Dreams Come True

By H. S. STOLLNITZ, Litt. D.

The ignorant masses were and are still swayed by imposters who, pretending to be in the confidence of God, have affixed merit to actions which either are indifferent or absurd.

Among the many superstitious beliefs deeply rooted in the minds of ignorant people is the belief in dreams.

The credence to the importance of dreams has unbalanced many an one's mind.

Dreams are often so vivid that they seem real. This is particularly the case with young people.

It is said Coleridge wrote his "Kubla Khan," a poem, in a dream.

All that is mysterious is supernatural to the superstitious.

Even Bacon, although he confessed that the interpretation of dreams is mixed with numerous extravagances, yet speaks as if he thought that something might be made of it.

Shirley, too, believed:

"Divinity has oft times descended upon our slumbers and blessed troupes have, in the calm and quiet of the soule, conversed with us."

There are dreamers who, even in broad daylight dream dreams. The dreams yield such powerful influence over them that they would take an oath on their reality.

The actual coincidents that sometimes happen between dreams and events are much responsible for the belief in dreams.

The Hebrew prayer before retiring has special supplications for the prevention of evil dreams. It runs:

"Blessed art thou, O Lord our God, King of the universe, who makest the bands of sleep to fall upon mine eyes, and slumber upon my eyelids. May it be thy will, O Lord, my God and God of my fathers, to suffer me to lie down in peace and let me rise up again in peace. Let not my thoughts trouble me, nor evil dreams, nor evil fancies, but let my rest be perfect before thee.

Some pious Jews even indulge in fasting as the best means to keep away bad dreams.

Many an orthodox Jew fasts on the day following an evil dream.

It is strongly believed among the Jews that the dead visit the living in dreams.

A Hebrew book for the interpretation of dreams is still extant.

Interpreters of dreams are paid for their interpretations just as Layzer Hermansky awoke one morning with a palpitating heart.

struction which veiled his mind. His gaze was vague. His eyes seemed to search for the object which had just vanished. He rubbed his eyes and vainly turned his head in every direction. He then exclaimed: "Ah, an apparition, a vision of the soul, a dream!"

He closed his eyes in the endeavor to call before his fantasy the enchanting scene and the bewitching figures of his dream. He reviewed in his mind its every minute detail.

Like the artist restoring a rare Rembrandt tries to trace microscopically obliterated lines, so did Layzer endeavor to recall every phase of his dream in order to arrange a perfect ensemble and then pasture his soul thereon.

He arose reluctantly. He partook of no breakfast and left his abode. The salutations of his friends on the way to his place of business were to him akin to obtrusion. He attended to his duties mechanically all day.

The thought of food did not enter his mind, but he indulged in double the quantum of cigarettes.

He welcomed the closing hour of business as never before. He sat for hours in his room without any light so as not to impair the picture of his mind.

He finally decided to have his dream interpreted. With careful deliberation he imparted his dream to the interpreter.

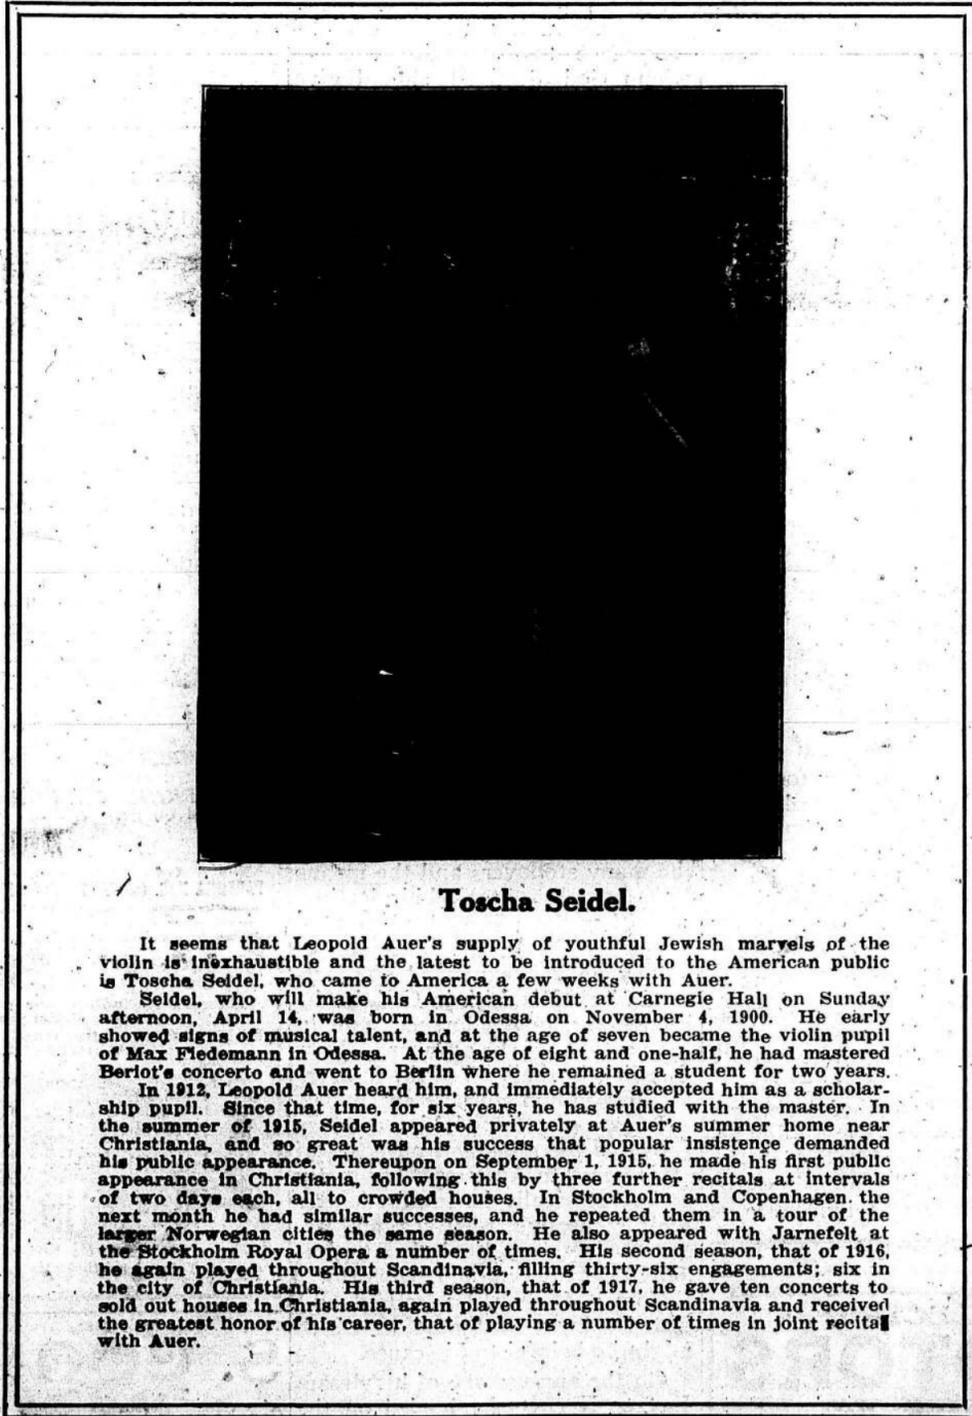

"My dream began with the rays of the sun playing around me. Gentle zephyrs coming from the West cooled the atmosphere. The brightness of the golden orb was subdued by innumerable cloudlets playing hide-and-seek in the azure sky.

"A park-like wood was revealed to me. Sauntering among the trees, shrubbery and plants of remarkable variety, I beheld all kinds of cattle, wild animals and ferocious beasts grazing side by side.

"The vast woods was picturesquely terraced and of changing scenes. There were high snow-capped mountains at the foot of which stood trees laden with luscious fruit.

"From the thick foliage of the trees nightingales, thrushes and robins poured forth their sweet songs.

"On one side beneath the moun-

Toscha Seidel.

It seems that Leopold Auer's supply of youthful Jewish marvels of the violin is inexhaustible and the latest to be introduced to the American public is Toscha Seidel, who came to America a few weeks with Auer.

Seidel, who will make his American debut at Carnegie Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 14, was born in Odessa on November 4, 1900. He early showed signs of musical talent, and at the age of seven became the violin pupil of Max Fiedemann in Odessa. At the age of eight and one-half, he had mastered Berlioz's concerto and went to Berlin where he remained a student for two years.

In 1912, Leopold Auer heard him, and immediately accepted him as a scholarship pupil. Since that time, for six years, he has studied with the master. In the summer of 1915, Seidel appeared privately at Auer's summer home near Christiania, and so great was his success that popular insistence demanded his public appearance. Thereupon on September 1, 1915, he made his first public appearance in Christiania, following this by three further recitals at intervals of two days each, all to crowded houses. In Stockholm and Copenhagen the next month he had similar successes, and he repeated them in a tour of the larger Norwegian cities the same season. He also appeared with Jarnefelt at the Stockholm Royal Opera a number of times. His second season, that of 1916, he again played throughout Scandinavia, filling thirty-six engagements; six in the city of Christiania. His third season, that of 1917, he gave ten concerts to sold out houses in Christiania, again played throughout Scandinavia and received the greatest honor of his career, that of playing a number of times in joint recitals with Auer.

There are also interpretations in the Talmud for many dreams.

tains there was a plateau in the center of which was a crystal-clear lake.

"From the midst of the lake rose a fountain which sent a tremendous volume of water so high as to reach the clouds.

"As the sun was very hot on the tableland, sprays of the fountain were refreshing and invigorating.

"In the lake I saw fishes of wondrous hue. A tremendously big one attracted my special attention.

"Suddenly I was aroused from my ecstasy by melodies sung by a human voice. As I turned there came to my view a beautiful maiden with flaxen hair following a herd of sheep. With her right hand she gripped a staff, in her left she carried a cruet, the neck of which was proportionately small.

"The sheep, fearless of the ferocious beasts alongside of them, drank in big draughts the water out of the lake.

"The maiden appeared unaware of my presence and continued to pour out her soul in sweet song. Her singing was accompanied by flageolets, harps and other musical instruments which were unfamiliar to me.

"All pleasures during my entire life cannot be compared with the feeling of glorious harmony, rest and peace which I experienced in my dream. I felt the exuberance of the elixir of life.

"Angels were floating to and fro from suspended horns flowed balmy fragrance which I inhaled avidly.

"I felt myself possessed of Herculean strength and moral powers compatible with any purpose of life.

"I mocked at all descriptions and pictures of the glory of Paradise in my conviction of being confronted by the most enchanting panorama of the universe. I swam in ecstasy."

Hermansky was greatly agitated. The imparting of his dream wrought up his nerves to a state of exhaustion.

The interpreter bade him to calm himself and offered him some stimulant. But Layzer's anxiety to hear the interpretation of his dream permitted no loss of time.

"Young man," said the interpreter, "your dream is the most wonderful that has come before me in my twenty-five years as interpreter of dreams. Would that many people in Israel were vouchsafed the distinction and privilege of dreaming like dreams.

"You must have been chosen by the Lord to have had such a vision.

"The propensity of your dream and its meaning should prompt you not alone to compensate its interpreter liberally, but also to a generous donation to charity.

"The panorama you saw is an exact picture of Messianic times; the glory of God will be seen and felt by all people of the earth.

"There will be no deserts—no arid land. There will be no strife between man or beast.

"The glorious sunrise you have seen denotes perpetual light, sunshine and happiness which will penetrate the hearts of Israel whose souls are filled with darkness and sadness caused by constant persecution.

"The big fish in the lake is the leviathan, which is the king of all aquatic creatures. For, according to Midrash Yalkut Genesis, God produced a male and female leviathan on the fifth day of creation. Fearing their propagation would bring destruction to the world, he slew the female and reserved her flesh for the feast, which is awaiting the righteous on the arrival of the Messiah.

"When the leviathan is hungry he sends forth from his mouth a heat to cause the waters of the deep to boil. The river Jordan is supposed to flow into his mouth. His eyes are of great brilliancy.

"God will use the hide of the leviathan for tents for the righteous of the first rank to dwell in, belts for the second, chains for the third and neck ornaments for the fourth. The remainder of the skin will be stretched over the walls of Jerusalem.

"The flesh not consumed at the banquet will supply the market of the Holy City.

"The high fountain in the lake symbolizes our glorious religion overtopping all earthly grandeur.

"The luscious fruit means the fruit of the tree of life—the Torah. The singing of the birds is their usual morning song—their serenade to the glory of their creator.

"The sweet music your ears were blessed to hear on strange instruments are the strains under the accompaniments and obligatos which will be executed again in the Temple to be rebuilt at Jerusalem, just as in olden times.

"Now to the main part of your dream—the maiden.

"By 'main part,' I wish to convey that while your dream is the precursor to the fulfillment of Israel's prophecy, the appearance of the virgin concerns you and you alone. It is a beckoning of Heaven that you have reached the age of blissful matrimony.

"With the help of God you have added much to the fortune left you by your sainted father.

"The gates of temptation are ajar before you. Pitfalls disguised in luring ornamentations are beckoning to you. Hisses of serpents are skillfully hidden in flattery and panegyrics.

"You are about to succumb to satanic devices, but the Lord, mindful of your virtues and merits and of the noble deeds of your ancestors has, in the nick of time, sent you this dream. But not only has God in his mercy sent you these visions, He has also guided your footsteps towards me. He has guarded you from false and corrupt interpreters. For know you that all sequence of a dream depends largely on its interpretation. I know of no dream which I have interpreted that did not come true. This is the reason why the wealthiest people come to me with their dreams.

"Yes—the maiden:

"Destiny has in store for you a daughter of Israel of purity, coyness and chastity, and of the beauty shown you in your dream. You beheld her as shepherdess, which signifies that she will zealously watch over the virtue and innocence of your sheep—your children, in the manner the shepherd watches his flock.

"The cruet in her hand depicts wedded bliss and happiness of which every virtuous woman is guardian. Out of this jug she will let you drink. Its small neck shows that you will be bound to imbibe in small draughts—a little at a time—in accordance with the lessons of temperate habits and sobriety the Jew is taught to be governed by.

"Although I am considered to be endowed with divine power to interpret dreams accordant with the inspiration of God, I am limited with regard to the maiden's whereabouts. To find her is your task. God wills it so. The harder it will be for you to discover her, the greater will be the happiness which is awaiting you, and the more you will appreciate the ways of your Maker and the exactness of my interpretation."

The munificent fee spoke louder than words could have expressed how pleased Layzer Hermansky was with the interpretation of his dream.

He was convinced that his vision was sent to him by the Almighty. Doubting its realization would have been the same as to deny his faith in God.

Preparatory to his quest of the charming virgin, Layzer disposed of all his real and movable possessions. He then girded himself, grasped the wanderer's staff and set forth on his indefinite journey. He resolved to travel on and on—on land and sea—to the very end of the world if need be, until he came face to face with the one whom God destined should give him rest, peace and happiness for the remainder of his days.

He traversed his own country, traveling for months. There was no maiden with golden tresses espied by Hermansky's argus eyes who escaped his scrutiny.

After traveling through nearly the entire Russian domain in vain, Layzer embarked for England. He visited all the Yiddish theatres in London, Liverpool, Manchester and Dublin. He went to all Yiddish gatherings. He saw some handsome maidens who, though they resembled the virgin of his dream, were far below the mark of her beauty and loveliness.

Hermansky took passage for America on a liner the passenger cargo of which consisted mostly of Jewish emigrants. To be sure before long Layzer had taken notice of every female passenger on the big steamer.

This task over, he carefully paged his memorandum book and reviewed the interpretation of his dream. He also carefully studied the notes he had made recording the many stopovers and the means he had employed to find his destiny.

Neither the efforts he had thus far put forth nor the snug sum of money he had expended disheartened him. His faith in God, in the interpreter, in his finances and in the vastness of the number of Jews dwelling in the land of the free, re-instilled in him courage and hope.

Layzer questioned his covoyagers as to the aims and purposes of their going to America. Indirectly and strategically he inquired after their respective relatives and acquaintances, particularly flaxen-haired damsels, in the new world.

Now and then he retired and jotted down utterances which might be helpful to his cause.

On the anniversary of his dream Layzer Hermansky landed on the American shore.

He rented the best room available on New York's East Side. After resting from the fatigue of his long voyage, Layzer immediately began operations.

During the rush hours of morning and evening he reconnoitered the factory sections, Madison and Union squares, Grand and Delancy streets and East Broadway.

During the later hours of the evening he frequented restaurants, coffee-houses, clubs, theatres, night schools and lecture halls.

Not trusting the looks of the beauties he saw on the stage, Hermansky, at a considerable cost of money, secured a pas partout for behind the scenes of all the Yiddish play houses and concert halls. Thus he manipulated indefatigably day and night for over two months. More than once he was reminded of

"Du liebes Aug, du liebes Stern, Du bist mir nah und doch so fern!"

The disappointments with which he met only spurred him on to greater effort toward the success he was sure was bound to come.

The striking resemblance of some women to the one of his dream only served the more to strengthen him in his conviction that the real one awaiting him was without her equal.

Layzer Hermansky one day learned that a family lived in the Bronx who came from his native town. Their name was Tobiansky. They were described to him as "swell" people, having much money and wearing diamonds "as big as walnuts." In short, they were said to be so rich as to have retired from business and to occupy themselves with riding about in their automobile, playing cards, eating and drinking and enjoying life, according to their hearts' desires.

Despite the description of the peculiar life his "landsleut" were leading, Layzer decided to pay them a visit that very same evening.

He rang the bell and the door was opened by a golden-haired young lady.

His heart beat fiercely against his ribs and leaped into his throat alternately.

He stood speechless until the angelic maiden's bewitching smile and gentle inquiry as to his desire lent him reassurance to ask if it was the domicile of Mr. Tobiansky.

Mr. Tobiansky received the young man cordially.

As they sat around the table sipping Russian tea out of crystal tumblers, Layzer analyzed Miss Tobiansky feature by feature. She answered exactly the delineation of his dream's vision.

Ah! How her voice charmed him! It was the same voice in which he had heard the shepherdess sing the sweet melodies, which had never ceased to ring in his ears.

Her handling of the "Vasooiny Samovar" strongly reminded him of the small necked cruet she held in his dream.

The silver sugar tongs which she held playfully recalled to him the shepherd staff.

He felt the same ecstasy and exuberance he had experienced in his dream.

Layzer Hermansky that night lived his dream over again. He revelled in the rapturous scenes which again passed before his visions.

He arose happy in the morning like a victor after his conquest. He began to make plans for the future.

In his fantasy he drew pictures of himself drinking out of the horn of happiness, which was to be offered him by beautiful Miss Tobiansky.

He saw already the charming shepherdess watching over his offspring in the manner predicted by the dream interpreter.

His visits to the Tobianskys became frequent and long.

He grew love-intoxicated. His soul's joy alternated with the present and the future. The more so because of the conviction that Miss Raysa Tobiansky was by no means neutral to his beleaguering of her heart. The path between first sight and proposals and even acceptance was strewn with roses.

Layzer came one evening proudly bringing with him several rings with solitaire diamond settings, of different karats of the size becoming to the daughter of a Tobiansky who lived in a superb elevator apartment and owned a fine Packard car.

The costliest ring with the biggest sparkler was selected.

The engagement reception was to take place in a fortnight. The delay was due to the removal of the Tobianskys to Fort Washington Avenue. The heavy influx of "East Siders" into the Bronx was crowding out the "better" elements.

Elaborate arrangements were going on for the engagements.

The eventful night came. Guests arrived from different parts of the city. Those from the East Side who came in their own and in hired autos made a round about trip, so as to convey the impression that they were from a more "high-toned" section of the city.

The celebrants, too, would have been mortified had their neighbors learned of their affiliation with people of the East Side.

There was much to feast on, champagne flowed like water and all were in high spirits.

Some of the guests who imbibed of the effervescent beverage too freely disgraced Tobiansky by dancing "Cosatzkes" and singing Yiddish songs.

In the wee hours of the morning Tobiansky even had no scruples to let them drive him straight down Fort Washington Avenue instead of making a detour. He well knew that the "aristocratic" dwellers on that avenue play cards until very late hours and do not rise early.

The nuptials were to take place one month hence. But, even the sun has spots. Layzer had seen them in his dream.

Hermansky and all concerned had to come to the bitter realization of a slip "twixt the cup and the lip." Like a bolt out of a clear sky there appeared something between the small-necked cruet of the shepherdess and her finance.

A few days before the wedding Mrs. Tobiansky and Layzer Hermansky were discussing their family trees. As Layzer mentioned that his father's name was Layble, Mrs. Tobiansky became suddenly rigid, she turned deathly pale and emitting a piercing cry, she fainted away. The young man as well as the Tobianskys were dumbfounded.

When Mrs. Tobiansky came to she declared between sobs and copious tears that the wedding could not take place, in fact the engagement would have to be cancelled.

All were spellbound and pressed her to explain.

Mrs. Tobiansky then told them that in the long ago there had been a feud between Laybl Hermansky and her father Shmeel Lubinsky.

On his death bed he had exacted of her the promise that neither she nor her children would ever marry a Hermansky.

Layzer now also recollected having heard as a child his elder brothers and sisters mention a like pledge given to their father before he died.

Consternation ensued and Layzer took his leave faint and sick at heart.

The following morning he came to the home of his fiancee early, and it was decided that Tobiansky, his wife, and Hermansky drive at once to the Rav Hakolel, chief rabbi of the East Side Jews, who dwelt on Ludlow street, to consult him if there was not a way to get them out of their direful predicament.

The venerable Rav listened attentively and bade them to call the next morning.

On their return the following day the rabbi informed the anxious trio the vow could be annulled.

Tobiansky gladly acquiesced to pay the amount of money the procedure involved, including some substantial donations to charity.

Any vow can be annulled by an ordained teacher or by three learned laymen.

He—or they—weigh the circumstances to which to refer in order to find ground for a dispensation.

Talmud tells of the noble conduct of Rabbi Ishmael in remitting a vow which had been made to the detriment of a girl, and how at his death the Jewish women sang a dirge beginning:

"O daughters of Israel Weep for Rabbi Ishmael."

Following is the procedure of the annulment of vows (translated from the Hebrew):

"Hear ye, pray, my teachers, expert judges, all vows, or oaths, or bound or ban which I have vowed or sworn, etc., which I have taken upon me, be it by hand shake or by speech or by thought of heart; whether in regard to the execution of good deeds, to good enjoyment—even having enjoyed it through the times—in my own interest or concerning others; those known to me or those I have long forgotten, I regret them all in substance.

"I ask and pray for your kind dispensation, for I fear I may stumble and sin through those vows.

"I regret all of them, whether they concern money, the body, the soul—all—I regret and seek remission.

"May they all be in your eyes as dispersed."

After sitting a while on the ground, in the manner of mourners, the holy men call him and say:

"Thou art our brother for thou hast undergone accepted legal process.

"Get thee up from the earth and come to us."

Then he shall rise and pray while shedding copious tears to ratify the judgment of dispensation.

Then the judges shall say: "All be dissolved, remitted, expiated and forgiven and freed."

"Just as thou art absolved by the court below so mayest thou be freed by the court above."

"And all the oaths, etc., etc., may turn into blessings, as it is written 'And he will turn, the Lord thy God, the curses into blessings, for He loved thee, the Lord thy God.'"

The dispensation of the pledge brought back the unalloyed happiness into the hearts of the Tobianskys and Layzer Hermansky.

The suspended preparations for the wedding were resumed with expediency.

The program was embellished and on a much more elaborate scale than planned originally.

As Layzer Hermansky on the wedding day let his apparition pass muster before his soul's vision, he was thoroughly satisfied that his beautiful dream came true.

Thou city of the king!
The Lord God of Israel
Has wrought a wondrous thing:
A byword and a mocking—
Through centuries of shame,
He comes to raise thee from the dust
And build again thy name.

Jerusalem, Jerusalem,
Lift up thy head and see
The mother may forget her child,
But God remembers thee!

The swords of many nations
Have made of thee a prey,
The feet of many strangers
Have worn thy stones away;
But hearken, O Jerusalem,
And hear a joyful sound—

The Jewish community of Shanghai, China, has voted to erect 100 cottages, at a cost of 50 pounds sterling each, to house 100 Jewish families in Palestine, as its contribution toward the Restoration Fund. The Jewish communities of Hong Kong and Singapore have been asked to co-operate in the interest of the fund.

A delegation of rabbis and other representatives petitioned Leon Trotzky to provide for the Jewish community some facilities to obtain matzoth for the coming Passover, but he refused them, saying: "I am neither a Christian nor a Jew; I am an Internationalist. I refuse to help you because no religion is to enjoy special privileges."

A strong effort is being made to secure the official approval by Japan and China of the British declaration in favor of a Jewish national homeland in Palestine. Mr. David Sandelso, of Tsingtao, Japan, has succeeded in interesting Viscount Inouye, a member of the Japanese House of Peers, and reports that all the Chinese statesmen are sympathetic.

Of late articles of an anti-Semitic nature have begun to appear in the Argentine press. The widely circulated paper, Action, has lately printed an article entitled "The Jewish Race," in which the paper lodges with the Jews various serious charges. The Jewish social workers of Buenos Aires have decided to carry on an organized struggle against this anti-Semitic storm.

Scandinavian Jewish leaders are organizing a deputation of Swiss, Dutch and Scandinavian Jews to visit Berlin, Vienna, Sofia and Constantinople. The object of the deputation is to make representations to the Quadruple Alliance in favor of a free economic and cultural development of the Jewish settlement in Palestine and for the emancipation of the Jews in the Eastern countries.

A strong protest signed by all of the leading rabbis of Baltimore and also by prominent Jewish women was read in the Senate at Annapolis, Md., last week, against the Bible reading bill passed by the House. The Senate Committee on Judicial Proceedings, which will consider the measure, has been asked for a hearing, at which the protestants may appear and give reasons for their objections.

Plans for a new cottage for the Hebrew Orphan Home Association of Hudson county, N. J., have been approved. The cottage will be built on the plot of ground containing 50 city lots at the Boulevard, Stevens and Fowler avenues, and, when completed, will accommodate 60 orphan children, wards of the association, who are now being cared for by various members at their homes throughout the county.

Commissioner Coler has appointed Rabbi Samuel Buchler third deputy of the Department of Charities for New York city. A three-day celebration marked the golden anniversary of Temple Shalom, Chicago, Ill., last week. This congregation was established in 1867 under the name of the North Chicago Hebrew Congregation, and for this purpose a frame synagogue was erected on Superior street, near Wells street.

Joseph Stone, a resident of Boston since 1857, died Tuesday, April 2. He was prominent in philanthropic and religious circles and was organizer of the first congregation of the North End, Congregation Beth Abraham, and was for many years its president. He was one of the first members of Congregation Mishkan Israel, and after its amalgamation with Congregation Shaarai Tefila under the name of Mishkan Tefila was for a time its president.

The Greek Cabinet has just decided not to apply to Jews in Greece who are Ottoman subjects the regulation prohibiting commercial transactions with subjects of enemy states. The advantages that will ensue to the foreign subjects referred to are: the payment by fire insurance companies of moneys due to them on account of the recent conflagration; removal of their names from black lists; and annulment of decrees for the seizure of their immovable property.

At a general meeting of the Great Synagogue, Rue Pavée, held recently, Mr. Joseph Landau, of Paris and London, was unanimously re-elected president. Mr. Landau is virtually the founder of the organization known as the Hagudas Hakehillos or United Synagogue of the Russian community in Paris, of which the recently-erected Rue Pavée Synagogue and Talmud Torah are the premier institutions. Mr. Landau, in expressing his thanks for the honor conferred upon him, gave 50,000 francs to clear off the liabilities of the synagogue.

For the first time in history, a Seder was conducted for Jewish emigrants, chiefly women and children, in Yokohama, Japan, where they became stranded on their way to join their husbands and fathers in America. Mr. Samuel Mason of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigration Aid Society, in the Far East at the present time, presided. At his request 5,500 pounds of matzoth was forwarded to Yokohama and it reached there just in time for the Passover holidays. A special permit to ship the matzoth was granted by the War Trade Board.

Jewish institutions in Hungary, Roumania, Russia and in New York will benefit under the terms of the will of the late Henry Rosenblatt, filed in Providence, R. I., last month. The residue of the estate is left in trust to the executors, Rabbi Gabriel Lew Margulies and Rabbi Morris Weschler of New York, Martin Ushales of Brooklyn and William Angell of this city, to be divided by them in such proportion as they determine among the institutions named. The institutions named in the will follow: The Hebrew Sheltering and Immigration Aid Society, Rabbi Isaac Elchanan School, Rabbi Jacob Joseph School, Macheske Talmud Torah of New York, Takemuni Hebrew School of Jerusalem and such other strictly authoritative Hebrew schools of Jerusalem as the executors may select; Pressburg (Hungary); Yeshiva Rabbi Israel Berger's "Yeshiva" or Hebrew School of Bucharest, Roumania; Hebrew School or "Yeshiva" of Walozaia, Russia.

Allied Labor Delegates Pass Special Resolution Commending Jewish Constitution of Palestine State—Board of Deputies Discusses Jewish Community's Relationship to New British Food Regulations—A Committee Formed to Acquaint Government with Specific Jewish Needs—Lord Rothschild on the Proposed Anglo-Jewish Zionist Conference—Delay Agreed To—Further Interesting Stories of Jewish Colonies in Palestine.

London, March 1, 1918.

There foregathered in London this week a meeting of labor and Socialist delegates belonging to Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Rumania and Greece. The object was to draw up a statement of the war claims as desired by the labor parties of the allied countries. Not a great deal of importance can, of course, be attached to a meeting of this kind, but still it clearly has a certain force behind it. One important resolution I notice was passed with reference to Jews and Palestine. It was in the following words:

The conference demands for the Jews in all countries the same elementary rights of freedom of religion, education, residence and trade and equal citizenship that ought to be extended to all the inhabitants of every nation. It further expresses the opinion that Palestine should be set free from the harsh and oppressive government of the Turk, in order that this country may form a free state under international guarantee, to which such of the Jewish people as desire to do so may return and may work out their own salvation, free from interference by those of alien race or religion.

At the last meeting of the Board of Deputies it was reported that the negotiations between the Rabbis' Conference and the government Ministry of Food as to a supply of flour of a certain standard, to be specially ground for Passover purposes, had been successfully carried through. H. S. Q. Henriques, at the last meeting of the board, said that, with regard to Passover bread, it was felt that the matzoth bakers might charge exorbitant prices. Inquiries had been made, therefore, as to the prices to be charged this year, and the matter is now in the hands of Lord Rhondda, the National Food Controller.

Furthermore, the board decided that a committee should be appointed to look after all questions relating to food arising out of the war, and with a view to approaching the government upon the question of food supply, with power to co-opt members and with power to act. This committee was appointed to consist of the following people: Captain Salmon, a member of the London County Council; Maurice Jacobs, Joshua M. Levy, Samuel Moses, S. Myers, Ernst H. Schiff and J. Prag, a justice of the peace.

An interesting discussion at this meeting of the board was in connection with the proposed conference on Zionism—Dr. Daiches had a resolution before the board reading as follows: That the board convene an Anglo-Jewish conference, with a view to working out a united policy as a basis for dealing with the great problems confronting the Jewish people.

A. Montefiore opposed the proposal for a further adjournment in the absence of Dr. Daiches as the impression might get about that the resolution was of no importance. There was no doubt that a conference of the kind suggested was extremely desirable.

Lord Rothschild said that for some weeks past there had been an unofficial conference of gentlemen, consisting of Zionists and non-Zionists, who had been trying to find a program which would be acceptable to the whole of Jewry, and to submit such program to an Anglo-Jewish conference. They had come to a unanimous conclusion on the point, and had proceeded to invite certain members of antagonistic associations to consider this program, with a view to presenting the Board of Deputies, as the representative body of Jewry, with a program that would enable it to call a conference. He hoped that, in the course of a very few days, they would be able to make known, if not the actual program, at all events that a satisfactory compact between all sections had been come to with regard to the commission which was going out to Palestine. They had published a letter stating that they could not make known their actual program until they had actual evidence, which would be furnished by the commission which was going out. In any case, the conference could not meet until July or August, and he asked the board to wait for a week or ten days, so as to enable them to see what the unofficial conference could publish on the matter, and then, if they considered that the occasion was imperative, at the next meeting the board could come to a decision.

In the end the motion on behalf of Dr. Daiches was withdrawn, to be brought up in a different form later on.

According to advices which have reached a well-informed quarter here from Zurich, the governments of the Central Powers are soliciting the aid of the leading Jews in Germany and Austria-Hungary in a campaign to counteract the policy of the allies in regard to the Zionist movement, made possible by allied success in Palestine. The authorities, both in Wilhelmstrasse and the Ballplatz, are apparently doing their best to encourage meetings on the subject, and it is because of their inability to correspond with their co-religionists in other countries that the German and Austro-Hungarian Jews exhibit little if any enthusiasm for the campaign. It is understood that a conference of Jews of enemy and neutral countries may be held, at the wish of the German Government, in Holland at no distant date to discuss the subject.

The Manchester Guardian's correspondent with the army in Palestine has sent over another one of his interesting little articles on the Jewish colonies that he has come across personally in that country. This contains a description of the small Jewish community at Lydda, or Ludd. It is another of the most welcome billeting places for British troops out there, and the colony is known to the Arab natives as the "Companie," which appears to be the general title the Arabs give to all these modern Jewish foundations. These Arabs appear to regard "Companie" as a wizard who, with a touch of his wand, produces out of mud fruitful orchards and red-tiled houses. By the Jews the place is known as Ben Shemen, meaning literally the Son of Oil, the original settlement having consisted of a factory for making olive oil and soap. The present colony is the creation of the Jewish National Fund. The training farm was established seven years ago, and the colony has sprung up around the farm. It is one of several institutions of the kind which have been preparing the way for the Jewish homeland and training a people that for 500 years have been barred from the soil back to the life of their ancestors.

The large farm buildings stand out on the hill from the surrounding wood of olive and eucalyptus trees. The houses are grouped around the lower parts of the hill, and most of them are now serving as billets. But the training farm itself goes on with its work unperturbed by the presence of the troops. The Turks did some damage to the place, took their toll of the livestock and the trees, and compelled a number of the young men to serve in the army. But the Russian Jews, who are the workers on the farms, are used to struggles with adversity, and renew a fresh hopefulness as soon as conditions improve. Today some forty-five young men and women are happily and contentedly working on the farm. They live a communistic life together, like the craftsmen of the mediaeval guilds or the undergraduates of Oxford and Cambridge universities. They form a society for work and pleasure, and take all their meals in the common hall, forming what they call a "co-operative." The young men are dressed in white smocks and trousers, and wear their hair long a la Russe. The young women, on the other hand, have their hair cut short, and though they have not affected the masculine attire of the women land workers in England, their costume is sufficiently workmanlike. Hebrew is their language at work and play.

Despite the deportations of the Turks, the farm still boasts some prize livestock, cows, oxen and sheep, which are very different from the local kinds; and it has still some of the prize fowls and geese which are to improve the breed throughout the land. The fields, too, are quite a model of cultivation, and even in this fruitful corner of Judea, where the olive groves stretch for miles, they form a purple patch of fertility. The war has indeed claimed one victim in this colony. A branch of the Bezalil School of Arts and Crafts, which in Jerusalem has at once provided employment for some hundreds of Jewish young men and women and given a new impulse to the artistic spirit of the people, was planted at Ben Shemen a few years since. Working thus in the midst of the hills of Judea, where the beauties of nature and historic association mingle with each other, the craftsman could scarcely fail to imbibe inspiration from the outward conditions of his life. The stress of the conflict, however, has cut off both the market for the artistic work of the Bezalil and the sources of outside help, and though the main institution at Jerusalem has contrived to carry on its activity, the infant offspring had to be abandoned for the time. But without a doubt it will spring to new and eager life now that England's protecting hand is stretched over the country.

This correspondent also reminds us that the town of Lydda was in the early centuries a far-famed center of rabbinical learning, and its schools were visited by students from the whole of the Jewish Diaspora. Today the Jewish schools in this neighborhood are of another kind. They are training the manhood and womanhood of the new Judea for life on the land, helping to make the learned student a capable peasant. When the war is over and Jewry sets itself to its tasks of reconstruction and resettlement, these schools will need to be multiplied a hundred-fold throughout the country. From them will go forth the new generation of Hebrew husbandmen and craftsmen to reclaim the land which waits for the people who love it, and will give it their whole energy and devotion.

Central Jewish Institute Directors Celebrate.

The members of the Board of Directors of the Central Jewish Institute, as well as their wives, were the guests of the president, Mr. J. H. Rubin, at an informal Hoover supper last Sunday night. The idea of this gathering was to promote sociability among the directors and their wives and exchange views in order to create a better understanding as to what was desired in the way of spiritual uplift for the directors and their children—a necessity as important as uplift work for the community in Yorkville. After addresses by Rabbis Margolies, Hyamson and Kaplan, urging the necessity of study and the upholding of our holy religion, an open discussion was allowed, in which Mr. Isaac Cohen, I. Berkson, Mrs. I. Unterberg, Mr. A. A. Silberberg, Mrs. Edward Epstein and Mr. Harry Fischel participated. Those present decided to begin at once a kindergarten for young children as well as a higher class for Jewish education for the children of the directors and their friends independent of the work now carried on by the Talmud Torah. Additional classes will also be formed for the benefit of the directors and their wives.

During the course of the evening Mr. Edwin Kaufman made a plea for members for the Kehillah on the democratic plan recently announced by that body.

The Central Jewish Institute has planned a series of Friday evening discussions for young people to take place on alternate Friday evenings at 8.30 o'clock.

The first discussion, which is to take place Friday evening, April 12, will center around the question: "Why I Am a Jew." The lecturer of the evening will be Mr. Isaac B. Berkson, executive director of the Central Jewish Institute.

The opening lecture will be followed by five others, including the following: "The Significance of Jewish Past History," "The Significance of Zionism," "The Synagogue," "The Jewish School," "The Jewish Social Settlement."

5,000 Jews in U. S. Navy—B'nai B'rith Now Co-operating with Welfare Board.

The Jewish Welfare Board—U. S. Army and Navy, has just completed a canvass of the navy and has obtained from the commanders of the destroyers, battleships, submarine chasers and other naval ships, and from those in charge of the land stations, the needs of the Jewish men in the service.

Where the men of Jewish faith are aboard ships, the Jewish Welfare Board has enlisted the aid of the navy chaplains. They, in turn, have organized committees of Jewish men. These committees communicate with the Welfare Board, informing it of the wants of the men.

The Jewish Welfare Board estimates, from the figures it has at hand, that there are between 4,000 and 5,000 Jewish men in the naval service in the United States. The board has been in touch with approximately 3,000 men on board ships and naval stations, supplying to these men prayer books, Bibles and stationery.

The Jewish chaplain has already been commissioned by the War Department—Chaplain David Goldberg. Chaplain Goldberg was assigned to the U. S. S. Grant. He is the only chaplain on board that ship and is in charge of all religious and recreational activities. At his request, the Jewish Welfare Board completely outfitted the mess room of the U. S. S. Grant with stationery, games, puzzles, magazines, books, victrola, records, pens, pencils, ink, in addition to Bibles and prayer books.

It is also announced by the board that through its Committee on Overseas Activities, of which Dr. D. de Sola Pool is chairman, a cable has been received from Chaplain Elkin Voorsanger, with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, stating that he had no especial needs to report, and requested suggestions by the board as to what it is prepared to do for the Jewish soldiers fighting in France. The committee at once convened and decided to send a commission of one, two or possibly three members to France, one member of the commission to conduct the overseas work, the other member or members to return with their findings and recommendations. The committee also favored sending from three to five men as assistants to the commission, who would remain in France to conduct and develop the work.

Colonel Harry Cutler, the board's chairman, makes also the very important announcement that the negotiations with the Independent Order B'nai B'rith affiliation with the board have finally been successfully concluded, and the board has notified the I. O. B. B. that the new relationship became effective on April 1. From that date the Welfare Board is to receive from the I. O. B. B. all cash and other assets collected for welfare work and the Welfare Board henceforth will assume all obligations and liabilities of the fraternal order in relation to this work.

Presentation to Mrs. Cohen.

At an open meeting of the Ladies' Malbish Arumin Society held in the auditorium of the Uptown Talmud Torah, 132 East 111th street, on Monday afternoon, April 1, 1918, a set of resolutions was presented to the president, Mrs. Joseph Cohen, for her unselfish devotion, and her splendid service in behalf of the poor boys of the Talmud Torah. Addresses were made by Rabbi B. Z. Pearl, Mr. E. Ish-Kishor, Mrs. A. R. Bernstein and Mrs. M. Singerman.

Jewish Women Cooperate.
The New York section, Council of Jewish Women, with its Junior Auxiliary, is giving much co-operation to the third Liberty Loan campaign, and is doing everything to assure its success. The Junior Auxiliary, under the captaincy of Mrs. Arnold Belais, is located at Bendels, and will be chaperoned by Mrs. Charles E. Stein and Mrs. William I. Levy.

The seniors have taken a booth at the Hotel Chatham, and it will be in charge of Mrs. William Singer, Mrs. Ira Leo Bamberger and Mrs. Oscar S. Straus.

Need for Synagogue Center on the East Side.

The activities of Young Israel Synagogue in the past week have clearly indicated a most urgent and immediate need for a great Synagogue Center on the East Side. During the last holidays, including the Saturday between the first and second days, there was an attendance at the synagogue services, held at No. 197 East Broadway, of more than two hundred and fifty young men and women.

Sermons were short on all occasions, and announcements were made that a campaign would be instituted in the very near future for a membership of 2,000 and a building, which shall not only have a place for Divine worship, but which shall also be a center from which all activities may radiate—religious, social and cultural, including the maintenance of a religious school, as well as clubs for the youth with proper Jewish leadership.

At its meeting Thursday night, April 4th, 1918, twenty-six young men made application to become members, and it was announced that fifty young ladies had given their names and asked to form a Sisterhood for and on behalf of the Synagogue, which Sisterhood will be organized within the next week or ten days.

Plans were also made for social service work, to be carried on by the Synagogue, as well as the institution of a charity fund for deserving cases.

Besides the present activities, such as classes for Bible and Gemorrah, and the Synagogue Choral Classes, a new class is now being organized, exclusively for young women, for the study of Hebrew and the use of the Prayer Book.

Free Synagogue Associates Re-elected.

The Executive Council of the Free Synagogue announces that under the Stephen S. Wise Fellowship Fund, recently founded, Rabbi Bernard Cantor and Louis I. Newman, M.A., who have served as Fellows during the past year, have been re-elected to serve in that capacity during the coming year. Mr. Newman will have charge of the Bronx division, and Rabbi Cantor of the downtown division of the synagogue.

The annual meeting of the members of the synagogue will be held at the Synagogue House on Monday evening, April 15, at which matters of considerable importance will be discussed. Hon. Henry Morgenthau, president of the congregation, will preside, and Hon. Abram I. Elkus, vice-president of the congregation, will address the meeting.

The surgical dressing work initiated by the Synagogue Red Cross Unit has met with such hearty response, there being so many women who wish to serve in this department of the work, that it has been decided to conduct the work on Friday afternoons as well as Mondays.

Temple Pen-el Activities.

The Temple theatre party at the Morosco Theatre was very successful, the entire house was sold, and a substantial sum realized.

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees, held recently, it was voted to increase the salary of Rabbi Eiseman by $500. This is the second increase in a year in appreciation of his services to the Temple, which has made tremendous progress since his incumbency.

The Sisterhood announces a whist, bridge and lotto, to be followed by a dance, for the benefit of the Red Cross Unit 221, on Sunday evening, April 28, at the Floral Garden, 146th street and Broadway. The Red Cross unit is one of the most active in the city, and continues to turn out thousands of articles every month. The entire proceeds of the above will be given to the unit.

Rabbi Eiseman will begin a series of ten sermons to strengthen and comfort us in the days of trial, tears, and heartaches. They will be preached every Sabbath morning.

The Emano-el Brotherhood.

On Saturday evening, April 13, Dr. Alexander Lyons, of Brooklyn, will be the speaker at the Forum meeting which will take place at the Social House, 309-311 Sixth street. Dr. Lyons will speak on "The American Jew in the Present Crisis," which will be followed by questions and discussion. The public is cordially invited. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

The Red Cross Auxiliary, Chapter No. 306, which is directed by Mrs. Arthur S. Zinn, continues to meet regularly every Thursday evening. This chapter makes on an average 500 surgical dressings and bandages weekly, and during the twelve weeks that the chapter has been working they made 5,275 dressings. The Junior Girls are now organized and do similar work on Sunday afternoons.

The Ionian Literary Society will hold their annual reception and dance on Sunday evening, April 14, at the Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second avenue.

The Institutional Synagogue.

Saturday afternoon the Institutional Synagogue was thronged with young men and women who attended the first reading of the "Ethics of the Fathers," by Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein.

Saturday afternoon at 6 o'clock Mr. B. Reuben Weilerstein, of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will read and expound the second chapter of the Ethics.

Sunday morning Rabbi Goldstein will deliver the second lecture in his course of lectures on the "Science of Judaism," at the Mt. Morris Theatre, 116th street, corner Fifth avenue, at 10:45 o'clock.

Rabbi Israel Mattuck, of London, thinks that if the desire to return to Palestine were the test of devotion to Zionism, there would be few Zionists. Oh, he must be in error in this matter. There are quite a few prominent Zionists who are willing, even anxious, to be sent to investigate conditions on the spot, with a liberal salary and allowances, and all expenses paid. It is not only Congressmen that enjoy little junkets.

The draft board physician of Columbus, O., who used his official position to poke cheap fun at the Jewish registrants before him, is but one step, and a small one at that, removed from the avowed anti-Semite who was "decapitated" by Governor Whitman for patent offenses. To discuss the Columbus case is unnecessary, because it is really not susceptible of discussion. The man who will use his post to flout unoffending men with whom he comes in contact, is a peculiar sort of individual and should be made to resign or cease his practices. His malady is deep-seated in many men.

Of course, everyone, including the Russian Jews, now recognizes that the Bolsheviki did Russian Jewry the greatest dis-service imaginable. The latter have literally ruined their great country, and the former will be blamed for the catastrophe because of the prominence of that creature, Leon Trotzky, in the Bolshevist councils. And so the Passover of 1917, which found us celebrating the dawn of a new freedom in Russia, and thus was a Passover of Passovers, was succeeded by the Passover of 1918, which saw all the high hopes and all the proud convictions entertained by the world for Russia and by world-Jewry for the Jews of Russia rudely shattered and swept aside. It is terrible to think how the Bolsheviki have recklessly sacrificed the progress of humanity in the East of Europe on the altar of their silly theories and sillier defiances of the practical.

With the death of Lipman Levy the last of the active spirits who founded the great Reform Union of American Hebrew Congregations passed to his eternal reward. Levy was the first secretary of the Union and remained such for the protracted term of forty-one years, during which time he beheld it evolve from an insignificant association of congregations to a useful agency for congregational activity among a large section of our co-religionists in this country. We have never been, and probably never will be, able to support the principles for which the Union stands nor some of the activities which it fosters; but this does not prevent us from recognizing its capacity for good in many directions. The late Lipman Levy was a tower of strength in its councils, and the Union is much the poorer for his going hence. In spite of the fact that for the last couple of years he had ceased to be an active participant in its work.

The campaign for the Third Liberty Loan is now gloriously in progress, and we have abundant reason to believe that the Jews of America will stand high up on the roll of honor of the subscribers to this means of providing the sinews of the war for liberty. We need not dilate on the duty of American Jews in this hour, nor on their patriotism, nor on what America means to them. We have, indeed, weeks before this campaign was formally started, touched on these topics in no uncertain manner, and the present gratifying response shows that all sections of our community are fully and keenly alive and responsive to their obligations in the premises. Just as the Jews of the United States are at the present time furnishing more than their quota (according to proportions of population) to our national forces and supplying the flower of their manhood gladly and devoutly, so it will be seen, we profoundly hope and believe, that their contribution to the Third Liberty Loan has been equally honorable.

Owing to labor conditions, poor postal service, etc., many of our subscribers have been getting the HEBREW STANDARD Saturday morning and later. In order to have our publication delivered on Friday morning we have decided to go to press a day earlier than heretofore, and in future our forms will close promptly at 4 P. M., Tuesday. Correspondents will please take note that matter received after that time will be too late for insertion in the current number.

THE INEVITABLE SEQUEL

DR. ISAAC STRAUS of Munich arrived in this country in September, 1914, in the company of Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, the most notorious of the press agents whom the German government sent hither as accelerators of public opinion. Dr. Straus came here apparently on a special mission of his own to the Jews of the United States, which, in due course of time, found a vent through the columns of The American Jewish Chronicle. This journal was founded and is published by a corporation of which he is the president and treasurer, as appears by a statement on file in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York, the sole stockholder. In the issues of this journal Dr. Straus' special mission was industriously expanded, although our governmental authorities frankly state that here nothing disloyal or calculated to afford aid or comfort to our enemies was published.

But, while he devoted some of his time to his interesting publishing venture, Dr. Straus was mainly engrossed in his operations with chemical preparations—he is, we believe, a chemist by profession—and on this phase of his work the official report of the authorities is eloquent:

"He has two factories in Brooklyn. Benzoate of soda is manufactured in one and in the other factory he has been manufacturing potassium permanganate and sodium permanganate. All these articles are ingredients of explosives. Neither Straus nor his company has any license or use for these ingredients. The possession of these ingredients is further a violation of the President's proclamation regarding enemy aliens. Trinitrate of toluol, a strong explosive, is made from toluol and nitric acid."

In consequence of his dangerous activity as a chemist, Dr. Isaac Straus is now the "guest" of the government at Fort Oglethorpe, the Georgian camp where dangerous enemy aliens are confined. That this is the proper and the inevitable sequel to his career here is patent. What effect, if any, his confinement will have on the future of The American Jewish Chronicle remains to be seen. The force behind that journal was revealed in its true light some time ago; in fact, upon the appearance of its second number the publisher of THE HEBREW STANDARD openly stated that it was published in the interests of pro-German propaganda. We now make mention of these things, neither in jealousy nor in anger, to commend our authorities for their unremitting and painstaking attention to all the details of war.

A news report runs to the effect that the Paolei Zion are to establish a daily newspaper in their interest in this city and that a corporation for this purpose has been formed, with a controlling amount of the capital stock thereof in their hands. More than this is not known at this writing. One cannot, therefore, say whether New York's Jewish daily newspaper field is to be invaded by this newcomer or whether an existing member thereof is to pass under the safekeeping of the Paolei Zion. Surely the Paolei Zion have the right to organize themselves for the sake of publicity in these days when almost all phases of Zionism in America are dowered with printed mediums or organs of their own and when the Jewish pressmen of Zionist tendencies are so energetic and enthusiastic in obtaining outlets for their pens wherever the opportunity presents itself. Here, certainly, the race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong.

Dr. Cyrus Adler's suggestion, in his recent founders' day address at the Dropsie College, for a more intimate correlation of effort with all the modern educational paraphernalia between the Jewish institutions of higher learning in New York and Philadelphia, was bound to come. The surprise to us is that he did not make it sooner. Between the Jewish Theological Seminary and its appendant school here and the Dropsie College and its "feeder," there should be close relations, since both pursue by and large the same objects and begin from the same point of departure: an opposition to violent Reform in the ritual and Jewish life. As a necessary corollary to this striking suggestion stands that which has for its purpose the creation of an academy of Jewish scholars. Here, however, the field should not be strictly confined to those intimately associated with the two colleges, but should be elastic enough to embrace all who evidence a proper love of Jewish learning in any of its manifold branches and who desire to participate in such an organization.

One point in the address of Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, before a deputation of the City Council of Vienna, is of special interest to the Jewish community. With the general comments on the entire paper we need not concern ourselves. Count Czernin said, among other things:

It is obvious that in the peace with Roumania we shall take precautions to have our interests in the questions of grain, food supply, and petroleum fully protected. We shall further take precautions that the Catholic Church and our schools receive the state of protection they need, and we shall solve the Jewish question. The Jew shall henceforth be a citizen with equal rights in Roumania.

While the Austro-Hungarian Government has always maintained a benevolent, even liberal, attitude toward its Jews, there is but little to hope for from this government in its present situation and standing as it does under the pernicious influence of Berlin. The proposed solution of the Jewish problem in Roumania thus becomes really no solution at all. If, however, the entente dictates the terms of peace for the warring nations of the world, as we hope and firmly believe it will, Roumania's Jews will be properly safeguarded in their rights and their problem then wholly and satisfactorily disposed of immediately.

JUST A MISSING INCH!

"But if he be poor, and his means suffice not, he shall take one lamb for a trespass offering." (Lev. xiv, 21).

APPARENTLY a ceremonial prescription, this text, on closer scrutiny, is an ethical injunction, nay, a spiritual revelation. The matter refers to the purification of the leper. Disease having in those days been absolutely identified with sin, the leprous person was under obligation to cleanse himself not only physically but also morally. The repellant skinside of his body was but an indication of the corrupt inside of his heart. Hence, after his bodily ailment was healed, he yet had to make his soul whole; and this was effected by an expiatory offering at the sanctuary whereby a reconciliation was had between the suffering man and the long-suffering God. On the bringing of this offering depended his social rehabilitation, his admission into the daily communion with men. Now, of course, the rich man could easily comply with these somewhat expensive sacrificial requirements;—but what about the poor?

How grievously this question affected the poor of those days can be surmised if one considers that the leper was literally an outcast, regarded by all not only with dread but with loathing, isolated from his fellows throughout the duration of his affliction. But even after his affliction was past he was not re-admitted into the common life of man until the bringing of the prescribed sacrifice. Now, this is not the only illustration of the perennial fact, as patent now as it ever was, that the rich can easily buy their way back into society. But, again I ask, what about the poor? Shall the poor be excluded—as they often are for one cause or another—from the sweet satisfactions of human fellowship, yea, from the esteem of their neighbors, just because they have not the wherewithal to buy the required offering?

Visualize the scene. This poor leper had been away from everything dear to him for some time. He had to languish in isolation, everybody giving him a wide berth, and he himself warning others from too near an approach. Finally the time comes when he can go back to his own: back to honor, back to love, back to life. Yet these things lie just a trifle beyond him. The obstacle is not insuperable; it is only money, or rather the lack of it, that blocks his way to better fortune. Where he is there is darkness: beyond is sunshine. Where he is there is misery: beyond is happiness. Where he is there is contempt: beyond lies respect. How he yearns for these blessings with all the ache of involuntary loneliness! And why can they not be his? "Because his means do not suffice." His chief sin is poverty.

Scripture says: "because his means do not suffice."—But this phrase is but a tame Englishing of the corresponding Hebrew phrase, so graphic of the plight of the poor: "En yado masegeth!" His hand does not reach! Mark the fatal pronouncement: His hand does not reach! Can you see this poor man stretching, stretching, stretching his arms forth pitifully after those things he covets with all his soul, but which lie just a trifle beyond him? It is not through a fault of character, or through a flaw of the will, or through anything very reprehensible, that these natural privileges of human living are denied him: it is only because his hand does not reach. His straining arm is too short—just by an inch or so. The objects of his desire lie just a little way out of his reach—and not very far at that. Have you ever wished and wished in vain? Have you ever stretched forth your arm frantically after some cherished object within view and at the same time not within reach? Or have you read—you must have read it—the tale of Tantalus who, thirsty, found the well just a trifle too low, and who, hungry, found the overhanging fruit just a trifle too high? And if you have, do you understand the living torment of longing for the things that obstinately allure and elude you? Do you know the hide-and-seek game between longing and fulfillment, whose forfeit is a soul in pain?

Scripture, in lowering the ritual requirements for the poor, making it possible for them to bring a less expensive offering, added the missing inch to the poor man's arm! Do you understand?

I have at great length set forth the position of the leprous poor seeking rehabilitation, in order to be able all the more pithily to point to the greatest and most prevalent curse in human life. It is this missing inch! The curse of Tantalus. Not the baffling Distance, but the still more baffling Nearness! It is true that human minds and human hearts are constantly tempted and attracted by the Distances, by the things that call from far away. As the poet has said: Our reach is always beyond our grasp. But there is comfort in Distance, since we know that neither hand nor thought can be stretched out into Infinity. We indeed aspire, we reach forth, we answer the keen call of the Far-away, because our spirit finds satisfaction, even when denied realization, in its own finite futility of wooing the Eternities. But there is no such comfort in Nearness, when the fulfillment of a life is hampered not by impossible stretches but by just a missing inch!

Just a missing inch! The story of many lives is told in these words. Hidden manhood stowed away in an obscure corner, prevented from stepping into the light by just a trifling obstacle; glorious possibilities of human achievement nipped by a heedless breath; riches of intellect and character buried by a bare crust of earth easily broken! So many lives stunted, dwarfed and driven into despair, say, for lack of opportunity and sympathy! Inglorious host of mute Miltons, shrinking Shakespeares, suffering Sargents and blighted Beaconsfields! Still more inglorious host of lesser men and women whose humbler yet worthy promise remains unredeemed! The eye of divine love surveys you all, and sees a forest of vainly outflung arms, with none to supply the fatal missing inch. Will your time ever come?

JOEL BLAU.

Big Drive for Oldest Rabbinic Institution.

An informal reception was tendered last Sunday afternoon, April 7, by Mr. S. R. Travis at his residence, 11 East Eighty-sixth street, to the members of the Campaign Committee of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary. Over two hundred of the most important rabbis and laymen were present.

Mr. Samuel Rottenberg was chairman of the meeting, and Rabbi M. S. Margolies, Rabbi B. L. Levinthal of Philadelphia, Rev. Dr. Philip Klein, Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes and Rev. Dr. Bernard Drachman explained the aims of the Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary as a training school for Jewish rabbis who will teach and preach Jewish Judaism and will perpetuate the great principles and ideals of Judaism taught by the holy Torah and traditions. They emphasized the need of American orthodox Jewry, in which group belongs the majority of Jews in this country, to have rabbis trained in their spirit in a true Jewish atmosphere. The audience expressed great enthusiasm for this campaign, which is the first attempt ever made by rabbinic Judaism on this continent to place a rabbinic educational institution on a solid, popular and democratic basis. Judge Otto Rosalsky, Mr. Harry Fischel, Julius J. Dukas and others spoke of the urgent need to put this great orthodox seat of learning, which maintains preparatory schools in different parts of the country, and which has already contributed to the revival of true Judaism in this country, on a solid financial basis. The different orthodox organizations of New York, including the Union of Orthodox Congregations, the Mizrahi, the Union of Orthodox Rabbis, the Union of Rabbimim Matifim, the Alumni Organization of the Yeshiva, Adath B'nai Israel of the different boroughs of the city, the Harlem Orthodox Hebrew League, the Institutional Synagogue, Young Israel Synagogue and the Young Israel, have all pledged their full co-operation. The following pledges for membership have been made:

J. D. Cohen, 100 members; B. Selz, 25; B. H. Schur and Isidore Schlang, 50; Young Israel Synagogue, 500; Adath B'nai Israel, 200; Harlem Orthodox League, through Mr. Oxenhandler, 200; Charles Douglas, 25; William Fischman, 25; B. Semel, 25; Harry Fischel, 50; S. Rottenberg, for Brooklyn, 1,000 members and $500 annually; J. Lunitz, $100 yearly; Moritz Neuman, Congregation Ohav Zedek, 100 members; H. J. Satram, 10 members and $100 annually; Congregation B'nai, Israel Radowitz, 25 members; Rabbi A. M. Kaplan, 50; Emanuel Hertz, for Washington Heights Congregation, 200; Max Turkeltaub, $150 annually, and, with J. Lunitz, 50 members; J. L. Horowitz, 25; Rabbi Gold, 50; Rabbi Burack, 25; Joseph Lampert, $100 annually and 10 members; C. Joshua Epstein to get 100 members and pay as a donation 10 per cent. of what the 100 members will pay the first year; Congregation Kehilath Jeshurun, 100 members; Wolf Levy, 25; Charles Garfinkel, 25; the rabbis of the Bronx, 250; J. Richman, $100 annually; Rabbi B. L. Levinthal of Philadelphia to get members—paying $1,000 annually.

Annual Meeting of the Downtown Talmud Torah.

Last Sunday evening the annual meeting of the Downtown Talmud Torah took place in the building of the institution, Nos. 394-396 East Houston street. There were present the directors and a large assembly of members and friends. The annual report, which was read by the president, Mr. Wm. Fischman, recorded with satisfaction the affiliation of the Downtown Talmud Torah with the Federation for the support of Jewish philanthropic societies.

Mr. Fischman also enumerated in detail the various activities, carried on by the institution. There is a boys' and girls' school in the building. The former contains twenty-three classes with an enrollment of 650 pupils. The latter is composed of thirteen classes, numbering 450 pupils.

Mr. J. M. Wachman, the treasurer, submitted the financial report for the past year, showing that since the institution became affiliated with the Federation the Downtown Talmud Torah managed to hold its own and not only defrayed the increasing expenditures, but also paid off over $4,000 on mortgage and private debts.

The principal address of the evening was made by Mr. Bernard Semel, who spoke of the splendid results of the Hebrew schools through the affiliation with the Federation. The speaker dwelt on the necessity of extending the institution by adding a fourth floor. Addresses were also delivered by the principal, Mr. I. Konovitz, and by Rabbi Gustav N. Hausmann. The meeting was at frequent intervals entertained by the boys' choir, who sang Hebrew, English and Yiddish songs.

The following gentlemen were elected to the Board of Directors for the coming year: Mr. Louis Adler, Dr. S. Benderly, Mr. Jacob Blauner, Mr. Julius Blauner, Mr. Isidore Blauner, Mr. Sol. Blumner, Mr. L. Borgenicht, Mr. Abraham Cohen, Mr. Moses Fischman, Mr. Chas. Gross, Mr. A. Hauptman, Dr. I. W. Held, Mr. S. Horowitz, Mr. Frank Katz, Mr. Benj. Koenigsberg, Mr. David Kornblum, Mr. Abraham Krumbeln, Mr. B. Milberg, Mr. Nathan Miller, Mr. H. B. Rosen, Mr. Joseph Rosoff, Mr. Abner B. Rosenfeld, Mr. Harry Sackler, Mr. B. Semel, Mr. H. Stoll, Mr. Elias Surut, Mr. S. Thau, Mr. B. Turkel; Mr. Wm. Fischman, and Mr. J. M. Wachman.

To Raise Additional $300,000 for Federation.

At a conference of the directors of institutions affiliated in the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies of New York city, held in the auditorium of the new Jewish centre, 131 West Eighty-sixth street, last Sunday afternoon, it was decided to start a campaign to meet the $300,000 shortage for work in the eighty-five institutions in the federation.

Felix M. Warburg, president of the federation, presided at the conference, which was attended by the president and six directors of each of the allied institutions. Mr. Warburg explained that in the campaign made by the federation a year ago many of those who pledged support had failed to make good. With the budgets of the federation's institutions calling for $2,415,000 for the present year, it has been found that there is a shortage of $300,000. The budgets have been cut 5 per cent., but it is feared that a further cut would work hardship in the institutions which would be felt directly by the poor. This the federation desires to avoid.

Judge Otto A. Rosalsky emphasized the needs of the institutions, and advised that the Jewish public be interested in the work. Mrs. Leopold Plaut, Col. Henry Ginsburg and Benjamin Feiner also addressed the conference.

David Schneeburg Resigns as Young Judaea Secretary.

Young Judaea announces with regret the resignation of Mr. David Schneeburg as executive secretary.

Mr. Schneeburg was the principal initiator of the Young Judaea movement, which he helped to organize ten years ago, and has since served it in various capacities. He will continue to be a member of the National Executive Committee.

A banquet was given on Sunday, April 7, in his honor by the Young Judaea leaders and workers at the Broadway Central Hotel. Letters of appreciation of Mr. Schneeburg's services on behalf of Young Judaea were received from Prof. Israel Friedlander, first president of Young Judaea; Mr. Jacob de Haas, secretary of the Provisional Zionist Committee; Dr. David de Sola Pool, president of Young Judaea; Mr. Louis Lipsky, chairman of the Federation of American Zionists; Mrs. D. de Sola Pool and Mr. S. Abel, executive secretary of the Federation. Short addresses were delivered by Mr. Sylvan Kohn of Newark, who acted as toastmaster; Mr. Emanuel Neumann, educational director of Young Judaea; Mr. S. J. Borowsky, acting registrar of Young Judaea; Mr. Saul J. Cohen, president New York city Young Judaea, and others. A beautifully inscribed gift was presented to Mr. Schneeburg by those who participated in the banquet.

National Fund Helped by War.

The Jewish National Fund, whose purpose it is to buy land in Palestine as an unalienable possession of the Jewish people, and to rent it to Jewish settlers there, has enjoyed a great stimulus during the past year. Its contribution amounted to two million francs, which is just double the average income of normal times. This increase is due largely to the effect that war events have had on influential Jewish circles, which are beginning to realize that Palestine is fast becoming a world-question. Many Jews have undertaken to supply means for institutions whose scope of work is within that of the National Fund, and several organizations and communities have determined to give a fixed subvention to the fund. At a recent conference in London of numerous corporations, it was decided to collect five million francs with which to secure the land on which a thousand restored Jewish families will be settled. Although the Jewish National Fund is not yet a decade old, its role in the development of Palestine is increasingly important. It will have a great task to perform in the colonization work in Palestine after the war, and will be called upon to acquire land to distribute allotments to those colonists who have no means of their own.

MUSIC NOTES.

For her farewell recital in Aeolian Hall, Saturday afternoon, April 27, Guiomar Novaes, the Brazilian pianist, will play an all-Chopin program.

Mme. Helen Stanley will make her farewell appearance of the season in Aeolian Hall, Wednesday afternoon, April 24, singing Raoul Laparra's song cycle, "A Musical Journey Through Spain." Mr. Laparra will accompany the soprano and will play piano selections from his "Spanish Rhythms" and "Scenes Iberiennes."

Jascha Helfetz, violinist, will give a recital in the Metropolitan Opera House on Sunday night, April 28, the proceeds of which will be given to needy families of Jewish soldiers and seamen of the United States. Tickets may be had at the opera house and at the Wolfsohn Musical Bureau, 1 West Thirty-fourth street. On the committee in charge of the concert are Mmes. Charles Guggenheimer, Sidney C. Borg, Daniel Guggenheim, Samuel A. Lewisohn and Felix M. Warburg.

"The Philharmonic Society of New York—A Retrospect," by the eminent critic, James Gibbons Huneker, has recently been published in commemoration of the Philharmonic's seventy-five year memorial, last year. The book contains a short historical sketch of the orchestra's career during the past three-quarters of a century, as well as a literary appreciation of the modern orchestra as the unit of later-day music. This is the second volume of the sort published since the founding of the Philharmonic in 1842; the first was printed at the time of the society's fiftieth anniversary and was written by Henry E. Krehbiel.

There is already a large subscription to the three orchestral concerts which Ossip Gabrilowitsch will give in Carnegie Hall, Thursday evenings, April 18, April 25 and May 2. Special interest has been aroused by the announcement that Mr. Gabrilowitsch will appear in a dual capacity at each concert, conducting BROOKLYN NOTES.

Hebrew Educational Society. The Brownsville Neighborhood Players presented three one-act plays, "A Merry Death," "The Monkey's Paw," and "Food," under the direction of Maurice Sylbert, on Saturday evening, April 6, at the Hebrew Educational Society.

"Resolved, That Zionism Will Benefit the Jews of America," was debated by the Strivers of Zion. They won the debate, arguing for the affirmative side, against the Beta Mu. In a contest at the Hebrew Educational Society on Sunday afternoon, April 7.

Events of the forthcoming week include: Saturday evening, April 13, piano recital, directed by Dr. T. Bath Glasson; Sunday afternoon, April 14, debate between the Longfellow Literary Society and the Triangle Club; Wednesday evening, April 17, lecture by R. Russell Hertz on "Henrik Ibsen."

Mrs. Salt Dead.

Ray Salt (nee Rosenson), beloved wife of Harris Salt of 285 St. John's place, Brooklyn, died at Lakewood, N. J., Saturday, March 30, 1918. Funeral services were conducted from the Brooklyn residence, Monday, April 1, 1918, by Dr. Pulvermacher and Rev. Silverman.

New Officers for Unity Club.

On Sunday afternoon, April 21, the annual meeting of the Unity Club will be held, when District Attorney Harry E. Lewis will be elected president to succeed Sylvan Levy. Simon Levy will take District Attorney Lewis' place as vice-president; Joseph J. Baker will succeed Simon Levy as treasurer and Jacob Levin and Bertram N. Manne will be re-elected secretaries.

Temple Petach Tikvah.

Last Friday evening the president of the temple, Mr. William B. Roth, made a strong appeal in behalf of the Liberty Loan, and a special department has been opened at Petach Tikvah for the accommodation of the congregation's members who wish to purchase Liberty bonds.

The "Girls From the Follies" will be seen at the Star Theatre next Monday and will present a new musical burlesque, "In the Air," which is said to be full of good comedy, excellent singing, fine scenery, splendid costumes and has a sustained plot that can be followed.

Richmond Hill Congregation Flourishing.

Under the able leadership of Rabbi Alfred H. Kohn, Temple Beth Israel, at Richmond Hill, L. I., is showing marked progress, and is rapidly becoming the spiritual center of the Jewry of Woodhaven, Union Course, Kew Garden, Ozone Park and Richmond Hill.

A Young Judean Club, composed of high school boys and girls, has been formed. Instruction is given in the principles of Zionism and in Jewish history. The Young Folks' League, whose primary function is to bring the younger generation back to the synagogue, meets every other Sunday.

Hadassah School of Zionism.

The next lecture in the School of Zionism under the auspices of the New York Chapter of Hadassah will be held at the Young Women's Hebrew Association, 31 West 110th street, on Saturday, April 30, at 6.30 p. m., when Miss Nellie Straus will lecture on "Geographic and Economic Conditions in Palestine."

Centenary of Mill Street Synagogue.
There will be special services in the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue,
Seventieth street and Central Park
West, on Wednesday evening, April 17, at 8.15 o'clock, to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the Mill Street Synagogue rebuilt by the congregation in 1818. Owing to the unfavorable times, there will be no "celebration" of the event. The services will be simple, and consist of the regular Omer service, a special prayer for those who have fallen in the war, and for the safety of those on the front and a sermon by Dr. H. P. Mendes, who will speak on "The Bible Aspects of the War."
The various places of worship by the Congregation Shearith Israel were as follows: 1664, loft in Harporing's mill; 1682, frame building, Mill street; 1730, first synagogue, Mill street; 1818, synagogue rebuilt, Mill street; 1834, Crosby street; 1860, Nineteenth street and Fifth avenue; 1897, Seventieth street and Central Park West.

Passover Genuh Celebrations.
Young Judaea celebrated the first Passover of liberation, occasioned by the presence in Palestine of the Zionist Palestine Commission, by a series of mass celebrations which were held in all the Jewish communities throughout the United States on Sunday, March 31.
It is estimated that approximately 75,000 children were entertained at these gatherings, New York leading with a total of 25,000.
Reports that have so far reached the central office indicate that the celebrations were successful everywhere. The children applauded most enthusiastically the news of the arrival of the Zionist Commission in Palestine to pave the way for the establishment of the Jewish commonwealth.

"The Gipsy Trail" which opens on Monday at the Bronx Opera House, boasts a hero who has made considerable stir on Broadway in these days of war-cross exploits. Says the hero Michael of himself: "I am the only American who has served in the French army who has not written a book!"
and during the long New York run, scores of laughing audiences applauded
the remark.
The gipsy hero, by-the-by, in "The Gipsy Trail" is enacted by Ernest Glendenning, who has long been associated with romantic roles in the past.
He created the part of "Pierrot" in "Prunella," and that of "Youth" in "Experience," and is in consequence as near to being a latter-day matinee idol as is possible.
The attraction for week April 22d is George Arliss in "Hamilton," after which is "Why Marry?" with Nat Goodwin, Edmund Breese and Shelley Hull.

This is anniversary week at the big Hippodrome, and Charles Dillingham always makes it an interesting and memorable period on the Hippodrome's calendar. On April 12 the great amusement resort, which brings good cheer and pleasure to millions of patrons annually, will pass its thirteenth birthday, and, as has been the custom, the week will be observed with special features in its now current record success.
"Cheer Up!" A special anniversary programme will be staged on Sunday evening, April 14, in which the Army, the Navy and the Stage Women's War Relief will participate, and there will be a street parade on Friday. Because the country is at war it was intended that this latter function should be discontinued this year until the suggestion was made by Frederick E. Allen, State Commissioner of the War Savings Committee, that the Hippodrome place its organization at the disposal of this United States Treasury activity, and so the entire Hippodrome force with the staff, company, elephants, horses and all will add its strength to the military and naval features provided by the War Thrift Committee for a big public street demonstration on Friday at noon.
The special holiday features in "Cheer Up!" this week will be found in the portion of the performance in which Houdini and Belle Story are featured, and in the last act of the colossal pageant, where the water spectacle is introduced, with the mermaids and the Coney Island diversissements which anticipate the summer gayety. Matinees are given daily.

Lord Reading a Zionist.

Lord Reading, Ambassador and High Commissioner for Great Britain, in a statement which he gave to Reuben Fink, a well-known Washington Zionist and newspaper correspondent, with authorization for its publication through the Provisional Zionist Committee, pledges his support to the movement. This is the statement authorized by Ambassador Reading:

"You ask me for a message to American Jewry, especially regarding the declaration of His Majesty's Government in favor of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people.

"I need not say that I warmly support that declaration in both my public and private capacity. I have, moreover, been profoundly impressed by the splendid energy of the American Zionists and by the wholehearted way in which, to no small extent under their leadership, the Jewish people of the United States have thrown themselves into the war. Though I feel that the many thousands of Jews who have enlisted individually in the armies of the United States and of the Allies are serving the cause of humanity as usefully as man can, I am particularly interested in the Jewish units which are being recruited on both sides of the Atlantic. It would be magnificent if some of them could strike a blow for the freedom of the world in the land of our ancestors.

"In the meantime I am glad to think that Palestine is being rehabilitated, even while the war continues, largely by Jewish money and Jewish energy, and am especially pleased to be in the country which has provided so large a part of that money and no small amount of that energy. My good wishes are with the Zionists of the United States in the great work that is before them in giving effect to the declaration of the British Government, and I shall esteem anything that I may be called upon to do in connection with that work as not the least important or the least satisfactory part of my duties as British Ambassador in Washington."

This is the day set for the arrival in the Holy Land of the Administrative Commission, which, after having been received in audience by King George, departed from London on March 7. It was organized by the International Zionist Organization following the declaration by Great Britain on November 2, that "His Majesty's Government view with favor the establishment of Palestine as a national home for the Jewish people, and will use their best endeavors to facilitate this object," and the official approval, last month, of this declaration by France and Italy, and is fully sanctioned by the interested powers.

It will find a country wrecked by the war, which, at its outbreak of the war was blooming like the rose, with over fifty prosperous Jewish agricultural colonies, modern villages, an educational system ranging from the kindergarten to the high school, a banking system, and an ever expanding commerce. Sir Mark Sykes, British Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared several months ago that it is the mission of Zionism to be a bridge between Asia and Europe, to bring the spirituality of Asia to Europe and the vitality of Europe to Asia.

"I believe you will see Palestine the great center of ideals, radiating out to every country in the world where your people are," said Sir Mark Sykes, himself a Catholic. "I feel that you will always look back with joy to the fact that when the promise was held out to you of redemption, you thought not only of yourselves, but thought of your fellows in adversity, the Armenians and the Syrian Arabs." He added that he looked to see the Jews, the Armenians and the Arabs "become the great civilizers of the Orient, with all three nations giving to the world the good that God has infused in them."

What the Jews themselves expect of this new Jewish State is expressed by Herbert Samuel, former English Home Secretary, who said:

"It may be that the genius of the Jewish race will again be able to give to the world a brilliant and distinctive civilization. The Jewish mind is a distinctive thing. It combines in remarkable degree the imaginative and the practical, the ideal and the positive. This combination of qualities enabled it for 1,500 years in Palestine to produce an almost unbroken series of statesmen and soldiers, judges and poets, prophets and seers—thinkers and leaders who have left for all time their impress upon the world. Who knows, but that if again it finds a spiritual center of its own, soundly based on industrious population, untrammelled, self-contained, inspired by the memories of a splendid past, it may again produce golden fruits in the fields of intellect for the enrichment of the whole world. If this comes to be, what a helpful effect it would have upon the Jewish proletariat that will still remain scattered in other countries of the world. I see in my mind's eye those millions of Eastern Europe all through the centuries, crowded, cramped, proscribed, bent with oppression, suffering all the miseries of active minds denied scope, of talent not allowed to speak of, genius that cannot act. I see them enduring, suffering everything, sacrificing everything, in order to keep alight the flame of which they knew themselves to be the lamp, to keep alive the idea of which they knew themselves to be the vessel, to preserve the soul of which they knew themselves to be the body; their eyes always set upon one distant point, always believing that some how, some day, the ancient greatness would be restored; always saying when they met in their families on Passover night, 'Next year in Jerusalem.' Year after year, generation following generation, century succeeding century, till the time that has elapsed is counted in thousands of years, still they said, 'Next year in Jerusalem.' If that cherished vision is at last to be realized, if on the hills of Zion a Jewish civilization is restored with something of its old intellectual and moral force, then among those left in the other countries of the world I can see growing a new confidence and a new greatness. There will be a fresh light in those eyes, those bent backs will at last stand erect, there will be a greater dignity in the Jew throughout the world."

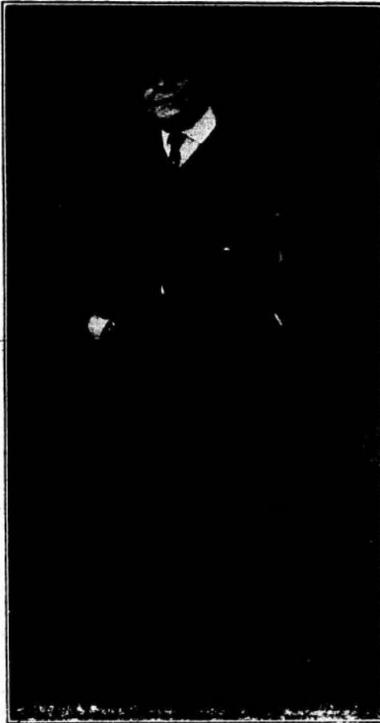

The Zionist Organizations throughout the world have been engaged during the past two months in raising an adequate fund for the operations of the Administrative Commission. For this purpose the American Zionists have already raised $1,500,000. England has raised a million dollars; Australia, $100,000; Canada, $100,000; from Russia another million is expected; Shanghai has raised $100,000. The total will be further swelled by contributions from Italy, France, Greece, Argentina and other countries where there are Zionist Federations. Later, when the work in Palestine has made tangible progress, a Jewish Liberty Loan of probably one hundred millions and even more will be floated.

Indicative of the high idealism which tempers the practical aspect of the commission is the fact that the project for a Jewish university is regarded as an immediate task. There will be fused all the austerity of the Hebrew culture, as reflected from the inspired lips of the ancient Hebrew prophets, with the noblest products of modern culture, as exemplified by England, France, Italy and America. The language of instruction will be the same language as that in which the Bible was written, modernized and enriched by Eleazer Ben Jehuda, the great lexicographer, who for the past twenty years has devoted himself to make Hebrew a living tongue. The site for the university has already been located on the Mount of Olives. Prof. Henry Bergson, the great French savant, has already volunteered his services to this institution of learning to which, in the words of Dr. Weitzman, "will be drawn all that is best in Jewry, that its light may radiate to the darkest corners of the globe."

J. J. ROSENTHAL.

"Ginger," a Cohanesque necessity, stands out all over the rotund J. J. Rosenthal, the Cohan & Harris representative in the Bronx and the manager of the popular B. O. H. The phenomenal success of the leading theatre in the Bronx, and the biggest and best $1 playhouse, has not only been the talk of the borough, but all over the country. San Francisco is as familiar with the doings of the successful playhouse as the natives of our own county. Rosenthal attributes the success of the Bronx Opera House to giving to the people what they want and taking them into his confidence by letting them know well in advance what is coming. Deliver the merchandise is his motto, and making his patrons comfortable. Show them that you appreciate their visits and they will come early and often.

Mr. Rosenthal is known from coast to coast as Jake. After graduating from college he entered the newspaper profession, and for many years was on the staff of the Cincinnati Enquirer. While he was a reporter Charles Frohman induced him to enter the theatrical world. After serving with Frohman in front of the old Harrigan and Hart troupe for years he entered the services of Klaw & Erlanger, and later served with A. H. Woods. His present employers are the firm of Cohan & Harris.

Mr. Rosenthal's wife is one of the stars of the theatrical profession. She is known as Kathryn Ostermann, and his son, Jack Ostermann, "is an important member of the 'Oh Boy' company, touring under the management of Elliott, Comstock & Gest.

The Fighting Jew.

Rights of the little nations have frequently been alluded to in President Wilson's official utterances.

We do not need to look farther than Holland, and Belgium, and Switzerland to see that the homeland is no less a homeland because it is small.

Somehow the very smallness of the little nation begets an intimacy which is reflected in the peculiarly strong attachment on the part of its people.

Judea is the little nation that was and is to be. Through nearly 2,000 years of dispersion and oppression, the hearts of its people are thrilled today at the promise of its restoration. There is no more touching example of love of the homeland. It is one of the strongest arguments for recognizing and protecting the rights of little nations.

Fired by the prospect of restoration, the descendants of the old Judean stock are giving the lie to the traditions that the Jew will not fight. It is true that he has not been a fighting man, because so many countries have denied him his rights as a citizen and human being; he had no opportunity or incentive to take up arms. But centuries of oppression have not broken his spirit; it is now responding to the call of the old homeland. Jewish battalions are already under arms; more are forming. There is a new Jew, the modern counterpart of such hard fighters as Gideon and David and Judas Maccabaeus. The Zionist mule corps, wholly Jewish, has "showed itself fearless to a degree when under heavy fire" in recent operations around Jerusalem. Yes, the Jew will fight. And his passionate devotion to the ancient homeland is one of the things before which kultur must stand confounded when it seeks to deny the rights of the little nations.—St. Paul (Minn.) JACOB IN EGYPT.

Dear Children:

At last Jacob was in Egypt! And for seventeen years he lived a happy life, with all his family and his beloved Joseph surrounding him; and as long as he was alive his children were happy and free—"Vayechee Yankob" — "And Jacob lived." "But," says Rashi, "what means the closed 'Parsha' (section)? (Before the word 'Vayechee' there should have been an open space in the Torah.) Because as soon as Jacob died the eyes and hearts of Israel were closed with the hopelessness of the distress they felt at the beginning of their persecution by the Egyptians." Another reason for the closed "Parsha" is to signify that Jacob wished to reveal to his sons when the end of all their troubles would come, but the future was closed to him. "And when the time of Israel drew near that he was to die," Rashi says, "of whom the Torah says 'his time drew near to die,' did not live to be as old as his father. Thus Isaac lived to the age of one hundred and eighty years and Jacob to one hundred and forty-seven years. Of David, too, it says, 'his time drew near to die.' His father lived to the age of four hundred years and he lived to seventy years." Jacob sent to call his son Joseph, for only he had the power to grant his request. He said unto him, "Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh and swear and deal with me in kindness and truth."—The kindness that one does for the dead is the kindness of truth, for he does it without the hope of a reward.—"Bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt" "for its soil is destined to be infested with vermin and they will creep under my body. Besides, those who die elsewhere than in the Holy Land will suffer in many graves ere they will reach the resurrection in the Holy Land, and then the Egyptians might worship my remains." Joseph swore unto him and Israel bowed himself upon the head of the bed. He bowed to Joseph, "for," says the proverb, "a fox in the time of his reign—bow to him." "Upon the head of the bed" he turned to the "Schechina" (Divine presence) and bowed. Hence the sages have inferred that the Divine Presence is at the head of the bed where the sick person lies.—Another reason for Jacob bowing upon the head of his bed is because his bed was perfect as there was no wicked son descended from him; for even Joseph, who was a king and an exile amongst other nations, retained his virtue. "And it came to pass after these things that some one said to Joseph, 'Behold, thy father is sick.'" Tradition has it that it was Ephraim, who was always near Jacob, who taught him the Torah, and it was he who now went to tell his father in Egypt of his grandfather's sickness. Joseph took his two sons with him in order that Jacob might bless them before he died. "And some one told Jacob and said, 'Behold, thy son Joseph is coming unto thee.'" And Israel strengthened himself and sat upon the bed. "For," said he, "although he is my son, he is a king, and I will do him honor." Hence, we infer that we must accord honor to kings.

What Men Who Think Say.

Realization of the immense importance of the Third Liberty Loan comes vividly home to thinking men and no patriots in the country have shown themselves more eager to work for the success of the loan and to spread its doctrine of patriotism for all than the Jewish rabbis. Several of them have expressed themselves regarding the loan. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise says:

"It is the opportunity of the church to have part in the Liberty Loan. This is not a war of an army, it is the war of the people: It is not a war at all. We are wholly, gloriously and holily in the right in making every investment of treasure and life in order to make and keep the world free. We are resolved to free the world of the menace of militarism, imperialism, autocracy. I would have the members of the churches, Christian and Jewish alike, stand foremost among the citizens of America furthering the high war aims of our nation. One of the ways in which to serve is to move the people of the churches to have part in the Liberty Loan, and to lend all that we have as well as all that we are in the strife for freedom."

Rabbi H. Pereira Mendes of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue says:

"The war is the result of stifled democracy. America wages war today to remove the main causes of war. We aim to make war and its aftermath less possible and, in time, impossible.

"It is our duty, therefore, to strengthen our government by providing funds for its efforts.

"We fight today in order that 'righteousness and justice' shall be the world's slogan; in order that 'mercy and truth shall meet, righteousness and peace embrace, truth spring forth from earth and charity look down from heaven.' (Psalms 85.)

"It means the establishment of the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth."

Rabbi Samuel Schulman of Temple Beth-El declares:

"The American people are more and more realizing the seriousness of the contest upon which it has entered. As this realization increases, the spirit of sacrifice proportionately grows." And Rabbi Horace J. Wolf of Temple Berith Kodesh adds: "This is a war for the destruction of all those factors which make for war. It is a war for the establishment of right over might, for the supremacy of moral integrity over brute force. This goal must once and for all be realized. We cannot, we dare not, falter. It is, therefore, absolutely necessary for every American worthy of the name to devote his resources to the support of the government. It behooves every loyal patriot to come forward and place upon the altar of civilization his subscription which will insure the unqualified success of the Third Liberty Loan."

This statement points the way to every man's duty, and no one can fail to realize their significance. The absolute necessity of the Third Liberty Loan cannot be blinked at and the idea that the other fellow will do more than his share, so letting one out is entirely wrong. The loan is for everybody; the men who think know this.

King of Rumania and the Jews.

Mr. William T. Ellis, in an article on Rumania recently published in the Philadelphia (Pa.) Public Ledger, had the following to say about the King of Rumania and the Jews:

"When I was received by King Ferdinand a part of our lengthy conversation was devoted to the moral and religious aspect of Rumanian conditions. The King is a Hohenzollern, and Prussian trained, but he is so loyal to the ideals of democracy and to the cause of the allies that among the Germans he is the most heartily hated of all the heads of entente nations.

"He was especially eager that I should make clear to America that Rumania is now pledged to remove all political disabilities of the Jews. He feels keenly the stories, which he assured me are slanders, that Jews were persecuted in Rumania. As a matter of fact Rumania could not grant full suffrage to the Jews so long as Russia, her neighbor on the east, failed to do so; for, aside from risking Russia's displeasure, Rumania would have been submerged by Jewish immigration. Most of the Jews in Russia are near the western end. Now, Rumania has agreed, at the conclusion of the war and as soon as a Constitutional Assembly can be convened, to grant all the liberty that Rumanians enjoy to her Jewish population. This is not the only reform that the king cherishes as in prospect."

The Irish Leader.

Every Jewish citizen will join in the sincere and widespread regret that has been evoked by the death of the great Irish leader, John Redmond. Many of us, as Jews, sympathized with his efforts on behalf of his people, and even those whose political inclinations drove them into a different camp, admired, at all events, his dignity and his single-mindedness, as well as his splendid abilities. As befitted his own aspirations Mr. Redmond felt nothing but abhorrence at the ill-treatment of the Jewish people. We recall, at this moment, his ringing denunciation of the attack which Father Creagh made upon the Jews of Limerick. "I have no sympathy whatever," he wrote
