OHTMOBILE

By EMILERNESTINA

They were very kind people and they wanted to give us a "good time." An important constituent of this "good time" was the "ohtmobile" ride we were promised for Sunday, the day of closed shops and tired heads and vague desires. The company assembled was large enough to warrant the use of two machines, one of them coming from the Ford factory and the other of a somewhat more pretentious make (yes, those people are also beginning to sniff their noses at the American anti-Semite).

My friend, handsome and eligible, was put in between two girls, eligible and anything but handsome. The game was so transparent that even the darky of many summers winked I was invited to join the more settled crew—they that had children and grandchildren, and were the pillars supporting the community on the one hand and the synagogue on the other.

Mr. Kronick had bought his Ford a few weeks earlier, and he had not as yet acquired any too much confidence in his ability to push the car. (Unlike the girl in the other car, who could drive with one hand, pinch her cousin with the other, and talk to the man in addition. But, then, Rose and the car were brought up together.)

Kronick took charge of the wheel, pressed his foot and turned what he called the "compass." There was a noise, and then all was still. Kronick repeated the performance once, and twice, and many times, with no better success. He worked hard and grew more impatient and the sweat was gathering in buckets.

At this critical time Mrs. Kronick, from her back seat, interrupted her never-ending gab to suggest to mister just what the trouble was.

"Easy to sit there and talk," grumbled he.

"I can get this car out in a jiffy."
"We all know that. We all know that."

His dignity was hurt and he didn't want to hand over the reins to his wife. At length:

"All right. You know everything. You make it go."

They exchanged seats, and the husband started the conversation with me by remarking that he never had wanted to buy the beastly thing. "But you know how it is. Your friend's got one and your wife becomes jealous. And then she nags and nags until you have to get one, too. So there's the blooming thing, and she's welcome to it. Ain't got

The driver gave one triumphant look around, and then the car, as if waiting for just this triumph, came to a stop.

(They need such clever people there." (Mrs. Kronick to me.)
"What's the matter with that box of yours? Why, we've been over at the wheel. ("That explains the jerks," said his wife.)

In the meantime Rose and Anne were having a great pinching contest (so my friend told me later). "Kind o' slow town for a New Yorker," said Rose to start the conversation, and she pinched Anne, who giggled. The arms of the two girls almost embraced Sam and incidentally touched one another.

"Looks live enough," said Sam in a matter-of-fact way.

"That's flattery," commented Rose, as she continued pinching the giggling Anne.

"You have your 'Main street'—quite a Broadway. Shops, crowds, movies."

"Broadway!" exclaimed Anne, and she went into fits of laughter.

"Not so many lights, not quite so big, but, er"—volunteered Sam.

"I must say they teach 'em nice manners, don't they?" (Rose to Anne.)

"Your mother is just crazy about you. She's always talking about you," said Rose to Sam, apropos of nothing at all. It followed her previous remark to Anne almost without a stop.

"Lovely mother," commented Anne. "We are all just crazy about her," said Rose.

"I'm glad you like her." (Sam to both of them. He was getting bored.)

"To hear her talk one would think there never was anything like her son," said Rose to the world in general.

"A mother's exaggeration," said the modest Sam.

"That's for us to judge," giggled Anne.

"We will if he gives us the opportunity," said Rose. She pinched Anne "extra hard" and Anne shouted "Oh!" Sam was aware of the little game, but he pretended ignorance.

"There's our card party for Wednesday. We might, if he is really nice, invite him to that," continued Rose.

"I'd very much like to, but, unfortunately, I am otherwise engaged." Sam didn't have an engagement in the world. He was as free as air.

"O-o-o there! How these people get in the way. And then they blame the cars. That's too bad about Wednesday. Anne, when are you giving yours?"

"The Monday following."

more success with it than I had, eh? Always think you're so much smarter than the old man. That's a good"

The sentence was cut short by the sudden leap the "ohtmobile" made.

"That was quite a nice trip, wasn't it? Hope you enjoyed our nice city." (Mr. Kronick to me.)

"He's very clever, isn't he? You ought to take him back to New York.

half the town," Rose shouted from her car as it came swooping down.

A look, a touch from Rose was enough to send the Ford spinning. It went in jerks. Mr. Kronick was

"Invite the New Yorker for that day."

"Unfortunately"—
"Another 'unfortunately.' He evidently is a flatterer and likes us not at all."

"No, really"—
The old folks' Ford came along and eased Sam's situation.

"Having nice time?" shouted Kronick at the wheel.

"Leave it to the young fellows and girls," answered Mrs. Kronick. And she turned to me: "Quite a nice looking fellow, that Sam. And both these girls have quite a little money."

THE EVOLUTION OF THE "ANNUAL MEETING."

A changed public attitude toward organized philanthropy is revealed in the transformation of the time-honored, stereotyped "annual meeting," according to Mrs. Sidney C. Borg, prominent philanthropic worker and society leader. Mrs. Borg is chairman of the committee that is arranging for the annual meeting of the Federation for Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies at Hotel Pennsylvania on February 1, an event that promises to combine the features of a social function with those of a public welfare movement. According to Mrs. Borg, the Federation of Jewish Philanthropic Societies is following the policy initiated at the recent "charity show" at Hotel Pennsylvania, of bringing its activities to the public by every means calculated to arouse their interest. This continuous educational propaganda, it was stated, is expected to be an effective substitute for sporadic intensive "drives."

"The annual meeting" is one of the functions of organized charity which for generations has been hide-bound by tradition and custom," Mrs. Borg explained. "Once every twelve months the directors of philanthropic organizations come together, go through a routine of hearing reports and electing officers. In this manner they believe that their duty to the public is discharged. Through their annual meetings philanthropic institutions render account of their stewardship to those upon whose support they depend. But the general public, and not even that part of it which is actually interested in these organizations, has ever attended the stereotyped form of annual meeting, and has consequently remained in ignorance of the manner in which the funds it contributes for charity are being expended. Hence the 'drive' with its hectic appeal has been brought about.

"When the Federation of Jewish Philanthropic Societies decided to eliminate the 'drive' as a means of securing the funds required for support of its ninety affiliated institutions, it determined to substitute education—to keep the public continuously informed of its activities. The 'charity show' recently held at Hotel Pennsylvania with remarkable success was federation's first attempt at the philanthropic education of the people of New York. Now the revolution in annual meetings has come about.

"The federation annual meeting at Hotel Pennsylvania on February 1 represents a determined effort to bring together the men and women of New York, both those who are members of and contributors to federation and those who are not supporters of this organization, so that they may learn what is being done with the millions that are annually contributed to federation, and may understand the situation of organized charity in New York today. The situation in federation itself is so critical that we are determined to bring it definitely and fully to the public's attention through this annual meeting. We know that it is in human nature to be impatient of cut and dried reports. But there are men and women who are interested in music and social events as well as charity, others who prefer dancing and general sociability. We feel, too, that individuals who have a common interest like that of philanthropy have sufficient mutual interest to make a successful social event. We want them at this meeting. To get them there we are giving the public what it wants.

"Before Mr. Felix M. Warburg, who is president of federation, and other officers tender their reports, Miss Lenore Sparkes of the Metropolitan will sing (through the courtesy of Daniel Mayer), Miss Mana-Zucca, composer-pianist, and Sascha Jacobson, violinist, will play. These artists have all volunteered their services. There will be other interesting features on the program. The reports and addresses by Leo Arnstein, Herman W. Block, I. Edwin Goldwasser, Mrs. Alexander Kohut, Judge Irving Lehman, Leopold Plaut and Percy S. Straus, on various phases of federation activity, will each take three minutes or thereabouts. A brilliant charity ball and supper will follow the business session. Music will be furnished by the Markel's Orchestra.

"These are changing times for organized charity. New plans and conditions must be devised to meet them. The annual meeting, as we and our fathers knew it, is one of the old conditions that must be among the first to undergo re-adjustment and change."

Mrs. Borg also announced the following list of patrons and patronesses for the event: Mrs. Julian Bach, Miss Marion Beer, Mrs. Robert Binger, Miss Louise Blumenthal, Mrs. Robert Blumenthal, Mrs. Julius Bernheim, Mrs. Max J. Bernheim, Miss Alice Bernheimer, Mrs. Herbert Carlsbach, Mrs. Benedict Erstein, Mrs. Bernard F. Gimbel, Mrs. Isaac Gimbel, Mrs. I. ## Federation of Temple Sisterhoods Pleads for a Revival of Judaism.

Pleas for a revival of Judaism were made by Louis Marshall, Dr. Samuel Schulman and Mrs. Caesar Misch, at a meeting of Temple Sisterhoods and kindred organizations on Sunday evening January 23, at Temple Beth El, Seventy-sixth street and Fifth avenue, under the auspices of the Greater New York Committee on Propaganda of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods. The speakers said that this revival could only be brought about through the aid of the women, and appeal to them to set an example so that the others may follow. The women were asked to cease shopping on the Sabbath and instead spend that day at the temple and help spread the spiritual message of God.

Emphasis was laid by the speakers on the necessity for the observance of the Sabbath. Dr. Schulman declared that we cannot have a live Judaism unless we have a Jewish Sabbath. He made an appeal to the Jewish women to pledge not to show themselves in the shopping district on the Sabbath. He added that such a demonstration would surely bring the Jewish revival to a realization.

"Judaism is passing through a crisis now," he said. "We will have to have a new reform—not of Judaism, but of Jews. We must have a regeneration of our faith, and we must make Judaism a spiritual and moral power in our lives."

Mr. Marshall deplored the fact that fads and fashions took our women away from the synagogue, and hoped that the women would break away from modern frivolity and heed the call of our faith. Mrs. Misch urged the women to study religion and Jewish history, so that they can better understand the faith of our fathers. She admitted that the women were of material help to the synagogues, but she desired to see them a spiritual gain as well.

How the women were helping to bring about a Jewish revival was told by representatives of Temple Sisterhoods in Brooklyn New Jersey, Westchester, and New York. Mrs. Jeanette Brill reviewed what the women were doing in Brooklyn to make Judaism a living force in the lives of our people there. Mrs. Maurice Thorne outlined the activities of the Jewish women in New Jersey and said that once a year an annual dinner is held in which all the Sisterhoods participate and many interesting discussions and suggestions take place. Mrs. Adam Frank spoke for the Westchester Sisterhood and told of an interesting experiment tried during the past Chanukah holidays: Special literature was sent to the homes of the Jewish residents in that district, explaining the Chanukah festival and giving instructions for its observance. She said that all the Jewish families held Chanukah services in their homes, and many heads of these families admitted that they had not participated in such services since their childhood. Mrs. Abraham L. Bretzfelder and Mrs. Edward Wessel, who is a mother of a rabbi, reported for the New York Sisterhoods, and reviewed the work that they were doing in aiding to have larger attendance at the synagogues, and how they were bringing religion into the homes. Mrs. Sallie Kubie Glauber, chairman of the Greater New York Committee on Propaganda of the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, presided, and there were addresses by Mrs. William Klingenstein president of the Women's Guild of Temple Beth-El, Mr. Ludwig Vogelstein, president of Temple Beth-El, and Rabbi Jacob B. Pollak, who brought greetings from the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

A conference and round table discussion took place Monday morning at Temple Beth-El. Mrs. William Abrahams and Mrs. Isidor H. Kempner discussed "How Can Interest in the Sisterhood Be Stimulated?" Mrs. Isaac H. Meyer and Mrs. David Goldfarb, "How Can the Sisterhood Be of Assistance to the Congregation?" Mrs. Max Brandenburger and Mrs. Nathan Krass, "How Can the Religious Consciousness of Women Be Stimulated?" Mrs. Max L. Levenson, "How Can Young People Be Reached and Held So as to Make Them Zealous Participants in the Religious Life?" Mrs. Adolph Elsas and Mrs. Solomon Foster, "How Can the Home Be Religionized?" Mrs. Ephraim Frisch on "An Exhortation to Women to Take Their Place in the Modern Jewish Religious Work."

The officers of the Greater New York Committee are: Mrs. Sallie Kubie Glauber, chairman; Mrs. Max J. Brandenburger, Mrs. Adolph Elsas, Mrs. Adam Frank, and Mrs. Maurice Thorne, vice-chairmen; Mrs. Edward Wessel, secretary; Mrs. William Abrahams, Mrs. Jeanette Brill, Mrs. Ephraim Frisch, Mrs. Otto Kempner, Mrs. Max L. Levenson, Mrs. Abraham L. Bretzfelder, Mrs. Solomon Foster, Mrs. Isidor H. Kempner, Mrs. Nathan Krass, Mrs. Isaac H. Meyer and Mrs. William Klingenstein.

Larger Bronx Hospital Necessary.

That Bronx is in need of larger hospital facilities was made evident at the tenth annual meeting of Bronx Hospital on Sunday last at Temple Adath Israel, 169th street near Third avenue, when Dr. Alexander Goldman, president of the institution, announced that the hospital is daily reluctantly compelled to turn away patients. The Bronx Hospital has accommodations for one hundred patients, and owing to the fact that Bronx has only one hospital bed to every 680 of its population, as compared with Manhattan for every 280 of its residents, Dr. Goldman made a strong plea for increased support for the Bronx Hospital. The meeting was held in the synagogue just opposite the hospital, enabling the large audience present to view the institution after the presentation of reports. There were several musical numbers by Cantor S. Schlager, of Temple Emanu-El; Madam Paula Sasover and Miss Frances Sandler, daughter of Jacob Sandler, author of the famous Jewish song, "Eli Eli."

Dr. Goldman, in his report, reviewed the work of the institution for the past ten years, telling of the unselfish and zealous labors of the members of the board in their determination to build a hospital for the Bronx. During the past year he said that the hospital took care of 1,084 patients, of which number only 23 died. In appealing for support of a larger hospital, he said:

"The odd one hundred beds that we have here is merely a drop in the bucket. One who is visiting the institution daily and seeing the number of patients that are turned away due to lack of bed capacity, can only wonder how the Bronx with nearly one million population, could get along with so little hospital accommodations as it does at present. The Board of Directors feel that only now their effort, as well as the effort of the public at large, should be concentrated toward building an institution. The Bronx needs a few thousand beds, but for the benefit of the patient at large no institution could be larger than 250 or 300 beds, the only kind of an institution where the individual patient can be considered as a human being and not merely a case. And the board appeals to you to spare no effort to help them in completing this institution, to bring it to its normal size."

A message of congratulation was read from Governor Miller, in which he expressed his commendation for the splendid work that the Bronx Hospital was performing for the community. The Governor's message was contained in a letter to Dr. Goldman from Major Ranulf Compton, military secretary to the Governor.

Dr. A. Berg of Mount Sinai Hospital, chief of the hospital staff of Bronx Hospital, said that the hospital, though small in size, was equipped to handle properly and successfully any medical or surgical case. He declared that the past year's achievements in medical care rank it with the greatest hospitals of the city. He announced that its death rate was approximately two per cent., and that every one of the 550 operations performed was successful. He had so much faith in the institution, he added, that he would without any hesitancy, if he were ill, undergo an operation at the hospital.

There were also addresses by Alexander Selkin, financial secretary; Samuel Seinfeld, chairman of the Building Committee, and Rev. Hirsch Masliansky, who appealed to the audience for more ade-

Presidents' Day at the New York Section.

At the open meeting of the New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women held last week the Central Synagogue was taxed to capacity. It was presidents' day and over 200 presidents of city organizations were the honored guests of the section. Short greetings were brought by Mrs. Walter Comly, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. Fred Nathan, Mrs. Harry Lilly and Mrs. Francis Mc-Niel Bacon. Mrs. William D. Sporborg, the president of the section, presided. Mrs. Sporborg made a strong appeal for the fund for the starving children in Central and Eastern Europe of which fund Mr. Hoover is chairman. There was an immediate response and over $1,000 was collected.

Mrs. N. Taylor Phillips is the New York Section's representative on the Hoover committee, while Mrs. William Singer represents the section on the Women's Emergency Committee. Miss Erma May, the fiancée of the martyr Rabbi Bernard Cantor, made an appeal for the war and pogrom orphans which was responded to immediately by the adoption of two orphans—a donation of $200. Rabbi Nathan Krass delivered a prayer and extended a hearty greeting to those assembled. Mary Sandall, the lecturer of the afternoon, spoke on "The Great Gift."

Among the guests were: Mrs. Marcus M. Marks, Mrs. R. Percy Chittenden, Mrs. Hamilton Baker, Mrs. William H. Purdy, Mrs. Frank Bradner, Mrs. Fred Nathan, Mrs. Harry Lilly, Mrs. Dudley Van Holland, Mrs. Walter Comly, Mrs. Otto Hahn, Mrs. Cherrie Clarke, Mrs. W. H. Howard, Mrs. John H. Griesel, Mrs. Henry J. Jewish Unemployed Problems—Dr. Weizmann and Sir Alfred Mond Off to Palestine to Discuss Floating a Big Loan—Dr. Yahuda and the Arabs—Sir Herbert Samuel Wants 1,000 Immigrants for Public Works—Palestine Frontier Delimitation—Proposed Yiddish Theatre for London's West End.

Exclusive Correspondence of Hebrew Standard.
London, Dec. 31, 1920.

As your correspondent before indicated, the great wave of unemployment that is crossing this country affects a very large number of Jewish ex-service men. It is rather unsatisfactory to have to relate that an appeal made to Jewish business men to place one or more of these ex-service men in employment in their works has failed utterly, not a single reply having been received by the Rev. A. A. Green, who is chairman of the Jewish Sailors and Soldiers' Dependents Committee.

We were accustomed in past wars to always see returned soldiers flung on the streets as beggars, but we all hoped that the present war would have made a change from this bad old custom. Apparently, however, the change is not so pronounced as to be very obvious as yet. One trouble, of course, is that most of the Jewish charitable institutions, in London at least, are badly in want of funds and cannot stand any further strain upon their scanty resources.

Dr. Weizmann is on his way to Palestine. He will be accompanied by Sir Alfred Mond, a well-known Jewish political and industrial leader here, and he will confer with the High Commissioner out there upon various questions connected with the floating of a public loan for Palestinian purposes. In the meantime, Sir Herbert Samuel has cabled to London asking for a thousand immigrants to be sent out forthwith to provide labor for public works now in process of inauguration and badly wanted.

The Jerusalem correspondent of the London "Times" also cables home the following, which I give verbatim, despite the sting for somebody contained in its tale:

"At the invitation of Ragueh Bey Nashashibi, the Mayor of Jerusalem, Professor Yahuda, who recently arrived from London for a tour of Palestine, has lectured here in Arabic on Arab civilization and scientific achievements in East and West under the Caliphs of Bagdad and Cordova. He said that if the Arab nation had now the possibility of reviving their old glories it was due to the victory of the Allies. In rebuilding their civilization they should be inspired by the same spirit of tolerance which they showed at the time when they were at the acme of their civilization. Sir Herbert Samuel, in proposing a vote of thanks, assured the gathering of his best feelings towards a revival of Arab culture, and announced that it had been resolved to found a college for Arab language and science in Jerusalem. This announcement indicates the success attendant upon the efforts towards conciliation being made, and is of importance at a time when certain adverse elements are endeavoring to revive intrigues against British policy in Palestine and are contemplating the dispatch of a delegation to express their views to the British Government."

Last week the French Premier and Lord Hardinge, British Ambassador in Paris, signed the British-French convention fixing the frontiers between Syria and Palestine and governing the administration of the railways and canals in the neighborhood. Information to hand about the frontier taken from a French newspaper shows that it starts at Ras-Nakura, often referred to as the "Ladder of Tyre," a formidable promontory which formed an impassable barrier to wheeled traffic between Acre and Tyre through all the ages until General Fane's Seventh Meerut Division built a road across its face in October, 1918. From here the frontier follows the watershed between the Faran, Kurn and Kerbera Wadis on the south and the Duhleh-el-Ayon and Zerka Wadis on the north, thus leaving the famous ruins of Kalat Kurain, the Starckenburg or Montfort of the Crusades, in Palestine.

Then, turning north, the frontier follows the watershed between the Litany (Leontes) and the Jordan as far north as Metullah, the most northern Jewish colony, then turns eastward so as to include Banias (Caesarea Philippi) and its "source of the Jordan" in Palestine. The French newspaper does not indicate on which side of the new frontier will be the enormous castle of Subeibeh on the hill above Banias, but Kuneitara apparently, the outpost of human habitation overlooking the hyena haunted wastes of rock strewn Ituraa, is to be in Palestine. The boundary then passes down the Wadi Jeraba to the Sea of Galilee. Thus both sides of the Upper Jordan from Dan through Lake Huleh (Waters of Merom) and past the Jisr-Benat-Yakub (Bridge of the Daughters of Jacob) will be in Palestine. The frontier crosses the Sea of Galilee, leaving the country of the Gadarenes to France. From Semakh to the east of the outflow of the Lower Jordan from the lake it runs to the south of the Yarmuk so as to include Deraa and Bosrah in Syria. The railway down the Yarmuk from Deraa to Semakh will be managed by a joint board.

From Deraa the frontier runs to Nasib, thence to Intar and northeast to the nearest point of the Euphrates at Abu Kemal, fifty miles west of Anah; then it runs to Rumeilan Keui, so as to leave all the western Khabur to Syria and Sinjar to Mesopotamia, and thence to the nearest point of the Tigris, about seventy miles northwest of Modul. The eastern frontier of Syria runs up the Tigris as far as Jeziret-Ibn-Omar, where it joins the Turkish frontier laid down in the Treaty of Sevres.

A great non-Jewish Semitic scholar has passed away this week with the death at the age of eighty of the Rev. Dr. Robertson, Emeritus Professor of Hebrew and Semitic Languages at Glasgow University. He acquired a knowledge of Hebrew and Arabic from Hebrew rabbis and Moslem sheikhs out East. Impaired health forced him home eventually and he started his scholastic career with the Chair of Oriental Languages in Glasgow. Some of his lectures have been translated into many languages, and notably into German.

There has been for some time a lot of talk about providing the West End of London with a Yiddish theatre. The great success of Maurice Moscovitch, the Jewish actor, in English plays in the West End, has brought the matter more to the front of late, and a scheme is now declared to be fructifying to the desired end. The promoters anticipate starting in one of the early months of the new year. The prime mover on the business side is Ernest C. Rolls, the name taken by one of the three brothers Darewski here. I notified the death of their father, a famous cantor, a few weeks ago. One of the Darewskis is Herman, a well-known music publisher; another is Max Darewski, a great piano player and entertainer, while Ernest C. Rolls, the third, is a vaudeville agent and producer of wide experience.

With Rolls is associated Paul Davidson, a well known Hebrew scholar, and it is intended to get together a very high class repertoire Yiddish speaking company and to produce all sorts of plays, including Shakespeare and Shaw, besides those of Jewish writers. The first production will be Lessing's "Nathan the Wise." Interviewed on the matter, Rolls spoke as follows:

"We are going to engage a very large company, because we intend to send our plays to all large towns as soon as they have been performed in London. If we succeed as we hope, we shall play a different production each night for fifty successive evenings. Our theatre will be within a short distance of the Palace Theatre, the center of West End theatrical London. It is astonishing to find how many Jews of the community cannot even now speak or understand the English language at all perfectly. New York supports ten such theatres, and it has been made quite obvious that the project will receive whole-hearted support from those of Jewish nationality. Financial assistance is already assured."

Maurice Moscovitch expressed his conviction that the institution would be welcomed and explained that the only reason he had been obliged to decline a request to associate himself with the scheme was that he was so fully committed by his English engagements. Despite the optimistic talk of the promoters, the venture must be something of an experiment. Yiddish drama has not paid any too well in the East End in the midst of a large resident Yiddish speaking population. One house put up some years ago wholly for the production of Yiddish plays is now an ordinary motion picture theatre and attempts to run Yiddish plays at other houses have always been short lived. Furthermore, this is not a good time to start anything very fresh in the theatrical world, where the slump in things in general is already starting to make itself felt in slackened attendances and reduced receipts.

CORRESPONDENCE.

From a Jewish Chaplain.

Editor Hebrew Standard:—
Your readers may be interested to know that I have obtained a pardon in the case of Sam Goldberg (real name Sam Lutner), who a few years ago killed his wife.

It came to my knowledge that his wife was not devoted to the interest of the family. I pleaded that the good father be allowed to go home to his children, and Governor Smith, before retiring from office, granted my request. The Parole Board released him Friday, January 21, 1921, and he has promised to keep in touch with his chaplain to prove that he can make good.

Rabbi Franklin "Soaks" Us.

Editor Hebrew Standard:
My attention has been called to an editorial in your issue of January 7 in which you state that in a recent issue of the Detroit Jewish Chronicle, I unequivocally indorse the position of Dr. Stephen Wise, who is reported to have said that in his youth there were more Reform synagogues in the city of New York than there are today, and that of 50,000 families living on certain fashionable streets, not 10 per cent. belong to the Reform synagogue.

It passes my understanding how any man to whom journalistic ethics—not to say ordinary honesty—means anything, could have made such a statement. What I said was this:

"Dr. Wise has made a severe indictment of the synagogue, but the Western paper, it seems to us, has clearly indicted Dr. Wise. We are as concerned as any one can be at the fact that there are some Jews, indeed all too many of them, who stand beyond the influence of the synagogue.

But we do not believe that Dr. Wise or anybody else has the statistics available to justify him in saying that less than 10 per cent. of the Jews in any community or in any district are unaffiliated with the synagogue. In making such a statement, we fear that the learned and somewhat aggressive rabbi has not taken the pains to verify his facts. Such a statement as he made can be justified only after a careful household-census has been taken, a thing which to the best of our knowledge has not been done.

As to the rest of your editorial, I pass it without comment, since it is quite in line with your usual unfair attitude toward Reform Judaism.

LEO M. FRANKLIN.

In the Weimar Legislature a resolution was proposed by the anti-Semites not to admit into the state any foreign Jews and to expel every Jew who has arrived there since 1914. Socialist deputies protested strongly against the resolution and it was lost by a substantial majority.

Dr. Leonard A. Levy of London, Eng., has invented a new X-Ray plate which is twenty-five times faster than plates used heretofore and in addition saves patient and operator from exposure to the rays and prevents the blurring caused by long exposure, which adds to the difficulties of the diagnosis.

The anti-Semitic Warsaw "Rzeczpospolita," considered an organ of Paderewski, has just published special anti-Semitic articles and cartoons. In one of these articles Poland is warned to be on the guard against Jewish influence in the League of Nations, since their influence is fraught with danger for Poland.

The London "Sunday Pictorial" announces that Lord Reading, the new Viceroy of India, will receive the Knighthood of the Garter, the highest British decoration in the order of knighthood, as soon as a vacancy shall occur therein. A Knighthood of the Garter is usually conferred upon a victorious general or a statesman of great note.

It is reported from Salonica that the Jewish community of that city received 10,000 drachmas donated by King Constantine for the sufferers from the recent conflagration in Salonica. The money had been donated during the King's stay in Switzerland, but on account of the political situation in Greece it could not be transmitted to Salonica until now.

The total value of the estate of the late David Bloom of this city has been appraised at $275,818. Many bequests are left to New York charities, among them Beth Israel Hospital and Hebrew Free Loan Association, $3,000 each; Machzikel Torah, Daughters of Jacob, Jewish Maternity Hospital, Uptown Talmud Torah and Association Chesed Shel Emes, $1,000 each.

The twenty-five teachers instructing the youth of the Winnipeg (Canada) community in Hebrew have gone on strike, refusing to carry on with the work. One of the Hebrew schools had suspended four of their number. The suspension and the refusal of the administrators of the Hebrew schools to recognize their organization led to the trouble.

The Jewish National Council for Bukowina, formerly an Austrian province and now incorporated in Roumania, decided that Hebrew should be the language of instruction in the Jewish schools of the province rather than Yiddish as demanded by the Jewish Socialists. There is growing discontent among the Jews of Bukowina owing to the fact that the general inspector of schools places pan-German teachers as instructors in the Jewish schools.

H. S. Livingston of Cincinnati, O., has presented fourteen acres on the Little Miami River to the United Jewish Social Agencies as a memorial to his only son, the late Lieutenant Robert K. Livingston, who died during the war. Mr. Livingston has also agreed to equip the place with buildings of the army barracks type to be a shelter house for working girls who are to be summer guests of the United Jewish Social Agencies.

Prussian Minister of Education Writes Against Anti-Semitism.—The Prussian Minister of Education Henish, has published a book entitled "The State and Higher Education," in which in a separate chapter dealing with "Universities and the Jewish Problem," the minister condemns anti-Semitic propaganda now current in the German institutions of higher learning. He points out the great educational achievements of Jewish scholars in Germany and condemns very strongly the anti-Semitic excesses.

Little practical benefit is expected from the Minister's utterances. The Minister is a Socialist and the conservative organs of Germany call him an agent of the "Alliance Israelite Universelle."

Roumanian Government Orders Jews to Become Nationalists.—Klausenburg, Transylvania (Jewish News Service).—In the census of this province an order was made by the local Roumanian officials, to the effect that all Jews, whether orthodox or reformed, must state their nationality as "Jewish," "because," explains the circular, "the peace treaty recognizes Jews as a nation, and they must therefore acknowledge their nationality."

The province was formerly part of Hungary, and is now Roumanian, and the government fears that should Jews declare themselves as Hungarian, the Hungarians would form the majority of the population. Its desire to make Jews nationalists is, therefore, not wholly unselfish.

Conspiracy of City Employees and Swindlers to Terrorize Jews.

Warsaw (Jewish News Service).—The following occurred in Makov, province of Lomza, Poland.

Five strangers came into the city and told officials that they had been sent from Warsaw to investigate the "misdeeds" of the local Jewish population.

The city officials pretended to believe them and immediately promised assistance. As a first step, prominent Jewish householders were arrested. Threats were made against their release. Then other Jews were taken up, arrested and beaten and money demanded from them. But the sums demanded were so large that the poor Jews were unable to pay and became wholly desperate.

In the excitement and flurry and desire to find aid the Jews turned to the military commander, a few kilometers from the town, when a miracle happened. The commander noticed at once that the perpetrators of the outrage were a band of swindlers, and soldiers were sent to arrest them.

An investigation of the occurrence is now being conducted by the government.

Four Months Imprisonment the Penalty for Killing Jewish Woman.

Warsaw (Jewish News Service).—A trial was recently held against a Polish sergeant named Proskowski, who was indicted for the murder of a Jewish woman named Leah Warshawsky. The accused was found guilty and sentenced to but four months imprisonment.

The murder occurred on August 20 last. The woman and her daughter Miriam were riding in a wagon to Siedlce when Proskowski attacked the mother and the daughter, and finally killed the mother when she defended her daughter against being outraged by the Pole.

At the trial the accused sergeant did not deny the killing, but pleaded in extenuation of the crime the fact that he was drunk and that the woman resisted his attack. This novel plea won the court, which then sentenced him to four months imprisonment.

The murdered woman was the mother of six children.

Jewish Theatres in Soviet Russia.

Warsaw (special cable to I. J. P. B.).—Esther Rachel Kaminsky, the well known Jewish actress who has recently arrived here from Soviet Russia, told representatives of the Jewish press about Jewish plays and players in Bolshevik Russia.

All of Gordin's plays have been prohibited by the government except "Mirele Efröse" and "God, Man and Devil." "Without a Home" was prohibited as "trash." The plays of Ibsen, Andrejev, Fula and Perez Hirschbein are most popular. The Hebrew stage "Ha-Bimah" is making wonderful progress. Lunatcharsky, the Commissary for Art and Literature, is taking a personal interest in all artists and is greatly interested in the Jewish theatre. He has helped Miss Kaminsky in many ways.

Jewish-Polish Understanding Near?

Warsaw (Jewish News Service).—Dr. Herman Diamond, a Jewish-Polish Socialist member of the Polish Diet, in an address made before the Chamber of Commerce in Lemberg, discussed the Jewish situation in Poland. He stated that anti-Semitism prevailed only in former Russian Poland and not in the rest of the country. He also expressed his conviction that the government and saner politicians would soon be working on an understanding between Jews and Poles. "National rights for Jews," declared the speaker, "were not really needed by the Jews; the principal thing is to get political rights rather than national."

New Anti-Semitic Comic Journal.

Berlin (Jewish News Service).—A comic weekly with the object of anti-Semitic propaganda has just been started by the well-known anti-Semite Kuntze.

At the time of the Kapp rebellion Kuntz made a name for himself by distributing clubs to his adherents for the purpose of starting a little "pogrom." He failed, owing to the energetic action of the Berlin workers' organization.

Churchill's Appointment as Colonial Secretary Brings Fear to "Jewish World."

London (Jewish News Service).—"Jewish World" fears that the appointment of Winston Churchill to the office of Colonial Secretary will leave the administration of colonies, including Palestine, in hands unfriendly to Jews.

Your correspondent assures you that the alarm is unjustified, as Winston Churchill has recently manifested friendliness for Zionism.

The members of the family who joined in the celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Erdman, Miss Ritta Erdman, Miss Ruth Erdman, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Erdman, Miss Jane Erdman, Miss Carrie Joseph, Mrs. Ida Davidsohn, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowenthal and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Joseph and Miss Natalie Joseph of Des Moines, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Dana Foley of Framingham, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Joseph of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph were married in London fifty years ago. Several months after their marriage they emigrated to America where Mr. Joseph engaged in the jewelry business in St. Louis, Nashville and New York. He was for eighteen years connected with Blumenthal Brothers, and is now retired.

Rabbi Silverman Retired.

At a special meeting of the members of Temple Emanu-El held on Monday evening, January 17, the request of Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman, rabbi of the congregation for the past thirty-three years, to be retired was granted, and the congregation voted to make him rabbi emeritus for life, with an annual pension of $12,000.

The resolution accepting Rabbi Silverman's resignation was as follows:

"In yielding to the explicit wish of Dr. Silverman to resign his active duties as rabbi of this congregation, the Board of Trustees, speaking for each member as an individual and for the congregation as a whole, takes this opportunity to give expression to the esteem, admiration and veneration entertained for him as a man, as a citizen, as a rabbi, preacher and teacher in Israel; to the gratitude felt for his many exhibitions of kindness, sympathy and affection on occasions of joy and in days of sorrow; to its recognition of his zealous and untiring devotion to duty; and to its appreciation of his enduring friendship, his ready responsiveness to opportunities of bringing help and comfort to those in need of them, and the effectiveness with which he has represented the congregation in its relation to the public.

"We extend to him our warmest wishes for the future. May it be given him to reap signal honor in the domain of literature and in those communal activities to which he now proposes to devote that learning, wisdom and experience which he has garnered through the years."

Dr. Magnes to Present Plan for Jewish Youth Education.

A plan for Jewish youth education will be presented by Dr. Judah L. Magnes to the Inner Council of the League of the Jewish Youth of America at its meeting on Sunday evening, January 30, at the Jewish Center, 131 West Eighty-sixth street.

The Inner Council will be the guests of the West Side Galil, the most recently organized district of the League of the Jewish Youth, which now has Galils in practically every section of the city. The Inner Council is composed of the representative personalities who are active workers in the league and are endeavoring to study the problems of Jewish youth education and are preparing to serve in the great task of bringing Jewish educational influences to the large mass of the Jewish youth.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

There is a crisis in the Jewish theatre. No great actors have come to us during this season. Kessler is dead, Adler is old and Tomaschewsky decaying. The last named has not played for many years a creative part. Of the younger stars, Celia Adler has gone to Philadelphia, Ben-Ami is on the English stage and Zatz has lost himself in some comical parts which neither give him nor can give him an opportunity for the display of his talent.

All these losses might perhaps be compensated by the genius of Schildkraut, who was with us during this season. But even he took ill and cannot appear now.

There are, therefore, neither Jewish actors nor Jewish plays. There was really no play during this season which should be of any, not to say the slightest, importance. All were cheap melodramas, light comedies and second-hand productions.

It is a sad state of affairs and tedious are the performances of the Jewish theatre.

Manager M. H. Hanson announces for the evening of Monday, February 7, at 8.15, a concert by the National Symphony Orchestra, which will be conducted by the great master conductor, William Mengelberg. This concert will not only be given at popular prices, but Mr. Hanson has arranged it for a Monday evening, so that the thousands who will not go to a concert on Friday evening will have an opportunity of hearing how this great orchestra sounds under the leadership of our great co-religionist, Willem Mengelberg.

But, besides the orchestra and its conductor, there will appear one of the most popular pianists of the day, Mme. Yolanda Mero, the brilliant Hungarian pianist, who will play with the orchestra's accompaniment two great Liszt compositions, the concerto in A major and the Hungarian Fantasy. A small portion of each of these numbers will be played by the Artrio-Angelus, the sensational new producing piano; the artist will simply lift her hands and the piano will go on playing thirty or forty bars, reproducing Mme. Mero's playing. Besides these two piano numbers, Mr. Mengelberg will on this occasion play the Tannhauser Overture, which will give us an example of his famous Wagner readings, famous all over Europe, but especially in Amsterdam and Frankfurt-on-Main. He will further play Beethoven's Leonore Overture, No. 3, and in response to numerous requests, Liszt's "Les Preludes"—altogether an extraordinary program.

In "Wake Up, Jonathan!" at the Henry Miller Theatre, Mrs. Fiske has what has been termed the best vehicle of her distinguished career. This is high praise when this brilliant actress' successes are recalled in "Tess," "Becky Sharp," "The New York Idea," "Salvation Nell" and other plays. Sam H. Harris is offering Mrs. Fiske in her latest play, which is the work of Hatcher Hughes and Elmer L. Rice, and which was produced under the direction of Harrison Grey Fiske. Matinees are given on Thursday and Saturday.

If there are such things as lucky stars, then there must be one of those stellar lights that shines with particular radiance for Grant Mitchell. After a long string of successes, including "It Pays to Advertise," "A Prince There Was" and "A Tailor-Made Man," Mr. Mitchell has returned to New York in another big hit. This is "The Champion" at the Longacre Theatre, which has played to capacity audiences since its opening three weeks ago. Its authors call it a farcical comedy, but it would have caused just as much laughter if produced under any other designation. Sam H. Harris is offering Mr. Mitchell in "The Champion," matinees of which are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Those theatrical wiseacres who predicted that "Welcome, Stranger," would run a year in New York have every reason to believe that their forecast will be justified. This Aaron Hoffman comedy, which Sam H. Harris is offering at the COHAN and HARRIS Theatre, with George Sidney in the leading role, has reached its twentieth week, with the demand to see it taxing the capacity of the theatre at every performance. Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

For his second recital program at Aeolian Hall on February 1 Guido Agosti, the Italian pianist, will offer Beethoven, Chopin, Debussy, Busoni and Liszt. The young pianist will also play two of his own compositions.

At the close of her operatic season with the Metropolitan Opera, Miss Mabel Garrison will resume her concert work. The distinguished American soprano announces a recital at Carnegie Hall on February 12.

Benno Moiseiwitsch, now touring the West, is to give another piano recital in Carnegie Hall on Washington's birthday. Later in the season he and his wife, professionally known as Daisy Kennedy, the violinist, are to be heard in a sonata recital.

The Wagenhals and Kemper production of "Spanish Love" at Maxine Elliott's theatre, New York, passed its 200th performance this week. By doing so this American version of the popular continental play on which "Spanish Love" is founded now ranks second only to the engagement of the play in Paris for length of continuous run. Of course, in its native Spain, "Spanish Love" has been presented more than 2,000 times and has now become an institution of the Spanish theatre. The matinee last Wednesday was the largest popular priced matinee ever given at Maxine Elliott's Theatre since it was built, and the play has long since broken all records of the house for receipts.

What gives every indication of being an event of unusual interest to playgoers will be the presentation by William A. Brady at the Bronx Opera House the week commencing Monday, January 31, of "Opportunity," Owen Davis' highly successful melodrama of marriage, morals and money, which thrilled New York playgoers for many months at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre.

For Mr. Davis' engrossing melodrama Mr. Brady provides an admirable cast. Headed by James Crane are a group of players whose names give immediate assurance of an excellent performance. In addition to Mr. Crane, whose brilliant performance in "Opportunity" adds another to a long list of successful stage portraits, the cast includes Dorothy Bernard, Leonard Willey, Clifford Dempsey, Eveta Knudsen, Leeward Meeker, Norah Sprague, Winifred Lawshe, Ann Eggleston, Della Evans, Ada Howell, Florence Barry, Ulric Collins, Richard Clark, Clarence Rockefeller, Clifford Worman, G. A. Stryker, Helen Morgan and Horace Weston.

Frances Starr in "One" will be at the Bronx Opera House week February 7.

CHILDREN'S PAGE

IN HONOR OF THE LORD

DEAR CHILDREN:

Every nation in the world, no matter how savage it may be, acknowledges some supreme power, which it worships, in one manner or another. But this worship is merely an incident in their lives. Israel, however, is entirely holy unto the Lord. The Holy One, blessed be He, the Torah and Israel are one, united in a bond that will never be broken, and for that reason we should not be surprised to find an Israelite vowing his entire life away in honor of the Lord. This spirit of sacrifice, demonstrating, as it does, Israel's unquenchable love for his Father in heaven, had to be kept in check, and the Torah regulated it in the following manner:

"And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel and say unto them, If a man make a particular vow to give the estimated value of persons in honor of the Lord, beerkeha nefashoth." Rashi translates it "the estimated value of his very life, that part of his body upon which his life depends." If the estimated value concerns a male from twenty years old and unto sixty years old, then shall the estimation be fifty shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary. This estimate does not depend upon the value of the person, but whether the value of the person is high or low; the estimate is according to his years.

"And if the person be from five years old." That does not mean that a child may make a vow, for the vow of a child is not considered, but it means, if an adult says, "I vow to give the estimated value of this child." And if the person be from six years old upward, if it be a male, then shall the estimation be fifteen shekels and for the female ten shekels.

"When a person becomes old the value of a woman is nearer to that of a man, hence the man loses in value to less than a third of his original estimate, while the woman loses in value to one-third (her original estimate was thirty shekels), for it is a common saying: "An old man in the house is like a snare the house; an old woman in the house is like a treasure in the house and good luck in the house. "But if he be too poor for this estimation," he cannot afford to give that estimated amount, "then shall he present himself before the priest," the person that was estimated shall stand before the priest and the priest shall value him according to the ability to pay of him that hath vowed; according to his possessions shall he arrange with him, and leave him enough to live on—a bed, a pillow and a blanket, also tools; if he was a transporter of burdens, he should leave him his beast of burdens.

"And if it be a beast, whereof men can bring an offering unto the Lord, all that man giveth of such unto the Lord shall be holy." If he said "I vow the foot of this animal as a burnt offering, his words are bona fide, and the animal should be sold for the purpose of a burnt offering and the money received in payment may be used for ordinary purposes excepting the money for that limb. "He shall not alter it nor change it a good for a bad one," a perfect one for a defective one, or a bad for a good one, and especially good for good and bad for bad. "And if it be any unclean beast." This refers to one having some defect, which is unclean as a sacrifice. And the Torah teaches us that holy offerings that are perfect cannot become profane by redemption unless they are stunned. "As the priest valueth it, so shall it be," for any one else who comes to buy it at the sale of holy things that are redeemed. "And if he will redeem it." The Torah is more severe with its owner who redeems it in making him add a fifth part of its estimated value. The same is the case with one who sanctifies his house or his fields, or with one who redeems his second tithes—the owners must add one-fifth, but not any one else.

"And if a man sanctify some part of a field of his possession unto the Lord, then shall the estimation be in proportion to its required seed," not according to its value, whether it be a good field or a bad field, the redemption of its sanctified portion are equal, "beth coor" of barley at fifty shekels. This is a decree of the Torah, and that is if he came to redeem it at the beginning of the jubilee year, but if he came to redeem it in the middle of the years of jubilee he should give, according to this calculation a shekel and a "pundion" for each year, because it is sanctified only according to the years of the jubilee. If it was redeemed it is well, and if not the treasurer sells it for this price to another, and it remains in the possession of the purchaser until the jubilee year, like all other fields that are sold, and when it leaves his possession it reverts to the priests of that "mishmar" (who officiate at that time) when the jubilee year occurs, and it is divided among them. This is the ordinance concerning one who sanctifies the field, I will now explain it in the order of the scriptural passages:

"If immediately after the year of the jubilee he sanctify his field." If when the jubilee year has passed he immediately sanctified it and one came immediately to redeem it, "according to this estimation shall it stand." He shall give fifty shekels. "But if after the jubilee he sanctify his field," likewise if he sanctified from the jubilee year and it remained in the hands of the treasurer, he then comes to redeem it after the jubilee year, then shall the priest reckon unto him the money in proportion to the years that remain "according to the calculation" as follows: The estimated price for forty-nine years is fifty shekels; that equals one shekel per year, plus one shekel for all the years. Now a shekel contains forty-eight "pundion," that equals a shekel and "pundion" for each year. But there is one "pundion" short for all the years, and our rabbins have said that this "pundion" is the exchange, and the one who redeems shall give a shekel and a "pundion" for each of the remaining years until the jubilee year, "and it shall be deducted from the estimation"—the number of years from the year of the jubilee until the year of the redemption. To this reckoning a fifth must be added by the one who sanctified it if he redeem it. If he does not redeem it and the treasurer sold it to another, it cannot be redeemed any more to revert to the one who sanctified it, but the field, when it is freed in the jubilee, shall be holy unto the Lord, to be divided among the priests.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mr. M. A. Hartogensis of No. 100 West Eighty-eighth street is enjoying a sojourn at Palm Beach, Fla.

The various organizations affiliated with the Central Synagogue will hold their annual dinner at the Hotel Astor on Saturday evening, February 5.

The grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor never held a larger throng than that which gathered last Sunday night to participate in the annual ball given in aid of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob. A concert preceded the ball.

Mrs. Robert Weil has announced the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy Piza, to Mr. Jesse Siegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Siegel of 884 West End avenue, and will tender a reception in honor of the event at her residence, No. 736 West End avenue, on Sunday afternoon, January 30.

Mrs. S. I. Hyman of No. 981 Park avenue, accompanied by her son George and daughter Norma, and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kornfeld and daughter Muriel of No. 114 East Seventy-first street, will leave next week for a tour of Palestine and the Orient. They will remain abroad for about six months.

A monster entertainment and ball was given by the Day Nursery Daughters of Israel on Sunday evening last at the Central Opera House, East Sixty-seventh street. There was a large attendance and the fund used to maintain the institution at No. 220 East Fifth street will be greatly augmented as a result.

A ball will be held at Hotel Astor on Sunday evening, January 30, by the Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Blaustein, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vogel, Mr. and Mrs. Gruber and Mr. and Mrs. G. Bader.

First Annual Hurwitz Memorial Lecture.

On January 30, 1921, Dr. Solomon Solis Cohen of Philadelphia, one of the well-known figures in American Jewry, will deliver the first annual lecture, known as "the Hurwitz Memorial Lecture," under the joint auspices of the Hurwitz Education League and the Harlem Forum. His topic will be "The Necessity for Union Among the Forces of Religious Conservation in Judaism." Cantor Joseph Rosenblatt will chant the Hazkara. Other soloists on the program are Blanche Susskind, pianist, and Mme. Hubbell, lyric soprano. The lecture is to be delivered in the auditorium of Wadleigh High School, New York City.

The Hurwitz Educational League was formed after the passing away of the late Dr. Solomon T. H. Hurwitz, in order to disseminate the ideals for which the latter spent a lifetime. Dr. Hurwitz, after teaching Arabic, Syriac and Hebrew at Columbia University, gave his efforts to the cause of Jewish education by founding the first Jewish high school in America and also the Jewish Forum. He was also chairman of the Committee on Lectures of the Harlem Forum from its inception.

James de Rothschild, a son of Baron Edmond de Rothschild of Paris, who did so much for the modern Jewish colonies in the Holy Land, is completing a brief visit to this country, and the local Zionists, on whose business he adventured hither, feted him in honor of his father and the name he bears.

Chief Rabbi Isaac Alaklay of Serbia, who visited this country during the war, has left Belgrade en route to America, and, as the news agencies announce, "on official business connected with the Serbian Government." But Dame Rumor whispers that the "official business" is to accept a call from the Shearith Israel (Spanish and Portuguese) Congregation of this city, as successor to Rabbi H. Pereira Mendes.

As was to be expected, in his latest volume, "The New Jerusalem," Gilbert K. Chesterton deals with Palestine and the Jews. G. K. C. is in favor, of course, of a Christian hegemony over Palestine, with separate cantons there and elsewhere for the Jews. In brief, he would revive the ghetto of the middle ages for Jewry throughout the world and thus preserve those within the fold of Christendom from the "contaminating" influence of the "terrible" international Jew. Mr. Chesterton is an "artist" in words, and his preciosity is not likely to make any impression—let alone a deep one—on a universe in which the Jew has secured for himself a distinct place.

At a recent session of the Jewish Board of Deputies of London a member animadverted the inattention to their communal duties of Jewish Members of Parliament, in consequence of which legislation inimical to the best interests of Anglo-Jewry was suffered to go by default on the British statute book. We have no means of judging of the correctness of these strictures. But the episode gives point to a moral for us on this side of the Atlantic. In the next Congress there will be a minyan of Jewish members, a larger number than ever heretofore. In Congress measures are debated which are of vital concern to the community. We hope the Jewish Congressmen will be different from the Jewish Members of Parliament.

We are not surprised at the rumor that the bill to prohibit immigration to this country for one year, which is now before the Senate, having been hurried through the House of Representatives, will probably not be concurred in by the latter body at the National Capitol. The evidence offered the Senate committee, to which we have already referred at length, was so cogent and convincing in support of the claim that the bill is needless—in fact, dangerously mischievous—that no other conclusion than that no alien "flood" impends could have been reached. We are glad, if the rumor judges authoritatively of the Senate's final action, that the traditional American principle of the inviolability of the right of asylum will have been once more gloriously vindicated.

Rabbi Leo M. Franklin, whom we recently cited as a witness in behalf of the sorry state of Reform Judaism in this city; wishes to retract his testimony. We must have misquoted him, the president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, he tells us, for he could never have supported Dr. Stephen S. Wise in the latter's assertion that Reform Judaism has greatly lost ground in this city. The learned head of the "annual picnic" indulges in what is properly described as a quibble. Until a house-to-house canvass of Jews and their religious affiliations has been completed for this city, none, by his newest decision, may venture to posit that New York is any other than a stronghold of Reform, a tower of strength in support of the leaders of "American" Judaism. The Reform leaders, including the president of the "annual picnic," would have it so for reasons of their own, doubtless, and we must acquiesce in their ukase. Well, their "writ" does not run so far, and Rabbi Franklin cannot compel us to accept his quibbles except as such.

Correspondents and subscribers are notified that matter intended for the current issue of the HEBREW STANDARD must reach our office not later than Tuesday, 10 A. M. This rule will be strictly adhered to.

THE SPARGO PROTEST

WIDE publicity has rightly been given to the brief but wholly adequate memorial against the organized campaign of anti-Semitism in America for which John Spargo, the gifted thinker and valued writer, is wholly responsible and which was signed exclusively by citizens of Gentile origin and Christian faith. The fact just adverted to sets this document apart from any and all others of a similar nature produced here or elsewhere in the past. Jewry had nothing whatever to do with the Spargo protest; not a single signatory has any direct or indirect affiliations with our community. Thus the memorial stands as a non-Jewish expression of regret and contempt over the miserable propaganda with which the "flivver king" of Detroit is so ignobly associated, and once more the warfare with which his foolish vanity is conjoined receives the impartial and unqualified disapproval of the best minds of our land.

The memorial in directness of expression leaves nothing to be desired. But a mere statement of dissent from the present anti-Semitic campaign, signed by the same leading Americans of the Christian faith, would have sufficed. That such a ringing denunciation of the fell attempt to set Americans of one faith against those of another was possible and actually achieved here, and now gives stern and abiding hope that the virus of Jew-baiting in America has been successfully counteracted and, what is of equal importance, in accordance with the great and undying traditions of our country.

We hope the ignorant Michigan mechanic will comprehend the significance of the Spargo paper. Perhaps his neighbor, the Episcopal bishop of the State in which he dwells, who is a signatory thereof, will interpret its meaning to his clouded mind. For one thing, he has no longer any excuse not to realize that what President Wilson, ex-President Taft and the galaxy of leaders of American thought and public opinion condemn is, indeed, beneath the consideration of honest and decent men. If Jews had told him as much he might not have been affected. But when non-Jews, as lovers of truth and justice, take up the cudgels even his weakness must see the light.

One way to answer the "arguments" of the minions of Henry Ford is to refute and confound them. Another "way" is pursued by the Providence Tribune, which, in a recent editorial leader, judicially summed up the pleas of the Protocols and then calmly admitted that Jews are Bolsheviks, exploiters of labor, and more to like effect. In brief, such a pitifully weak "defense" of Jewry is worse than a direct attack upon us; the latter, at all events, can be honestly met.

What is the thought behind two recent articles in The Press of Cornwall-on-Hudson, the burden of which was that the west shore of the Hudson from Haverstraw to Newburgh is about to experience a tremendous "boom" in real estate values and that those who may be held responsible therefor are the far-sighted, persistent, ambitious and successful Jews?—Is he who sponsored the articles really impressed with the practical wisdom of the Jewish people? Or is he desirous of executing a coup to enhance his own material possessions? For there may be some ignorant persons who would sell their holdings at a sacrifice out of fear of a Jewish "invasion," and the non-Jewish operator in question would not be averse to "picking up" a number of choice morsels for next to nothing.

An association calling itself the Witness Committee and hailing from Pittsburgh sponsors an advertisement, broadly circulated, the purport of which is to announce that it is high time that the passage of a twentieth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, to declare this to be a Christian country, should be effected. Doubtless the association in question has abundant funds at its disposal and, equally doubtless, "vast" numbers of people exist in this land who accept this agitation at its face value, not because they are real Christians, but because they are prejudiced against non-Christians. But the preponderating majority of Americans of all creeds will be made disgusted by such silly propaganda. The work of these agitators thus recoils on them, and the only pity is that the moneys of the gullible and biased provide them with fat jobs.

Some one possessed of the requisite patience and a statistical turn of mind ought to keep a record of the gifts of various kinds which are "showered" on Rabbi Alexander Lyons of Brooklyn throughout a given year. The inquiry is not so difficult as might at first blush appear, for the rabbi publishes monthly "a missionary of character to promote . . . courage, co-operation and cheer," called The Supplement, in which every gift to him is faithfully chronicled and quite extensively commented on. Take the issue for January. During December the rabbi was unfortunately attacked by the grippe, but, fortunately, one of his good friends came to his rescue and presented him with a bottle of "stuff." From the description supplied by the owner, editor and publisher of The Supplement the contents of the bottle were contraband; that is, they came within the inhibition of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States. But the rabbi recovered from the grippe and the bottle is empty! December was a full month (no pun intended) for the rabbi. One of his "parishioners" sent him a Chanukah turkey on Christmas. He saved his conscience by remarking that the bird was kosher, and ate it. Finally, a Christian lady of his acquaintance sent him "a delightful remembrance." Over this dispensation the veil of secrecy is drawn. At all events the recording devil notes down three gifts to Rabbi Alexander Lyons during December, 1920: A "bottle," a "bird" and a "remembrance." Me hayil el-hayil!

THE POWER OF SYMPATHY.

"And Jethro rejoiced for all the goodness which the Lord had done to Israel."

WAS this a genuine, unmixed joy? Was there no alloy of sadness over the fall of the Egyptians to disturb Jethro's emotions of rejoicing? The rabbis, you will remember, express a not unjustified scepticism on this point. After all, if by marriage connexion he was nearer to Moses, by sympathy, it is thought, he stood nearer to Pharaoh. Accordingly the ancient teachers, punning on the Hebrew word that stands for "he rejoiced," say that Jethro feel pins and needles in his flesh—their way of expressing the idea that beneath his outward joy over Israel's triumph there lay the deeper grief at the fall of Egypt. Will you say that this is a rather uncharitable view to take of a man who like Jethro came to offer not only words of congratulation but also helpful suggestion and active co-operation? But then is it not human to expect that the feelings of a man pulled in opposite directions by contrary sympathies should be rather mingled, perhaps self-contradictory, swaying from pole to pole?

However, the doubt concerning Jethro's real state of mind must give way to a much larger issue. To what extent can any man share another man's joy or sorrow? To what depth can he penetrate the feelings of another? We talk a little too glibly of sympathy, meaning thereby a feeble, sentimental reaction in our own breast to another man's woe: for it is usually only in connection with calamity that we think of sympathy. This fact in itself condemns sympathy as a weakness of our nature that makes itself felt each time the contemplation of alien misfortune arouses in us the fear that a like fate might befall ourselves. Sympathy thus understood is a species of inverted self-pity. In its original meaning, however, as fellow-feeling, that is to say, a complete sharing of a fellow-man's vital soul-experiences, the word sympathy applies to occasions of both gladness and sadness. Nay, nothing proves the insecure foundation upon which sympathy rests as much as this peculiar circumstances that we are more able to share another man's grief than his glee. It is hardly true that the world laughs with us while we always weep alone: it seems to me that the tendency is the other way: we are lonelier in our joys than in our sorrows; for our sorrows touch the world at least into some kind of feeble sympathy, while our joys often stir it to jealousy and envy. While we weep the world is willing enough to recognise that all human tears have a common origin and fountain, and pitying itself it pities us; but once we begin to laugh, it does not believe that the gold of our smiles is mined from the same shaft and minted in the same common human treasury—it must be counterfeit, and, anyhow, it is nobody's concern. Thus, in contemplating another man's good fortune it is seldom if ever that the "pins-and-needles" mentioned by the rabbis should not enter our flesh, causing sensations that alter considerably the pleasure we profess to share with him.

Sympathy is a complete identification of one man's life with another's; and if such identification were really possible, there would be no difference in the common attitude towards alien sorrows and towards alien joys; moreover, sympathy would then not spell moral weakness but moral heroism. As it is, the skepticism intimated by the rabbis as to Jethro applies to the entire matter of community of feeling among men. It seems that the writer in the Proverbs plumbed the depths of the human soul when he said: "The heart knoweth its own bitterness, and with his joy no stranger doth intermeddle."

In both our joys and sorrows we are essentially alone. No one can share even a toothache with us, let alone a deeper soul-searing agony. No two laughs are alike. Men are worlds apart, necessarily so. 'Tis said to be the soul's greatest tragedy, this crowded loneliness of lives passed together at unspannable distances. Yet, this very loneliness has been the greatest power for good in the world. For in order to break through this loneliness, and make themselves understood, men have desperately tried to shout across the dividing gulf: and, occasionally, the shout was so loud, so intense with hope and despair, that an echo of one life actually reached other lives, and the result was a book, a picture, a religion. Listen to Moses, David and Isaiah still shouting at us from their respective mountain-tops! Lonelier souls there never have been than this band of inspired shouters; yet their loneliness, through the effort to end it, made possible, paradoxically, the associated life of man.

And in the common life, too, we have one power that to a very large extent diminishes the distance between various lives. It is the grace of imagination. Imagination, understood as a second sight, as the invisible eye of love looking at invisible things with surpassing clarity, divining where it cannot know, visioning where it cannot see, fathoming where it cannot penetrate, and building a golden bridge from soul to soul across the yawning chasm of associated loneliness. Yet, not even all the magic of imagination, all its healing, soothing and corrective power, can entirely cure man's essential loneliness. But this, too, has its compensation, since it makes for the integrity of the life, for the wholeness of the soul within. Within the soul there are regions over which it holds absolute sway, into which no stranger dares to trespass.

Does this integrity compensate for our solitude, our isolation? Frankly, it does not. There are times, when we crave a fellowship that shall give us a complete vicariousness, a total sharing of our most individual experiences. Even the burden of joy is at times too much when of necessity borne alone. Life is at times too full for the mortal bosom to sustain its pressure. But at these times we must learn that human fellowship cannot solve our difficulty. We must have recourse to such times to infinite fellowship in God. He alone can shoulder our burden. He alone can bear and forebear. He alone can care and share. He alone knows the salt of our tears, and the gold of our shortlived smiles.

JOEL BLAU.

MRS. ANITTA MULLER, A VIENNESE MARVEL.

By L. SCHALIT,
Our Special Viennese Correspondent.

Mrs. Anitta Muller, one of the leading spirits and the most conspicuous woman leader of Vienna's Jewry and truly one of the most gifted organizers and one of the most conspicuous persons of Vienna and Austria in general, has been good enough to grant your correspondent an interview. Mrs. Anitta Muller's personality, brimful of energy and strength, leaves a very strong impression on one's mind. She is of imposing appearance, golden-haired, and a spirit of sincerity and confidence emanates from her that seems capable of breaking down any obstacles, be they ever so difficult; a spirit of beautiful energy rarely met in this city of hunger and pessimism, where hundreds of thousands of people are driven desperate day by day. At the same time, this woman, a tower of strength, has a pure Jewish heart. She comes from a well-to-do Jewish bourgeois family and was brought up much in the same way as most Jewish girls here of the so-called "better classes." But, in spite of her youth, at the outbreak of the war the spirit seized her, the holy spirit to help her brethren and sisters. She is gifted with magnetic powers and thus also thousands of assimilationist Jews and Jewesses trusted her implicitly, made large donations for her relief drives and the assimilationist daily, "Neue Freie Presse," the paper that had never allowed Dr. Herzl to mention the word "Zionism," although he was one of its ablest editors, opened its columns to Anitta Muller. When after the breakdown of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy the Jewish Nationalists rallied their forces, founded the Jewish National Council and began organizing the work on behalf of the Jewish fugitives, Anitta Muller, who had already played a most active role as organizer and helper, worked for Zionism. And in the last election campaign, in which Robert Stricker failed to be returned, chiefly owing to the machinations of the assimilationist Jews, Anitta Muller, who was put up as second candidate for the Austrian National Assembly, in spite of her tremendous social work found time to appear on the political platform in mass meetings night after night and speak on behalf of the Jewish Nationalists. She is an excellent speaker, whose sincere words never remain without the right appeal and go to everybody's heart. So popular a figure and so much recognized is she in Vienna that some anti-Zionist dailies, among them the previously mentioned "Neue Freie Presse," recommended her to their readers as member of Parliament to represent the women of Austria. Some dailies published her photograph. It is not too much to say that she is blessed by thousands of Jews and Jewesses for the splendid work she has done.

From my conversation with Anitta Muller as correspondent of the Hebrew Standard I shall endeavor to describe the nature of her work. I should like to point out that already during the first year of the war she took a leading hand in the circle of women who half played with the idea of doing beneficial actions. She was surrounded not only by a sea of selfishness, meanness, envy and hatred, but also by the cruelty and horror produced by the war. Soon she found out that the poor methods of conventional help and the assistance by the government were insufficient. So she went her own way. Suddenly the Viennese read of new institutes which took care of the fugitives who had fled to Vienna in enormous numbers; of a home for women to be confined, who, helpless and without a roof over their heads, were looking forward with anxiety and horror to their hours of trial; of a home for young mothers; of a babies' home, where not only the poor new-born little beings were looked after in a loving spirit, but also the necessary instructions were given to their ignorant mothers. One great work was followed by another—the kindergarten for little ones who had nobody to mind them, the home of rest for weak and reconvalescent children, the large tea and soup kitchen, which was the result of the scarcity of foodstuffs and increasing prices; the work school (Arbeitschule), which saved women from laziness and instructed them to do profitable work; the Boys and Girls' Home, the Home for Working Women—it was just as if they grew out of the ground by sorcery, one after the other, just as dire necessity demanded them, as the terrible need and want of hundreds of thousands of homeless people demanded them. Anitta Muller saw her surroundings suffer and her big heart, full of active pity and the highest ethical social service, felt with them all and drove her to help them. And, strange to say, though scarcity set in everywhere, when this woman wanted it everything was at her disposal—foodstuffs and clothes, localities and premises, doctors, nurses and all the necessary implements, technical apparatus, medicines, etc. So great was her influence on public life and so great was the trust of people to her unremitting zeal for social work.

I should like to point out the following data and figures: Within three years of war 3,259 fugitive women were helped by her lying-in hospital institutions; the Mothers and Babies' Home supplied 1-377 persons regularly with milk, foodstuffs, clothes and linen during the most difficult period of the war; another great achievement is the Orphans' Home and the soup kitchens for demobilized soldiers and fugitives. Two buildings were acquired for those purposes.

Anitta Muller, who had a youth full of sunshine, also wants to see other children bright and happy. Her children's homes are full of bright pictures and the little ones are singing merry songs. She has paid out wages to hundreds of working women for refined luxuries which she did not know could be resold, only to save those women from starvation. However, she is not the woman to be satisfied with what she has achieved and put her hands in her lap. Her activity of the last two years overshadows in importance all her preceding work. It is to be thanked to her great efforts that 12,000 Jewish children have been sent for recuperation to Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Italy, Croatia (Jugoslavia), Germany, Czechoslovakia and England, where they pick up wonderfully and from where they return in excellent health and high spirits. Your correspondent witnessed the other day a transport of several hundred Jewish children being sent off to the railway station for Holland. It included tiny children of even four years of age. The capital order of those youngsters, enthusiastic and expectant, marching two and two to the trains ready for them, the spirit of organization that had seized them all, the splendid discipline of the crowd under the supervision of only a few nurses and doctors were a real sight. And I need not describe the immense delight of parents, children and relations, the pathetic scenes when the old ones and youthful emigrants meet again on their return at the railway station.

Of the two buildings Anitta Muller has acquired for her purposes one is entirely devoted to Jewish children. It is to be thanked to the help from abroad, to the kindness of Jewish donors (including the American Joint Distribution Committee at Vienna) that she could carry out her great work. In that house there is a children's clinic where children of every age receive medical help and treatment; furthermore, it includes a home for children from their first to their sixth years who are not yet protected by school; also large rooms where the children are fed; and the best part of the large garden serves for the purpose of the children's reconvalescent home, which is also placed in that house. But to my idea the most splendid feature remains the excursions of the Jewish children to foreign countries. One must take into consideration the dreadful poverty of the Jewish masses here. The little ones have no food, no linen, no clothes. They see nothing but want and gloom, not a ray of light or beauty. Then they are sent abroad and they are received into the families of Jewish patriots. For the first time they see the beauties of a real home, they get an opportunity of bodily culture. At Vienna their little souls have gone hungry just as their stomachs have. And so they recuperate also mentally. But you must not think that to make all the necessary arrangements for having transported 12,000 children abroad is easy work. If the least little thing goes wrong or is not done methodically and in order a whole "expedition" may be upset. But it never is, and this wonderful achievement in a most complicated business is to be thanked to the genius of that woman, to her unexampled organizing spirit and ability, who knows everything, orders everything, knows exactly where to place her assistants, is obeyed by everybody; in short, unites all the threads of that most complicated machinery in her hands—like a great field marshal. One of the great secrets of her success is that she makes everybody follow her unselfishly, but she sets to everybody the most brilliant example of unselfish activity. A prominent Zionist with whom I spoke the other day expressed the opinion that she was the greatest Jewish organizer since Herzl.

It is this gift which has influenced Jews abroad to assist her actions, when she lectured, especially in Holland, and showed them many pictures of the distress going on in Vienna, pictures which she has collected during many years' experience. International Jewry has done very much indeed for the Vienna children, and once more our brethren in America must be mentioned. A leading author has called her significantly "the conscience of Western Jewry." Anitta Muller as a lecturer has been admired everywhere. She is always brilliant, full of ready wit and a strong advocate of the women's movement. And she has also spoken against the atrocities of the war on every possible occasion.

Her appearance at the Carlsbad Hilfskonferenz will be remembered by all concerned. There she spoke in a memorable way for the relief actions on behalf of the children. She was invited to take the lead of the section for children and youths' protection of the Wellhilfszentrale at London. She promised to accept this difficult and tremendous task. I hardly need point out that her going to London would mean an irretrievable loss for the Vienna Jews. She will have to reduce her work here and place it on such a basis as to secure its duration without her. However, many who know her well doubt whether she will be able to tear herself away from the work to which she has devoted so much love and strength. Still, it is to be hoped in the general interest that this woman, fit for the aid work of the London Zentrale as scarcely anybody else, will be gained for it.

I should not conclude without mentioning the appeal she has addressed to the Jewish families of Vienna to receive into their midst the many forlorn orphans of the pogroms during and after the war, to give them a roof over their heads and grant them a home—a beautiful task for Jewish fathers and mothers. Most of all she turns and appeals to our American brethren. A far-reaching action of adopting Jewish pogrom orphans (there are 500,000 victims only of the Ukrainian pogroms) is to be inaugurated in North and South America and South Africa. London is to become some sort of social clearing house in this connection and there Anitta Muller's chief work would be concentrated. She feels sure she will not appeal in vain to the noble instincts of the American Jews who have done such immense work for aid and charity during and after the war.

Mary Zinn Home Overcrowded.
The imperative need for adequate care of cardiac children and research into cure of heart diseases was emphasized at the annual meeting of the Mary Zinn Home for Convalescent Children held at the Harmonie Club, when it was reported that the Home was filled to its capacity and that its waiting list exceeded its capacity. Arthur and Martin Zinn, who established and endowed the Home at White Plains a year ago in memory of their mother, were hosts at the dinner that preceded the meeting. Mrs. Benedict Erstein, president of the Home, reported that forty-two girls and boys from ten to sixteen years were now filling the Home to capacity.
The Mary Zinn Home is located on extensive, beautiful grounds at White Plains, in a large, remodeled country mansion. It contains all modern apparatus and equipment for the treatment and care of cardiac cases. The Home has its own farm and schoolhouse. Dr. Charles Gilmore Kerley, chairman of the Medical Board; Dr. Murray H. Bass and Dr. Herman Schwarz spoke on the possibilities and achievements of the Home in research and treatment. Dr. Kerley stated that the outstanding achievement of the Home had been in the setting of standards for similar activity by other institutions and in calling attention to the need for special care of cardiac children.

The following officers were elected: Mrs. Benedict Erstein, president; Mrs. Arthur Zinn, vice-president; Mrs. Richard Lewisohn, secretary, and Mrs. Gustav M. Thurnauer, treasurer. The members of the Advisory Board are: Mrs. Samuel H. Bijur, Mrs. Myron I. Borg, Mrs. I. Edwin Goldwasser, Mrs. Edwin A. Gruntal, Mrs. Joseph Lillenthal, Mrs. Arthur Miller, Mrs. Fred M. Stein, Mrs. Joseph H. Wise and Mrs. Martin Zinn.

People's Relief Committee to Collect Clothing for Destitute Europeans.
Two hundred and fifty thousand destitute Jews of Eastern Europe will no longer go in tatters if the campaign of the Jewish People's Relief Committee beginning February 1 for $2,000,000 worth of new and second hand clothes is brought to a successful conclusion.

The campaign, preliminary preparations for which were practically complete today, is expected to surpass in results previous drives of the relief organizations which had successfully exerted its efforts in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and Minneapolis. From the New York district alone (Baltimore and Buffalo are included in the present drive areas) at least a million garments, it is estimated, will be collected for shipment to the stricken Jews of Poland, Russia, the Ukraine, Latvia and other Baltic and Eastern European countries.

Unless present plans are changed, a month of campaigning will be devoted thus: Two weeks for the collection of clothing; one week to obtain foodstuffs, medicines, etc.; one week for the receipt of book. The foodstuffs are especially intended for 300,000 school children, left orphans as a result of four years of war and years of persecution and exile.

The first collection of clothes, it is announced, will be made February 6, preparations for which are complete. The city has been divided in five principal sections, the Bronx, Williamsburg, Brownsville, Harlem and downtown New York. Auxiliary headquarters have been established in Borough Park, Coney Island, Rockaway, Washington Heights, the West Side, Harlem and Bath Beach.

Third Annual Conference of Zionist Society of Engineers and Agriculturists.

The third annual conference of the Zionist Society of Engineers and Agriculturists was held Saturday evening and Sunday, January 22 and 23, at the Engineering Societies building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street, New York city.

The opening session was addressed, among others, by Judge Mack, president of the Zionist Organization of America; Professor Charles Fineman, who has recently served on Poale Zion Palestine Commission; Gedaliah Publick and by Dr. Shmarya Levine. Major James de Rothschild, who was also present, received an ovation which lasted over ten minutes. He expressed the opinion that the necessity for thorough work in Palestine would be appreciated by the Jewish engineers and would be crowned with great success.

The main feature at this conference was a proposal by the Executive Board to establish an engineering and construction corporation for Palestine, with a capitalization of $1,000,000. The plan is based on two main principles: 1. A sound, efficient business method. 2. To eliminate the evils of excessive profit-seeking.

The Zionist Society of Engineers was organized at the Baltimore convention of the Zionist Organization of America for the purpose of utilizing the knowledge and experience of the American Jewish engineers and agriculturists for the up-building of Palestine, and the society now consists of six chapters, in New York city, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Detroit and Washington, D. C., and has a total membership of 400.

Day Nursery Honors Its Late Founder. On Sunday afternoon, January 16, 1921, at 2 p. m., the Hebrew Day Nursery of New York tendered a public memorial at the main building, 262 Henry street, New York city, in honor of the memory of the late Rosa Kahn, one of its founders and for fifteen years vice-president and director thereof. The members of the family, relatives and friends, members and officers of the Hebrew Day Nursery and many notable men and women of this community crowded the institution to do homage to the memory of the deceased one.

The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. Anna Stern. A group of children, orphans, most of them sheltered and supported by the nursery, chanted a memorial and Rabbi Kaplan then addressed the assembly and in a glowing speech eulogized the late Rosa Kahn and showed how she worked not alone for the parentless children, but as well for the helpless aged and infirm men and women harbored in the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, of which she was likewise one of the founders and a lifelong director.

Mr. Harry Fischel and Rabbi Herbert S. Goldstein also extolled the virtues of Mrs. Kahn.

The meeting and memorial were ended by speeches of members who recalled various acts and deeds of Mrs. Kahn in and about the nursery, presiding at meetings, etc., and then by donations to the nursery in memory of Mrs. Rosa Kahn, whose name will shortly be engraved upon a memorial tablet. The following resolution was unanimously passed by the directors of the institution:

RESOLUTIONS.
KAHN. — At a Directors' meeting of the HEBREW DAY NURSERY OF NEW YORK, held on December 28, 1920, the following resolution was made and unanimously carried: "That this meeting of the Board of Directors of the Hebrew Day Nursery of New York express its profound grief and sorrow for the loss of the late

MRS. ROSE KAHN
With her death the Nursery is the poorer of an indefatigable co-worker. The loss of her services is irreparable. From the day of its foundation to the day of her death, a period of fifteen years, she labored zealously for the welfare of the poor orphans, and only when her health commenced to fail did she reluctantly relinquish her honorable post as First Vice-President. While her merciful heart, her tender nature and her human kindness made her contribute freely, she also devoted a great deal of her time and energy, and her wise counsel helped in the growth of the Nursery and in its present enlargement of the branch Nursery. May her dear soul rest in peace."

It was also passed that this resolution should be engrossed in the form of an album and be presented to the children of the late Mrs. Rose Kahn; in token of the esteem and respect of the Board of Directors, have for their late beloved mother, at a memorial service which should be held at the Nursery.

DORA SILBERBLATT, President.
WOLF METCHIK, Secretary.

Lithuania Not Anti-Semitic, Says Official Paper.

Kovno (Jewish News Service).—"Let-uba," the official organ of the Lithuanian government, replying to the accusation contained in the Jewish press of Kovno that anti-Semitism is spreading in Lithuania, states that Lithuanian anti-Semitism is not a product of real life in that country. "It would be erroneous," says the newspaper, "to make a distinction between Jews and Gentiles in Lithuania. All are working together for the good of the country. The decision of the Jews of Vilna not to participate in so-called elections to the Polish Diet shows clearly that Jews are good citizens. There is no such thing as a psychological or social anti-Semitism in Lithuania, and any talk of anti-Semitism in Lithuania in the Jewish press is pernicious."

Testimonial to Mrs. Emil Klein.
At the last open meeting of the New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women the president, Mrs. William D. Spurborg, spoke of the loyal and efficient services of Mrs. Emil Klein, who has served the section as treasurer for ten years. Mrs. Klein has given this service as a volunteer. Mrs. Spurborg stated that not alone did Mrs. Klein attend to the routine work, but whenever there were balances, which are usually small, she invested them to very good advantage, thus increasing the funds. Mrs. Klein was presented with a handsome silver service as a personal tribute of appreciation by the Board of Directors of the New York Section in grateful acknowledgment of her efficient and invaluable services as treasurer.

BROOKLYN NOTES.
Abraham Jalkoff Dead.
Abraham Jalkoff, 39 years old, of 351 Eastern Parkway, died last week following an operation in Mount Sinai Hospital. He was born in Elizabethgrad, Russia, and had lived fourteen years in Brooklyn. He was a director and third vice-president of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities, a director of the Hebrew Educational Society and was a member of the Social Committee of the Unity Club of Brooklyn.
Mr. Jalkoff leaves his wife Mollie and three daughters, Miriam, Selma and Frances.
United Israel-Zion Hospital.
The annual meeting of the United Israel-Zion Hospital was held last Sunday evening at the Borough Park Y. M. H. A., Forty-ninth street and Fourteenth avenue. Reports were made showing the progress of the new hospital building now being erected. Newman Dube was re-elected as president, and the other officers were re-elected as follows: Gustave S. Roth, first vice-president; Jacob Neinken, second vice-president; Philip Cedar, third vice-president; Nathan Schoenfeld, treasurer; Abraham J. Herrick, recording secretary; Hyman Meyerson, financial secretary, and Boris Fingerhood, executive director.
A concert followed the business meeting.

Cantor Rosenblatt at Gates of Prayer Synagogue.
Congregation Gates of Prayer, Summer avenue corner Van Buren street, Brooklyn, presented a remarkable appearance last Sabbath, January 22. The synagogue was crowded as it never was before. This was due to the presence of the renowned cantor, Josef Rosenblatt, who rendered the services with the assistance of Mr. Wohl's well-trained choir. It was a real Shabbas Shirah for those who had the good fortune to attend. It is to be hoped that the famous cantor will be heard there again in the near future, so as to give an opportunity to the hundreds who were turned away for lack of room to enjoy his melodious rendition of the service.

Brooklyn Jewish Center.
The Hebrew school of the Center held examinations in all the classes during the past week, and Sunday morning at 10 o'clock a public exhibition of the work achieved during the past term will be held.
The Friday night lecture course opened last Friday evening in a most successful and enthusiastic fashion. Every seat in the large auditorium and all standing room was occupied and hundreds were refused admission. The whole congregation joined in the singing of the Zmiroth and the lecture touched upon the importance of these gatherings in the life of the community.
The adult classes in Hebrew and Jewish history are making continued progress and more than seventy-five men and women have now registered for the various courses.

East New York Dispensary.
The officers and directors of the East New York Dispensary at 131 Watkins st., last week tendered a dinner in honor of the medical staff of the dispensary at the Willoughby Mansion. This dinner is being given every year in appreciation of the noble work of the staff of leading physicians who are devoting much of their time and energy to assist the poor and sick of the East New York and Brownsville section of the borough. The members of the dinner committee were Mr. Henry Seinfeld, chairman; Mr. Morris Bloom, Mr. Moses Bernstein, Mr. Alfred W. Novak and Mr. Morris Sapir.

The East New York Dispensary recently held its annual meeting, at which reports on the past activities were presented by the president, Mr. Simon H. Kugel, and the honorary secretary, Mr. Henry Seinfeld. The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: Simon H. Kugel, president; Morris Bloom and Jacob Goell, vice-presidents; Henry Seinfeld, honorary secretary; Sol Leibovitz, treasurer, and the following directors: Joseph Aaron, Moses Bernstein, Morris Bloom, William Brandt, Julius Oehlman, Charles Duneiff, Moses Ginsberg, Jacob Goell, Sol Glickman, J. Halperin, Nathan Kovensky, S. H. Kugel, Sol Leibovitz, Isaac Levingson, Dr. I. H. Levinthal, A. W. Novek, Ph. Palovsky, David Prensky, William B. Roth, Samuel Rottenberg, Nathan Reznikoff, Morris Sapir, Henry Seinfeld, Sam Seideman, Herman Triebitz, Morris Weinberg, Dr. Simon Shapiro, Abraham Kaplan, Samuel Sasulsky, David Shapiro.

Geismar Again Heads Federation.
The annual meeting of the Federation of Brooklyn Jewish Charities was held last Tuesday night at the Unity Club. Nathan S. Jonas, the founder, resigned as secretary and declined a renomination. Magistrate Alexander H. Geismar was re-elected president. Other officers chosen were: First vice-president, Samuel Rottenberg; second vice-president, Simon F. Rothschild; third vice-president, Abraham Jalkoff; treasurer, Elias Reiss; honorary secretary, Walter N. Rothschild; associate honorary secretary, Philip H. Leifert; executive director, Max Abeaman.
President Geismar in his annual report said:

"In the present year (1920) our total receipts from all sources amount to the very noteworthy sum of $449,154, which is a substantial increase and by quite a respectable sum the largest yearly income which our federation in all its history has been able to collect. Another most gratifying feature of our this year's collection appears in the fact that we have realized $374,740 from our annual subscribers, the total number of whom has been increased from 7,626 in 1919 to 8,765 for the year 1920.
"Commensurate with our increase of income is the increase in the number of our constituent affiliated societies. As originally organized, our Federation, composed of only seven, has now developed to the point of including twenty-four of the Jewish charity associations of the borough. This means practically that every important Jewish society of Brooklyn, with the exception of but a very few, is a member of the Federation. The principal exception is the Brooklyn Hebrew Home and Hospital for the Aged and Infirm, which, while not affiliated, nevertheless recognizes the value and the friendship of Federation, and to which we have promised a donation for 1921 of $3,000. During the past year we have accepted as new members the First Hebrew Day Nursery of Williamsburg, the Brooklyn Hebrew Free Loan Association and the Bath Beach Hebrew Free Loan Association. Our budget for the coming year of 1921, as adopted and approved by the Board of Directors, now includes more than thirty distributees, and in addition we have donated $5,000 to the Hoover campaign for the benefit

Faiths to Unite in Charity Work.
 A co-operative conference of far-reaching scope, embracing the work of the charitable institutions of the city, took place last week in the office of Commissioner Bird S. Coler of the Department of Public Welfare. It was attended by representatives of all creeds doing charity work in the city—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—to the end that the private and public charities of the greater city might co-operate on their common problems in a still more efficient manner. The committee appointed to co-operate with the Department of Public Welfare is the outgrowth of a successful conference held at the Hotel Pennsylvania last September. As a result of the conference attention was focused on the need of a body of public spirited citizens who represented the institutional activities of the city who would co-operate with the department to bring about a better understanding of the problems of all those interested in child care in the city.
 Representing the Jewish faith were Mrs. Sidney C. Borg of the Jewish Big Sisters and vice-president of the Jewish Federation; Arthur Lehman, first vice-president of the Jewish Federation; Dr. I. Edwin Goldwasser, formerly director of the Jewish Federation; Alexander H. Geismar, president of the Brooklyn Jewish Federation; Louis L. Firuski, president of the Brooklyn Hebrew Orphan Asylum, and Max Abelman, executive director of the Brooklyn Jewish Federation.

Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A.
 The associate members will hold a rally on Sunday, January 30, at 8.30 p. m. in the auditorium. Mr. M. B. Rhine will announce the semi-finals of the debating tournament. Admission will be free to associate members and refreshments will be served.
 The discussion on "Welcome Stranger" was well attended and enjoyed by all present. On Friday night, January 28, there will be a discussion on another successful play which was given this season, "The Unwritten Chapter." The public is invited to take part in this interesting discussion, which will be held in the Heinsheimer parlors. A brief service at 9.30 o'clock will be held after the discussion.
 Another interesting health talk will be given in the library on Sunday, January 30, at 4.30 p. m. on "Tuberculosis," by Dr. Martin. The health talks given in the Y. M. H. A. on Sunday afternoons are extremely successful.
 Registration for the evening school is proceeding very favorably for the second term, which will begin February 7. A number of excellent courses will be given and a large attendance is expected.

Histadruth Haibrith to Institute Hebrew Courses.
 The Histadruth Haibrith announces the establishment of courses in Hebrew under the direction of the well-known Hebrew authors and teachers, Gershon Chanoch and Isaac Spector of Palestine.
 The course is designed to meet the requirements of beginners and advanced students and will cover a period of four months. The Ibrith b'Ibrith system is to be followed, and Palestinian Hebrew, with the native pronunciation is to be taught.
 The curriculum includes reading, speaking and writing Hebrew; Jewish history, physical and commercial geography of Palestine and modern Hebrew literature. Special instruction is offered to those who plan to go to Palestine. A series of lectures on life in Palestine and its present day problems is likewise included.
 Complete information may be secured at the offices of the Histadruth Haibrith, 114 Fifth Avenue; Ziere Zion, 204 East Broadway, or the Hebrew Center, 201 East Broadway.

 The Young Folks' League will hold its formal dance on Sunday evening, January 30, at the Hotel Astor.

The Domestic Science Day of the Sisterhood held last Tuesday was successful from every aspect. Large crowds attended both afternoon and evening and a large sum was realized, which will be devoted to expand the bread and milk fund.

The congregational sociable held on Saturday evening was attended by 400 persons and a very sociable evening was spent. Mr. Max Strauss was chairman of the evening.

Rabbi Eiseman preached a sermon last Friday outlining his plan to expand the bread and milk fund of the Sisterhood which takes care of destitute families, supplying them with these necessities daily. His plan is to have 100 or more of his congregation "adopt" a needy family and be personally responsible for its welfare, to visit them, supply them with bread and milk, clothes, matzoths for Passover, see that the children are sent to school, provide medical aid, etc., in short, to be personally interested in the family and bring a little sunshine into its home and life.

Young Folks' Social Center.
 With the young folks of the Orach Chaim Synagogue as a nucleus, the Young Folks' Social Center has been organized. The intentions of the society are to foster social well being in the community, study literature, friendship and help the poor of the neighborhood. The proceeds of a dance to be held at the Hotel Majestic on February 21, 1921, will go to assist those sick unfortunates who need because of their malady a change of climate.

The organization is functioning under the guidance of its president, Mr. Merwin F. Levine, a very able man in club affairs. The other officers are Miss Ray Mencher, vice-president; Mr. Harry Segal, treasurer, and Miss Sylvia Michelman, secretary.

The club holds meetings every second and fourth Tuesday of the month at the Central Jewish Institute, 125 East Eighth street, and visitors are cordially invited.

Jerusalem Physicians Protest Closing of Straus Health Station. Jerusalem (By Mail to the Jewish News Service).—The Jewish medical fraternity here is very much wrought up owing to the decision of Dr. D. de Sola Pool, the representative of the American Joint Distribution Committee, to close the Straus health station here as an independent institution on January 1, 1921.

About thirty physicians, many nurses and representatives of various Jerusalem organizations were present. Dr. M. Biham, the president of the Jewish Medical Society, presided. Dr. M. Goldberg related how on a recent visit to London he had been promised by Mrs. Nathan Straus that the American Medical Unit would take over the activities of the health station and that the staff would be retained in their positions.

Dr. I. M. Rubinow, of the American Medical Unit, who was present, promised to cable to Mr. Straus in New York to revoke his decision. The meeting finally adopted resolutions expressing the urgent need of the health station in Palestine, appealing to the Jewish National Council to take a hand in the matter, and requesting Mr. Straus to have the American Medical Unit take over the work and reinstate the twenty physicians and nurses who were dismissed owing to the closing order.

The Straus health station was founded by Mr. Nathan Straus of New York in 1912. In connection with the station is a bacteriological research bureau for the purpose of combating malaria and trachoma. The recent London Zionist conference in July, 1920, adopted a resolution for the co-ordination of the hygiene and sanitation work in Palestine, and it was understood that the station was to come under a general health department for Palestine.

Jewish Sanatorium for Tuberculars in Germany.

Berlin (Jewish News Service).—A sanatorium for Jewish tuberculars has been founded here by some lodges of the Independent Order B'nai B'rith.

The new institution will be organized as a corporation, with a capital of 1,500,000 marks. Shares will sell at 1,000 marks each. The shares will be sold to Jewish Kehillas in Germany and the additional necessary funds will be collected by contributions of wealthy Jews. A Jewish philanthropist of Frankfurt has promised to spend 500,000 marks for the purpose.

In official communiques concerning the proposed new institution the statement is made that as a result of scientific investigations it has been found that Jewish tubercular patients recover more quickly than their Gentile fellow sufferers. It can only be done, however, if they obtain speedy help, which is best found in Jewish institutions, where patients are not subjected to anti-Semitic insults.

A home for the sanatorium near Baden-Baden has already been purchased.

Christian Leaders Express Sympathy to a Rabbi.

Munich (Jewish News Service).—The Catholic Archbishop, Dr. Faulhaber, and the President of the Protestant Consistory, Domine Veit, have sent a letter of sympathy to the Munich rabbi, Dr. Baerwald.

Rabbi Baerwald was present at an anti-Semitic meeting, where he demanded the floor to reply to some accusations made by one of the speakers. He was not permitted to speak, was bodily insulted and expelled from the assembly.

The act brought about the above expression of sympathy by the Christian divines, in which they protest most solemnly against the insult to a religious leader and a curtailment of the freedom of speech.

Rabbis Required to be Roumanian Subjects in New Territories.

Bucharest (Jewish News Service).—Great hardship is experienced in many Jewish communities in provinces recently incorporated in Roumania by the new order of the government requiring all rabbis to be Roumanian subjects and likewise all directors or executive members of the Jewish communities. Roumanian is to be the official language in all Jewish communities, and no Jewish community can be organized without a permit of the Ministry of the Interior.

Reception to Major James de Rothschild.

A reception was tendered last Tuesday night at the Hotel Astor to Major James de Rothschild, who arrived in this city the day previous. The reception was given by the Zionist Organization of America.

Mr. de Rothschild made a speech in which he declared that England did the most glorious act in its existence through its decision to make Palestine a Jewish homeland. "But," declared the speaker, "while England did its duty, it behooves the Jews to build up the house and put it in order."

Other speakers included Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Rabbi Z. H. Masliansky, Schmaryahu Levine and Judge Julian W. Mack.

Vienna's Chief Rabbi in New York.

Chief Rabbi Zevi Peretz Chayes of Vienna arrived here last Friday on the steamship Rotterdam. To a reporter who came to interview him, the rabbi stated that he would work here for the Keren Ha-Yesod, which he called the most important task of the Jews at the present time. He stated that the situation of Galician Jews could not be painted too dark, and that the condition of the Jews in Hungary is also terrible beyond description.

Jewish Memorial Hospital to Build.

The Jewish Memorial Hospital which recently purchased the large building of the Inwood Home for Girls, Dyckman street and Bolton road, has commissioned architects to proceed with the plans for altering and reconstructing the present building into a complete general hospital at a cost of about $150,000.

Seventy-fifth Anniversary of Congregation Shaaray Tefila to be Celebrated.
Congregation Shaaray Tefila — the West End Synagogue — will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of its incorporation on February 11, 12 and 13. At morning and evening services in the synagogue at 160 West Eighty-second street, and at a banquet in Hotel Astor, the growth of this congregation—one of the oldest in New York City—and its relationship to the development of Jewish and American life will be reviewed. A special committee, headed by Mrs. Max L. Levenson, William C. Popper, J. Clarence Davies, and William Fox, is in charge of arrangements for the jubilee celebration.

The development of Congregation Shaaray Tefila is enriched with a wealth of interesting anecdotes and history. The congregation was organized in 1845. Its members were all immigrants from England or sons of English immigrants. Its first place of worship was on Franklin street near Broadway, a section which in 1845 was the residential center of New York. Louis Levy was its first president, and a year later, following the incorporation of the new synagogue his brother-in-law, John I. Hart, became its head.

In the turbulent days before the Mexican War, the newly erected synagogue building on Wooster street, between Spring and Prince, was consecrated. Fashionable New York then centered its activities about the section where today huge loft buildings and rickety tenements acknowledge the passing of the years. General Scott's triumphant heroes—on their way from the Battery, passed the synagogue, while worshippers within praised God for America's safety. The first synagogue cost its members thirty thousand dollars and its architect had the name of Brady. Following the Civil War, in 1865, the Wooster street building was found inadequate. The building was sold and services were held for three years in the old armory at Broadway and Thirty-sixth street, where the synagogue opened its first congregational school. In 1869 a new building, on West Forty-fourth street near Broadway, was completed at a cost of two hundred thousand dollars.

Congregation Beth El of West Thirty-third street was consolidated with Shaaray Tefila in 1871 and the institution became one of the city's most flourishing synagogues. Its Ladies Benevolent Society had long been an important factor for social service work. The organization of the Sisterhood came about in 1890, and has become a leading philanthropic society. Both women organizations are animated with the Federation for Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

New York continued its up-town trend. In 1892, the forty-fourth street building was sold and Carnegie Hall selected as the temporary place of worship, prior to the dedication of the West End Synagogue on West Eighty-second street in 1894. Congregation Shaaray Tefila was the first organization to hold religious services in Carnegie Hall.

In its seventy-five years of growth, the congregation has had but three ministers. The first, Rabbi Samuel M. Isaacs, came to this country from England to head the congregation in 1845, and remained its spiritual leader until 1877. Rabbi Isaacs was the first rabbi to deliver sermons in English in an American synagogue. The esteem with which he was held by non-Jews as well as his co-religionists, is attested by the fact that he was one of the ministers selected to deliver an oration at the funeral of Abraham Lincoln. Young Rabbi F. De Sola Mendes of London became assistant minister of the congregation in 1874 and its rabbi three years later. Dr. Mendes is at present Rabbi Emeritus of the congregation, and Rabbi Nathan Stern, elected in 1915, its present spiritual head.

Among the present membership are men and women who comprise the fourth and fifth generations of the original founders—and a few infants of the sixth generation. A few—among them J. C. Levi—recall the old Franklin street synagogue. Sol B. Solomon has been a trustee for forty-three years.

The synagogue today has one of the largest and most influential congregations in the city, a religious school with three hundred pupils, and eighteen instructors, and seven subsidiary organizations. Morris A. Magner has been its president since 1910; Isaac Bilders is secretary, and Martin Strauss, treasurer. Mrs. Max L. Levenson heads the Sisterhood; Mrs. William C. Popper, the Ladies' Hebrew Benevolent Society; Mrs. Martin Strauss, the Mothers' Association; Walter Lehman, the Young Folks League; Miss Hoeny Kramer, the Junior Sisterhood, and Mr. Nathan Moyses, the Sub-debs.

THE HIGHEST CHOICE

Do not let it be merely a question of initial cost when you make your choice of pianos. The matchless music of the Steinway has lifted it above the "price" atmosphere for all time. It is true, the Steinway does cost a little more. But no one who owns a Steinway has ever a shadow of regret for the price paid. It is but little higher than the cost of other pianos, and the Steinway carries within its perfect mechanism the guarantee of a satisfaction beyond all price. For more than three score years it has been the ideal of the greatest music masters of their day. So the Steinway must command your respectful attention before your choice is made.
