BRODSKY TELLS HIS STORY

By Leon Feraru

The morning prayer was not yet finished in the neat little chapel contiguous to the class room where Brodsky waited for the return of his fellow scholars. He did not live on the college campus, but came each morning from town, where a poor and meek dry goods peddler rented him a room and the endless occasion to study misery at first hand. So it always happened that he had to wait a few minutes in the empty room on whose walls the blackboards seem to have put an eternal mourning. The manly voices of the students chanting the religious hymns every morning made the only Jewish student in Tarrington College feel lonesome in the midst of a world which he tried to understand and for which he certainly had great sympathy. The difference in creeds, however, always aroused in his soul a wish that all beliefs would be unified for the sake of universal love.

Brodsky stood at the window which looked out on the campus, luxuriously ornamented with trees, lawns and flowers, and majestically surrounded by stone buildings whose Gothic style recalled another century of odd history. He felt forlorn and forgotten, far from his first medium—as far as America is from Russia. His high school days in the city which his parents are still hoping to leave when better times will allow the boy to call them never fell into oblivion, and he saw them in his mind's eye as though all were happening under his glances at that very moment.

Here he was at ease when the professors preached their regular gospel of light. Prejudice did not color their teaching and marks were not given with partiality when they had to recompense the task of a Jew or of a Gentile. The instructors were kind and good-hearted; he had friends among them; he had their warm appreciation for his general demeanor and he never could compare them with his previous masters, who to him seemed to be executioners.

they had a certain gentleness in his needs and sorrows. But there their behavior toward him; talked to was something which awoke in him with deference and care, asked Brodsky's thoughts the suspicion that the cause of it, as he had several times become aware of the secret merriment he caused by simply reciting a lesson or speaking to somebody.

His very pronounced foreign intonation, his poor English, acquired in the two years since he had landed, had a great deal to do with the sudden gayety of the entire class every time Brodsky was called upon to recite his well-prepared lesson. A stifled laughter, a whispered allusion, a general movement on the benches, an interchange of signs, very often suppressed by the amazed and angry glances of the teacher, was wont to disturb the whole room.

As he knew his innocence in this rather uncomfortable situation, and as he understood that at present he could do nothing to improve matters, Brodsky had a hard time trying to drive from his brain the burning thoughts which pained him.

The last hymn was sung and the long line of fresh and sturdy young men began to fill the class room. The boys were happy and their athletic statures radiated health and hope. Some of them had clear eyes, some of them already had the signs of future tempests. As the great New England college had a wide reputation the Western cities sent most of their young men to this well-known institution. The young men took their places and the whole class in an uproar of shouting, laughing and talking, waited for the arrival of Dr. Benton, professor of ethics, who usually was late in the morning.

"Hey, Townsend, how was the game?"

A giant with dark hair and sun-burned face arose from his seat. It was the captain of the baseball team, who did not want to be asked about yesterday's sorry defeat, and who wanted to know who was the questioner.

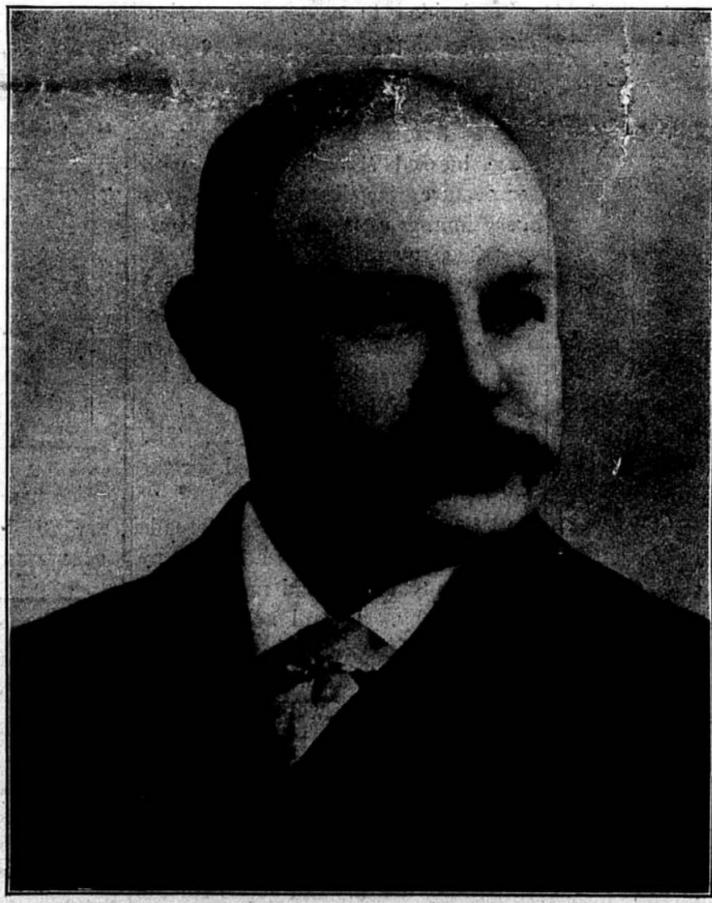

"Is it you, Bob? Don't try to get funny!"

Brodsky, seated in the first row, near a serious and studious man,

As for his colleagues, he could not complain of them; they never hurt his feelings. On the contrary, for his assistance on many occasions when a scholarship was at stake and help him by their discretion to hide his fellow students look at him with a bit of ridicule; that they made fun of him behind his back. He knew

William A. Gans, who died in this city early last Thursday after a brief illness, was at one time a very active figure in the councils of the older Jewish fraternities. An extended account of Mr. Gans' activities appears in another part of this number.

PURITY AND HEALTH

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

The majority of diseases are the result of malnutrition, or poorly fed bodies, caused by the stomach improperly performing its duties; hence the system does not derive the full benefit it should from the food taken by the individual.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey being an all liquid food, distilled absolutely from malted grain, containing nothing but the very soul of the grain, is ideal for the purpose of rebuilding the system. Taken in tablespoon doses in an equal amount of water just before meals, it assists in keeping healthy the essential function of digestion because it induces activity in the flow of gastric juices so the food you eat will digest naturally, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is a dependable medicine for emergencies and should be in every home. with a blooming face and two blue eyes like two blue flowers, always floating in a dew of tears, spoke quietly with him about the day's lesson. The class was still in good spirits. The captain of the team augmented the happy disposition of his colleagues by the exclamation, "Talk, and talk loud, so we can all hear!"

And the unexpected happened. The ridiculed young man talked. At first the boys did not grasp it. It was something new and strange to them. Little by little, however, the meaning of the words grew clearer and clearer. And the monster was tamed. The mockery ceased and the smiles faded away. A strained attention followed the Philippic, which changed toward the end into a quiet but heroic tale like a popular epopee.

"All right; I will talk. It is a blessing to be like you, near your dear parents, to whom you return each vacation and who make your life easy and comfortable, who take care of and interest themselves in your education. It is a blessing to be a son of your country, to have your rights and liberties. But you cannot understand what curse has made me leave my native country. In Russia the universities accept only a small percentage of Jewish students. My father is poor and he could not afford to send me to France or Germany or Switzerland. I was thirsty for knowledge; I longed for my share of instruction, of happiness; I wanted to learn more."

Brodsky stopped, exhausted, for a moment. He drew a long breath. He was now calm and his narration took a different course.

"I decided to come to America. There, I knew, prejudice cannot dwell in the midst of a generous and great people. I had the image of Liberty before me as I thought of these blessed shores—Liberty with her gesture of welcome as she greets every immigrant with her torch outstretched toward the immensity of the waves. I was sure that here I would find shelter and the opportunity to gain more culture, a healthier education and a broader conception of humanity."

The story was not common. The whole class anxiously waited for the end of Brodsky's speech.

"I had a little money, which made my traveling possible. I kissed my mother, my father and my two sisters good-by. I shall never forget the moment as the train pulled out of my native town. My mother fainted, my sisters were in tears and father could hardly keep his temper. My journey was long. I passed almost the entire continent as though in a dream. I left Southampton on a foggy morning and the ocean rocked my dreams and hopes for ten days. Then one morning I saw in reality the image which haunted me in my dreams—New York was in sight!"

And Brodsky finished almost in a whisper:

"It is not a very exciting story, I agree. But to me it seemed almost impossible to get here, where I knew my thirst for knowledge will at last be quenched. I began to work in the store of one of my relatives in New York. I saved up a little money with which I could start my studies and I came here to this college. I give lessons in town. I am happy

Shall Jews Have a Voice in the Peace Arrangements?—Opening of the New Synagogue—Publication of Nationalist Pamphlets to Replace Lost "Zionist"—Interesting New British Book on the "Conquering Jew"—Reviews Jews the World Over—The Jew in Art, with Some Reference to American Music's Debt to the Jew.

LONDON, March 26, 1915.—People will talk peace no matter how strong the war may be going. Such discussions do not mean much at the present time, but they serve a good purpose in keeping certain points of view well before the British public. One of these is the Jewish. When the fighting is over it is pretty certain there will be an international peace convention which will settle terms for calling off the war at some point or other. It is being asked in the community and also outside it that when this time comes Jews should have some part and parcel in the deliberations. Everyone agrees that after the war very great and specifically Jewish questions will be opened up. Nearly three-quarters of all the Jews in the world will be directly interested in what is to happen then, and two-thirds of these Jews live in Russia and expect, if they are lucky, to go on living there.

An opportunity will arise then for the western nations to play some part in securing for the Jewish Russian population some measures of amelioration in their very hard lot. If Jewish influence can be applied directly there will be more hope perhaps than if the whole of the rearrangements are left to non-Jewish interests. Jews will have played their part in the fighting with all the patriotism and sacrifice for which the history of their race is famous, and there should be some reward. Even without the reward point of view, however, common justice and elementary humanity demands redress of numerous outstanding and terrible grievances.

It is recalled that at the Berlin Congress of historical memory a Jew figured largely in the person of Benjamin Disraeli, otherwise Lord Beaconsfield, although we suppose he must not be classed as one. The Jewish Chronicle here suggests that such men as Oscar S. Straus or Judge Mayer Sulzberger could fulfill the mission of Jewish representatives with dignity and distinction and especially as voicing the great neutral population of America.

Despite its title of the New Synagogue, the building for so many years known by that name was one of London's oldest religious establishments. Its site becoming so very valuable, owing to its location in the heart of London's financial district, a sale was effected and a new New Synagogue has arisen in the northeast of London at Stamford Hill, a great Jewish residential center. The opening and consecration took place last Sunday. The architects have with skill and reverence restored several pieces of the demolished edifice. The fine broad ark was there, and even the noise of the curtain when it was drawn was still to be heard, if not so intensely as before. The Almemar, somewhat shorn of its size (as the choir is now stationed in a gallery above the ark), the pulpit, the electrolers, even the seats, have been transplanted. Imposing as was the old shool, the new one is more imposing still. The light is very good and the electric lighting is soft. Commodious classrooms, all separate constructions, are below the synagogue, and quite apart from the main building is a finely proportioned hall, named the Marcus Samuel Memorial Hall, which will be available for secular functions.

The "Zionist" having been discontinued after the outbreak of war, the gap is to be partly filled by the publication of periodical pamphlets dealing comprehensively with every aspect of Jewish nationalism. The first one, entitled "Zionism and the Jewish Problem," has just been published.

A remarkably interesting book has been issued here under the title of "The Conquering Jew," written by John Foster Fraser. Its three hundred pages contain about one of the best condensed surveys of the whole world's Jewish position that has been published in recent years. The author deals with the genius of the Jew, what the Jews have done, the Jew in America, American Jews and their occupations, the Jew in Great Britain, in the Empire generally, in Germany and Austria, and in France, Russia, Poland and Southern Europe. Then follow reviews of the Jewish people in what the author calls the lesser lands and in the East, including India and China.

A chapter on the Jew in the world of art is remarkably invigorating reading. In connection with this the author declares that in no field have Jews been more fertile than in drama. Three of the best known English playwrights—Sir Arthur Pinero, Israel Zangwill and Alfred Sutro—are Jews, and there are a number of others only less prominent. The French theatre depends largely for its plays on the productions of MM. Bernstein, de Porto-Riche, Pierre Wolff, Tristan-Bernard, Andre Picard, and Nathanson. Oskar Blumenthal is in the front of German playwrights and theatrical managers. Arthur Schnitzler is famous as a dramatist in Vienna.

Dr. Joseph Klausner has enriched Hebrew literature by an excellent biography of the Jewish poet, Ischernischowski. London University is represented in the House of Commons by Sir Phillip Magnus. Hermann Gollancz is Goldsmid professor of Hebrew at University College, London. Dr. Lsrael Abrahams is doctor of literature at Pennsylvania university. One of England's chief art critics, Marlon H. Spielmann, is a Jew. One of the principal weekly contributors to Punch is Walter Emanuel. S. L. Bensusan, who writes so delightfully on travel, is one of the race. Dr. Ludwig L. Zamenhof, the originator of Esperanto, was born in the Pale of Russia. Prof. Hermann Cohen, the greatest living Kantian philosopher, recently retired from the chair of philosophy at Heidelberg. Dr. Karl Joel, professor of philosophy at Basle University, was rector magnificent in 1913.

It is almost inconceivable the debt which the world owes to the Jews in music. Germany has had its taste fostered by the Jews. In a lesser degree the same may be said of England. The extraordinary musical development in America is, the author declares, directly traceable to Jewish support. The strenuous efforts of American Jews have made high-class music genuinely popular in the United States. London Ronald, the principal of the London Guildhall School of Music, is a Jew. So are Sir Frederick Cowen, the composer; Isidore de Lara, whose music is popular in every European city; Miss Alice Liebmann, and Kreisler, the violinists, and Mark Hambourg and Emil Sauer, the pianists. Jews bring into music the emotional feeling of their race. They are resourceful in interpretation. They are quick to absorb the local atmosphere, as it were. So it is, whether we have the mystery of Russia or the irresponsibility of America, in music production it is generally the Jew who gives it to us.

Much has been done by the Jews in the realm of painting; but Mr. Fraser is wrong in declaring that it has been on conventional lines. He evidently knows nothing of the important part being played by Jews in the most modern painting movements, even so far as futurism and cubism. Quoting the author's own words, however: "The Jewish painter follows tradition; he keeps to the well-ruled lines. The work is excellent, but, as it lacks originality, Jewish artists complain that rich Jews patronize all other artists except those of their own race." However, Frank Emanuel's picture, "A Kensington Interior," was purchased by the Chantry bequest, and William Rothenstein's "Jews Mourning in a Synagogue" hangs also in the Tate Gallery, the gift of a Jewish donor. All the best sculpture in Russia is the work of Jewish artists, and Marc Antokolsky acquired a world-wide reputation for the originality and excellence of his work. Josef Israels, the famous Dutch painter, was a Jew. Léon Bakst, who has done so much to revolutionize the costume of women, is a Jew expelled from Russia and resident of Paris. Jusim Paen, the Russian Jew whose work has attracted attention at the Paris Salon, has tried to bring into existence a school of Jewish art. What he has only succeeded in doing is to band a number of Jewish artists to confine themselves to Jewish subjects. In the London Royal Exchange are two fine panels, one by Solomon J. Solomon, Royal Academician, and the other by J. H. Amschewitz.

Jews are good patrons of art. Israel Salomons has a wonderful collection of Jewish book plates; Lord Swaythling has a notable collection of pictures and old English silver, and Mr. Behrens has some of the finest engravings in the world.

lure of trade profits, to abandon national honor and to tolerate the scorning of the flag.
"If realized upon properly, American trade with Russia can be doubled," is the insinuating argument that leads up to the advocacy of "a commercial treaty with Russia irrespective of the passport question."
The sum and substance of the proposition is that if America will waive the rights of its citizens and wink at Russia dishonoring our passports, this country will be paid in bright shining gold for the black disgrace of conniving at Russia applying the test of race and religion to a passport issued to a citizen of the United States.—New York Evening Mail.

When men and women die and are beyond all earthly troubles and crises, then the rule is, "Speak no evil of the dead." But is it not worse to speak evil of them while they are alive, while the evil word can wound or injure them? Why wait to be kind and merciful until it is of no use whatever?

In the past year there were sixty-nine Jewish criminals out of a total of 1,825 confined in State institutions in Massachusetts. There were sixty-six out of a total of 5,183 in county jails and houses of correction, and forty-four out of a total of 1,001 in juvenile institutions.

A delegation representing the Jewish Sabbath Association appeared at Albany, N. Y., last Wednesday to speak in favor of the Joseph-Weinberg bill, intended to prevent the prosecution of Sabbath-observing Jews who work on Sunday. The American Federation of Labor sent a delegation to oppose the bill.

At a largely attended meeting recently held at Milan under the direction of Signor Luzzatti and Signor Ottolenghi and other notables, it was resolved to cooperate with the existing Jewish bodies in Europe and America with the view to obtaining a decision at the peace conference in favor of the emancipation of the Jews.

Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America was held at the synagogue of Congregation Ohab Zedek, No. 18 West 116th street, on Tuesday, April 13, Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman, president, presiding.

A communication was received from Senator Joseph that Governor Whitman had signed the bill incorporating the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America (Chapter 250, Laws of 1915). A cordial vote of thanks was tendered to Messrs. Simon M. Roeder and Isidore Herschfeld, who had drafted the bill, and to Senator Joseph and Assemblyman Feinberg, who had introduced it in the Senate and Assembly, respectively.

Action was ordered in behalf of the establishment of a congregation and providing it with the necessary requirements for the Jews of Havana, Cuba, whose religious needs were presented to the Executive by Rabbi Klein, who had come from Havana for that purpose. A committee consisting of Mr. G. S. Roth, chairman; Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein and Mr. C. Joshua Epstein were appointed to make the necessary arrangements to bring the matter properly before the public.

The annual convention of the Union will be held in New York on Sunday and Monday, May 30 and 31. The convention will probably be held in the Beth Hamedrash Hagadol Synagogue in Norfolk street, and meetings will also be arranged in uptown synagogues. The convention will have to consider what action the Union shall take to enforce the recently enacted bill which renders it a misdemeanor to label foodstuffs as Kosher which do not comply with orthodox ritual requirements. An active campaign to prevent the further misuse of the word "Kosher" by butchers, delicatessen stores, etc., is intended, and a lively convention may therefore be expected.

Pineus Elijah Calls Rabbi Morais.

The Congregation Pineus Elijah, worshipping on West Ninety-fifth street, has extended a unanimous call to Rev. Henry S. Morais to become the minister of the congregation. Rabbi Morais has accepted and will occupy the pulpit this Sabbath.

This congregation, which was organized a few years ago, has added a large quota of members among the prominent, influential, wealthy and religious elements of Jewry in New York City, and under its new spiritual leadership bids fair to become a power for good.

The new minister is an eloquent speaker and a powerful pulpit orator. Rabbi Morais was not a candidate for the office, and the unanimous call under these circumstances is a fine tribute to his ability.

Foreign-Born Citizens Pay a Straus Tribute.

The League of Foreign-Born Citizens, of which Mr. Nathaniel Phillips is president, held a meeting last Sunday night in memory of the late Isidore and Ida Straus. The gathering was held in the auditorium of Public School No. 91, Stanton and Forsythe streets, and, despite the crush, was so large that many were unable to gain admission.

Mr. William Kaufman was chairman of the committee of arrangements and addresses were made by Mr. Samuel Dorf, former Governor William Sulzer and Miss Anna Rhodes. During the evening music was rendered by a choir of boys under the direction of Cantor S. Meisels.

Messrs. Percy and Isidor Straus, sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, were in the audience.

For the Cause of True Judaism.

A number of young Israelites, who have formed recently a society for promoting the knowledge of Judaism among the youth of our people, and who are doing praiseworthy work in propagating the truths of our religion, and teaching adherence thereto, held a public meeting in the West Side branch of the Uptown Talmud Torah, 40-44 West 115th street, last Sunday evening. There was a fair audience in attendance, and those who took part in the meeting were Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman, Rabbi B. Pearl, Rev. Herbert S. Goldstein, Rev. Henry S. Morais, Mr. Wilestein, and others. There was a considerable amount of enthusiasm and interest shown in the different speakers' remarks, and the earnestness of the young men was very favorably remarked. It is to be hoped that the move will spread, and that the services held in the same building, on Sabbaths particularly, as well as the meetings of the society, will have a large and encouraging patronage.

After Care Circle.

The After Care Circle of the Jewish Maternity Hospital will hold an open meeting on Wednesday afternoon, April 23, 1915, at 3 o'clock, at Temple Emanu-El vestry rooms, Forty-third street and Fifth avenue.

A report of the scope and work of the society will be outlined by the president, Mrs. Leo Sulzberger, after which Mr. Morris D. Waldman, of the United Hebrew Charities, will speak. Dr. S. A. Blauner, medical director of the After Care Circle, will also speak. The meeting is open to all.

Seventy-Second Street Synagogue Religious School.

Dr. Max Mayer will give a course of six lectures to the boys of the religious school on Sunday mornings at 10:30 o'clock on the subject: "How to Take Care of Our Bodies." All boys from the ages of 12 to 16 are invited to attend these lectures.

Young Women's Hebrew Association.

The Board of Directors of the Young Women's Hebrew Association presented the association on Thursday with a large portrait of Mrs. Israel Unterberg, the founder and president for the past twelve years.

Mrs. A. N. Cohen, vice-president of the association, in a few well-chosen words made the presentation.

Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, one of the founders, spoke most feelingly, and among other things said: "The Board of Directors have evidenced to you their esteem and their love evoked by all that you have done for the association. 'May I add my own word of appreciation of your splendid work for the young women of Israel and let me conjoin therewith your many labors elsewhere for the welfare of our people and the honor and glory of our religion. 'Your life has been one of self-sacrificing love. A few days ago I was asked by a Sisterhood to write a couple of verses for a dear lady well known to you and one of the best workers in that Sisterhood, and in your, may I say 'our' Young Women's Hebrew Association. I quote them to you, for they apply to you in full degree: 'What counts in life? What best can beauty lend To deeds, and words, and thoughts their ecstasy? 'Tis love, whose witchery makes heaven blend With earth its joys of God's eternity! 'This love transfigures all thy life so blessed, Thy love for all the love of all for thee! For such a love which standeth ev'ry test, May God's great love thy guerdon ever be! 'In the picture of the ideal woman in our ideal book, the Bible, it is said: 'Strength and honor are her clothing.' 'She opened her mouth with wisdom, and on her tongue is the law of kindness.' 'Her children arise up and call her blessed, her husband also, and he praiseth her.' 'Many daughters have done virtuously but thou excellest them all.' 'Favor is deceitful, and beauty is vanity, but the woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised.' 'Give her of the fruit of her hands, and her own works shall praise her in the gates.' 'I quote the above on this occasion because no one better than I knows your work for the Young Women's Hebrew Association from its inception, which was due to you, to the present moment of success, to which you have so largely contributed by courage, love and duty, all always based on 'Reverence and Modesty.'"

Saturday evening, April 17, the members of the Mount Vernon Young Women's Hebrew Association will give tableaux entitled "Heroines of Israel," under the direction of Miss Harriet Meyers. A class in current events, which will be conducted by Mrs. Alexander Kohut, will meet on Tuesday evenings, beginning April 13. On Saturday night there will be a dance under the auspices of the Crystal Club, and Sunday afternoon a dance will be given for the girls of the Day Commercial School.

Harlem Y. M. H. A.

The open meeting and entertainment given by the Harlem Y. M. H. A. on Saturday evening, April 10, proved successful. About two hundred and fifty young men and young women were present. The exercises consisted of literary and musical numbers and an address by the president, Mr. I. Sorrin, outlining the aims and purposes of the association; also brief talks by Rev. Dr. B. A. Tintner, I. Gutman, F. Younker and S. Goldstein.

The society continues to meet weekly in the vestry rooms of Mount Zion Synagogue. The Saturday evening meetings are for physical exercises, and on Sunday the various clubs hold their regular meetings.

Promoting Cheer.

Mrs. Samuel Elkeles, chairman, presided at a meeting of the Social Service Committee New York Section Council of Jewish Women, held at the residence of Mrs. Charles E. Reizenstein on Thursday, April 15. The various committees furnished interesting reports. The Emergency Committee reported emergency help in several cases. A large number of garments were distributed among the children and the poor—Pass-over supplies were furnished to those who were unprovided for—layettes furnished several infants, among them triplets. The Sick and Visiting Committee reported that it had been very busy. In every possible way the committee are doing what they can to promote happiness among those whose lives are in the shadow. Among those who read reports were Mesdames Hugo Hille, Max Giles, Samuel Levy, Charles E. Reizenstein, Max Schwartz, Misses Rose Wolfsohn, Ray Josephson.

Alma Gluck Aids Relief Committee.

During the past week the American Jewish Relief Committee received collections of $3,960, making a total up to April 10 of $615,770.43. Among the donations was a check of $50 from Mme. Alma Gluck Zimbalist, who has pledged herself to make a similar contribution each month during the duration of the war.

Rothschild Memorial Meeting.

Under the auspices of the Jewish Daily News, there will be a memorial meeting held at the Educational Alliance on Monday evening, April 19, at 8 o'clock. A number of prominent speakers will pronounce eulogies and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Annual Meeting of the Downtown Talmud Torah.

On Sunday evening, April 11, the annual meeting of the Downtown Talmud Torah was held in the building of the institution, Nos. 394 and 396 East Houston street. Rabbi David Frankel opened the meeting, and the president, Mr. William Fischman, read the annual report. He informed the assemblage that in spite of the depression that prevailed during the past year the Downtown Talmud Torah managed to hold its own and not only defrayed the increasing expenditures, but also paid off over $1,600 of the debts incurred during the erection of the new building four years ago.

Mr. Fischman also enumerated in detail the various activities carried on by the institution. The number of pupils, both boys and girls, increased to 1,450. A new experiment was made in opening a course for working girls. Presently fifty of them are being taught Hebrew and Jewish history. If the experiment proves successful more classes of the same type will be opened. Providing the poor pupils with shoes and clothing, particularly during the cold season, was the strict rule of the institution this year. This greatly helped the school to achieve the best possible record of attendance.

Mr. J. M. Wachmann, the treasurer, submitted the financial report for the past year, showing an income of $14,449, against an expenditure of $13,439. The principal address of the evening was made by Mr. Bernard Semel, who drew a parallel of the loss of our youth in the battlefields of Europe and the loss of our youth here in America for lack of Jewish education. The speaker dwelt on the necessity of such institutions as the Downtown Talmud Torah as the only means of saving our boys and girls from spiritual destruction. The principal, Mr. I. Konowitz, also made an address, and the boys' choir rendered several songs.

The following gentlemen were elected to the Board of Directors for the coming year: Dr. S. Benderly, Mr. Jacob Blauner, Mr. Julius Blauner, Mr. Sol. Blummer, Mr. L. Borgenicht, Mr. Max Borgenicht, Mr. M. Feistner, Mr. Moses Fischman, Mr. William Fischman, Mr. Charles Gross, Mr. A. Hauptman, Mr. A. D. Katcher, Mr. Frank Katz, Mr. Benjamin Koenigsberg, Mr. David Kornblum, Mr. H. Kornreich, Mr. Abraham Krumbain, Mr. Samuel Metzendorf, Mr. B. Millberg, Mr. Julius Miller, Mr. Nathan Miller, Mr. H. B. Rosen, Mr. Joseph Rosen, Mr. Abner B. Rosenfield, Mr. B. Semel, Mr. H. Stoll, Mr. E. Surut, Mr. S. Thau, Mr. Bernard Turkel, Mr. Ab. H. Vogel and Mr. J. M. Wachmann.

Working in Close Co-operation.

The Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America and the Department of Immigrant Aid of the Council of Jewish Women are in close co-operation with each other, the former caring for immigrant men and families and the latter having charge of unattended girls coming through the ports of New York, Philadelphia and Boston and going to inland cities. In this work the Department of Immigrant Aid is receiving valuable assistance from the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society.

A dance followed the games. Mr. David Schave was chairman of the committee having the affair in charge. A large sum was realized.

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Popper to Ernst Berthold Kaufmann took place at the Hotel Biltmore on Wednesday, April 7, the Rev. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes officiating. The bride's uncle, William C. Popper, gave her in marriage. She was attended by her sister, Miss Claire Popper. Fritz Kaufmann was best man. Only the immediate family was present.

A dramatic entertainment and dance will be given on Saturday evening, April 17, in Terrace Garden by the Philanthropic Aid Society for the benefit of the Philanthropic Hospital, which has outgrown its present quarters. The society was organized fourteen months ago to assist in the work of the hospital and has increased from twenty-six to 152 members. Gaston Moshelm is president of the hospital and Norman J. Greenburger is president of the aid society.

Miss Harriet Cohn and Mr. Harold Sperling were awarded the silver cup in a competitive dance recently held at the Almack Hotel, Atlantic City. Miss Cohn is an active worker in several Jewish charitable organizations and one of the most popular young women in the upper section of the city. In a similar contest held at the Hotel Rudolph Miss Minna Klein was the winner of a silver vanity case. Miss Klein is one of the active workers in the Upper Manhattan Branch of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Moritz Newman gave a reception at the Hotel Savoy in honor of the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Mr. Samuel M. Weisberger, which was recently announced. OBITUARY.

GANS.—William A. Gans, for many years a leading figure in Jewish fraternal organizations, died early last Thursday morning at his late residence, No. 70 East Ninety-third street, after a brief illness.

Mr. Gans was born in New York city on November 21, 1849, and graduated from Public School No. 4 at the age of thirteen. He entered the employ of Joseph Swan & Co., and after remaining with that firm for fourteen years, began the practice of law, graduating from the New York University Law School and entering the office of Samuel B. Hamburger, with whom he was associated for thirty-five years.

Mr. Gans was especially prominent in the Independent Order B'nai B'rith. He was a charter member of Manhattan Lodge, which was formed in 1871, for many years chairman of the Committee on Intellectual Advancement of District Grand Lodge, No. 1, and chairman of the Constitutional Convention of the Grand Lodge, held in Cincinnati, in 1887. Mr. Gans was president of the Maimonides Library until it became a branch of the New York Public Library.

Mr. Gans was a member of Constellation Lodge, Independent Order Free Sons of Israel, and at one time chairman of the Endowment Committee of the U. S. Grand Lodge. He was authority on fraternal and assessment insurance and frequently appeared before the New York Legislature on behalf of Jewish fraternities.

Mr. Gans was adjutant of the Sixth Regiment, with the rank of captain at the age of twenty-five, being the youngest man in the National Guard to hold that rank. He was in the Orange riots and remained in the regiment under Col. Sterry until it was mustered out of service. He was also interested in the National Red Cross Society.

Mr. Gans was also one of the organizers of Centennial Lodge, F. & A. M., in 1876. He was a writer of note and for over twenty-five years was a weekly contributor to the HEBREW STANDARD under the nom de plume of "L'Aiglon." He was a contributor to all our Jewish charitable organizations.

Funeral services were held on Sunday, at 10 a. m., from Temple Ahawath Chesed Hashomayim, Lexington avenue and Fifty-fifth street. Rev. Dr. I. S. Moses, assisted by Rev. Theodore Ginsberg, officiated. The interment was in Linden Hill Cemetery, where Masonic services were conducted under the auspices of Centennial Lodge.

Mr. Gans is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Rosa Newman, Mrs. Elizabeth Barnett and Miss Rebecca J. Gans.

How Fright Aids Tuberculosis

By John B. Huber, A. M., M. D.

From observation I find that the mortality from tuberculosis among Jews in New York city is growing out of proportion to that caused by other diseases, and a few words on the subject to HEBREW STANDARD readers would not be amiss. Another trouble from which I find many Jews suffering is extreme nervousness and a tendency to unnecessary worry. Before launching into my article let me emphasize that if tuberculosis has entered your home do not worry.

Your worry will frighten the sufferer, and fright is one of the greatest aids to tuberculosis. In other words, to let anyone know you are alarmed over his or her condition is to cause them such fright about themselves as to make them lose hope. When hope is lost the case rapidly becomes serious.

Your duty is to face the situation in your home bravely and calmly. You must not appear frightened, and you must show unmistakably in your demeanor that you are not frightened.

There is, indeed, little occasion to be frightened. Fear thrives best and always on ignorance of the thing feared. If you are unfamiliar with our up-to-date knowledge of the disease consumption, what follows will inform you and should (I confidently hope) dissipate your fear.

To tell a sufferer he has consumption is not now the death sentence it was to our forefathers, nor to those of a generation ago. Many consumptives are now cured, if the disease is detected early. And the right treatment will give many such patients a pretty long lease of life. A very serious danger is for the sufferer in your home, to become frightened, because fear is most weakening and devitalizing.

There is nothing more likely than fear—except worry—to take the hope and fighting courage out of any one, but especially out of a man or woman grievously sick; and those who are sick with consumption, having come down with this disease mostly through exhaustion, naturally need all the strength and vitality they can command and all the stimulus to courage that can possibly be shown them.

And there is even graver danger in allowing the sick in the family circle to realize that parents, wife or husband, brothers and sisters are worried. Care killed a cat, which, as every one knows, is the limit when it comes to extinguishing life. And there is nothing—not even fear—so sure to pull down a consumptive past remedy as worrying, as seeing or knowing or realizing that the rest of the family are worrying.

The fear and worry infections are a great deal more killing than the tuberculosis infections.

On the other hand, there is nothing so restorative, not even the blessed sunshine or the cooling breezes or the song of birds, as a spirit of optimism lightening up the faces of those the consumptive loves.

Treatment in a sanatorium—an institution ideal for the care of consumptives—would be the best for most, though not for all such, patients. But all the sanatoria in existence can take care of only five per cent of the tuberculous; the rest of them have to be treated in their homes. And consumptives do wonderfully well in pretty much every climate, if only they will do what they are told.

The first thing to do is to get a first-class doctor—a family doctor you know you can trust and will obey. When you find such a physician, stick to him.

LITHIA VALLEY,
WYOMING CO., PA.

This water is drawn from a spring in the beautiful Lithia Valley at the foot of East Mountain, in Northern Pennsylvania. The water comes from a subterranean reservoir, and the spring, being 2 1/2 miles from a railroad, is free from contamination.

"Liposo" derives its name from the first two letters of the words lithium, potassium and sodium, which this water contains, and the health-giving properties of which are recognized by scientists all over. It is bottled with greatest care and is charged with its own natural gas. As a table water it has no superior.

How Fright Aids Tuberculosis.

And one thing especially the doctor must be thanked for and not upbraided—telling the truth and explaining fully the nature of the disease.

A doctor could let you down easy for the time being by talking amiably about a cold on the chest that might get worse if you weren't careful; or about a pulmonary catarrh. But if your feelings were temporarily soothed by that kind of talk, so that you would not understand the gravity of the disease, you would certainly not thank him later, or think he had done his duty by you if your disease got beyond anything he or you could do for your recovery.

I have known sad cases when a consumptive has said of her doctor, in the last weeks of her life: "If Dr. X had only told me the truth I might have made the necessary fight and have been well today."

"The truth shall make you well." The best and kindest thing for you, if you have tuberculosis, is to be told that you have it. Otherwise you will not observe the rigid rules necessary for your recovery, nor will you renounce your favorite habits or pleasures, nor your vocation in life, nor will you give your time and money to achieve your cure, nor will you leave, if that is best, your home and your friends!

And again I emphasize that the diagnosis of consumption, especially if made early, is not discouraging; in all human probability the conscientious and obedient patient who is an "incipient" will get well, as will also many a fairly advanced case.

Have you ever thought of the psychology of the volunteer soldier? When the idea of going into battle suddenly confronts him he will have a goneness and a fear, no matter how naturally courageous he may be. That is the way you will feel should the doctor tell you that you have consumption.

But very soon, as with a recruit, your fear will presently and surely give way to exultation and belief in ultimate victory in the fight that must be made.

"Then give place to the physician." This is mighty good Scripture, though apocryphal. Be obedient to him and persist in every detail of the treatment enjoined on you.

Be confident of your recovery. This is fortunately and mercifully a state of mind which Providence has given to sufferers from this disease—the proverbial hopefulness of the consumptive. Understand that your improvement and recovery will depend largely on your own faith and works!

Consider before you undertake any business or pleasure how your chances of getting well will be affected thereby; and if badly, then give up those things quickly.

Get the habit of talking to no one except your doctor (or your nurse) about your disease; don't take any suggestions about its management from solicitous and well-meaning friends.

And don't neglect to say your prayers! Prayers lend faith and faith helps cure.

For details go to the doctor. But let me emphasize here that consumption grows out of two factors—the presence of the germ and the predisposed, weakened condition of the body. Naturally, then, the germs must be destroyed, and the body must be fortified to resist the invasion of the germs.

The germs get into the body in one of three ways: 1. By breathing them in with the dust containing them or in the minute droplets of the consumptives' sputum that are carried about by the wind, or, 2, by taking into the body food or drink that may contain the germs. Flies have been found to play an enormous and a very evil part in carrying the consumption germs. 3. Then the consumption germs may be absorbed through wounds or cuts in the skin, especially of the chest wall, but this latter is a very rare source of consumption.

Especially let there be no spitting about the house. Germs thrive in unclean houses. Be assured that consumption is not a hereditary disease nor a family

תורני ספרות פרק ב'

In order to insure the insertion of communications in the current issue of THE HEBREW STANDARD they must be in this office not later than Wednesday 10 a. m. of the week in which they are to appear.

Let us hope that every reader of this journal is now engaged in counting the Omer!

We congratulate both the Congregation Pincus Elijah and Rev. Henry S. Morais upon the election of the latter to the congregation's pulpit. The congregation is in a neighborhood which has seen a steady influx of our coreligionists in late years, and under Rabbi Morais' guidance its future as a pillar of traditional Judaism is well assured, and at the same time the local branch of our orthodox ministry is augmented by an earnest, eloquent and unbending representative.

Was it the accumulation of news or the incidence of the Passover festival that played such havoc with the columns of our contemporaries, The Jewish Exponent and The American Israelite, in their issues for the first week of April? In one part of the paper each of them told us of the death of Lord Rothschild, while another section vouchsafed the gratifying but rather impossible information that he was ill and his condition could be denominated "satisfactory."

James Morgan Pryse has recently published a volume which he calls "The Restored New Testament," and the second part of which attempts to show that the Gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke were originally parts of a Greek allegorical drama, afterward worked over into a fictitious Jewish "history" by men who were not Jews and who were ignorant of Hebrew. Such a book ought to prove interesting to those of our own radical reformers who love to descend on the Gospels and who, in one respect, are like the men of whom Mr. Pryse speaks as having worked over the Greek allegorical drama.

And now the daily newspapers confidently declare that the hobble skirt was one of dame fashion's decrees in the days of Moses! Of course, Moses' days are indubitably past and there is none alive today who remembers what took place then. Hence it is easy and simple for all sorts and conditions of men to express themselves fantastically or otherwise concerning the life of those times. As a matter of fact, we believe, and reason supports our contention, that the hobble skirt and similar delicate concoctions emanated from the mind of some ultra-modern Parisian couturier, whose only possible connection with Mosheh Rabbenu is that he may have been a latter-day co-religionist of our great leader.

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America announces by means of a circular that, during the next three years, Secretary of the Navy Daniels will appoint some thirty new chaplains in the United States Navy. Congress has provided for an increase in the number of naval chaplains. While ministers of all denominations are eligible, denominational approval is a prerequisite to appointment. We do not state the foregoing as an advertisement of the propaganda work of this Federal council, but rather as pointing to actual, practical efforts which may be made by those who vociferously demanded the appointment of Jewish chaplains in the army and navy some time ago. These agitators have been soundly slumbering ever since. Here is an opportunity, which they should welcome, to do effective work in an interesting cause.

William A. Gans, the details of whose life work appear in another column of this issue, was both esteemed as a lawyer by his large clientele and favorably regarded by his hosts of friends and by those who, with him, took an abiding interest in the fortunes of the older and larger Jewish fraternal organizations. Time was when Mr. Gans represented the Jewish fraternal bodies in the halls of the Legislature at Albany on all occasions where it was necessary to combat proposed laws inimical to their welfare and continued prosperous existence. Thus he grew to be the power he was in the world of Jewish fraternalism. As an editorial contributor to our columns he preserved intact through more than twenty-five years his facile pen, enriching each issue of this journal during that long period of time with his thought and practical wisdom on topics of the day. He was our friend, indeed, and we sincerely mourn his going hence. Secher soddik lirocho!

SAGEGUARDING KASHRUT

Governor Whitman and the Legislature of the State of New York acted wisely in adopting a law which makes it a misdemeanor to misbrand goods as kosher that are not such in fact. Of the details of the new law we spoke at length here at the time the bill, for such it then was, received its first reading in that branch of our law-making body where it was introduced. Now we may comment on the practical effect of the measure.

The new law makes it wisely impossible for the unscrupulous vendor of table delicacies to write the Hebraic equivalent of kosher over the doorpost of his establishment, "in letters of living fire," as it were, the while he pursues the almighty dollar (in his case it is that!) by trafficking in trefa comestibles "on the side." It, of course, puts an end to the practice of labeling as ritually clean and pure those products which cannot substantiate their claim thereto in fact. It throws the mighty and protecting arm of the law around the consumer of kosher articles of food and enables him to rely without misgiving upon all that is offered him for his use as food in his desire to maintain unimpaired the tenets and ceremonies of our holy religion.

It was a wise counsel, then, that moved our constituted authorities to thus safeguard the lives and practices of the vast numbers of observant Jews in this our great Commonwealth.

Characteristically enough, the only criticism of this law has emanated from a Jewish source, and a Reform or ultra-radical one at that. With this the wish is father to the thought, and the new act on the statute book is regarded as sounding the decrepitude and innocuous insouciance of orthodoxy! Was ever a more fatuous error! So far from seeking to bolster up orthodoxy the new law subjects those who masquerade as observant in the case of their vendible products to the penalty prescribed for such as falsely pretend to be that which in truth they are not. The cause of orthodoxy is rid of those camp followers who render it only lip service for their own servile gain.

We repeat, we are glad the new law has come into being as an integral part of the statutes of this State, and expect it will be productive of much good for the benefit of our community.

AT IT AGAIN

EVERY once in a while, like the ground hog, there come forth, as if from hibernating, the so-called "missionaries"—in other words, "soul-savers"; clearer still, "soul-catchers"—and (pity they don't see their shadow and return to earth) attempt to administer their sugar-coated pills to the deluded and easily misled, rather say, the "for sale cheap" specimens who bring scandal upon the name of Jew. The other day we were told in cold print that "the Hebrew-Christian Alliance of America" had held its first convention here, and announced its intention of establishing headquarters in this city to "further its object of fostering Christianity among persons of the Jewish faith."

Just think of it! A new institution (?) for "conversion" purposes in these days when money is needed so plentifully, so enormously, to save myriads of the starving, the wounded and the suffering in this and other lands; when babes are crying for milk, and old and forsaken people plead at our very doors, and when hundreds of thousands right in this city have no visible means of support. Just think of it! This delusion, this snare, manufactured and run under the auspices of a clique more than a sprinkling of whom are apostates from Judaism! Shall we launch the old-time curse upon these "cheap" articles of salvation? Shall we even bother our heads about them? Only to tell Jewish fathers and mothers to steer clear of them and to have more than one eye open to their children's going and coming.

Just to think of it in these times, when forsooth "Christian" nations are at each other's throats, and surely the Church might have more than its hands full when life's red blood is being spilled to the ocean's full, we hear all this drivel about a cheap "salvation" that must be worked for the Jew, and by whom? The offscouring and the refuse who have disowned their own heritage, forsworn the faith of their fathers and sold their miserable hides for dollars and cents. Not so very long ago there was a Mayor of New York city named William J. Gaynor, who will pass into history as a remarkable exception for knowledge, for ability, for stamina, and among his deeds to be recorded will be that he told the prying, the insolent, the audacious and soul-catching "missionaries" to have a heed; in fine, to mind their own business and attend to their own "salvation." Such mayors are rare indeed. Would there were more of them for the public weal and the safety as well, of our co-religionists in New York city.

A reader of this journal calls our attention to a sermon on the home, preached by the Rev. "Billy" Sunday and printed in the issue for April 4 of The Courier of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The diatribe is altogether of a piece with "Billy's" efforts in this line. One sentence in it arrested our attention and served to raise a doubt in our mind as to whether "Billy's" vaunted love of our people was sincere. For the evangelical revivalist is reported there to say that "Jew (sic) blood tells of love of money from the days of Abraham until now." This is a base and untrue libel of a whole people, whose contribution to civilization "from the days of Abraham until now" is lofty and ethical and has naught whatever to do with things material. We hope these few lines will fall under "Billy's" eyes and cause him to tell us if he was correctly quoted. If he was we shall be glad to know it and govern ourselves accordingly; if he was not the opportunity to make full and fair reparation is his.

A LIFE-RULE

"Rabbi said, Which is the right course that a man should choose for himself? Whatsoever is a pride to him that pursues it, and brings him honor from men." (Ethics of the Fathers, II, 1.)

To say that "Life is complex," may be to repeat a well-worn phrase; one, moreover, which, as a bald statement, intended to be descriptive, is inane, meaningless and inadequate. Life is many things besides being complex—simple, among other things—and, hence, it is obviously amateurish to pretend that the last word about life is said when it is declared to be complex; and, further, it is obviously futile, life being recognized as complex, to try to compress all this tremendous complexity in that one rather foolish word—complex. Such generalisation about life must be left to those who hold some stereotyped, rubber-stamp word in readiness for every subject under the sun. Down goes the rubber-stamp with a bang, and the subject is dismissed with a leer of self-satisfied wisdom. Nevertheless, though the word "complex" has been repeatedly impressed upon the body of life by superficial generalisers until it is tattooed all over with it, it is here used in the opening sentence for the reason that, with all its triteness, it exhibits one element that is perennially new, that cannot be worn away with much use. That element is the ever-renewed wonder on the part of man when standing contemplatively over against life. No matter how loosely and superficially and altogether too sweepingly the word "complex" may be applied to life, back of it is the wondering mind of man that is never so dimly and imperfectly trying to find itself in this world. Complexity in nature causes Perplexity in man—and herein lies the only use of Complexity. It can be gladly allowed that life is complex or what-not, so long as the supposed attribute of life, whatever it be, sets man a-wondering, stirs up his faculties and arouses him to thought and deed.

The class of generalisers who make themselves easy about life by stamping some word or other on its patient back has been mentioned only to prepare the way for the introduction of a different and higher type of generalisers, among whom must be classed Rabbi, author of the saying from the Ethics of the Fathers, quoted in the text. A very common device of Perplexity standing over against Complexity has always been to reduce Complexity to Simplicity. That the device did not always work, and that the Simplicity obtained often proved more complex than the original Complexity which it was sought to remedy, can easily be forgiven to those great minds who attempted to employ the device. The latter would find the sum of life no longer in a single word—as the shallow generalisers did—but in a single maxim. For if a word expresses an idea, a maxim expresses a rule of conduct, and if life's complexity cannot be reduced in thought it can be so reduced in action: What the mind cannot disentangle, the hands can fondly straighten out! Accordingly, from Hillel, maker of the Golden rule in its negative phrasing: "What thou wouldst not have done unto thee, do not unto others," down to Kant, author of the Categorical Imperative: "Let each and every action of thine be raised to the importance and the dignity of an universal law," notable men have tried to establish some general rule which would apply to the whole of life and would afford the individual sure guidance in the midst of life's perplexities. If life is a labyrinth, these men spun the Ariadne-thread that should lead man through the tortuous passage.

Among these men, as intimated, was Rabbi. His statement is interesting because it places Man over against Life—Perplexity over against Complexity—and it places him at once in the attitude of Choosing—of trying to reduce Complexity to Simplicity: "Which is the right course that a man should choose for himself?" Choosing the right path along ways that fork each other a thousand times, is manifestly a difficult task, and therefore our generalisers have seldom succeeded in conquering this difficulty. It is almost impossible to establish a single rule which will apply to the whole of life. Kant's Categorical Imperative has suffered from this very difficulty. Raising each individual action to the authority of a universal law, to be followed by each and all regardless of conditions and consequences, would indeed appear to be the last word of Ethical Idealism; where this idealism suffers from just criticism is precisely in this, that a universal law regardless of conditions and consequences is a human impossibility. Life is too complex to be fitted to a rigid standard; what is right in one case may be utterly wrong in another; no one act can serve as a universal pattern!

Manifestly, a more pliant standard and criterion of right-doing is required. And that flexible rule and test of conduct is furnished by Rabbi: "Whatsoever is a pride to him that pursues it!" After all is said, it is true that the moral authority lies within ourselves, within each individual. No lawbook, human or divine, can supply the sanction which Conscience alone can give to each act. No deed can be satisfactory which does not satisfy the doer. And no reward can be as high as the satisfaction, the pride, of duty well done. But once the moral authority is placed within the individual, there arises the possibility of a clash between individual and individual, between autonomy and autonomy. What if my right conflicts with another man's right? Therefore, self-satisfaction must be checked and balanced by general satisfaction: "And brings him honor from men." One's moral opinions must be constantly referred to and corrected by the consensus of mankind's moral opinion. There may be an obstinate following of one's own imaginings, or a slavish obedience to public opinion; but an action which answers to the highest moral promptings of the individual as it co-incides with the moral experience of the race, must surely be right.

And this co-incidence and agreement between the morality of the individual and that of the race is here assumed on the optimistic ground that all mankind are endowed with a common heritage of divine light and leading—that all men are gifted with the Godlike impulse of right-doing JOEL BLAU

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN AND WHAT IS.

Two events of the present week serve all the more to put emphasis on these "making easy" and "go-as-you-please" religion times. The one was an anniversary of what is termed "Free Synagogue," which has had "success"; that sort of "success" that comes from "members"; that sort of "success" that comes from setting aside whatever interferes with "convenience"; that sort of "success" which totally discards sacrifice for the sake of truths, tried even in the red-hot furnace of time, persecution, obloquy and what not else and have come forth unscathed. Of course, the so-called "Free Synagogue" has had "success," in that its leader has found men and women of his own unsteady state of mind who follow to the letter the saying, "nothing so successful as success," and who distribute lavishly their praises and throw extravagantly their bouquets at him and their pen-dits, in which he revels with de-

But "what might have been?" Oh, how different had this self-same now "rabbi" of the "Free Synagogue" been chosen to the pulpit of another institution sixty-two years older than his own! What might have been had that happened scarce a decade since? The chameleon changes his spots; the rose of yesterday seems the thorn of today.

Not so, thank God, with our Judaism! All the tossings and the beatings of wild waves and of periodical tumults move not an inch the Adamantine Rock. The "Wises" may come and go, and though their "success" be very "successful," history will repeat itself upon them; it has never failed to do so; that is our guarantee.

And similarly with the other event, at the celebration of which the religious leader talked of social and philanthropic aims; the leader of what has, like most "radical reform" institutions, so holy, so eminently Jewish and religious in designation, spoke not so much, if at all, of what makes a Jewish congregation a center of Jewish assembly and of throbbing Jewishness, but what it should do, in the light of that term so oft thundered in our ears, "modern conditions," as if God's Truth, which standeth forever, is susceptible of change or can be altered or trifled with.

There is but one platform for us, and that is Judaism pure and undefiled. Either Judaism or no Judaism, either the Truth of old, for which Israel stands the sworn sponsor before his God, or compromise—an evasive term for surrender. The Jew that has studied, the Jew has already chosen like his forefathers when they declared to a man, that knows and feels and acts, will has already chosen, like his fore-Naasch re-Nishma—"we will do, we will hearken."

CORRESPONDENCE.

Montefiore Home Patients Return Thanks.

Editor HEBREW STANDARD: The patients of the Montefiore Home and Hospital, through the columns of your paper, wish to thank the board of directors of the institution for the arrangements made in their behalf during the Passover holidays. There were beautiful Seder services under the direction of our able minister, Rabbi J. L. Gabel. The first night services were held in the main dining room for the incurables, and on the second night in the southern pavilion for the tuberculosis sufferers. The services in the synagogue were well attended. There were traditional melodies given by the choir, which Rabbi Gabel has organized among the patients. THE PATIENTS OF THE MONTEFIORE HOME AND HOSPITAL.

A Suggestion to Our Rabbis.

Editor HEBREW STANDARD: I note with great pleasure the interest which has been lately shown in the encouragement of Judaism. We should all strive to that end. In this connection I desire to suggest that there are many Jews in this great City of New York who seldom enter a synagogue, due in all probability to lack of time or inconvenience in traveling to and from the synagogue.

Just as our Gentile brethren hold open air meetings on the streets and in church in the financial and business sections of this city, so can our own Jewish clergymen address us in the business sections of this city and establish a permanent house of worship in the heart of the business and financial district.

NATHANIEL EPSTEIN.

"When Will It Halt?"

Editor HEBREW STANDARD: Under the apt title "When Will It Halt?" there appears in your current number an attack on the unbalanced craze for advertisement supposedly characteristic of our community. Half of the diatribe is directed against the Junior League of the Sisterhood of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue, because, under the auspices of the league, Mr. Hudson Maxim delivered a lecture on "What Shall We Do to Insure Against War." The writer of the article, modestly and reverently speaking in the name of God, denounces "all this sham and all this shame."

It is a pity that your columns should be marred by such misguided and futile denunciation. It is safe to assume that had the young folks of the league held a dance, no criticism would have been forthcoming from the anonymous communal censor. But because they show that they have brains in their head as well as in their feet, and are interested in grave world problems as well as in the fox trot, we must believe that they have disgraced the community by their sham and their shame. Such unmitigated infamy in the young is scarcely credible. In order that you may know the full extent of their villainy, let me inform you that the lecture was one of a series. The preceding lecture was given by Dr. Faltowitch on behalf of the Falashas. Naturally no other league of young people acted so scandalously as to show interest in this orphan colony of Jews and collect money for them. The next lecture of the series is to be on Zionism. Such corruption of young minds by lectures on Jewish topics and serious problems is well-nigh incredible in these days when tangos, theatre parties and progressive whists are the order of the day.

Among their other activities during the preceding year these outrageous young people arranged for a Palestine lecture by Miss Szold, collected magazines and newspapers for the Lebanon Hospital, provided vacations for working girls, and, as a crowning example of their turpitude, these shameful and shamming young people conducted a religious school on the East Side in which some of their leading members acted as the volunteer teachers of the seventy-five children in attendance. It is painful to learn that such sham and such shame can exist in our young and be so blatantly advertised.

Do you not think, Sir, that you could do more gracious and more useful work than unmasking such terrific abuses, when the community is infested with malignant sores ranging from apostasy and intermarriage to such minor plagues as irresponsible journalists?

Israel's message is WAR!
War for the right, war against wrong,
War for the weak, against the strong;
War to the death 'gainst the crime of life;
War unending to the end of strife.

Israel's mission is PEACE!
Peace in the soul, peace in the heart,
Peace in the strand, peace in the mart;
Peace trumpets her army, "ICH DIEN" is the Chief;
Peace enthroned is the end of grief.

Israel's service is LOVE.
Love for mankind, love of a brother,
Love for the stranger, he is our Other;
Love to the loveless, it's ne'er too late;
Love enshrined is the end of hate.

The University of Rochester, N. Y., has announced the receipt of an endowment of a permanent lectureship fund to be known as the Jesse L. Jewish Institute.

The Festival of Jewish Music, which is to be held on Sunday evening, April 25, at 8 o'clock in the Washington Irving High School, Irving place and Sixteenth street, promises to be a notable artistic enterprise. In addition to the cantor and large choir who will render the synagogue music, the double quartet of Yiddish folk song singers of Boston, under the leadership of Mr. Henry L. Gideon, will appear and sing Yiddish folk and popular songs. The noted violinist, Mr. Maximilian Pilzer, will play Jewish melodies. Mrs. Stella Rubenstein, who will be the soloist of the occasion, will sing some Jewish songs and also selections from operas of a Jewish character. In addition the Yiddish theatre will be represented by a well known singer who will give selections from some of Goldfaden's operettas. Among the patrons and patronesses of the evening are Mr. Mischa Elman, Mr. Rubin Goldmark, Mrs. Adolph Lewisohn, Hon. Marcus M. Marks, Mrs. Solomon Schechter, Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, Miss Lillian D. Wald, Miss Sophie Irene Loeb, Mrs. Maximilian Morgenthau, Jr.; Mr. Maurice Wertheim, and a number of other persons of prominence in the community. The subject of the lecture at the Kessler Theatre meeting room on Sunday morning, April 11, will be "I. L. Perez in the New Yiddish Literature." The speaker will be Mr. Leon S. Moisseiff. Admission is free.

The struggle between the Zionists and the German Hilfsverein regarding the Technical Institute that was being erected in Haifa was terminated on Friday, March 26, when the institute was sold at auction in Berlin for the sum of 225,000 marks. The Hilfsverein was the purchaser and will now be the sole proprietor of that institution. The idea of the establishment of an institute for technical sciences in Palestine has been discussed for some years by various individuals and organizations interested in the rebuilding of Palestine. It assumed tangible form through the generosity of the heirs of the late K. Z. Wissotzki, of Moscow, who contributed 400,000 francs towards a fund to be raised for that purpose. The money was deposited with the Hilfsverein, and that organization undertook to supervise the work. The Zionist National Fund also contributed a large sum and donated the grounds upon which the buildings were to be erected.

"Summer Homes," an Index to Vacation Land.

Tents pitched deep in the sylvan shade, where the song of the brook sounds merrily all the day; peaceful farmhouses perched on the hem of the woods, where the lake, like a silver apron, wavers among the reeds; snug little homes flecking the crest of a rolling foothill, where the sunbeams dance and the wind blows cool and the scent of wild flowers float from the valley, where a twisting river glistens; gay hotels, where the throb of waltzes drift out with laughter across the lake, where canoes are slipping along through the shadows in a night all showered with moonlight—these are the spots and scenes described in "Summer Homes," the annual vacation guide to Sullivan, Ulster, Orange and Delaware counties, New York, gotten out by the New York, Ontario and Western Railway.

The information and details contained in this book are as varied as the tastes of man. There is a spot for every fancy and a price to fit every purse. From tennis and swimming to fishing and dancing the list of activities is full, including just plain resting.

The Waif and the Robin.

When I think of the Beth Israel Hospital I think of my good friend, Mr. Joseph H. Cohen. To me it is the Joseph H. Cohen Hospital—because the Hospital stands for all the good things that he as its President represents.

Some time ago Mr. Cohen asked me to Endow a Bed. I then visited the Hospital to get acquainted—to see what it was doing. Later I returned for a second look at the Children's ward. Poor Little Willie—a waif, the epitome of a "struggle for existence," remembered me from my former visit. It was a bright Spring Sabbath morning. The out-door Birds seemed to sympathize with Nature's Comrads. I was holding Willie's delicate, little, bony hand. He looked and felt much improved. The Robin on the window-sill chirped, "Good-morning—Are you feeling better?"

"I know that Robin," says Willie "He comes here every morning about this time—Oh! how I wish I was that Bird". "Why?" asked I. "Because I would fly away and see all of God's beautiful things, get fresh air, plenty to eat, health, happiness and—and no one to ask me who or what I am. Why wasn't I born a Bird?"

Did you ever meet a big strapping fellow struggling with a heavy lump in his throat—and smiling?

I donated the Bed Mr. Cohen asked for and thanked him for giving me the privilege. It is the best investment I ever made in my life—I wish I could afford to give him enough to make all suffering humanity happy. Mankind is the richer for his being with us. I like to boost good men while they are alive—not after they have lived.

I do not know what this has to do with Unusual Jewelry, but my fondest hope is to be as good a Merchant as my friend Joseph H. Cohen is a Humanitarian.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A teaspoonful of lemon juice to a quart of water will make rice very white and keep the grains separated when boiled.

When a glass stopper will not come out of a bottle allow one or two drops of glycerine to soak in and it can be removed quite easily.

Keep a few pieces of camphor in the silver drawer and the necessity for cleaning the articles will not arise so often.

Lemon juice will remove stains from the hands. Manicures use acids, but the lemon is quite as good and is not poisonous, which the acids are.

If a dessertspoonful of vinegar is added to the washing-up water it will take away the nasty smell from cutlery which has been used for fish.

If windows are cleaned with vinegar and water they will be brighter and last clean longer than if cleaned with water alone. Polish in the usual way with a soft linen cloth or leather.

Shoes will last longer than they otherwise would do (and the soles will also be waterproof) if a coating of copal varnish is given to the soles and when dry a second coat. From time to time the application should be renewed.

Orange peel softens the water beautifully and imparts a nice perfume if a piece be kept in the toilet jug.

Jam jars should always be heated before being filled with jam, otherwise they are likely to crack.

Do not keep food of a damp or juicy nature in paper bags. Chemicals are often used in preparing the paper and when damp are injurious to food of any kind.

Fold a thick towel and put it in the bottom of baby's bath and you will see how delighted the child is with it. Timid babies lose all fear when they find that they do not slip about.

Boots and shoes, however damp, will polish in a few minutes if a drop or two of paraffin oil be added to the blacking. It also prevents the leather from cracking.

Bars of soap should be stacked up as children build houses of wooden bricks, so that air may get freely to as much of the surface as possible.

Old potatoes are greatly improved by being soaked overnight or for several hours before being peeled. Change the water once or twice during the time.

Use copper wire for picture hanging; it does not rust easily, is mothproof and will last for years.

Half a lemon dipped in salt and rubbed on discolored ivory knife handles will restore them to their original whiteness.

If a little common salt is always used instead of soap for cleaning enameled things they will remain smooth and white like new. It is also the best thing for removing stains from china.

Always begin to cut a cucumber at the thick end. The thin end has a bitter taste. If the entire cucumber is not cut up stand the cut end of the unused half in a basin of water.

Before scraping new potatoes always soak them for half an hour in salt and water. The effect afterward is wonderful. Not only do the skins come off much more easily, but the hands will then not be stained at all.

Celery will keep crisp a long time if kept where it is perfectly dark.

Canned fruit should be opened an hour or two before it is used. It becomes richer after the oxygen of the air has been restored to it.

Easy Way to Pare Apples.—In paring apples for cooking there is usually a great deal of waste, but this may be prevented if some hot water is poured over them before paring, letting them stand for one minute, they can then be pared quite thinly and easily without injuring the flavor of the fruit.

A tablespoonful of vinegar put in the oven while a joint is roasting makes it more tender and of better flavor.

To prevent potatoes becoming black when cooked but them into cold water; and when brought to the boil squeeze a little lemon juice in. They will then keep a good color and be of good flavor.

When peeling lemons for cooking purposes be sure never to cut any of the white skin, as it has a bitter flavor.

If salt, instead of tea leaves, be used to clean a carpet, it will be found a great improvement. It not only will have the effect of brightening it, but will not injure the most delicate carpet or felt. It also keeps the dust down and prevents months from destroying it.

Glycerine rubbed into shoes and boots will make the leather soft and pliable and save it from cracking.

When using valuable vases for table decorations fill them with sand, for this makes them stand firmly and renders them far less liable to be knocked over and broken.

Instead of keeping parsley in water, which turns it yellow, put it in an airtight jar in a cool place. This will keep it fresh for sometime.

Beet Relish.

Cook beets the same as for the table, one quart of beets chopped fine, one quart of raw cabbage chopped fine, one cupful grated horseradish as prepared for the table, one cupful granulated sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, one teaspoonful black pepper. Vinegar enough to mix well.

CLEAN AND KOSHER BUTTER OF NUTS SAWTAY

100% PURE BUTTER FOR FRYING, BAKING AND SHORTENING

Small size, 15c. Family size, ...

The Best, Most Kosher and Pure Butter in the World and the Most Economical

SAWTAY has come like an angel from heaven to enlighten and minimize the cares of life for the housewife.

SAWTAY is best for frying, baking and shortening. It is the best butter, but more tasty and no danger of its spoiling.

SAWTAY solves the problem of obtaining a Kosher butter fat or oil at a small cost.

SAWTAY costs but little, and may be used as a substitute for butter, fat or oil.

SAWTAY is Parveh, and may be used either for milk or meat dishes.

SAWTAY has no odor. You can fry herring or onions in it and use it again for baking a delicate cake.

Read the Certificate of Chief Rabbi Solomon Elchanon Jaffe:

I hereby proclaim to all the Jews of America, butter which is made from nuts and is called Sawtay, and is made by the firm "Saute Products Corporation, Chicago, Ill." It is Kosher for all Jews and may be used for eating, frying and cooking with meat or milk, and contains nothing that conflicts with the most rigid orthodox requirements. The utensils in which Sawtay is made are all new and Kosher, making it permissible for Passover. For this reason it is recommended to the most pious and observing Jews as Kosher.

SAWTAY IS PACKED IN GLASS JARS, TRIAL SIZE, 15C. HOUSEHOLD SIZE, 35C. AND FIVE-POUND STONE CROCKETS, $1.15. SEND FOR "SAWTAY WAY," A LITTLE BOOK OF RECIPES.

Shaaray Tephila Sisterhood.
 The Shaaray Tephila Sisterhood becomes twenty-five years old this month, and in honor of the event a public reunion will be held at the West End Synagogue, West Eighty-second street, on Tuesday evening next, April 20. It was organized on April 2, 1890, pursuant to a call issued by the minister of Shaaray Tephila, Rev. Dr. F. de Sola Mendes, who became its first president and for many years actively guided its activities. What the officers of the United Hebrew Charities think of these activities will be told in addresses by Messrs. Leopold Plaut and M. D. Waldman, of that institution; also by Mrs. Samuel Elkeles, president of the Federation of Sisterhoods. In addition Dr. Stephen S. Wise has promised to deliver an address on the need of the Sisterhood, after which a social reunion will be held. All are invited.

Young Men's Hebrew Association.
 Next Saturday evening, April 17, Mr. Frank Moss, Assistant District Attorney, will address the members of the Judaea Society on "The Voice of Prophecy in American History."
 On Sunday, the 18th, at 11 a. m., Mr. David H. Perlman will deliver a lecture on "Monna Vanna" by Maeterlinck.
 In the evening the concluding debate of a series that has extended through two years will take place. The Harmony Associates will engage the Mark Twain Club on the subject of "Government Ownership of Telephones and Telegraphs." A large audience is expected.

Builders of Israel.
 The Builders of Israel will hold an open meeting on Saturday evening, April 24, in the Recreation Rooms, 186 Chrystie street. A fine musical program has been arranged, and dancing will follow. The audience will be addressed by a well-known speaker. All who are interested in anti-mission work are invited.

Bronx Young Men's Hebrew Association.
 New classes for the instruction of boys and girls in Hebrew have been formed at the Bronx Y. M. H. A., 1004 Bcston road. Intending pupils may register during the week from 4 to 6 p. m. and on Sunday morning.

disease, as many wrongfully believe; it is a house disease.

As to fortifying your body so that you will not be predisposed to consumption, consult a doctor—early and often—when ever for some reason or another you are ailing.

And now about the blessed cure! Here, again, your family doctor must be made your guide, philosopher and friend. He will give you the details.

The fundamental principles are: 1. The proper disposition of the sputum (for the protection of others). 2. Rest, unless otherwise directed by the doctor. 3. Fresh air all the time; all the sunshine you can corral; this is the "twenty-four hour cure." 4. Pure food, well cooked; drink in abundance; bread stuffs, milk, meat, eggs, especially. Medicines, but only those prescribed by the doctor.

Observe the schedule here laid down, and you will very likely win out in the anti-consumption fight.

The Unpunctual Jew.

The lack of punctuality on the part of our Jewish brethren in starting meetings seems to be universal in view of the following editorial excerpt from the London Jewish World:

We are glad that the chairman of the recent meeting of the East London Orphan Aid Society protested against the unpunctuality of some who attended. The lateness of their arrival meant that the meeting started an hour behind time. This is a common vice of Jewish gatherings, and is not limited to East End meetings. We do not know how the late comers justify their conduct or how to explain it. Is it a piece of Oriental sloth, which we have not been able to cast off after centuries of life among a more hustling race? Again, is this disease of tardiness common also among Jews on the other side of the Atlantic? The other day Mr. Zangwill, too, referred to the unpunctuality habit, and wittily reminded his hearers that in the thirteen creeds we express the belief in the coming of the Messiah, "though his coming be delayed." "The Messiah also, we see, is late," exclaimed Mr. Zangwill, adding pointedly that "this might have some bearing on the question of the international situation and the Jews." Really, we think that if the aspirations of some of our people were realized and a Jewish delegate were admitted to the coming Peace Congress, he, too, would arrive long after the sitting had begun, and when most of the business—including Palestine—had been disposed of. In our opinion there is only one way of putting an end to the "too late" habit, and that is to begin the proceedings punctually to time however few persons are present, or to close the meeting if there be not sufficient present to warrant its being carried on.

William Howard Taft has been selected to lecture next fall at Columbia University under the George Blumenthal Foundation in Political Science. He will give six lectures. The subject will be "The Presidency; Its Powers, Duties, Responsibilities and Limitations." The Blumenthal Foundation was founded in 1907.

"Between the great things we cannot do, and the small things we will not do, there is great danger that we shall do nothing." There are not a few people waiting for an opportunity to be heroes, or something unusually brilliant, who in the meanwhile are not ordinary citizens. Buildings are never constructed from the cupola downward; it is only in lives that people fancy they can begin at the top without the trouble of laying a foundation."

How Long, O Lord.
In the weary night they come to me,
The tears that I left unshed,
When I trudged the thorny wilderness
With the sun-flame overhead.
I lie awake in the friendly night,
My soul too numb to pray,
Enjoying the cool of its velvet black
In the dread of the coming day.

For the day must come and the sting of it,
As I bend to the endless road,
The light must come and the pain of it—
The bite of the lashing goad.
But this I know as I reel along
To the nation's hue and cry,
A burning truth in the hand of God:
I know that I must not die.

They say my soul is twisted and warped,
My ways are cringing and mean,
That I worship the bulk of the calf of gold,
That my hands are not white and clean;
They say—but a thousand reasons hold
To stalk the quarry then
When the lust for blood is hunger-felt
By the beast that dwells in men.

When Kindness is taught at the end of a rope,
And Love to the music of groans;
When Charity masks in a cloak of flame,
And Mercy in falling stones—
What wonder the balm for the spirit falls
When the wounds are kept so fresh
Through countless years of active hate
In the rack of the tortured flesh?

I have ceased to long for the clasp of Love,
To dream of the smile of a friend,
I grip my trusty wander-staff
In a journey without an end.
My faith is strong as the primal rocks,
And deep as my tearless woes;
I am Job of the nations—heir of wrongs,
But why—Jehovah knows.
—Elias Lieberman, in Guild Journal.

The Jew a Visionary.
A quality the Jew must possess in fuller measure—he must have vision without being a mere visionary. His aim must be higher, as his whole life must be purer and nobler, just because he is a Jew. There has been too much restriction in scope and vision. Open windows in the synagogue have always existed, out of which a few choice spirits caught a glimpse of the broader heavens. He would never have survived if there had not come to him songs in the night, dreams in captivity, longings in wretchedness, and gleams of light amid the stifling darkness. Such open windows gave him buoyancy and taught him patience to endure until spring would dawn and the shadows flee. Circumstances draping Jewish history in funeral crepe peremptorily checked universalistic tendencies, and made the great mass look ever backward in their weakness and helplessness. The traditional fate of Lot's wife is always a warning and illustration. Is there not a bolder and more heroic alternative? To plant itself on God, virtue, and immortality, to develop as an active working force, and cease to be a mere reminiscence from the era of the Moabites and the Perizzites, and to accomplish in the realm of the spirit what has already been done in the world of trade—this implies for Israel no violent break with tradition, but an evolution on more daring lines. Its small coterie of thinkers and workers who cherish such a vision must be strengthened and enlarged until the name Israel shall regain its original significance as wrestler for right living, at whatever sacrifice.
How impatient! how heartless! some critics might exclaim. How absurd to prate of vision and the mirage of humanity, when three-fourths of the Jews of the world are in the war zone, and the nearer duty calls on us to relieve the suffering and restore the broken-hearted. Let us wait until the war clouds have uplifted, and complete emancipation has been enjoyed by our brethren in Russia and Roumania.
That has always been the answer. Let us wait. Let us fold our hands and sleep still longer until the spirit slumbers and Judaism is atrophied as a real power among Jews.—Dr. A. S. Isaacs, in North American Review.

Live your life while you have it. Life is a splendid gift. There is nothing small in it. For the greatest things grow by God's law out of the smallest. But to live your life you must discipline it. You must not fritter it away in "fair purpose, erring act, in constant will," but must make your thought, your words, your acts all work to the same end, and that end not self, but God. This is what we call character.—Florence Nightingale.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Much has been said about the need of grand opera at popular prices; that is, prices that are within the reach of the masses who are music lovers and who have not the means to hear operas as given at present in New York.

The Barnum and Bailey circus now playing at Madison Square Garden, New York, has made the hit of its career. The universal comment is, that it is by far the greatest circus ever seen in New York.

Pallenberg's Teddy Bears is a wonderful act for the children and an eye opener for the grown-ups. These animals skate about on roller skates and ride upon bicycles just like human beings.

BROOKLYN NOTES.

Annual Bazaar of Shaari Zedek.
 Great activity is being shown in the preparations for the annual bazaar which is to take place in the vestry rooms of the Temple on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 20-21. In addition to the regular features there will be several extra booths this year, notably one for the Young Folk's League of the Temple and one for the Junior Temple Club. The Sisterhood of the Temple is the leading spirit of the undertaking and due to its activity a number of valuable donations have come in from well known mercantile houses.
 Like last year, a great many of the leading actors and actresses and opera stars have generously responded by sending in autographs, pictures of themselves, or dolls and other toys dressed and fixed up by themselves. All these will be for sale. There is going to be a special children's day on Wednesday afternoon, and luncheon and refreshments will be served throughout the affair. Altogether this year's bazaar promises to be one of the best and most attractive ever held under the auspices of Shaari Zedek and its energetic Sisterhood.
 Mrs. Isidor Workman is chairlady of the bazaar, with Mrs. Dante as secretary and Mrs. Hyman, assistant secretary; Mrs. Sarah Miller, treasurer, and Mrs. H. Freedberger in charge of the donations.

Hebrew Educational Society.

Mr. Abraham S. Schomer will speak this evening on "Jewish National Organizations and the Jewish People."
 Mr. Bernard G. Richards will speak in Yiddish on Saturday evening, April 17. His subject is "The Contribution of the Immigrant to Culture in America."
 Mr. Maurice Sylbert will give a reading of "The House Next Door" on Sunday evening, April 18.
 The preliminary senior declamation contest will take place on Sunday afternoon, April 18, at 2 o'clock.
 Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass will speak on "Conquest of Chaos" on Sunday afternoon, April 18, at 4 o'clock.

The Civic Forum.

Gilbert E. Roe, former law partner of United States Senator La Follette and president of the Men's Equal Suffrage Committee, will debate with Everett P. Wheeler, the distinguished lawyer, trustee of the College of the City of New York and former Civil Service Commissioner, in the assembly hall of Public School No. 84, Stone and Glenmore avenues, Brooklyn, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Civic Forum, Nathan H. Seidman, director. The subject of the debate will be, "Resolved, That the amendment to the Constitution of the State of New York, submitted by the Legislature to the voters of this State, extending right of suffrage to women, be adopted." Justice Alexander S. Rosenthal will preside. The public is cordially invited. On the following Sunday, April 25, Detective William J. Burns will speak on "The Citizen's Political Duty."

Twenty-two Nurses Graduate.
 On Thursday night the largest class in the history of the Training School for Nurses of the Jewish Hospital graduated. Twenty-two girls received their diplomas.

John A. Kingsbury, Commissioner of Charities, delivered the main address. Others who spoke were Edward C. Blum, president of the Jewish Hospital of Brooklyn; Isidore Isaacson, president of the Training School for Nurses, and the Rev. Dr. John F. Carson, who also gave the benediction.

Joseph J. Baker, of the Training School for Nurses board of directors, awarded the prizes awarded by the board to the graduating nurses and Dr. John O. Polak presented the special prizes, of which there were twelve in number.

Young Men's Hebrew Association.

A lecture of special interest to the Jewish community of Brooklyn will be delivered this Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, when Dr. Maurice H. Harris will give an address on "Great Men in Israel."

A splendid musical program has been arranged for Sunday evening, to be given in connection with the lecture. Several instrumental and vocal selections will be rendered by artists of ability.

Social Service Auxiliary.

An informal membership dance of the Young Men's and Women's Social Service Auxiliary of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities was held last evening at the Willoughby Mansion and a large gathering was present and spent an enjoyable evening. The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held at the Temple Beth Elohim on Sunday, April 18, at 8 p. m. Hon. Jacob Brenner and Alex H. Kaminsky will deliver addresses. A Big Brother movement will be organized.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Buchler will entertain the members of the Congregation Adath Israel of Coney Island at their home, 513 Neptune avenue, on Sunday afternoon, April 18.

The annual concert of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Bath Beach was given last Saturday night at the Hotel Shelburne, Brighton Beach. A dance followed the musical numbers.

The Brownsville Young Men's Hebrew Association has been admitted a member of the Metropolitan League of Young Men's Hebrew associations.

Junior League of the Downtown Talmud Torah.

The Friendly Torah Circle, the junior league of the Downtown Talmud Torah, of which Mr. Abraham Krumbain is president, will hold the second open meeting of the season in the auditorium of the Downtown Talmud Torah, 394-396 East Houston street, on Sunday evening, May 2, 1915. A very elaborate program, both musical and literary, has been prepared, which is expected to attract the young Jews and Jewesses of the neighborhood. All are welcome.

A LONG FELT WANT SATISFIED.

It is a known fact, and has been for many years, that the average Jewish housewife purchases little if any CONDENSED MILK. Her fear that it was not strictly Kosher no doubt has been the reason for this small demand.

The Borden's Condensed Milk Company, realizing that there are thousands and thousands of Jews who would make use of the convenience and food value of CONDENSED MILK for general household use, if they were convinced of its cleanliness and safety, as well as the assurance that it meets every requirement of the strictest Rabbinical law, have placed upon the market their famous Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, Magnolia Brand Condensed Milk, and Borden's Evaporated Milk under a Kosher label fully indorsed by Rabbi Solomon Elchanon Jaffe, who has placed at the Borden Company's factory at Norwich, N. Y., his personal Mashgiachim, who check up carefully every step in the manufacture of these three Kosher Brands.

There will no doubt be many times when, after the daily milk supply has been delivered and consumed, friends will unexpectedly call and you will want to make up quickly and cheaply some sort of pudding or custard as a dessert. If you have in your ice box a can of either BORDEN'S KOSHER EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK, OR BORDEN'S KOSHER MAGNOLIA BRAND CONDENSED MILK, or BORDEN'S KOSHER EVAPORATED MILK, you will not have to worry for this milk which comes sweetened or unsweetened, can be used for all purposes for which ordinary milk is used.

The healthy and steady growth which a baby should make is of great importance to every mother. If for any reason bottle feeding is necessary, or your baby requires one or more feedings daily in addition to breast feedings, do not fail to use BORDEN'S KOSHER EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK; full directions on every can.

For general household purposes, BORDEN'S KOSHER MAGNOLIA BRAND CONDENSED MILK meets every requirement. Save the Kosher Magnolia labels and redeem them for handsome presents.

Should you desire an unsweetened milk, BORDEN'S KOSHER EVAPORATED MILK can be used for all purposes that you would use ordinary milk.

Buy a can today and be convinced.

CHILDREN'S PAGE

THE ACQUISITION OF THE TORAH.

Dear Children:—

The Sages taught the following in the style of the Mishnah—Blessed be he that made choice of them and their Mishnah. Rabbi Meir said, whosoever labors in the Torah for its own sake merits many things; and not only so, but the whole world is indebted to him; he is called friend, beloved, a lover of the All-present, a lover of mankind; it clothes him in meekness and reverence; it fits him to become just, pious, upright and faithful; it keeps him far from sin, and brings him near to virtue; through him the world enjoys counsel and sound knowledge, understanding, and strength, as it is said: "Counsel is mine, and sound knowledge; I am understanding; I have strength" (Prov. 8-14), and it gives him sovereignty and dominion and discerning judgment; to him the secrets of the Torah are revealed; he is made like a never-failing fountain; and like a river that flows on with ever-sustained vigor; he becomes modest, long-suffering, and forgiving of insults; and it magnifies and exalts him above all things.

When the little baby comes into this world it has its little fists clenched as if it would take the entire world within its grasp—yes, dear children—the first characteristic that the baby shows is acquisitiveness. And when it grows up and its fists grow larger, its propensity for acquiring grows stronger and stronger—and with all its labors what does it acquire? Has it any permanency? Does its acquisition bear the guarantee of happiness? Do they redound to the benefit and elicit the love of humanity? But the acquisition of the Torah! Just go over the list of the beginning of this article again, dear children, and see what good it brings to the one who acquires it, and to everybody else. Permit me to use the language of the day to ask you emphatically: "Can you beat it?" I will illustrate one of its benefits by a story from the Talmud: "It (the Torah) clothes him in meekness and reverence." There was once a greatly learned Disciple of the Sages who was very rich, and no one knew of his wealth because he always had the appearance of a poor man, wearing very cheap clothing, and ever having a most humble demeanor. When he came to pray at the synagogue he always sat among the poor people. Once the great Sage, Rabbi Akiba, took a string of pearls to the market-place, intending to sell it, for Rabbi Akiba was a dealer in pearls. When this rich man saw that Rabbi Akiba had pearls to sell, he asked him to accompany him to his home and promised to buy the pearls from him at whatever price they were worth. Rabbi Akiba followed him reluctantly, because he thought that he was fooling him. When they arrived at his house the servants of that rich man went forth to receive him, and they seated Rabbi Akiba in a golden chair and washed his feet. After that the rich man ordered his servants to take the string of pearls from Rabbi Akiba and pay him the value thereof; he also bade them to take six pearls and grind them to powder for the purpose of having them concocted in various medical prescriptions. After that he ordered the table set and Rabbi Akiba and his disciples partook of the sumptuous repast that was spread for them. After the meal Rabbi Akiba asked: "Tell me, since you are so rich, why do you act so humbly—how is it becoming in you to sit in the synagogue among the poor people?" The rich man answered him: "Because I have learned the Torah and know that man is likened to vanity—his life passes away like a shadow, and his riches do not always remain with him, therefore I prefer to sit among the poor people in order that I may be ever mindful of poverty and take no pride in my wealth that the Holy One, blessed be He, gave me. There is also another advantage in it for me to sit among the poor, because should I happen to become poor, no one will make me sit any lower down on account of my poverty than I am now sitting, and I always think that I am not more worthy than the poor man. One Heavenly Father created as both, and we are all brothers. Our Lord does not countenance pride for He hates the proud ones, and these people who think too much of themselves on account of their wealth." When Rabbi Akiba heard the wise words of this man he was greatly pleased, and he blessed him and took his departure.
