether commendable and from which our own charity organizations and societies might learn much.

Take, for instance, one of their most notable societies in New York, the Hebrew Loan Society. It is an organization that has learned how successfully to fight the loan sharks, one of the prolific causes of added poverty to the poor. The Hebrew Society loans money to those in need, instead of giving alms. It has a membership of about 6,000, and, strangely enough—but a striking proof of its efficiency—it is largely supported by the very class that uses it. As the secretary of the association reports: "It is, we can claim with justice, a monument of gratitude for benefits received, the helped becoming the helpers and the beneficiaries the benefactors."

What this society has done for the past twenty-two years has been to demonstrate by actual experience that most people are honest and repay their loans if a proper chance is given to them. Over 97 per cent. of the loans made by this society are repaid by the borrowers and less than 2 per cent. by the indorsers. Last year the losses averaged about one-half of one per cent.

The Jews assert, and there is no reason to dispute their claim, that they are the pioneers of the principle of self-help, and an effort will be made in the near future to form a federation of all the free loan associations on this continent. This will be one of the principal topics to be taken up at the National Conference of Jewish Charities in Memphis next year. Sincerely, it is to be hoped that all who are interested in helping the poor will be interested enough to make a study of this Jewish plan of free loans, a plan which assists respectable people who cannot accept alms, but who will accept a loan that will enable them to carry on the duties of life.—Indianapolis (Ind.) The Busy Chief Rabbi—Jewish Peace Society Inauguration—Important New Provincial Synagogue—Russian Jews and English Opinion—Straight Talk to Roumania—Engagement of Son of Lord Chief Justice—Dr. Katzenelsohn on His American Visit—Progress of Union of Jewish Literary Societies.

London, June 19, 1914.

Dr. Hertz is a very busy man these days despite the pressure of the ordinary duties connected with his high office. He appears to be using most of his spare time at this, that and the other interesting meeting or function, laying foundation stones and generally helping things along. Recently he presided over the inaugural meeting of the Jewish Peace Society, of which he is president. This was held at Jews' College. The Chief Rabbi, on opening the meeting, said other churches were represented on the National Peace Council, and it was felt that Jews should also take part in educating public opinion in the movement. Peace societies and Hague conferences were mighty achievements of the human spirit. The Rev. A. Cohen (Birmingham) proposed a resolution pledging the meeting to promote the success of the Jewish Peace Society by every means in its power. He said the establishment of the society was a most effective answer to the slander that Jews were a menace to the peace of the world. Even if it were true that Jews controlled the money market—he very much doubted whether it were true—it was a well-known fact that the greatest incentives to war at the present time were not financiers, but the ring of armor plate manufacturers, warship builders, etc. Mrs. Gilbert Samuel seconded the resolution, which was carried. Resolutions were also passed demanding the substitution of arbitration for war and welcoming the proposed celebration of one hundred years of peace between this country and the United States. The speakers, who were a very representative set, included the Rev. S. Friedberg (Liverpool), E. G. Smith, B. S. Straus, J. F. Green and the Rev. Israel Mattuck.

Owing to the growth of the Jewish community in Newcastle, England's great northeast coast port, a new synagogue is to be built there. The accommodation of the Leazes Park Road place of worship has been heavily taxed for some time, and the new building is intended to relieve this as well as to provide a more convenient synagogue for the members in the Jesmond district, where about 100 Jewish families reside.

The foundation stone of the new synagogue was laid on June 17 by the Chief Rabbi, and it is interesting to note that this was the first ceremony of the kind he has performed in this country since his appointment as Chief Rabbi. The main building, which will have accommodation for 322 persons, is to be placed centrally on the site, and will be approached from the road by a semi-circular drive which will allow of the convenient ingress and egress of carriages. A wide open porch will give access to an entrance hall of spacious dimensions, and at each end a fireproof staircase will lead to the ladies' gallery.

The interior of the synagogue will be well lighted, with flat ceilings over the side galleries and semi-circular ones over the main body of the building. The walls will have an oak-paneled dado, and the seating, ark and other fittings will also be of oak, with oiled finish. There will be a large circular stained glass window over the ark and another at the back of the gallery. The building will be lighted by electricity and the heating and ventilation will be on the most approved lines. Externally the building will be faced with sand-faced bricks, with white mortar joints, and will have stone dressings. The buildings have been designed in a free Byzantine style.

After the ceremony of laying the stone Doctor Hertz was entertained at dinner by the Building Committee of the synagogue, and among the guests were the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress of Newcastle, the city sheriffs and other important local magnates. The toast of the clergy of all denominations was honored on the call of E. Freedman and was responded to by Dr. Salls Dalches, the Sunderland rabbi, and the Rev. Alfred Hall, Unitarian minister, Newcastle.

I have already mentioned the fact that the London Times, unquestionably here regarded as the most authoritative of all daily newspapers, has been dealing lately with the Jewish question in Russia. Its views are not always, however, so clear-sighted as the community would like to see. In recent articles it has made many admissions to the effect that there is vast room for improvement in the treatment of Jews by the Russian Government. Then, however, it diminishes much of the effect of its revelations by a statement to the effect that whatever Russia did to her Jews was her concern and no one else's. Apart from all other considerations this is quite a new policy for England, at any rate, to adopt. This country has not hesitated from the time of Cromwell and earlier until the present day, that of the atrocities in the Congo and the Putumayo, to protest and even to threaten when another power displayed inhumanity in the treatment of any of her subjects. If such action were justified in the case of the savages of Central Africa and Central America, it cannot be said that atrocities committed on the bodies and souls of civilized Europeans is outside the ken of the British Government.

The British Government is, however, more concerned in the Russian atrocities than any other power. The national religion of the two countries is closely akin, and a practical union between them has been under consideration for many years. Christianity is common to all the nations of Europe, and deeds committed in the name of this universal religion in one state is undoubtedly the concern of all the others. As, however, English Christianity is closer than any other national Christianity to that of Russia, the deeds committed in the name of the common faith in the latter empire should come far more closely than elsewhere to the consciences of the British churches. In proportion, as they do not protest against the travesty of Christianity performed in Russia, so must they be held morally to partake of it.

Again, there is an entente, a sort of alliance, in force between the British and the Russian governments. They work in a limited partnership. The moral reputation of one of the parties to this partnership is sullied by wrongs which it commits at the expense of an innocent people. Can one say that the close association leaves the other quite uncontaminated? One cannot touch pitch without being defiled, and a partnership of this description necessarily depresses the other party in the moral scale.

The foregoing arguments which show the concern of the British people and government with the Russian persecution belong to the moral sphere. The practical man may feel inclined to ignore them. There is, however, another to which the practical man must needs give attention. An immigration of Russian Jews is apparently undesired in this country, and in order to dam it an aliens act has been adopted. The Englishman will perhaps be surprised to learn that the Russian Jew has really no desire to settle in England. He far prefers to remain in Russia. But self-preservation is the first law of nature. In Russia at present the Jew day and night lives in danger of his life, and therefore at the first opportunity he flees even to a land where he knows he is unwelcome, where his existence will be hedged round by artificial difficulties. If England considers the presence of Russian Jews in her midst undesirable, she should use her good offices with her friend so that it is made possible for them to remain in their native land and be treated there as human beings.

Allied to the same question comes the news in the form of a statement in the House of Commons last week to the effect that the British Government proposes itself to inform the Balkan States concerned that they will only recognize the recent annexations on condition that the annexing states "acknowledge the binding force in respect of the annexed territories of those provisions of the Treaty of Berlin which insure the equal rights of religious or national minorities." The announcement will be received with satisfaction, not only by Jews, but by other nationalities, such as the Bulgarians, whose rights in the incorporated areas are far from secure, in some things very little more so than those of the Jews.

The Hon. Gerald Rufus Isaacs, only son of the Lord Chief Justice of England, is about to marry Eva Violet, the eldest daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Alfred Mond, who is one of the great chemical trade millionaires of this country.

Dr. Katzenelsohn is on his way back to the European Continent after his recent visit to America. When passing through England last week he gave his views on American emigration. He was delighted with the immense population of Jews in New York and looked with no small satisfaction upon numbers of his own co-patriots from Russia living lives of freedom and equality under the beneficent sway of the Stars and Stripes instead of under conditions that prevail "at home." In Russia, he said, with a brief incursion into humor, it is all stripes for the poor Jews and the only stars to which they can look are those in the heavens, from a sight of which, until now, the Russian bureaucracy has not been enabled to exclude them.

Upon the proposition to establish a bank for the purpose of assisting the financial needs of emigrants into America he would say nothing, reserving his views, in the first place, to report upon to his colleagues on the Board of the Jewish Colonial Trust and on the Zionist Actions Committee. This, however, he would say as a result of his visit he is confirmed in the view he held as to the opinion of well-informed American circles with regard to the necessity of the project he had in hand when he and Mr. Hirsch made up their minds to visit New York.

The annual convention of the Union of Jewish Literary Societies was held on

We Have Moved Our Store to 149 West 42nd Street to 21 West 46th Street And invite an inspection of STRAW HATS

June 14 at Newcastle. Some very interesting sessions were enjoyed and a good helpful conference resulted. The union is showing phenomenal growth. The president, Mrs. M. A. Spielmann, reported that fifteen new societies and seven religion classes had been affiliated during the past session. The religion classes halted without exception from London, but of the fifteen societies only five were metropolitan, being distributed over England, Scotland and Wales.

The traffic in Prussian honorific titles, which the Socialist Deputy Liebknecht, a member of the German Reichstag, seems to have unearthed is nothing short of disgraceful, utterly unworthy of a great nation like the German. And the tragedy of it all: Jews have always had to pay double prices for their distinctions! Such "Jews," however, as purchased "distinctions" like these upon such terms were fully entitled to the benefits of their bargains! Only in their case the old legal maxim, caveat emptor, abundantly applies.

In the House of Representatives on June 19, in the course of a report by the Committee on Elections, No. 3, the chairman of which is Hon. Henry M. Goldfogle, a splendid tribute was paid the chairman's judicial fairness and thorough impartiality by members of the House who are opposed to him in their political faith. No higher compliment can be paid a public man than the sincere expressions of regard of his political enemies and, when it is remembered that Representatives Bartholdt and Shreve were the authors of this rare and exceptional tribute, Representative Goldfogle has abundant reason to be proud of his achievement. It shows for one thing that his temperament excellently fits him for judicial preferment.

The "Students' Annual, 1914," of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America is, what its name implies: a volume issued by a committee of students of that institution containing historical and descriptive accounts of the Seminary, notes on the alumni and the students, and a literary section of surpassing excellence. This is not the ordinary college annual, for the literary section mentioned above lifts the book above such a character. In it we find papers of a scholarly and searching nature written by members of the faculty, by alumni and by students, ranging from interesting expositions of Biblical passages, through textual studies and other learned matters to popular addresses on topics of Jewish interest, and even to a Jewish story of our Civil War. The mechanical side of the book leaves nothing to be wished for; the illustrations enrich and set off the printed pages to good advantage. The Seminary students, responsible for the production of this volume, should be encouraged to persist in their attempt, so successfully initiated, and the community ought to liberally purchase copies of the book. Its price is well within the reach of all, and a steady and considerable number of sales will enable the youthful publishers to carry on their enterprise in the future. They deserve this encouragement.

Of the reports presented to the seventh convention of the Union of Orthodox Congregations of America, that by Albert Lucas, one of the secretaries, dealing with Jewish education and the Jewish centers which he inaugurated and for a time conducted on the East Side of this city, is worthy a few words of comment. Mr. Lucas tells no new story in his report; indeed, it is substantially a repetition of the statements made by him in various media ever since his centers were compelled to shut down because of lack of funds with which to carry them on. Since that time, Mr. Lucas has been devoting his attention to whipping this community into the necessary enthusiasm for and appreciation of the problem of Jewish education, and now he has read his narrative to that audience which ought to take the greatest interest in it: the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of the United States and Canada. A Jewish atmosphere to surround the children is the great desideratum in Jewish education in this and other populous cities, and this report describes the details of such a needed training. We have so often considered the matter that we forbear from again burdening our readers with its description. But we think that Mr. Lucas' report deserves to be taken up and made the platform of an active campaign for funds and workers on the part of this Orthodox Union. If this body does not so act; if this body which writes the preservation of Judaism through coming generations high on its banner in flaming letters does not move, then Jewish education in America should be left to the care of the Reformer and the missionary. The others won't interest themselves in it!

DIMINISHING THE NIMBUS

FOR centuries the Jews have been looked upon by orthodox Christians as the Chosen People, for they gave to the world the Word of God. This aspect of the non-Jewish attitude toward the Jews reacted for the best upon the latter; it served ever to supply them with a consciousness and pride of race which successfully withstood all the dire oppressions and persecutions they were subject to. In later years, when for many Christians their own orthodoxy has ceased to possess its primal force and when the growth of refinement among men has become marked and thus consigned to limbo the old and crude, rabid methods of the traditional Jew-baiter, the world of non-Jewish scholars has sought to deal Jewry "a blow below the belt," one which it is hoped will remove from the Jews the power of their claim and their right to be considered the first company of men who ethicized the relations for living, and who produced the divinely-inspired Bible.

These efforts have usually taken the form of "discoveries" that the Babylonians or the Chaldeans or the Assyrians, who were not Semites like the Jews, but were Semites none the less, had committed to imperishable records codes of law antedating and rivaling in ethical content the precepts laid down for humanity by Moshe Rabbenu. So much achieved, the scholars have pursued the even tenor of their way, and but the other day one of their number found, in Philadelphia, apparently, of all places, an early series of Babylonian tablets from Nippur containing a clear and of course pre-Semitic (intended for pre-Hebraic) account of the Deluge and the Fall of Man. And, naturally, the world stands impressed at this discovery and applauds, and as a matter of consequence opines that the Jews had not such an exclusive contract for presenting ethical and great religious truths in their first form as they would wish men to believe. And the daily newspaper gives broad space to the phenomenal triumph of scholarship and the man in the street repeats in unmistakable accents, "I told you so!"

Yet we believe the Jews may pursue the even tenor of their way, and justly claim what they have always claimed. Ham-murabi was but the slogan of a season, and, if we mistake not, the great scholars within Jewry will successfully refute the alleged testimony of Nippur.

A statistical study of the Jewish population of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, recently published in Die Welt, shows that in the last twenty years the Jewish element in the population has not increased in the same ratio as the general population. Thus it represents in the case of Austrian-Jewry the same situation as that affecting the Jews in the German Empire, where a steady decrease in the number of births and an increase in the baptisms and mixed marriages have produced this result. Vienna, of course, has, so far as its Jewish population is concerned, steadily gained in numbers, and yet even here the due proportion of this increase has not been maintained. In other large cities in the monarchy there was a substantial gain of the Jewish population, but Galicia, surely a home of part of the Jews in the Diaspora, shows a proportional falling off. Presumably emigration is the cause of it all. It is not remarkable that Jews should seek to exchange their habitations under the sway of Francis Joseph I. for others in more pleasant places. This is the natural order of things in the world. We do not believe, however, that the Jews will disappear in Austro-Hungary altogether. That were inconceivable, if not undesirable.

The French rabbis have been following the example of their American and English colleagues, and the other day at Paris they held a conference. The usual papers and reports were presented and discussed, but the meeting took a positive step forward in that the rabbis assembled adopted a series of resolutions setting forth the doctrine and practical implications of the Sabbath within Judaism. These leave nothing from the standpoint of orthodox believers to be desired, and, what is more, the French conference, thus again imitating similar bodies elsewhere, recognized the importance of religious instruction of the appropriate and fundamental sort for the preservation of Judaism. All these recent displays of profound interest in and activity on behalf of Jewish religious instruction ought to result in much good for the future of our faith. It were unthinkable that the leading men in our community give of their best thought and service to this problem of problems without thereby advancing it apace toward its necessary solution.

The fact that the Chief Rabbi of Anglo-Jewry was recently presented at court, that he was present at a levee held by King George V. in Buckingham Palace, may not be a momentous event. But it is a straw which evidences the direction of the wind for our brethren in the United Kingdom. It demonstrates that their religious leader is welcomed by the titular head of the nation, and that, therefore, it is well with them who dwell under the beneficent rule of that monarch. For the past three-quarters of a century a similar condition of affairs has prevailed continuously in Great Britain. The late Dr. Hermann Adler was frequently present at the state celebrations of Edward VII., and the king honored him on his seventieth birthday in 1909 by admission to his own Victorian Order. The present Chief Rabbi's debut at court, too, gives the lie to the suggestion assiduously stirred in certain quarters that George V. has not the same interest in and friendship for the Jews that characterized his father. And it is distinctly agreeable to find that the new ecclesiastical chief fits so well into the scheme of Anglo-Jewish life.

THE SONG OF THE WELL

עלי באר ענר-לה:

"Spring up, O well; sing ye unto it!"

(Num. xxi, 17.)

THE Well to which this song was sung by the wandering Israelites, gave forth not only waters but also wonders. Miraculous legends cluster about it even as did the thirsty people of yore. It is at this well that the famous event is reported to have taken place which barred Moses and Aaron from the Promised Land. Moses struck the rocky well whereas a word or two would have sufficed. You see that the well was regarded a thing alive, sensitive to harsh or gentle treatment. The well had a heart that was quite unlike its hard exterior; and the reason it refused its waters until it felt the stinging blows of Moses' punishing rod was that it mourned over the death of Miriam. Miriam had been as it were the Genius, the Guardian Angel, of the well. Up to her death, the well had accompanied the people through the desert, sharing for forty years the destinies of Israel; but Miriam was dead—and the tender-souled well grieved for her in its own way. When men mourn, the dried springs of the heart melt with tears; but when the well mourned, its tears dried up, its flow ceased.

To this animated rock, to this faithful companion of its wanderings, did the people, sure of ready response, sing the song: "Spring up O well."

Now when the popular mind fixes upon some object, bestowing upon it an affectionate regard and gilding it with the glamor of fancy, that object becomes a symbol of the people's soul. The soul of the well was really the soul of the people. The life of the well mirrored the life of the people. The people transferred its own life and soul into the crannies of the rock. If the people drew its tales from the rock, the rock drew its life from the tales of the people. Thus, the Song of the Well was in reality the Song of the Jewish Soul, addressed to itself. For when the people saw how the waters gushed forth out of the hidden depths of the rock, how freely and joyously they bubbled up and fell down in silvery cascades upon the parched ground, singing and dancing as they fell, it recognized in the rippling ease of the purling well a symbol of the spontaneity of its own soul. Did the well spring up more buoyantly on hearing this song? No; but that other well—the well within the people's soul—did. Did the waters babble more sweetly? No; but the naive tongue of the people, telling its tales of wonder and mystery, did. Whether the rock heard the song or not, Israel did; and thus while the one well sang of nature's power, the other well sang of God's power; and while the one well poured forth water, the other well poured forth thoughts. In clear silvery tones did the liquid beads drop from the stony bosom of the rock; in clear ringing tones did the words fall from the lips of the people. The rock sang to the people, the people sang to the rock; while we, separated from them by ages, listen to both and know that the Song of the Well is the Song of the World-Soul!

What is that mysterious power which forced the water out of the rock, strenuously and yet with such matchless ease that no compulsion was visible? What is that Hand which reaches down to the depth of things and sends to the surface shapes of endless variety and surpassing beauty, with resistless pressure and yet so gentle a touch that what seems a command becomes a coaxing, and what seems a blow becomes a caress? Where lies the secret of that spontaneity which is the actuating spring of all creation? Things grow and climb toward the light; things move and press forward; everywhere there is urgency and breathless speed and unerring purpose; yet everywhere there is ease and rest and quietude. God's cosmic engine emits neither smoke nor shrill blasts. The feeble grass is pushed forward with tremendous insistence through husk and clod, yet it appears to be growing freely, of its own accord; and while the sap within the tiny cells overcomes the law of gravitation it sings the song of Freedom: "Spring up, O grass; ye cells sing unto it!" And the flowers and the trees and the birds take up this song, carrying it over hill and dale to the farthest corners of the earth; and everywhere colors glow, branches spread, wings flutter—all spontaneously. The stars rush through space with terrific speed yet how reposefully do they twinkle in the heights; and while in the heart of the twilight the battle is waging between light and darkness, the dusk sings the Song of Freedom: "Spring up, O star; ye heavens sing unto it!" And the spheres take up this song, carrying it to the utmost boundaries of the universe; and forthwith everywhere a star springs into view—all spontaneously!

And again, what is that mysterious power which forces thoughts out of the human mind; which reaches down to the darkness of the intellect and sends forth glowing visions, iridescent sentiments, winged words pulsing with eternal life? Here again, in the well of the soul, there is the same stentless spontaneity behind which we feel the mighty impulsion of a power other than ourselves. What is more wonderful than the free flow of the soul's life? And yet this very freedom points to a higher Being under whose sway we think, we act, we create. Call it inspiration, call it by any name you please, that strange gift which changes the creature into a creator is the gift of spontaneity. The brain-centers sing the Song of Freedom: "Spring up, O thought; ye heart and mind sing unto it!" And each nerve and cell takes up this song, carrying it to the remotest nook of our being, filling our days with joy ineffable; and the blood dances in our veins as thoughts ripple forth out of the depths—all spontaneously!

Verily, as we behold this universal spontaneity that manifests itself in the life of nature and in the life of man, we arrive at the conclusion that beneath it all there is an inexhaustible Well, whence all power and all beauty and all thought flow. To this Well, hidden in the Rock of Ages, we raise our song: "Spring up, O well; sing ye unto it!"

We have so often in the past had occasion to refer to and comment upon the prayers offered up at the opening of the daily sessions of Congress, that our readers will probably be pleased to have us quote in extenso two very recent examples of these prayers. The first of these is as follows:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
Monday, June 8, 1914.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon. Rev. James F. Mackin, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Washington, D. C., offered the following prayer:

In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, Amen.

Our Father, the Father of all, of the Jew and the Gentile; our Father who art in heaven, which we hope will one day be our home, hallowed be Thy name. We pray Thee, O God of might, wisdom and justice, through whom authority is rightly administered, laws are enacted and judgment decreed, assist with Thy Holy Spirit of counsel and fortitude, the Members of this Congress; let the light of Thy divine wisdom direct their deliberations and shine forth in all the proceedings and laws framed for our rule and government, so that they may tend to the preservation of peace, the promotion of national happiness, the increase of industry, sobriety and useful knowledge, and may perpetuate to us the blessings of equal liberty; through Christ our Lord, Amen.

Now, we have the second one, composed by a rabbi in Israel. Our readers will easily note the difference, to wit:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.
Wednesday, June 10, 1914.

The House met at 12 o'clock noon. Rabbi Louis Stern, of the Eighth Street Temple, Washington, D. C., offered the following prayer:

We earnestly and reverently invoke Thy blessing, O Heavenly Father, upon this representative body, its Members and officers; and we ask Thy special blessing upon the Chaplain of this House, absent to-day, who for years, day after day, has so faithfully performed the sacred office here. We thank Thee for his fervent words of prayer, for the sanctifying impressions they have created, and the ennobling influences they have wrought. We thank Thee for the lessons they have taught—lessons of lofty patriotism, of personal liberty, of civic righteousness, of true humanity. We thank Thee that out of the physical darkness enshrouding his vision there has shone forth continually the resplendent light of an undying faith, a cheerful, contented disposition and a superb optimism. O God, bless Thy servant with health and long life, as a constant example and inspiration to the world around him, and more especially to the Members of this House in their daily lives and deliberations. We ask it for our common good and for the glory of Thy name, Amen.

Nearly always the battle is to the strong, even if the race be not to the swift.

THE ABUSE OF TELEPHONES

Every one must admit that the telephone is a wonderful addition to the utilities of the business and the household. It has become indispensable. It has one great drawback, however, and that is the impossibility of not being able to lock up the transmitter so that its use can be confined to those who are the patrons.

As it is at present any one can take up the transmitter in an office after office hours or at one's home and talk to any destination, which is being done daily in a large measure.

Even the servants in one's household parleys with servants in other domicils ad libitum, and by these methods the tolls are largely increased.

There ought to be some method of preventing the stealing of these calls, and a muzzle for the transmitter, during the absence of those having telephones, ought to be invented and put into service.

L'AIGLON.

Anshe Chesed Summer School.

The summer school of Temple Anshe Chesed will hold its first session on Tuesday morning, July 7. All Jewish children residing in the vicinity of the synagogue are welcome. Beside the regular class work a number of outings have been arranged.

Enrollment will take place on Sunday morning, July 5.

Washington Heights Congregation.

Contracts have been awarded for the erection of the new synagogue for the Washington Heights Congregation, at Nos. 508-510 West 161st street. The building will be far enough advanced to hold services during the coming holidays and a preliminary dedication service will be held on the Sunday of September 20.

Rabbi for Cong. Keneseth Israel.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Congregation Keneseth Israel, No. 615 West 179th street, Rabbi Milton M. Markowitz, of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, was elected the religious leader of the congregation.

Young Men's Hebrew Association.

The summer season is now fairly launched with all its attendant activities. The clubs are meeting during the week, so that the week-ends can be free for outings, hikes and excursions. Last Saturday night the Roof Garden opened for the season with brief formal exercises.

On the same evening the Harmony Associates entertained their friends at an informal banquet, during which Mr. Theodore B. Richter installed the new officers of the club for the coming term. There were also short addresses by Mr. Falk Younker and Rabbi Robison.

Last Sunday the Y. M. H. A. Camp at Lake Surprise, was opened for the season. The registration this year has been much heavier than in previous seasons.

Rabbi Heller in Town.

Rabbi Nachman Heller, of Charlestown, W. Va., is at present a visitor in New York city the guest of his cousin, Mr. Arnold Kushes, of No. 306 Madison street. Last Sabbath Dr. Heller delivered an address at the Beth Hakeneseth Anshe Bialystock, at Willet and Grand streets.

Dr. Heller will remain in New York for some time to see the completion of his recently republished Daniel and Ezra canonit text of the Biblical Aramaic and his translations of Hebrew, Yiddish and English. These writings of Dr. Heller have been indorsed by Prof. G. Deutsch, Rabbis Mendes, Klein, Levinthal and other eminent authorities. Dr. Heller has just completed a lecture tour of the South and West during which he visited Chicago, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Toledo, Columbus, Cleveland and other cities. He is a prolific writer and many of his contributions have appeared in these columns.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Is It a "Jewish Council"?

Editor HEBREW STANDARD: Read with much interest a letter in your issue of June 19, "Why Does the Council Violate the Sabbath?" I have been a member of the New York section for the past three years, having come here from another town. I was not alone amazed, but shocked at the meetings which I attended each month. I would like to know what has a Council of Jewish women to do with women policemen, poisonous matches, high cost of living and eugenics? These were the subjects treated at the different meetings. At the Chanukah celebration there were no Chanukah lights! Even if the president of the section is interested in immigration, must the religious work, the Jewish spirit for which the organization was founded, suffer?

One year the meetings opened with a Sukkan service at the Spanish and Portuguese synagogue at which Dr. Mendes and Dr. Pool officiated. It was most inspiring. But my hopes for a little more of this were dashed to the ground when this was followed by a special meeting on immigration, presided over by the president of the section, and at which the principal speaker was Mary Antin, a woman who married out of the faith and one who makes no pretense to being a Jewess; who is a poor speaker and in whose book the eating of Chazzir is made a special virtue!

At the Chanukah celebration at which a rabbi officiated, the whole sanctity of the day was "vulgarized" by the introduction of an address by a woman policeman! And she was followed by a speaker on legislation about poisonous matches! Now what has this to do with the Council of Jewish Women? Is the president of the New York Section so dead to the wishes of her members, so full of immigration, that she forgets the needs of those whose support she is constantly asking? Or is she ignorant of the fact that Jewish women want Jewish education, Jewish spirit, Jewish atmosphere?

A MEMBER OF THE NEW YORK SECTION.

Beware of the Missionaries!

Editor HEBREW STANDARD: We respectfully desire to call the attention of the Jewish public at this season of the year to the efforts being made by missionaries of sending children to country homes for vacation.

During their stay at the country as the guests of the missionaries the children coming from Jewish homes must offer Christian prayers and sing Christian hymns, and in several instances of which we have learned must attend chapel services.

We would advise all parents to acquaint themselves with the character of those who send their children away on free vacations, for many a Jewish child's first lesson in a foreign religion are received far away from the protecting influence of the home.

We would ask the Jewish editors to warn the parents of the summer activities of the missionaries and principals of Talmud Torahs, and superintendents of Jewish settlements to inform their children of the harmful results which may follow the spending of a vacation in a mission cottage.

Very respectfully,
BUILDERS OF ISRAEL,
Pauline Rothberg, Chairman,
Propaganda Committee.

First records by Cantor H. L. Martin with his chorus of the 86th St. Temple, New York

The Columbia Graphophone Co. has finally succeeded in securing something which is absolutely a novelty for all buyers of Columbia records, and now begs to introduce to its patrons Cantor H. L. Martin and his choir in a number of Jewish musical selections which are used in all synagogues the world over.

Heretofore we have had Jewish Cantors with good voices who merely improvised certain texts taken from the Jewish liturgy. The selections now presented, however, are each and all compositions of recognized historical merit, many of them being of ancient origin, such as the melody of the "V'Hakohanim" Temple service of Jerusalem. They are rendered most artistically by the Cantor with the support of a choir of the best trained and most beautiful voices available.

Westchester Summer News.
This will be a busy week in this section.

At Larchmont Manor great preparations are being made for Independence Day.

At the Yacht Club, a beautiful fleet of yachts is assembled and any number of water sports are planned. On the night of the fourth there will be a great display of fireworks off the Yacht Club pier.

The Royal Victoria Hotel is fast filling up with guests, and by the fourth expects to be full. They have nightly dances and a well known maitre de danse from New York to whose instruction guests are welcome. There is music every morning at eleven as well as in the evening.

Among the guests are Mr. and Mrs. Max J. Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jacobs and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eckstein, Mr. and Mrs. R. Stix, Mr. and Mrs. Ansbacher, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Farohelm, Mr. and Mrs. Ellinger, Mr. and Mrs. Sol. Strook, Mr. and Mrs. Kraus, Mr. and Mrs. Elsass, the Misses Ansbacher, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Metzger and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Stein and family and many more will be enrolled to-day.

There is a fine bathing beach and good bath houses, golf, tennis and excellent boating.

At the Wolff Inn, there are mid-week contest dances where prizes are given, the audience adjudging the winners.

Motor parties from Pelham, Mamaroneck, Rye and the adjacent places come to witness these dances.

Beatrice Forbes-Roberston delivered a brilliant suffrage lecture at the Village Hall here.

The Kohn family in Kane Park entertained quite a few friends during the week.

The Aaron Hecht House, on Larchmont avenue, is still closed, the family, however, being shortly expected from Europe.

The Shinasis have greatly enhanced the beauty of their summer villa on The Circle.

A great influx of visitors for house parties is expected this week.

Mamaroneck
Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Schulman were the guests during the week of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus at Driftwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Goodheart entertained a few friends at tea in their home at Arienta Point.

The Brandons will entertain some friends over the fourth.

Briarcliffe.
At the hotel here the weekly mid-afternoon musicals are a great attraction for summer colonists of this entire section.

Good News for Dancers.
The tangoists, turkey trotters, waltzers, lame duck gliders and the syncopated dancers of every description are now offered an added incentive in the way of perfecting their steps.

Heretofore the amateur experts have been content with visiting the various tango parlors and "sharpshooting" for silver cups, trophies, bonnets, wearing apparel and what is popularly known as "useful to wear" articles.

Now they have an opportunity of winning a fully equipped touring car, which is offered as a prize in a dancing contest.

The history of competitions in the modern dances dates back to last September. At a special "harvest festival," held at the Hotel Shelburne at Brighton Beach, a magnum of champagne was offered to the couple executing the modern society dances most artistically.

Quite an enthusiasm was created, a large number of the guests participating in the contest. Following this, dancing competitions were put on as a regular feature, the other restaurants, hotels and theatres following suit in rapid succession, until now it has become a recognized fixture in all restaurants and amusement resorts.

From the beginning the prizes offered represented a fair outlay of money. Cups valued at $15 and $20 seem to have been the minimum, with other awards mounting the scale of cash expenditures until it has reached the hitherto high mark of $100 offered recently to the winning couple in a seaside park competition.

The latter attracted a great deal of attention and was the means of bringing out very capable dancers, who have since joined the professional contingent. One hundred dollars in cash seemed the standard for a period, and would have possibly continued for some time as the maximum figure had it not been for the enterprising managers of resorts located at Brighton Beach, who now offer prizes which exceed in value the sum of three thousand dollars.

Touring cars, seating five passengers each, fully equipped with all the comforts, conveniences and latest appointments, now adorn the lobbies of S. Mark Minuse's Brighton Beach Casino and the Hotel Shelburne. A placard in each of the establishments announces that the automobile will be awarded in elimination contests to be held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings throughout the season. These contests are open to all amateurs, and professional dancers will be ineligible to compete.

The Beauty of the Mountains.
 The advantage to be gained by the city dweller in the way of health and general well-being through a vacation in the country during the heated period of the summer are well known and probably understood by all. Perhaps no region offers more advantages than the Sullivan county mountains, which are approximately but 100 miles from the city and reached in from three to four hours. Here nature has provided a vast natural park of about 5,000 square miles, which is now devoted almost entirely to the entertainment of summer guests, and where the hostilities, with but few exceptions, are catering especially to our coreligionists. In Sullivan county the boarding house or hotel keeper is constantly making improvements to his property and provides his table with the products of nature, which are so near at hand. The richest of milk and cream and fresh eggs in abundance are obtained here and the farm and orchard produce is unsurpassed.

In Sullivan county are to be found hotels and boarding houses to fit almost everyone's purse, and a perusal of our advertising columns will afford the reader the opportunity of selecting the place which is most likely to suit him. In addition to appealing to his gastronomic fancies, Sullivan county provides him with a maximum of cooling breezes and such a sport as excessive heat is unknown. Sports of all kind are to be found there and fishing, bathing, boating, driving and motoring can be indulged in. The new State roads throughout the county are models of their kind and afford easy access from place to place.

The first station we reach in Sullivan county is Bloomingburg and situated but a short distance from the station, on the mountain side, is the Chateau Snawanga, which, under new management, offers every comfort and convenience. Two stations beyond we come to Mountain-dale, where is located the famous Park House, which is also under new management this season, and has been entirely refitted throughout. Both of these establishments provide their guests with Kosher Hungarian cuisine.

At South Fallsburgh, Messrs. Fleisher and Morgenstern, who have so ably conducted the Flagler House for many seasons past, are preparing for a bigger season than ever. Beautifully situated on the Neversink River, equipped with electric lights and a new addition, every comfort is afforded to the sojourner. A newly built casino, bowling alleys and dance pavilion is opposite the hotel, and Kosher cuisine remains a feature as heretofore.

The New Prospect House, under the management of Gerson and Pelleman, at Fallsburgh, has all modern improvements and the disciples of terpsichore have a fine room in which to exercise in their favorite pastime.

Messrs. Ehrenzweig and Levine have thoroughly renovated the Prospect House at Fallsburgh, and will provide an excellent kosher cuisine. The Waldorf Hotel is another strictly kosher resort and mine host Findling has an enviable reputation as a boniface. Other famous Fallsburgh and South Fallsburgh hostilities are the Hoffman House, presided over by Messrs. Goldstein and Taback; the Heiden House, which has been completely renovated by its proprietor Mr. D. Heiden; the Mountain Pleasure House, where the famous kosher cuisine is under the personal direction of Mrs. Phil Grenberg; the Cedar Inn, which, in addition to other advantages, offers many natural features, including splendid waterfalls, and The Kiamasha Rest, which is under the management of Mr. Sam Weiss of the Nowlan Cottage of Lakewood, N. J.

From Fallsburgh station it is but a short drive to the far famed Kiamasha Lake, which has been extolled for so many years by all who have had the good fortune to visit this resort. The foremost hotel here is the Kiamasha Inn, which is under the able guidance of Mr. Bernard Turkel, who is known to so many as the proprietor of Vienna Hall, this city. The Kiamasha Inn accommodates 500, and has the additional advantage of offering rooms en suite with private bath. Of course nothing need be said about the cuisine, as that has always been a feature with Mr. Turkel.

The Geffen House at Kiamasha is a newly built house with all the latest improvements, and the strictly kosher cuisine is attested to by two separate kitchens under rabbinical supervision. The Kiamasha House is under new management this year, that of Mr. M. Krauss, an old hotel man, which promises a first class resort down to every minute detail.

Monticello, the county seat, is a village with a resident population of over 2,000, and each year harbors more and more of our co-religionists, who are quick to take advantage of the many natural offerings here. For the current season Wolf's Corner Hotel, situated on the beautiful Maplewood road, is under new management and the proprietor, Mr. Morris Loewenthal, provides every attraction for his guests, including a lake for rowing and a cement swimming pool for bathing.

 Mr. Henry Holtz, who for the past eight years conducted the Albert House, will this year have charge of the famous Frank Leslie House, which accommodates 150 guests, and is open for the reception of Jewish guests for the first time.

The famous Norman House is booked for a big season and Mr. John Ash, the manager, has installed many improvements, among which are a number of tents which may be had for those who desire to live close to nature.

The Albert House this season is under the management of Mr. Frank J. Welton, a hotel man of experience, which augurs well for its success.

To those who are in doubt as to where to locate in Monticello or vicinity, Mr. Henry Hirschaut offers his services as broker, either for the sale, rent or exchange of boarding houses, hotels and farms.

A little further up the line we come to beautiful Luzon, formerly known as Hurleyville and among the leading hotels in that section may be mentioned the Prairie House, under the management of S. and H. Shindler; I. B. Lehigh's Newark House; Dan and Goldstein's Morningside Hotel; the Marble House under the direction of Mr. A. Listizky; M. Natkin's Lake View House, and Shindler Brothers' Grand View House. All of these houses offer strictly kosher cuisine, and as they all have farms connected with them, it is obvious that lovers of milk, eggs, and vegetables are assured of the best in that line. These hotels are moderate in price and offer every outdoor advantage.

The highest hotel in Sullivan county is the Walnut Mountain House, at Ferndale, Liberty station, located 2,400 feet above the sea level and affording the most wonderful of views. The hotel is beautifully appointed and the new proprietor, Mr. Jacob Cohen, promises a strictly kosher cuisine of super-excellence.

The Seiken House, at Ferndale, offers all modern improvements, including baths, electric lights, boating, fishing and bathing.

The last station in Sullivan county where our co-religionists have settled to any great extent is Parksville, and here we find a number of magnificent hostilities, including the Holland House, Mr. H. Hollander, proprietor; the Belmont, J. Finger, proprietor; the High View, F. Berkowitz, proprietor; and the Westin House and cottages, A Westin proprietor.

Jewish farmers of Sullivan and Ulster counties, encouraged by their success in carrying co-operative fire insurance, have now formed a co-operative bank and at the organization meeting, held at Centerville last week, $60,000 was subscribed. It is expected that $40,000 additional will be paid in when the bank opens on September 1. The insurance society has a total of $904,470 in force and cost its shareholders less than twenty per cent. of the rates charged by other companies last year.

The result of the recent elections of Jerusalem for the Municipal Council is disheartening for the Jews. The previous Council had three Jewish members, now not a single Jew has a seat on that body. The Provincial Council for Jerusalem also has no Jewish member. This state of affairs is due to the disunion that prevails in the Jewish community.

The military authorities recently arrested some young rabbis in Jerusalem, who claimed exemption from service. The authorities have been ordered by the Minister of War to release the rabbis and to suspend the enrollment until the question had been settled between him and the Haham Bashi of Turkey, who had made strong representations to him on the matter.

West Side Jewish Association.

The second conference of delegates of young folks' organizations of West Side congregations was held last Monday evening, June 29. Rev. Dr. H. Perelra Mendes, minister of Shearith Israel, and Dr. Richard Stern, of New Rochelle, the latter of whom has taken a great deal of interest in young folks' organizations, were present in an advisory capacity.

It was unanimously decided to federate the young folks' organizations of West Side congregations with a view to coordinating in their work and stimulating their interest in serious channels, especially in the lessening of proselytizing on the lower West Side, and the instilling of religiousness in the youth of the middle and upper West Side. Manuel F. Behar was elected president, and Miss Miriam Reinhardt was elected secretary.

At the Brighton Beach Music Hall for the coming week, starting with a Monday matinee, there will be an attractive list of entertainers, including Miss Belle Story, a dainty singer of sweet songs; "Chick" Sale, an impersonator of humorous, rural character studies taken from life; Bert Kalmar and Jessie Brown, talented singers and dancers; Bessie and Harriet Rempel, in "When We Grow Up;" El Rey Sisters, tango skaters; Sylvia Loyal and Her Pierrot, in an original versatile act with seventy pigeons. Alan Brooks and company, and Charles Thompson.

The dancing on the ball room stage of the Music Hall has proved a most popular innovation, and with the added attraction of free instruction by some of the most eminent dancers of the day, patrons are taking advantage of the opportunities and seem to enjoy the terpsichorean pastime very much.

He has frequently delivered lectures and written papers upon public questions, including the "American Passport Question," "The National Divorce Law" and the "Rights of Labor in a Republic."

Mr. Blumenthal is at present actively engaged in practicing law under the firm name of Maurice B. & Daniel W. Blumenthal.

Honor and Reverence

Dear Children:

Rabbi Elazar Ben Shanina said, "Let the honor of thy disciple be as dear to thee as thine own and the honor of thine associate as thy reverence for thy teacher, and thy reverence for thy teacher like thy awe of Heaven."

This maxim is aptly illustrated by the Rabbins of blessed memory as follows:

We are taught that the honor of our disciple shall be as dear to us as our own from the example set us by our Law-giver Moses, for he said to Joshua, "Choose for us men." He did not say to him, "Choose for me," but "choose for us," making him his equal, although he was his teacher and Joshua was his disciple, and whence do we infer that the honor of one's associate should be as the reverence for his teacher, for it is said, "Then said Aaron unto Moses, alas, my lord," although he was his younger brother, still he considered him his master and called him "my Lord," and whence do we infer that the honor of one teacher should be as precious to him as the honor of heaven, for it is said, "And Joshua, the son of Nun, the servant of Moses from his youth, answered and said, 'My lord Moses, forbid them, as he who rebels against thee is as if he rebelled against the honor of Heaven.'"

Rabbi Naphtali Hertz Wesley, of blessed memory, says that the honoring of the disciple by the teacher does not merely mean that he shall not put him to shame, but just as he is careful to weigh his own opinion in the scale of intelligence to see if it is possible to reconcile it with the truth of the Torah which he studies, and just as he is loath to reject it, unless he is convinced that his own opinion is not in accord with the truth of the Torah; thus shall he treat the opinion of his disciple whose honor he shall consider equal to his own and whose opinion he shall weigh just as carefully, bearing in mind what Rabbi Chanina said: "Much Torah have I learned from my teachers and from my associates more than from my teachers, and from my disciples more than from all."

Now what is the difference between honor and reverence? By honor we mean that he shall not despise the words of his disciple and carefully consider them, as perhaps he is giving an opinion that is reasonable. By reverence we mean that he shall not contradict the words of him whom he reveres. A teacher can honor his disciple, but not treat him with reverence, for the disciple is not allowed to dispute his teacher's opinion, while the teacher may reject the opinion of his disciple if it does not seem right to him, without being prevented from doing so by a feeling of reverence. However this feeling of reverence one should entertain toward his associates who study the Torah, and, even though he is not bound to accept their opinion if it is contrary to his own still they shall appear in his eyes as if they were his teacher's and he should defer to their opinion and not contradict their words, bearing in mind the words of Rabbi Jose: "As long as I live I have never disregarded the words of my associates."

And your teachers you must revere, and accept their teaching, and not contradict their words, nor cast any doubt upon them, nor consider your opinion more correct than theirs, just as the fear of Heaven is upon you and you are in duty bound to fear the Lord in Heaven and accept His commandments, statutes and laws, whether you understand them or not, as it is written, "Be not wise in thy own eyes; fear the Lord and depart from evil." It is also written, "Trust in the Lord with all thy heart, and upon thy own understanding do not rely?"

Thus has Rabbi Elazar Ben Shanina taught us how to act in learning the Torah and in teaching it to others and if we will be careful to conduct ourselves in accordance with his teaching we will merit to attain the crown of the Torah.

Apropos of the numerous influential malefactors whose prison terms are either annulled or cut down to nearly nothing, Mayor Brand Whitlock, of Toledo, said a short while ago:

"Is it a good thing for the public to let these men out so soon?"

"I was sympathizing one afternoon with a poor woman whose husband had just been sent to jail. She was weeping bitterly, and I said to her:

"Now, don't take it so hard. Two years is a long sentence, I know; but he may not have to serve it all. Convicts who behave themselves oftentimes get out months before their appointed time."

"That's just it," she replied, still sobbing; "Henry can be an angel when he likes."—Lippincott's.

A teacher asked her class to draw a picture of what they wished to be when they grew up, and all went diligently to work except one little girl, who only chewed her pencil.

"Don't you know what you want to be when you grow up, Alma?" asked her teacher.

"Yes, I know," replied the little girl; "but I don't know how to draw it. I want to be married."

During a municipal campaign in Chicago a politician dropped in one morning to see a certain grocer. During the conversation that took place the politician asked: "And I may count upon your support, may I not?"

"Why, no, I am sorry to say," replied the grocer. "The fact is, I have promised my support to the other candidate."

The politician laughed. "Ah!" said he, "in politics, promising and performing are two different things."

"In that case," said the grocer cordially, "I shall be glad to give you my promise, sir."—Lippincott's.

"How often does your road kill a man?" asked a facetious traveling salesman of a railroad conductor the other day.

"Just once," replied the conductor, sourly.

CONUNDRUMS.

Who is more to be admired than a promising young man?

A paying one.

When a fast young man says, "I think I had better marry and settle down," what would you advise instead?

Better stay single and settle up.

Which one of the children does the mother love best?

Always the absent one.

What is the difference between an apple and a girl?

You have to squeeze the apple to get cider, but you have to get sid'er to squeeze her.

Woman, we can't guess her, but we'll never give her up.

RHEUMATISM
MEDICINE FREE
We want the name of every person everywhere who is suffering with rheumatism, so we can send him a free sample bottle of Hill's Rheumatic Remedy. We don't care how long or how severe he has had it, as there are very few cases that have not yielded and been thoroughly cured with it. It works at once. In twenty-four hours it stops the pain. Don't take our word for it—test it at our expense. This is not a new, untried thing. For twenty-five years it has been regarded by physicians as practically the only certain treatment for this terrible disease.
Over 10,000 Testimonials Like These:
Mr. E. M. Ehlers, Secretary Grand Lodge of Masons of New York State writes that "Although a sufferer from rheumatism for many years, two doses stopped all pain and one bottle cured me."
Mr. A. Goldman, Victoria, Tex., says:
"I am very well pleased with your medicine; am recommending it very highly.
It has done more for me than anything
I have ever tried."
Marshall F. W. Geraty, of 70 Manhattan street, New York, says: "I have suffered with rheumatism for many years, have tried almost every known remedy, but got no relief or cure until I took yours. In forty-eight hours I was entirely cured and free from all pain.
I send this unsolicited."
Hill's Rheumatic Remedy is on sale at most drug stores at $1 per bottle. One bottle generally effects a complete cure.
Call or send for free sample bottle and booklet at once. There is no greater service you can perform for humanity than to tell any rheumatic sufferer about this wonderful preparation. Adty-fourth street, New York, N. Y.
