"A GOOD JEW"

By ELMA EHRLICH LEVINGER

"I'm afraid I'll have to go to the dentist," I told my husband one evening. He says that everybody in town tells him their troubles because he's a rabbi, so why shouldn't I burden him with mine, when he's my husband in the bargain.

"That's too bad. Well," with a cheerful air I considered rather unfeeling, "you won't have to worry long. Isn't it lucky we have a dentist right in the congregation? Run down to see Dr. Jacobs tomorrow and let him fix you up."

"I'd rather not go to Dr. Jacobs," I objected. "He looks awfully fat and stupid. And last Friday night he slept right through your sermon."

"Maybe you'll get even with him and sleep right through his treatments—without gas, answered the rabbi so good naturedly I wanted to throw a book at him. For why can't a man bear a little natural resentment even if he is a minister.

"I'd rather go to Dr. Crane," I persisted. "I don't know much about him (we had just moved to town), but Mrs. Sherman, next door, says he's been doing her work for years and she wouldn't go to anybody else."

The rabbi rose to answer the telephone. We were having our Friday night meal and it was the third call—one is always sure to catch the rabbi in at that time, and he's not supposed to be touchy about being disturbed at his dinner. "I'm afraid you'll have to patronize old Jacobs just the same," he flung back over his shoulder. "In the first place, he's a good Jew and an awfully influential member and can kick up trouble if he wants to. And, in the second place, he's Mrs. Cohen's cousin, and she recommended him. I'd rather have you lose every tooth in your head than let Mrs. Cohen catch you going to another dentist."

The matter was settled. I had been in the congregation only three weeks, but I already knew Mrs. Cohen and the wide-flung terror of her influence. With a sigh I decided to resign myself to the unknown terrors of her cousin.

Dr. Jacobs not only slept during my husband's sermons (which he praised with hypocritical rapture during the first probings), but, as the small boy puts it, he also slept on his job. Life in a small Southern town moves slowly, so why should a middle-aged, comfortable dentist hurry when he has his victim lying helpless in a chair before him, gasping and speechless, a rubber gag in her mouth? Once I thought that the slowest creature on earth was a Southern ducky dusting my living room on a languid afternoon in mid-August. Without exaggeration the dust gathered again on the bookcase while she draped herself across the table and flirted her in any match he might have proposed from dusting to dentistry.

"I expected you'd come in soon," he began cheerfully, as he tucked a clean towel under my chin. "I always do work for the rabbis and their families. I've been a member of the congregation for over twenty years, so they know I got it coming to me. Most of the board members come to the torture patiently, for while the buzz saw buzzed viscerously I was spared Dr. Jacobs' personal observations on the manners, morals, sermons and families of the last four rabbis. Not that I wasn't dying to hear all about my predecessors—but if a rabbi's wife wishes to live long and happily in the land it's better for her to turn all gossipy conversation have kept it up so long. Now there was Mrs. Rabbi Finkelstein—they were here back in 1900. But he didn't last long. Too much poker. I say a rabbi's only human and it don't do a bit of harm for him to sit down and play a friendly game with the congregation. He can't talk religion to 'em all the time if he pays a call and they're playing cards. Now it's all right for a rabbi to play cards if the luck comes his way enough. But Rabbi Finkelstein never had no good hands and he didn't know how to play, anyhow. My Bennie—he was just confirmed last year, and such a smart kid!—my Bennie could give him cards and spades now. Well, he kept on losing and losing, and after a while the congregation started kicking. Them that played cards didn't care to win from him and get nothing for their trouble; they wanted the congregation to pay his card debts, and them that never played wouldn't do it after the fifth or sixth time. It came too-expensive. They tried to raise the dues twice, and old man Goldberg threatened to resign; he said he'd been a member for almost fifty years and he never had his religion cost so much before. I don't blame him; they better not try raising dues, especially to us old members. I wouldn't stand for it neither.

"What's the matter? Sure, I can take the gag out for a minute and let you rest. But you sure have sensitive teeth—just like Mrs. Rabbi Finkelstein. A fine lady, so highly educated. She wrote his sermons, poor thing, while he was playing poker. People said she was too sarcastic, but I never heard her say anything out of the way. The only thing she ever said when she was here was: 'For heaven's sake, doctor, get through; you're just killing me.' But I never worry about what people say in a dentist's chair; they ain't responsible.

"Now let me put the gag in again. Sure, you can stand a little more today. I think people make too much of themselves nowadays and think they can't stand nothing. My father, Selig, now, was a wonder; and old man Goldberg. He came in here the day after Yom Kippur and had me pull three teeth for him. No gas nor nothing. A man that age, too. And he said he'd been fasting fine—for over fifty years. And when he gets through fasting he just takes a nip of something and a cup of coffee and a piece of cake and he's ready for the dust cloth over the magazines, pausing to look at the pictures and comment on the gowns in my fashion journal. But I mentally apologized to my leisurely Geraldine (we called her Jerry for short) as I watched Dr. Jacobs fumble with his instruments, open a box of cotton, test his abominable buzz saw. My poor Geraldine would have beaten him most securely me, too. They know I do good work, especially for a Yehudah. What's the matter?" as I made a frantic gesture. "The gag bother you? Oh, you'll get used to it."

Next to cubist drawings and pre-digested breakfast foods I hate and despise having my perfectly good teeth bored full of holes, presumably for fillings. Yet for once I endured into the safer channels of the outrageous price of sugar or the chronic tardiness of the negro cook.

The buzzing stopped at last, but my dentist's cheerful voice boomed on.

"Didn't like it, did you? Some people always make a fuss over the boring—kinda sensitive teeth, I reckon. Maybe I hadn't ought to

NOTED ZIONISTS HERE.

NOTED ZIONISTS ARRIVE.

A deputation of noted Zionists arrived on the steamer Rotterdam last Saturday. The delegation is headed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Zionist Organization; Dr. Ben Zion Mossinson, head of the Hebrew Teachers' Organization; M. Ussischkin, head of the Zionist Commission in Palestine, and Prof. Albert Einstein, propounder of the Einstein theory of relativity. In the party were also Mrs. Weizmann and Mrs. Einstein.

After inspection in Quarantine the Rotterdam moved up to her pier in Hoboken, but the delegation decided not to go ashore with the rest of the passengers, as it was the Jewish Sabbath. Magistrate Bernard A. Rosenblatt, chairman of Mayor Hylan's Committee of Welcome; Dr. Schmarya Levin, member of the first Russian Duma, and Capt. Abraham Tulin went down the bay on the customs cutter and boarded the liner to announce that the police boat John F. Hylan would be ready at the pier to take the party to Manhattan.

Shouting their welcome, singing, delirious with joy, fully 5,000 persons rushed at Dr. Weizmann and Prof. Einstein the moment these two leaders of science and the Zionist movement stepped from the shelter of Pier A, at the Battery, after being brought there on the Hylan.

No one was satisfied with the mere sight of them. Every man, woman and child wanted to touch the hems of the garments, and again and again the shouts and songs from the thousands of voices burst forth with welcome.

The harbor police, members from the traffic squad and the reserves were there to keep the crowd back. The policemen were carried almost off their feet by the great mob of human beings that wanted to do homage to the two most distinguished members of their race. Members of the reception committee were thrust aside and reporters, with their police cards as passports, were whirled about.

Through this mass of humanity the police, with muzzed and rumped uniforms, finally succeeded in escorting Dr. Weizmann and Prof. Einstein across the plaza in front of the pier to the waiting automobiles.

Here a boys' band was drawn up. The crowd pressed so close that the musicians could not use their instruments until the police cleared a space for them. Then the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Hatikvah" were played. When the music ceased and the cheers rose again, Dr. Weizmann and Prof. Einstein bowed their acknowledgment; they were too overcome with emotion by their reception to do more.

The band tried to play again. It was thrust aside, and a rush was made for the automobiles by the cheering, shouting, singing thousands. The signal was given to start for the Hotel Commodore, over a route taking in the East Side and published in the Jewish newspapers. Men and women tried to clamber to the running boards of the automobiles. They were firmly handled by the police, but not with unnecessary roughness. A space was cleared, and the machines moved slowly away as the shouts and singing rose again. The delegates finally reached the Hotel Commodore.

On Sunday Prof. and Mrs. Einstein and Prof. and Mrs. Weizmann were the guests at luncheon of Samuel Untermyer. The party motored up Riverside Drive and around the city for a time beforehand. On Tuesday they were welcomed at the City Hall by Mayor Hylan and the city officials.

Magistrate Bernard A. Rosenblatt presented the guests, particularly Professors Einstein and Weizmann, in a few well chosen words. He said that while these two men performed great service in the cause of science and in the cause of democracy he presented them not as scientists and not as democrats, but as Jews in the service of the great Jewish ideal foretold by the prophets.

Mayor Hylan welcomed the guests in the name of the City of New York, referring in a most sympathetic speech to the great sacrifices brought by the Jewish soldiers serving in the American Army.

Ex-Attorney General Geo. W. Wickersham replied in the name of the committee. In a most eloquent address he pointed out that both Professor Einstein and Professor Weizmann belonged to those who, by their transforming thought, seek to make the world better, through the application of the truths of science to the affairs of men. Speaking of Zionism, Mr. Wickersham said that Professor Weizmann well understood that no nation scattered and dispersed all over the world could at once assume the responsibilities of self-government. It was for this reason that Professor Weizmann secured the historic Balfour Declaration, according to which the Jews will be given an opportunity under the mandate of Great Britain to learn the art of self-management. He closed with the verses from Proverbs and said that these two great learned Jews followed the injunction of the Bible "in all thy possessions get understanding."

Professor Weizmann, in a gracious and happy way, replied, emphasizing the Zionist ideal in its humanitarian aspects, as being akin to the American spirit.

Jews and Unemployment—Lord Reading's Career as a Judge Closes—Bilingual Hebrew-English Scheme for Kindergarten—The Rabbinical Conference in Palestine—Famous Jewish Throat Specialist Passes Away.

Exclusive Correspondence Hebrew Standard.
London, March 11, 1921.

Although one might not gather so from the ordinary newspapers of the country, unemployment continues to spread throughout Great Britain in a devastating way. The government has increased the out-of-work pay to $4 per week for men, with smaller sums for women and juveniles, and this increase on the old maximum has come in very welcome for many thousands of Jewish families in the East End of London, in Leeds, Manchester, the Gorbals district of Glasgow and elsewhere. The community has not organized any special unemployed fund, but a great deal of private charity is passing and much unostentatious and inconspicuous help of a valuable character is being given. Nothing, of course, will properly relieve the situation until there comes a revival in trade; and, despite newspaper accounts to the contrary, there is nothing in the industrial outlook to promise anything speedy of this kind.

An attempt, by the way, has been made by an anti-Semitic newspaper here to saddle Jewish workmen with an additional crime. This paper declared that there was quite a trade in the East End of London in the way of providing false certificates whereby out-of-work pay could be obtained without the holder having put in his full legal number of weeks' work somewhere beforehand. Upon an attempt being promptly issued for proof, none matured, and the newspaper had to cover its retreat as best it could.

Lord Reading has now tendered to the Prime Minister his resignation from the post of Lord Chief Justice of England, occasioned by his appointment as Governor General of India. This has led to reviews of Lord Reading's now finished career as a judge, and some very interesting appraisements have been issued from legal sources. It is, of course, understood that an estimate of Lord Reading's judicial qualities is a matter of some difficulty, for his work as a judge has been considerably interrupted by his other services to the State.

During the early part of the war his position as head of the Divisional Court brought him into contact with those peculiar war problems arising out of the "defence of the realm" and military service—problems differing altogether from ordinary peace time matters and not calculated to leave any permanent landmarks on the law. Later the State has demanded, first temporarily and then permanently, his services as a statesman and a diplomat rather than as a lawyer or judge. At the bar he made his reputation, as many of his predecessors in office did, as an advocate and a brilliant cross-examiner. Added to this was the natural gift for figures and finance. This gave him at once a highly specialized practice in London, which rendered it unnecessary for him to take much of the ordinary common law work. His ability as a lawyer must be tested by his success at the common law bar, and, as everyone here knows, that implies qualities of judgment, foresight and knowledge of affairs, all qualities which go to the making of a great judge.

His conduct of the court where for the time being he was presiding was always admirable and was marked by dignity and quietness. Accustomed to dominating the court while at the bar, he was strong enough to dominate it as a judge, without any apparent assertion or exercise of his authority. Such are the qualities which are demanded from a Lord Chief Justice, rather than that erudition which is so often associated with the names of great judges, and Lord Reading will be held by those most fitted to give an opinion to have well deserved and adequately filled his high office. The same qualities which would make him a great Viceroy, and his appointment to India embodies the greatest compliment ever paid to the composition of the bench of the English High Court.

Sir Stuart Samuel, Bart., president of the Deputies of British Jews, will leave England for Palestine in May next on an important visit to his brother, the High Commissioner.

A very interesting educational experiment is being tried in the North of London in connection with the Central Miz-rachi Organization. A kindergarten school was opened there four months ago and Hebrew and English are used indifferently as the media of instruction. Two bi-lingual lady teachers were installed and it is declared that striking progress has already been secured. The children are all very young, but are normally English born and English speaking. They sit round their teacher and fold brightly colored paper according to instructions and do other of the ordinary kindergarten movements. Sometimes they are told what to do in Hebrew and sometimes in English. The language appears to be a matter of indifference to the small audience, who seem to understand either language equally well and answer in whichever they chance to be addressed.

The ages of the children are from 3½ to 7½ years, and the school contains, by the way, as a specialty, four or five Viennese refugee children. They have handwork, occupations, songs and drills and they learn to read and write. The big ones now write well. They begin to chalk on brown paper with Hebrew and English letters simultaneously, wooden blocks or printed letter cards being used, as they will all go to Ash-kenazi synagogues. The school roll numbers twenty-five, and there are four large, well ventilated, properly equipped class rooms. The children attend from 9.30 in the morning until 1 o'clock, with half an hour's break.

A Jewish correspondent has been writing on the Rabbinical Congress, which has been sitting in Jerusalem. This is a body of considerable importance. Writing for non-Jewish readers, he points out that although it may be described as concerned only with religious matters, religion with the Jews, as with the other nations of antiquity, embraces the whole of life. The congress has as its first duty to come to an agreement as to the constitution of the supreme religious court, the Beth Din. The need for this constitutional reform arises out of the fact that hitherto there has been a multiplicity of authorities. The various communities in Jerusalem each had their own religious head. It must be pointed out that these communities were separated, not by dogmatic differences, but by differences in their places of origin—that is, they were families rather than sects. These differences of origin did, it is true, affect many customs, both religious and secular. The two chief divisions in the Jews both of Palestine and of other countries are into the Sephardic Jews and the Ashkenazic Jews. In order to unite the two sections it is proposed to call the two presidents of the new council, the chief rabbis of the Ashkenazim and of the Sephardim. It is hoped that unity between the various communities in the Holy Land will act as a unifying influence on the Jews of the rest of the world, especially as one of the duties which the new authority will assume will be that of granting the rabbinical degree. How far the new council will be recognized as able to grant divorces, to register the legal adoption of children and to enforce other legal decisions is not certain. The conference consists of eighty delegates, some of whom are laymen.

The death of Sir Felix Semon, K. C. V. O., M. D., F. R. C. P., at the age of 72 last week, removes from our midst a most famous laryngologist. Born in Danzig in 1849, his father was a stock broker. Felix took up medical studies at Heidelberg, Berlin, Vienna, Paris and London. In the Franco-Prussian war he was recalled to the ranks and was present at several of the battles in France. After the war he resumed his studies, and came to London in 1874, to be appointed first of all clinical assistant at the throat hospital in Golden Square. He became a physician there in 1877 and, having made a reputation in the theory and practice of his art, he was appointed assistant physician in charge of the throat department at St. Thomas' Hospital in 1882. He was one of the founders of the Laryngological Society, now merged into the Royal Society of Medicine. In 1901 he was appointed physician extraordinary to King Edward VII. Semon found laryngology in England in its infancy. He left it on his retirement in 1911 flourishing and important. Born into the community, Sir Felix Simon took no part in its work, becoming entirely dissociated from the Jewish faith.

COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN.

Because of the crowded conditions at Ellis Island and the stringent regulations regarding examinations for typhus infection, a number of steamers which usually dock at New York harbor were diverted during the month of February to the port of Boston. This sudden transference to Boston of work usually taken care of by the Immigrant Aid representatives of the Council of Jewish Women at Ellis Island, necessitated the development of the port work at Boston on a scale much larger than that hitherto assumed by the council's section of that city.

Mrs. S. J. Rosenbohn, chairman of the council's Department of Immigrant Aid, took energetic measures at once. Miss Cecilia Razovsky, the executive secretary of the department, proceeded to Boston to confer with the local Committee on Immigrant Aid and to render assistance. After several conferences with the local chairman, Mrs. Julius Andrews, a plan of work was outlined and immediately put into effect. In addition to Mrs. Rebecca Sternburg, the regular worker at the Boston port, an additional social worker was engaged. Arrangements were made for the necessary subsidization of the work through national headquarters and its new system of keeping records of all arrivals was inaugurated.

Steamers have been docking at the port of Boston at the rate of at least one a day, and the council's agents have been working day and night to meet the demands that are made of them.

The port representative of Boston will also assume charge of port work associated with steamers that occasionally dock at Portland, Me., and Providence, R. I. Boston section is fully alive to its responsibility and duties in connection with this tremendous increase in port work, and the problem has been met in a very creditable and effective manner.

Religion, was a notable one in many ways. It represented the first visit of a council officer in the history of several sections and her counsel was eagerly sought on many local problems. At El Paso, Texas, Mrs. Levy was the guest of the Men's Club of Mt. Sinai Temple and of the local section. She addressed a public meeting, was guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Board of Directors of the El Paso section, and also addressed the local Junior section. Other sections visited and addressed by Mrs. Levy included Globe-Miami, Ariz.; Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco, Cal.

Two additional sections have just been organized. Mrs. Henry Oppenheimer, supervisor for Maryland, and Mrs. Leonard A. Hecht, president of the Baltimore section, co-operated in effecting a section at Frederick, Md., of which Mrs. David Lowenstein was elected president. In the State of Washington, Mrs. A. Dinkelspiel of Seattle succeeded in organizing a section at Bellingham. Mrs. G. Bettman was elected as the first president of the Bellingham section.

Unique Purim Masque at the Central Jewish Institute.

A full week of Purim festivities at the Central Jewish Institute, 125 East Eighty-fifth street, culminated Sunday night, March 27, in a gala pageant and masque given by the young people of the Institute under the auspices of the League of Jewish Youth and the general organization of clubs.

The masque was a fitting climax to many weeks of preparation and anticipation. Every senior group in the building was fully represented. Energy and enthusiasm marked all the performances. The joviality and good spirit of the guests surpassed even the reputed gaiety attending the royal feasts of Ahashueros in the days of old. Masque, song, dance and all the goodies of the Purim gladdened the hearts of the merry-makers.

But, true to Institute traditions, the occasion was not one of merriment merely. It was full of Jewish historic elements that were highly interesting and educational. By means of beautiful and effective costumes the story of Purim and its present day significance were effectively told. Of special interest were the group pageants, in which each club presented in tableau form its underlying idea and purpose.

Among the prizes won were the following: One for the best presentation of the Purim idea, awarded for an effective caricature of Henry Ford, the American Haman, attempting to "railroad" the Jewish people by means of his flivver paper, the "Dearborn Independent." Other prizes were awarded for the most Jewish costume, the prettiest costume and the cheapest yet effective costume.

Local I. O. B. B. Lodges Institute Drive for 1,500 New Members.

A membership drive, participated in by the sixteen lodges of the Independent Order B'nai B'rith within Greater New York, was opened Monday, April 4, and members of the order are now working to secure the proposed new membership of at least 1,500.

The goal of the drive is rather modest—1,500 members—and it is anticipated that the drive will go well over the top. One feature of the drive will be the awarding of prizes for the various kinds of excellence of work on the part of the various district organizations, as well as on the part of the teams and of the individual solicitors.

Another feature of the work will be the aid which has been promised on the part of the ladies' auxiliaries.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

Clara Clemens, mezzo-soprano, will give her second recital of Brahms songs in English at Aeolian Hall next Saturday afternoon, April 9, at 3 o'clock. Walter Golde will be at the piano and the program follows:
1. "Faithful Love," "Blindman's Buff," "Longing," "The Swallows Homeward Fly," "The Hasty Oath."
2. "That I Should No More See Thee," "Serenade," "My Wounded Heart," "I Dreamed at Night," "Sunbrow Lad," "Ever Lighter Grows My Slumber."
3. "Thine Eyes So Clear," "The Wanderer," "My Love Is Green as the Lillac Bush," "Wake Not Him Who Softly Slumbers."
4. "Heigho Gypsy," "Know Ye When My Baby?" "Do Thy Thoughts Sometimes Obey?" "Roses Three."

Fanny White (Mrs. Gustav J. S. White) is scheduled to make her New York debut in a song recital at the Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon, April 12, 1921, at 3 o'clock. She will be accompanied by her husband, Mr. Gustave J. S. White, nephew of the late Rudolph Schirmer. Mrs. White is a pupil of Mme. Hervor Torpadie and Isidore Luckstone, and has coached considerably with Felix Leroux of the Paris Opera, Frank Bibb and also her husband. The late Charles Glibert of the Metropolitan Opera Company expressed great interest in Mrs. White's career and went to great pains in advising and assisting her. A most attractive program has been prepared for this recital, embodying two groups in French, as well as one group each of Italian and English songs. Among these latter are two songs by Mr. White "Two Roses" (MSS.) and "The Kettle's Croon."

Miss Sophie Braslau, who will give her annual song recital in Carnegie Hall on Sunday afternoon, April 10, has prepared a program of twenty numbers for this concert, divided into various classes. Erich Wolf, Mahler and Strauss will make up one group which will be sung in English. The Russian group will be devoted to Rachmaninoff, Gretchaninoff, Rimsky-Korsakoff and Moussorgsky. Gabriele Sibella, well known in this city, has three songs on the program. An American group will close the program.

Miss Henriette Safonoff, a niece of the famous conductor, well known in this city, will give a song recital in Aeolian Hall on Monday afternoon, April 11.

Miss Esther Dale, mezzo soprano, will give a song recital in Aeolian Hall on Friday evening, April 15.

Charles Dillingham's colossal pageant, "Good Times," is now in its ninth month at the New York Hippodrome. Having celebrated its 400th presentation this past week, the great spectacle, with its organization of 1,000 people, its sixteen magnificent scenes and its wide variety of wholesome amusement, seems to be destined to achieve a new high record run for indoor amusement in America, before its final performances in May. Those who have not already seen this master-spectacle are urged to include it on their April amusement schedule and many who have seen it will wish to go again before the conclusion of its brilliant season. It is without doubt the finest example of spectacle and extravaganza on a huge scale ever seen at this house of many wonders.

This week new features were introduced by Margaret McKee, the charming whistling soloist, in "Toyland," and by the congress of clowns in this same scene. Among the soloists, Belle Story, Nanette, Flack, Virginia Futrelle and "Happy" Lambert will be heard in new numbers and all the specialties in the great water spectacle will be new. Matinees are given daily.

With new costumes, new dances by the Spanish dancers and with continued capacity audiences, "Spanish Love," the romantic love tale of old Spain begins its thirty-fifth week at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, the outstanding dramatic novelty of all years. The success of the play has been remarkable, and it now bids fair to be one of the most popular summer attractions in New York during the coming months.

"Spanish Love," through the daring of its producers, Wagenhals & Kemper, who dared every theatrical tradition in staging it, has been eagerly sought out by theatregoers as the one thing that was different on the stage this year. It is a fair statement to make that no play produced on Broadway during the past season has been called for so frequently by managers of theatres in other cities. Theatregoers the country over are impatiently waiting the time when they will have an opportunity to see the play that New York has been talking about for a year.

There are all sorts of things that go to make a play popular. The interest shown in the title role of "Enter Madame," still running at the Fulton Theatre, New York, by other actresses is indicative of an appeal not common to plays which ostensibly have no star. Several dozen actresses have appealed to Brock Pemberton for Gilda Varesi's role when "Enter Madame" goes on the road next fall, and nearly every prominent actress in London has bid for the English rights. The two latest offers from England—there had been fourteen previous proffers—were from Constance Collier and Phyllis Neilson Terry. Mr. Pemberton is holding the London engagement in abeyance, as Miss Varesi is anxious to play her role in the British capital.

"Up in Mabel's Room" will be the attraction at the Bronx Opera House for the week beginning Monday evening, April 11. The combination of A. H. Woods as producer and Wilson Collison and Otto Harbach, who concocted the story, have evolved a farce which lasted a whole year on Broadway, which is proof positive of its value as a laugh-maker without its added popularity throughout the country during the past season. Although likened by the critics to many farces, "Up in Mabel's Room" is in a class by itself, and proves that a farce may be really funny and entertaining without offending the finer sensibilities. A superb cast will be seen here, including Julie Ring, Sager Midgley, James Norval, Joseph Saxe, Grace Fielding, Harry Bradley, Gertrude Webster and others.

Ben Ami in "Samson and Delilah" will be the attraction at the Bronx Opera House the week of April 18.

The Summer Concerts at Columbia University, which are to begin on June 6, for a season of twelve weeks will be more interesting than ever, according to latest announcements. Edwin Franko Goldman, conductor of the Goldman Concert Band, has completed the programs for the entire season and the plans are far-reaching.

There will be forty-two concerts on the Green at Columbia University and the schedule calls for the following programs: Twenty-one miscellaneous, three Wagner, one Wagner-Tschaikowsky, one program of Mendelssohn's Midsummernight's Dream Music, one Beethoven program, one Schubert, one Russian, one French, one grand opera, one comic opera, two All-American, five request programs, and one program of popular music. In addition to the above, there will be fifteen concerts in the city parks and three in the hospitals. The programs will include the music of all the classic and modern masters, including Richard Strauss, Debussy and other composers whose works have never before been performed at these concerts.

Besides an increased number of benches which will be provided, the University has purchased one thousand additional new and comfortable chairs. Every possible preparation is being made for the ever-increasing audiences which attend these concerts.

Horace Brodzky contributes two paintings and two watercolors to the exhibition of paintings and drawings representing the newer tendencies in art, to be opened April 16 at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia. Mr. Brodzky is also showing two canvases at the exhibition of the Architectural League in the south wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

John Wenger, late scene designer and producer at the Capitol Theatre, is in Montreal, Canada, where he is introducing his methods of stage pictures. He will also hold an exhibition of his designs for stage scenery while across the border.

A Mover Is Moved to Move.

M. M. Feldman, head of a moving company at 100 West 17th St., New York, was called by the American Jewish Relief Committee to estimate on the cost of moving its office equipment to the new headquarters at 103 Park avenue, which the committee will take over May 1.

In looking over the office, Mr. Feldman happened to see some photographs of undernourished Jewish children, just received from American Jewish Relief workers in Poland. He was so struck by the tragedy of the pictures that he asked for information about the committee's work, how money was raised and to what extent Jewish relief work was carried on in Europe. The story of Europe's suffering Jewry and the part played by America in alleviating this misery so moved him that although a poor man, he insisted on moving all the office equipment for nothing and he verified his generous offer with the following letter, in which he also inclosed an additional $10:

"It gives me great pleasure to confirm in writing my verbal offer to move the contents of your offices, without charge.

"Truly, when I came seeking your work, I came armed to conquer, but when you showed to me the pictures of the little children of Europe and the suffering and privations they endured, and I want the privilege of donating my services as a direct donation to these little tots, who though most innocent must pay the price.

"They who had no part and no say in this inhuman and terrible war of wars pay the greatest penalty. Would to God that I could add in money the equal to the value of my services, which I gladly donate.

"I am a father of four children, and the suffering and misery of the children of Europe awakened in me the human and fatherly feeling that I have for my children for the innocent suffering "Kiddies" of Europe.

"Would to God that every man, every Jew could see the pictures as I saw them and I am sure that every man and every Jew will, even as I, give a part of his wealth to the suffering innocents.

"I am also enclosing my personal check for $10 which is merely a token of my appreciation and esteem of the American Jewish Relief Committee."

Student Congregation University of Michigan.

The Student Congregation of the University of Michigan enjoyed the rare privilege of an address by Congressman Julius Kahn of California at its last bi-weekly meeting. An audience of 3,500 assembled in Hill Auditorium, where services were conducted by Rabbi Leo M. Franklin of Detroit, Mich. Rev. Sidney S. Robins delivered a prayer and read the scriptural portion. The choir of Temple Beth El, Detroit, rendered the music for the services.

Baptist Pastor Preaches Purim Sermon in Synagogue.

Rev. Dr. Herbert Judson White, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hartford, Conn., preached a Purim sermon in the Emanuel Synagogue of that city last week.

Dr. White spoke on the book of Esther and showed that Henry Ford is the Haman of today. "However," he continued, "the Jews of today have nothing to fear, as there is no Xerxes to fulfill the wishes of our Haman."

He further stated that as far as the Christian churches are concerned, the Jews need have no fear that Ford is being taken seriously in his propaganda against the Jews. "Men may forge their plots, but God shapes the counter-plots to frustrate mens' evil designs," was one of the points emphasized by him.

If all Zionists understood the implications of present-day Zionism as well as former Attorney-General Wickersham there would be more peace in the Zionist camp, and more practical work in Palestine.

Henry Ford's "Dearborn Independent" says that the B'nai B'rith has 50,000 members, but hopes to have 1,000,000 some day. Here's one point where we are in accord with Henry. Let's hope the prophecy materializes before long.

In contrast to the harsh treatment of our brethren in Poland, returning travelers all speak of the full equality accorded to Jews by the Lithuanian Government. There they are granted every right and privilege and the latest announcement is to the effect that the government has decided to supply Jewish soldiers with Kosher food, prepared under the supervision of the Jewish communities.

From the Lynn (Mass.) Telegram-News we excerpt the following:

The proposed Jewish cemetery in North Saugus has been the bone of contention at the Saugus town meeting for several years. It is evident to the townspeople that there are two factions of Jews in the town, one of which desires the cemetery and the other which objects to it. Unless the two factions get together and agree upon the proposition it is not probable that there will be any Jewish cemetery in Saugus in the near future.

"Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!"

As every one knows, New York has for some years now had a civil rights law with teeth in it. Among its provisions is one that no hotel may discriminate against an intended guest on the score of his race or creed. In the Adirondack region of this State are many hotels where Jews are unwelcome. It is now impossible for the hotel proprietor to turn them away because they are Jews. So, now, an intending guest of the Jewish faith is politely informed that the clientele of the particular hotel "has been entirely Christian for the past forty years." Thus the direct provisions of the State law are circumvented, for no Jew or any one else, for the matter of that, would fail to act upon such a broad hint. What we therefore need is additional effectiveness for the law; it should be amended so as to prohibit even hints of discrimination, to the end that hotels are and remain public inns. This was their character from time immemorial, and anti-Semitic proprietors should not be able to change it.

Dr. M. D. Eder, active in the councils of English Zionism and a competent observer of matters Jewish in foreign lands, recently made a tour of Soviet Russia. His findings of the situation of the Jews there are of interest and may be profitably compared with those of other recent travelers. As regards the general condition of the Jews in Russia Dr. Eder found that, apart from the economic changes inherent in the communistic system there prevailing, it had vastly improved. Not only has anti-Semitism disappeared altogether, but the Soviet government has taken the most stringent measures to suppress anti-Jewish feeling. This report is in line with what has heretofore been said by other Jewish observers of the working of Soviet rule. But, he it noted, the general improvement in Russo-Jewish conditions does not extend to the Ukraine. In this land the situation is appalling. Complete anarchy prevails there. Naturally the fly in Dr. Eder's ointment is provided by Soviet Russia's attitude toward Zionism. There the movement comes under the control of the commissariat for Jewish affairs, a bureau staffed by Jews who are quite indifferent, if not positively hostile, to Jewish national strivings. For our part, however, we look upon the positive improvement in Russo-Jewish conditions as vastly outweighing the minor difficulties by which Russian Zionism is at present surrounded.

Correspondents and subscribers are notified that matter intended for the current issue of the HEBREW STANDARD must reach our office not later than Tuesday, 10 A. M. This rule will be strictly adhered to.

AN OMITTED DUTY.

ONE of our valued correspondents, a close reader and consistently able commentator on matters Jewish, took us in hand recently for having criticized only Ex-Ambassador Henry Morgenthau on account of his activity at the dinner to Paderewski and omitting all reference to Louis Marshall's performance on this occasion. Our reader did not object to our criticism of the Morgenthau incident; he thought we were entirely right in discussing the affair as we did. What he objected to was our failure to subject Louis Marshall to our critical shafts for having compromised somewhat between his duty as a Jew vis-a-vis of M. Paderewski, whereby he ought have totally ignored this dinner, and his wish to follow the Morgenthau leading nevertheless, whereby he was represented at the function by a far too adulatory communication.

Our reader speaks of a policy-ridden press, to which by inference we are consigned by him, since we did not include Louis Marshall within our strictures. Needless to add, this journal is far from being policy ridden. Only the other day we formulated anew a statement of our ideals and declared once more our desire to cleave to the truth wherever this lies and whithersoever it leads us.

Now we had and have not the slightest doubt that Louis Marshall, for his actions with respect to the Paderewski dinner, deserved our censure, just as much as Henry Morgenthau. That he did not receive such was a regrettable lapsus calami. No matter how transcendent have been Louis Marshall's services to Jewry and Judaism, the letter from his pen which formed so redoubtable a feature of the Paderewski dinner was not merely an egregious blunder. It was, as we have already said, a mistake of the first magnitude; it was tantamount to treason to the Jewish cause.

Of course, at this period we have no wish to reopen the incident in question. It is over, and neither Jewry nor Messrs. Morgenthau and Marshall will reap any benefit therefrom. We simply refer to it because of our reader's criticism of our course, concerning which, in conclusion, we express our gratitude for his expression of interest.

AN INCIDENT OF PROHIBITION.

DOUBTLESS the recent reports of the activities of prohibition enforcement agents with respect to what the daily newspapers call the "rabbinical licenses" for spirituous liquors have served to shock some members of the community out of their self-indulgent security. We, however, did not experience such a flutter of the sensibilities, for, indeed, at the outset of the enforcement of prohibition we warned the community that its position under the statute was likely to be fraught with disagreeable incidents, if not downright unpleasantness.

In the light of the events which occurred it is easy to comprehend the reason for the fault of last week's crusade of the prohibition enforcement agents. The community, as was its right, was favorably situated in respect of the law. A certain exemption thereunder was granted its members, and this, we are free to add, has not been exceeded by the community at large. Also, our real rabbis have steadily and scrupulously carefully observed the letter and the spirit of the law. That the law was bound to be evaded, that unscrupulous persons were bound to attempt its evasion under whatever plausible means suggested or offered themselves, were surely part of the case. In those parts of the country in which prohibition is, of all issues, the most unpopular and condemned question, those who seek to live in spite of the statute resort to all ends to compass their tasks.

Thus do we explain the cause of the recent activity of the prohibition enforcement agents, with which this community as such has no real or putative connection. In short, we should not now have to endure diatribes on the evil flowing from the promiscuous functioning of so-called "rabbis" selling permits by the wholesale, because these violators of the law have nothing whatever in common with this community, and they are certainly not rabbis. We warned the enforcement authorities at the outset against broadly accepting the form for the substance: because a man calls himself a rabbi, he is not such unless he documents his stand.

This incident of prohibition, then, has naught to do with the community, and no communal lessons of any kind are deducible therefrom.

From the "Alumni Notes" in the March issue of the Hebrew Union College Monthly we cull the following tidbit. It claims Rabbi Horace J. Wolf, of Rochester, for its author:

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPENED.

An Alumnus returned to speak in the H. U. C. Chapel and told some hard, cold facts about the Rabbinate.

A Rabbi read the Union Bulletin from cover to cover.

A Big Leaguer exchanged pulpits with a Bush Leaguer.

The Year Book arrived and a Conference Member failed to turn to the index first to see how often his name appeared.

A Rabbi edited his weekly congregational bulletin without making it read like an autobiography.

A Rabbi delivered a public address and failed to have two complete copies ready for the reporters.

A hundred per cent. attendance was recorded at the Conference when Dr. Deutsch read his annual paper on Contemporary History.

We are delighted that Rabbi Wolf, in jesting guise, had the courage to hold the mirror up to nature, as it were, to tell the graduates of Cincinnati a few wholesome truths about themselves. If we had dared do as much, some of our esteemed contemporaries of Reform inclinations would have ascribed our diatribe to our characteristic venom anent the Hebrew Union College.

THE ETERNAL CYCLE OF LIFE.

"If a woman have conceived and born a man-child." (Lev. xli, 2). LIVES perish, but Life is eternal. Forms die, but the incomprehensible vital thing within never dies. The wonder is ever the same. Out of the perishable is born the imperishable. The richly endowed clay bears the impress of immortality through manifold changes of color and shape. And when the clay disintegrates, the play of the self-renewal of life goes on through timeless time. Here, too, "the play's the thing," and not the clay. And whether the new life blossoms out of soft human limbs, or of the crusty bark of an ancient tree, or of some half-knowing wild thing creeping through fading grass, the story of motherhood and babyhood is ever repeated throughout God's playhouse in an infinite variety of versions, but always revolving around the same central theme: life rising through births and deaths without number to miraculous triumphs without end.

Motherhood, therefore, has a significance far beyond the family circle. Motherhood has a meaning that is cosmic. Motherhood is the symbol of the living, observable immortality of life here on this planet. We dream our pathetic dream of the survival of individuality in some region of mist and mystery, when once the bar is crossed and the ferryman unloads his cargo of souls upon the unknown shore. Individuality is passionately concerned in its own destiny, yet beyond its own timid inner voice there is no articulate word to assure it of the fulfilment of the dream of immortality. In the meantime, while individuality trembles timidly upon the edge of an unknown continent, universal life announces in unmistakable accents its own triumphant conviction of survival through all accidents of time and eternity. Can individuality survive the shock of death? We do not know, though we do not cease to hope. But there is no doubt that Life can survive all shocks of pain and death; there is no doubt that in the ceaseless progress of Life through the world, births and deaths, and sickness and pain are mere incidents that never check, but rather further its onward march. This is immortality: not the pale post-mortem immortality which "no eye hath seen," but the colorful, warm, pulsing immortality of sweet flesh and blood that lives before our very eyes, and that has its beginnings ever and anon on the mysterious loom of motherhood's ecstasy of love and suffering. And of this living breathing immortality Motherhood is the deathless symbol.

And as Motherhood is a tender symbol of this observable immortality, so it is a symbol of observable infinity. There are infinitudes far removed from our vision and ken, but Life's infinitude, Life's ever-revolving eternal cycle, we can observe with our very eyes. Any bit of living thing holds in its compass all the past that ever was and all the future that ever will be. If the child is the coming man, the man is the coming child. If the oak is in the acorn, the acorn is in the oak. Life is both a record and a prophecy. And stupendous as the record is of a tenacity of creative purpose for which no word is sufficiently intense, of struggle and sacrifice and a process of lavish waste that publish themselves in birth-cries that at any moment may turn into death-shrieks, still more stupendous is the prophecy of a continued unfoldment, of greater glory, of richer abundance and growth. Life is glorious because it is an endless possibility tense with its own forward striving. We see the Genius of Life before us, its skirts still dripping with the primeval ooze that clings to the hem, but its raven locks already ornamented with all the starry jewels of the sky. A winged Victory is Life, standing by the shore of infinite worlds, its far-gazing eye looking out upon the measureless reaches of the Yet-to-be; eternally expectant, eternally hopeful, eternally future-minded. This winged Genius, whose sturdy limbs are athrob with indestructible life, who is she but the transfigured image of Motherhood—motherhood, not pictured as martyred and pierced with seven wounds, but motherhood, the hope and strength of the world, the matrix of all beauty and delight, the inexhaustible fountain of the laughing, weeping, moving, dancing play of Life's infinitude.

The oldest traces of life as found in the grooved rocks reveal Life's buoyant eagerness to live and to rise into ever higher life. This urge of life is so intense in its faintest beginnings that one can hardly accept them as beginnings. One cannot conceive of Life as not-living; and who knows but Life existed even before its rise on this planet, on some other orb, or perhaps only in the dim dreams of a restless God? I prefer to think of Life's intensity as its own proof of agelessness fore and aft; as its own evidence and warrant of its unborn and undying nature. Life was, is and will be! This stir of life in us, so sweet for all its attendant distress, has not been awakened only for a brief painful spasm, to be shocked from time to time into short-lived joys and haunting pains: it is too precious and meaningful not to last! It will ever find new perishing forms through which to assert its imperishableness; and there is something in the moist eyes of Motherhood bending over the cradle that beams forth to all the generations the eternal prophecy of Life's infinitude and immortality.

A tiny flame, it appears, has been kindled among the burning suns and wheeling stars of this world that no gust of fate nor untoward weather of the cosmos can ever snuff out of being. And the mysterious Hand that kindled the tiny flame of life placed it in the safe-keeping of generation of Mothers who shall, by their own broken breath, fan the feeble flicker into a blazing torch.

To celebrate the occasion of the acceptance by the High Commissioner of the patronage of the Jerusalem School of Music, a special concert was given at the school on February 2, which was attended by a large number of leading men and women of Jerusalem. The School was founded by Governor Storrs, and subsequently taken over by the Jewish Education Department, and is being constructed as one of the Jewish schools, with Hebrew as the language of instruction.

At the second annual conference of the Achdut Haavodah, welcome to and confidence in the General Palestine Workmen's Organization was expressed.

The Zionist Organization has concluded a contract with Lloyd's Steamship Company to have a special boat fitted for the regular transportation of Palestine pioneers. The boat will accommodate 600 passengers and will navigate between Trieste and Jaffa. It will have kosher food and most probably also a Jewish staff on board. The passage price, according to present conditions, is very moderate.

An American merchant who visited the school some months ago bought several patterns which he promised to exhibit in America.

Five Little Orphans from Across the Seas.

Zippe Shafir, Malka Shafir, Miriam Shafir, Wolf Shafir, and Raisel Shafir, 14, 12, 10, 9 and 7 years old respectively, were born in the city of Lublin, in Poland. Before the great war broke out, the father, B. Shafir, left his native town to come to this country and make a home for the wife and children who were left in Lublin. He struggled and he fought, and with courage given him by the thought of his dear ones in far off Lublin, he succeeded, establishing himself in Sioux City, Ia.

The great conflict came and the home that B. Shafir had prepared for his loved ones remained empty, he could not bring his wife and children to him. Communications were cut off and he even found it difficult to write to those he had left on the other side. Two years ago the wife and mother died, and the four little girls and the one little boy were left alone in the city of Lublin waiting for the father to send for them. And two long years they had to wait until that happy event could take place. At last the way was opened, and on the S. S. Olympic, which docked in New York harbor on March 24, the little family, led by Zippe, the fourteen-year old member, arrived. The father could not come from Sioux City, and so the children were brought to the home of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society at 229-231 East Broadway. Mr. B. Shafir was immediately informed by telegraph of the fact that his children were with the society and in safe keeping. This reply came: "Send our children at once, I am waiting." And three days later the father and children were united. At the home, Zippe, marvelously developed for her age, told the story of what had happened in the home town: of a pogrom that was interrupted. With a shudder she spoke of the insults to which the Jews were subjected. "I am glad I am here now," she added, "but, oh, I wish that dear mother was with us."

Palestine Work of the Mizrahi.

The Central Bureau of the Mizrahi World Organization has issued a report covering its activities since it was transferred to Palestine. The report, which is signed by Professor Pick and Rabbis Schonfeld and Fischman, recounts at length the various phases of the Mizrahi work in Palestine and indicates the progress which has been made in each field of endeavor. The bureau has cared for over five thousand immigrants. To aid the "Chalutzim" arriving in Palestine, the Mizrahi administrators have opened kosher kitchens and dormitories in Jaffa and Jerusalem, and information and employment bureaus. Financial assistance in the form of loans has been extended to many immigrants. In the field of education the Mizrahi has been very active, and efforts are being made continually to enlarge the scope of this important branch of activity. The Mizrahi conducts schools, Yeshiboths, a teachers' seminary, and has also taken the education of the Yemenite children under its charge. The Tachkemoni School in Jaffa, with 500 pupils, is the largest of its kind in Palestine. The status of the rabbinate in Palestine has received attention, and the bureau has given subventions to place the rabbis in various colonies on a sound basis. The report, while urging all Mizrahi to use their utmost efforts on behalf of the Keren Hayesod (Palestine Foundation Fund), demands that the money so raised shall be used to a purpose to which orthodox Jewry can conscientiously subscribe.

The "Retchpospolita," the organ of Mr. Paderewski, printed an article commenting on an interview which Mr. Sokolow gave to the Paris Matin. It accused the Zionists of making efforts to convert Poland into a Palestinian colony and of subsidizing the speculators in Poland. It further charged the Jews with provoking attacks on Poland abroad, with the introduction of Bolshevism into the country, and with avoiding military service, and fostering other crimes.

50,000 JEWISH AGRICULTURISTS IN AMERICA

Agriculture, with all of its complicated and numerous economic and social problems, is receiving today world-wide thought and serious attention. To many of us, therefore, it should be of more than passing interest to realize that there is an active and healthy "back-to-the-soil" movement taking place among the Jews in the United States. Beginning two decades ago, with a Jewish farm population of about two hundred families, this movement has grown steadily, and today we have an estimated Jewish farm population of 50,000, tilling more than a million acres. Every State has its quota of Jewish farmers, and it can be truly said that the Jewish farm movement has become national in scope.

GABRIEL DAVIDSON.

In the nurture and growth of this agricultural phenomenon the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid Society has played an important part. It has been the mother, the protector, the guide of the movement. Established in 1900 as a branch of the Baron de Hirsch Fund, this society has labored incessantly to develop farming, to establish farming as a practical ideal toward the obtaining of a healthy, happy, livelihood among the Jews in this country. In the pursuit of this goal the society has carried on, and is actively engaged in a unique and remarkable work. A comprehensive presentation of the nature of this work is to be found in the annual report just issued by Mr. Gabriel Davidson, the general manager of the society. This report contains a mass of interesting data relating to the various phases of farm life and valuable facts bearing on the economic, social and individual aspects of agriculture.

Mr. Davidson's report treats by successive steps the work done by the different bureaus and departments which the society has established. In a style that is clear and vigorous he gives a detailed description of the activities of the society's Farm Settlement Bureau, Extension Department, Sanitation Bureau, Farm Labor Department and the branch offices.

The Society's Farm Settlement Bureau is entrusted with a decidedly delicate task. Its business is to obtain the proper farm for the proper man; to enlighten the prospective Jewish farm buyer "what farming actually embraces," and to dissuade the unfit and encourage the fit. During the past year 1,736 applicants registered here for advice, guidance and aid, and farms were found for 171. To place these farmers necessitated the careful examination of 550 farms in ten different States in the East and Middle West. To this bureau is also entrusted the fraud prevention work. It is carrying on an active campaign to protect farm buyers against rapacious and dishonest real estate agents. The society's Extension Department "has always been in the forefront of progressive movements in American agriculture." This department maintains a staff of Jewish agricultural experts, and these, by a system of itinerant instruction, bring to the farmer that scientific and also practical information which today is so necessary for success in farm life. During the year these experts made 1,300 visits in 64 communities, and held 135 demonstrations, meetings, field days and farmers' institutes—all of this in addition to the giving of advice to over 1,000 farmers who sought personal interviews at the society's central office. This department also takes a lively interest and renders substantial aid to all farm community undertakings whose aim is the upbuilding and advancement of the educational, religious and social side of farm life. This year special effort was directed to organizing and perpetuating boys' and girls' clubs and junior projects. It also awards numerous free scholarships to the sons and daughters of the Jewish farmers, enabling these young folks to attend the various State agricultural colleges, and in addition grants numerous students' loans. The Extension Department publishes the only Yiddish agricultural magazine in the world, "The Jewish Farmer," a magazine which reaches thousands of Jewish tillers of the soil in every part of the United States and Canada, and is "regarded by them as the farmers' Torah."

The society's Sanitation Bureau is conducting an intensive rural health campaign and there is resulting marked advance in the direction of better sewage and refuse disposal, water supply, fly prevention and food protection on the farms of the Jewish farmers and others in Ulster and Sullivan Counties of New York State. During the year the Sanitation Bureau built a permanent sanitation exhibit at Ellenville, N. Y.; also sponsored township health ordinances, founded a sanitary league, made a Connecticut survey, and carried out a series of health and sanitation lectures in New York City. Plans have been perfected to extend this rural health activity to other Eastern cities.

The society's Farm Labor Bureau gives to a constantly increasing class of young Jewish men the opportunity to work on farms. These young men can thus test themselves through a course of practical farm service as to their fitness to take up farming as a life's work. While the primary aim of this bureau is educational, still the incidental result of supplying thousands of farmers with desirable help is by no means unimportant. This bureau, since its establishment fourteen years ago, has secured positions as farm hands for nearly 12,000 men. During the past year 1,030 men were placed. Many a Jewish immigrant is thus enabled to obtain a practical farm training—which experience will be of inestimable value to him when in the near future he starts out on a farm of his own.

The society's Loan Department since its organization has granted over $3,476,000 in loans, covering 37 States. To aid the prospective farmer in the financing of the purchase of a farm, to aid the already established farmer to finance the operation of the farm, to purchase equipment, to erect and repair buildings, to pay off mortgages or other debts—all of this is the service entrusted to the care of the Loan Department. The loans are made on substandard securities, and the repayment is spread over a long term of years. There is no exaction of bonus, commission or renewal charges. The society has thus enabled many persons to successfully undertake and, what is of equal importance, to continue the pursuit of agriculture. The Jewish farmer has had the accessibility of financial aid—but it is an aid based on honorable business principles—an aid from which all the onus of charity has been completely removed. The best of all help—self help—has been the society's aim. To this can be ascribed the fact that the society's losses have only been slightly more than 3 per cent. This section of the report which deals with the society's Loan Department also contains many comprehensive tables and charts which should be of real value for statistical farm studies and agricultural research.

Scant justice can be done to a report of such a nature and magnitude in a hurried review. To everybody interested in a movement whose aim is the creation of a happy, contented citizenship, we earnestly commend the careful study of Mr. Davidson's scholarly and timely report.

THE TRUE CHRISTIAN VS. THE NOMINAL CHRISTIAN.

By RABBI SAMUEL J. ABRAMS
Temple Ohabi Shalom, Boston, Mass.

I have no quarrel with true Christian people. I have nothing but respect for them. Show me a true Christian and I will show you a person who is above prejudice, whose life is pure with the promptings of love. But I do take issue with the nominal Christian, with him who acknowledges a Jew as the Christ with his lips and who hates the Jew in his life. It is with him who speaks of the Christ and lives as the Anti-Christ that I am forced to take issue, and with him alone; but never with the true, genuine Christian man or woman.

These nominal Christians pretend to be very much concerned with "the lost soul of the Jew." The falsehoods and lies handed down the ages by shallow ecclesiastics and bigoted minds made it appear that the Jew is a horned devil, utterly bad. They would have us change our faith and be converted to Christianity. To what lengths men will go when they are under the influence of such a teaching is illustrated by the misconceptions and falsehoods and supercilious generalities recently promulgated from a Christian pulpit in Boston. The Rev. Cortland Myers would have his congregation know that unless the Jew embraces Christianity he is doomed and damned. He is loath to admit that it is difficult to convert the Jew—but if the Jew is to receive salvation he must embrace Christianity.

Why convert the Jew? Is it because he is immoral? Who will deny the purity and simplicity of the Jewish life throughout his checkered career of 2,000 years? Is it because he is ignorant? Indeed, in spite of persecution and barriers, the Jew has contributed from his loins the honored among patriots, statesmen, authors and thinkers. Or is it because the Jew is irreligious? The folly and stupidity of this charge is evident and it is refuted in the very existence of the Jew. Had the Jew been irreligious he would have suffered the fate of all other nations of his day—he would have been swept into the gulf of oblivion. The freshness and integrity of the Jew's religious and moral life throughout the ages cannot be gainsaid. Not only did the Jew give a pure and undefiled religion to the world, but that religion has preserved the Jew.

Again, unless we acknowledge Christianity as our faith, it is urged that we shall forfeit all claims to salvation. This is by no means clear to us. What is salvation? Does it refer to the salvation of the soul hereafter? If so, then why should one leave his inherited religion? Why should one have to become a Christian in order to safeguard one's happiness after death? Is not the hereafter shrouded in mystery for all of us? Then why presume a monopoly over it? The Jewish sages say, "The righteous among all the people of the world have a portion in the world to come." Modern men who do their own thinking will prefer such a doctrine and hope to that of religious restrictionists who would have us believe that unless one turns Christian one may not hope to be saved in the hereafter. Without entering into theological disputations, suffice it to say that to the Jew salvation means spiritual satisfaction, serenity and peace in this world, rather than bliss later on.

We are opposed to conversion because it is opposed to human rights. The Jew will not profess Christianity because he denies all the characteristic dogmas of the church—the Trinity, hell, immaculate conception, atonement and resurrection of Jesus, the Athanasian creed, etc. He repudiates and rejects them all from beginning to end. The Jew's faith in one God is invulnerable and pure. His monotheism fills him with a passion for righteousness, justice and service.

The Jew adheres to his faith in spite of the pressure of the world, which is an opposition to an invincible truth. He adheres to his faith because of the irrefutable character of the truths of Judaism, because each and every principle of his faith is essential to the proper upbuilding of the social structure. And yet the Jew forces his creed upon none, feeling that with God character counts for more than creed, and conduct is of higher value than dogma.

What would the Rev. Myers or his ilk say if we sought to preach conversion of Christians to Judaism in our pulpits? What would Christians say if Jews sought actively to convert Christian to Judaism? The very thought is un-Jewish. For the Jew believes that a good Christian, a good Mohammedan, a good Buddhist is just as sure of God's approval as a good Jew.

And if we should embrace Christianity, we are frank to ask, which Christianity shall it be? Shall it be the Catholic or the Protestant? If the Catholic, shall it be the Greek or the Roman Catholic. If the Protestant, shall it be the Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Congregational, Unitarian—which? We are bewildered when we are confronted by the question of choice. If we profess Catholicism, then the Protestants will look upon us as blasphemers. If we become Protestants, we shall then be known as heretics in the sight of Catholicism. Nay, we ask where shall we find real Christianity at all? In "Christian" Russia? In "Christian" Roumania? In "Christian" Germany? In the hearts of "Christian" European monarchs who have made a vast battlefield of both hemispheres? Or will we find it in the "Christian" life led by the Rev. Cortland Myers and those like him? I do not ask these questions in the spirit of strife or controversy. Jew and Christian may, and do, work together in many things in a spirit of fellowship. I would have you remember that whatever I have to say, I have nothing but respect for the real Christian, the true Christian whose life is graced by the beautiful characteristics associated with the young Jew of Nazareth! Would that all nominal Christians were real, genuine Christians!

The Jew and the Christian will soon celebrate festivals which proclaim to the world the hopeful message of life. The Jew will observe the Passover period, during which his early ancestors rent asunder the shackles of Egyptian bondage and struck for liberty. The Christian will celebrate the Easter festival, which brings to him the message of life out of death, but which has brought death in life to millions of our people. From the time when Christianity was introduced as a state church, about 1,600 years ago, our people have suffered and bled with the coming of Easter and other characteristic festivals of the church. They have been crushed to the earth; they have been ruthlessly murdered; they have been pitilessly destroyed; their homes have been pillaged and demolished; their wives and daughters have been ravished by savage human beings; their property has been confiscated—and all, all, alas, to the greater glory and honor of a young Jew who died to bring, as his so-called followers believe, life out of death.

Is this Christianity? Is this the gospel of affection, gentleness, love, mercy and charity preached by Jesus? What shall we say of his followers? Have they shown the spirit of love? Have they been just to the Jew? Let the owls and the bats who love the darkness and hate the light make answer—the Henry Fords, the Rev. Cortland Myers, snobish, exclusive, un-American hotels, private schools and organizations. Let history answer. Let our own history, written in blood and sacred with flame, be the reply.

Do not misunderstand me. We neither hate nor denounce Christians. Not less Christianity do we wish, but more thoroughly good, pious, noble-hearted Christians. I know no hate of Christians; I only regret that I have so rarely met one. The world would be a better place to live in if real Christians were as common as nominal Christians. Our hope is that the nominally Christian world may be converted to the true Christian spirit.

First convert Christians to Christianity! Conversion, like charity, begins at home. One good, real Christian who leads a righteous life is a more potent missionary than the best missionary organization or all the "conversion sermons" preached by the Rev. Cortland Myers. The words of the Christian Savior are to the point: "Thou hypocrite! First cast out the beam out of thine own eye, then wilt thou see to cast out the mote of thy brother's." The enemies of the Jew lie. But one truth the Rev. Myers did say: The Jews will not become Christians!—Boston (Mass.) Post.

Washington Heights Y. M. H. A. Celebrates Anniversary.

Amidst dazzling decorations, glitter, joy, festivity and song, 200 people, founders of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Washington Heights and their friends, gathered Sunday evening, March 27, in the auditorium at a banquet to celebrate the fourth anniversary of the founding of the Y. M. H. A. of Washington Heights.

Mr. Samuel C. Lampert, the toastmaster of the evening, after briefly outlining the value of a Jewish-American Institution, introduced to the guests Dr. S. R. Schultz as the president, organizer and founder of the Y. M. H. A. He told of the inception of the institution and discussed the progress up to the present time with its membership of 2,500, occupying an entire building. Mr. Schultz pointed with pride to such men as Joseph Eckstein, Morris Littman, Charles Cohen, Morris Stern, H. G. Cooperman, M. R. Spear, Sol Cohen, Emanuel Hertz, Jacob Klein and Alfred Munzer, who are the pillars of the institution.

Mr. Emanuel Hertz presented a novel feature of the evening. He showed a water color of a bronze tablet which will be placed in the new building that is to be erected in the near future. On the tablet will be engraved the first fifty names of those who contribute towards the fund. The fifty names were sold within a short space of time at the rate of $1,000 per line and upwards. At no time in the history of the Y. M. H. A. of Washington Heights was there such an inspiring and responsive gathering as that on March 27.

Restaurant Owners Dine.

The members of the United Restaurant Owners' Association held their annual entertainment, banquet and ball on Wednesday evening, March 30, at the Hotel Pennsylvania, where a very large assemblage gathered and enjoyed the dinner and entertainment.

AN AUSPICIOUS DAY

Dear Children:
Just as there are occasions in our lives when a certain day is the red letter day, the great occasion which we look forward to with the greatest joy and which we recall with the utmost fondness, so are there such occasions in the life of a nation. Such was the day on which Nachshon, the son of Amminadab offered his offering, as the Torah tells us, "And he that offered his offering on the first day was Nachshon, the son of Amminadab, of the title of Judah." "That day," says Rashi, quoting the Seder Olam, "was crowned with ten crowns, it was the first day of the works of creation, the first day of the first month, the first day of the offering of the princes, the first day of the priesthood, the first day of the sacred services, the first day that the fire descended from heaven, the first day that the holy offerings were eaten, the first day that it was forbidden to sacrifice on the high places, the first day that the Schechina, or Divine presence, dwelt with Israel, the first day that Israel received the priestly benediction—"of the title of Judah." Scripture thus gives his genealogy, but does not tell us that he collected the money from the tribe of Judah for his offering, and lest we infer that "of the tribe of Judah" means that he collected the money from his tribe and brought the offering, therefore we are taught "this was the offering of Nachshon" (par. 17) of his own money did he offer the offering. "And his offering was one silver charger, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, one silver bowl of seventy shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary; both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil for a meat offering," which was a free will offering—"One spoon of ten shekels of gold, full of incense" this was, as translated by Onkelos, of the weight of ten shekels of the sanctuary—"full of incense." We have not found that incense formed part of the offering of an individual, nor that it was offered on the outside altar, excepting in this case, and that was only allowed for this special occasion: "Par echad," "one young bullock," "meynchad," "shebeedro," "the best of his flock," "one he-goat for a sin offering" to atone for the uncleanness begot by unknowingly walking over a spot where the dead is interred, and when one is in doubt whether he is unclean or not. "On the second day Nethanel, the son of Znar, the prince of Issachar, did offer." "He offered for his offering." What are we taught by the phrase "He offered" concerning the tribe of Issachar, which is not stated of all the other tribes? That is because the tribe of Reuben came and claimed that "after my brother Judah took precedence over me, I ought to offer my offering after him," to which Moses replied, "From the mouth of the Almighty was it told to me that they should offer in the order of their journeying according to their banners," therefore it is said "Hikriv, he offered," and it is written without a "yod," indicating "Hakrave," a command that he offer, for by the Almighty was he commanded to offer, and why the repetition "Hikrive, Hikrive," because for two reasons did he merit to offer the second of the tribes, one reason because they knew the Torah, as it is said, "And of the children of Issachar, these who had understanding of the times" (I Chronicles 12) and another reason, because they advised the princes to make these offerings. "This," says Rashi, "I have found in the treatise of Rabbi Moses, the expounder. Said Rabbi Pinchas, the son of Yair, Nethanel, the son of Znar, gave them this advice: 'Karath Keseph,'" one silver charger. The numerical value of these words is 930 to symbolize the years of Adam, the first man, the weight whereof was a hundred and thirty shekels, to symbolize the age of Adam when he begot generations, as it is said, "And Adam lived a hundred and thirty years and begot a son in his likeness" (Genesis 5). "Mizrak echad Keseph," one silver bowl. The numerical value of these words are 520, significant of the age at which Noah begot generations, 500 years, and of the twenty years when the flood was decreed, previous to his generation, "seventy shekels," signifying the seventy nations of idol-worshippers that descended from his children. "Kaph achas," one spoon, ("Kaph" also means "hand"), symbolizing the Torah that was given by the hand of the Holy One, blessed be He, "often shekels of gold," typifying the ten commandments. "Meleha Ketoreth," "full of incense," the numerical value of the word "Ketoreth" is 613 (the "Kupf" figuring as "daleth," according to the alphabet, changing "Aleph" into "Tan," "Beth" into "Shin," etc.). "One young bullock," symbolizing Abraham, of whom it is said, "And he fetches a calf" (Gen. 18). "One rain," symbolical of Isaac, concerning whom it is said he took the rain (Gen. 22). "One sheep," typifying Jacob, as it is said, "And these lambs did Jacob separate"—"One he-goat for a sin offering" to make atonement for the selling of Joseph, concerning it is said, "And they killed a he-goat" (Gen. 37). "And for a sacrifice of peace offering, two oxen," emblematic of Moses and Aaron, who made peace between Israel and their Father in Heaven. Rams, sheep and he-goats were offered—three kinds to symbolize priests, Levites and Israelites, also the Torah, the Prophets and the Scriptures—three times five were offered, symbolic of the five books of the Torah, and the five commandments written on one table, and the five commandments written on the other table. Thus was it expounded by Rabbi Moses, the Expounder: "On the third day the prince of the children of Zebulun" did offer, thus with all the tribes, excepting Nethanel, of whom it is said, "Nethanel did offer," therefore it is stated afterward the prince of Issachar, inasmuch as his name and the fact that he offered was already mentioned, but of the rest where "Hikriv" is not said, it is properly stated "the prince of this or that tribe," meaning that day the prince who offered was of that tribe.

A PLEA FOR JEWISH CHARITIES.

By MAX D. STEUER.

The poor, stricken, afflicted and needy of every community are the wards of the prosperous. The Jewish stricken, afflicted, poor and needy are primarily the wards of the Jewish capable, fortunate and competent. In the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx there is a Jewish population numbering over one million. Of necessity, it is made up of peoples in different social, financial and physical condition. To a few of these so varying circumstances I will advert. There are in those two boroughs several hundreds of parentless waifs between the ages of several days and five years. They came into the world entirely involuntarily. They made no request to be permitted to come in.

DREYFUSS, THEOPHILE G.—In pursuance of an order of Honorable John P. Cohalan, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against Theophile G. Dreyfuss, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber at his place of transacting business, at the office of Maurice B. and Daniel W. Blumenthal, his attorneys, at No. 35 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, State of New York, on or before the third day of October, 1921, next.

STERN, WILLIAM.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. John P. Cohalan, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against William Stern, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber, at her place of transacting business at the office of A. Stern, her attorney, at No. 31 Nassau Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, State of New York, on or before the 1st day of October, 1921, next.

MARX, W. BENNETT.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. James A. Foley, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against W. Bennett Marx, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof, to the subscribers, at their place of transacting business at the office of Jacob I. Berman, their attorney, at No. 346 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, State of New York, on or before the 23d day of August, 1921, next.

MONNESS, HYMAN.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. John P. Cohalan, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against Hyman Monness, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers thereof, to the subscribers, at their place of transacting business, at the office of Lind & Pfeiffer, their attorneys, at No. 46 Cedar Street, Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, State of New York, on or before the 1st day of September, 1921, next.

CHOSNEK, NATHAN.—The People of the State of New York, by the Grace of God, free and independent, to all the heirs at law and next of kin of NATHAN CHOSNEK, deceased, if any there be, whose names and addresses are unknown, and the Attorney General, State of New York, Send Greeting: Whereas, Dorothy Chosnek, who resides at Hotel Breslin, 29th Street and Broadway, the City of New York, has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York, to have a certain instrument in writing, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Nathan Chosnek, who was, at the time of his death, a resident of Borough of Manhattan, the County of New York, deceased; Therefore, you and each of you are cited to show cause before the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York, at the Hall of Records, in the County of New York, on the 3d day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why the said will and testament should not be admitted to probate as a will of real and personal property. In Testimony Whereof, we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witnesses, Honorable John P. Cohalan, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, [L. S.] York, at said County, the 15th day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one. DANIEL J. DOWDNEY, Clerk of the Surrogates' Court.

There is no one to take care of them. They are humans. They are Jewish. They are, therefore, the natural wards of the Jewish people. The Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, functioning for the Jews, has affiliated with it institutions which provide nurses to act as substitute mothers to these tots. They afford them care and attention and oftentimes devotion and affection such almost as a mother would give. These babes are not the recipients of all the love that your offspring receives, but sufficient is done for them to prevent their growing up continually embittered by the unfortunate circumstances under which they began life. On the contrary, by reason of the generosity bestowed upon them, the milk of human kindness flows in their veins and they become good men and good women, taking their places in the world for its betterment. This is one of the results of the Federation.

There are, as part of this population, several thousands of Jewish orphans at ages such that it is impossible for them to look after themselves. They, too, are humans. The Federation has affiliated institutions that take care of these orphans, provide them with a home, give them a bringing up, a maintenance and an education such that many of them become in after life the leading citizens of their respective communities and leaders in the enterprises in which they engage. No one can measure the benefits conferred by these orphan asylums, nor the catastrophes avoided by reason of their efficient administration. This is another of the results of Federation.

There are among the Jews in New York many widowed mothers and widower fathers, who are capable of self-sustenance provided they are not compelled to remain home to look after their very young children. These children, too, are your wards. They also are humans. They likewise are entitled to a chance in life. The Federation has affiliated institutions to which these children are sent, where they are cared for during the day, in charge of proper teachers and nurses. The parents are thereby enabled to go to work and earn sufficient to maintain themselves, which otherwise they could not do. The result would be additional charges upon the public. This is another of the beneficent works of the Federation.

There are, of necessity, in this million and more of Jewish population, many boys and girls at ages during which character is in the making. By reason of the circumstances of the parents, the breadwinner is away from home most of the time and the mother is engaged in looking after the household. Neither father nor mother is so situated as to be able to give much attention to the child. These children practically bring themselves up. Their residences are located frequently, if not in the worst, certainly not in the best, sections of the city. The associations made upon the streets oftentimes lead to most wicked influences. These children, permitted at large, would acquire habits which would make for most unfortunate results. The federation has affiliated with it a number of institutions which have established throughout the different sections of the city settlements at which are provided rooms to which these children have recourse during the hours when the public schools are closed, and those who are of an age such that they are at work during the day have recourse to them during the evening. In these houses properly fitted gymnasiums are to be found, musical and elocution instruction is afforded, clubs are formed and, under appropriate chaperonage, girls and boys, young men and women meet under conditions such that everything is done to make of them good men and women, well fitted to take their proper place in the community's midst. The numbers that are thus kept from becoming members of the criminal classes are legion. This is another of the accomplishments of Federation.

Among a million people there is bound to be a class who, having labored during the greater part of their lives at toils that sap vitality, have become spent and worn and are incapable of further self-maintenance. Their condition is one of utter despair. No spectacle can be more pitiful than that of people who have reached the winter of life with no prospect of a ray of sunshine. In the absence of aid, their outlook is upon an existence of starvation. Federation has affiliated institutions especially adapted to care for such aged and infirm. These provide housing facilities and appropriate pastimes for the men and women so unhappily situated. By them the ending years of these people are converted from intolerable misery to periods of comparative comfort and happiness. This is another of the results of Federation.

In a population of such size there are bound to be many afflicted with disease, some inherited, others acquired. Ailments come more often to the poor and the needy than to the prosperous and well circumstanced. Those who are undernourished more readily yield to the ravage of disease. To look after these afflicted, Federation has affiliated hospitals and homes, better equipped than which there are none in the world. In the wards of these hospitals attention and aid are given to the patient by the most capable surgeons and medical practitioners, and nursing is afforded as competent as that as can under any conditions be obtained. The food and supplies are of the very best. This is another of the accomplishments of Federation.

These are but a very few of the activities to which the affiliated institutions in Federation are devoted, and likewise but a very few of the classes of people to whom Federation ministers. But they serve, I trust, sufficiently for illustration purposes of the absolute necessity for the existence of Federation.

Many little know how the men and women affiliated with Federation have been compelled to sacrifice their home life and ties, neglect their business interests, their social amenities, in addition to giving freely of their time, money and energy, in order to maintain these institutions properly. Any person familiar with the work of these men and women is at all times ready to sound the praises of Federation. Not only has Federation not been a failure; it has been in every way a tremendous success. Only those who are ignorant of the labors that the men and women in charge of the administration of its affairs have performed, permit themselves to criticize Federation. Constructive criticism is always most welcome. Criticism by the unknowing is always hurtful.

Unfortunately, there is no decrease in the number of infants that annually need the protection of Federation.

There is no decrease in the number of boys and girls, young men and women, who would be subject to the adverse influences of the streets if institutions were not provided to which they have recourse for gymnastic exercises, wholesome games played, good music heard, debates participated in and conducted.

There is no annual decrease in the numbers who become sick, lame, wounded and disabled, and who, of necessity, have recourse to the wards of the homes and hospitals.

There is no annual decrease in the numbers of men and women who become so aged and infirm as to be unable to provide for and look after themselves.

There is no decrease in the number of those who, though living at home, are nevertheless without employment or incapable of work, and who need alms and aid, such as are provided by institutions affiliated with Federation for that specific purpose.

Even the number of the blind and the tubercular annually increases. Federation has affiliated institutions that give a special care and relief to these unfortunates.

The number of orphans, too, annually increases.

The consequence is that greater amounts of money are each year needed for the purpose of meeting the necessary expenditures. The activities of all the affiliated institutions are now curtailed for lack of funds. The money which has been thus far raised has been allotted to the different branches of the work with a care and caution used only in the administration of trust funds. The labors of the Distribution Committee of Federation are and have been prodigious. The men on that committee have performed their duties with fidelity and an ability akin to genius; but they cannot distribute what they have not got.

The hapless infants, the orphans, the children of the streets, the growing youth, the sick, the wounded, the blind, the deaf, the mute and tubercular, the aged and infirm, all now look to the Jews of this city. They are their wards. We are their trustees, their guardians, their providers, their benefactors, their saviors.

The activities of these institutions must not only be continued, they must be increased. The job of raising the necessary money is ours. It is a splendid employment. It should be considered a privilege to be engaged in such a work. We must make it part of our every day endeavor. Our particular and immediate duty is to become thoroughly familiar with the workers in Federation and the work that the affiliated institutions do. We must then organize and appoint committees so subdivided that their efforts will acquaint all the Jewish people with the work of these institutions. By all the Jewish people, I mean all, in every walk of life, in every station. Our efforts must not be confined, as in the past, among only the few whom you deem capable of easily affording to contribute. All must be canvassed. The organization must be complete and the canvass thorough. It must be a campaign of education. We must designate the information with relation to these institutions and their accomplishments. When this is done our task will be finished.

The Jewish people is a good people, a wholesome people, a kind people, a giving people.

All that is necessary is that the real facts should be known. It is our duty to make them known. It will be the desire and joy of the Jewish people to support these worthy institutions. They will gladly give, and we should be glad to work to make them give.

Surely, successful life does not consist in only looking after one's self and one's own. Nor in establishing for one's self a successful enterprise. One cannot be said to have lived successfully because, perchance, he has established a fine banking business, here and there tried a case with fortunate result, made a successful surgical operation, or had a happy consequence of medical treatment. Success in life cannot be attained by merely establishing a prosperous business. Indeed, the greatest compensation comes to those who render service unto others without hope of reward.

Last Saturday Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber completed twenty years of service with K. A. M. Temple. This coming June it will be thirty-five years since he graduated from the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati and entered upon his active ministry. The congregation took notice of these two events by holding special services Saturday morning, April 2.

Hebrew Tabernacle Notes.

The Hebrew Tabernacle, Broadway at 158th street, but for fifteen years at 130th street and Seventh avenue, has entered upon the most brilliant period of its history. The seven months since Dr. I. Mortimer Bloom was elected rabbi of the congregation has witnessed a remarkable development. The religious school has considerably increased its enrollment, the Sisterhood membership has doubled and a congregational membership drive now under way bids fair to triple the membership of some months ago. The attendance at the Friday night services fills the tabernacle auditorium. Dr. Bloom has organized the Young Folks League, the Junior League, a troop of Boy Scouts and two troops of Girl Scouts, and has been the moving spirit in many other of the congregation's activities. His services have been in wide demand in all parts of the city.

At present all the tabernacle organizations are devoting themselves to the huge task of raising several hundred thousand dollars necessary for the completion of the large and pretentious synagogue and community centre to be erected in West 161st street, between Broadway and Ft. Washington avenue. The new tabernacle will contain 2,000 sittings and will accommodate 1,000 in its religious school.

A number of affairs are being held for the building fund, the last during the present season being a musical comedy by the children and the Junior League, followed by a dance, to be given Sunday evening, June 5, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Jewish Children Visit Hippodrome. Through the courtesy of the management of the Hippodrome, the 500 boys and girls of the Montefiore Hebrew School at 40 Gouverneur street were enabled to see "Good Times" last Tuesday evening.

Rabbi Dr. Isaac Herzog, of Dublin, has accepted the invitation of the Council of the Adath Yisroel Synagogue of London, England, to become its rabbi. Dr. Herzog, who will take up his duties the first week in May, is the son of Rabbi J. L. Herzog, now chief rabbi of the Russian and Polish Jews in Paris. For some time he was assistant to his father in Paris, and was in 1916 appointed minister in Bellast, migrating to Dublin, to hold a similar appointment, in 1919.

In a long speech delivered in the Polish House, Deputy Grunbaum criticized Mr. Vitos for not fulfilling his promises to the Jews. He accused the Premier of trying to create a good impression abroad by making pro-Jewish pronouncements, but of avoiding any pro-Jewish action. The Jewish deputies also interpellated the government on the closing of the Jewish People's University at Chenshochow, and the ill-treatment of Jews by the police in the Sosnawice district.

Six new Sisterhoods have joined the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods within recent weeks. The National Federation of Sisterhoods now numbers 242 societies.

At a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Hebrew Union College, last week, the resignation of Dr. Kaufman Kohler as president of the faculty, which had been presented to the board last month, was accepted with expressions of deep regret. The resignation is effective at the end of the present academic year, September 1. Immediately after the acceptance of his resignation as president, Dr. Kohler was elected President Emeritus for life, effective upon his retirement from the active presidency, with his present full salary of $7,000 a year.

A report on the increased activity of the American Zionist Medical Unit in Palestine for the year 1920, over the year 1919, shows that the unit's hospital work has increased over 30 per cent. The number of visits to patients' homes has increased from 1,300 to nearly 2,000, or by some 50 per cent., due to the extension of work in colonies and labor camps, and there has been a still larger increase in the work of the laboratories, from 1,460 in December, 1919, to over 35,000 in December, 1920, an increase of nearly 150 per cent.

BROOKLYN NOTES.

Bath Beach Y. M. H. A. to Build.
At a special committee meeting of the executive board of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Bath Beach, which was held last Sunday night and attended by a number of the leading Jews of Bath Beach, Bensonhurst and outlying districts, the president of the institution, Mr. Herman Neaderland, empowered a committee to purchase a suitable plot, preferably an acre of ground, upon which is to be built a modern Y. M. H. A. building. The building when finished will take the place of the present building located at Cropsy and Twentieth avenues, Brooklyn. The committee appointed for this purpose is composed of Mr. Morris I. Lewin and Mr. Abraham Gash, both of Bath Beach.

THE NEW SEABRIGHT Mrs. G. DAVIS, Prop.
109-11 S. RHODE ISLAND AVE. Near the Beach. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
Newly renovated, redecorated and furnished. Running water and private baths. Open all year. Make reservations now for Passover. Seder services both nights. Strictly Kosher.

The announcement of the naming of the committee actually to make arrangements for the purchase of land for the new building was heralded throughout the nearby section in a little while, after the most welcome news was made public, and in a short time hundreds of citizens of Bath Beach and Bensonhurst began to conjecture where the "Y" will be built.
During the past three years the institution has had rapid growth and during its ten years of existence more than 10,000 young men and women have passed through the classes and clubs conducted at the "Y." For nearly a year the institution has been entirely inadequate to house the many activities conducted at its quarters, and because the community of Bath Beach almost en masse, since October of last year, has shown great appreciation and interest in the immediate establishment of a center which will house all the Jewish activities of the locality. Mr. Neaderland became encouraged by the clamoring appeals made and soon began to interest two hundred and fifty of the leading residents of Bath Beach and the outlying districts, which finally brought about the excellent results.

Forum of the Congregation of the Sons of Israel of Bath Beach.

The first session of the Jewish Public Forum of Bath Beach was conducted last Sunday night at the synagogue of the Congregation of the Sons of Israel at Benson and Twenty-first avenues, under the auspices of the Young Folks' League, which is an auxiliary of the synagogue, composed of the young men and women upwards of twenty-one years of age.

Dr. Julius Hochfelder, who is the executive director of the Young Men's Hebrew Association of Bath Beach, was the first speaker and chose for his address the subject of "Intermarriage." At the beginning of the address, Doctor Hochfelder stated that in the course of his lecture from the pulpit, he would not give his individual opinion on the subject.

Throughout the discourse he gave a resume of the facts as they are found to exist from ancient times to modern days, and closed in summing up both the opinions and edicts of the Christian Church and of the Synagogues of Orthodox and Reformed Jews.

In closing it was pointed out that a person who has one parent of Christian origin, even if raised as a Jew, is more likely to marry a Christian than a Jew, because socially he comes into intimate contact with his Christian relatives and their friends. Of the latter it is doubtful whether any Jews are left after two or three generations.

The next weekly forum meeting will be April 8, at 8:45 p. m.

Miss Henigson Resigns as Flatbush Center Directress.

The officers of the Jewish Communal Center of Flatbush announce the resignation of Jeannette Henigson, directress. Miss Henigson has been with the organization for thirteen months, in which time she helped materially to organize the affairs of the institution. With her aid, activities were developed and sustained, members and their families were interested, and the business affairs of the organization were well administered. The children particularly will miss Miss Henigson, for she not only directed their clubs and arranged their parties and good times, but she also coached their dramatic performances and other entertainments.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Orthodox Jewish Christian Scientists. Editor Hebrew Standard:

Please permit me to comment upon the remarks recently made by Dr. Aaron Brav regarding Christian Scientists as quoted in your issue of March 26. Dr. Brav's letter, which appeared in the "Medical Review," contained many inaccurate statements, and the extract which you have reproduced is in that category. To say that no orthodox Jew, that is, no one who has had a "rational and practical training and lived in the atmosphere of practical Jewish life," has ever become a Christian Scientist is quite untrue. Equally without foundation is the statement that not one "Hebrew reading Jew" can be found among these "parlor Scientists" and the statement that a person versed in Talmudic knowledge and Hebrew literature is entirely impervious to what Dr. Brav is pleased to call "mental vagaries." It is by no means my purpose to exaggerate or to emphasize the defection from the Jewish religion to the ranks of Christian Science, but there are in New York City alone a great many Jews trained in the Talmud, entirely familiar with the Hebrew language, who have left the religion of their fathers for Christian Science. A considerable number of these are among my acquaintances, and I have discussed with them on various occasions their former religious views as well as those which they have accepted in becoming Christian Scientists. I feel this statement should be made in justice to your paper, as I am sure you wish to state the facts in the case.

Chairman Christian Science Committee on Publication.

Semitism and Anti-Semitism.

Editor Hebrew Standard:
Under caption of "Semitism and Anti-Semitism," Rabbi Blau advocates the combating of anti-Jewish (anti-Semitism is a misnomer, for there are Semitic races against whom nothing is said because they are not of the Jewish faith) by "educating ourselves." He says, "For noise we must substitute dignity, for denunciation of others, honest scrutiny of our own conduct and character." Great heavens! When perjury, forgery and falsehood is used against us; when a whole race is being accused of every imaginable crime without any foundation, by monsters who call themselves American citizens, is it time to keep quiet? Will it not be interpreted as an admission of guilt? The Talmud says, "Shetika Keldoe"—one being accused and does not refute it, is equal to admission of guilt.

The rabbi's putting in the mouth of Ford and his like the following: "Wherefore have you of all peoples been so unfortunate as to bring down upon your heads the relentless hatred of the world?" There must be something wrong with you!

When a physician is called to treat a cancerous disease his duty is to try to cure it, to cut it out if necessary, not to blame the patient for past actions which may have been the cause of the disease. As to the cause of Jew-hating there is no mystery about it. There are three causes, namely: Religious, economical, and political.

1—Religious: Abraham escaped with his life from Kashdin, his birthplace, because he destroyed the idols and was preaching monotheism. The Jews, one branch of his descendants, continue the preaching and are persecuted.

2—Economical: "Isaac became rich and the Philistines envied him," and "Abimelech said unto Isaac, 'Go away from us for thou hast become much mightier than we.'" Here we have economical jealousy.

3—Political: "There arose a new king over Egypt," etc.; he said unto his people, "The children of Israel are too many and too mighty for us; when there befallth us any war they also join themselves unto our enemies and fight against us," etc. Here is political fear.

The remedy: We must follow our ancestors. Were Abraham, Isaac, Moses, Mordecai, the Maccabean pacifists? No! They were fighters, fighting for their rights, and they conquered. We cannot compromise with the wicked monsters; we must expose them, and the Fords, the Chestertons and the Bellocs must go down the way the Pharaohs, the Bellams and the Hamans went. I do not fear for Israel, for "Hinei lo isnum velo yishon shemar Ishroel." But as a good American citizen I fear for our liberties, our constitution and our institutions when preaching hatred of one class of our citizens against another class should be permitted to go unpunished.

DR. L. W. ZWISOHN:
New York, April 5, 1921.

The new State of Danzig contains about 2,300 Jewish souls, of whom some 30 per cent. were not German citizens under the old regime. Usually they received annual permission to remain in Danzig, and in this way hundreds of them have been resident in the town for forty years and more without actually obtaining German citizenship. The difficulty now is that these people, who for all practical purposes have been citizens of Danzig, do not acquire that citizenship automatically, and the Popular Assembly of the new state is at present elaborating a naturalization bill whereby these Jews will be granted Danzig citizenship.

THE RELIEF WORK IN PALESTINE.

Foreword.—As is well known, lack of funds compelled the Joint Distribution Committee to decide last November on a material reduction of its appropriations for immediate relief work for the eight months ending June 30, 1921, and thereafter to discontinue this work altogether and to confine itself to reconstruction, child care and medical relief work. Shortly afterwards, Dr. De Sola Pool, the regional director of the Joint Distribution Committee in Palestine, urged the Vaad Hachumi, or Jewish National Council, of that country to take over the work which the committee was about to give up. In order to give the Vaad Hachumi a clear idea of the task confronting it, Dr. Pool submitted the following account of the Joint Distribution Committee's work in Palestine until November, 1920:

The sending the relief ship "Vulcan" was the first great step which the Jews of America took in behalf of war-stricken Palestine. Since then the stream of money has never ceased flowing and enormous sums have been sent there for distribution among the sufferers from the war and its consequences. At first the relief work was administered by the American consul and later on by various committees which arose during the war. After the British conquest the Zionist Commission undertook to distribute the American relief funds; of late, however, the Joint Distribution Committee has taken over the whole work and carried it on under its own name and supervision. To appreciate the extent of the aid which the Jews of America have through the J. D. C. rendered to their brethren in the Holy Land, it is sufficient to remember that in the course of one year and a half, namely, from January 1, 1919, till June 30, 1920, the sum of $1,998,733.72 was granted to Palestine.

The work of the Joint Distribution Committee in Palestine is divided into the following branches:

1. Orphans.—The number of orphans (14 years or younger) supported by the committee in the cities and some of the colonies of Palestine is about 4,000. Their whole maintenance (food, clothing, shoes, school, manual training, etc.) is paid for by the J. D. C., which in addition also supports a number of orphanages.

2. Widows.—These number about 700. 3. Deserted.—These include women and families whose husbands and supporters have abandoned them and who are left without means.

(The foregoing three branches of the work are carried on by the Orphans' Committee, which consists of Mr. Bentwich, Mr. Van Friesland, Mr. Sacher, Mr. Uziel, Dr. Pool and Miss Berger, the director of the orphan department. In all, the J. D. C. expends 9,000 Turkish pounds a month in behalf of the orphans, widows and the deserted.)

4. The Aged.—There are some 2,000 of them, mostly in Jerusalem, and the support given them amounts to £T1,500 a month.

5. The Afflicted, the Incurable, Etc.—These cost the J. D. C. about £T530 a month.

6. Emergency Relief.—This is granted in some cases of private or public misfortune. Thus more than £T2,000 was given, either in the form of a subsidy or of a loan, to the victims of the riots and £T1,000 to those who suffered from the snowstorms. The emergency relief given to individuals amounts to at least £T550 a month.

7. Families of Sick Persons.—Formerly this form of relief cost £T600 a month; now it is diminishing.

8. The Blind.—Nearly the whole expense of maintaining the school for the blind—£T225 a month—is borne by the J. D. C.

9. Soup Kitchens.—The two large soup kitchens in Jerusalem, "Straus" and "Dreyfus"; the cost-price kitchen (also in Jerusalem) and the kitchens at Jaffa, Haifa, Tiberias and Safed have all been maintained with J. D. C. funds.

10. Clothing.—The distribution of the clothing sent by the Zionist Organization of America has entailed a monthly expense of £T75.

11. Religious Institutions.—Under this head comes the aid given to rabbis, rabbinical students and to the teachers and students of the yeshivahs. Large sums have been expended to establish and maintain rabbinical offices at Jerusalem, Hebron and Safed. Altogether, the religious institutions cost the J. D. C. £T2,400 a month.

12. Immigrant Aid.—The Joint Distribution Committee has shared largely in the expenses of the Zionist Commission in maintaining immigration offices in Jaffa, Haifa and Beirut, while the Jerusalem Immigration Office is wholly maintained by the committee. For this purpose the J. D. C. has expended at least £T1,000 during the last few months.

13. Medical Aid.—All the expenses of the Shaare Zedek Hospital and of the Eye Hospital in Jerusalem, as well as of the City Hospital in Jaffa, are defrayed by the committee. This item amounts to £T925 a month. The Jewish Health Bureau has had all its expenses—£T400 a month—covered by the J. D. C. During the past year the sick fund of the Achdus Hoavodah received £T5,037 and that of the Poel Hazor £T2,470, from the J. D. C. Besides this, the committee has given £T800 a month for sanitary work among the immigrants, especially those employed at road building, and also pays half of the expenses of the American Zionist Medical Union. Smaller amounts are granted to sick persons in various cities and colonies. 14. Students.—During the past year the students of various schools (School for Teachers, the Mizrahi School for Teachers, the Bezalel School, the School of Horticulture and the Jaffa Gymnasium) were given £T4,695 in the form of loans and £T1,488 in the form of subsidies.

15. Employment.—Under this head are included numerous activities carried on with J. D. C. funds. The committee has shared in the expense of digging irrigation canals and paid for the cleaning of streets and of mineral wells, etc., thereby giving employment to many starving persons. It has granted large sums in the form of loans to associations of road builders at Tiberias (£T3,500) and Haifa (£T600), as well as to various institutions, such as the Zizith and Scroll of the Law Establishment (£T600), Bezalel (£T3,000) and to schools for executives, government clerks, surveyors and stenographers. It has also paid part of the expenses of the Gardeners' Associations organized by Mr. Bentwich and all the expenses of the Shoemakers' Co-operative.

16. Trade Schools and Shops.—The following institutions had all or part of their expenses paid by the J. D. C.: The Shoshanah Handicraft School, the Sewing School for Jewish Girls in Jerusalem, the workshop run by the School for the Blind, the sewing schools at Jaffa, Haifa, Safed and Hebron, and others.

17. Loans.—During the year ended October, 1920, the loans granted by the Joint Distribution Committee aggregated £T40,063. Loans were granted to various institutions and for various purposes; to the City Council of Jaffa for the purchase of cheap provisions; to the Fishers' Association of Chinereth and Atlit; to the herring plant at Haifa; to the community of Bokharite Jews which has been greatly impoverished through the severance of communications with Bokhara, £T150 a month; to the group of Jewish wagoners who were dismissed by their Arabian employers, £T320; to the People's Fund, £T250; for the repairing of public roads at Haifa, £T800, and at Tel-Aviv, £T900; for the repairing of buildings like talmud torahs, yeshivahs, Bezalel, etc., £T1,000. In particular the amounts lent to immigrants have grown during the last few months £T500 to £T1,000 a month.

18. The Loan Fund.—This institution, with branches in every city and several colonies, was founded by the Joint Distribution Committee. The local offices of this institution grant thousands of loans (not exceeding £T25 each) to artisans, small traders, officials, teachers, etc., most of whom are thus helped to their feet. Because of the many benefits the loan fund is bringing to the country, it is the intention of the committee to place it on a solid foundation so as to enable it to perpetuate itself. The interest charges have been raised in order to defray as far as possible the expense of administering the loan fund, and also in order to make the borrower feel that he is getting not charity, but a loan, which he is expected to pay back.

19. The Syrian Fund.—The activity of the Joint Distribution Committee has not been confined within the boundaries of Palestine. Certain sums, included under the head of the Syrian fund, were set aside for trade schools and workshops, for orphanages, immigrant and medical aid in Beirut, Damascus, Aleppo and Sidon. For all these purposes the sum of £T8,500 was expended during the past year.

To complete the account of the Joint Distribution Committee's activities in Palestine, we must add that it has granted special relief for Passover needs, which last year amounted to £T8,000; that it has supervised the distribution of the Montefiore Foundation Funds, thereby eliminating the unfairness which had characterized their distribution; that it has tried to locate abroad the relatives of those receiving aid and the husbands of deserted women; and that it has acted as transmitting agent for all remittances from abroad intended for individuals and institutions in Palestine.

Half Million Suits of Underwear for Polish Relief.

Five hundred thousand suits of men's underwear, the largest clothing shipment of its kind made in the history of American Jewish relief work, have just been sent to Poland in response to a cablegram from Dr. Harry Plotz, directing medical relief in Eastern and Central Europe for the Joint Distribution Committee. Dr. Plotz, in command of a medical unit of seventeen sanitary specialists combating typhus and other epidemic diseases in Poland and other infected countries, cabled that the largest possible shipment of underwear should be dispatched at once to make their anti-typhus campaign effective.

"Spread of typhus cannot be stopped without giving stricken people fresh, clean underwear," he cabled. "All work of no avail if they must go back to dirty, vermin-infested rags."

Included in the shipment were 2,500 pairs of rubber gloves for distribution in Polish hospitals, part of the medical supplies requested by Dr. Plotz.

Two million dollars has been appropriated for the medical relief program to be carried out by Dr. Plotz, which is being raised by the American Jewish Relief Committee, chief fund raising organization of the Joint Distribution Committee, in its 1921 appeal for $14,000,000, decided upon as the irreducible minimum required to place the stricken Jews of Eastern and Central Europe back upon a self-supporting basis.

Dr. Buchler to Be Dined.
 The Executive Board of the Beth Abraham Home for Incurables, 612 Al-lerton avenue, Bronx, New York, will give a dinner and reception to the Rev. Samuel Buchler, chairman of the Executive Board and Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets, New York city, on Sunday, April 3, at the Hotel Commodore, Forty-second street and Lexington avenue, city.
 Dr. Buchler has been a staunch advocate of the establishment of this Home for Incurables and has contributed very largely towards its success. The Beth Abraham Home for Incurables has now about 100 patients, the former charges of the institutions of the Department of Public Welfare, Blackwell's Island. It was Dr. Buchler's contention that these unfortunate incurables should not be a burden upon the city of New York and that there ought to be sufficient funds raised among Jews to establish a home of their own. As a result of his frequent appeals to the Jewish public, Dr. Buchler made the purchase of the Beth Abraham Home for Incurables, as initiated by Mrs. A. L. Alperstein, possible.

 The president of the home is Mrs. A. L. Alperstein; vice-presidents, M's. M. Baruch, Mrs. M. W. Fershing and Mrs. Breakstone; the treasurer is Mrs. B. Schnur; assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. Richman. Mrs. S. A. Wittenberg is honorary secretary and chairman of the Banquet Committee.
 The Rev. Dr. Gustave N. Hausmann will open the dinner with prayer and the well known cantors, Joseph Rosenblatt and Joseph Shlisky, will render vocal selections. Mr. David M. Bresler will be master of ceremonies.

Your Boy's Summer Vacation.
 At this season of the year parents are thinking of their children's summer vacation. The parents of today recognize the needs of their children to mingle with other children of their own age, to study and play under expert supervision, to have work and play properly balanced, to safeguard the child's health and morals in every way.
 Boys particularly are apt to overdo. So it behooves the fathers and mothers, since their children's welfare is to them the most important thing in life, to plan wisely and carefully.
 And what better plan can there be than to send your boy to a summer camp? But how choose your camp?
 It must be one that chooses its boys carefully. It must be located high enough and far enough from the city to insure complete change of air and physical comfort. It must serve food of best grade and in variety and quantity sufficient for the needs of the growing boy. It must have a fine athletic field and a lake for water sports. It must have sanitary plumbing as a very necessary provision for your boy's health. It should have a doctor and a nurse in constant attendance. It must have a corps of trained supervisors sufficient in number and in efficiency to supervise your boys constantly, to guard their health and safety, as well as to direct activities. The drinking water should be spring water that has been chemically tested and found pure.
 And, since I am talking to Jewish parents, it should be a camp where the Jewish spirit is fed and fostered, not utterly neglected. And it must be clean.
 Such a camp, one that combines all these qualities and more, is Camp Quabbin, located in Greenwich, Mass.

Excesses upon the Jews of Budapest, in which a large number were wounded, are reported to have taken place on Sunday last in dispatches received at Vienna from the Hungarian capital last Sunday. Fearing the possibility of anti-Semitic outbreaks, the Jewish community obtained a promise from the government that full protection would be afforded Jews, but in the emergency, it is declared, the government failed to act.

In a public service held in the City Auditorium, Richmond, Va., on Sunday, March 20, in memory of four firemen who lost their lives fighting a fire in the city of Richmond, Mayor George Ainslie presided and leading representatives of all the religious denominations took part. There were three Bishops, representing respectively the Catholic, Methodist and Episcopal Churches. Rabbi E. N. Calisch spoke on behalf of the Synagogue.

New Secretary for West End Synagogue.
 The trustees of the West End Synagogue have elected Mr. Leon Raines as secretary to succeed Mr. Isaac Bilderssee, recently resigned. Mr. Raines is secretary of the Hebrew Mutual Benefit Society.

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the County Clerk by the newly-formed United Orthodox Jewish Community, in which are some twenty San Francisco (Cal.) Jews Subscribing to Irish Relief Fund. According to a letter addressed by James J. Hoey, chairman of the Manhattan Committee, to the Greater New York Women's Committee for Relief in Ireland, a number of Jews have materially aided the cause.

"We feel," the letter reads, "that public mention should be made regarding New York Jews' attitude toward this campaign, especially in response to our personal solicitations for funds. With few exceptions they emphasize their sympathy for this non-sectarian, non-political movement by contributing generously, and when Greater New York's quota, $2,000,000, shall have been realized, the Jews will have contributed a generous portion of it."

HELLENSTEIN, HERMAN.—In pursuance of an order of Hon. John P. Cobalan, a Surrogate of the County of New York, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against Herman Hellenstein, late of the County of New York, deceased, to present the same with vouchers therefor, to the subscriber, at her place of transacting business, at the office of Jacob Shapiro, her attorney, at No. 261 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, State of New York, on or before the 15th day of September, 1921, next.

Dated, New York, the 9th day of March, 1921. IRENE HELLENSTEIN, Administratrix. JACOB SHAPIRO, Attorney for Administratrix. Office and P. O. Address, 261 Broadway, Borough of Manhattan, New York City.

Rabbi Raphael Goldenstein, of Mt. Sinai Congregation, Sloux City, Iowa, has tendered his resignation to the Board of Directors, to take effect on September 1. In a letter to the board Rabbi Goldenstein states that the cause of his resignation is a desire to go to Palestine to visit his aged father, who resides at Petach-Tikwah, whom has not seen for the past fifteen years, also to study Jewish conditions abroad, in general, and to give at least one year's time of my life in actual personal service toward the rehabilitation and restoration of the New Palestine, in particular.

Sinai Lodge Celebrates Golden Jubilee. The golden jubilee of Sinai Lodge No. 34, I. O. F. S. of L., was celebrated last Sunday evening when over 300 members and their ladies gathered at Carlton Hall, 107 West 127th street.

Former Grand Master Herman Stiefel presided, and the first speaker was Rev. Dr. M. Krauskopf who sketched the growth and progress of the order during the past fifty years. United States Grand Master Solon J. Liebeskind, District Grand Master Phillip M. Goodhart, School Commissioner M. Samuel Stern and Grand Secretary Henry J. Hyman also spoke, all the speakers touching on the spirit of Freesonism and American education, and its work for the future. It was an enjoyable affair all through.

The Chief Rabbi of Serbia, Dr. Isaac Alkalay, has been decorated by the King with the Sava Order. The ceremony took place in the presence of representatives of all the churches and the military and civil authorities. The decree, which confirmed the award, was read by the Minister of Education. It emphasized the high merits of the Chief Rabbi in dealing with all political and religious matters. The Bishop of Timak has written a letter in Hebrew to Dr. Alkalay, offering his heartiest congratulations.

Mount Vernon Y. M. H. A. Very Active. The Young Men's Hebrew Association of Mount Vernon, N. Y., is more active at present than at any period in the past three years of its history. Its membership has been steadily increasing and its activities move more regularly and smoothly. At present the roster shows 604 names on the active list, but the rapidly increasing Jewish community gives promise of 1,000 members within the next six months.

A new move has been made lately in self-government, and from all indications the experiment will soon prove its worth.

Jerome L. Levy, of Pittsburgh and Denver, is the present director, and after three months of steady work and investigation states that the prospects for one of the best Y. M. H. A.s in the country are now being formed and crystallized in Mount Vernon.

The death of Solomon Saunders is announced from Adelaide, South Australia, where Mr. Saunders had resided for the past half century. He was born in London in 1838 and left for the Victorian gold fields in 1854. He was proficient as a reader and officiated as minister of the Adelaide congregation from 1865 to 1875, in which year he entered the commercial field. For several years he was president of the congregation.

It is very probable that Erich Korngold's opera, "Die Todte Stadt," will be produced at the Metropolitan Opera House, this city, next season. Korngold is the youthful prodigy who at the age of eleven composed a symphonic poem, employing the modern orchestra and displaying a wonderful genius for orchestration. He is now 21 years of age and this season is conducting operatic performances at Hamburg.

Rebecca Hall, which was in course of construction at Mt. Kisco, N. Y., as a vacation home for Jewish working girls of New York, was burned last week. The building was being erected for the Young Women's Hebrew Association by Henry A. Dix in memory of his wife and was to have been ready for occupancy on June 1 and was to cost $100,000. The origin of the fire is not known.

A dinner attended by over 500 men and women was tendered to Rabbi Max D. Klein last week to celebrate his tenth year of service with Congregation Adath Jeshurun of Philadelphia, Pa. Inasmuch as Rabbi Klein refused to accept any gift on the occasion, a movement has been started to raise a fund for the Jewish Theological Seminary in his honor.

During his pastoral tour in South Africa Chief Rabbi Hertz obtained the following sums for Vienna Passover Relief: Transvaal Jewish War Victims' Fund, £1,000; Bulawayo, £500, Durban, £100; Cape Town, £100, making a total of £1,700, which sum has been forwarded direct to the Israelitische Allianz zu Wien to be distributed in conjunction with Chief Rabbi Dr. Chajes.

In response to the invitation extended them by Rabbi Morris Lichtenstein of Athens, Ga., the Jewish students at the University of Georgia, located in Athens, numbering at present twenty-five, have formed an organization and meet every other week at the home of Rabbi Lichtenstein for the purpose of discussing some topic of Jewish interest and for the purpose of promoting fellowship.

Does Your Baby Sleep Well? If he doesn't something must be wrong. Perhaps you are not giving him the right food. Babies' little stomachs must be comfortable or they will not sleep.

THE HIGHEST CHOICE Do not let it be merely a question of initial cost when you make your choice of pianos. The matchless music of the Steinway has lifted it above the "price" atmosphere for all time. It is true, the Steinway does cost a little more. But no one who owns a Steinway has ever a shadow of regret for the price paid. It is but little higher than the cost of other pianos, and the Steinway carries within its perfect mechanism the guarantee of a satisfaction beyond all price. For more than three score years it has been the ideal of the greatest music masters of their day. So the Steinway must command your respectful attention before your choice is made.
