More About the Chief Rabbi at the Front—Tribute to the Late Dr. Schwarzfeld—That Question of the Increase of Tuberculosis Among Jews—Sokolow on Herzl—Important Jewish Trade Union Resolution—Israel Zangwill's Appeal to Jews.

London, July 9, 1915.

During the past week the Rev. Dr. Hertz, the Chief Rabbi, has visited the war zone from Ypres to Vermelles. Especially interesting was an open-air service attended by a number of Jewish officers and men, conducted close behind the firing line, amid the noise of a heavy cannonade. Everywhere he visited the field ambulances, hospitals and cemeteries. At the British headquarters he was the guest of the Adjutant General and the principal chaplain. Later, accompanied by the Rev. Michael Adler, C. F., he proceeded to the Rouen area, where a service was held at the local synagogue.

Addressing a large congregation of troops, Dr. Hertz said that he brought them the greetings of their brethren at home and the message of their holy faith, a message of unconquerable hope. There was an olden Jewish legend of a second deluge—a deluge of fire—that would sweep over the earth. In anticipation of it the children of men were bidden to write the laws of right and wrong on tables of clay, which tables would thus escape destruction, and, indeed, be baked into hard stone.

The Chief Rabbi will continue his tour in France till the end of this week.

The National War Loan closes tomorrow, and evidently a very big subscription has been realized. It is known that Jewish contributions bulk largely. All the leading Jewish financial houses have taken tremendous blocks of the stock while among the poorer members of the community the $25 bonds, and, lower down still, the $1.25 war vouchers, have also had a tremendously wide sale.

The Anglo-Jewish Association, held a council meeting last Sunday here. A resolution of regret upon the death of Dr. Schwarzfeld, the late secretary of the Jewish Colonization Association, was passed unanimously.

Dr. Schwarzfeld rendered greater services to the Jews of Roumania than was generally known. He was one of those Jews who were expelled from Roumania for participating in certain political work there, and it was he who started the first Jewish paper in that country. Up to the last moment he continued his activities on behalf of his Roumanian coreligionists, and he was the author of the great work on the position of Jews in Roumania which had been published under the nom de plume of "Sincerus." He carried out important historical investigations and had upset the legend that Jews were newcomers in Roumania. He proved that they had inhabited the country before the incursion of the Turks. By his investigations he showed that the Jews had been invited by the princes of Moldavia to settle in the townlets of Roumania, had ascertained that it was the Jews who had opened up trade connections with the East and West and that they had established the first paper factory two hundred years ago, when they laid the foundation of a thriving Roumanian industry.

The question of the increase of consumption among Jews has frequently been commented upon here and discussed from all points of view. In his latest report the medical officer of health for Stepney refers in rather disquieting terms to this matter. He states that the number of Jews in the borough notified last year to be suffering from tuberculosis was 616, as compared with 916 Christians. Dr. Thomas goes on to say: "In Whitechapel, as in previous years, the death rate per 1,000 of the population from phthisis is greater than in the rest of the Borough of Stepney, although this is not the case with regard to the general death rate. This may be due to several causes. In the first place, as I pointed out in my last annual report, there is a greater proportion of Jews living in this part of the borough than in any other part, and consumption is undoubtedly on the increase among them. There is another factor which refers to the number of persons occupying a room. In the premises where cases of consumption occurred the average number of persons occupying a room with the consumptives was 1.99 in Whitechapel, whereas it was 1.67 in Mile End, 1.43 in Limehouse and 1.81 in St. George's.

Dr. Thomas gives a table showing the number of persons notified and the number of deaths from tuberculosis per 1,000 of the population last year in certain model dwellings in different parts of the borough which are occupied by Jews and non-Jews. These buildings are occupied by 5,984 Jews and 3,325 non-Jews. In the former 7.52 per 1,000 of the occupants were notified to be suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis and 1.66 per 1,000 died. In the buildings which contained no Jews 6.31 per 1,000 were notified to be suffering from the disease and .9 per 1,000 died. The doctor adds, however, that this difference is not so marked as in the previous year. He further remarks that the notification rate and the death rate are lower than in the previous year, both in the buildings referred to and in the rest of the borough.

Dr. Herzl's memory is always kept green here, no matter how Europe may be disturbed. There was a large gathering in London last week on the anniversary of his death, with Nahum Sokolow, the well-known writer, as the principal speaker. Herr Sokolow's address was a remarkable achievement of historic portraiture combined with profound knowledge expressed in his inimitable, wayward style and poetic phrasing. He spoke for ninety minutes, apparently without a single note, and kept the interest of a vast assembly till the finish. The enthusiasm of the gathering was such that he was loudly applauded at the close of his address, an incident quite unusual in a synagogue.

A new Jewish weekly has made its appearance in Toledo, O. It will be known as the Israelite.

Temple Keneseth Israel of Allentown, Pa., is being rebuilt, and when completed its capacity will be almost double that what it is at present.

A society has been organized in Philadelphia, Pa., to be known as the Jewish Vegetarian Society. It will promote the theory of vegetarianism.

A movement is on foot in Montreal, Canada, to establish a brigade largely made up of Jewish young men for the purpose of home defense.

A large gathering assembled at the Jewish Home for the Aged in Pittsburgh, Pa., last Sunday to celebrate the tenth anniversary of that institution.

The United Hebrew Protective Association has been organized in Paterson, N. J., and application has been made for a charter. The association is a mutual benefit society.

The United Hebrew Charities of Baltimore, Md., finds itself in the same position as many similar organizations this year. It faces a deficit of from $8,000 to $10,000 on the year.

Rabbi Joseph H. Stolz, of Gary, Ind., is at present conducting a campaign in Syracuse, N. Y., in an effort to show the public of that city exactly what the Gary system of education is.

Last Sunday afternoon the members of the Congregation Chevrah Thillim at New Orleans, La., dedicated their new building. The congregation has heretofore worshipped in hired quarters.

Mrs. Addie Brauer, a well-known Jewess of Richmond, Va., passed away on July 15, aged 73. Mrs. Brauer was a sister of Sir Moses Ezekiel, the famous sculptor who resides in Rome, Italy.

David Fischman, the noted Hebrew writer and novelist, who has been reported suffering from a severe ailment, has been discharged from the Jewish Hospital at Odessa and is on the road to recovery.

Miss Esther Barrin, of the Croft School, Waterbury, Conn., recently won the prize for submitting the best essay of any grammar school girl on a revolutionary subject, thereby winning a gold medal and a cash prize.

Plans have been formulated for the establishment of a Hebrew school in Baltimore, Md., east of Broadway. The school will be under the auspices of the Jewish Board of Education and will be opened in October.

Abraham Baum, for twenty-five years a resident of Augusta, Ga., and one of the most beloved citizens of that city, died on the 12th inst. Mr. Baum, who was originally from Cobrin, Russia, was for many years minister to one of the local congregations in Augusta.

Mr. Herman Bernstein, editor of the Day, left Saturday on the Nieuw Amsterdam to visit the war zone and to interview leading men for his publication. Mr. Bernstein will also represent the American Jewish Committee.

A movement has been started among Jewish residents of St. Paul, Minn., to have the branch orphan asylum to be built by District Grand Lodge No. 6, I. O. B. B., located in their city. The branch will probably cost $450,000.

David Hoffman, son of Rabbi and Mrs. Charles I. Hoffman, of Newark, N. J., who was graduated from Columbia University last February, has been appointed an instructor in the department of literature at the West Philadelphia High School.

The ten-day campaign recently instituted by the Jewish Men's Association of Cleveland, O., terminated successfully last week with 800 applications being turned in to the secretary, in addition to which there are still 300 signed applications outstanding.

Professor A. P. Cuza, of the Bucharest (Roumania) University, has dismissed the lady principal of a students' home because she admitted a poor Jewish girl student. The Jewish girl was also put out into the street immediately and the other students were reprimanded because they had tolerated her.

By reason of the extraordinary deficit of the last year and the threatened reduction of this year's income, the United Hebrew Charities Society of Philadelphia, Pa., has announced that it is obliged to refuse consideration of any new applicant for relief and will also be forced to reduce the allowance of those already dependent upon it.

Ignatz Katz, who for some time held public office in Yonkers, N. Y., died last week at the age of 59. The bequest to the Jewish Hospital is for the purpose of endowing a free bed in memory of her husband, David Van Bell.

A meeting was held in Montreal on July 15 to stimulate recruiting among the Jews in Canada. Many volunteers swelled the already preponderating proportion of Jews serving in the Canadian contingents. After the meeting a huge demonstration of some 3,000 Jews marched through the streets accompanied by military bands and singing patriotic airs. The Christian populace burst into cheers for the Jewish volunteers and many of them also joined the procession and enlisted.

A memorandum has been published at Belgrade concerning the distress that has overtaken the Serbian Jews on account of the war. Thousands of Jews have been ruined and compelled to abandon hearth and home. All Jewish communities of the places situated on the Danube, Save and Drina have been annihilated. The houses have been destroyed and the streets turned into heaps of ruins. The labor of years has been blown by the cannons into nothingness. All Jews, with few exceptions, have had to flee from place to place bereft of all means.

A noted figure in French politics and journalism, Senator Ferdinand Camille Dreyfus, passed away on July 19. M. Dreyfus was editor of several newspapers and the founder of Le Matin. In December of 1882 he was chosen to represent the Gros-Cailion quarter in the Paris Municipal Council, and was re-elected in 1884. In October, 1885, he was elected Deputy by the Department of the Seine, and was re-elected for the Twelfth District in 1889 in opposition to a Boulangist candidate. A radical, with wild schemes of reform, he sat with the Extreme Left. He was appointed a member of the Army Commission and also that of espionage. He fought many duels, one with the late Marquis de Mores, the anti-Semite.

The Jewish National Fund.

During June of the present year the donations to the Jewish National Fund amounted to a total of 68,158 francs. This sum was contributed as follows: North America, 51,852 francs; Germany, 5,241 francs; Russia, 5,011 francs; Austria, 4,322 francs; Holland, 610 francs; Denmark, 423 francs; Italy, 323 francs; Switzerland, 283 francs; Australia, 252 francs; Bulgaria, 237 francs; and Sweden, 104 francs.

The revenue for the first half of 1915 has now reached a total of 261,431 francs; (first half of 1914, 453,034 francs), certainly a satisfying result in face of the difficulties which have arisen through the world war. It is comprehensible that the receipts of the National Fund in those lands directly affected by the war have suffered a loss, but it is significant that scarcely anywhere has collecting been discontinued. In the United States there is a gratifying increase of 50 per cent. compared with the preceding year.

Since the beginning of this year the receipts of the National Fund have increased from month to month. They amounted to 24,805 francs in January, to 27,626 francs in February, to 37,312 francs in March, to 51,416 francs in April, to 52,175 francs in May and lastly to 68,158 francs in June.

The uninterrupted collections for the National Fund have enabled it to provide for the maintenance of its undertakings and to arrange relief work, too. (Construction of houses and roads.) Of what importance the agricultural undertakings of the National Fund are already for providing Palestine with food may be seen from the following facts: At the commencement of the industrial crisis the farms of the National Fund Company in Dagania, Merchawjah, Hattin Kinereth and Mesra had at their disposal a total quantity of 556,865 kilograms of wheat; 364,200 kilograms were used to supply the towns and some plantation colonies, while the remainder, 192,665 kilograms, was employed in providing the farms themselves with food and for the maintenance of the workmen employed in relief work. Jaffa received 122,100 kilograms, Jerusalem 162,600 kilograms, Haifa 17,500 kilograms, and the colonies of Judea 51,000 kilograms and the colonies of Galilee 5,000 kilograms at very moderate prices. This year, too, the supplies of corn, which are now being gathered in, will serve for the provisioning of the Jewish population in the towns and colonies. In addition the cultivation of vegetables is being systematically carried out on the National Fund domains, while the farm Benschemen and the association Merchawjah provide the Jewish people in the neighboring towns with milk.

Jewish Fraternal Orders Pledged to a Democratic Jewish Congress.

Dr. Louis S. Rubinsohn, Grand Master of the Independent Order B'rith Shalom, and well known in Philadelphia Jewish life, issued a statement this week in which he declared that his organization was committed to the holding of a Jewish congress on broad democratic lines, and would disregard any limited conference.

In the authorized statement issued by him Dr. Rubinsohn says: "I am pledged to my constituents to work for a Jewish congress on broad and democratic lines, and I am not going to break that pledge. I have great respect for the gentlemen at the head of the American Jewish Committee, but I cannot consistently appoint delegates to the Washington conference without violating a pledge, and I do not intend to do it."

"Personally, I agree with the sentiment expressed among a large majority of the lodge members with whom I come in daily contact, namely, no conference of Jews will have the desired effect unless it be popular and the rank and file are represented at such a gathering."

Judge Leon Sanders, Grand Master of the Independent Order B'rith Abraham, has also declared himself, in the Yiddish press, as favorable to the calling of a Jewish congress on democratic lines, but is hopeful that the American Jewish Committee may be convinced of the necessity of abandoning its proposed limited conference in favor of such a congress.

Prophets of Israel Art Calendar.

The National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods has just issued its third annual art calendar. It is a highly artistic production, printed by the rotogravure process on India-tinted stock. It consists of six picture plates and an additional plate containing the calendar.

The calendar, which is entitled "Prophets of Israel Art Calendar" derives its name from the pictures which have been chosen for the illustrations. These are six of the famous prophets of Michael Angelo, Isaiah, Joel, Ezekiel, Jeremiah, Zacheriah and Jonah.

The distribution of the calendar will be in charge of the executive office of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, Carew building, Cincinnati, O.

Several hundred women attended the Cedarhurst Country Club on Wednesday the 28th inst., to participate in the games arranged by Mrs. Samuel Elkeles and Mrs. Israel Gard for the benefit of destitute widows and orphans. The affair was very successful, both socially and financially, and there were many prizes distributed among the players and non-players. Among those who assisted in the undertaking were Mesdames Mark L. Abrahams, Nat Finkelstein, A. Kaminsky, J. Propas, M. Tarshes, Abe Adelson, Joel Del Monte, B. Welss, A. Adler, Fred Cowan, J. Kress, N. Klase, S. Foss, I. Bloom, Henry Borenstein, Max Greenwald, David Goodman, Benson Goodman, A. Robinson, Kurt Rosenthal, A. Stein, I. Pels, M. Quittner, Benjamin Fox, A. Greenblatt, M. Jackson, Alfred Blumenthal, A. Tobias, S. Kubre and J. Herman.

The Ladies' Washington Heights Aid and Relief Society tendered a bridge and whist party on Monday afternoon, July 26, at Scheinberg's Hotel, Edgemere, L. I. The affair was pronounced both a financial and social success, and was attended by delegates representing every part of the Heights and Yorkville, N. Y. The entire proceeds were donated toward the building now in course of construction for the 161st Street Congregation. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. I. Lichtenstein, Mrs. B. Turkeltaub, Mrs. H. T. Mendelson, Mrs. P. Weinstein, Mrs. B. Levy, Mrs. M. Romonow, Mrs. B. Prager, Mrs. B. Zerinsky and Mrs. Blumberg. Mrs. R. Scheinberg was the hostess of the afternoon, and in the evening an additional amount was raised by the men of the hotel. On Sunday, July 25, the guests contributed the sum of $28 for the Jacob Joseph Talmud Torah of New York city.

Jewish Arbitration Courts.

Our brethren in Montreal, Canada, feel elated over the establishment of a Jewish Arbitration Court in that city. There are several such courts in this country and the amount of good they accomplish is inestimable. As a rule not much is heard about such courts after they are once established, which fact in itself shows the great benefit that accrues from the existence of such institutions. If they do nothing else than keep out of the public print some petty quarrels which would otherwise be brought into the general court and be spread broadcast in city and State their existence is more than justified.

It is not exaggeration to say that much of the erroneous impression which outsiders have concerning our people and our dealing with one another is due to the petty quarrels arising either from some domestic difficulties or commercial transactions which frequently result in court litigation. While such litigation, when thoroughly investigated and viewed sympathetically, amounts to very little and in no way indicates a low standard of morals, yet the outsider sees in it an indication of habitual wrongdoing and reprehensible conduct. Time and again, for instance, it has been authentically and authoritatively stated and proven that criminality is much lower among our people than among others. Yet many of our neighbors refuse to be convinced by all the evidence that has been adduced to prove this. And the reason for it is that our people, especially in centers where the Jewish population is large, figure so frequently in lawsuits and litigations.

Of course, the real goal to be striven for is the elimination of all such petty quarrels and controversies. But that is a matter of education, which at best is but a slow process and requires a great deal of time for its accomplishment. These quarrels and controversies, whether of a domestic nature or commercial in character, have their root and being in the ghetto life which has engendered an intimacy and lack of reserve and restraint in the association of individuals and families. Where the population is small, therefore, this trait, the relic of ghetto life, is fast broken up and in a short time it vanishes; but in centers where the population is large it maintains itself and persists in spite of the changed surroundings and conditions of life. And it is in such places that Jewish arbitration courts are of great and inestimable value.

An additional service that Jewish arbitration courts can render the communities in which they exist is to be found in the fact that they can cope with problems and conditions that concern Jewish litigants infinitely better than the general courts can. Quite naturally a Jewish judge who devotes himself only to Jewish cases understands those who come under his observation better than others do. And it is, therefore, possible for him to dispose of matters that come before him in less time and in a more efficient manner. Thus the benefit that accrues from the establishment of Jewish arbitration courts is twofold. They make for the correction of an erroneous impres-vention contain the following resolution in the name of the Amalgamated Jewish Tailors' Trade Union of Leeds, and will be moved on behalf of the labor union by M. Sclare, the secretary:

NEWS FROM ENGLAND

"That this congress fervently hopes that civil and political rights will be granted to the Jews of those countries where these common rights are at present denied them in recognition of the great sacrifices the best manhood of Jewry is making, and that the Parliamentary Committee of the trade union convention shall petition the British Government to use its good offices in that direction when the opportunity will arise.

Israel Zangwill has issued what is styled a stirring call to arms to Jews in this country. The following is the least controversial part of the call: "I cannot understand how any young man can resist the claims of his country upon him at such a time as the present, when the addition of every one soldier means an earlier termination of the war. Many hundreds of thousands of men have answered the call when doing so has meant a great amount of personal sacrifice. Worldly positions, business interests, homes and dear ones have been given up, while there are others whose personal sacrifices would be insignificant were they to answer the call. Yet those still remain sitting on the fence. I believe that the Jews in England have enlisted in greater numbers in proportion to the rest of the population. Yet I continue to make my call to the Jew. Nearly ten thousand Jews in this country are serving the colors, leaving out the navy, the colonies and other forms of imperial service; men who have had to give up more. In my opinion Great Britain needs conscription, but it must be compulsory service with the retention of all civil rights. The present call to arms has proved that the Jew is no coward. In addition to the ten thousand men who have joined the army 'at home' a British Palestine battalion, composed solely of Jews, has been formed in Egypt. These men are of the younger element of Palestine who refused to become Turkish subjects at the outbreak of the war. After six weeks of training they made such wonderful progress that they were sent to the front and have already been praised by the general in command. It is the duty of every man of fighting age and fighting strength to bear arms today, and if the number needed cannot immediately be reached by voluntary service let the government adopt conscription, remembering at the same time to allow every man to retain his civil rights."

The Football of Empires in a Great War Game.

(By Professor Melvin Grove Kyle, D.D., LL.D.)

The game of chess is the theory of war strategy worked out on a checkerboard; the game of football is more—it is the practice of war strategy on the playground. The one purpose in war is the one purpose in football, the purpose of each contestant to get possession of the ball, and to carry it all the way over the field to the opposite goal.

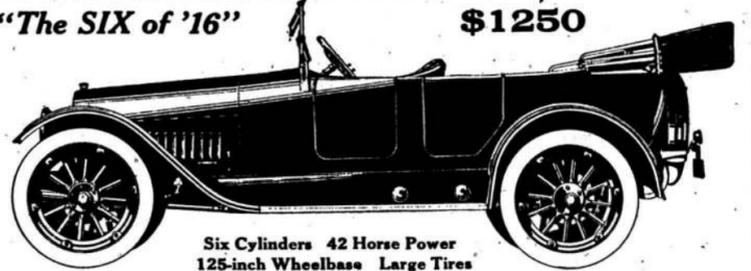

The peculiarity of the location of Palestine, on "the bridge between empires," and the importance of this peculiarity in the history of revelation through a chosen people, has often been the theme of historians. The mighty struggle of foreign nations for the little land of Canaan, the horrors visited upon the people of God, and the striking vicissitudes of the revelation through them during all the people of the national history of Israel, is aptly illustrated by the popular game of football. Palestine, "from the river to the ends of the earth" was the field; the East and the West—Babylonia and Assyria and Assyro-Babylonia, on the one side, and Egypt on the other, were the principal players; and the sovereignty of the land may be thought of as the ball.

The age-long effort of the contestants was to get possession of the ball, the sovereignty of the land, and to carry it over the field to the opposite goal. The Hittites occupied the grandstand at the northern side of the field, and occasionally, at least, interfered in the game, as is sometimes the way of grandstand crowds. Indeed, it is beginning to be suspected, as the greatness of the Hittites becomes clearer and clearer, that during some of the time, perhaps a large part of the time, they umpired

First Moves in the War Game.

The most comprehensive and illuminating view of Israel's national history and of the life of surrounding nations as well, is to be obtained by watching this great international war game under the imagery of a game of football. At least such a view will receive the best of all compliments—it will be understood.

Let us first briefly review what took place on the field up to Solomon's day, when what may be called the "great game" began.

This was an old field, and this an old, old game. The sons of Ham passed this way in the course of their migration toward a warmer climate and easier conditions of life in Egypt and the land of Cush. Perhaps this was the only time any people ever got possession of this field without a struggle. But the inevitable contest began; perhaps it was the great Amorite invasion, which changed the civilization of the land from Hamitic to Semitic, that opened the great game. At any rate, almost the earliest glimpse that we have of the Babylonians after they "journeyed east, and found a plain in the land of Shinar," and thus became Babylonians, reveals them as contestants in this game. They met with such success that soon they claimed the "west land," "the land of the Amorite," as a part of their empire, over which they threw the far-reaching protection of a military government, and to which they extended the first postal system of which the world has now any record.

But the Babylonians did not long continue in undisputed possession of the sovereignty of Canaan. The Hyksos, after they became a power in Egypt, whoever and wherever they may have been before that time, made the first advances of which we know from the Egyptian side of the field. King Khayan especially, of these alien kings of Egypt, extended his influence over part of Canaan. But vigorous contest from the Egyptian side of the field was not waged until some centuries later, when, under Thothmes III., the Egyptians were able to score a great victory at the battle of Megiddo, making secure the sovereignty for a long time against all contestants, Palestinian or foreign. Yet they were not able to banish the civilization of the Babylonians or to substitute Egypt's literary culture for that of the East.

Amenophis II. and Amenophis III. completed the fastening of the suzerainty of Egypt upon Canaan, seemingly making their hold secure forever. Yet in a short time a single weak monarch, Amenophis IV., lost the gain of centuries on this field. Even Rameses the Great, with all his military power, could do no more in his day than conclude at Kadesh a peace mutually honorable to Egypt and to the great Hittite people who watched by the northern border of the field.

It was during a lull in the great game on "Palestine field" that Israel gained possession of both the field and the ball. They found no great central sovereignty to oppose them, but only badly confederated tribes, "the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites," and all the rest of them, in the land "from the river to the ends of the earth." For a brief period the sovereignty of Israel shone like a brilliant comet among the constellations of ancient nations. This period opened by the conquest of Canaan under Joshua. Then followed the mysterious period of the judges for an uncertain time. Whether the 480 years mentioned are 480 years of time or 480 years of judgeships, or both, we cannot now tell with certainty.

This period was accompanied by the still more mysterious attempt of a new contestant in the field of Palestine, the Philistines, perhaps the Cretans certainly of such peculiar influence as to leave their name on the land where all others failed, and of a far-reaching influence upon Israelite art. In all this mystery there was the germinating and development of Israelite national strength which suddenly blossomed in the glory of the Davidic and Solomonic empire. For a brief time Israel had complete possession of the field and undisputed mastery of the sovereignty, holding with a master hand the "bridge of nations" throughout its length "from the river to the ends of the earth." In fact, Israel was for once, but not for long, a great world-power. One mighty hand of power held Egypt, divided and weak, to her own borders, and the other held Assyria, rising to power and occupied with watching Babylonia on the south, compelling her to keep to her own side of the Euphrates at "the ends of the earth."

When Israel Was a World Power.

Moab had been great enough before the Exodus for Rameses the Great to boast over her among others when he arrogated to himself on a statue at Luxor the title of "distributor of the double land of Ruthen"—that is, Syria, Palestine, and the Sinai peninsula. Edom, too, was great enough to send her wandering tribesmen clear across the Sinai peninsula to ask the Pharaoh for permission to occupy the vacant land in Goshen after Israel had gone. But these nations were not great enough to enter into this game for "Palestine field," or to disturb the proud empire of David and Solomon during its brief glory.

The Queen of Sheba, whose kingdom probably continued on down over the reign of Candace, and is known today by bronzes brought from Nubia, came in barbaric pomp and splendor to see the glory of Solomon, and found it so much greater than had been told her that "there was no more spirit in her." Such was the situation in Palestine and the world round about, when there began the great international war game of centuries that is to be the study throughout the Sunday school world during the second half of 1915. It may be thought of as a new phase, and the most important phase, of the great game that had begun centuries ago.

The glory of the kingdom of David and Solomon was of short duration. Look up with me at this sculptured representation on the south wall of the temple at Karnak. Here a Pharaoh boasts of his conquests. He leads his enemies by strings, and holds a huge sacrificial knife in his hand. The list of places that he claims to have conquered includes Taanach, Shunem, Gibeon, Ajalon, and Bethhoron. The royal oval contains the name Sheshank, the Shishak of the Bible, of whom it is said he "took away the treasures of the house of Jehovah, and the treasures of the king's house; he took all away" (2 Chron. 12:9). For only twenty-five years after the building of the temple had Israel held the field and the sovereignty and then began this great international game between the East and the West. In its very first dash Egypt humbled the sovereignty, robbed the temple, and seized the field—the whole field. Shishak came at the call of Jeroboam to help him, but when he came he helped—himself, as the list of ravished cities from both kingdoms shows.

The next move in the game came from the other side. Assyria was not long in taking note that the world power of David and Solomon was broken, and that the field was open. She advanced to the contest.

Victorious Assyria and How She Was Checked.

I stood in May, 1912, amid the ruins of the Roman palace at Samaria. We need not pause to admire, though they are worthy of admiration, but let us look, rather, down in the cellar among the foundation walls, to see the remains still standing of rough Canaanite masonry. They are the foundations of Ahab's ivory palace. Amidst the dust and rubbish far around this hill may still be picked up pieces of ivory, and out of this cellar before us came many potsherds from the wine cellar of the palace, the record of the wine dealer still plainly showing on some of them. Going toward the "fat valleys," we may still see the gateway of this capital of the house of Omri. Here it was that Shalmaneser, both II. and IV., rushed again and again into the middle of "Palestine field," to snatch away for the Assyrian empire the sovereignty of the Northern kingdom. Mesha, king of Moab, had never been able to possess himself of this coveted field, but now the day of disaster had come. Shalmaneser II. says he "received tribute of the Tyrians and of the Sidonians and of Jehu the son of Omri." On the black obelisk he says, "The tribute of Jehu the son of Omri, silver, gold, basons of gold, bowls of gold, cups of gold, buckets of gold, lead, a royal scepter, staves, I received."

When the dust of battle cleared away at Samaria in the year 718 B. C., Sargon II. the Great, of Assyria, was in possession of the field from "the river" clear down to the borders of Judah. Perhaps Shalmaneser IV. died during the assault (in battle?). Why did not Sargon take the field all the way to "the river of Egypt"? Perhaps because Pharaoh's power was too great. Perhaps because of what the Hittites at the northern end of the field might do.

As the autumn holidays approach, let us seasonably remember our whole duty to our Creator, the Holy One, blessed be He.

The optimism which pervaded all who attended the meeting in London last month of the Union of Jewish Literary Societies was so enveloping that the minutes of that conference may well go all over the Jewish world as a sort of message to pessimists. For, the war has wreaked its havoc with this union, and nothing was accomplished at its conference save—words! Of such a quality is Anglo-Jewish optimism!

It was not necessary for Harry Barnett, of the great London kosher beef firm of E. Barnett & Co., to tell the world that the Jews are meat-eaters. Ask any butcher whose customers are drawn from our co-religionists and he will tell you that his Jewish customers are among the best he has. Ask the cancer specialists among the medical faculty and the same tale, with the necessary difference in view of the changed position of the narrator, will be made known to you.

We have, ere this, pointed out that the greatest question confronting the Jewish people in this country for solution today is the matter of a Jewish congress. The Zionists and other popular assemblies, who may be taken as representative of the Jewish masses, have unequivocally gone on record in favor of a congress. The classes desire nothing more than a conference. In this war between class and mass may we somewhat mix the metaphor and ask, Will the tail wag the dog?

The opinion of the Hon. William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor in the Cabinet of President Wilson, to the effect that the close of the present European war will usher in a period when the number of arriving aliens on our shores will suffer a sharp and marked decrease rather than an increase, seems to us eminently sound. All the conditions point to the correctness of this expression of the Secretary's mature judgment. It applies with equal force to Jewish immigration, for this, in the last analysis, is not a whit different from the immigration of other peoples.

It took The Jewish World to discover that, in the course of the month of June, three Jewesses were duly admitted to practice at the Chicago bar. Our English contemporary draws an interesting deduction from the facts, and, of course, makes an appropriate reference to the celebrated female lawyer who figures so conspicuously in "The Merchant of Venice." What would The Jewish World say if it learned that at the New York bar alone there are more than a score of Jewish female practitioners, and that some of these ladies have been distinct adornments of the legal profession for considerably more than a decade?

The Juedische Rundschau, of Berlin, in its twenty-sixth issue for the current year, declares: The opposition on the part of certain elements in this (the American) community to the projected American Jewish congress may be ascribed to undemocratic tendencies which seek to circumvent the cherished desire of the masses of American Jews to right the policy of Russia toward her Jews in the recent past. While such an opinion is, of course, to be read in the light of German conditions and current political notions in the Fatherland, there can be no doubt that the avowed purpose of some of the outspoken advocates of the congress-idea, to attempt to secure the permanent amelioration of Jewish conditions in all lands of persecution, is broad and noble in its conception. If the execution of the purpose squares with its intention, no one need be ashamed of what American Jews will accomplish in the premises.

We call upon the members of the community throughout the length and breadth of the land to give gladly and generously of their means to the collections now being undertaken for the Central Committee for the Relief of Jews Suffering Through the War. The ultimate destination of these moneys is well understood and we need not, therefore, enlarge upon this side of the matter.

But it is appropriate that Mr. Morris Engelman, financial secretary of the organization, who is now making a propaganda tour on its behalf, be encouraged in the task he has so devotedly undertaken. Mr. Engelman, who, we may note parenthetically, originated the self-taxation stamps, which have met with such a deserved and considerable success, is responsible for the certificates of payment toward the war funds that are now being offered to the community. We have heretofore described the nature and purposes of these documents. We trust that what we have said will make all the Jews of this country contribute the mite that is now being asked of them in such a worthy Jewish cause.

Perhaps it should be pointed out, although we are sure the community does not require such an incentive to perform so noble a deed, that the names of the holders of the certificates—in other words, the list of contributors to the war funds—will be gathered together and published in the form of a "Book of Mercy," thus perpetuating to the ultimate generations the men and women of our faith, residing in this blessed land of liberty, who helped their European and Asiatic co-religionists at a season when their lot had become endangered and their plight grievous in the extreme.

Hence it behooves the Jewry of America to lend a willing ear to the appeal that is presently being made to them. This appeal is quite in accord with the principles that are bound up in the olden Jewish concept of Zedokoh. We must give the helping hand to our brother in the faith, fallen as he is on evil days, because it is just and proper that we do so. We must be charitable in the best and highest sense. Our succor is not to degrade or impoverish our stricken co-religionists, but simply to enable them to maintain unsullied their religious and economic position before the world. Give ere it is too late!

The Cleveland Jewish Orphan Asylum is to be rebuilt on the cottage plan. The old and famous institution, over which Dr. S. Wolfenstein had so ably presided for ever so many years, is to be remodeled and removed to more suburban quarters. What is of so much interest in this announcement is the fact that at last Cleveland has succumbed to the cottage plan of orphanage. It is not so long ago—the local cottage orphanage is only a few years old as such—that Dr. Wolfenstein vigorously opposed the cottage plan for an orphan asylum. What produced the change of heart?

Governor Brumbaugh, of Pennsylvania, recently vetoed a bill designed to prohibit discrimination against persons who wish to visit places of a public character, where such discrimination is based on considerations of race or creed, on the ground that the existing statute is sufficient to answer all the requirements. Our readers are familiar with the purpose of such a measure, the counterpart of which is a part of the law of this State. That it may have been of use to the inhabitants of Pennsylvania, and especially to such of them as are discriminated against on account of race or creed when they wish to visit places of a public character, is apparent from the circumstance that only the other day we happened upon the advertisement of a Pocono summer resort which bore the "sweet" legend, "No Hebrews Entertained!"

A writer in the Fortnightly Review, who gives his paper the rather startling title of "The Future of the Land of Promise," believes that Zion will be restored shortly through the might and grace of England. He admits that since the revolution which brought the Young Turks to power in Turkey, Zionists have given up their dream of a publicly-recognized, legally-secured home in Palestine, for the practical work of colonization in that country under the tolerant suzerainty of the Sublime Porte. The war has, however, changed all that. There is no doubt that much of an interesting character will develop immediately upon the conclusion of the struggle so far as Palestine is concerned. What form it will take we do not care to prognosticate. But it will make, no matter what form it takes, "mighty interesting reading," as Horace Greeley used to say.

The New York Herald, with that love for the aesthetic of which its owner presents a conspicuous example, has entered upon a campaign to assure the removal of the stores for second-hand clothing from the neighborhood of the Pennsylvania Station in Seventh avenue. The Herald is grievously offended (?) by the existence of these shops and, in characteristic fashion, has set about to obtain their elimination. We note one or two names of "commuters" and others, seemingly possessed of a strong sense of the eternal fitness of city streets, but not a single indication that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, or other large property-owners in the neighborhood, has joined in support of the Herald's "crusade." We think, in fine, that our contemporary will have to travel a rough and thorny road before it succeeds in using other people's property as if it were its own.

LITTLE BY LITTLE

ונשל ד אלקרד אה הגוים האל מפניך מעט מעט לא תוכב כלחם מהר פן תרכה עליך חית השדה:
"And the Lord thy God will put out those nations before thee little by little: thou mayest not consume them at once, lest the beasts of the field increase upon thee." (Deut. vii., 22).

THEY were not to expect a sudden conquest of the new land. The enemy facing them was not to be overthrown at a single stroke. No; "M'at m'at—Little by little!" There is something in the very sound of these words calculated to soothe the most impetuous spirits; something the very rhythm of which seems to be timed to a melody almost too vast for human ears. How little can mortal men, whose life-span is so brief, brook the pangs of delay; how eager are they for speedy fulfilment, for quick results. But when man in his impatience would skip the intermediate steps which God interposes between desire and realization, all the voices of nature speak to him in unison: "M'at m'at—Little by little!" Like the patter of baby-feet across the floor—first intimation of the painfully slow efforts whereby man is to stride across the earth—do these words come to us in our most impulsive moments with refrain-like insistence: "M'at m'at—Little by little!"

"Little by little" is the gentle refrain of the Song of Creation. When in early Spring the yellowish-green leaves sprout forth, how eagerly do they thrust themselves forward into space to drink in all the air and all the sunshine they can; but all the while one may read in the fine tracery of their veinlets: "Little by little!" Little by little Spring will wear into Summer and immaturity will grow into maturity. Little by little the sunbeams will kiss the glad thrill of life into each green cell; little by little the breezes will blow their bracing balm into each fibre; little by little the clouds will empty their liquid blessing into each root, until all the possibilities of the young leaf are unfolded, until its pale tints deepen—as if into self-confidence and self-possession. Patiently the sun will return to the east each morning; patiently the winds will veer around on their endless circuit; patiently the clouds will rise out of the ocean up to the sky, to nurse, foster and prompt the urge of growth shooting through the leaf: but meantime, the soft rain-drops will sing in their tender pit-a-pat: "Little by little!"

And if we hark back to the first Spring of the world-birth, we hear this selfsame refrain singing out of the thundering heart of Chaos. For countless aeons vaporous masses of worlds in the making kept whirling about in the scarce-defined Immensities—but during all that timeless time they were dancing to the tune: "Little by little!" When scientists burrow down to the deep places of the earth in order to study the sacred scriptures hewn by God Himself into the stratified tablets of stone, there too they read in the mysterious runes written on the rocks the old refrain: "Little by little!" They read the romance of now extinct animal-species in the fossilised annals of the long-flown past; they scan the epic of the primeval jungle in the dark archives of the coal-mine; but out of all this fossil-world, in which a life that was and a light that once shone are miraculously stored up, there chimes forth the everlasting melody: "Little by little!" And meantime, the living forests above them, waving their branches, take up this song; and, while each tree adds ring to ring in endless succession, they intone in deep choral notes: "Little by little!" The rune-reading men of science know not how many thousands of years vanished before the olden jungles were turned into black sunshine; nor do they know whether some distant upheaval of the earth will not sweep the now swaying leaves and boughs into the subterranean caverns, there to meet with the same dark destiny; but this they know, that it required the tremendous pressure of unconscionable centuries to bring about this marvellous transformation of sticks into stone. Pressure of such immensity as could be gauge only on God's scales! And still greater pressure, exerted through still longer periods, changed black coal into white diamond: the golden beams once drunk in by the green leaves awaked to new splendor in the sparkling crystals! But oh, the infinite patience that went towards the making of coal and crystal! God did not call forth these miracles of warmth and worth out of the void by a single creative utterance. God subdued, husbanded and distributed His limitless Power over the travelling centuries, in order that all things might join in the soft-voiced chorus: "Little by little!"

Finally, if we press our ear close to the human bosom and listen to the music of man's heart, once again we hear ringing out of his heart-throbs the pulsating refrain: "Little by little!" If it takes the prolonged pressure of the rocks to produce gems out of coal, it takes the intense pressure of all the divine forces to produce a man. Manhood is the sparkling gem formed out of baser materials by the persistent stress to which God subjects a soul. Tell me not that human beings are oft shocked into manhood by sudden revelations of the Divine: the work of God in man is never perfect, never securely established, until the soul has undergone a gradual process of ripening. God ripens a soul even as He ripens a fruit: He commands His light to shine upon it and His heavenly dew to refresh it; and nothing will bring the soul to such maturity as that subtle stress of divine influences whose secret only God and the soul are able to fathom. Moreover, what is true of the individual soul is true of Mankind. Looking back upon the road covered by the race, we despair; looking forward, we gather fresh hope. The ripening process is going on visibly before our eyes. We have no right to assume that human nature as we know it is final, rather must we believe that there are latent possibilities in man which God in His own way is even now endeavoring to summon forth. Therefore, when we press our ear close to the ground and listen to the cadence of marching feet on the highway of humanity, we may hear the measured beat of the recurrent song: "M'at m'at—Little by little!"

In his presidential address at the third annual convention of the United Synagogue of America, Dr. Cyrus Adler spoke of the program of this organization as being "so entirely in accord with the purpose of the founders of the seminary and the faculty and graduates of the seminary are in the main so entirely devoted to it, that it was the natural and eminently proper thing that the seminary should be chosen as the headquarters and central office." Elsewhere in this same document we read that the United Synagogue, "while not indorsing the innovations introduced by any of its constituents, (aims) to embrace all elements essentially loyal to traditional Judaism." "Essentially" is a qualifying adverb of very broad significance. It, as well as the cited portions in this paragraph, shows that our criticisms concerning the United Synagogue in the past, which those responsible for its government and policy have not always borne with that "essentially" good grace which one expects of them, were well founded. "Essentially loyal" means "conservative," "middle-of-the-road," or any similar amphibious and amorphous phrase to indicate a religious point of view. That the headquarters of the association are at the Jewish Theological Seminary and that the seminary's interests are closely bound up with those of the United Synagogue prove that the seminary is not in reality an orthodox institution today. Demonstrably, therefore, it is a "conservative," "middle-of-the-road" institution for rabbinical learning Q. E. D.

That the Hon. Edwin S. Montagu, a son of that redoubted pillar of true orthodoxy, the late Lord Swaythling, is about to marry the Hon. Miss Stanley, a daughter of Lord Sheffield, and a non-Jewish, is a personal matter, perhaps, which the parties to the interesting contract may justify, extenuate or defend, as they please. If Mr. Montagu's bride had remained a Christian, the community might have taken that notice of his approaching union which the name and traditions of his house, and particularly of his late father, demand. But, in view of the credible report that the young lady has adopted the Jewish faith, comment on our part is not only superogatory, but also superfluous. Still, we may ask: What would the first Lord Swaythling, were he alive, have said? What, moreover, would he have done?

Now that the Fast of Ab has passed it behooves us to remember that last Monday (July 26) was Tu b'Ab (i. e., Fifteenth of Ab), the holiday on which there used to be dancing and the girls would tell the young man, "False is grace and vain is beauty," etc. The girls all wore borrowed dresses.

Relief Certificates Ready.
The Central Committee for the Relief of Jews Suffering Through the War has just issued in conjunction with the American Jewish Committee a "war relief certificate," representing a contribution of $1 and $5, respectively. These certificates (a fac-simile of the $5 certificate is reproduced in these columns) are signed by the executive officers of both committees and are now ready for distribution. The Central Committee, which is in charge of the plan, hopes to get the Jewish people throughout the United States interested in this special campaign.
The misery and devastation in Poland have not been brought home to the consciousness of the Jews of America. Hunger, misery and disease prevail everywhere. The people are hidden in the its relief through the distribution of the certificates of honor, and there is every indication that the trip of the committee will have as its result a very substantial increase in the funds available for the relief of the unfortunate victims of the war.

In Youngstown, O., the local committee, of which the chairman was Mr. Emanuel Hartzell, and which also included Messrs. J. Friedman and Louis Perlman, arranged a mass meeting at the Temple. Subscriptions were made for $1,500 worth of certificates.
In Cleveland, O., three meetings were held and great enthusiasm aroused. About $10,000 worth of certificates were ordered.
Mr. Engelman has telegraphed from Chicago that the delegation was met at the depot by several prominent rabbis and laymen. A conference, organized by the local war relief committee, was attended by a very large and representative number of rabbis and laymen. Orders were given for $10,000 worth of certificates.

The delegation is proceeding to Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles and elsewhere.
The campaign was also opened this week at Wave Crest, Far Rockaway, L. I., where Miss Rebecca Goldstein, representing the Central Committee, is staying, and where she will remain several proportion in Austria-Hungary, which includes Bosnia-Herzegovina, is 4.42, that of Russia 4.15.

Portugal probably contains the smallest percentage of Jews of any of the civilized countries. Out of this country's total population of 5,423,132 there are to be found only 481 Jews, representing but .01 of 1 per cent. In Spain there are but 4,000 Jews out of a total population of 19,588,688, or .02 of 1 per cent.
The Jews are not an agricultural people, a fact which explains why in this country most of them have found their lation of 154,839. This case attracted nation-wide notoriety, and the charge was freely made that much of the agitation against either the retrial of Frank or the commutation of his sentence from death to life imprisonment was of an anti-Semitic origin. Yet the proportion of Jews in Atlanta is extremely small.

The number of Jews in the small towns of the United States is almost negligible. An estimate made by the Industrial Removal Office shows that fifty of the principal cities of the United States, not counting New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, contained only 287,100 Jews.—Edward E. Bushnell in Philadelphia (Pa.) Public Ledger.

Arverne Religious School Flourishing.
The Religious School of the Derech Emenoh Synagogue of Arverne, L. I., has already started its summer work under the leadership of Mr. Bernard Brickner. At the last session there was an attendance of 180 boys and girls, in great contrast to the 45 present at the first lecture. All the Jewish boys and girls in and about Arverne are cordially invited to attend the school, which meets on Monday and Thursday mornings at 9 o'clock.

Acquired Belief and Inherited Tendencies.
Intelligent men and women will make no denial of the fact that religion as a belief and as a practice of devotional rites and ceremonies is to some extent an acquired inheritance which begets an aptitude, a predisposition to do as our parents did, though the religious spirit may not be as strong in our nature. Systems of religion are maintained, it is true, largely by organized effort, but everywhere they have the advantages of the accumulated results of religious belief and devotion, organized in the race, making it easy for men to think and feel in religious matters as in others as their ancestors thought and felt in olden times. Here we have plainly a hint of the difficulty of opposing the errors and superstitions still adhered to. He who assails the superstitions of his day encounters not only the living, but in their stubborn opposition—and stubborn because of this fact—the combined ignorance and bigotry of millions who are dead, whose bodies have crumbled into the dust, but the effects of whose thoughts and deeds still survive. Often acquired belief and inherited tendencies are in conflict, and the results are inconsistency of conduct, instability in religious activity and various intellectual and moral anomalies.—Jewish Spectator.

forests or seek a miserable shelter under the ruins of their former dwellings.

Over 40,000 square miles of territory represents the devastated portion of Poland. Within that area over 200 cities and more than 9,000 villages have been laid waste.
An especial appeal is made to all to help either by buying a war relief certificate or volunteering as a field director to sell them. Full particulars may be had and certificates obtained from the Central Committee, 63 Park row.

The committee representing the Joint Relief Committees for the Jewish War Sufferers has begun its efforts in the transcontinental trip for the increase of the fund. The first steps were taken at Sharon Springs, N. Y., where Rev. Dr. Drachman and Mr. Morris Engelman, who compose the committee, addressed the summer visitors at that popular watering place and endeavored to interest them in the work of the fund. Their efforts were crowned with considerable success, subscriptions being received to the amount of $1,450.

From there the committee proceeded to Buffalo. They were received at the station by a representative delegation of Buffalo Jewish citizens, headed by Messrs. H. Hariton, chairman of the Relief Committee, and Charles Polakoff. In the evening a conference was held at the Hotel Lafayette, which was addressed by Rev. Dr. Drachman and Mr. Engelman. Both gentlemen described in earnest words the gravity of the cause and the urgent needs of our brethren in the war zones of Europe, and appealed to the gathering to assist in the movement by contributions and particularly by purchasing the new certificates which are to testify to the fact that the possessors have contributed to the relief of their suffering brethren and all holders of which are to constitute a charitable legion of honor. The meeting was also addressed by a number of Buffalo gentlemen, among them Counsellor Hollander, Mr. Hariton, Mr. Polakoff, Mr. Richardson, Mr. Givens, Mr. Aaronson and Mr. Nathan Lefkowitz.

The meeting was very successful and resulted in pledges to the amount of $3,250 for certificates.

From Buffalo the delegation proceeded to Youngstown, O., where it was received with equal cordiality. A meeting was held in the evening in the vestry rooms of the Rodef Sholom Congregation, which was presided over by Mr. Hartzell, president of the congregation and chairman of the Relief Committee. Addresses were made by Rev. Dr. Drachman, Rev. Dr. Davidson, Mr. Engelman, Mr. Freedman, Mr. Ozersky, Mr. Penniman, Mr. Hartzell and others. After a general discussion a committee to promote the sale of the certificates was organized to work in connection with the present committee and a subscription for $1,000 worth of certificates was resolved on.
The public is evidently in warm sympathy with the war relief movement, and in particular with the idea of increasing weeks. She has already made arrangements to hold a masquerade ball, admission to which will be a $5 war relief certificate. This ball will be held at the Cedarhurst Club, Cedarhurst, L. I., under the patronage of Mrs. Samuel Seigner, Mrs. Rose Elkeles and other prominent ladies. Other festivities are also being arranged.

The Greatest Jewish City.
Where and what is the most Jewish city in the United States? Chelsea, Mass., was stamped with that distinction at the recent session of the convention of the Federation of American Zionists. Twenty-five per cent. of its population of 40,000 are Jews.

Numerically, New York has the greatest Jewish population either in the United States or the world, but the proportion of Jews there is slightly below that of Chelsea. Nearly half of the Jews in America and one-twelfth of all the world contains live within the confines of Greater New York. Nevertheless their proportion of New York's entire population is only about 16 per cent.

The extent to which the Jewish people maintain their racial integrity, though scattered to the four corners of the earth, still remains the most astounding thing in the history of nation building. From the time of their bondage in Egypt, their flight through the wilderness into the promised land, and their wonderful expansion during the reigns of David and Solomon, followed by their subjugation at the hands of the Greeks and Romans, this integrity never suffered. And even during the last 2,000 years, as they have gone with civilization into every quarter of the globe, they have always been a distinct people.

The study of their world-wide distribution forms a subject of gripping interest. Roughly speaking, there are about 12,000,000 Jews today. Every country has its quota.

Palestine, the original home of the Jews, numerically does not contain many Jews, but in proportion to the entire population of that country it leads the world. The latest statistics give Palestine a Jewish population of 78,000 out of a total population of 350,000. This gives the Jewish race in Palestine a percentage of 22.29 of the entire population, though its total of 78,000 is hardly half the entire Jewish population of Philadelphia. In certain parts of Africa and Asia the Jewish population, although numerically small, is proportionately high. Tunis in Africa ranks next to Palestine, with a Jewish population of 108,000 out of a total of 1,923,217, or 5.62 per cent.

Europe, of course, contains the great bulk of the world's Jewish population, there being approximately 10,000,000 scattered throughout that continent of nearly 500,000,000 people. Russia furnishes a home for more than half of Europe's Jews. There are 5,215,805 of this race living under the Czar's authority. Then comes Austria, with 1,113,687 and Hungary, with 932,406. Germany has 615,021. Of all these European countries, however, Roumania contains the greatest percentage of Jews. There are 259,015 there out of a total population of 5,956,690, a percentage of 4.52. The Jewish homes in the great cities. Outside of New York, of course, Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston contain the greatest number. The Jewish population of Philadelphia is estimated at about 150,000, or a little less than 10 per cent. of the entire population. St. Louis, with a total population of 687,029, contains 45,000 Jews, with the same number credited to Cleveland out of a population of 560,663. San Francisco, with 416,912 inhabitants, contains a Jewish population of 30,000.

Atlanta, Ga., thrown into a state of turmoil over the trial and conviction for murder of Leo Frank, has a Jewish population of only 4,200 out of a total popu-

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Gooseberry Jam.

Allow three-quarters pound sugar to one pound of fruit and one-half pint of water to five pounds sugar.
 Boil the sugar and water together till clear, then add the picked fruit and boil all together quickly for about three-quarters of an hour. Stir it constantly. Slow boiling makes the fruit lose its color.

Damson Jam.

Allow three-quarters pound of sugar to every one pound of fruit and one pint of water to seven pounds of fruit.
 Boil the sugar, water and fruit together for three-quarters of an hour, stirring and skimming all the time. Put it into jars or pots and tie down when cold.

Cherry Jam.

This jam is greatly improved by stoning the fruit first. Allow one and one-quarter pounds of sugar to every two pounds of stoned fruit, and one pint of water to seven pounds of fruit.
 Boil the sugar, water and cherries together for three-quarters of an hour, stirring and skimming all the time. Put it into jars or pots, and tie down when cold.

Blackberry Jelly.

Allow about one-half pint water to five or six pounds fruit, according to the dryness of the fruit.
 Boil the fruit and water together from thirty to forty-five minutes till all the juice runs out. Strain the juice through a cloth, being careful not to press the fruit. Allow three-quarters pound of sugar to each pint of juice, and boil this together quickly for about twenty minutes, stirring all the time. Drop a little onto a cold plate, and if it does not spread the jelly is ready to be poured into little pots.

Blackberry Jam.

Allow three-quarters pound of sugar to one pound of fruit when picked, and allow one-half pint of water to every six pounds of sugar.
 Cook the sugar and water together from ten to fifteen minutes to clear it, then add the fruit, and boil it from three-quarters to one hour, stirring it all the time. If good cane sugar is used jams need hardly any skimming. Pour into jars while hot and cover them the following day.

Apple, Cheese and Nut Salad.

Four medium-sized apples, half pound of Neufchatel cheese, half cup of broken walnut meats and mayonnaise dressing. Peel and dice the apples and marinate them with the juice of two lemons to prevent discoloration. Cut the cheese in half-inch cubes and add to the apples. Add enough of the raw mayonnaise dressing to blend the ingredients and serve on garnished salad plates. On top of each serving scatter some broken walnut meats. Serve with mayonnaise dressing and garnish with lettuce leaves.

Save the scraps of candles, tie them up in a white cotton bag, and when ironing pass the iron over the bag. This will give a gloss to the linen and prevent the iron from sticking.

When boiling milk do not throw away the "skin." As soon as the milk boils pour into a jug, which place in a basin of cold water, and stir the milk quickly till it cools. The cream will then intermix with the milk and there will be no skin, yet the milk will be as rich as before being boiled.

Mint sauce should be slightly warmed before being sent to table. This will not spoil the flavor and will prevent the gravy from becoming "set" when the sauce is poured on the plates.

To clean a white straw hat take two ounces of powdered sulphur and a lemon. Cut the lemon in half, dip in the sulphur, then rub on the straw. Repeat the process with other half of lemon, then sponge with cold water and place in air to dry.

The Kitchen.

A kitchen is a place where the cook receives visitors, reads her mail, stores foodstuffs and otherwise disposes of herself between trains. Kitchens were at one time presided over by poor relatives; now they are used as one-night stands.
 Every kitchen has a stove and a sink. A stove is a receptacle where you burn fuel and food, and a sink is a watering place visited by your plumber between cooks.
 Kitchens are also supplied with utensils, some of which you will still find in fairly good condition at the end of the week—if it happens to be your lucky week.—Life.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Macedoine Salad.

One cup dried carrots, half cup of diced potatoes, one cup of string beans, half a cup of diced sweet potatoes, French salad dressing and half a cup of diced turnips. Cook the vegetables separately, adding salt toward the last of the cooking. When cool cut into half-inch cubes. Canned beans may be used if fresh ones are not obtainable. They should be cut into half-inch lengths.

For the French salad dressing use one teaspoonful of salt, six tablespoonfuls of olive or salad oil and two tablespoonfuls lemon juice. Dissolve the salt in the lemon juice and add to the oil. Shake well and mix with the vegetables.

Vegetables other than those mentioned may be used. Cauliflower, beets, peas, celery, etc., may be substituted. If desired, only two or three vegetables may be used. Garnish the salad with lettuce leaves.

Italian Beets.

Half a cup of butter, half a dozen medium-sized beets, three cups of hot water, one and a half teaspoonfuls of salt, two-thirds of a cup of lemon juice and one-third of a cup of flour. Wash the beets and put into boiling water. Cook two or three hours, or until the skins will loosen from the beet. Then put into cold water and remove the skin. Cut the beets lengthwise through the centre into about eight pieces. Make a sauce of the remainder of the ingredients given above. Mix the flour and three-fourths of the butter; add the hot water slowly, stirring meanwhile. Let cook five minutes and then add the salt and lemon juice. Turn the beets into this sauce and when thoroughly reheated serve.

Snowflake Cake.

Half cup of butter, two-thirds cup of sifted sugar, two eggs, two cups of cornstarch, one level teaspoonful baking powder and quarter of a teaspoonful of salt. Cream the butter and sugar together until very light; add the eggs, lightly beaten, yolks and whites together; sift and add the cornstarch, baking powder and salt. Beat lightly and drop by tablespoonfuls into very small, well-greased individual tins. Bake in a moderate oven from eight to ten minutes.

Roast Neck of Lamb.

Trim the lamb neatly, skewer it up to retain the shape, tie a piece of greased paper over, and roast for an hour, basting well. Remove the skewers, glaze the lamb gently, garnish with braised carrots and serve hot.

Cuba's Famous Pineapple Drink Introduced in This Country.

For several months our subscribers have no doubt noticed the advertisement of the Jugo De Pina, and we are advised that the company decided to change the name of this delicious beverage to "Pin-Ap-Ola" on account of the fact that very few people can translate this Spanish Jugo De Pina; at the same time it was hard for the public to pronounce it. The change in name was made in Cuba to conform with the name in the States. Pin-Ap-Ola is made of absolutely pure pineapple juice and pure cane syrup, which when carbonated produces a drink that is most delicious in flavor and taste. On account of the absence of artificial coloring, coloring matter or preservatives of any kind the beverage is absolutely pure. Physicians and scientists indorse the drink for the reason that it contains medicinal values. The Pin-Ap-Ola Company have four bottling plants—in Brooklyn, Atlanta, Jacksonville and New Orleans. Dr. A. P. Hallock, a well-known chemist and former assistant to Dr. Wiley, the pure food expert, formerly in the government service, has charge of the Brooklyn plant.

Due to its delicious flavor, we would not be at all surprised to see Bryan's famous grape juice take a second seat to this refreshing beverage.—Adv.

Why Advanced Acidity in Zoolak is Beneficial and Not Injurious.

The particular chemical changes which take place in the preparation "ZOO-LAK" produce an increased yet palatable acidity.

As a matter of fact, however, unlike other sour milk products, the increased acidity in Zoolak is beneficial.

The following explanation is, we believe, of general public interest:

Statistics show that even the milk of the best cared for cows is liable to contain most harmful bacteria, such as those of tuberculosis, typhoid, etc. Furthermore, practically all milk in its purest form contains more or less putrefactive bacteria, although seemingly harmless in its fresh state; in a short time these multiply, develop and become injurious; also the decomposition of butter fat takes place and harmful acids are formed. This change is commonly called deterioration of the milk.

Pasteurization of milk does not actually destroy these bacteria; it simply retards their progress for a while longer. Thus it comes about that milk, buttermilk, artificial buttermilk, etc., after a few days deteriorate and become harmful and unfit for use.

Sterilization of milk destroys the bacteria positively, but with the disadvantage that it hardens the curds or casein of the milk, rendering it more indigestible.

It is here that Dr. Daddirrian's process of fermenting milk shows its superior advantages.

Inasmuch as we have our own special milk, which is of the highest grade, pure, rich in butter fat and in all other natural components.

The milk is first subjected to a process of thorough sterilization (without the use of chemicals and preservatives) by which every microbe in the milk is absolutely destroyed, so that no injurious bacteria or acids develop nor does decomposition of butter fats take place.

After the milk is thus carefully sterilized fresh lactic culture (bacillus bulgaricus) which is daily made in our laboratory is implanted into the milk and the sugar of the milk is converted into lactic acid.

When Zoolak is newly made only part of the sugar of the milk is converted into lactic acid, and by age the remainder gradually is transformed into lactic acid; thus Zoolak a week old contains more lactic acid and when it is a month old it contains still more, etc. Therefore the advanced acidity in Zoolak by age being only lactic acid and not other acids excepting some carbonic acid which may be formed in its quite advanced stages; is positively not injurious, but, on the contrary, more beneficial.

During the summer months this process of fermentation progresses more rapidly and customers may find the advanced stage of acid Zoolak more frequent than they do in the winter time, and those who do not care for the sharp acid taste of the Zoolak can make it more palatable by mixing it with plain or mineral waters, particularly vichy.

Besides the increase of lactic acid by age, bacillus bulgaricus as well multiply rapidly, and the antiseptic quality of these bacilli naturally become much stronger and more forceful. For this reason Zoolak which is aged is more efficient.

Lactic acid, on the other hand, has a soothing effect on the nerves, it stimulates the flow of gastric juices in the stomach, thus aiding digestion. It also has refreshing and cooling qualities.

The last and one of the most important features of Zoolak is the result of Dr. Daddirrian's process of rendering solids of the milk (viz., cheesy elements and butter fats) in such a soluble form that Zoolak is most readily assimilated and easily retained by the most delicate stomach, when even beef tea, champagne and other forms of nourishment are rejected.

In conclusion it is clearly seen from the above explanation that Zoolak which has aged is more beneficial and not injurious. Zoolak is strictly a scientific preparation containing all the elements which supply the wear and tear of the system.

It is an ideal food, a tonic of merit, an intestinal antiseptic and a cooling beverage which has no equal in purity, richness, digestibility and efficiency, and certainly it must not be confounded with other sour milk products.

It is advisable to keep Zoolak always at a temperature of 50 degrees below F. or still colder if desired to check its rapid progress of acidity.

The following extracts from pure food experts are not only convincing, but conclusive that Zoolak is the best preparation of fermented milk:

For full particulars and indorsements of medical authorities send for our literature.

Zoolak was originated by Dr. M. G. Daddirrian, and for the first time introduced through N. Y. Academy of Medicine in 1885.

Prof. Lewis B. Allyn, the noted expert of the pure food town, Westfield, Mass. Extracts from his articles entitled:

"Purity Is the Best Policy," in Collier's Weekly, November 4, 1911. "Dr. Daddirrian's Zoolak is without doubt the best form of fermented milk. Free from harmful bacteria, acetic acid and alcohol."

(Remarks from his Westfield analysis): "We find the product clean, wholesome, nutritious and free from all substitution or adulteration."

Alfred W. McCann, of the N. Y. Globe, the noted exponent of pure food and exposor of adulterants.

Extracts from his investigation on fermented milks in an article published in the N. Y. Globe June 4, 1914:

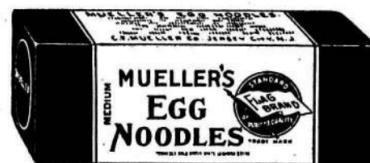

"Zoolak is without question the finest product of its kind in America."

"Zoolak contains over 4 per cent. butter fats. The writer knows of no other fermented milk which contains as much as 2 per cent. Zoolak contains all the mineral salts of whole milk, all the protein of whole milk and the valuable lactic acid which is produced by a carefully safeguarded fermentation with a pure culture."

"Ordinary buttermilk and sour milk will rot. Zoolak will not rot. The carelessly made product decomposes because putrefactive bacteria of many kinds, sometimes including disease-breeding bacteria, find their way into the milk with the lactic acid bacillus."

"Zoolak is food, laxative and antiseptic in one. When freshly made it is almost sweet. When a week old the lactic acid content increases in the bottle. Even at the end of a month, although quite acid, it is still a wholesome and strength-sustaining food."

"Zoolak is a perfect food. There is no question about that. Nobody can dispute the statement. I have been all through the process and seen with my own eyes how carefully the milk is handled, how thoroughly it is sterilized, with what pains the culture is introduced and how completely the fermenting process is controlled.

"Through the efforts of Dr. Daddirrian Zoolak was introduced to the New York Academy of Medicine, where it was studied and discussed. Also through his efforts the medical journals published scientific papers concerning its history and its value."

"Throughout the thirty years in which the Daddirrian family has been identified with the production of Zoolak there has never been a suspicion of 'monkey business' connected with its preparation. They have kept it pure, honest, clean, decent and good."—Adv.

CORRESPONDENCE.

One of the Submerged.

EDITOR HEBREW STANDARD:

Rev. Herman Benmoshe; a celebrated Hazzan, a skillful Mohel, an efficient minister and a certified teacher, deserves, indeed, public recognition and periodical consideration. Humble in his ways and modest in his callings, Rev. Benmoshe avoids publicity and abhors notoriety, his musical talents and his literary abilities notwithstanding. He contributes occasionally to the Jewish Tribune and Jewish Advocate, and will undoubtedly be on the staff of Mr. Ezekiel Leavitt's Voic when the latter becomes a daily paper and one of its pages is given to lucubrations and investigations in the vernacular.

Rev. Benmoshe is the present incumbent of Mishkan Israel, worshipping in hired quarters at Bloomfield Hall, Geneva avenue, Dorchester, Mass. On the Sabbath of the portion of Ekeb, the 31st inst., one of his pupils, Master Abraham Hurwitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hurwitz, of 203 Columbia road, will have his confirmation and Bar Mitzvah performed at the mentioned tabernacle, declaiming and chanting the allotted sections from the Pentateuch and Prophets in the very parchmental scrolls of Moses and Isallah, and delivering an English address as a finishing touch. Rev. Benmoshe will conduct the divine services and pronounce the appropriate benedictions.

NACHMAN HELLER.

Long Branch Synagogue.

The new synagogue at North Bath avenue and Second street was very largely attended last Sunday when Rev. A. H. Nieto occupied the pulpit and Cantor Wolf conducted the services.

For the coming Sabbath Rev. Joseph Rosenblatt, of the Ohab Zedek Congregation, West 116th street, New York, will officiate. Cantor Rosenblatt will also officiate at the services this (Friday) evening, which will begin at 6.30 o'clock.

New People's Synagogue.

Mr. M. Lichtenstein will deliver his weekly discourse at the New People's Synagogue, Clinton Mall, on Sabbath afternoon. His subject will be "Man Doth Not Live by Bread Alone."

Modern Funerals.

The representative of The Jewish Voice was greatly shocked at the mode and manner of burial at the Jewish cemetery which he witnessed last Thursday a week ago, and he could not help noticing that the officiating Rabbi, Dr. Spitz, was not less disturbed by the unusual and absolutely un-Jewish proceeding. After the coffin had been lowered by the pallbearers upon an ingeniously constructed mechanism, which automatically lowers the coffin into the grave, the same remained upon a level with the surface ground, the flowers placed upon it, and that was all. The gathering was told to return to their carriage, after the rabbi had very reluctantly recited the Kaddish. We ask not only the Jewish cemetery authority, but also the men and women in this community in whom there is yet a spark of the Jewish spirit, what all this means? Why go to all the expense, to all the trouble, to all heartrending funeral proceedings, when simply the loading of the coffin upon a wagon and sending it out to the cemetery in the charge of the grave digger would be perfectly sufficient? We, for our part, have no answer, but we say, it is both un-Jewish and unreasonable; it is making of the most sacred and most solemn affair, a farce.—St. Louis (Mo.) Jewish Voice.

Harry O. Sandberg, of 568 Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, who has been associated with the editorial staff of the Bulletin of the Pan-American Union at Washington for the past five years, has been designated by the Hon. John Barrett, the director general of that organization, to make a special tour through the countries of Central America and Panama. In the course of his travels Mr. Sandberg will get into personal touch with the high officials of those governments in an effort to promote more cordial relations with the United States, foster closer social, commercial and educational ties, and deliver a series of lectures on the broad and practical work of the Pan-American Union in developing peace, commerce and friendship among the twenty-one independent republics of the Western Hemisphere. He will also study and gather data and statistics for a report on conditions and possibilities in the Southern sister republics.

The Russian-Jewish boy compares very favorably with some of his companions, according to statistics furnished by the New York Board of Health, which weighed 10,000 school children who applied for working papers. The boys of English, Scotch or Irish stock weighed on the average 102.44 pounds. They were the lightest of all in avoirdupois. The

THE ESSENCE OF LOYALTY.
 By Rabbi P. Israeli.

Youth being the age of strongest feelings and most powerful passions, the passions of love, of zeal, of enthusiasm, it is natural that we should consider the feeling of loyalty as likewise characteristic of the period of youth. The youth, in the words of the great poet Helne, are "unselfish in their thoughts and feelings and have not yet learned, like the older men, to think more of the interest of the capital than of the interest of mankind."

To this reason the world looks to them to be the most ardent supporters of all noble, humanitarian movements. It is to its young men, in whose hearts the flame of patriotism burns brightest, to whom the country looks chiefly for defense when attacked by an enemy.

It is upon their enthusiasm, national pride, that it counts for upholding its honor on all occasions.

It is natural, accordingly, that Israel also should look to its young men and women for loyalty to their people and their religion; that it should rely most upon zeal and earnestness. But when we examine the actual conditions of Jewish life, especially in this country, what do we find? Loyalty to Judaism and to Israel if it exists anywhere is found among the older generation, and hardly at all among the young people. Why is this? The reason, it seems to me, is that our young people understand neither the nature of Judaism nor of loyalty. Many of them imagine that loyalty means blind and slavish obedience and surrender of individuality. Many think that Judaism is old-fashioned and incapable of adaptation to modern conditions. Most of them, perhaps, are ignorant of what Judaism has done for the world and is still destined to do.

If our young people, then, could be brought to realize that they will not lose an iota of their individuality by being loyal; if they could be brought to see perhaps to their surprise, how thoroughly modern and up-to-date, how full of noble achievement, and still brighter promise their thirty-five century old religion is, a new spirit of Jewish loyalty would be awakened in their hearts.

In the brief article that I am writing I shall try to contribute my little mite to the achievement of the first result by presenting a brief exposition of the "true essence of loyalty." A book has been written recently on the subject of "Loyalty," in which the writer points out how impossible it is to attain true happiness of soul without identifying one's life with a great cause. This, I shall attempt to show, is particularly true of us Jews.

The emphasis upon the duty of being loyal is a protest against extreme individualism on the one hand and blind obedience on the other. The extreme individualist, the man who believes that every person should be absolutely free to act as he pleases, looks upon devotion to any cause outside of his immediate welfare as slavery. People say in one form or another, "loyalty has been one of humanity's most disastrous failings and weaknesses. Tyrants have used the spirit of loyalty as their principal tool. We are glad that we are outgrowing this spirit. What we want in the future is the training of individual judgment. We want enlightenment and independence."

"Let us have done with loyalty." Those who utter this objection are evidently unaware of the true nature of freedom, which is the liberty to do what is right, to obey the voice of our conscience; for he who does not obey the voice of conscience soon becomes the slave of his own passions and caprices, which is by far the worst slavery in the world. In the words of the great writer, Ruskin, "It is of small importance to any of us whether we get liberty, but of the greatest that we deserve it." The sorrowfullest fate of all that we can suffer is to have it without deserving it.

But if the attitude of the man who is loyal and faithful to duty is in direct opposition to the attitude of extreme individualism and lawlessness it is also opposed to mere blind, unthinking obedience. To be loyal is to act out of free choice and not by compulsion. Loyalty is service out of love and whole-hearted devotion. Loyalty is represented by the Psalmist in his injunction, "Serve the Lord with joy." To sum up, loyalty is free, cheerful, willing and active service of a cause which one regards as worthy of service. However, we all know that we are called upon to serve different causes, the duties we owe them being often in conflict with one another. Religion and the State, for instance, often issue contradictory commands. Thus in the days of the mad Antiochus of Syria and the cruel Hadrian of Rome the state forbade Israel to practice the observances which the Torah commanded him to observe. Whose commands was he to obey? We must, then, modify our definition of loyalty somewhat by saying that it is the free and active rendering of service to a narrower cause, with readiness to give up allegiance to it when it comes in conflict with a wider cause.

The first proof of loyalty is active service. Lip service is not sufficient. Merely to boast about one's patriotism and love of one's country and nation, but when the test comes to fall in rendering the needed service to that country or nation, and even to go over to the side of the enemy, such lip service is evidently worse than useless. Perhaps the most striking example in ancient history, perhaps in all history, of a people who boasted of their patriotism and loyalty, but who were found wanting when the actual test came, is furnished by the history of the Greek people. The Greeks boasted a great deal concerning their patriotism and heroism. They were proud of being Hellenes, and called all other people barbarians, as if they were of inferior races. Their poets sang of their heroes and demi-gods. But when subjected to the test their much-boasted-of patriotism and loyalty vanished.

"Glorious is the poetic power," says a certain writer, "by which gifted men in the land of Greece tried to inspire with patriotic heroism a fickle, faithless, corruptible people inclined to panic." The belief that we received the idea of freedom from the Hellenes is a delusion, for freedom implies patriotism, dignity, sense of duty, self-sacrifice; but from beginning of their history to their suppression by Rome the Greek States never cease to call in the enemies of their common fatherland against their own brothers. Indeed, within the individual States as soon as a statesman is removed from power away he hurries—it may be to other Greeks, to Persia or to Rome—in order to reduce his own city to ruin with their help. It was this lack of loyalty on the part of the Greeks, to their nation as a whole or even to their individual States, in spite of their boasted pride in being Hellenes and bearers of Hellenic culture, which wrote the inevitable doom of the Greek people.

But we also find an example of lip service, of loyalty of words instead of deeds, among our own people today. It is the fashion nowadays with many of our brethren to say: "I am a Jew at heart." But when it is a question of doing some real work toward the preservation of Jewish religion or the Jewish people, for strengthening and enriching Jewish life, they are not there. If you ask them to come to the synagogue and join the congregation in prayer they answer you, "Prayers without words are the best." "Yes," says a certain writer, "so are poems without words, music without notes, landscapes without colors and life without consciousness." They are the best because in those cases they are perfect, without blemish, everything human being subject to error. The best poems were never written, the greatest operas were never set to music. But what is the use of perfection if it does not exist, if it does not take concrete shape?

And what is the use of being a Jew if we are not ready to prove our Jewishness by acts, by deeds, by a life of devotion to the teachings and practices of Judaism?

The man proof of loyalty, however, and that which makes it different from mere obedience or faithfulness is that the service it renders is free, voluntary, spontaneous, prompted by love for a cause and whole-hearted devotion to it. You may obey a cruel or unworthy master, but you could not be loyal to him. Faithfulness again may consist of either blind or mechanical obedience. Loyalty, however, means self-active attachment to a cause. Prompted by a heart overflowing with zeal and enthusiasm, it will not be satisfied with merely obeying commands, but will create its own methods of service.

In the history of our people we have many instances of loyalty as distinguished from blind obedience or mere faithfulness. The most striking example is furnished by the story of the Maccabean heroes. The merely faithful ones, content to obey the law, hid themselves in caves in order not to be compelled to transgress the commands of the Torah, and even refused to fight the flames on the Sabbath day, acting in accordance with the letter of the law. The aged Matahiah, however, and his brave sons, the Maccabean brothers, in whose hearts burned the flame of genuine loyalty to their faith and people, were not content to hide in caves. They openly raised the standard of rebellion against the cruel Antiochus, and, with the advice of the learned men in Israel, they determined to fight in self-defense and in defense of the Torah even on the sacred Sabbath day. And so the Jews of Alexandria, Egypt, though thoroughly imbued with Greek culture, which was opposed to all Jewish ideals, yet remained thoroughly loyal to Judaism, that they wrote many books in Greek, which they ascribed, according to the method at the time to famous Greek authors, at which they explained the ideas of Judaism to the world, and thus made Judaism a world religion. And how about the Jewish martyrdom of the last nineteen centuries? Can that be considered as mere blind obedience or mechanical faithfulness? Must it not be regarded rather as the most striking instance of loyalty in the history of the world, the loyalty of a people to its faith and national ideals which give it courage to live the life of a martyr generation after generation, century after century, cheerfully, with hardly a murmur and the magic formula of ever on its lips?

But it is not all smooth sailing. We are sometimes confronted by a serious problem. What if there is a conflict between the duties imposed upon us by one cause and those imposed by another? In that case it is necessary for us to surrender allegiance to the smaller and narrower cause for the sake of the greater and broader one. The failure to do so results in what we call jingoism, chauvinism or provincialism, the habit of seeing good only in one's particular province, State or tribe. The age in which we live, which has been called by many names, by some even the Jewish age, is above all the age of nationalism. The movement for separating the human race into different nationalities, each with its own language and literature, its own racial characteristics, its own national memories and hopes which assumed different degrees of intensity, of intensity at different times, has in our time reached its climax. The beginnings of this movement are described in the Bible, first chapters,

Of these were the isles of the nations divided in their lands, every one after nations.

This movement is contrasted favorably with the generation of the flood, which is an age of anarchism and extreme individualism, "when the earth was full of violence," and the generation of the Tower of Babel, which was the age of collectivism, when the whole earth was one language and one kind of speech. This movement toward the formation of separate races and nations which thus has the approval of the Torah has attained to such proportions today as it never attained before. In Europe alone, where there were in ancient times but two or three nations, there are hundreds of different nationalities and peoples, like the Germans, Italians and Greeks, which were for centuries broken up into small fragments and which have in the last century been cemented into strong nations, each one extremely patriotic and loyal to its national flag. And among the Jewish people the present generation has seen the Zionist movement arise, whose aim is to cement the different portions of the Jewish people into one strong national organization, having its centre in the Holy Land. This growth of nationalism has its evil as well as its good sides.

For alongside of great national histories and literatures inspiring ideals and traditions, there also grew up powerful national prejudices. There arise chauvinistic and provincial ideas which lead men to hold narrow patriotic views, to think that good exists only in their own nation and land and nowhere else, to believe that loyalty to the national flag must mean disloyalty to the welfare of the human race at large. The first evil crop resulting from sowing the seeds of these narrow national and racial views was modern anti-Semitism, which dates from the time that the two great German and Italian nations were created, namely, in the '70s of the last century. Modern anti-Semitism was born in Germany with the infamous Stoecker as godfather. It spread to France, where it resulted in the Dreyfus affair, and to Russia, where it produced the massacres of 1888, 1903 and 1905.

The second evil crop growing out of the seeds of chauvinism and provincialism is the present terrible international war, which now involves eleven nations. One would be tempted to say that this war is a Divine punishment for the exercises of anti-Semitism, except that the Jews are themselves the greatest sufferers from this war, the war in Poland being carried on where our people are most thickly settled, so that today, as always, it is true that wherever there is suffering the Jews bear the lion's share.

We should rather say that anti-Semitism and the present international conflict are both the product of the same evil seeds—the seeds of narrow, one-sided national ideas. The German thinks that his culture alone should be preserved and all others may be destroyed without loss to humanity. The Frenchman and the Englishman hold similar views. As a result has come the bloodiest war in human annals. Had these so-called civilized nations recognized, however, that above loyalty to any particular race or nation there is a higher loyalty to the entire human race; had they taken to heart the teaching of the Jewish sages that

This is the book of the generations of man; is the greatest sentence in the Bible, for it teaches us the unity of the human family; and had they not acted on the theory put forth by no less a man than Goethe, that while the Jews are descended from Adam, other races are descended from other ancestors, such a destructive conflict in the twentieth century would have been impossible.

Thus we can see that to be loyal to a worthy cause is not to surrender one's freedom; but, on the contrary, to enjoy the truest kind of freedom, the liberty to act in accordance with the best that is within us. Let us rejoice in the thought that loyalty to Judaism, which has characterized our people under most trying circumstances, need not yield to any other and higher loyalty. For Judaism aims at nothing less than the happiness of the entire human race through the peaceful acceptance by mankind of Israel's teachings of the unity of God and brotherhood of man.

60 Lawrence Ave., Roxbury, Mass.

The credit for the longest run of the season goes to "It Pays to Advertise," the farce by Roi Cooper Megrue and Walter Hackett, which entered upon its forty-seventh week at the George M. Cohan Theatre Monday evening. "It Pays to Advertise" is well worth this record, for it is so different from the numerous comedies produced during the year. Properly analyzed, "It Pays to Advertise" owes much of its charm to its statistical character. Business is business and facts are facts, and the Megrue-Hackett play presents for our enjoyment conditions in the every-day work world with which we are familiar, but never before brought out in play form.

The cast now presenting "It Pays to Advertise" at the Cohan includes Adèle Rolland, George Schaeffer, Elsa Fredericks, Harold Vermilyea, Ben Johnson, Frank Allworth, Cecile Breton, W. J. Brady, Vivian Rogers, Cliff Workman and William K. Loane.

The Audubon Theatre, William Fox's popular Washington Heights playhouse, continues to attract crowded houses every day at matinees and for the evening performances during the week and Sundays. Standing room only is the invariable rule, although we are well into the summer months.

An excellent vaudeville bill, the extraordinary moving pictures released by the Fox Film Corporation, first shown here, and other pictures of the first magnitude, are the features that have made this record attendance possible in one of the largest theatres in New York.

ORPHANED OF LOVE

The blooming of my love and bliss began
This June when blood-red roses blow and wan
As lilies open to the morning air,
Or as an angel meets an angel fair,
Opened my heart to him who is my soul;
But 'gainst our love the drums began to roll,
The trumpet sounded and the fife has shrilled
And strains of strife the strains of love have stilled.

O, martial music, see your brutal art
Has drowned the joyous music of our heart!
As Bacchanalian cries have drowned the lyre
Of him who fled from hell with heart on fire,
So drums have drowned the music of our love;
For lo, my lover, milder than a dove,
But braver than a lion, said to me:
"My flag, my other love, is calling me!"
We wept, we sobbed, we kissed each other good-by,
And oh! with so much love he went to war to die!
And I am lonely, lonely like the Lord above,
And I am orphaned, orphaned of my love!

Jewish Congress Organization Committee.

The Jewish Congress Organization Committee met again at the building of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America, 229-231 East Broadway, on Tuesday evening, July 27, and took further steps in the proposed formation of the Congress Bureau, which is to carry on propaganda among different large organizations in this country in the interests of the movement. Mr. G. Bublick presided and Dr. M. Girsdan-sky acted as secretary. As per the previous decision, every one of the organizations represented on the committee had three delegates present. Up to date fifteen central bodies are represented on the committee. A report was received from the committee appointed at the previous meeting to work out the plans of the bureau. This committee consists of Louis Lipsky, Rabbi Mayer Berlin and Jacob Carlinger. Mr. Carlinger, who is president of the Russian-Polish Federation of America, reported that during the week the Executive Committee of the organization has met, and, confirming the position of the organization on the congress question, has decided to give every support toward the establishment and maintenance of the Congress Bureau.

Attention was also called to the statement in the interests of the congress movement which has been issued by Dr. Louis S. Rubinsohn, Grand Master of the Independent Order B'rith Sholom. Reports received from Chicago, Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and other cities showed that in every one of these cities large numbers of organizations have taken up the congress question and have given expression of their approval of the movement.

Graduation Exercises at Orphan Asylum High School.

The graduation exercises of the High School maintained in connection with the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Orphan Asylum at Pleasantville, N. Y., will take place on Sunday, August 1, at 3.30 p. m. The exercises should be of particular interest to the Jewish people, since this is the only Jewish orphan asylum in America, if not in the world, where a high school department is a phase of the institution's work.

This high school has been formally approved by the State Board of Regents. Over 20 per cent. of the children in the orphanage are enjoying the benefits of a secondary education, with the prospect of graduating from high school at the unusual age of sixteen.

A feature of the graduation exercises will be the fact that the valedictorian of the class of 1915 is only fifteen years of age.

The Death of a Scholar
 Besides the three men who composed the committee, one solitary mourner followed the black coffin-carriage. This was little Sammy Bernstein.
 He had watched the final preparations out of a kitchen corner and when the coffin was carried down, stole softly out of the room and, unobserved by anyone, followed the black carriage.
 The latter proceeded very slowly through a number of streets and finally took the road leading across the Williamsburgh Bridge. Half way across the bridge, Sammy, who was quite tired, saw the horses pause for a moment to permit the rascally committee to mount to the driver's seat and then trot away with all speed from him.
 Sammy gazed after the fleeting carriage till it became hidden from him by a large cloud of dust. Why were they running away? Why did not the three men continue to walk behind the coffin as was fitting at a funeral? Why had the face of the spokesman appeared so jolly? He made no effort to answer any of these questions, but burst into tears. Those were the tears which should have fallen on the soil of the deceased!

But Assyria holding Samaria and all the northern part of the field was a menace to Egypt. A firm alliance was cemented between Egypt and Judah, and by the end of seventeen years the Egyptian battle line once more advanced to the field. In one of the rooms of the great Museum at Cairo is shown a head of granite, black as ebony, the head of a portrait statue of the black king of Ethiopia, who became also king of Egypt by conquest. This black "king of Ethiopia," Tirhaka, led Egypt once more to the field of the great war game. Tirhaka and Hezekiah in alliance held their ground, but made no great attempt to break the line of Assyria at Samaria.

Once again Assyria appeared to rush the line. In 701 B. C. the great Sennacherib says: "And of Hezekiah, the Judaeon, who had not submitted to my yoke, forty-six strong cities, with walls, the smaller cities which were around them without number, by the battering of rams and the assault of engines, the attack of foot soldiers, mines, breaches, and axes, I besieged and captured them." ("Hezekiah) himself I shut up like a caged bird within Jerusalem, his royal city. I cast up entrenchments against him, and whosoever came forth from the gate of his city I punished (?) him" (Rogers' translation).

He seemed to himself, doubtless, to have gotten complete possession of the sovereignty of the land, and to have carried it to the farthest goal, the "river of Egypt." Hither he had come to meet Tirhaka, the ally of Hezekiah, who, he had heard, was coming to meet him. Instead, an angel of the Lord's gracious providence met him and snatched away his victory in a single night. The Bible account is familiar: Josephus' account, quoted from Berosus, is almost exactly the same: "Now, when Sennacherib was returning from his Egyptian war to Jerusalem, he found his army under Rabshakeh, his general, in danger (by a plague, for) God had sent a pestilential distemper upon his army; and on the very first night of the siege, a hundred four score and five thousand, with their captains and generals were destroyed: . . . And being in great fear for his whole army, he fled with the rest of his forces to his own kingdom, and to his city Nineveh."

Now the plays follow fast and furious. We cannot take note of all of them. Seven years later, Egypt moved again, this time to try for complete victory. Josiah was on the throne in Jerusalem, and he thought to seize once more the sovereignty of the land for the people of God. Pharaoh Necho was almost pathetic in his appeal for the continuance of the friendly alliance, but Josiah was obdurate in his folly. "Once more the field of Megiddo ran red, and this time it was stained with the blood of a king of Judah. Necho rushed on north over the whole field to "the ends of the earth," but his great enemy did not meet him even there.

When he returned to the challenge at the same place five years afterward, all was changed. World empires were in a state of transformation. Events were moving rapidly toward the great climax of power in the East. Assyria succumbed to the Babylonian power, and it was none other than the great Nebuchadnezzar whom Necho met at the far eastern goal line. The battle of Carchemish proved the Waterloo of Egypt. The great king of Assyro-Babylonia possessed the whole field and complete sovereignty, humbled Egypt beyond the border, made the Judean scepter vassal to the East, and then, at the rebellion of the patriotic spirit of the Jew, robbed Jerusalem of its treasures, razed the city to the ground with its beautiful temple, and carried the nobles of the people to Babylon. In his East India house inscription he says: "To far off lands, distant hills, from the upper sea, to the lower sea, immense journeys . . . I pursued, and the disobedient I reduced, the rebellious I fettered" (Price's translation).

This stage of the great game was over. There was a feeble attempt toward another play at Egypt under the leadership of Pharaoh Hophra, but the game as it had been was finished. The empire of Nebuchadnezzar gave way to the Persian, Cyrus the Persian in turn to the Greek Alexander, and the Greeks to the Romans. Armies passed and repassed over this "bridge of nations," and battles were again fought upon it, but that world game for world power, with the Land of Promise as the field and the sovereignty of Israel as the ball, was ended.

Who knows when the game will begin again?—Sunday School Times.

AMERICA AND THE JEWISH CONGRESS. By Samuel Roth.

The Jews of America are about to launch out on an enterprise that should be of vital concern to the people of this country. This enterprise invites study and serious consideration, for American political opinion as well as American public opinion will need to adopt some definite, decisive attitude toward it.

The European war struck the Jewish people at a time when it was beginning to recover from the long sleep of exile. The Jewish national spirit, awakened in our people about twenty years ago by the words of the great prophet of the dispersion, Dr. Theodore Herzl, had already attracted the Jews of the East and was already reconverting the Jews of the West. In the year 1904 the great leader died, but the spirit which he had awakened was imperishable. Numerous colonies sprang up in Palestine, Hebrew as the language of street, home and school was revived, the work of the Jewish nalional restoration was well on the highway of progress. Suddenly the war burst upon us. It shattered the Zionist center in Berlin, crushed the first fruits of our work in Palestine and paralyzed the Jewries of Russia, Austria and Roumania economically and spiritually. What a wreck this storm produced in our national life! We became a nation of warriors without a country to defend, a nation of scholars without a knowledge of itself, a nation of statesmen without a national policy.

THE FIRST STEP OF AMERICAN JEWRY. On August 23, following the rush of events that closed the gates of political Europe, the Federation of American Zionists, in co-operation with Dr. Schmaryahu Levin (member of the Actions Comite of the Zionist organization), issued a call to the Zionist societies of America urging immediate action in regard to the crisis that confronted the movement. The representatives of more than a hundred local organizations met and elected a provisional executive committee for general Zionist affairs, with Louis D. Brandeis as chairman, to act throughout the war in the interest of the Jewish institutions in Palestine.

JEWISH UNITY IN AMERICA. But it was apparent from the very start, and the conviction grew, that if the Jewish world crisis was to be met adequately American Jewry must unite upon some common platform; it must rise above all localism and accept for its guidance the spirit of a national policy. A Jewish national policy was outlined in the year 1897 at the first Zionist Congress at Basle, and has been known since as the Basle program: "Zionism aims to secure for the Jewish people a publicly recognized, legally secured home in Palestine."

During the week of June 6, a little before the famous Zionist convention in Boston, the three biggest grand lodges in America, with a combined membership of more than 200,000 strong, voted that the time had come when all American Jewry must recognize that the Zionist cause was also the greater Jewish cause, and pledged every possible aid for the fulfillment of the Basle program.

THE QUESTION OF A JEWISH CONGRESS. The next step of American Jewry was just as decisive. A committee was formed of the representatives of the greatest Jewish organizations of the country to arrange a Jewish Congress to be held in America, with the object of deciding on some effective means for stemming the tide of misery that, as a result of the war, has swept through the Jewries of Europe. Discussion concerning a Jewish Congress in America was started in the Yiddish dailies almost simultaneously with the outbreak of the war. The idea spread very quickly and gained favor everywhere. There was an attempt made by a number of Jewish leaders who do not favor the Jewish national idea and oppose anything that betrays a serious resemblance to Jewish unity to suppress this sentiment for a congress in the discussion that took place at the Kehillah convention that was held in the latter part of May, but these leaders were taught in turn that the Jews accept only leadership of ideas. All America became united in favor of the congress.

THE TASK OF THE CONGRESS. The seriousness and weight of the problem that will confront this august assembly will exceed those that have ever faced the parliament of a great people. The Jewish Congress will be obliged to consider the plight of millions of homeless Jews, but the question will not merely be how to rebuild their homes and re-establish their fortunes. The day is past when the Jew can content himself with just settling on some favorable territory and persevere patiently in face of foreign life and culture. He, too, has drunk deep of the new national spirit of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, and he will be satisfied with nothing less than moral as well as economic redemption. Since the outbreak of the war America has become the capital, and the American Jews the government, of the Jewish people. In the face of the gigantic national problems confronting it American Jewry will naturally turn to the American people for moral and political support of the just demands that it will put before the congress of the nations.

THE PLEA OF MORDECAI NOAH. About seventy-one years ago Mordecai M. Noah, an American Jew, inspired by the spirit of Jewish history and spurred on by the grievous condition of his people in the lands of their exile, arose before the American public and eloquently pleaded that America raise her great voice among the nations in the cause of these defenseless people, and that the strong American arm guide it back to its own land and to the lofty ends for which it is destined.

This great Jew was far ahead of his time, for in the period in which he raised his voice neither the American Government nor the Jewish people itself was prepared. The Jews were yet to live through a thousand pogroms, massacres, boycotts and military campaigns preceding the great national awakening; the Dreyfus and Beiliss cases were yet lying dormant in the bowels of the French and Russian peoples. And America was yet to grow through the stormy congresses of 1850, the civil war and the great neutrality of the war of the world, all of which were to test the great endurance of the American nation.

NOW IS THE TIME! Today I believe the time is ripe when America can come to the aid of the Jewish people. For never in all its great history have the Jews faced so perilous a situation, a situation requiring enormous resisting power and international sympathy. And never so much as today was this country in a position to aid. The United States, by force of a liberal and conscientious government, has become the foremost nation on earth, and the loftiness of her position is unprecedented in the history of the world. For the first time in the annals of our civilization it will be recorded that one nation has by a profound peace set herself above all the other nations. Without the great national backing of America our demands for equal rights in all the countries of Europe, equal rights to think and build and live, might be futile. How will America respond?

In closing, I want to say that I have the greatest faith in the good decision of the American people. Mordecai M. Noah, in his memorable address to the American people, asked: "Where can we plead the cause of independence for the children of Israel with greater confidence than in the cradle of American liberty? Where ask for tolerance and kindness for the seed of Abraham if we find it not among the descendants of the Pilgrims? America will recognize in the Jewry of America the people who stood with her through the great war for independence of 1776 and through every industrial and political crisis that she has had to endure in her marvelous career. America will recognize in us the people who contributed generously to her great treasury of thought, industry and statesmanship. In recognition of her past relations with us America will go with us single-hearted and hand in hand through the great difficulties that confront our nation."

BROOKLYN NOTES.

Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary of Bath Beach.

An afternoon whist was given last Monday at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. L. Ortman, of Bath Beach, the proceeds of which went to the society.

Mrs. M. A. Magner, the chairman of the committee for the revising of the by-laws, will shortly call a meeting, as the needs of the society require the same.

A rummage sale will take place on August 15 at the auditorium of the Y. M. H. A., on Croyse avenue and Bay Twenty-second street.

Rabbi Simon R. Cohen, of Temple Beth Elohim, Keap street, was married last week to Miss Laura Levy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. Levy, of Baltimore, at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Julius Levy, Ridgewood road, Roland Park. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Eugene Korn in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom.

Are We Ashamed to Be Known as Jews?

I dare say that the Puritan fathers were better Jews than many Jews among us. For one thing, they were not ashamed of Jewish names and Biblical names. Not only were they not ashamed of them, but they were proud to be called themselves by those names.

CHILDREN'S PAGE

FOR THE GLORY

Dear Children:

Whatever the Holy One, blessed be He, created in His world He created but for His glory, as it is said, Everything that is called by My name, it is for My glory I have created it, I have formed it, yea, I have made it—(Isaiah 43, 7); and it says, The Lord shall reign forever and ever (Exodus 15, 18).

The Roman Emperor, Hadrian, was always fond of arguing with Rabbi Joshua Ben Chananyah concerning religious subjects and other matters of learning. Once the emperor asked him if there was a Supreme Being who ruled the world. "Assuredly there is!" assured the rabbi. "How can you think otherwise, the first verse in the Torah tells us that the Lord created the heavens and the earth and all that they contain." Then, said Hadrian, "if such be the case, why does not the Creator reveal Himself before the people at least twice a year, in order that all who see Him may fear Him." Said Rabbi Joshua, "Because it is impossible for a man to see the Almighty and live." "Well," said the emperor, "as long as I do not see Him with my own eyes I will not believe in the existence of a Creator who has brought everything into being." Seeing that he could not convince the skeptic by the mere force of argument Rabbi Joshua changed the subject and contrived to interest him by his animated conversation until noon time, when the sun shone in full force. "Behold, now," said Rabbi Joshua to the emperor, "is your opportunity to see the holy Creator of the Universe, look into the sun and you will see Him." "How can anyone look into the sun!" exclaimed the emperor, "its dazzling rays can make one blind." "Ah; if that is the case," exclaimed Rabbi Joshua, "if we cannot look into the sun, which is one of the best of the Lord's glorious creations in heaven, how then can mortal man, with his weak eyes, expect to behold the refulgent light of the great Creator and remain alive? But the time will come when the Creator, blessed be He, will reveal Himself to the world, but only when idol worship will cease from the earth and all humanity will unite in the belief of the One Creator, then will the Lord reveal Himself in all His glory—and all flesh will then see the glory of the Lord." This is meant in the Mishnah of the Ethics of the Father that whatever the Holy One created in His world He created but His glory, that from all the objects that He created we shall form an idea of how great and powerful He is Himself.

We should also know, comments Rabbi Naphtale Hertz Wesley that whatever the Holy One, blessed be He, created in His world, whatever it may be, whether it belongs to the mineral, vegetable or animal kingdom—be it man, or a mere worm, or a bird of heaven, let it not seem insignificant in your eyes nor cause you to exclaim, "Why and for what purpose was this created?" And far be it from you to say, "This thing was created uselessly—that it is entirely unnecessary," but know that He created it only for His glory, which is the infinite wisdom of the Creator and that everything is created for a useful purpose, and the proof of it is that not alone did He create it or bring it into being, but He also formed it, fashioned it into shape and even more than that, He has made it, given it a distinct character and function in the life of the world, and just as the glory of the Lord is manifest to all through the wonderful hosts of heaven that He has created so do the meaner-appearing objects of the earth, some of which even seem to be injurious to creation, such as the poisonous reptiles, were neither accidentally nor uselessly produced upon earth, but they emanate also from the infinite wisdom of the Almighty—for, although we do not understand the purpose of their creation, they are called by His name and created for His glory. And it says, "The Lord shall reign forever and ever," and forever shall He preserve the five possessions of which we were told in the preceding Mishna. And if you will say I admit that the Torah will remain forever, heaven and earth will remain forever, Abraham will live in the memory of mankind forever, Israel will be a nation forever, but the holy temple was not consumed by fire. Do not wonder at this, Israel's sins have caused it to be destroyed for a time, but the time will come when the Lord will reign forever and ever and will gather together the dispersed of His people, will renew His world, will restore the dead to life and will again rebuild His holy temple. May our eyes see it and our hearts rejoice, Amen!

"What are you going to be when you grow up, Edgar?" asked the minister.

"I'm going to be a soldier," answered the six-year-old.

"But soldiers are often killed by the enemy," said the good man.

"Then," said Edgar promptly, "I guess I'll be an enemy."

"Well," said mamma, as she bathed Johnnie's blackened eye, "what were you and Tommy fighting about?"

"We weren't fighting!" exclaimed Johnny indignantly; "we were only arguing."

Papa—So, Bobby, you're the president of your bicycle club. That's very nice. How did they happen to choose you?"

Bobby—Well, you see, papa, I'm the only boy that's got a bicycle.

STATE OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE
ALBANY, July 20, 1915.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the state of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section one of article two of the Constitution of the state of New York is to be submitted to the people for approval at the next general election in this state to be held on the second day of November, nineteen hundred and fifteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE
Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly proposing an amendment to section one of article two of the constitution, in relation to qualification of voters.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), that section one of article two of the constitution, be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Every [male] citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for ninety-days, and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, and for the last four months a resident of the county and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he or she may offer his or her vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he or she shall at the time be a resident, and not elsewhere, for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elective by the people, and upon all questions which may be submitted to the vote of the people, provided that a citizen by marriage shall have been an inhabitant of the United States for five years; and provided that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the state, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his or her vote by reason of his or her absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide in the manner in which and at what time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election districts in which they respectively reside.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Senate concur), that the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and fifteen in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

STATE OF NEW YORK
IN SENATE, Feb. 3, 1915.

This resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the Assembly voting in favor thereof, three-fifths being present.

By order of the Assembly,
THADDEUS C. SWEET,
Speaker.

STATE OF NEW YORK
IN SENATE, Feb. 4, 1915.

This resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the Senators elected voting in favor thereof, three-fifths being present.

By order of the Senate,
EDWARD SCHOENECK,
President.

STATE OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE } 55:
I have compared the preceding copy of concurrent resolution with the original concurrent resolution on file in this office, and I do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom, and of the whole thereof.

GIVEN under my hand and the seal of the office at the Secretary of State at the [L. S.] city of Albany, this twentieth day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

Explanation—Matter in Italics is new.

STATE OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE
ALBANY, July 20, 1915.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the state of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section four of article seven of the Constitution of the state of New York is to be submitted to the people for approval at the next general election in this state to be held on the second day of November, nineteen hundred and fifteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO
Concurrent Resolution of the Senate and Assembly proposing an amendment to section four of article seven of the constitution, permitting the legislature to alter the rate of interest upon debts authorized pursuant to said section.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), that section four of article seven of the constitution be amended so as to read as follows:

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debts shall be hereafter contracted in behalf of this state, unless such debts shall be authorized by law for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No such law shall take effect until, at a general election, shall have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election. On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass, and the same to receive the sanction of the people?" The legislature may at any time after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law; but the tax imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrepealable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provisions hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability. The money arising from any loan or stock creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years from the date of their authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund is created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund, and the legislature shall reduce the tax an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized, pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence of such debt which shall be contracted or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increases the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually to the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable.

In case any annual tax heretofore imposed for the payment of a debt authorized by vote of the people under the constitution will, if continued, provide for the payment of the interest on such debt as it falls due and also the payment of the principal of such debt before it becomes due, the legislature may amend the law by reducing the rate of such tax, provided that the same shall not be reduced below a sum sufficient to pay the interest on such debt as it falls due and also the principal of such debt when it becomes due.

The supreme court shall have jurisdiction to direct the comptroller or any officer of the state to impose a tax sufficient to comply with the provisions of this section for the protection of any sinking fund of the state.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and fifteen, in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

STATE OF NEW YORK

PROPOSITION NUMBER ONE
STATE OF NEW YORK
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE
ALBANY, July 20, 1915.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article seven of the Constitution of the state of New York, section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, and section six of chapter five hundred and seventy of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, notice is hereby given that chapter five hundred and seventy of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, of which the following is a copy, will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon at the next general election in this state, to be held on the second day of November, nineteen hundred and fifteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

CHAP. 570.

AN Act making provision for issuing bonds to the amount of not to exceed twenty-seven million dollars in addition to bonds heretofore authorized by the provisions of chapter one hundred and forty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and three, for the improvement of the Erie canal, the Oswego canal, and the Champlain canal, and for the payment of the improvement under such act, and providing for a submission of the same to the people to be voted upon at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and fifteen.

Became a law May 10, 1915, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. There shall be issued, in the manner and at the times hereinafter specified, bonds of the state in amount not exceeding twenty-seven million dollars in addition to the bonds heretofore authorized by the provisions of chapter one hundred and forty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and three, which bonds shall be sold by the state and the proceeds thereof paid into the state treasury, and, except as hereinafter provided, so much thereof as shall be necessary shall be expended for the purpose of improving the Erie canal, the Oswego canal, and the Champlain canal, and for the procurement of the lands required in connection therewith, and for the payment of the improvement under such act. The said bonds when issued shall be exempt from taxation.

§ 2. The comptroller is hereby directed under the supervision of the commissioners of the canal fund to cause to be prepared the bonds of this state, to an amount not to exceed twenty-seven million dollars, the said bonds to bear interest at the rate of not to exceed four and one-half per centum per annum, which interest shall be payable semi-annually in the city of New York. Said bonds shall be issued for a term of not more than fifty years from their respective dates of issue, and shall not be sold for less than par. The comptroller is hereby charged with the duty of selling said bonds to the highest bidder after advertising for a period of twenty consecutive days, Sundays excepted, in at least two daily newspapers printed in the city of New York and one in the city of Albany. Said advertisements shall contain a provision to the effect that the proceeds of each of such bonds shall be applied to all bids made in pursuance of said advertisements, and in the event of such rejection, the comptroller is authorized to readvertise for bids in the manner above described as many times as in his judgment may be necessary to effect a satisfactory sale. The said bonds shall be sold as the moneys may be required for the purpose of making partial or final payment on work contracted for in accordance with the provisions of this act and for other payments lawfully to be made under the provisions hereof. There is hereby imposed a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the interest on each bond issued under this act as it falls due, and to pay, and sufficient to pay and discharge the principal of each of such bonds within fifty years from the date thereof. The rate of such annual tax shall be five one-thousandths of a mill or each dollar of valuation of real and personal property in this state subject to taxation, for each and every one million dollars, or fraction thereof, in par value of said bonds issued under this act, and outstanding and to be outstanding during the fiscal year during which the amount of such tax is computed. The legislature shall each year compute the amount of tax required as aforesaid and in making such computation shall include at the rate above mentioned, such bonds as will be required to be issued under this act during the fiscal year for which the amount of such tax is so computed. The tax imposed, as herein provided, shall be assessed, levied and collected in the manner prescribed by law, and shall be paid by the several county treasurers into the treasury of the state. The proceeds of such tax shall be invested by the comptroller under the direction of the commissioners of the canal fund and, together with the interest arising therefrom shall constitute a sinking fund which is hereby created. Said fund shall be used solely for the purpose of paying the principal and interest of bonds issued in accordance with the provisions of this act. Provided, however, that in case the legislature shall see part in any fiscal year moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest on the said bonds as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal thereof, and such moneys shall be sufficient to provide a sum equal to the amount that would otherwise have been raised, as hereinbefore provided, in such fiscal year for such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year shall not be imposed or collected as required by the provisions of this act.

§ 3. The provisions of chapter one hundred and forty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and three and of the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, so far as they relate to the appropriation of lands for canal purposes; to the routes of said canals and the manner and method of doing the work; to the preparation of maps, plans, specifications and estimates; to the payment to contractors upon engineer's estimates; to the form of contract and bonds; to the change of plans for work under contract; to the measurements, inspections and estimates by the state engineer; to the duties and authority of the canal board; to the appraisal of lands taken and purchased by the state, or otherwise, created or impounded as a result of canal improvements or constructions, as provided in section sixteen of said act; and all other provisions of said act and of acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto as well as the provisions of chapter one hundred and ninety-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and eight, as amended, relative to the special examinee and appraiser of canal lands, so far as they may be applicable and consistent herewith, shall apply to and govern the work authorized by this act.

§ 4. The legislature may appropriate to the cost of said improvement moneys heretofore coming from premiums on the sale of bonds or from the sale of abandoned canal lands, buildings or other property. In case after the payment of the cost of said improvement, there shall remain any of such moneys unused, the remainder shall be applied to the sinking funds provided for the payment of canal bonds. All moneys realized from premiums on bonds or sale of abandoned lands, buildings or other property and all moneys realized from the sale of bonds shall be applied in the first instance to construction of the canal improvement.

§ 5. The legislature is hereby authorized to appropriate from the proceeds of the sale of said bonds such an amount as shall be necessary to reimburse the general fund of the treasury for any moneys advanced and paid out of such fund under appropriation made by the legislature of nineteen hundred and fifteen for the improvement of said canals.

§ 6. This law shall not take effect until it shall at a general election have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and the same shall be submitted to the people of this state at the general election to be held in November, nineteen hundred and fifteen. The ballots to be furnished for the use of voters upon the submission of this law shall be in form prescribed by the election law and the proposition or question to be submitted shall be printed thereon in substantially the following form, namely: "Shall chapter (here insert the number of this chapter) of the laws of nineteen hundred and fifteen, entitled 'An act making provision for issuing bonds to the amount of not to exceed twenty-seven million dollars in addition to bonds heretofore authorized by the provisions of chapter one hundred and forty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and three, for the improvement of the Erie canal, the Oswego canal and the Champlain canal, and providing for a submission of the same to the people to be voted upon at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and fifteen,' be approved?"
