The "Forever" Succah

A Succoth Memory Retold by E. C. EHRLICH

There were four of us who always played together in those pleasant, far-off years—Miriam of the dark curls, Essie, Joe with his quick laughter, and I—two boys and two girls, none of us over ten, schoolmates and companions in our games.

We were in the same Sabbath school class, and it was there we first heard of the Succoth festival, first learned that even today some Jewish families celebrated the holiday by building a Succah. Our own people never observed the minor holidays or the ceremonials of the home; they were of the generation of American Jews almost swept off their feet by the wave of reform and to whom the old customs hal- lowed by orthodoxy were ridiculous when they were not hateful.

But we were children and knew little of reform and orthodoxy, and cared less. We were fascinated with our Sabbath school teacher's account of the Succah his father had readed in the tiny garden behind their house in Germany. To build a Succah and eat in it for one who'e blissful week! Like all children, we loved picnics, and our eyes danced at the thought of such unaccustomed happiness.

Walking home through the little square that separated our homes from the temple we gravely dis- cussed the possibility of a Succah of our own.

"Maybe pappa would let us have one," suggested my sister Essie, doubtfully.

I laughed scornfully at the idea. "Katie wouldn't let us dirty up the backyard." Katie was our hired girl (we didn't call them maids in those days), and ruled our family with a rod of iron. She had been with us almost from the time of mother's marriage, and mother, fear- ing to lose her, humored her in every- thing. I spoke with assurance, re- membering how father had refused to buy me a puppy, declaring that he had no personal opinion in the mat- ter, but that Katie hated dogs.

"And we haven't a yard of our own, you know, 'cause we live in a flat," remarked Joey, not without pride. Flats were still a rarity in our part of the city, and all of us children envied Joey for living in a house that was all on one floor. Joey bragged continually about his home—the electric bells downstairs and the tiny mail boxes, the speaking tubes, and, above all, the mysterious being in the blue jumper he called the janitor—though once, in a mo- ment of confidence, Joey told us that he did sometimes wish for their old day night the way grandma did, or anything. She says those things were all right in the old country, where people were old fashioned, but here in America's we've got to clined to be our leader, and I hated to humor him. "It's Sunday, and there's always a lot more people in the square."

"Monday after school," agreed Joey. "That will be time enough, 'cause Mr. Davis just told us, didn't he, Succoth wouldn't begin till then. And we can eat our suppers there," he repeated jubilantly.

Miriam shook her curls doubtfully. "Not our real suppers," she qualified. "Our folks would want to know all about it, and then they'd laugh. I know my mother would."

This was a real difficulty, for none of us liked to be laughed at. Your ten-year-old is sensitive to ridicule, although, unfortunately, most adults are too stupid or too heartless to re- member it when they see an oppor- tunity to tease a helpless youngster. But my sister Essie came to the rescue. "Don't tell them," was her simple solution. "We'll just save what we can from our suppers with- out being noticed and take some- thing from the pantry afterwards, and then, instead of sitting on the front steps to tell stories like always, we'll got to the square and eat in our Succah."

"Mr. Davis said they always had wine to drink in a silver cup at his Succah," I reminded Joey. If he wanted to be leader, as usual, I de- cided he might just as well begin to worry over the difficulties at once. "What are you going to do about wine?"

Joey laughed triumphantly. (I'd like to hear his laugh again, it was so hearty.) "That's going to be easy. Mother promised me I could have a whole bottle of grape wine for our picnic on my birthday next month. So it won't be stealing to take it now. I know where it is— on the top shelf. And I'll bring my old silver mug I had when I was a baby to drink it in."

Why bore you further to tell you how we met after school on Monday, how we gathered dry branches in the square and built a rude booth in our own secluded corner? Why seek to describe our great adven- tures in securing provisions for the evening's feast—how Miriam saved all her bread and butter, and Joey brought the wine but forgot his cup, and Essie and I brought cookies and jelly and cold meat purloined from the pantry when Katie was washing backyard and the roomy garret in which we had once played Indians on rainy afternoons.

"My mother says those things are all nonsense," Miriam told us, "and she never lights the candles on Fri-be up to date. It's no use to ask her to let me have a Succah."

"Tell you what!" Joey's eyes sparkled with excitement. "You know that place in the square where we always go for our picnics Satur-there and eat in it every night the way those folks did in the Succah in the picture."

"We can't build it tomorrow," I objected, bound not to be over- enthusiastic, for Joey was too in-

LORD SWAYTHLING VISITING AMERICA

An interesting visitor to our shores at present is Lord Swaythling, who succeeded his father, the first Lord Swaythling, as lay leader of the Orthodox Jewish Community of London, England. Lord Swaythling is accompanied by his wife and son and will remain in America indefinitely.

Lord Swaythling is an older brother of Edwin Samuel Montague, Secretary of State of India.

the supper dishes? And as Mr. Davis had told us that no Succoth meal was complete without fruit, we had pooled our small savings together to purchase apples and oranges and grapes to decorate the leafy roof of Succah and the big white centerpiece Miriam had spread upon the ground to serve as our tablecloth. No, it is not worth telling, for we were only foolish children, and it all happened so long ago.

But something of our chatter as we sat about our little feast, munching our bread and fruit, taking a sip now and then from the bottle which Joey guarded so carefully. It was just the chatter of children, but even now, when I think of it, a lump fills my throat and I wonder whether Elsie and Miriam ever remember, too. I do not know, for Miriam has married and lives in another city and I seldom see her nowadays; and though I often see my sister Essie and we are still very good friends, we are no longer playmates, and there are many things I can no longer discuss with her.

It was Joey who set us all thinking—Joey who was really the most serious of the four, although he laughed oftenest and his laugh was the heartiest and freest from care. "We'll try and come here tomorrow night if we can get away without them knowing it," said Joey, and every night for a week, the way real Jews do on Succoth. But this isn't going to last forever. I wish it would."

"Oh, it has to," cried Miriam impulsively. "It's a forever Succah, and we're going to come here every night and eat and sing and tell stories."

"But when it's winter and it snows," he reminded her.

"Then we'll come back in the spring and every night all summer," she assured him hopefully.

Tuesday afternoon right after school we ran over to our little corner of the square to make all in readiness for the evening's celebration. We found our spot and stood there silent for a moment, too sick with our childish horror to speak. For the "forever Succah" had vanished.

As usual Joey spoke first, but this time in a voice that choked a little. "It's gone. I guess the park men are cleaning up for the winter and they took it off and burned it with the other old branches."

"They didn't have the right. It was ours—ours!" almost sobbed my sister. "And you said it was going to last forever!" She turned to Miriam almost accusingly. For the first time in her life Essie learned that the things we set our hearts upon do not always last.

Miriam's own eyes were wet, but she spoke with all her youthful optimism. "Never mind. When I grow up I'm going to have a big backyard and have a Succah in it every year, and you can all come to it and we can sit around and eat and tell stories and sing under the leaves—forever." (So spoke Miriam, who a few years ago married a man who was not of her people.)

Then Joey said a strange thing for a child. (Joey won a captain's commission before he fell fighting in France last year.) "Maybe when we all grow up and can do whatever we please we won't want the things we want now. I sometimes wish we didn't have to grow up," said Joey.

The Holy Days in Arverne.
 The Synagogue of the Congregation Derech Emuno in Arverne, was filled even beyond its capacity in the Eve and Day of Atonement. The services were impressively rendered by the new Cantor, Rev. Joseph Glovitch, his chanting of the "Kol Nidre" being very impressive and tuneful as well, his reading of the Mussaph and Neilah services being likewise effective and solemn. Others assisted, among them the efficient Reader, Mr. Emanuel and Mr. Brandler. The Minister, Rev. Henry S. Morais, preached both in the evening and during the Day of Atonement on fitting subjects. Dr. Morais also offered prayer for the speedy recovery of President Woodrow Wilson. Principal Friedlander and the President, Mr. Israel Unterberg, spoke briefly on the needs of the new Talmud Torah (Samuel I. Hyman) building, and of the Hebrew and Religious School, which holds sessions therein five times weekly.

The Sisterhood of this Congregation is doing effective work, and the Centre's lectures and other activities will soon be resumed for the winter season. The children of the school and others were entertained in the Sukkan, at Festival of Tabernacles.

Anti-Semitism in Hungary.

Budapest (By I. J. P. B.).—Even when no organized pogroms take place, the Jews here are forced to suffer all sorts of shameful annoyances. It is a common practice for Hungarian officers to guide Roumanian soldiers into Jewish homes and give them permission to rob and beat and arrest the Jews. Even in the courtrooms, Jews are beaten without redress, and there have been instances where the judge and the court attendants have taken a hand in the attacks. Many of the professors in the Budapest University and in the technical high schools have refused to conduct their recitations, because of the fact that Jewish students were not allowed to enter the courses.

Mt. Neboh Temple Activities.

The Religious School opened last Sunday morning with an enrollment of 480 children. Plans are being made to enlarge the facilities of the school room to take care of this largest registration in the history of the Temple. A staff of efficient teachers has been engaged with club leaders, also Post Confirmation and Alumni work.

The Sisterhood of the Temple held its first meeting on Monday afternoon since May 1. Ninety new members have joined the Sisterhood, making a total of 410 members. Dr. Jonathon P. Day, Commissioner of Public Markets, was the speaker. Mrs. David E. Goldfarb presided. A social hour followed the meeting.

Hebrew classes will be inaugurated by Rabbi Eiseman beginning Wednesday afternoon, October 22, at 4 o'clock. A Junior League will also be organized after the holidays.

About $25,000 was raised by the Temple to carry on its work during the season.

Rabbi Finkelstein to Be Installed.

NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

Fears That Palestine May Again Be Flung Into the Furnace of World Politics—Some Documents That May Become Scraps of Paper—Dr. Mark Vishnitzer Gives Another Presentation of Jewish Position in the Ukraine—Jewish Labor Leader Chosen to Welcome Great Trades Union Convention to Glasgow—Orientalists Divided on Question of Transfer of Palestine Antiquities to America and Europe.

London, Sept. 12, 1919. With an after-summer heat wave in progress, the government closely watching the annual convention of British trade unions sitting this week at Glasgow, Scotland, the vacation season drying up, and commerce and industry still an unconscionable time in waking from its war-time lethargy, it cannot be said that people generally show much interest in either domestic or foreign affairs.

Whilst the population generally is slack partly as a result of the heat and partly from a general fed-upness it is good to be able to record the permanence of the interest shown by the community over the Palestine question. As American readers are aware, there is a somewhat strained feeling in some of the chancelleries over the Syrian mandate. French views do not seem to be in quite such accord with British ideas as was at one time thought likely. It is also said that there is a strong desire existing among the "natives" for the union of Palestine with Syria under some power other than Britain.

As a matter of fact there are no end of wires being pulled all the time, but so far as the community here is concerned there is no justification for such a union and no arguments have yet been advanced for it which are at all convincing.

There appear to be four documents that deal more or less officially with these areas. The second of these is the Sykes-Picot agreement made between Britain and France in May, 1916. This leaves Palestine from the Jordan to the Mediterranean to be "international," with the interior as far as the Persian Gulf to be British, and the country to the north French. This is pretty generally the position at present, with the exception that there are minor re-adjustments arranged between the present Lord Allenby, Feisal, Sir Mark Sykes, and Lord Robert Cecil.

All the documents now appear to have been produced under war stress and to induce the Arabs to fight on the Allied side. The last document was the Anglo-French agreement of November, 1918, in which Britain and France agree to encourage native governments in Syria and Mesopotamia, and without imposition to secure normal working of such governments as the people themselves shall have adopted.

With regard to Palestine there is the famous British declaration re-affirmed only recently as an earnest of Britain's official intention to aid Jewish national strivings in respect of the National Home. One does not always know until after the event what may result from the interplay of world-politics, but it is pretty obvious to the general community here where the highest ideals of justice, honor and peace are to be satisfied.

Attention also continues to be devoted to the conditions of Jews in Eastern Europe. There is at present in England on a diplomatic mission Dr. Mark Vishnitzer, from the Ukraine. He is a man of great distinction, a profound historian, and a Jewish nationalist in complete sympathy with the Ukrainian national movement. In the Ukraine we have a case of most benevolent laws for the protection of minorities, including Jews, existing side by side with vicious and savage anti-Jewish pogroms.

To explain this inconsistency, Dr. Vishnitzer points out that the Ukraine is more or less in a state of chaos owing to repeated invasions and insurrections. The consequence is that now the country is overrun with bands of marauding soldiery who are nothing other than brigands out for loot. To these bandits the pogroms are to be attributed. A rigorous inquiry into the pogroms is being conducted and all proved pogromists will be shot, says the doctor.

On the commission of inquiry there will be, amongst other members, four Ukrainian Jews of standing and importance. They are Goldstein, head of the Kieff Zionists, Ussishkin, Dr. Jochelman, and "Achad Ha'am." Furthermore the Ukrainian government has voted the sum of 20,000,000 roubles for the relief of the victims.

Dr. Vishnitzer ridicules the idea that the Jews have anything to hope from the success of Denikin and Kolchak. Their triumph would, he declares, be followed by the worst form of reaction, but he also says that other Jews out there do not agree with this view. The great mass of the Jewish population of the Ukraine are utterly and entirely opposed to Bolshevism and do all that lies in their power to defend the country from the Bolsheviks.

Coming to more distinctively news of this country it is interesting to note that a public meeting in honor of Dr. Max Nordau's 70th birthday is to be held in London. Dr. Shmarya Levin will preside and amongst the speakers will be Israel Zangwill, Dr. Yahuda, and others. Betty Callish, announced as the well-known American actress, is to recite a poem written by Zangwill for the special occasion.

The British trade unions convention, which is held annually, is in session this week at Glasgow, Scotland. Usually the convention is welcomed to the city where it has arranged to meet by the mayor and civic authorities. This year at Glasgow the convention arrangements committee resolved not to invite the Lord Mayor of Glasgow to perform the usual ceremony. It invited instead the president of the Glasgow trades and labor council, Emmanuel Shinwell, prominent Jewish trade union leader, to do the welcoming.

Mrs. Spielman, the president of the Union of Jewish Women, is gravely concerned about the future of the untrained Jewish industrial woman. Thousands of Jewish women and girls are now being dismissed, amongst still larger numbers of similar non-Jewish female employes, in connection with the reductions of staff that are now going on all over the country in government and civilian service. Mrs. Spielman says that the Union of Jewish Women is prepared to advance funds for training, loans being granted free of interest; and if advice or information is desired the would-be worker is informed that full details, both as regards training and prospects, can be obtained at the office of the union. This help is eminently necessary at the present time.

Orientalists have been meeting in London to discuss Palestine exploration in view of the new conditions now being opened up. At one meeting Haham Dr. Gaster protested against any antiquities, now found in Palestine being removed to America or Europe. This proposal to rigorously bar all transfers divided the Orientalists very considerably.

Activities of the United Synagogue of America.

The coming season promises to be an active one for the United Synagogue of America, and at the last meeting of the Executive Council plans were laid for furthering the work. The report of the Executive Director, Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen, stated that subscriptions and donations to the funds of the organization during the summer months amounted approximately to $5,700, largely through the efforts of Rabbis Solomon Goldman, Benjamin A. Lichter, Max Drob, and Messrs. Abraham Heller and Lyon Cohen.

The following congregations have affiliated with the United Synagogue: Ahavas Chesed of Mobile, Alabama; Shomrei Amuno of Montclair, N. J.; B'nai Zion of Roseville and East Orange, N. J., and Shaarey Torah of Worcester, Mass.

At the request of the Y. M. H. A. of New England, the United Synagogue will co-operate in supplying speakers for Friday night services held under the direction of the former organization. When deemed advisable, Rabbi H. H. Rubenovitz will represent the United Synagogue in determining the character of this work.

Rabbi David M. Shohet of Congregation Beth El, Dorchester, Mass., in behalf of the United Synagogue, helped in bringing about a strong movement in Nantasket Beach, Mass., for the erection of a conservative congregation, which is to cost about $30,000. The name of the Congregation is Temple Beth El. Nantasket Beach is a summer resort on the south shore of the Massachusetts coast.

Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen visited Kansas City with a view to interest further the people of that city, with regard to the value and importance of the work of the United Synagogue. He participated in the installation of Rabbi Herman M. Cohen at the Congregation Beth Sholom and helped strengthen the Junior Synagogue, a group of more than one hundred young men and women, and brought about their affiliation with the congregation.

Rabbi Samuel M. Cohen also visited Pittsburgh and interested himself in the East End and Squirrel Hill communities. He spoke on the first day of Rosh Hashonah and Kol Nidre at the East End and on Yom Kippur at the Squirrel Hill congregation. He made an appeal for funds for building purposes and raised in the East End $25,000, and in the Squirrel Hill congregation, $15,000.

Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations Will Convene.

The Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America will launch a nation-wide spiritual reconstruction movement, according to an announcement just made by its president, Rabbi Dr. B. Drachman. Five years ago the union inaugurated the relief work for Jewish war sufferers, and it is now felt that the time has come for organizing upon a firmer basis the religious activities of American Jewry.

"With the disruption of the European Jewish communities as a result of the war," Dr. Drachman said, "the burden of preserving Judaism falls upon the 3,000,000 Jews of the United States. The union further desires to intensify the fact that the contribution of Jews to America should be of a spiritual character rather than of a physical nature. We feel that a conscientious American Jewry, in the religious sense, will make for the highest American citizenship.

"The spirit of unrest prevailing now makes it imperative for religious organizations to counteract the evil influences that are seeking to make themselves permanent, and Jews feel that the teachings of our faith should be instilled into the hearts of our people here. The message of Judaism is for the strengthening of law and order and for human brotherhood as opposed to anarchy and hatred."

With this object in view the union has called a national convention to meet in this city on November 29 next, and to last until December 2.

Jewish Children in Poland to Be Put on Ration Plan.

Distribution of clothing and shoes for the million or more destitute Jewish children in Poland must be made this winter on a "ration" plan, in order to obtain proper results, according to Dr. Boris D. Bogen. The ration per child will consist of a yard and three-quarters of heavy cotton flannel, a yard and a half of light cotton goods, one spool of thread and one pair of shoes.

Distribution, Dr. Bogen explains, will be handled by the Central Committee of Help to Children, in Warsaw, which will act with the American Relief Administration. This will mean the participation in this branch of work of the Joint Distribution Committee.

In calling attention to the small "ration" of clothing provided for, Dr. Bogen expresses the hope that after the scheme is in workable order, the quantity of goods per child will necessarily be increased.

"Before I leave Warsaw," he says, "I hope to equip 5,000 children in the Talmud Torah schools of the city with nice suits, to which they will be entitled after having taken a bath.

"I am glad of the telegram that I received to the effect that the steamer 'Thala,' carrying 2,461 boxes, or about seventy-five tons, of soap, is on its way to Danzig. This is just the stuff we need."

Mr. Max Langermann, who for a number of years took an active share in Communal and public life in the Transvaal, died last month at Johannesburg as result of an operation. He was the first President of the Witwatersrand Old Hebrew Congregation in that city and also of the Jewish Board of Deputies for the Transvaal and Natal. He was also for several years President of the Johannesburg Hebrew School. Mr. Langermann was an earnest Zionist, and subsequently became Mr. Zangwill's right-hand man in the Transvaal for the Ito. He was one of the earliest pioneers of the Rand goldfields. For his association with the Jameson Raid, he was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, a fine of £2,000, and two years' banishment. In 1904, he was elected on the Town Council of Johannesburg, and in 1907 he was nominated by Lord Selborne, then Governor-General, as a member of the Transvaal Senate.

OLD EGYPT
TURKISH CIGARETTES

"OLD EGYPT" is the newest, most original, member of the entire cigarette family.

We won't tell you all the good things about it in one advertisement. We couldn't! But here's a beginning—

It's 100% pure Turkish tobacco—it looks like, smokes like, tastes like cigarettes that cost twice as much.

But listen—at that it's got some "new curves"—its Turkish tobaccos are put together in a brand new way—you never tasted a cigarette like it at any price. And you'll like it!

And what does "OLD EGYPT" cost?

15 for 17c.

You can't buy better for 25 cents

IN MEMORIAM.

HARRIS.—In sad and loving memory of our dearly beloved son and brother, Robert Lester Harris, who passed into eternity on October 14, 1918, in France. He died as he had lived, leaving a glorious and never-to-be-forgotten name behind him. Such noble souls never die, but live on as an inspiration to the young and a loving memory to the old. The world has need of such glorious characters, but God in his wisdom has seen fit to call him early from amongst us and we, his sorrowing and heart-broken parents and brothers, can only humbly bow our heads in submission to the Divine Will.

"Often our hearts do wander,
To a grave so far away,
Where they laid our darling son and brother,
Just a year ago today."

Father, mother and brothers Bernard, Leo and Harold.

A Pleas for the Falashas.

The question of the Jews of Abyssinia, the so-called Falashas, is probably not unknown to you. Their number, formerly very large, is now reduced to about 100,000. Though isolated from the rest of the Jews and in spite of the persistent efforts of Christian missionaries, they have remained staunch adherents of Judaism and are looking to their brethren in other lands for light and leadership. They are in need of instruction in Hebrew and in the religious tenets of Judaism and they need the help of their fellow-Jews to arrange their lives in accordance with Jewish doctrine. Dr. Jacques Faitlovich, the well-known Orientalist, who for the past fifteen years has worked persistently and unselfishly for the improvement of our unfortunate brethren in Africa, and who succeeded in bringing with him three young Falasha Jews to be trained as teachers and religious guides for their people, was about to go back to Abyssinia when the war broke out and frustrated his plans. Dr. Faitlovich is at present in New York and preparing to return to Abyssinia to resume the work which was interrupted by the war.

The Falashas are now in danger of extinction, and unless the Jews of other lands take pity on these most interesting and most unfortunate members of the House of Israel, they may disappear altogether. It is therefore absolutely necessary to send them immediate help. Funds are needed to supply them with sacred literature, to establish schools and to carry to them the message of Judaism which shall inspire and fortify them in their struggle against the forces who endeavor to detach them from our faith.

We therefore appeal to you to heed the cry of these far off brethren of ours and to send your contribution toward this rescue work to either of the undersigned.

Y. M. H. A. Inaugurates Leaders' Training Course.

Under the auspices of the Metropolitan League of Y. H. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. and under the direction of Dr. Charles S. Bernheimer, a leaders course has been instituted, intended primarily for those who are available for service in Y. M. H. A. and Y. W. H. A. activities, but will be of value to all who are interested in social and club work.

There is a general course of six lectures, giving a survey of underlying principles, together with practical suggestions. There is a more specialized course for leaders of women's and girls' work and a similar course for leaders of men's and boys' work, dealing with particular problems. In addition, provision has been made for field work, giving practical demonstrations at various centers and associations.

The general course will take place at the College of the City of New York, 139th street and Convent avenue.

"The Jew in Modern Literature."

Rabbi Louis I. Newman, of the Bronx Free Synagogue, has instituted a course in "The Jew in Modern Literature" at the Community Building Auditorium, 163d street and Southern Boulevard. The lectures are given every Tuesday evening at 8:30 and will include a discussion of the Jew as subject and author of drama, poetry and fiction, in English, French, German and Spanish literature. All are welcome.

Orach Chaim Re-elects Officers.

Chicago Jews to Send Relief Ship Direct.

The Chicago Joint Relief Committee, which is a branch of the Central Relief Committee, 51 Chambers street, New York, has decided to send a ship loaded with food and clothing to the Jewish war sufferers. The ship will sail direct from Chicago harbor and will carry with it the food and clothing of which the stricken Jews across the seas stand so much in need. To this laudable purpose all the moneys pledged in the synagogues on Yom Kippur will be devoted.

The Central Relief Committee has received a report from Chicago to the effect that the contributions so far collected from the synagogue appeals amount to $150,000. It is confidently expected that when the final report is made the total will reach no less than $250,000.

German Mizrahi Again Active.

The Mizrahi Organization of Germany has now resumed its activity and is making considerable progress. The Mizrahi idea is rapidly spreading among the Orthodox Jewish youth and an organization known as the "Young Mizrahi" has been formed for the purpose of giving its members an opportunity to study the Hebrew language, Jewish history, Palestine problems, and all other subjects of Jewish interest.

At a Mizrahi conference recently held at Berlin, Prof. Herman Struck, the president of the German Mizrahi, reported on the activity of the Mizrahi Central Bureau and on the progress of the movement in Germany. The Conference decided to communicate with the other Mizrahi organizations in regard to the calling of a World Mizrahi Conference.

The Judische Presse, a weekly publication founded by Dr. H. Hildesheimer, with a wide circulation among the Orthodox Jews of Germany, has now become the official organ of the German Mizrahi Organization.

Young Palestinian Jews Hold Conference at Jerusalem.

A conference of all branches of the "Hazoir Hoarzi Israeli" or the Young Palestinian, an organization of the Jewish youth of Palestine, affiliated with the Mizrahi, has been held at Jerusalem. At this conference a definite program of the organization was elaborated and the scope of activity was outlined. The organization was defined as one, loyal to traditional and national Judaism and working for the realization of the Mizrahi Zionist program. The purpose is to unite all the young Orthodox Jews into one general organization and to improve the economic and cultural status of the young Palestinian.

EXPLANATION. Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [] is old matter to be omitted. STATE OF NEW YORK, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

ALBANY, July 1, 1919.
Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section seven of article one of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon, at the next general election to be held on the fourth day of November, nineteen hundred nineteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO, Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION IN RELATION TO THE DRAINAGE OF SWAMP OR AGRICULTURAL LANDS AND THE TAKING OF PROPERTY THEREFOR.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:
§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damages to be sustained by the opening thereof shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding shall be paid by the person to be benefited. [General] The use of property for the drainage of swamp or agricultural lands is declared to be a public use, and general laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of swamp or agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions on making [and with] just compensation, and such compensation together with the cost of such drainage may be assessed, wholly or partly against any property benefited thereby; but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO COMPENSATION OF JUDGES OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven of article six of the shall consist of the chief judge and associate judges now in office, who shall hold their offices until the expiration of the respective terms, and their successors who shall be chosen by the electors of the state. The official terms of the chief judge and associate judges shall be fourteen years from and including the first day of January next after their election. Five members of the court shall form a quorum, and the concurrence of four shall be necessary to a decision. The court shall have power to appoint and to remove its reporter, clerk and attendants.

Whenever and as often as a majority of the judges of the court of appeals shall certify to the governor that said court is unable, by reason of the accumulation of cases pending therein, to hear and dispose of the same with reasonable speed, the governor shall designate not more than four justices of the supreme court to serve as associate judges of the court of appeals. The governor so designated shall be relieved from their duties as justices of the supreme court and shall serve as associate judges of the court of appeals until the causes undeposited in said court are reduced to two hundred, when they shall return to the supreme court. The governor may designate justices of the supreme court as justices of the court of appeals except while holding the office of justice of the supreme court, and no more than seven judges shall sit in any case.

The judges of the court of appeals, including those now in office, shall receive for their services a compensation established by law which shall not be diminished during their official terms and shall not be less than the highest compensation allowed by law to any other judicial officer in the state. A justice of the supreme court while serving as associate judge of the court of appeals shall receive the same compensation as judges of the court of appeals.

30,000 Jews Massacred in the Ukraine.

Authentic reports have reached this country of a series of massacres which have raged in the Ukraine since last November, which have resulted in the slaughter of 30,000 Jews. Whole communities have been wiped out by the soldiery of General Petliura, the "anti-Bolshevist crusades," and General Grigorieff, whose officers, in many cases, were members of the "Black Hundred" which were murderous notoriety during the Czarist regime. A number of pogroms were carried out also by Bolshevik troops in spite of rigorous measures by their officers who shot down hundreds of them, according to these reports which are made by Meir Grossman, member of the Jewish National Assembly in the Ukraine, and Dr. A. Korolnik. Both of these men, who made their way to London from Kieff in order to make their report, are well-known journalists. The responsibility for the reports of this staggering crime against a helpless people is borne by the Jewish National Secretariat and by the Zionist Organization of America.

Attached to the report is a list of 38 towns in Southern Russia where these massacres occurred; 5,500 were killed at Proskurov, 2,000 were killed in Elizabetgrad. There the mob threw bombs into the cellars where whole families had taken refuge. In Zabakritch the butchery lasted two days. The Jews had locked themselves in their houses, the bahdits entered and in grim silence struck the Jews down one after the other. At Tchorkassi 800 were killed; at Litire, 400. The whole population of Bobri, an agricultural colony was exterminated, except one old woman and five children. The Jewish communities of Kublitch, Alexandrovna, Medjiboge and Radomysl were wiped out. At Habidievka all the men, 300 in number, were killed. The town of Novi-Misgovode was set afire and 200 killed; 400 were killed at Freschtine and 500 at Harssine.

The report sets forth that: at the present moment the Ukraine is divided into the following regions of power: (1) Bolsheviks hold the provinces of Kieff, Tchernigoff, parts of Podolia, Volhynia and Ekaterinoslav; (2) Denikin holds Kharkoff, Kherson, Ptava, the Crimea, and parts of the province of Ekaterinoslav; (3) between both regions Petliura (the so-called Ukrainian Directorate) occupies parts of the provinces of Podolia and Volhynia; (4) in the whole of the Ukraine region there are large robber bands of various dimensions.

"The whole period from the end of November, 1918, is filled with a series of pogroms. They were committed partly by the troops, partly by the civilian population—especially by the lower middle classes—and also by the peasants and workmen. The principal culprits were the troops of Petliura and Grigorieff, whose officers in many cases belong to the Black Hundred, as well as countless bands. The Bolshevik troops have also committed many pogroms, but their military commanders took rigorous measures against them and had many hundreds of soldiers shot who had taken part in the excesses. But the military authorities had to yield in the end to the anti-Semitic feeling to the extent of refraining from sending Jewish Commission to the front.

"Three main periods of the pogroms can be distinguished. The first period was during the victorious campaigns of Petliura against the Hetman (November, 1918, to January, 1919), which includes particularly the terrible pogroms of Zhitomir and Ovrutch. The second period was from February to April, 1919, when the Petliura troops were on the retreat before the Bolsheviks and countless bands arose. Particularly disastrous was the two days' massacre at Proskuroff (February 14-15), of which Colonel Simosenko was the organizer. It has been absolutely established and registered that 1,700 Jews were murdered on this occasion. In many cases entire families were completely wiped out. When the Central Relief Committee learned of the pogroms, it sent a commissioner with 100,000 rubles to Proskuroff to assist the survivors. But the commissioner often did not know to whom he should give the money, as there were no survivors at all. At Filtschin, near Proskuroff, 400 Jews were killed. An especially terrible affair was the holding up of a steamer on the Dnieper, in the vicinity of Menschikorie, near Kieff, when 103 Jews were seized on board and drowned. Over 60 corpses were recovered.

"The worst period has been raging since April of this year. The troops of Grigorieff, upon capturing Tscherkassi, put to death 800 persons there. Equally terrible were the excesses at Elizabetgrad, where about 2,000 were killed. At Trostienietz there was a Bolshevik garrison, and when the peasants rose against the Bolshevik authority the Christian section of the garrison went over to their side and disarmed their Jewish comrades. Thereupon all the Jewish inhabitants of the little town, down to those who were twelve years of age, were locked into a communal building and kept in prison there for two days, and after prolonged deliberations were murdered. More than 400 persons were then slain.

"The Jewish National Secretariat has drawn up an exact record of all the pogroms. From the end of November, 1918, down to May 28, 1919, pogroms and bloody excesses are recorded to have taken place in 127 places. With regard to another forty or fifty places it cannot be stated definitely what dimensions the excesses assumed, as the Secretariat is unable to get into communication with them. The total number of Jews who are said to have been killed in these pogroms is from 30,000 to 35,000. A long list of names of those murdered is in the hands of the National Secretariat.

The Horrors of Peace.

The Jewish periodicals that are now coming from Germany and Austro-Hungary contain little news of Jewish activities, of which there seem to be practically none. Their pages are practically entirely occupied with reports of oppression and persecution of Jews, by their Christian countrymen, of massacres, expulsions, robberies, of deaths from starvation and hunger and the resultant diseases, involving not thousands, or even tens of thousands, but hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of men, women and children of all ages and of both sexes and in many countries. For the atrocities perpetrated by the Germans in Belgium and France the excuse, however specious, could be made that they were committed in time of war and in an enemy country. But the horrors of which the Jews of the newly created States of Eastern Europe are the victims are being inflicted in time of peace and by their own countrymen who have been their neighbors all their lives. Nor are the perpetrators of these outrages Pagans or Mohammedans. They are all of them Christians, at least by birth, and with few exceptions, communicants in good standing of Christian churches, an anomaly for which it is hard to account.—American Israelite.

200 More Jewish Legionnaires Return From Palestine.

Two hundred American Jewish young men, many of whom were among the first to enroll in the Jewish legion and have seen active service in battle, returned to New York on the "Royal George" last Wednesday. About half of this group were New Yorkers and the others come from different cities throughout the country. The legionnaires were welcomed at the dock by representatives of the Red Mogen David and the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian and Immigrant Aid Society. Later the Red Mogen David served refreshments to those of the men who gathered in its offices.

The legionnaires told that the thirty members of the Legion who had been sentenced to prison terms for alleged mutiny had finally been freed under "suspension." These young men, they said, who wished to remain in Palestine were finding many obstacles in their way. Even the ones who had complied with the order of the British Government requiring them to furnish proof that they had business in Palestine which would keep them occupied there for a year, were now facing new objections. According to the latest orders which have been issued, the legionnaires cannot be demobilized in Palestine under the ruling that no soldiers may become demobilized in occupied territory. Therefore those who wish to remain in Palestine must stay in the army.

An interesting incident of the formal reception given Cardinal Mercier at Cardinal Gibbons' home at Baltimore, was the greeting given by Rabbi William Roseneu in Hebrew, to which, to everyone's surprise, the Belgian primate replied in the same language.—American Israelite.

We wonder whose Hebrew was the better?

Temple Judea, of Chicago, under the brilliant leadership of its energetic minister, Rabbi Rudolph I. Coffee, is flourishing. The bright little monthly, published by Rabbi Coffee in the interest of the congregation, attests this fact. Rabbi Coffee has done excellent work in his present field of usefulness, and it must be a great satisfaction to him to know that his efforts are appreciated.

We note that in a recent issue The Jewish Chronicle took occasion to deny editorially the charge leveled against it of being in the abject control of the international Zionist organization. We rejoice to know that our British contemporary, long the leader among the journals of its class throughout the world, disavows being in the grasp of the Zionist leaders. Some of the editorial utterances of The Jewish Chronicle during the past few years verged perilously near lending currency to this assertion, but we now appreciate the fact that only trop de zele in a good cause impelled our contemporary to wage its warfare in so partisan a spirit. Perhaps the repercussion from the old days when The Jewish Chronicle interpreted its mission as a communal organ to enforce complete silence on the subject of Zionism in its editorial columns may have been responsible for this.

The season of the great autumn holy days is now about concluded. We noticed this year that their observance throughout this community was more intensive and extended than, if possible, ever before. This is a healthy sign for the future of our holy religion and its professors. Judaism will be preserved among men to the uttermost days of our earth if our people be loyal to their faith and zealous in practicing its ordinances. This year, we may add, our community had especial cause to heed the call of duty through the synagogue. The world has but recently passed through a tremendous crisis, the aftermath of which is not yet run. But we may look the future in the face with hopefulness, with the confident feeling that the great problems now confronting us, whether their nature be social, economic or industrial, will be satisfactorily resolved under the guiding hand of an All-wise Providence, and that this earth of ours is still the best of possible worlds. Philosophic doubt has not been powerful enough to shatter men's fundamental belief in the validity of our faith.

We have received the financial report of the Zionist Organization of America, covering the period beginning July 14, 1918, and ending May 31, 1919, and wish to compliment the association for presenting so detailed an account of its fiscal operations to the public. Most attentively and interestedly did we peruse the several schedules of this document, especially those dealing with the Zionist publications. In the period covered by the report the Zionist publications produced a net loss of exactly $20,999.64. Each of the four great periodicals cost more to keep up than it yielded a revenue: Dos Yiddische Folk showed a net loss of $7,600.89; The Maccabean one of $5,119.81; Hatoren one of $447.37, and Young Judea one of $2,858.01. The Zionists themselves are probably well satisfied with the result, for the propaganda value of their various publications makes up the financial deficit entailed. We cannot understand, however—nor for that matter approve—the bookkeeping entry which sets forth that the excess of expenditures over the receipts in the department of education of the Zionist Organization, including the publication deficits, was charged to the Palestine Restoration Fund. We had hitherto always believed (perhaps we were mistaken) that this fund was gathered and expended for the sole and express function of restoring the Holy Land. What relation the conduct of four American Zionist publications and the administration expenses of the Zionist department of education have to restoring Eretz Yisrael, the Zionist Organization may be able to explain.

THE DUTY OF CONCILIATION.

IN these days of stress and turmoil in the field of labor, both here and abroad, it is distinctly refreshing to note the dawn of a new era in the relations of capital and labor to each other in the great clothing industry. Here in this paramount industry, which is so worthily dominated in every phase by members of our own community, a Joint Council was recently called into being and has already begun effectively to function.

The Joint Council of the clothing industry is based upon the following principles: The recognition of the right of the workers to organize themselves voluntarily along lines of their own choice; collective bargaining; the establishment of factory councils of workers' and manufacturers' representatives, possessed of equal power, to work out in conference the problems affecting their trade. This facility, then, provides for the prevention of strikes and lockouts and enables all concerned in this industry to share in the benefits of its prosperity.

It is to be observed that the plan thus briefly summarized depends for its success upon the united co-operation of employer and employee. This is no more than proper, since both have an interest in and a direct relation to the position of their industry and both are affected by shifts in the standard and the prosperity of the industry itself. Thus the plan has an ethical, even philosophical, basis, for it aims to secure the greatest happiness for the greatest number of those concerned.

If Jewish business and laboring men can thus be brought into acceptable union for their own mutual advantage, why cannot the lesson to be drawn from this spectacle be applied to similar conditions in other fields? It can, and it may well be. But it never will be successfully operated if those who affect to pose as our ethical leaders, if our ministers of religion, whoever they be, are guilty of shocking intemperance of speech in their public utterances. The duty of all men in this present hour is to bring the forces of capital and labor into accord with each other, not to rend them apart irretrievably by sensational and unprincipled appeals which are worthy of the wildest representatives of the I. W. W. The Hebrew prophets, who were God-intoxicated men, castigated conditions of their time calling for improvement in no uncertain words; they never used the language of the street or the hustings to drive home their appeal.

Whenever Rabbi Emil G. Hirsch indites an exegetical paper for the columns of The Reform Advocate, of which he is the editor, he charms us by the wealth of his learning advantageously displayed. He knows his Judaism, although he chooses to practice the faith in a regrettably diluted mockery of it. None among American Jewish pulpit-leaders is better able than he to present the truths of our religious ceremonies and their historical backgrounds with facile explications which invariably betoken real thought and ability and even a thorough application to the expoundings of orthodox masters. The pity is, as we have said, that Rabbi Hirsch keeps practice on a different page of his ledger, that he comprehends Judaism fully and acts it half-heartedly, as it were, before the world.

It now turns out that both Bela Kun and Tibor Szamuely, the former Communist leaders in Hungary, cannot be reckoned among the members of the House of Israel. The evidence presented in the case of Szamuely seems to prove that he belonged to the Christian-Socialist Party, a circumstance which gives point to the refusal of the Jewish authorities to permit his remains to be buried in ground controlled by them as a cemetery. It is more than probable, however, that Szamuely was of Jewish descent or, perhaps, a converted Jew, to judge by his name. In the case of Bela Kun the evidence of his non-Jewishness is not so irrefragable, but, at any rate, the report to which we refer may well be set against that which makes a Jew of him—for anti-Semitic purposes, of course.

We imagine that the manifesto against anti-Semitism, signed by Anatole France, of the Institute of France; Albert Thomas, the French statesman, and a large number of the representatives of science and learning among the university faculties of Paris, was quite ineffectual. In fact, documents of this kind are usually still-born. They evidence the good sentiments of their signatories, and nothing besides. Especially in the present situation of the European countries are the foregoing views valid. Germany, the original home of the cult, has returned to the task of Jew-baiting with the redoubled energy that comes of defeat on the field of battle and the evident desire to wreak its venom on a devoted and innocent victim of circumstances. In the East of Europe the conditions of life remain so chaotic as to render Jews living there peculiarly exposed to all sorts of oppressions and persecutions. The Southern and extreme Western portions of the continent seem to be free of the epidemic, because, for one reason, the number of Jews residing in these parts is scanty and the tendency toward anti-Semitic manifestations finds no proper vent. Great Britain, the traditional home of liberty, the refuge for the poor and the oppressed, may no longer be regarded as an oasis in the anti-Semitic desert. This change is due to the persistent efforts of a man like Hilaire Belloc, and he is but the individual leader of a steadily growing group.

THE HYMN OF CREATION.

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." (Gen. I, 1.)
THE Bible opens not with history, nor with science, nor yet with Law, but with Poetry. The first chapter of Genesis is a spirited Hymn of Creation. If read aright, the stir and rhythm of this poem gets into your blood, and your heart begins to sing in tune with the birth-song of things-to-be. Conceived by a lively yet powerful imagination, this poem ranges over the vast reaches of the universe while penetrating to the deep meaning of existence. It is a truly cosmic poem. Out of the silences of space you hear the whirring forth of spheres and suns, and vast worlds wheel into place to the strains of the hymning heavens. Out of inert nothingness a tremendous energy leaps forth, causing wings to flutter, plants to burgeon, manifold shapes to crawl and climb, and Life itself to struggle upward with baffling insistence. "Let there be!" and "It was so!": these are the recurrent twin refrains of our poem, imparting to it rushing cadences as of a waterfall that hurls itself over a precipice. . . .

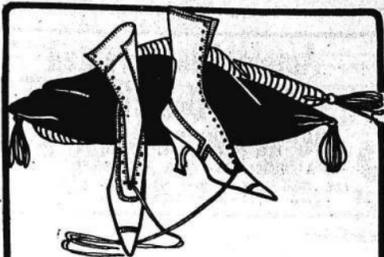

A striking quality of this ancient Semitic poem is, that one does not feel in it the throes, only the joys, of the world-birth. If creative stress there be, it is not the stress of opposition, but of the Master-spirit asserting His sovereign Will over matter. It is the stress of conscious purpose accomplishing itself through creative eagerness. Plato finds in matter a resistance to spirit; but of this resistance the Biblical poet knows nothing. Scientists of later ages have read the record of the slow, painful labor of the centuries that scarred rocks and mountains; from the stillness of extinct volcanoes they gathered the tale of the fearful convulsions that rocked the universe ere things became what they are: as a mother travails with child, so out of the pangs of the world-birth were we brought forth;—but of these bearing pains our poet knows nothing. The rabbis grasped the absence of stress in the act of creation when they said that the world was called forth by a soft breath, without effort, without a hint of fatigue. And this consummate ease of the Creator is shared by His Creation, which seems to catch from Him this happy eagerness of Becoming: there is no laborious pecking away at the cocoon to find a way out of the darkness and the silence; there is a sudden emergence of light and power and beauty, as Creation spreads forth its gaily speckled wings in one joy-intoxicated moment!

This poem was conceived by the Semitic genius long before one of its late representatives coined the phrase: "élan vital"—the life-dash. But the thought of the insistent forward leap of life is powerfully illustrated in our Hymn of Creation. Here all things throb with life. Here Life advances triumphantly. Here the chief purpose of creation is that the world dash forward to victorious life. The world was not meant to be a lifeless piece of mechanism, a gigantic demonstration of mathematical principles; it was meant to become a world of life, life manifold, life abundant. Meaningless the dynamics of the radiant system circling in bleak emptiness, but for the human mind that can grasp their secret. Cold the starlight, but for the eye which beholds it. Vain the prettiness of flowery meadows, but for the heart of beauty perceiving it. The world must find its interpreter in man, if it would make plain its meaning, its worth, its beauty. Therefore, our Hymn of Creation makes the world leap forward towards life, and life towards consciousness: consciousness that alone can transfigure mechanism into melody, the precision of a machine into the perfection and proportion of a song. When through the insistence of the Life-dash man was born, Consciousness emerged out of the creative process, and with it the mystic Fiat attained to its highest triumph. The Hymn of Creation blended into the Psalm of Life, the Psalm of Life rose into a Sabbath-song.

And the whole wondrous epic of the unfoldment of creation towards and into consciousness is unrolled before us with rapid strokes: Time is annihilated as though it were not. Not merely the circumstance but also the duration of the painful world-labor is taken up into the swift rushing cadences of this Hymn of Creation. Victorious life has nothing to do with the slow movement of time: Six stages are compressed into six days. Thus, what we lose in perspective we gain in vividness and intensity. The life-dash is described all the more graphically through this shorthand recital of the work of unconscionable aeons. The net result is that we who read this ancient Semitic poem aright, share in its author's vivid all-overpowering sense of life, its wonderfulness, its throbbing warmth, its imperishableness. . . .

However, this sense of life that impregnates our poem is not tantamount to a physical buoyancy. It is not merely the glorification of animal spirits. The dance of life, beautiful even on the animal plane, would not, if kept on this plane, move to such triumphant measures as beat through this poem. Our author's sense of life is enhanced by reason of his belief that life is divine. Herein he finds the last meaning of existence. The whole world is instinct with the Life of God. Nothing is dead. Everything is divinely alive. From Life, life proceeds to Life. And above all, human life is carried forward on the tides of God's life towards its far-off destiny; yet, though much is unknown, this is certain that in its forward journey our life must go from strength to strength; it must become surer of itself and of its purpose; it must gain in self-knowledge and self-direction; while growing increasingly conscious of the divinity which is its origin, its vital breath, its final goal.

FORMER RUMANIAN PREMIERS PROMISE MANY GOOD THINGS FOR THE JEWS.

By LEO WOLFSON.

The statements on the Jewish question in Roumania, which follow, were made to me by two of the most prominent Roumanian statesmen and leaders of the Opposition parties to the government.

The first statement is from Mr. Alexander Marghiloman, leader of the Progressive-Conservative party. Mr. Marghiloman was the Roumanian Premier at the time when Germany compelled Roumania to sign the peace of Bucharest in 1916. In the treaty there was a stipulation that the Jews should receive equal political rights. Under the leadership of Mr. Marghiloman, the Parliament adopted a naturalization law which was so bad that the Jews declined to take advantage of its so-called benefits, and refused to become naturalized under the same.

Mr. Marghiloman invited me to meet him at his home, where he received me with exceptional cordiality, and spent several hours with me. He told me the circumstances under which the Bucharest treaty was made, and also discussed his naturalization law. On the Jewish question he had this to say:

"The Jewish question is an inheritance from the past—and it is a grievous wrong. It is a very serious problem, and its solution is still more difficult because of the fact that the leaders of the Liberal Party—the government—do not treat the question honestly, and make use of insincere expedients.

"I am convinced that if the government changed hands, the question would be settled, and we should at the same time win the approbation of the outside world—which has a poor opinion of us now.

"I believe that the question could be quickly and easily solved. To that end radical measures ought to be adopted, and they ought to be carried through earnestly, honestly, and in the shortest time possible. Only thus can we win the sympathy of the great powers who are now against us. I am not of the opinion that the Jews should constitute or establish a separate national group. But in order that they may become loyal patriots—in the same sense that they are patriots in the Western European countries and in America—it is unquestionably necessary that they should be placed on the same level as the Roumanians themselves—and they must receive absolutely equal rights—without the slightest exception. Moreover, these rights must be given them without any reservations and without allowing any loopholes for withdrawing the same from them.

"How do you think the question can be settled? What form do you think the solution to take?" I asked him.

"I know," he continued, "that many will not agree with me, also that many will criticize me for my stand. I think, however, that the best means of solving the Jewish problem is through an international treaty—that is, that in the treaty which Roumania will subscribe to in Paris, there ought to be a clause requiring the settlement of the Jewish question—and which shall also prescribe how this is to be done. This means is the best because it does away with the difficulties created by the text of the constitution, and because the treaty takes precedence over the constitution. The Jews would then have to receive their rights according to the stipulations contained in the treaty—and the country would have to carry them out without any quibbling."

"The Bucharest treaty also demanded the emancipation of the Jews, and you were Premier at the time; why, then, did you not carry out these terms? And further, why did you adopt a law which was so hopelessly bad?" I asked him.

"I must admit that the law was not very satisfactory—the demands of the treaty, however, were also pernicious," he replied. "Besides you must realize that the treaty was an enforced one, and nothing which it entailed could be carried out with good grace.

"At that time, under those circumstances, that law was the best thing which the country could do. Now the circumstances are quite different. Now everyone will admit that the Jewish question must be solved, and the country is prepared to do so."

"What would you do now, if you were again called upon to take over the government of the country?" I asked him further. To my question, he replied:

"I would take the stand that the Jewish question must once for all be settled honestly and basically and without leaving any loopholes, and I should settle it after that principle in the shortest possible time."

The second statement was given to me by Mr. Take Jonescu—one of the most illustrious of the Roumanians. Mr. Jonescu has many times filled ministerial offices, and now he is the leader of the Conservative Party. He is very widely known in diplomatic circles because it was he who carried on the pro-Entente policy in Roumania during the time of the war, when Roumania was still neutral.

Among other things which we discussed, he had the following to say about the Jewish question:

"I have always been in favor of a thorough-going solution of the Jewish question. As often as I had a part in the government, I made every possible effort to do something about the Jewish question, but the conditions were never favorable. The whole country knows my attitude toward the Jewish question. In my opinion, the law decree of the present administration offers a complete solution of the problem."

I reminded him that the Jews were not of the same opinion, and pointed out many flaws in the law.

"Possibly there are certain clauses in the law which ought to be modified. In that case that should be done immediately to obviate any dissatisfaction in the matter," he replied.

Proceeding, he said: "After the law with the necessary modifications has been carried out, it is essential that efforts be instituted toward a rapprochement, a 'getting together' spirit, between the Jews and the Roumanians. This spirit will be possible, when, in addition to the equal rights which the Jews will enjoy, the Roumanian people will learn to appreciate the worth of the Jews, and will also be ready to allow the Jews to participate largely in the public life of the state itself."

"What do you mean by Jewish participation in the life of the state. How could it be brought about?" I asked him.

"First, it is necessary," he answered, "that Jews shall take an active interest in the political life of the land by joining the various political parties of the country. My own party is ready to receive Jews on an equal basis, with the same rights which all have."

"Will your party put forward Jewish candidates at the next elections to the constitutional convention parliament?" I asked.

"Certainly," he replied. "We would be glad to do so, and I am sure the other parties will do the same."

"Will they be elected? Have they any chance of election at all? Do you think that there will be Jewish members in the next Parliament?" I asked further.

"Positively," he answered. "I cannot imagine the next Parliament without Jews. In fact, I believe that there will be many Jewish representatives."

Then I put my last question to him: "If you came into power now, what would you do about the Jewish question?"

"Assuming the standpoint that the Jewish question is settled, and that it will become entirely solved through modifications in the present law decree, I would appoint capable Jews as judges, magistrates and to similar important offices. In this fashion I should work for the creation of a friendly spirit between the Jews and the Roumanians, and make the Roumanians appreciate Jewish merit and valor."

It is worth while noting that both gentlemen gave me permission to publish their opinions on the Jewish question in Roumania itself, and I did so. The ministers of the government spoke with me practically to the same effect, but they did not allow me to make public their statements. They spoke for the foreign press only.

Olga Masaryk.

Olga Masaryk, daughter of the president of the Czecho-Slovak Republic, will arrive in Pittsburgh this fall and will probably remain two months. If the Jews should show honor to any one person that person is the daughter of the man who has done more to play fair with the Jews than any of the newly created rulers of European countries since the outbreak of the war. Thomas Masaryk was the man who fought almost single handed against the iniquitous charge brought against Hilsner of ritual murder. Like Zola, in the famous Dreyfus case, this man did not hesitate to swim against the tide of racial prejudice and accuse those who were guilty of the infamy of trying to fasten on this Jew a crime unspeakable in its horror. And in doing this he stood out against a boycott that was made against him by many of his cultured countrymen as well as by large numbers of the uneducated masses.

When he was made president of the new republic there was great rejoicing among the Jews of the country because Masaryk was known by his record and he has lived up to his reputation of liberal mindedness. Of course, conditions for the Jews are not ideal by any means, for in spite of what President Masaryk can do there are outcroppings of anti-Jewish feeling that is making itself felt very keenly. There is a sharp emphasis upon nationalism which makes the Jew an outsider and this feeling is having a very unpleasant reaction on the Jew. But we cannot in the slightest degree blame the broad-minded leader of the government; he has done and is doing his best in the circumstances. He has always shown himself to be above criticism and devoid of fear or favor when principle was at stake. So we shall feel very kindly indeed toward a visit of one who is so close to the leader who has shown himself to be so much of a man.—Pittsburgh (Pa.) Jewish Criterion.

Tremont Temple Sisterhood.

Interesting was the opening meeting of the Sisterhood, held Monday afternoon, September 22, at which time the new rabbi, Dr. Marius Ranson, was introduced and made a pleasing address. The next meeting will be held in the vestry rooms, Monday afternoon, October 13, at 1.30 p. m., at which guests are welcome. The public is also cordially invited to attend the annual affair of the Sisterhood, to be held Sunday evening, October 19.

An open letter from the Polish workmen to the government has been published in the press. The letter contains ten questions to the administration to account for certain unpopular measures, among which is a reference to the Jewish situation in Poland. The government is frankly blamed for having spread false notions concerning the Jewish situation and concerning the commissions which were sent to Poland to investigate the matter.

THE HIGHEST CHOICE

Do not let it be merely a question of initial cost when you make your choice of pianos. The matchless music of the Steinway has lifted it above the "price" atmosphere for all time.

It is true, the Steinway does cost a little more. But no one who owns a Steinway has ever a shadow of regret for the price paid. It is but little higher than the cost of other pianos, and the Steinway carries within its perfect mechanism the guarantee of a satisfaction beyond all price.

For more than three score years it has been the ideal of the greatest music masters of their day. So the Steinway must command your respectful attention before your choice is made.

PAPER RIGHTS AND "LEGAL" POGRAMS IN BESSARABIA.

An interview with the Roumanian Minister for Bessarabia.
By Leo Wolfson.

The Roumanian Minister for Bessarabia, Mr. Ciugureanu, received me officially the day following my arrival in Kishineff. The audience took place in his private office at the Ministry, in the presence of his secretary and director, Mr. Pam Halipa, who introduced us.

"You doubtless wish to know what is the Jewish situation here, and what I think of the Jewish question," he broached after we had discussed several general topics. I replied that the object of my visit was to study the Jewish question and requested that he tell me what he thought of it.

"In Bessarabia, there is no Jewish question," he began. "At the time of the Russian revolution, the Jews acquired equal rights. Throughout the existence of the Bessarabian republic also they enjoyed equal rights. When we became a part of Roumania and before uniting with her we provided that Roumania should recognize the equal rights of all Bessarabians, including the Jews. As you see, the Jews have equal rights with all others, and under the circumstances, we have no Jewish question."

"In addition thereto, under the union treaty, we have guaranteed to every minority certain rights, and the Jews as a minority also enjoy the same."

"Of what do these minority rights consist?" I asked.

"We have recognized, to a certain extent, nationality rights, but only in the school question," he replied. "Let us consider the Jewish schools. Up to the time of the Russian revolution in March, 1917, no Jewish schools existed. Somewhat later, Russian schools were

"Two hundred and fifty thousand Jews may have Yiddish or Hebrew schools, but not Russian; and if they do not wish any special schools they may attend the Roumanian schools. We shall consider the Jews as Jews and not as Russians. This is not agreeable to many, and they are cavilling at it, but I believe that our attitude is the right one, and I hope that in time the Jews will see it from this standpoint."

"The second difficulty lies in the shortage of Jewish teachers and the lack of Jewish text books. We have brought here Jewish teachers from Roumania. The text-book question we shall have to leave to the Jewish educational congress when the language question shall have been settled. The indifference of the Jews to the question of the nationalizing of their schools is incomprehensible to me, and even still less can I account for their leaning toward the Russian tongue."

The Minister was kind enough to furnish me with copies of the law concerning the Jewish schools and a number of other reports and proclamations.

"And what is your opinion on the political status of the Jews?" I asked. "How many Jews hold public offices, and how many Jews will Bessarabia elect to the Roumanian Parliament?"

"There are Jews in official positions," he began, "not many to be sure, but that is not our fault. In the Town Council of Kishineff we have a Jew; there are a few others in other cities. The misfortune is that they do not know the Roumanian language, and since everything must be conducted in Roumanian they cannot fill these public offices. Just as soon as they master the language they will certainly obtain offices equally with others. Concerning the Parliament, there is the same obstacle; however, I believe that several Jews will be elected. I am, indeed, in favor of having several Jewish candidates run. I myself urged an influential Kishineff Jew to become a candidate of our party, but he declined."

In this connection I inquired whether each national minority was to be permitted to elect its own representatives. The Minister replied that this principle had not been recognized because Roumania herself had not recognized it. I then called to his attention the fact that according to their number the Jews in Kishineff alone were entitled to seven representatives in Parliament—a half of the city's representation. He admitted the truth of this, and also added that if the Jews demanded representation and put forward their candidates he would be in no way opposed to their acquiring four or five, or even all seven delegates, if only they would become "heart and soul" Roumanians and would adopt the program of his party—which is the Roumanian party.

"I should also like to suggest," he went on, "that the Jews ought more quickly to become permeated with the Roumanian spirit—it would be much better for them than if they remain our opponents or if they support the Russian party as many of them have been doing."

I drew the attention of the Minister to the too rapid "Roumanianization" work—declaring that it was practically impossible for me so suddenly to throw off their old and accustomed modes of living and the Russian culture. I contended that in due course of time, through liberal treatment and tolerance, much more could be accomplished than through compulsion; that although he spoke in such glowing terms, still the Jews have much of which to complain, especially bodily attacks and extortion of money. I cited to him several instances, and stated that such occurrences had not been common even in the worst periods in Russia, and also that such means can never win the friendship of the Jews.

He positively denied that such things were true. He contended that they were much exaggerated. "It is true that Bolsheviks are arrested—Jews and Roumanians and Russians without distinction—and if the Jews suffer thereby it is not because they are Jews, but because they are Bolsheviks or because they treat with the Bolsheviks. We are now at war with the Bolsheviks, and whoever is with them is against us, and we intend to punish Bolsheviks, whoever they may be."

I answered that it is a simple matter to make accusations against a people, especially when it is so profitable. The Minister made no reply to this remark. I realized that he was becoming annoyed at my assertions, but that did not disturb me. Continuing I advised him to make an impartial investigation, and I was sure that he would find my statements to be true.

We parted in friendly fashion—but I carried away the impression that he regretted the whole affair of having had anything to do with a Jewish journalist.

MUSIC NOTES.

Mr. Benno Moiseiwitsch, the new Russian pianist, who is coming to this country under the management of the Wolfsohn Musical Bureau, is playing a long list of engagements throughout Great Britain this Fall. He will sail for this country about November 6, and will make his American debut with the Philharmonic Orchestra, Josef Stransky, conductor, on November 20 and 21.

Miss Sophie Braslau is with the Chicago Opera Company on their preliminary tour in the Middle West and Texas, and has been engaged to sing ten special performances of "Amneris" in "Aida." Her regular concert season, which follows the close of the opera tour, will open with a song recital in Carnegie Hall on Sunday afternoon, November 9. This will be the first of seventy concerts she will sing this winter in a tour that will carry her clear across the continent.

The Music Department of the Y. M. H. A., Ninety-second street and Lexington avenue, which is under the direction of A. W. Binder, composer and conductor, announces that choral society and symphony in the department have resumed their rehearsals for the coming year. The Choral Society offers the serious vocal students experience in choir singing, which is of great necessity to the singer and also an opportunity in solo singing with chorus accompaniment.

The Symphony Club, which is one of the first non-professional orchestras in the city, also offers an opportunity to instrumentalists to utilize their abilities and develop orchestral routine.

Announcement of the opening of the music school for boys and girls, men and women, and the organization of a symphony orchestra, both under the direction of Nat W. Finston, director of the Rialto Theatre Orchestra, has been made by the Federation Settlement, 240 East One Hundred and Fifth street. Plans are being made for a series of public concerts to be given during the winter by this organization. Mr. Finston has volunteered to devote a considerable part of each week to the development of the school, and it is expected that the Federation Settlement will eventually become the music center for this section of the city.

Scholarships Awakening Interest.

Considerable interest is being awakened by Mario Salvini's generous offers of scholarships amounting to $2,000 in value, and those desirous of placing themselves under this distinguished vocal instructor should apply at once at his headquarters, the Salvini School of Singing, 206 West Seventy-first street, New York. Mr. Salvini believes that there should be a national conservatory of music in America, and this remarkable and commendable offer of scholarships is an important step in the encouraging and fostering of native talent. Many exceptionally fine voices have been tried by him of late. In reference to the contest, able and eminent musicians will decide how the awards should be made and to whom. Mr. Salvini is an Italian, but in this patriotic proposition he gives evidence of being a citizen of the United States by adoption, and in vivid imagination we hear him sing in his vibrant, yet pleasing, tenor voice "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

Committee for the Relief of Destitute Jews in Hungary.

A temporary committee consisting of H. Louis Jacobson, chairman; Moritz Neuman, Leo Orwan, Albert Hershkowitz, Abe Gottlieb, Adolph Greenbaum and Morris Engelman, secretary, has been formed to take concerted action towards alleviating the condition of their suffering brethren in Hungary by sending them food, clothing, etc. The committee has arranged for a meeting to be held at the Ohab Zedek Synagogue, 18 W. 116th street, on Sunday evening, October 19, at 8 o'clock. All societies are urged to send delegates to the meeting which will perfect a permanent organization and devise ways and means to raise necessary funds.

A. S. Schomer Completes "The Scarlet Flame."
 Abraham S. Schomer, playwright and director, has completed plans for the Schomer-Ross Producing Corporation, and is now completing his first picture under the new banner.
 The policy of the new organization will be to produce from four to six special pictures a year, each with a well known star, whose money-making possibilities have been proven. Mr. Schomer will write and direct; and he has already completed the writing and adaptation of "The Scarlet Flame," which will be the initial offering under the new organization. The leading role is to be portrayed by Emily Stevens.
 Mr. Schomer will be remembered for his plays, all of which were produced on Broadway, most notable of which were "The Yellow Passport," which caused quite a sensation in theatrical circles. "Today" afforded Emily Stevens a starring vehicle at the Lyric Theatre, and was later portrayed by Florence Reed on the screen. "The Inner Man" was presented by the Shuberts, with Wilton Lackaye in the leading role.

"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," heralded as the funniest and most daring of the A. H. Woods farce successes, is the attraction at the Bronx Opera House for the week of October 20. Against the background of a suite at a fashionable "week-end" hotel—as indicated in the zesty title—is unfolded one of those hilarious, pajama-clad, matrimonial mix-ups seemingly quite inextricable in its laughter-provoking tangles! The story tells of the escapades of a bashful young husband trying desperately to live up (or down) to a reputation of a vivid, colorful, fervid "past." There is more excitement in that single evening than in all the rest of his life, and before it is finished he concludes that Solomon and Brigham Young were mere matrimonial pikers compared with what he has let himself in for!
 Cohan & Harris' greatest melodramatic success, "Three Faces East," will be the attraction at the Bronx Opera House week of October 27.

People Stand in Line to Pay Their Pledges.
 Within an hour after the ending of Yom Kippur and all day Sunday worshippers who had pledged contributions to the Jewish War Relief Fund stood in line outside the various synagogues in Pittsburgh, Pa., to pay their pledges. $100,000 had been promised. By Sunday night $60,000 had been received in cash.
 This special appeal was the result of the work of Mr. Harris L. Selig, Executive Director of the Central Relief Committee, 51 Chambers street, New York. Mr. Selig went to Pittsburgh before Yom Kippur and arranged that appeals be made in every one of the synagogues. He remained over Yom Kippur and addressed some of the bigger congregations.

New Congregation Organized at Manhattan Beach.

A few weeks before the holidays, Rabbi J. L. Goetz was visiting a friend at Manhattan Beach, who in an off-handed manner suggested the advisability of organizing a congregation there—at least over the holidays. Rabbi Goetz looked over the situation, but outside of the support of his friend and a neighbor received very little encouragement. But he stuck to his task and interested a few who were willing to support a temporary congregation. The holiday attendance was quite large and so impressed was the congregation with the services and sermons on Rosh Hoshanah that large sums were immediately subscribed for a permanent congregation. The Yom Kippur services attracted a still larger number, and now a congregation with a nucleus of 40 members has been organized with the following officers:

Adolph Heineman, President; Louis E. Feldman, Vice-President; David Aronson, Recording Secretary; Aaron Rabinowitz, Financial Secretary, and Samuel Roseman, Treasurer. Rev. Louis J. Goetz, Rabbi.

Trustees: Jonas Friedman, chairman; Harry Krebs, David Goldenberg and Nathan Schwarzstein.

A meeting was held on Tuesday, October 14, at which a permanent Building and School Committee was appointed. In connection with the new congregation there will be a Sunday and Hebrew school. The Sunday school will open on Sunday morning, October 19, at 10 o'clock. The congregation holds its service at 175 Corbin Place, corner Oriental boulevard, Manhattan Beach.

A Ladies' Auxiliary was formed last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. Feldman. The officers and directors are: Mrs. Brody, President;

The average Jew or Jewess does not read a Jewish paper. He or she may obtain one either by subscription or from a co-religionist, but only turns to the social columns. Of course, this is gratifying since it demonstrates that Jews take a lively interest in fellow Jews, even if they do not chance to know them. But it must not be forgotten that there is specifically Jewish news of a local, national and international interest, and of such they should possess adequate information. Furthermore, a Jewish newspaper brings to the Jew a discussion of problems affecting Jewry from within and from without, and stimulates an interest in Jewish life and Jewish study. There is evidently something lacking in the Jewish home which does not receive a Jewish paper. And in order that Jewish papers be read, they must be supported not only by proxy, but the only possible way. We do not think of going without a daily paper of some sort. How can we do without a paper to furnish us with Jewish news and Jewish matter? It is unthinkable. And many drifters complain that they drift on account of interest-lack. What do they attempt to make and retain interest on their own account? Everything rests upon the individual. Let a Jewish paper be found in every Jewish home.—Rabbi Montague N. C. Cohen.

The Jew and the Jewish Paper.

Work on the concrete foundation upon which the Israel Hospital, Brooklyn, soon will be reared, is under way. The plans for the hospital have been broadened, so that the estimated cost at present is about $400,000. The rear wing is to be enlarged so that public wards may be made roomier in order to give the patients more fresh air and brighter daylight.

The suffering among the Jews in Pinsk is so horrible that it is almost beyond description. More than a third of the Jewish population is living on what is sent by the American Jewish relief agencies. Hundreds of families live in the synagogues and former institutional buildings. Without clothing, and with scarcely any food, the situation for these people is tragic. The Kehliah has gone out of existence, and there is no such thing as any Jewish public life.

Chevrá Kadisha, the Jewish Free Burial Society of San Francisco, is meeting with success in its efforts to raise funds with which to erect a suitable building on the property which it now owns in Buchanan street, near Golden Gate avenue. Among the larger subscriptions is one of $2,500 from Adolph, Max and Abraham Rosenberg.

Building Fund of $30,000 Pledged by Temple Bnai Israel of Washington Heights.

This congregation, located at 535 West 148th street, conducted Holiday service at the Floral Garden, Broadway and 146th street. Rabbi Nathan Blechman, the newly elected minister of the congregation, officiated, assisted by Cantor Joseph Shapiro.

The congregation owns a large and well located plot on 149th street, between Broadway and Riverside Drive, and in a few weeks the cornerstone will be laid for a new synagogue, Talmud Torah and Communal Center. This building will contain a synagogue, swimming pool, club and class rooms, social halls and other features.

On Kol Nidre a drive for the building fund was undertaken. Rabbi Blechman delivered a stirring appeal and was followed by Mr. Hyman J. Reit, the president of the congregation, who acted as chairman. He announced that it was necessary to raise $30,000, and called for pledges, and in a very short time 28,500 had been subscribed. At the solemn Yom Kippur service considerably more than $1,500 was pledged, bringing the total above the desired amount.

In the afternoon, before Neilah, another drive was undertaken, but this time for 100 new members. The rabbi made the appeal, and Mr. Reit explained the democratic basis of the organization of the congregation and called for names. Again the response was most gratifying, and soon 105 had signified their intention of joining as members.

Among the larger contributions are the following: Jacob Adler, $5,000; Sisterhood, $2,500; Mr. and Mrs. Lauterstein, $1,250; Mr. Geo. Fox, $1,000; Mrs. Bergoffen, $1,000; Mr. A. Lipman, $1,000; Mr. E. Goldberg, $1,000; Mr. C. Fischer, $500; Morris Levy, $500; Dave Hartman, $500 and Sam Greenfield.

A Yiddish weekly is now being published in Berlin, under the name of "Der Freitag." This is probably the first Yiddish magazine or periodical published in Germany in recent years. It is national in character and is probably supported by the large number of Russian Jews who found their way to Germany during the years of the war.

Mrs. Babette Lehman, who died on August 25, left bequests of $5,000 each to the following charitable institutions: United Hebrew Charities, Montefiore Home, Young Men's Hebrew Association, Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum, Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society, Hebrew Technical Institute, Home for Aged and Infirm Hebrews, Educational Alliance, Jewish Protective and Aid Society, Crippled Children's East Side Free School; $2,500 is left to each of the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, Beth Israel Hospital, Home for Hebrew Infants, St. Vincent's Hospital and Presbyterian Hospital, and the Mount Sinai Hospital receives $7,500.

Pure Food Purely Served.
It is "going some" to give New York a new idea in the restaurant business, but once in a while a new idea is developed and meets with deserving success when it is honorably carried out. Twelve years ago Hill and Ware, bakers, embarked in the restaurant business with the idea of serving pure food only at popular prices in well-lighted, sanitary dining rooms, and their venture was successful. Their reputation for baking good bread was sustained in the restaurant feature of their business and the public response was such that they were obliged to open several places to accommodate the people who preferred the Hill and Ware methods. Recently they opened a new establishment in the Bronx at Bergen avenue and One Hundred Forty-ninth street that is a model place and almost the last word in bakery lunchroom construction. It is perhaps the most perfectly equipped, the best day-lighted and neatest in the city. The entire building fronts on the piazzas at the junction of these streets. There is an effulgence of light covering the restaurant and penetrating the innermost spaces of their sanitary kitchen, where everything cooked must be of the best quality and as fresh as can be obtained. The service is always of a high order, politeness being a dominating characteristic of the waitresses. In addition to the nicked fixtures, tiled walls, ceiling and floor, that seem extraordinarily bright here, they have their own artificial ice plant, that supplies not only the ice for their own needs, but also furnishes the cold air for their show cases and refrigerating boxes. In this respect their new idea has broadened and they do not have to fear the ice man, nor be dependent upon him, at the same time having a perpetual ice supply that keeps the uncooked food at a normal temperature at all times.

The Hill-Ware Company conducts their establishment in such a perfect manner that they secured, unsolicited, the endorsement of Alfred W. McCann, the noted pure food expert of the New York Globe, one of the very few places in this city to be commended by such eminent authority.

They are bakers of and specialize in "Honest" whole wheat bread which they bake in its purity, no mixtures of any kind other than pure wheat being used. Of this bread Mr. McCann says: "It is the ideal loaf, the real staff of life, the soul and substance of the wheat. It is honest bread, honestly made."

All the Hill-Ware bakery-restaurants are well located and merit the patronage of all who relish pure food in sanitary surroundings. The location of these well-known restaurants are: 310 Lenox avenue, near One Hundred Twenty-fifth street; 2724 Eighth avenue, and 550 Bergen avenue.
